WISDOM TOOTH GETS STATELY BURIAL

Many persons have saved an extracted tooth for good luck. However, Lizabeth Scott has just done it up right.

When the actress returned to work on Columbia's dramatic thriller, "Dead Reckoning," after taking time out to have an impacted wisdom tooth removed, she brought her tooth with her. It rested comfortably on snowy cotton in a white box. Drawn on the tooth's smooth surface was a menacing face. Alongside the tooth was a card with a lily drawn on it, while another card underneath reads, "R.I.P."

Lizabeth says that the idea for the R.I.P. came to her not only for its meaning of "rest in peace" but because "Rip" is the character name for her co-star, Humphrey Bogart, in the film.

An outstanding authority on China, Agnes Smedley, caught in a candid pose as she answers questions at a special reception held in her honor at Hotel Allaben, following her lecture at the Clifton Avenue Grade School last Wednesday night. The event was staged by the Central Jersey Lodges of the Jewish Peoples Fraternal Order, I. W. O. All proceeds are donated to the I. W. O. fund for rehabilitation of European displaced persons. The final lecture sponsored by the Lakewood Community Forum will feature Johannes Steel. He will speak next month.
