You Brought Ireland Right Over To Me

Lyric by
J. KEIRN BRENNAN

Music by
ERNEST R. BALL

Moderately with expression

The musical score consists of five systems, each with a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The piano part features a steady accompaniment of chords in the right hand and a simple bass line in the left hand. Dynamics include mf, f, rit., and p. The vocal line is in a 3/4 time signature with a key signature of two flats. The lyrics are as follows:

Oh, Nor-ah, in leav-ing, my heart it was griev-ing For you and old Er-in my own, — Of You know you could hold me, if your lips but told me What my I-rish heart should have known, — But love nev-er speak-ing, my for-tune went seek-ing, Not know-ing 'twas there in Ath-lone. — But—how can I blame you, when I did not claim you, Just left you back there in Ath-lone. — So—when I was lone-ly, 'twas you, and you on-ly, That came to me o-ver the sea, — Tho' you may-be 'twas fa-ted that I em-i-gra-ted, To show me what mem-o-ries mean. — It was had-n't a pen-ny, there would-n't be man-y, Could bring such a for-tune to me:
 man-y a long-ing that oft-en came throng-ing For Ire-land and you, my col-leen. —

REFRAIN Tenderly

Sure the light in your eyes, Is the blue of the skies; On your cheeks bloom the wild I-rish rose, And the gold in your hair is the sun-shine from there, There's the scent of the sod on your clothes. In your voice there's a hush, 'Tis the song of the thrush, And your laugh is the wind o'er the sea; No one in this land has a for-tune so grand, You brought Ire-land right o-ver to me! Sure the me!
