Concert To Mark Yuletide

The Arizona State University Concert Choir's annual Christmas program will be presented Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in the Memorial Union ballroom.

The program has been expanded this year to include the Opera Workshop and the Collegium Musicum. David B. Scouler, professor of Music, directs both the Concert Choir and Opera Workshop. Lella Crandall is choir accompanist and Chalamarene Frost accompanies the Workshop group.

The choir will open with Cousins' "Glorious Everlasting," Oldroyd's "Prayer to Jesus," Fletcher's "At the Cry of the First Bird," and Jean Berger's "Glory Be to God."

The Collegium Musicum, directed by Philip Nelson, assistant professor of Music, will present several medieval carols before the feature of the evening, a performance by the Opera Workshop of Puccini's short opera, "Il Tabarro."

The dramatic, hour-long opera will be sung in English. The setting is in a barge anchored along the River Seine in Paris. Featured are well-known Valley singers: James Ellington, as Michelle, owner of the barge and eventual murderer; Marian Smith as Marina Pressendo as Georgette, Michele's wife who is carrying on an affair with Louis.

Occupant Change Is Due For Old Science Building

One day in the not-too-distant future, the old science building, occupied since 1948, is expected to lose many of its occupants and gain some new ones.

The science classes and laboratories presently occupying the building will be transferred to the new Life Sciences Center and Physical Sciences Building, while the old building will house agriculture and geology classes and labs and possibly nurses training laboratories.

The transfer is not expected to take place until next fall, according to Mr. Gilbert Cady, vice president for business affairs.

SEW Date Set

March 1-7 has been named Spiritual Exploration Week. The theme is "Faith and Intellect."

The Spiritual Exploration Week committee, headed by Marjann Fletcher, has chosen five speakers for this year.

They are Dr. Robert Schoper, pastor of Bethany Church of Sierra Madre, Cal.; Father Richard Butler, chaplain of Aquinas Newman Center at the University of New Mexico; Rabbi Alfred Wolf, Wilshire Boulevard Temple, Los Angeles; and either President Theodore A. Tuttle or his associate, Elder Boyd Packer, Latter-Day Saints.

Halls, sororities, fraternities, and 16 religious groups are represented on the steering committee.

IT'S IN THE BOOK . . . The culmination of Arizona State's four-year battle for university name arrived about 10 Friday morning, when Governor Ernest McFarland signed the bill resulting from the successful Proposition 200 initiative measure. Witnessing the signature are, from l to r, Secretary of State Wesley Bolin, Supreme Court Justice Levi Udall, Mrs. Grady Gammage, Citizens for Arizona State University Chairman Walter E. Craig, Dean Arnold Tilden of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and ASASU President Warren Summers.

INSPIRATIONAL TOUCH

Danforth Is Site Of First Annual Vespers

An inspirational touch to ASU holiday festivities, the first ASU Christmas vesper service, will be conducted tomorrow at 4 p.m. Danforth Chapel.

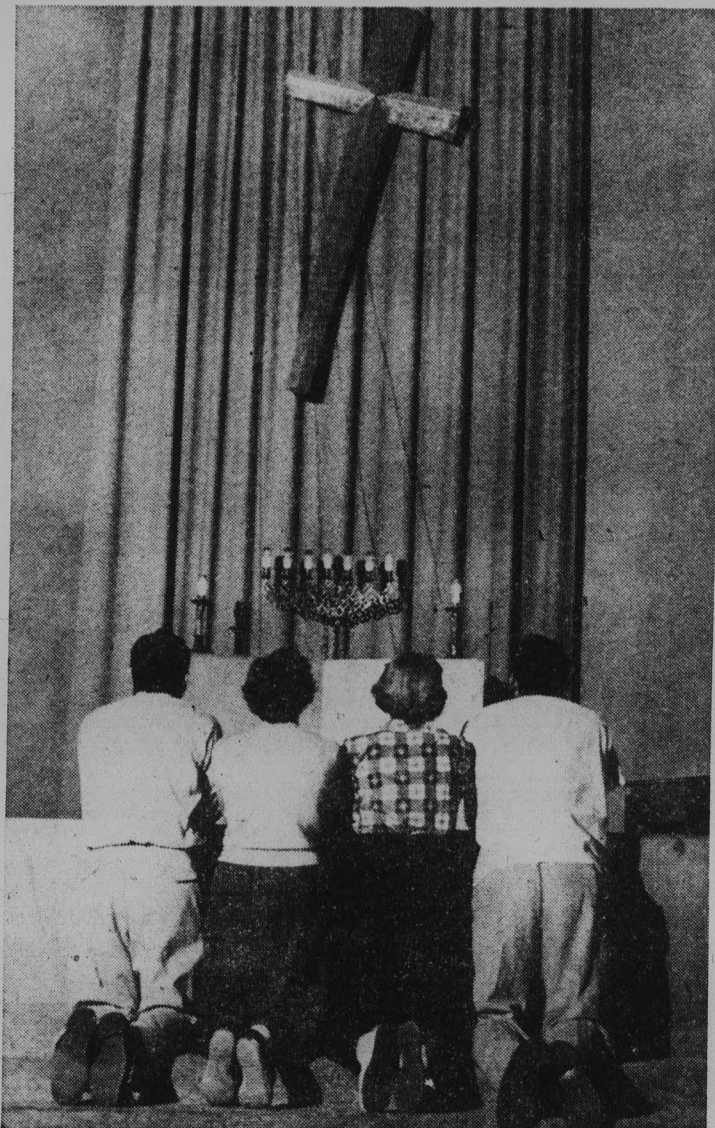

Sponsored by the Cultural Affairs board and the Student Religious Council, the service will feature Sue Culley, organist, and the ASU Collegium Musicum group. The group consists of 12 students who sing both contemporary and traditional songs.

The program will open with an organ prelude by Miss Culley. The call to worship will follow. The Collegium Musicum will then present the first three of their nine selections, Medieval carols, "There Is No Rose," and "Nowell Sing We."

Concluding the service will be meditation and the benediction.

DANFORTH CHAPEL . . . The campus chapel will be the scene tomorrow of the first Christmas Vespers. The vespers have been arranged by the Student Religious Council and the Cultural Affairs board as part of ASU's observance of the birth of Christ.

Revision Of AMS Finished

Due to recent heavy increases in student population, the AMS constitution has been revised to allow the group to serve as a communication and co-ordination center for campus men's activities.

Early in the semester, AMS officers and assembly members voiced the belief that the organization failed to represent the men it serves and that there was an urgent need for improvement of communication and integration of program scheduling.

Since that time, the AMS constitution has been gradually revised under the guidance of President Bill Sullivan and Secretary Dick Laird.

Under the new setup, the Inter-Fraternity Council, Inter-Hall Council, Student Religious Council and Off-Campus Men are co-ordinated by AMS and make periodic reports to the AMS Assembly. In the past, there was no co-ordinating group for these organizations.

Every campus organization with male members is eligible to send one representative to the Assembly, which reports regularly to members by newsletter. Previously only all-male groups were represented.

AMS officers said their constitution, before revision, had only a nebulous general statement of purpose and specified no specific organizational function.

Under the new constitution, the organization will continue to sponsor traditional AMS projects and events, but its scope has been broadened.

Although the new constitution hasn't received official Student Senate approval, Laird said tentative approval has been indicated, and AMS already is operating in its new capacity.

Art Show, Sale Starts Tomorrow

An all art student Christmas show and sale is in progress in the MU through Dec. 19, under the co-sponsorship of the ASAS cultural affairs board and the ASU Art department.

Framed paintings, matted prints, water colors, ceramics, jewelry, mosaics, sculpture, photographs and crafts will be on display.

Cultural affairs board members will serve as guides and clerks for the show and sale. It will be open to the public from 7 a.m. to 10:15 p.m. weekdays and noon to 10:15 p.m. on Sunday.

Art Jacobson, instructor in Art, is faculty chairman, and Valerie Clark is student chairman.

Christmas Songs Feature ASU Concert

The Arizona State University Men's Glee Club, brass ensemble, and woodwind ensemble presented their annual Christmas concert Sunday evening in the MU ballroom.

The program was opened by the Men's Glee club, directed by Marion Smith, assistant professor of Voice. Their presentation included sacred music by Bach and traditional carols.

Frank Stalzer, assistant professor of Music, directed the woodwind ensemble in two Bach chorales and in works by Albeniz.

Featured as piano soloist in Chopin's "Valse Brillante," Mendelssohn's "Scherzo in E Minor," and Bach's "Fugue in G Minor" was Evangeline Mendoza. Miss Mendoza also accompanied the glee club.

Carl Radusch, a student from Riverside, Calif., directed the brass ensemble in works by Des Pres, Holborne, Pezel, Frank and Purcell.

MELLOW TONES . . . The ASU Men's Glee Club, directed by Marion Smith, assistant professor of Voice, performed its annual Christmas Concert in the Memorial Union Ballroom last Sunday evening. Evangeline Mendoza accompanied the chorus.

Montague Articles Published

Articles by Dr. G. B. Montague, assistant professor of English appear in current editions of two literary journals.

"Literary Criticism in the High School" is the title of an article in the December issue of Arizona English Bulletin, published jointly by the English section of the Arizona College Association and the Arizona English Teachers Association.

Another article on the structural pattern of Matthew Arnold's "Dover Beach" and "The Scholar Gypsy" appears in the fall issue of "The Explicator."

Dr. Montague is scheduled to give a talk based on his first article at the next meeting of the English faculty at Camelback High School.

Out of state, foreign, scholarship, and special students who want to stay in campus dormitories over Christmas vacation must be signed up at the Housing Office by Dec. 18, the office announced.

Opportunity In Selling For Local Students

A Utah publishing firm expanding distribution in this area, is seeking several local college students, qualified in sales and promotion, to sell and distribute a new line of accounting forms to local wholesale and retail businesses, stationery stores, banks, etc.

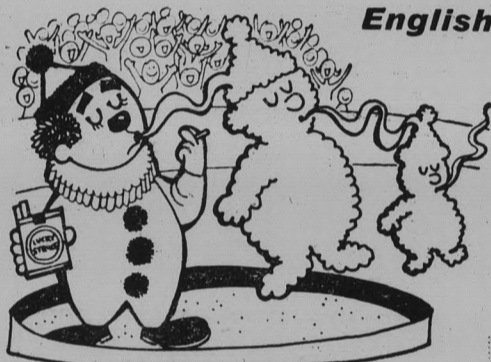

This is an opportunity to work with a progressive company that has a unique and necessary product to provide the American small business man.

This offer should appeal to busy college students that cannot work regular hours, since you may arrange your own sales schedule. Students in Utah and Idaho have averaged $3.00 per hour for their efforts. Moreover, once your original contacts are made, you receive the same commission on reorder business.

Seniors Featured In Recital Tonight

Arizona State University will present two senior students in a music recital in the browsing room of Matthews Library tonight at 8:15 p.m.

The recital will feature William Bearden, bassoon soloist, assisted by Rita Chatwin, pianist; Judith Sellers, flute; Judy Kartchner, oboe, and Virgil O'Dell, clarinetist.

Mr. Bearden will play two bassoon solos Concerto No. 2 in B Flat Major by Mozart and Sonata for Bassoon and Piano written by Alvin Etter, ASU student in 1952. The third number on the program, Quartet for Woodwinds, was also written by an ASU student, Knudage Riisager, in 1951.

Next Wednesday's concert will feature Gilbert Arizu playing three clarinet solos, Aria by Bozza, Piece Romantique by Bitsch and Sonatine for Clarinet and Piano. Merrill Harlan will play the piano accompaniment.

This program will also include a marimba solo, Toccata for Marimba, played by Larry Vanlandingham. The final number of the evening is going to be Suite for Violin, Piano and Percussion. Rodney Gehre, violin, Neal Fluegel, piano, and Vanlandingham, percussion, are featured in this number.

ASU Professor Speaks At Meet

Studies Plan Welcome

Since the appearance of an announcement concerning approval of program-of-study cards in last Friday's State Press, a steady flow of questions, some frantic, some merely quizzical, has come across the desk.

After a conference with Dr. H. D. Richardson, academic vice president and principal author of the new system, it appears that the plan should work well despite obstacles which look insurmountable at first glance.

In a nutshell, the plan requires every undergraduate student to obtain approval of his program of studies before he may enter the registration hall next semester. Curriculum advisement and program approval is in progress now and will be concluded Dec. 20.

Two points seem to cause the most consternation. First, students say, how can we set up a schedule for next semester when we don't know what courses will be offered? Second, how can we decide on a course for next semester before we are sure we have passed its prerequisite this semester?

Before we go any further, it should be understood that while this program card is necessary for admission to registration, it does not become irrevocable law. If a course is flunked, preventing registration exactly as delineated on the card, an alternate course may be substituted. But we'll come to that in a minute.

Each adviser will have a preliminary course schedule available. In addition, one of the primary purposes of the program is to make it possible through student-adviser contact, for the University to present the courses needed by the students. Advisers are faculty members, and the faculty works with the deans to construct the class schedules.

There is no obstacle whatsoever to completion of a useful semester program during the advisement period if both student and faculty adviser go over it carefully.

If a student is unsure of a course he is taking now, he should let the adviser know about it so they may decide upon an alternative then and there that may be substituted at the last minute in case of actual failure.

It wouldn't hurt to have an alternative worked out in advance anyway, so that there will be no trouble if available sections of the first choice course are filled. This brings us to the real purposes of the new advisement program.

As Dr. Richardson put it, "A four-year university program has a design. We want the students to get the best they can in terms of the design."

While the first product of the required approval of programs is an hourly schedule for the next semester, the end result will be a well planned, co-ordinated general four-year program.

Also, Dr. Richardson noted that a primary purpose behind the idea is keeping students in contact with advisers on a continuing and friendly basis. The number of students who each year come up to graduation time, only to find that somewhere along the way they failed to complete a requirement, is enough to convince us that curriculum advisement of this sort is a necessity.

We hope that some day it will even be considered a desirable program, kept alive by popular demand.

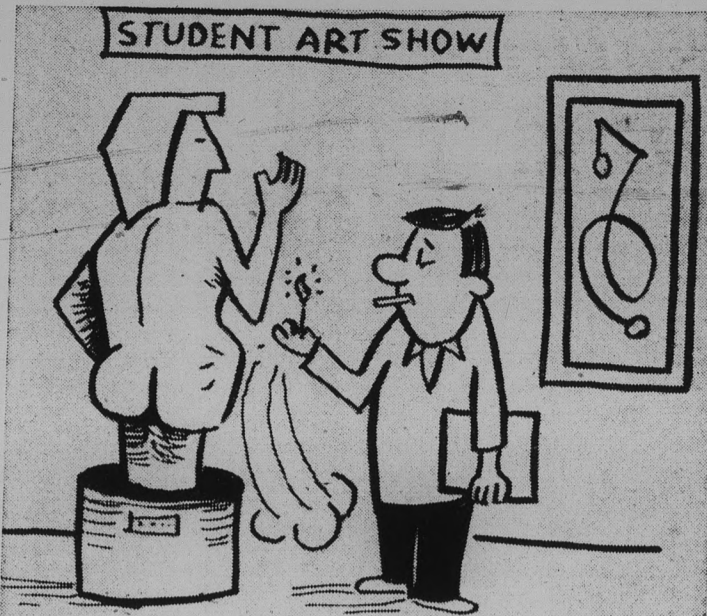

As a companion to most ideals, a practical factor usually exists. It's true in this case, too.

Registration of 10,000 students presents several problems. One is the constant bottleneck caused by on-the-spot program advisement and revision. This plan will completely separate the processes of course selection and advisement from actual registration, thus speeding up the registration. This should make everyone happy.

Dr. Richardson summed up by saying, "The institution has the responsibility to make sure students know, understand and are able to follow the programs, which are set up to fulfill a definite educational function. We feel this is an important responsibility.

"If we want to have advising, we want to have it first rate."

It makes sense to us.

Letter To The Editor

As a rule, I am well satisfied with ASU, but there are three things I think need action.

We don't have the most collegiate looking campus in the world, what with the lack of expansive lawns, etc. But why add to this loss by those BENCH advertisements?

This is my fourth college (I try to make a new one each semester), and I have never seen such commercialism on any campus. I think it's disgusting.

Another gripe of mine is the lack of pencil sharpeners on the campus, especially in the Arts building. Is our budget so low that we can't afford pencil sharpeners?

Number three. Since we are now a university, why can't you change the name from college to university in the section that has the small masthead, name of staff and information about the paper. It still says "published by Arizona State College."

These things need acting upon, old buddy. Let's get with it.

Frustrated collegian

Editors Note:

We did not feel it would be proper to change the wording of the masthead until Arizona State University had been made official by the governor's signature.

To the students of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences:

In order that the students in the College of Liberal Arts may have a greater voice in the government of their student body, and in keeping with statements of future policy made during the last student body election, we, the elected representatives of the College of Liberal Arts, wish to present the following public information.

1. Any student in the College of Liberal Arts wishing to voice his opinions, submit legislation or gain information may contact either of us in the following manner.

- a. By contacting us in MU 208 any Tuesday, afternoon between 4 and 5.
- b. By leaving a message stating the nature of business and his phone number with the ASA-SU secretary.
- c. By letter, addressed to Senator, College of Liberal Arts, care of First Vice President, ASTSU.

2. We are available to speak to any group desiring information regarding the actions of the Student Senate. Contact may be made through any of the above procedures.

Respectfully yours,
 Max Richards and Terry McDonald, Senators, Liberal Arts

Although the 1958 ASU-U of A football game is history, it is still being talked about in Associated Students circles of both schools.

Warren Summers received a letter this week from Tom McIntosh, student body president at the UofA. In part, he praised the Sun Devil team and said he expected to see Summers suited up for the fourth quarter.

McIntosh also thanked Summers "for the fine attitude of your students here in Tucson. No troubles have popped up yet, so it looks like we may have avoided any headaches."

Seems a milestone has been reached. This is the first time in more than 30 football contests between the arch-rivals that there hasn't been vandalism of one kind or another.

Congratulations to all concerned.

Last week I bragged about the success of the first string of the ASU debate squad. In California for the Western Alternate Forensic Tournament at the University of Southern California the beginners made a good showing.

Two teams — Bud Bartlett and Bobbie Taylor and Juleen Merrill and Marilyn Kerby — each won two of the four debates they entered. Nice going kids.

Christmas Dances Add To Holiday Cheer As Sororities, Fraternities Plan Weekend

By PETEY OLMSTED
 Holiday cheer comes in the form of more Christmas dances this weekend for sorority and fraternity members.

Friday's schedule includes

Alpha Delta Pi's "favor dance" at Camelback Inn, 9 p.m. to midnight, with music by Bill Kendall's quartet.

Pledges of Alpha Sigma Alpha are arranging their sorority's formal at the San Marcos in Chandler, 9 p.m. to midnight, with Ernie Carbajal's band.

And at the Mesa Country Club, Lambda Chi Alphas and dates will dance to the music of Tom's Four, 9 p.m. to midnight, while Delta Sigma Phi members and dates attend their annual formal at Phoenix Women's Club, featuring Jack Wright's band from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Saturday night will see Tri Sigmas and dates in the Garden Room of the San Marcos, with Jack Wright's band, from 9 p.m. to midnight, as Kappa Delta festivities are planned that evening for the Sky Rider's Hotel at Sky Harbor Airport. Floyd Lauer's band will provide music.

Gamma Phi Beta's semi-formal is arranged at Camelback Inn with Bob Roth's band Saturday evening, and Royal Palms Hotel is the scene of Delta Gamma's formal that night, featuring Ray Andrade's band.

Alpha Tau Omegas and dates will dance to the music of Ernie Carbajal's band at Paradise Inn, 9 p.m. to midnight.

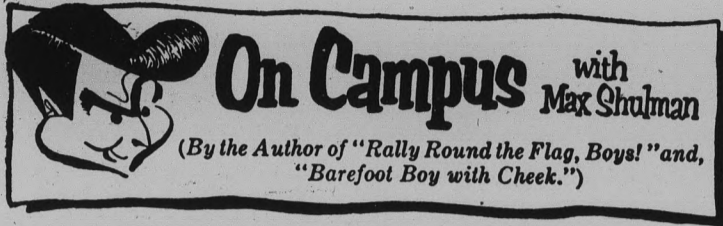

Walt Johnson's orchestra will play at Phi Kappa's formal,

"White Christmas," Saturday night at Toy's Shangri-La.

Theta Chi's formal will be Saturday evening at Harmon's Ranch Restaurant.

Alpha Epsilon Phi's Christmas formal is at the Arizona Ambassador Saturday night, 9 p.m. to midnight with the F Sharp Quartet, while the Valley Ho in Scottsdale is the destination of Sigma Nu's and dates, to dance to the music of Harold Kay, 9 p.m. to midnight.

Congratulations are due Beverly Trussell, ASU junior, who was crowned Moonlight Girl of Phi Sigma Kappa Saturday night at the fraternity formal.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 1

"The proper study of mankind is man," said Geoffrey Chaucer in his immortal Casey At the Bat, and I couldn't agree more. In these tangled times it is particularly proper to study man—how he lives and works. Accordingly, this column, normally devoted to slapdash waggery, will from time to time turn a serious eye on the social sciences.

In making these occasional departures, I have the hearty approval of the makers of Philip Morris Cigarettes, whose interest is not only in providing young Americans with fine cigarettes, matchlessly blended of vintage tobaccos, grown with loving care and harvested with tender mercy, then cured with compassionate patience and rolled into firm tasty cylinders and brought to you in long size or regular, in soft pack or flip-top box, at prices which wreak no havoc on the most stringent of budgets, but who are equally concerned with broadening the minds and extending the intellectual vistas of every college man and woman!

I, for one, am not unmoved by this great-heartedness, and though I know it is considered chic these days to disparage one's employers, I shall not. Indeed, I shall cry "Huzzah!" for the makers of Philip Morris. I shall cry "Huzzah!" and "Viva!" and "Olé!" and "Ochichoonya!"

But I digress. For our first lesson in social science, let us turn to economics, often called the queen of the social sciences. (Sociology is the king of the social sciences. Advertising is the jack.)

Economics breaks down into two broad general classifications: 1) coins; 2) folding money. But before taking up these technical aspects, let us survey briefly the history of economics.

Economics was discovered by the Englishman, Adam Smith. He published his findings in 1786, but everybody giggled so hard that Smith, blushing hotly, gave up the whole thing and went into the cough drop business with his brother.

For long years after that economics lay neglected while the world busied itself with other things, like the birth of Victor Hugo, the last days of Pompeii, and the Bunny Hug.

Then one day while flying a kite during a thunderstorm, the American, Henry George (also called Thorstein Veblen), discovered the law of diminishing returns, and then, boy, the fat was in the fire! Before you could say "knife" the Industrial Revolution was on! Mechanization and steam power resulted in prodigies of production. For example, before the Industrial Revolution, a Welsh artisan, named Dylan Sigafoos, used to make horse-shoes by hand at the rate of four a day. After the Industrial Revolution, with the aid of a steam engine, Sigafoos was able to make entire horses!

And so it went—factories rising from the plains, cities burgeoning around the factories, transport and commerce keeping pace—until today, thanks to economics, we have smog, recessions, and economics textbooks at $7.50 per copy.

© 1958 Max Shulman

The makers of Philip Morris are no economists, but they do understand supply and demand. Some people demand filter cigarettes, so they supply the finest—Marlboro, of course! Great flavor, improved filter—a lot to like!

Imps Romp Over Luke AFB Quint

Sun Imp Cage Coach Fanny Markham cleared his bench last Friday as his freshman crew beat Luke Air Force Base, 90-63.

Markham hopes he can duplicate the feat when his group takes on Fort Huachuca this Friday in the preliminary to the varsity's clash with Santa Barbara.

In the Luke game, the Imps took most of the first half to get the range on the wooden backboards at the Base gym, but when they did, they pulled away from the Raiders with ease.

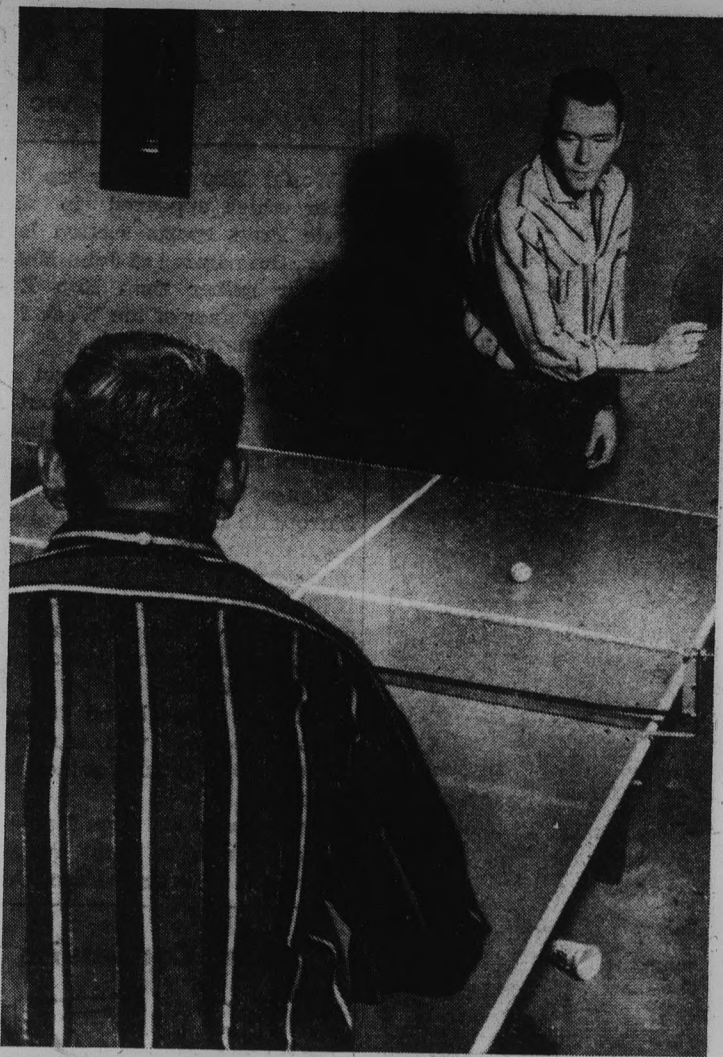

The Raiders played without their coach and star player, Bob McCarthy, who was in Washington seeking a spot with the U. S. team in the Pan American Games.

Ollie Payne, with 17, and Harvey Darche, with 15 led the AS bucket brigade. Charles Gumby and Dick Thurman of Luke, however, were the game's top scorers with 28 and 21 points respectively. The rest of the Base team combined scored only 14 points, while the Imps had a balanced scoring attack.

Darche led both teams in rebounds, controlling 22.

Whistles interrupted play constantly early in the game, and Imp conversions of free throws aided greatly in their 42-31 halftime lead.

The Imps had a hot second half, hitting on better than 45 per cent of their floor shots.

Delta Phi's Blaine Steele finished third and Ken Heinze was fourth. Park's adversary in the picture is unidentified.

Tough Tour Ends, Devils Go Winless

By BOB LAIRSON

Three sky-scraping basketball teams handed Arizona State defeats during a road trip last weekend.

The Demons made the first stop of their ill-fated journey in Wichita, outscoring the Wheatshockers via the field goal route, 33 baskets to 26.

Wichita capitalized on free throws, however, to hand the visiting Devils an 89-80 defeat.

Al Nealey scored 33 points to lead both teams in scoring.

The shorter Sun Devils tired in the closing minutes of the game and were hampered by the loss of three starters, due to personal fouls.

Following the Friday night loss to Wichita, the Devils moved to Tulsa. The determined ASU crew pressed the University of Tulsa's Hurricanes almost to the finish, effecting a 69-69 tie with 1:12 minutes left in the game, when Tulsa put on a last-minute scoring exhibition to thwart the Devils, 79-71.

Forward Paul Denham tallied 20 points to gain top scoring honors for the game. Al Nealey was runner-up with 17.

The towering Hurricanes controlled the rebounding and continually frustrated the Arizonans, but the even taller cagers of Houston University were rougher yet.

Houston hosted the AS cagers Monday night, sporting a lanky quintet with four men over 6-6, including a 7-foot center.

Paul Denham again led both teams in scoring, with a 30-point contribution to a losing cause. Houston led all the way to win, 101-68. The winners used their height to advantage, grabbing 50 rebounds to ASU's 37.

Coaches Choose Top Loop Stars

Border Conference coaches selected four ASU gridders to positions on the 13-man BC all-star team for 1958.

The first team includes Bill Spanko of ASU and Tom Coffey of West Texas State at ends; Ted Edmondson, Hardin-Simmons, Bill Locklin, New Mexico A & M, and Robert Bobo, Texas Western, as tackles; Joe Biggs, H-SU, Jerry Epps, West Texas, Ken Kerr, ASU, guards; and Dave Fonner, ASU, center.

In the backfield are quarterback Charley Johnson of New Mexico A & M, halfbacks Leon Burton of ASU and Dewey Bohling of H-SU, and fullback Pete Hart of H-SU.

Chosen for the second team were Sammy Oates of H-SU and Lee Jones of Texas Western as ends; Burley Polk, H-SU and Charles Krofchik, ASU, tackles; J. W. Witt, New Mexico A & M and Leon Manley, West Texas, guards; Carroll Stafford, West Texas, center.

Quarterback John Hangartner and fullback Joe Belland represent ASU in the backfield, with Joe Kelly of New Mexico A & M and John Hall of West Texas as halfbacks.

Devils Scoring Well, Others Scoring Weller

ASU's Sun Devil basketballers have been racking up the points in their first four games, but the much taller opposition has been racking up the Sun

Devils. Winning but one and losing three, Coach Ned Wulk's cagers have garnered 308 points for a 77 point average per game.

The enemies have countered with 329 points and an 82.2 average.

In Border Conference competition, the Devils have been idle so far, with their first loop game coming up Jan. 10 against Hardin-Simmons at Abilene.

Individually, forwards Paul Denham and Al Nealey have been running nip and tuck in scoring. Denham has 82 points; Nealey, 80. Their respective averages are 20.5 and 20 points per game.

BC Cage Teams Have 6-16 Record

As it went in football, so it goes in Border Conference basketball, with BC teams finding the going rough in the first week of play against outsiders.

As of Monday night, BC teams had an aggregate record of six wins and 16 losses.

Most badly bruised was New Mexico A & M, which concluded a murderous tour of the Midwest. The Ags started well, nipping Evansville in an overtime game, then lost their next five outings on consecutive nights.

Included in their loss string was an 86-54 drubbing by Bradley, and a surprisingly close 58-52 reversal by highly-touted Xavier of Ohio, Arizona State coach Ned Wulk's former quintet.

Texas Western dumped Tulsa in its opener but lost three of its next four. The Miners beat Tulsa, 58-54, but lost to Wichita, 63-58. Both Tulsa and Wichita beat Arizona State over the weekend. TW's other victory, was over Washington of St. Louis.

According to their schedule, Hardin - Simmons' Cowboys have played two games, but only one score was available, that being an 80-78 triumph over Howard Payne.

West Texas has yet to win in three tries, coming closest to a victory in a 71-68 loss to Midwestern. Texas Tech and Utah both romped over the Buffaloes.

Arizona opened by dumping New Mexico Western, 71-61, but dropped a 72-66 decision to ASC-Flagstaff Saturday night.

Arizona State won its opener handily, then, on a tour of the Southwest, the Devils lost three straight. Houston's giants walloped AS, 101-68 in the Satans' most recent game.

FIG'S FILE

By VIC FIGARELLI

Would like to clear up an error which appeared in the State Press sports section last week, the naming of John Hangartner rather than Ron Erhardt as Player of the Week for the Marquette game.

How the information got so snarled I'll never know, but I would like to apologize to both players for the mistake.

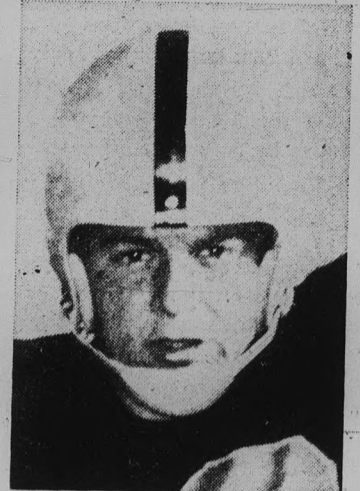

Hangartner shot down the Marquette eleven with his passing, but it was fullback Erhardt who ignited the fuse with a brilliant 45-yard run in the second quarter. That play was the first Devil score, and Marquette never recovered.

Erhardt, the blond senior from Chicago, was Arizona State's top ground gainer for the night.

Understudy to Joe Belland for all three of his varsity years, it's an accepted fact that the 5-10, 186-pound Erhardt would be a front-line man at most other schools throughout the country.

Erhardt prepped at Chicago's Austin High school under-coach Bill Heiland.
