Tots Gather At MU Party To See Santa

More than 225 noisy, happy tots gathered in the Memorial Union ballroom yesterday afternoon to sing carols and visit with Santa Claus.

Children of both faculty and students attended, receiving Christmas stockings stuffed with goodies when they talked to Santa Claus.

However, as happens in the best of places, some tots were extremely reluctant to approach the red-suited gentleman, and members of the board brought stockings to them.

Another feature of the program was a reading of "The Night Before Christmas," by Juanita Dees, board member.

MU Cuts Hours During Vacation

Officials today announced abbreviated Christmas hours for the Memorial Union and its satellite branches.

Mrs. David Scoular, Memorial Union director, said the campus cafeteria would be closed throughout the holiday season. The snack bars and game rooms would observe short hours, she added.

However, a special series of Christmas programs are planned for students remaining on campus over the holidays, according to Mrs. Scoular.

The schedule for the holidays:

The Memorial Union will be open Dec. 22 from 9 a.m. until 10:30 p.m., Dec. 23 from 9 a.m. until midnight. The Union will be closed Dec. 24 through Dec. 28. Dec. 29, the Union will be open from 9 a.m. until midnight, Dec. 30 from 9 a.m. until 11 p.m., Dec. 31. The Union will be closed New Year's Eve and also New Year's Day. Jan. 2 the Union will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Jan. 3, the Union will be closed, and Jan. 4, the Union will be open from 12 noon until midnight.

The Games room and the TV lounge will be open from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Dec. 22 and Dec. 23.

Schedule for the Devil's Den: Dec. 20, 8 a.m. until noon; Dec. 21, closed; Dec. 22 through Dec. 24, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.; Dec. 25 through Dec. 28, the Den will be closed. Dec. 29 through Dec. 31, the Den will be open from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. The Den will be closed New Year's Day. Jan. 2, the Den will be open from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.; Jan. 3, 8 a.m. until noon; and Jan. 4, 5:30 until 10:30 p.m.

LOOKY SANTA . . . "Look what I got in my Christmas stocking," is what Elizabeth Ann Schmidt seems to be saying to her hero at the Student-Faculty Affairs board children's party in the MU yesterday afternoon. Looking on is young Carlisle Rast.

Don M. Van Dyke, ASU grad-Years of the Civil Service Act." Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) presented the prize, $200 of which was donated by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce of Phoenix, and $100 by the Federal Employees of Arizona.

Second prize, $50 cash and a TV set, went to Ben A. Sims from the U of A, while Patricia Layton of ASC, Flagstaff, received a phonograph as third prize.

Van Dyke, a Political Science major specializing in Public Administration, said this was the first time he had ever entered an essay contest.

Coeds 'Deck The Halls'

Dorm doors had a holiday air this week as all girls' dormitories held their Christmas decorations contests.

Probably the most colorful was McClintock Hall. Nearly all residents painted their windows and wrapped their doors in gift-wrap. Plans For MU Alleys Discussed

The question of proposed bowling alleys for the basement of the MU dominated the agenda of the regular Board of Financial control meeting Wednesday afternoon.

No final decision was reached, but several points were definitely clarified and a tentative program was defined and tabled for action at the next meeting, Jan. 7.

Mr. Gilbert Cady, vice president for business affairs, made clear the points that money for the alleys' construction would be a direct advance, rather than a loan; and that all money resulting from operation of the alleys would revert to Associated Students after the unpaid construction balance was paid.

The tentative program is basically constructed with six planks.

1. A student board would be established to set policies.

2. The alleys would be under direction of the MU. The MU director and/or vice president for business affairs would hire the alley manager.

3. The manager would have the full management function plus authority and responsibility to carry out policies of the student board.

4. Funds would be advanced from ASASU for construction and initial operation.

5. After the alleys are paid for, provision would be made to return the money advanced by ASASU, and continued channeling of profits to ASASU.

6. Funds would be administered by the ASASU financial manager.

It was determined prior to the meeting that Associated Students could not loan the money because it is tax exempt.

Mac B's sweepstakes award was won by an elaborate 3-D scene of a marshmallow castle on a mirror. Barbara Holligan and Billie Gee were the designers.

Newspaper clippings were pasted helter-skelter on Beverly Searcy's and Mary Kirby's door, the most prominent being banner headlines proclaiming Proposition 200's victory. The decoration won North Hall's originality award.

AS Students Scatter On Holiday Jaunts

Arizona State University, with a ten-per cent out-of-state enrollment, may have as many as 1,000 students traveling to all parts of the nation for the Christmas holidays.

ASU students represent 43 states and the District of Columbia, according to Alfred Thomas, registrar. One hundred and twenty two students from foreign countries and U.S. possessions are also enrolled here this semester.

The State Press conducted a survey to determine where students will be going during the two-week break. It seem that California will have the largest immigration, with 17 of the 50 students interviewed heading there.

The second largest group 7 students will face the snow and cold of Illinois.

At least three ASU students plan to visit Las Vegas, Nev., where the climate is similar to Tempe's. Colorado, Pennsylvania and New York will welcome at least three visitors each, while Michigan, Mississippi, New Mexico and Washington state will receive at least two students each.

Ohio, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Utah and Virginia seem to have less representation on campus, with only one person from each state among the interviewees.

Two others will make the long journey to the "Far North" as they head for Canada.

Betsy Armstrong Services Held

Funeral services for Betsy Armstrong, Arizona State sophomore, who died Thursday evening of cancer at her home, were held Saturday morning at A. L. Moore & Sons in Phoenix.

Miss Armstrong was a member of Alpha Delta Pi and a business major. She had been a member of the Sahuaro staff.

A moment of silent prayer was held in her memory by the women of Palo Verde Hall at their annual Christmas dinner Wednesday evening.

Library Exhibits Western Books

The 17th Exhibition of Western Books, sponsored by the Rounce and Coffin Club of Los Angeles, is on display in Matthews Library.

The collection of 37 books, representing the work of 17 printers, and published in the Western states during the past year, were selected for excellence in topography and format.

The examples of the book-making art will be on display until Dec. 30 as part of their tour of 21 colleges and libraries throughout the West.

IRRESISTIBLE . . . Children, as always, are drawn to Santa Claus whether on street corners, in department store windows or going up chimneys, quick as a wink. This particular combination of St. Nick and his followers got together at the party for children of faculty and students.

Barnes Book Publication Set-Next Year

Nearly 600 Quit School

A total of 443 men and 134 women students have withdrawn from school this semester, according to Associate Dean of Students, Catherine G. Nichols.

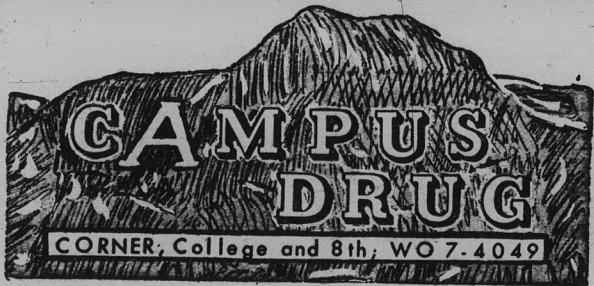

In the entire school year of 1957-58, 360 men and 121 women dropped out of school.

Records show that this semester individual classes dropped by women students number over 800, compared to last fall's total of 442.

"Whether the increase in enrollment is great enough to account for this increased figure we do not know," said Dean Nichols. Getting behind in class work and unsuitable courses are important factors in withdrawals, she added.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING —

Peace - Good Will

A major portion of the world is making ready to observe the most ancient and beloved birthday still honored among men.

While we get caught up in the rush of Christmas buying, Christmas trips and Christmas parties, it's easy to forget the significance of the day that gave rise to the holiday.

Strange, though, that for a time at least, the air clears, and we realize the reason for our celebrations, huge dinners, gift giving and spiritual observances.

What other event could bring pause to man's most deadly pestilence — war. None. Yet through modern history, when all too often the face of the globe has been under bombardment, battlefields are silent for one day, Christmas, Christ's birthday.

This year, the guns are silent in most areas, but hate still roams the earth, making mockery of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

Christmas should bring a temporary halt to hatred now as it has in the past.

Take time out this year to examine past attitudes and actions. We have all been wrong at some time, helping stoke the burning furnace of hatred. The anniversary of the birth of Christ would be a wonderful chance to start on the road back to peace and good will.

Best wishes for the merriest, most thoughtful Christmas.

EDITOR'S Scratchpad

BY PHIL FRY

A rather unlikely topic for Christmas season is the report of injustices coming from the IFC conduct committee.

Consider the case of one man, 25 years old, a veteran, better than average student, respected member and leader of several organizations.

He was hauled from the last football game by a campus patrolman for drinking, despite the fact that he had no liquor. He protested and was jailed for being drunk and disorderly. When he requested a drunkometer test it was refused.

He was released on bond and decided to fight the charge. However, at his hearing two days later, he was told he had no chance because the officer's word, even without proof, was as good as conviction. He was advised to simply forfeit bond to avoid conviction. This, he did.

Now, in the first place, I don't think this, even if the man were guilty, is the business of the IFC under any circumstances. It should be between the man, the police, and the court. That's why we have courts.

However, the IFC has made this type of function its business. In the face of an obviously doubtful situation, they nevertheless conducted a hearing at which the man was not asked to appear in his own behalf, convicted him, and fined the fraternity for his alleged actions. And he wasn't sitting within 100 feet from the fraternity.

I was selling programs at the game. After I finished selling, I set out to find a seat and saw this man being escorted from the game. I found where he had been seated. It was in a sparsely populated section near the end zone. Perplexed, I questioned those seated in the immediate area. There were 22 people. Each one said there had been no evidence of drunken or disorderly conduct by the man.

Yet, he was told by the police that he had been picked up on a complaint. I questioned the officers, and was told they had spotted him from the other end of the stadium. From the other end of the stadium? Yet, the people in his vicinity noticed nothing?

On this evidence, the fraternity was fined for his 'misconduct' by a group of men who man for man can't match him in scholarship, leadership and maturity.

I submit that there is mismanagement somewhere.

And on that note, I wish everyone a Merry Christmas.

By ROCHELLE MACKEY

Hallelujah! There is a Santa Claus! I had just about given up hope when I stopped at the Varsity Inn yesterday afternoon to buy a pack of cigarettes.

I dug out my last quarter, handed it to the clerk, and she in turn gave me a pack of Marlboros which had a note affixed under the cellophane. I squinted and read:

"Merry Christmas. Good for one carton cigarettes. Varsity Inn."

Now, what greater proof can there be of the existence of a gift giving jolly little fat man in a red suit? None, as far as I'm concerned.

Actually, it wasn't winning the carton of cigarettes that brought cheer to my heart. I was in dire need of something for this column, as you can see.

So, to Phillip Morris Inc. and the VI — Thanks and Merry Christmas to you too.

Each Christmas in the women's dorms the girls draw names for secret sisters. Then each day for a week or so the girls give their secret sisters gifts. Usually a party follows this period. All this time, of course, mystery mounts concerning the identity of one's secret sister. And, too, certain mix-ups occur.

One girl in Palo Verde received a bubble blowing set from her secret sister. Lacking a gift to give the person who's name she had drawn, she immediately passed on the bubble set. About 15 minutes later a note was slipped under her door . . . "Just why do you keep returning my gifts?" it asked.

Letter To The Editor

The question "What does Christmas mean to me?" was answered by several students in a recent issue of the State Press. These replies were surprising and disappointing.

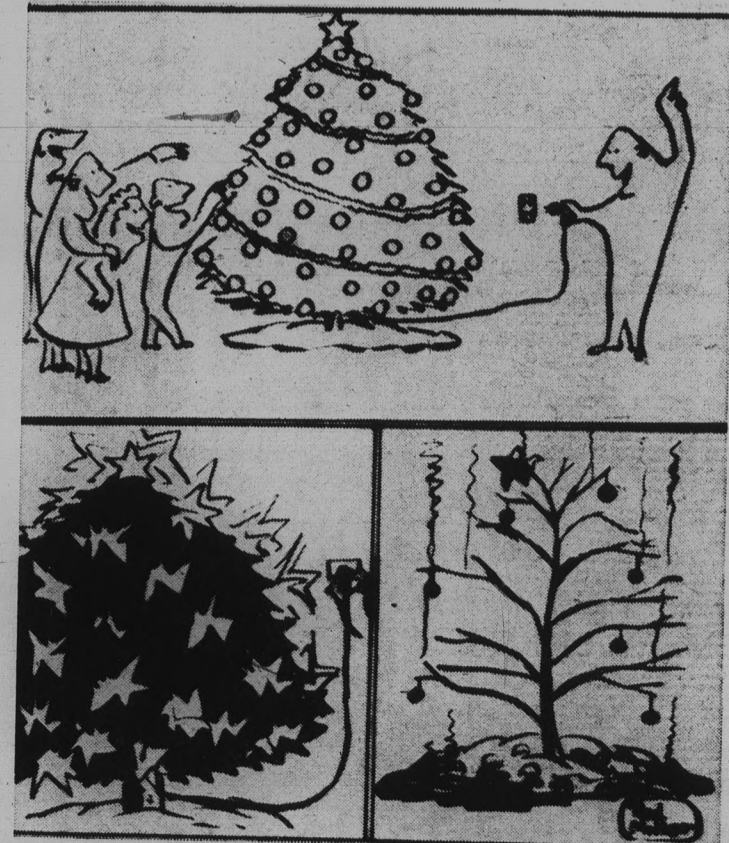

If Christmas means only sleeping late, catching up on studies, being with friends and family, relaxing, eating food and going to parties, we could just as well say this joyous occasion is not Christmas but merely an extended "coffee break" from the routine of classes.

Surely Christmas means the special time of year to renew the birth of Christ in our hearts and to feel more deeply the peace and hope which we have received from God's wondrous gift.

Isn't this the uppermost meaning of Christmas to each of us individually? If this is true, why don't we say so?

Pre-Christmas Greek Activities Include Sing, Dance, Decorations.

By PETEY OLMSTED

Rallying with one last small surge of energy before they trudge wearily homeward for Christmas vacation, Greeks have found time this week to fit in a few more activities.

Rounding out the multitude of yuletide dances, Phi Delta Theta members and dates will dance to the music of The Starlighters tonight.

Vocalist Julie Brown will entertain at this first annual event. New Years Eve, Phi Deltas will have a party at Bill Myers' home in Phoenix.

Monday evening, Phi Kappas had their annual decorating-sing at the fraternity house, where they sang and put up Christmas decorations.

Uh oh! . . . about nine busy Sigma Phi Epsilon pledges are evidence that "back East" type walkouts are no more effective than western ones. Tsk, tsk. The longest walkout on campus ended day before yesterday when actives caught up with the Sig Ep pledges. Bet they regret all the knots they tied in the actives' sheets, all the trash they distributed throughout the fraternity house, and all the empty Marlboro boxes they forget to take with them.

Now the pledges spend spare time washing windows, untying knots, etc., while gleeful actives are counting all the Marlboro boxes they confiscated for the cigarette company's contest.

Pity . . .

Sharon Lawrence was recently awarded the golden and violet crested Tri Sigma bracelet to wear for one week, honoring her as pledge of the week.

Dr. L. Mayland Parker was named "Tri Sigma Man" at the sorority formal last Saturday at the San Marcos in Chandler. Mrs. Parker is faculty sponsor of Tri Sigma.

Delta Gamma feted Alpha Phis at an after-hours p.j. party Tuesday in Palo Verde. Singing, refreshments, and entertainment were in the program.

Toni Diorio became an active DG in ceremonies recently.

Secret sisters became known to each other at Gamma Phi Beta's Christmas party last evening in Palo Verde, when they exchanged "kiddie" gifts, which will go to needy children later.

Despite the rather chilly weather and other minor mishaps last evening, the men of Sigma Nu persevered through a serenade to Bev Brookshire, Alpha Delta Pi, pinned to Ron Shane.

"Oh, rats!" should be the expression of Alpha Epsilon Pi pledges who lost to actives in the annual pledge-active football game recently. Cheer up, men. Wait'll next year. The actives have won the event four years in a row now . . . sort of a monopoly.

Last we heard (Tuesday evening), pledges of Phi Delta Theta were successfully staging their first walkout somewhere on a near-by desert. Delta Gamma pledges were their cohorts on the occasion.

As we're going to press, the Sigma Nu actives are in the process of "cleaning out" the fraternity house, preceding their walkout on the pledges. Best wishes, men.

Delta Chis decorated their Christmas tree Saturday night, and followed the festivities with dancing and roasting marshmallows in the fireplace. Delta Chis and dates attended.

Richard Maiscal is the new secretary of Delta Chi.

MR. WONDERFUL . . . (Bill Adler of Alpha Epsilon Pi) gets ready for a kiss from Rita Plotkin, president of Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority which named him to the honor at their Christmas formal Saturday at the Arizona Ambassador.

It will mark the first time an Arizona collegiate football team has appeared on a na-

It sounded like the partisan group was reading from a well-prepared script. Mention was made of COP, and the Devil cagers were being referred to as a branch of the "University of Pittsburgh." In the meantime, Al Nealey, a Phoenix lad with all sorts of assorted basketball talents, was beating the opposition's brains out with shots from all sorts of assorted positions.

One pre-Holiday Bowl note: In the ASC locker room a modest sign was stenciled on a door. It read, "Through this door pass the toughest football players alive."

Once again, good luck to the Axers as they make their national TV shot tomorrow at noon against Northeastern Oklahoma.

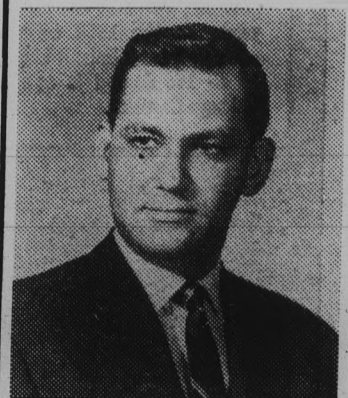

The Off Campus Men team was awarded the Intramural football championship on a forfeit by Haigler Hall, Tom Favero, I-M student director announced late yesterday.

Devils Belt ASC, Nealey Cans 30

By JEFF KIEHL

The absence of stellar forward Paul Denham was definitely noticeable in the latter stages of the game, but Arizona State U's Sun Devils edged ASC at Flagstaff, 74-63, in Flag Wednesday night.

Early in the contest, ASU built an 11-point lead, but the rambunctious Lumberjacks, well accustomed to their home playing conditions, bounced right back and came within three or four points of the Devils.

With five minutes remaining in the contest, and Flagstaff threatening to tie the score, Nealey broke the game wide open as he stole the ball from the hands of the Jack's high scorer and top floorman, Ira Andrews, raced the full length of the floor, and stuffed his shot through with both hands.

With Denham out of the starting five for the first time this season, Gary Norton filled the gap. But he suffered defensive lapses and committed his fifth foul with over half of the second period left to play. Senior John Bowen entered the fracas and gathered in 12 rebounds in only eight minutes of play against his taller rivals and contributed a key field goal and free throw to put the Demon lead out of reach.

The Sun Devils' next home game is scheduled for Monday, Dec. 22, when they host Loyola University of Los Angeles. The Lions have been exceptionally tough in their last several outings, beating Los Angeles State, 80-77, last Monday. ASU topped LA State 105-83 in their initial meeting of the year.

Three other games are on tap for the Devils over the holidays, all home affairs against California schools.

San Diego State comes here Dec. 27, Santa Clara plays Friday, Jan. 2, and San Jose State ends holiday play the following evening.

The Devils open Border Conference activities with a trek to Abilene, Tex., Jan. 10 to meet Hardin-Sommons.

CAME THROUGH . . .
Sun Devil reserve John Bowen came off the bench Wednesday night against Flagstaff and helped lead the Demons to a 73-64 victory over ASC. He shared rebounding honors with Al Nealey, each getting 12.

Imps Win Fifth Straight, Beat Flag Axbabes, 75-63

Double-figure scoring by four Sun Imps paved the way for their fifth straight basketball win, —a 75-63 triumph over Arizona State College at Flagstaff's Axbabes Wednesday night at Flagstaff.

Harvey Darche led the Imp bucketeers with 19 points. Mike McConnell followed with 17, then came Bill Flake with 12 and Chico Morrison with 10.

At Flag, the Imps took a 35-30 halftime lead and were never behind, although the 'Jack frosh continually threatened to close the gap.

For the Axbabes, leading scorers were Bob Joe, with 18 points, Bill Johnson with 16, and Mike McCauley with 15.

McConnell and Darche carried the Sun Imp rebounding load, each picking off 12. Dick Catlett contributed 10.

Last night's game at PC was the last activity for the Imps until Jan. 2 when they have a rematch with Luke Air Force Base. Luke was beaten by Fanny Markham's group earlier in the season, 90-63.

The next evening Davis Montan Air Force Base supplies the opposition. The game will be the first meeting between the teams this year.

Four field goals in one game by a man who'd never kicked one before! Bobby Conrad himself said, "I never kicked a field goal in high school or college. In fact, I never even tried." But the amazing Texas A&M back broke two All Star records by booting four three-pointers, including one for 44 yards, as the 1958 college stars upset the Detroit Lions, 35 to 19. Conrad is now a Chicago Cardinal.
