Dearest Florence:

I haven't your letters or the news you sent to Salzburg. I've written everywhere now asking that post he sent me here.

And I can't come to Frankfurt.

I was there the first 2 weeks in September to see about my book; went there from Salzburg instead of over Berlin.

I can't afford to come again. It costs M. 60, round trip, from here only for the ticket, and I haven't so much money. If I had I would come at once and see you. It is very unhappy that you go back to N.Y. in November and I feel very badly because the chances are that my rotten letters to you decided you. You will not come over Berlin, I see, & will perhaps go to Paris from München...

So it is goodbye - or aufwiederschen.
I'll write you to München.
I start working in Berlin University on Nov. 2. I do it gladly except that my life is so shifting now. There are times (confidential) when I see Chatto here and then it is always hard for me. I shall never be free of the impression he has left on me. If we would be analyzed my life would hold some point for then there would be no doubt about our life together. But even love can not stand against some things; and I know I would become sick again as it is. The inner struggle I pass through is very great. Comradeship with B - yes; but I go into it - if at all - always looking back over my shoulder at Chatto. There seems almost no solution for my problem. So I struggle along in analysis trying to reconcile myself to comradeship and books and eventual professorships and social service.

So it is. Today I've another fit on about it.
Love, dearest Florence. Agnes.
