Debators Win At Convention Sweepstakes

Two ASU debaters have won the national men's sweepstakes award of Pi Kappa Delta, national debate fraternity, in competition at the group's national convention at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio.

Richard Steiner and Albert Flewelling, both of Phoenix, won excellent ratings and the sweepstakes award over teams from more than 100 colleges and universities. Over 800 speakers competed.

Darla Bowers, Tempe, was another ASU winner, with a superior rating in extemporaneous speaking, a category in which Steiner also earned an excellent rating.

However, Steiner and Flewelling were defeated at Fresno State College, April 4, in the West Point eliminations for the right to participate in the "world series" of debate at West Point this spring.

"Barkley of Broadway," starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday at Cosner Auditorium.

IAWS CONVENES ON CAMPUS; ELECTS DAVIS PRESIDENT

Karen Davis, an Arizona State University junior, was elected national president of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students here during the Easter holidays at the biennial IAWS convention.

She will hold office for a year, aided by four regional vice presidents and an executive secretary, as well as national advisers.

Housed in Palo Verde Hall during the four-day convention, approximately 500 coeds discussed and heard speakers on the convention theme, "Challenge of The Educated Women: Conformity and/or Independence."

Joycelynn Hatch, ASU senior, was chairman of the meet, assisted by a steering committee of ASU women.

Miss Davis won her post over a University of Kansas candidate, Alice Gould. On campus, she is president of Chi Omega sorority, a member of the student senate, and has been a counselor in Gamage Hall.

Thirteenth Annual Festival Opens Tonight

The 13th annual fine arts festival, including seven events open to the public, begins at 8:15 tonight.

Original work of ASU faculty members, alumni and students, and two events by nationally known performers will be features of the Creative Arts Festival today, Friday and Saturday.

Emlyn Williams, internationally celebrated actor and playwright, opens the affair with his one-man performance of "A Boy Growing Up," a unique evening of theater billed as "an entertainment from the works of Dylan Thomas."

Williams' performance, in the MU ballroom, is based on stories and sketches, to create a funny and nostalgic world of youth and childhood. Williams who has appeared many times on the stage in London and America, and in several movies, is author of several plays, including "Night Must Fall" and "The Corn Is Green."

His performance of "A Boy Growing Up" was greeted with high plaudits, both on Broadway and abroad. Said Time Magazine, "An evening that has bubbled nostalgically, caromed and swayed, explodes into gorgeous nonsense," while Newsweek reported "The words are winged and the vignettes are wickedly, uproariously funny."

Friday, the ASU music department presents a solo and ensemble concert in MU 218, at 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Bertha Autenrieth, soprano, associate professor of music, opens the program with three songs by faculty members.

Her selections include "Nocturne," by Dr. Wendell Rider, chairman of the music department, and text by Li Po; "Peace," by Harry B. Harelson, professor of music, with text by Sara Teasdale; and "Jubilation," by Dr. Grant Fletcher, professor of music, with text by Irene Orgel. Nadine Dresskell, assistant professor of music, will be accompanist.

All Violations Will Be Cited

Parking on College Ave., between 8th and Apache, was banned by the Tempe City Council in its meeting Thursday, March 26, the evening on which classes were dismissed for spring holidays.

A similar ban was placed on parking on the south side of 8th between College and McAllister. Only exceptions are the metered spaces on the west side of College near the Varsity Inn.

The no-parking areas were thoroughly posted with signs following the council's action, and city and campus police were ordered to issue citations to violators.

As of yesterday, one of the no-parking signs on College Ave. had been stolen. According to Gayle Shuman, director of Campus Security, such theft is a misdemeanor punishable under state law by a fine of $300 and/or six months imprisonment in the county jail.

Numerous warnings were issued to parking violators earlier in the week, according to Mr. Shuman; but from now on, he said, citations will be issued. Usual fine for such citations is $2, providing they are paid within 48 hours after they are issued.

Citations will be issued to violators whether or not signs have been stolen, Mr. Shuman said.

This latest step in the current safe-driving, safe-walking campaign is designed to cut both driving and walking hazards along the campus' two most heavily travelled thoroughfares, according to Mr. Shuman.

He also pointed out to the State Press that the crosswalks shown on the map published in the last edition have been repainted and that campus streets have been posted with 15-mile speed limit signs. Drivers exceeding the speed limit will be cited, Mr. Shuman said, as will pedestrians violating safe-walking laws.

Loss of parking spaces on College and on 8th is more than compensated, according to Mr. Shuman, by surplus spaces in previously existing ASU lots on the perimeter of the campus.

General Election Won By Hulen; 1300 Votes Cast

Tom Hulen defeated Bill Sullivan 768 to 532 votes for the presidency of the Associated Students of ASU in the general election, March 25.

Kay Murdock defeated Velva Richey 248 to 241 for the position of Associated Women's vice president.

About 1300 students, one-sixth of the voting population, turned out for the election the day before the beginning of spring vacation.

In the race for sophomore class senators, Judy Hamer, with 161 votes and Bob McAdams, with 214, defeated Becky McDonald, Barbara Farone and Janet Steward, with 160, 142 and 130 votes respectively.

All other offices were determined in the primary a week earlier. They are: ASASU first vice president, Max C. Richards over Larry L. McCord, 778-495; ASA-SU activities vice president, Tom Meredith (658), Toni Johnson (602); ASASU secretary, Barbara Defer (773), Jane Wagner.

AMS president, Sam Stocks (382), John Lindauer (344); AMS vice president, Tom Lewis (412), Leon Charles Hauck (265); AMS secretary, Dick Thomas (42), unopposed; AMS treasurer, Dick Tarrant (574), unopposed.

AWS president, Georgia Kasnetsis (477), unopposed; AWS secretary, Mary Olmstead (448), unopposed; AWS treasurer, Sue Frost (250), Sue Penrod (226).

Nearly 2,000 votes were cast in the primary.

ASU Awarded Grant For Learning Study

A $9,569 one-year research grant has been awarded to ASU by the National Institutes of Health, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, according to George A. Boyd, ASU research activities coordinator.

The grant will support research to investigate the effect of tranquilizers on learning processes.

Dr. Harold W. Coppock, associate professor of Psychology, will be chief investigator for the project, and Dr. Robert A. Patterson, assistant professor of Zoology, will be co-investigator.

The ASU professors will attempt to determine whether the influence of tranquilizers on the learning processes is the result of a direct effect on the brain or of some other physiological mechanism.

"Previous research indicates some tranquilizers modify physiological processes, such as digestion and muscular tension, and these may be responsible for certain influences on motivation and learning," said Dr. Coppock.

Conclusions of the investigation will be based on the results of a series of tests involving the conditioned responses of white rats

This is Dr. Coppock's fourth investigation into the effects of tranquilizers and other drugs on learning. He has completed two earlier projects for the National Institutes of Health, and is currently conducting an investigation for Wallace Laboratories, New Brunswick, N. J.

Engineers' Ball Set For Saturday In MU Ballroom

The first Annual Engineers' Ball at ASU will be Saturday, April 11, 9 p.m. to midnight, in the Memorial Union ballroom.

A queen, selected from candidates representing women's residence halls and sororities, will be crowned. Five finalists are Joan Martin, Grace Silva, Linda Habluetzal, Charlene Crismon and Jacque O'Hern. Feature music will be provided by Carl Ritter's 15-piece orchestra.

Tickets, $2 a couple, are available at the MU building, Engineering Center, at the door the night of the dance, or from members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Central Arizona Chapter, American Society of Professional Engineers.

The ball is sponsored by the Engineers' Joint Council which is composed of representatives from the ASU student branches of six professional engineering societies. A portion of the proceeds will go into a scholarship fund for engineering students.

Math Association Schedules Meet On AS Campus

ASU will host the annual meeting of the southwest section of the Mathematical Association of America, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Mathematicians from colleges and universities in the southwest will attend the conclave, beginning at 2:30 p.m. Friday with a presentation of nine professional papers.

The convention will be highlighted by a banquet and a speech by Dr. Paul H. Daus at the Hiway house that evening. The UCLA professor will discuss "Why and How We Should Correct the Mistakes of Euclid".

ASU contributor to the convention will be Charles Wexler, who will present his paper at the Friday meeting.

'SAM' Speaker Is Joseph Porter

The ASU chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management meets for a 6:30 a.m. breakfast tomorrow in the MU faculty dining room.

"Managerial Responsibilities in Retailing" is the subject of guest-speaker Joseph Porter, owner and general merchandiser of Porter's downtown Phoenix store and president of Porter's Park Central and Scottsdale stores.

Students planning to drop individual courses must do so before 4 p.m., April 13.

The use of television as a medium for the arts will be demonstrated Saturday, both on campus and over KPHO-TV, Channel 5. A 10-a.m. rehearsal in Engineering Center 118 is open to the public and the one-hour broadcast is scheduled at 5:30 p.m.

Featured on the program will be "Second Chance," a dramatic vignette by Richard H. Bell, director of the ASU radio-TV bureau, with Joy Lynne Tanner and Tom Warnken performing.

forming; an interpretive dance, "Splintered Normality," by Beverly Tang; piano solos by Karl E. Dennison, winner of the recent Western Intercollegiate Talent Contest; an oil painting during the show by Dr. Harry Wood, chairman of the art department and a demonstration of the throwing of a ceramic pot by Don Schaumburg, ASU assistant professor of art.

The program is designed to show how television is combined with various art forms to give a new view to these arts. The entire production will be directed by Sheldon Siegel, TV production manager of the radio-TV bureau.

Activities in the festival for next week include an appearance by the concerto Festival of New York, an ensemble and orchestral performance and a dance concert by Orchesis.

All except Emlyn Williams and the Concerto Festival are open free to the public. Admission to these events will be an activity card or $1.50.

$10,000 Science Fellowship Awarded To Benjamin Klotz

ASU student Benjamin Klotz has been named winner of a National Science Foundation fellowship which could have a value of about $10,000.

Klotz, who completed bachelor's degree requirements in January, won the fellowship in the field of econometrics, the application of statistics to economics.

Terms of the fellowship specify that Klotz will receive, in addition to full tuition and travel expenses, $1800 the first year, $2000 for intermediate years and $2200 for the final year of graduate study.

He plans to enter the University of Minnesota during the spring quarter to begin work on a master of arts degree in econometrics. Klotz has not yet chosen a university for his doctorate study. The fellowship allows choice of any accredited institution in the U.S. or in a foreign country.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING —

News And Notices

The editorial staff of the State Press is badgered constantly by irate members of the campus community who demand to "put this notice in the State Press."

A surprising number have the effrontery to demand front page space. Occasionally some go so far as to specify exactly which space on the front page they desire.

Not even the editor-in-chief can promise in advance of press time what story is going where, or even that a given story will run at all.

Space in this newspaper — as in any other — is allotted on the basis of newsworthiness. The story with the widest interest to the greatest number of our readers gets the biggest play. It is perfectly possible for us to intend to front-page a given story, only to have something bigger break at the last minute, necessitating the remaking of the whole paper.

Several people in the last few weeks have been a little offended that the State Press staff refused to promise to run certain meeting notices and other items. We have tried to explain that we can promise nothing. It all depends upon who does what to whom and what blows up at the last minute.

We have only a certain, rigidly limited amount of space available in our news columns. The comparative news values of the material at hand determines what gets in and what is left out. We're often sorry to have to drop certain items; but these are the facts of newspaper life.

Complaints come most frequently from people who wish to announce a coming meeting. In one such instance recently the meeting would attract, at most, 20 people. The notice was dropped in favor of another item with wider appeal. Yet the secretary of the organization concerned blew up a storm in our office because it was dropped. He cried the State Press was his only means of contacting his members.

We cry with him, even while appreciating his unintended compliment to the State Press. Yet we point out there are at least four other obvious means of contacting members: the telephone; the mails; bulletin boards; and the campus radio, KASN. All have plenty of space, much more than the State Press.

We will continue to make every reasonable effort to run every bona fide news story possible. We have mimeographed forms for organizations to fill out, a slot for their deposit, and an editor regularly assigned to cover organizations news.

But we are constrained to continue to run the State Press as a newspaper, not a bulletin board.

We trust our readers will understand our position.

By ROCHELLE MACKEY

Last week Arizona State was host to another successful convention. It isn't surprising.

Not only does ASU have the necessary facilities to handle a large convention, but students and faculty on this campus are becoming as adept at providing for the needs and wants of visiting delegates as they are at tying their own shoes.

To a large extent this is an attitude fed by the natural air of hospitality here in the southwest, but an equally important factor is experience. And this campus community has had plenty of that, especially in the last two years.

Spring, 1957, ASU hosted the 32nd annual convention of the Pacific Student Presidents Association. Spring, 1958, the annual meeting of the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association was held at ASU. Last fall delegates representing Student Unions in the southwest made ASU headquarters for their annual meet.

Last week approximately 500 students and advisors representing AWS from campuses all over the United States met on this campus for the biennial IAWS convention.

Serving as host for this convention is enough to make any university burst with pride, but ASU conventioners went further than that. An ASU coed, Karen Davis, was elected president of IAWS.

Congratulations to Miss Davis and all the other ASU coeds who worked so hard to make the convention the big success it was.

While I'm in the congratulations department . . . An ASU debate team — Richard Steiner and Albert Flewelling — won a sweepstakes award and excellent ratings at the national Pi Kappa Delta (national debate honorary) at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, two weekends ago.

This is certainly a world of swift, surprising changes . . . Some of which occur here on campus. Take, for instance, the new city ordinance made during Easter vacation by the Tempe City Council which bans parking on the south side of Eighth St. from College Ave. to McAllister and on the west side of College from Orange to Apache, the last parking area on College Ave.

From the looks of the situation yesterday and Monday it proves to some extent what we've said in the State Press several times — some ASU students can't read. "No Parking" signs were posted in the areas where parking has been banned. Still there have been cars parked in these areas.

Read the story on parking and new crosswalks in today's State Press and take heed, else you'll suffer the consequences.

The time of year we like to see has arrived . . . Real honest to goodness Springtime and the last quarter of the academic year. Obviously the time of year to hit the books and make every study hour count. But during the time for recreation, relaxation and the like, the school calendar is full of activities to suit every temperament.

Opening tonight is the Creative Arts Festival, this year widened in scope from the former Arts Festival to include every medium in the creative arts. Surely all of us will find all or part of the Festival well worth our time and attention.

Veterans must sign for their checks by noon today, V. V. Beltz, veteran's advisor, announced yesterday.

By PETEY OLMSTED

Oh, eek . . . here we are back at school again.

Don't misunderstand . . . it's not that I don't like school, but couldn't we figure a couple extra days into Easter vacation next year? Then we'd have the last few days to do what we should have been doing all during the vacation.

For instance, I might have gotten around to concentrating on a subject for this column.

New officers and board members of ASU student government trek to Payson week-end after this to become oriented to their jobs and maybe iron out some problems.

Student government should be interesting to watch this next year; the ASASU president is the first "independent" in that office since 1955.

But — why just watch? Why not become part of it? Despite scorn or criticism you may have heard, student government deserves respect for the jobs it is trying to do. But student government is not infallible — it's human!

That's one of the very reasons the ASU supreme court is still wrangling with the elections code. ELECTIONS CODE!!! (Quick, somebody, slosh a bucket of cold water over them. The Senate settled that issue once and for all last year. They eliminated trouble over inconsistencies, etc., in the ASASU election code by rewriting the whole thing. They even had committees and subcommittees to make sure it was done right.)

Ah, the cold water worked. The supreme court is reviving. Now what's that the judges are saying?

Oh, not really. The elections code is unconstitutional? Well, what would the Senate do without an elections code to work on every year? (Really they might do lots, but it's little things like this that hold those senators back.)

Let's not get confused with the facts. But here's hoping that the poor old elections code is revised correctly next time. There's enough else to give the voters ulcers, honest.

Is your organization ready for the Blue Key Carnival? We hear it's on schedule in the next couple weeks. If you haven't decided what kind of concession to enter, check with Max Richards in MU 202. Blue Key may have some ideas for you.

Weather is perfect for a carnival. This is one of ASU's biggest traditions, and the project is a worthy one. If you wish, profits from your booth will go into a scholarship fund so more people can come to ASU. We're for that, aren't we?

Looking for a nice evening out? The first annual Engineers' Ball is this Saturday in the MU Ballroom, with Carl Ritter's orchestra providing music.

And there's the Sigma Pi barbershop quartet contest tomorrow eve in the ballroom. James Creasman will emcee. There's a late night for the gals.

Composition Performed For Arizona Composers

Four ASU students presented a musical composition at the final concert of the Society of Arizona Composers, April 4 in Matthews Library.

Joy Lynn Tanner, Loretta Sowell, Larry Vanlandingham, and Neal Fluegel presented "Setting for Voice and Percussion", composed by Mervin Britton, instructor of Music at ASU.

Also presented at the final seasonal concert were works of two other Arizona Composers. The Phoenix Chamber Music Players presented a group of Indian songs by Mrs. Maria Tibbets, Phoenix. Warren Wirtz, Phoenix composer, played a suite of his own piano compositions.

Organizations mail boxes were moved to MU first floor near the campus post office.

Call Issued To AS Students Desiring To Train Animals

A call was issued yesterday for ASU students interested in learning how to groom and train an animal for competition in the second annual ASU "Little International" livestock show, April 23.

Dusty Richards, chairman of the event, posted lists for students to sign to indicate their desire to participate in the show. Lists are located in the Alpha Gamma Rho house at 27 E. 7th St. and the Agricultural Division office on the first floor of the BA building.

Classes will be held in each of four divisions; beef, swine, dairy and sheep, prior to the show, to teach the fundamentals of fitting and showmanship. Departmental chairmen will handle the classes. They are: Gene Sparks, beef; Gene Miller, swine; Dan Morris, dairy; and Phil Peterson, sheep.

After learning basic showmanship practices, participants will spend their spare time at the ASU farm on South Mill Ave. working with their animals until the show.

Trophies and prizes will be presented to the outstanding showman in each department.

Animals to be fitted and their respective showmen will be selected by a drawing to be held within a week.

ARCHIMÉDES

makes another great discovery...

It's what's up front that counts

You can reproduce the experiment. It's easy as π . (Yes, you can do it in the bathtub.) Assuming that you have first visited your friendly tobacconist, simply light your first Winston and smoke it. Reasoning backwards, the discovery proceeds as follows: first, you will notice a delightful flavor, in the class of fresh coffee or of bread baking. Obviously, such flavor cannot come from the filter. Therefore, it's what's up front that counts: Winston's Filter-Blend. The tobaccos are selected for flavor and mildness, then specially processed for filter smoking. This extra step is the real difference between Winston and all other filter cigarettes. Besides, it's why Winston is America's best-selling filter cigarette.

"Eureka! Winston tastes good... like a cigarette should!"

Athletic Booster To Be Honored

The student or faculty member who has contributed most in furthering Arizona State athletic spirit during the year will be presented with a trophy by the Rally and Traditions board.

It will be a traveling trophy, with space for additional yearly engravings, Gary Walker, chairman of the board, said. The trophy will be displayed in a new trophy case which will be placed in the Memorial Union next semester.

Nominees for the first award are Herman Schmidt, Harold Hines, Frank Rispoli, Pat Fay, Jerome Clardy and Sharon Mickle.

FACE PC-ASC COMBINE TOMORROW

Thinlies In Action

The combined teams of ASC at Flagstaff and Phoenix College will test the Sun Devil track team in Goodwin Stadium tomorrow night.

The meet will be scored as if ASC and PC were competing as a single team and will follow all dual-meet rulings.

Phoenix College will send national Junior College pole vault champion George Davies to the trackfest. Davies has cleared 14'1", a full foot below the height attained by Demon Joe Rose and six inches short of Don Jeisy, also competing for ASU.

The meet should give Arizona State thinlies a chance to loosen vacation-affected muscles and also allow the return of several injured trackmen to competition.

Earl Oates of PC will make a bid for first-place performances in the dashes. Oates, the Arizona AAU champion in both events, has best times of 9.7 seconds in the 100-yard dash and 21.0 in the 220. He will be helped in the dashes by Charles Hutchinson, who also throws the shotput and broad-jumps.

The Lumberjacks will bank heavily upon Alvin Rex, who has sprinted the century in 9.8, and Ted Sorich, a 22'6" broad-jumper.

Field events are scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. with the running events starting at 8.

ASU defeated powerful Brigham Young University March 26 to even their season dual-meet record at 2-2. The Devils won 10 of the scheduled 15 events and tied for an eleventh, but superior BYU depth dictated a close 71-60 victory for Arizona State.

Linksmen Fifth In Houston Meet

Arizona State University's golf team captured the consolation prize in the Southwestern Intercollegiate tournament at the Houston Invitational and placed fifth in the over-all team championships.

Houston University retained its title with 71 points. Sun Demon Duff Lawrence placed third in individual scoring with 296. Teammates Rex Wilsen shot 307, Don Boaz finished with 316 and Phil Brignall shot a 327.

Don Essig of LSU and Jackie Cupit of Houston University were in the playoffs, having tied at 294. Essig went on to win the individual scoring title. His team finished second with 36½ points.

LIL' SLUGGER . . . Sun Devil shortstop Benny Ruiz gets a hold on a fast ball and lines it down the left field line for two bases in one of last week's Wisconsin games. Ruiz proved a sparkplug in the series with the Big 10 squad and drew raves from the Midwesterners on his hitting proficiency.

Devils Lose Grid Coach To Fresno

Backfield coach Cecil Coleman has resigned his post at ASU to accept the head coaching grid job at Fresno State in California.

Prior to the Easter layoff, both Coleman and basketball coach Ned Wulk were reported to be in line for coaching posts at Fresno State and the University of Wisconsin. Wulk decided to stay.

Coleman, a graduate of ASU, has previously been head coach at North Phoenix High School and Long Beach City College in California before coming here in 1956.

Ruiz, Kudron Top Statistics

With the 1959 baseball season about half over, shortstop Benny Ruiz and pitchers Joe Kostyk and Roger Kudron are the top men among Sun Devil hitters and hurlers.

Ruiz leads the club in hitting with .379 and is also first in hits with 39 and doubles with nine.

First baseman John Jacobs heads the team in home runs with three, and infielder John Regoli leads in runs with 24 and triples with three. Jacobs has batted in 19 runs to top the team in that department.

Moundsman Joe Kostyk has been the big winner for the Devils, chalking up four wins against no defeats. In the earned run category, Roger Kudron has been the stingiest, allowing an average of 0.87 runs per game.

Best A Wins I-M Basketball Title

M.O. Best A, with Nolan Jones scoring half of his team's points, edged Delta Sigma Phi in overtime, 36-34, to win the Intramural basketball championship.

Dan Greener scored 13 points for Delta Sigs.

In consolation play, ATO beat Phi Epsilon Kappa, 56-47, for third place.

Vic Cestar led the winners with 16 points, while John Hanna was high for the losers with 15.

A 13-team field competed in a single elimination tournament to determine the I-M cage champ. The 13 represented the first and second place finishers in each of the five I-M leagues. Three ties for second place accounted for the three extra entries.

L&M is Low in tar with More taste to it

Don't settle for one without the other

"L&M is kindest to your taste," says James Arness. "There are two good reasons why I know you'll like 'em. They're truly low in tar, with more exciting taste than you'll find in any other cigarette."

LOW TAR: L&M's patented filtering process adds extra filter fibers electrostatically, crosswise to the stream of smoke . . . makes L&M truly low in tar.

MORE TASTE: L&M's rich mixture of slow burning tobaccos brings you more exciting taste than any other cigarette.
