Bayes and Norworth.

Introduction.

Piano. mf

till ready.

The piano introduction is written for piano in a 3/4 time signature. It begins with a middle C on the treble clef and a G below middle C on the bass clef. The melody in the treble clef starts with a half note G, followed by a quarter note A, and then a quarter note B. The bass line consists of a steady eighth-note accompaniment. The piece concludes with a double bar line and a repeat sign.

Come here and give me your paw, — sir, I'll tell you
One day he brought me some ros - - es, Then he felt

The first system of the song features a vocal line on a treble clef and piano accompaniment on a grand staff. The vocal line begins with the lyrics 'Come here and give me your paw, — sir, I'll tell you'. The piano accompaniment continues with the same eighth-note bass line as the introduction.

what I just saw, — sir, Your great big eyes seem to say, both of our nos - - es, Just to see if they were cold, But

The second system continues the vocal line with 'what I just saw, — sir, Your great big eyes seem to say,'. The piano accompaniment remains consistent with the previous system.

My best friend has gone a - way, so This home is you were on - ly six weeks old, so Too young I

The third system concludes the vocal line with 'My best friend has gone a - way, so This home is you were on - ly six weeks old, so Too young I'. The piano accompaniment continues to the end of the system.
