

VI - 73 D - 6. Book Notes - New York Herald Tribune, February 19, 1945.

Book Notes

VI-75D
6
A. M. Haupt
Feb. 19/1945

Authors who will speak at the Brooklyn Woman's Club Readers' and Writers' luncheon on Feb. 26 at the Hotel St. George will be W. W. Chaplin, author of "52 Days"; Elliott Arnold, author of "Tomorrow Will Sing"; Walter Karig, author of "Battle Report" and "Lower Than the Angels"; James Street, author of "Watuour and Ams." and Munk Yost, author of "Normal Lives for the Disabled."

Rose Quong, Chinese author and actress, whose book "Chinese Wit, Wisdom and Written Characters" has just been published by Pantheon Books, will address the English-Speaking Union tomorrow at 4 p. m. . . . Agnes Smedley, author of "Battle Hymn of China," will be a guest on WJZ's Town Meeting-on-the-Air broadcast Thursday at 8:30 p. m. She will speak for the Red Chinese 8th Route and new 4th Armies in a debate on "How Can Unity Be Achieved in China?" . . . The Book Guild of the United Office and Professional Workers of America, affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, will sponsor a "New Markets for Books" forum on March 7 at the White Collar Center, 30 East Twenty-ninth Street. Angus Cameron, editor at Little, Brown, will be chairman. Other speakers will be Peggy Byrnes, head book buyer at Macy's; Philip Van Doren Stern, manager, Editions for the Armed Services, Council on Books in Wartime; Lee Weber, manager, Doubleday, Doran book shops, and William H. Levitt, director of the United Automobile Workers' Labor Book Club.