

June 14, 1928.

Dear Agnes,

It was nice to get your long, newswy letter, but I am distressed to hear that you are not well. You should have more rest because you cannot continue with your work at that speed.

I am sorry that your story got in - in spite of my promise. It is too bad, but I hope it will do not harm. I am sending you herewith a bank draft for $25.00 for the articles on Birth Control.

I am glad to have your opinion of the clinics in Germany. I agree with you about mixing the diet, but Germans will do that always.

I do not know many people in Paris, but if you will get in touch with Miss Green, 14 rue Castagnary, Paris - 15 me, she will be able to put you in touch with the right people who may be helpful to you.

Jo Bennett is fine. I hope she keeps up with her lecture work. She can do a great deal from the platform to spread the message of B.C. - particularly in France. I am delighted over it.

Great news about your passport! I hope you will get it now and be free to go wherever you want.

Ever my love to you,
