

June 22, 1938.

Dear Agnes:

Immediately upon receipt of your radiogram I telephoned Gilbert Roe's office and was informed that they have a signed contract from the publishers, Coward-McCann, Inc. and have sent you a copy for your approval and signature, which you have no doubt received by now.

Your radiogram also states: "Don't send last Review to Bendix." As we have no such name on our files, Mrs. Sanger thought perhaps it means "Bennett." The Review has been going to Josephine Bennett right along to Paris.

Within the past week we have received four letters from Germany. I thought the best thing would be for these people to know about your Berlin Clinic, but no one here can reply in German. To Dr. Hans Wagners we have forwarded the doctors' pamphlets.

Who would be the best person in your clinic to take care of such inquiries - should we receive them in the future? Would the doctor in charge do that, or is there a secretary?

I hope you have received all your papers for your departure to China and that you will have a most pleasant journey.

Best wishes and love,