Philosophy Club Forms; Sartre Film On Schedule

Existentialism and literature will be discussed by Vernon M. Dolphin, assistant professor of Philosophy, at the first meeting of the ASU Philosophy club, 2 p.m. tomorrow in the MU upper lounge.

Students and faculty are invited to hear the talk and to meet new members of the Philosophy faculty, Dr. Douglas

G. Arner and Donald Gieschen. In conjunction with Professor Dolphin's talk, the movie "Dirty Hands," based on Jean Paul Sartre's play, "Les Mains Sales," will be shown at 3 and 7:30 p.m. in Cosner auditorium.

A french philosopher, author and play-wright, Sartre is considered the spokesman of Existentialism.

Led A Revolution

Dr. Padalis Recalls Exciting Background; Prefers ASU

By Betsy Swafford
"I led a revolution."

Few people in the United States can truthfully make that statement but there is one at ASU who can—Dr. Pranas Padalis, associate professor of Economics.

Dr. Padalis' connection with the revolution began in 1914, when he was teaching at the Vilnius University in Lithuania, a country then held in the iron grip of the Soviets.

took it upon themselves to start a revolution — working only through an underground at first, but some 27 years later bringing about the liberation of Lithuania.

Dr. Padalis was approached by the students to be one of their leaders. Organizing small cells of three to five people for underground work, the movement soon spread to all parts of the country.

From 1914 until spring of 1941, students, police, workers—the people of Lithuania worked on plans for overthrowing the Soviet government, and, perhaps even more important, keeping up the hope of the people. Hope that there was a chance; hope based mainly on the conflict between Germany and the Soviet Union.

In the late '30's and early '40's, this small country felt the time was drawing near when the Nazis would attack. Guerillas were organized. Plans for liberation became more specific.

Then, in June, 1941, spontaneous fighting broke out in all parts of Lithuania, initiated by the mass deportation of the people of Lithuania by the Soviets.

"Whole families — infants, children, mothers — were herded into cattle cars and deported. In one week over 50,000 people were forced to leave their homes," Dr. Padalis recalls.

"This aroused the country and there was fighting with the Soviet police. Then, luckily enough, the Nazis attacked the Soviet.

"It was June 21, 1941. We took over the radio stations at Kaunas, the second largest city in Lithuania, and proclaimed freedom again," Dr. Padalis said.

However, it was a short lived freedom, for on August 5, the Germans took control of the country.

During the period of liberation, Dr. Padalis acted as Minister of Economics for the Lithuanian Government. When the liberation was over, he once again helped assume leadership of underground forces.

In March, 1943, the Nazis arrested the political and cultural leaders of the country. "But we had our informants, so I was able to escape under

Freshman Primary Election Tomorrow

Freshman primary elections will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the corner of college and Orange Avenues. General elections will be Monday at the same time and place.

There are nine candidates for freshman class president.

Anthony Ashton, Pre-Law; vice president of Letterman's club, Student Council, class president. "I want to be the voice of the freshman class in student government as I can express their wishes."

Allen Church, Business Administration; Student committee, Methodist Youth Foundation Board. "I would like to organize and maintain a regular schedule for all freshmen officers, thus giving the freshmen class as much unity as possible."

Jim Herrick, Pre-Law, Student Council, president of National Honor Society chapter, ASU academic scholarship. "If I become the freshman class president, I will attempt to find places where improvement or change will be beneficial and then work. I will not be a lazy president."

Ted Johnson, Business Administration; class council, vice president of Episcopal Church state youth group, school social committee. "I think that the Freshman class needs organization and some traditions to make it the best."

Stephen Dorne, Political Science; Letterman's club, Centurians, Hi-Y sergeant-at-arms. "Instead of just sitting and complaining, I want to do something for my class."

Dick Henry, Pre-Law; Student Council, vice president of the Episcopal Church state youth group, Social committee chairman; "I think the freshman class needs organization and some traditions to make it the best."

Henry Klopping, Pre-Law; student body president, student body treasurer, Elks Award for Outstanding Senior. "I feel that the Senate has been letting things slip by—like the loss of our seats and the giving of $60,000 for the bowling alley without a contract. I would like to be the resistance to this laxness."

Mike Leckey, Pre-Veterinary; Student Council, senior class president, Block club. "I want to further the development and unity of the freshman class."

State Of University Speech Set By ASASU President

ASASU President Tom Hul-en will deliver his State of the University speech tomorrow when the ASU Senate convenes for its first meeting of the 1959-60 year.

President Grady Gammage and Dr. Harold Richardson, Academic Vice President, will be among the guests attending.

The new senators will be sworn into office by Dave Barnes, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The Senate, which is the policy-making branch of ASU student government, consists of 36 senators representing various campus organizations along with a speaker, secretary, and sargent-at arms.

A reception will follow the meeting.

Cheering Section Segregation Is Meeting Subject

A segregated cheering section will be the subject of a Rally and Traditions board meeting today.

Representatives from campus organizations were asked to attend the meeting to discuss the possibilities of a "boys in one section, girls in another section" seating arrangement at home football games.

The board plans to poll student opinion on the proposed arrangement.

AS Professor Recalls Revolution

(Continued from Page 1) an assumed name into Austria, planning to go into Switzerland," Dr. Padalis explained. However, he failed to get into Switzerland, so he returned to Lithuania.

Finally, in 1945, he was able to escape to Paris, where he worked with underground movements of many other European countries as a representative of the Lithuanian underground.

In 1946, Dr. Padalis came to America, where he joined the faculty of the University of Detroit in 1948 and remained until 1954.

He then joined the staff of Voice of America and went to Munich, Germany, acting as program editor of the Munich

Radio Service branch of Voice of America.

During his years in this work in Germany, Dr. Padalis was allowed two months leave of absence every two years. During one of these leaves of absence, he came to Phoenix to visit friends, including Michael Padev, foreign correspondent with the Arizona Republic.

When Dr. Padalis resigned from his job with the Voice of America this past summer, he remembered the October he had spent in Arizona. He returned with his family and joined the staff at ASU.

Dr. Padalis speaks five languages; French, German, Polish, Lithuanian and English. When asked about Russian, he said he's very sorry he can't speak it. He only reads it.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING —

Last Try

"One last try to get student opinion," is the way Tom Hulen, ASASU president, described a meeting to be held today at 2:30 in the MU ballroom.

Last Wednesday, student representatives met to discuss seating arrangements at ASU home football games. Since then, those representatives have been attempting to get opinions from as many students as possible. So far, the reaction has been negligible.

Some ideas have been presented though. For example, seating men and women students in separate sections, discontinuing student guest tickets, and opening sections to students and faculty on a first-come-first-served basis.

When student representatives meet with the administration to discuss final arrangements, they want to be able to express the opinion of the majority of students.

But, if students are as reluctant to attend today's meeting as they were to attend last Wednesday's, the opinion expressed will be that of some 200 students who bothered to talk to their representatives and/or attend the meetings.

Some 11,000 other ASU citizens will not have their opinions expressed — but then, maybe they don't deserve to.

Foreign Flavor

Have you wanted to visit foreign lands, to travel and become acquainted with a people, to learn about a new way of life?

Do you enjoy talking to people, especially if they are different and exciting?

If you fit into any of these categories, you probably have missed the opportunity of a lifetime. And it's right under your nose.

Twenty-six foreign teachers and administrators are on the ASU campus. They represent 17 countries. They all speak English. They want to make friends with you.

Here's your chance. Instead of gazing at them curiously in class and on campus, start talking with them. Introduce yourself, and you will become their friend.

Maybe you can't actually travel to a foreign country, but you can do the next best thing. You can find out about the country by talking to its representatives. It doesn't cost a cent; you don't have to go anywhere. It's here for the asking.

If you would like to hear some of our foreign exchange teachers speak to your club or class, call Dr. John Barnes, ASU director of Educational Research and Field Service.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"SOMETIMES I SUSPECT PROFESSOR SNARF'S CRITICISM JUST A WEE BIT HARSH."

By GORDON PETERSON

The cold October wind blasted into the classroom as the usual late student scrambled in.

The professor's voice rumbled on. . . "all right children," he muttered, "Stand by. Class is about to begin."

The 20-odd students slouched still further down in their chairs; a few idly flipped open their books.

The professor began his lecture and the students began droodling, writing English themes, or whatever they could think of to keep awake.

The minutes inched around the clock. Droodles became more detailed; English themes developed.

When the professor laughed, a few students glanced up — all of them laughed; it could cost them a letter-grade not to.

Nobody bothered to ask what the joke was — they would check later with students who had taken the course in previous years. It would be in the files — under the name of the course, name of the professor, and the date — along with the rest of his lecture for that date.

The professor droned on, several students fell asleep. Finally, a bell rang. Students shambled out, the professor droned on. Other students entered the room.

The president of Short Creek Junction Junior College leaned back in his chair, readjusted his feet on his desk, and muttered, "Well, Dean, the experiment has been a success. I just got the reports."

The dean rolled over, flipped his cigar butt toward the humming disposal unit in the far corner, grunted, and said, "I knew it would be. How could they tell the difference?"

The president's secretary looked up from her shorthand typewriter. She shifted the wad of chewing gum to the other side of her mouth. "I don't get it. It's been seven months now.

"How could 10,000 students fail to notice that all the faculty members have been replaced with tape recorders?"

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

There's another angle to this matter of seating at football games that hasn't received any attention in print so far.

It's the saving of seats in the student section for friends. We're not against it; we've even done it on occasion ourselves. But we've done it on a limited basis, not wholesale.

Last week some fraternity pledges were ordered by their brothers to get to the stadium early and to save three whole rows of seats in Section "U" for the brothers and their dates.

At one point, three young ladies sat in this specially "reserved" section and were promptly and rudely told to move. A good many others got the same treatment.

Of course, when the pressure for decent seats built up as the crowd poured in, people finally told the impolite pledges to go jump in the Old Main fountain. By the time the lordly elder brothers and their dates arrived, their preempted section was filled—all to the pledges' chagrin, the brothers' dismay and the bystanders' delight.

We trust the failure of this venture will discourage other fraternities from similar exhibitions of bad manners in the future. If it doesn't we're confident the student body in general will discourage them.

Saving seats for a couple with whom you're double-dating is one thing. But saving them wholesale for the lords and masters of the fraternities? Not here, boys! We've all paid the same price, and it's still first come, first seated.

Residents of Haigler Hall

To the Editor:

Thank you, dear Pat Fay, for your recommendation of informal dress at a sport event. (State Press, 9/28) When I was first told the manner in which the girls usually dress for football games, I laughed and didn't quite believe it. This is my first season attending Western-style football with its warm weather and night lights. Well, I went, saw, and felt silly. My attire was informal.

Perhaps the fact that the game is ordinarily played on Saturday evenings is the reason for the clothes race, but the custom of wearing high heels and then tripping over long patches of pebbles and dust seems to me utterly mad. That dust flies easily, you know.

This is casual country and at the most casual of events, a sport event, why ties and demure date dress? How many girls will give hearty cheers dressed that way? Their escorts, the poor boys in ties and coats, looked very warm. And this, too, is conducive to cheering?

As to Pat's proposal for day games later in the season, I think it's a fine idea. Will it happen?

Arizona Student Nurses Meet Tomorrow At ASU

The Arizona Association of Student Nurses will open its convention at ASU tomorrow.

Student nurses from ASU, Good Samaritan and St. Joseph's hospitals in Phoenix, the UofA and St. Mary's hospital in Tucson will attend. "Your Cap Is Your Passport," will be the convention theme.

A panel of discussion on nursing ethics, a get-acquainted party in the Moer Activity building, an early breakfast in the Memorial Union, and election of state officers for next year are part of the convention's program. Also included will be many business sessions and discussions.

A "Miss Student Nurse," will be crowned at a dance Friday.

Closing the convention Saturday night will be an installation of newly-elected officers and a reception honoring them. Co-chairman for the convention are Frances McLean, ASU junior, and Barbara Stahl, student nurse at Good Samaritan hospital, Phoenix.

Plant Expert Decker Talks On Abstract Art

"Is Abstract Painting Art? or, Who Spilled the Paint?"

A plant physiologist with the Forest Service Research Center at ASU, Dr. John P. Decker, will discuss this subject at an ASU faculty club meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Memorial Union.

All the paper used for United States bank notes and bonds is manufactured at the Dalton, Mass., plant of Crane & Co.

Dorm Is Special Attraction To Fraternity Mascot Goat

By KATHY BURKE

Mr. Yogi, Sigma Chi Sigma's new mascot goat, has developed a strange affection for Palo Verde Hall. Borrowed to help Sigs with their Inspiration

Week, the goat has become a permanent fixture in the fraternity house backyard. Sunday night Mr. Yogi was given a vacation by another fraternity however, and was found tied to a tree in front of P. V. After being carressed and cooed over by the dormitory residents, Mr. Yogi is now constantly trying to return to the "feminine paradise" for more affection!

Social chairman, Bill Simon, is planning the party.

Several ADPis* have announced their pinnings or engagements recently. Passing the traditional candle were Kay Cummins, engaged to Paul Rogers; Cheryl Garrigues, pinned to Bob Thomas, Phi Delta Theta; Carol King, pinned to John Jordan, Phi Delta Theta at Stanford; and Marilu Greene, engaged to Charlie Krofchik.

The third annual Chi Omega Mother's Picnic, honoring new pledges and their parents, will be held today at Tempe Beach.

Active members of the ASU and their parents will provide entertainment, according to Mrs. Ed Miller, chairman.

Women Grads To Be Guests

New and prospective members of the Tempe branch of the American Association of University Women will be welcomed at an open house tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., in the Memorial Union.

Special guests at the meeting will be international women teachers and administrators studying at ASU under the auspices of the U. S. Office of Education and the U. S. State Department.

Women interested in membership in AAUW may attend the open house. Membership is open to graduates of an approved college or university.

Parents Day Draws Many

More than 1000 mothers and fathers attended Parents Day at ASU Saturday.

Mrs. Robert Stratton was awarded an ASU blanket for coming the greatest distance to attend the event. She is from Anchorage, Alaska.

For having the most children attending ASU, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman D. Burtch of Yuma, Arizona, received an "A" blanket. They have four children enrolled here.

Activities for the parents included an assembly, reception, open house, campus tour, football game and dance.

Dress will be western Saturday night at a pledge-planned party at the Sigma Pi house. An antique piano, guitars and the stereo will provide music for the date affair, beginning at 8.

Alpha Delta Pis and Kappa Kappa Gamma get together tonight for a get-acquainted party in the ADPi chapter room.

Sigma Sigma Sigmas and Alpha Gamma Rhos will "Okie Stomp" at a western exchange tomorrow night.

Officers chosen by Tri Sigma pledges Monday night were: Diane Voorhis, president; Freda Sarten, vice-president; Mecha Whitfield, treasurer; Margaret Burton and Kathleen Sisk, Junior Panhellenic representatives.

Bob Garcia, Steve Anthony, Arthur Viles, Ken Whitley and Dick Yates are newly-initiated members of Phi Sigma Kappa.

Phi Sigs play host to Gamma Phi Beta at their annual kiddie exchange tonight at the fraternity house. Pledge class members will provide entertainment.

"Mad Dave Moynahan" will furnish entertainment with his ukelele for the Delta Sigma Phi desert party Friday night.

Four Profs Tell Audience NATO Views

"How important is NATO? Does it fulfill the purpose for which it was set up?"

With these words Dr. Karl H. Dannenfeldt, head of ASU's division of Behavioral and Social Sciences, began "The Arizona State Hour," weekly series of panel discussions over KPHO last Saturday evening.

Dr. Wallace E. Adams, assistant professor of European History; Dr. Heinz R. Rink, assistant professor of Political Science; and Dr. Guilford A. Dudley, assistant professor of History, held a lively, round-table discussion, with Dr. Dannenfeldt as moderator.

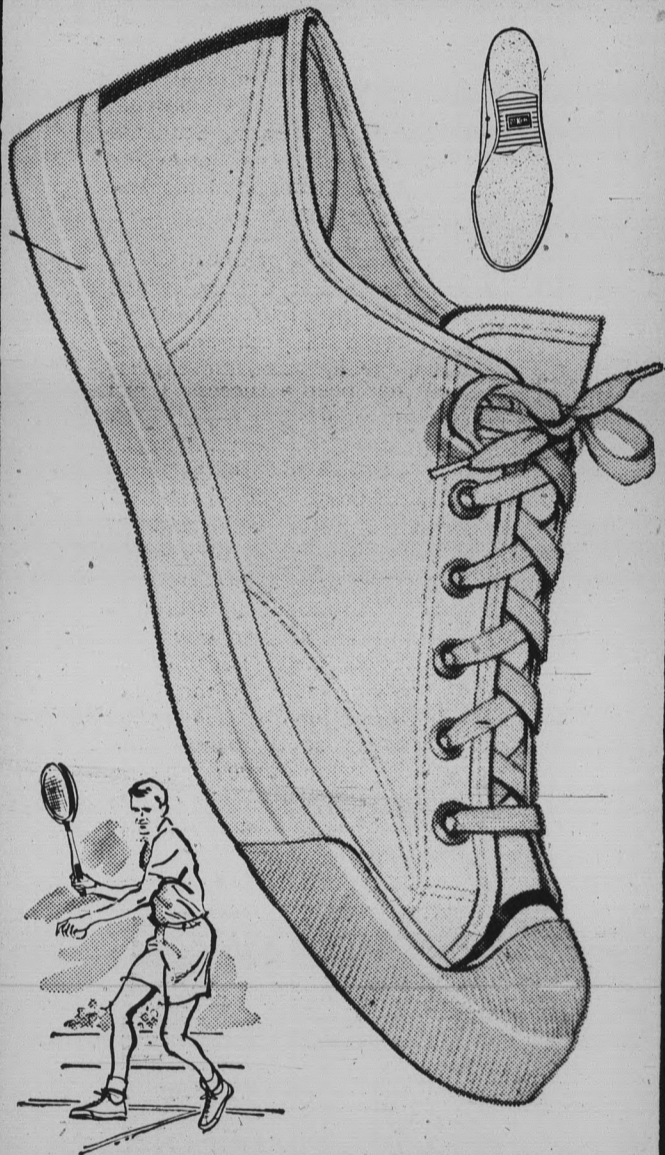

Music Sorority To Formal Rush

Sigma Alpha Iota, Woman's national professional music fraternity, will hold a formal rush party Oct. 11 at 3 p.m. at the home of Dr. Virginia Cazeay, Tempe.

Tea To Honor Faculty Women

The Faculty Women's club will give a tea honoring new faculty women Oct. 14.

The tea will be in the dining room of the Home Economics building from 4 to 5:30 p.m.

Bobcats Fall 31-14 To Undefeated AS

Thanks to a fumble, an intercepted pass and one goal-line stand, Arizona State University has an undefeated football team.

Speed and quarterback Fran Urban's passing gave the Sun Devils a 31-14 win Saturday night, but not before a spunky Montana State team had pushed ASU all over the field.

After Montana State dominated a scoreless first period, speedy Sun Devil halfbacks began to ramble. Halfback "Roll-in" Nolan Jones got the first ASU score on a 13-yard run. He then kicked the first of four extra points.

Arizona State's second score of the quarter was a 31-yard field goal by Allen Benedict. Urban's passing had moved the Sun Devils 61 yards in seven plays to set up the three pointer.

Urban began tossing passes again early in the third period, and end Bill Spanko grabbed one for a 19-yard touchdown.

In a wild fourth quarter, four touchdowns were scored. Montana State fullback Rocco Perciavalle went over from the one yard line to cap a 67-yard Bobcat drive. A two-point conversion narrowed ASU's lead to 17-8.

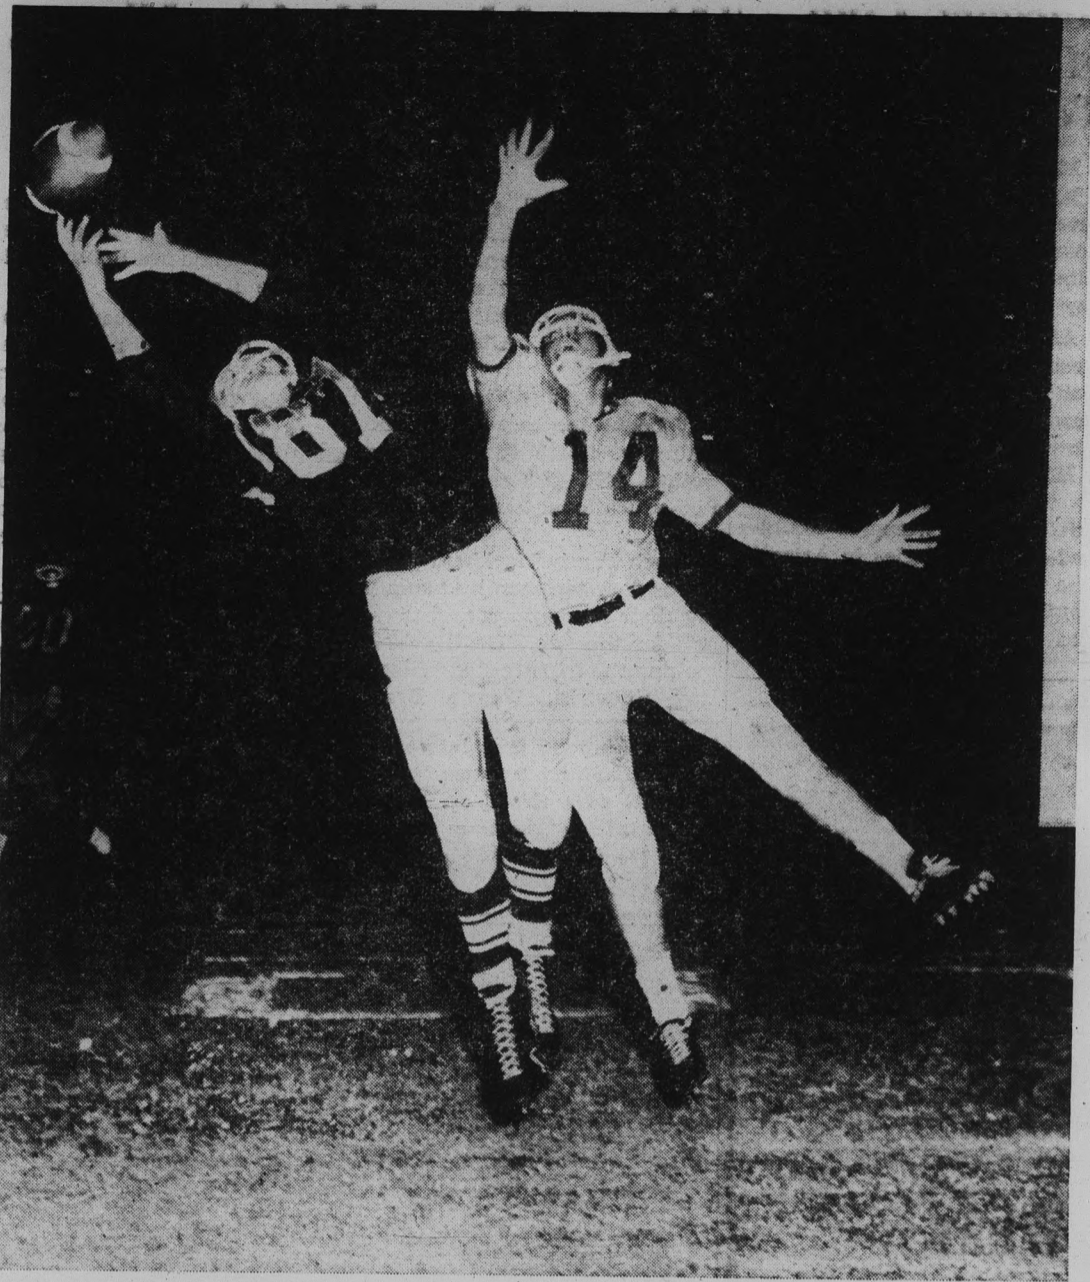

Two plays later ASU freshman halfback Ray Young ended any Montana hopes for an upset by scampering 50 yards for a touchdown.

Montana State fought back with an 85-yard touchdown drive. Quarterback Gary Davies passed to halfback Bob Rudio for the score. The Bobcats' bid for a third score was halted when Spanko intercepted a pass on the Montana State 19. Three plays later, Nolan Jones scored again.

Twice in the first half Montana State moved within Arizona State's 10-yard line but failed to score. On the first attempt, Devil guard Dick Locke recovered a fumble. A second Bobcat scoring opportunity fizzled when a field goal attempt failed.

Montana State had little trouble with the Sun Devil defense but couldn't overcome 80 yards in penalties. The Bobcats rolled up 327 yards rushing and passing, compared to ASU's 311, and they had 20 first downs to the Sun Devils' 14.

In the final analysis it was the accurate passing of Urban that ruined Montana State and gave ASU its third straight win.

TOUCHDOWN PASS . . . End Bill Spanko nabs a 19-yard pass from quarterback Fran Urban for a six-pointer against Montana State last Saturday night. In the background is end Karl Kiefer, who co-captains the Sun Devil football team along with Spanko. This type of performances led Spanko to being named as the only unanimous Border Conference selection last year, and also placed him on the varsity as a freshman. The sticky-fingered senior has lettered the past three years, and is described as the most dangerous end in the Border Conference.

Racquet Club Members Travel To Albuquerque

Members of the women's ASU Racquet Club will compete in the Southwest Tennis Championship tournament at Albuquerque, New Mexico today through Saturday.

ASU will be represented by Doris Hirose, Emma Flores, Sandra Smith, Ruthie Beck, Carole MacDonald and Esther Proverzio.

Miss Hirose is ranked first in the women's doubles and third in the women's doubles and third in singles in Arizona. She also ranks second in the Southwest women's doubles, and third in singles.

Ten Devil Golfers In Co-ed Tourney

Six Sun Devil golfers and four members of the women's golf team left yesterday morning to compete in the 5th Annual Tucker Invitational Golf Tournament at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

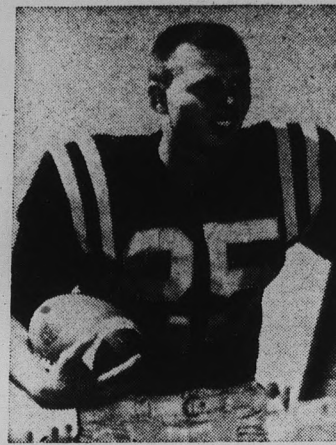

The three-day tournament will begin tomorrow and end Saturday. Both the men and women ASU golfers will enter a co-educational tournament today.

Coach Fanny Markham picked his four top men by averaging their scores in recent play-offs for the trip. Devil golfers making the trip are Rex Wilsen, Ray Stawicki, Wayne Breck and Calvin Cooke. Other Demon golfers going along as reserve linksmen are Bobby Bulla and Joe Kalloff.

Arizona State's Joanne Gunderson, holder of many titles and the recent 1959 Western Amateur Champ leads the women's team. Miss Gunderson set a new record of 223 in last year's meet. Sherri Wheeler, Barbara Bell and Judy Kier make up the rest of the quartet.

The women's team will be out to retain their team title, won last year. This is the first year coach Markham's golfers have attended the Tucker Tournament, and they will be competing against top golfers from the western area. University of Houston, NCAA golf champions three years in a row will try to better their four man team record set last year.

McFalls Elected Player-of-Week

Right halfback John McFalls is the third sophomore to win recognition as Player of the Week on ASU's youthful football team.

McFalls led the Sun Devils with 97 yards against a strong Montana team Saturday night, running through tackle and eating up yardage on end sweeps. After a scoreless first period, he broke loose on a 45-yard reverse to set up the Sun Devils' first scoring drive.

A fast 170 - pound running back with the ability to scamp through the line, McFalls has also been leading the backs defensively. In two games he compiled 23 defensive points with five unassisted tackles, two assists and two pass deflections.

McFalls showed his fine running ability against West Texas State and nabbed the first right half spot. As a freshman last year, he finished spring drills as second team right half.

DETERMINATION . . .

and a competitive spirit placed halfback John McFalls in a starting position this season. The leaping sophomore from Pennsylvania became the third youngster to win the player-of-the-week award with his stellar performance against Montana State. He led the Sun Devil backfield in total yards gained rushing and also in defensive statistics.

Off-Campus Men interested in playing intramural volleyball may attend an OCM organization meeting Monday from 2:45 to 3:30 p.m. in MU 208.

Still young and beautiful at age 75!
THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE . . .

But America's most famous lady does it!

No Paris design of '59 is more lovely than this ageless beauty, a gift from France 75 years ago. Miss Liberty has welcomed millions to these shores with the words, "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free . . . I lift my lamp beside the golden door."

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE . . .

But L&M does it!

When you're in New York, be sure to make the trip over to see Miss Liberty. And whatever you are right now, enjoy the cigarette that's kindest to your taste.

That's L&M: Low in tar, with more taste to it. No wonder more Americans switch to L&M every day! Live Modern . . . switch to L&M!
