

SM 1204

That's All

or
The Artful Maiden.

Words & Music by JENNIE FRANKLIN.

Moderato.

Down a green and sha-dy lane there
The horse-man's eyes were ve-ry keen, his lived a lit-tle maid-en, With im-pe-cu-ni-os-i-ty her heart was ve-ry ten-der, He saw the maid was ve-ry young, and lit-tle heart was la-den; On horse-back rode a gen-tle-man, that her waist was slen-der, And that she was in great dis-tress For

The Theatrical and Vaudeville Singing rights of this song are reserved.
Copyright MCMVIII by Francis Day & Hunter.
International Copyright Secured.
LONDON, 142 Charing Cross Road W. C.
Francis Day & Hunter, NEW YORK, 1364 Broadway.

And— as he passed by, She— leant a - cross the lit - tle gate, And had-n't he heard her sigh And— as he trot - ted past a - gain she heav'd a lit - tle sigh! That's all! That's all! She heav'd a lit - tle sigh! Just mere - ly closed one eye. That's all! That's all! She mere - ly closed one eye! Just

pp

so— you know! You can do it if you try! (Sigh) % so— you know! You can do it if you try! (Heigho!) %

D.S.

After last verse only.

f fz Fine.

That's All

or
The Artful Maiden.

1.

Down a green and shady lane there lived a little maiden,
With impecuniosity her little heart was laden;
On horseback rode a gentleman, and as he passed by,
She leant across the little gate, and heaved a little sigh!
That's all—that's all, she heaved a little sigh!
Just so—you know, you can do it if you try! (Heigho!)

2.

The horseman's eyes were very keen, his heart was very tender,
He saw the maid was very young, and that her waist was slender,
And that she was in great distress—for hadn't he heard her sigh?
And as he trotted past again she merely closed one eye. (Bus: slow wink.)
That's all—that's all, she merely closed one eye!
Just so—you know, you can do it if you try!

3.

He raised his hat politely—"I'm sure, I beg your pardon;"
Said she, "Oh, pray don't mention it! Would you like to see my garden?"
He saw the pretty flowers, and then when they sat side by side,
She blushed a rosy red and said, "My shoe has come untied!"
That's all—that's all, her shoe had come untied!
Just so—you know, you could do it if you tried!

4.

"I'll trouble you to tie my shoe!" "With pleasure, yes!" said he;
And in a jiffy up she popped her foot upon his knee;
He tied the bow so nice and tight—when, "Oh!" she did exclaim,
"Now the other one has come undone—I'll trouble you again!"
That's all—that's all, she troubled him again!
Just so—you know, but he did not complain!

5.

Said he, "What pretty little feet!" the maid began to giggle;
"And what a pretty mouth to kiss!" the maid began to wriggle.
"Oh, please, sir! pray, sir! don't do that! I've not felt so before!"
"Then the oftener that you let me, love, you'll like it all the more!"
That's all—that's all, she liked it all the more!
Just so—you know, she'd not been kissed before!