Pamplona Choir Featured Tomorrow, To Present Spanish Renaissance Works

The Pamplona Choir will arrive from Spain tomorrow to present a concert of polyphonic music in the MU ballroom starting at 8:15 p.m. The sixteen-voice choir will sing music of the ancient Basques, Canary Islands, featuring the Spanish music and love-poetry of the Middle Ages, which resulted as an expression of the blend of Celtic-Iberian paganism with early Christianity.

Founded in 1946 by conductor Luis Morondo to present the choral works of the Spanish Renaissance, the choir has since performed in Spain, Portugal, South America, Canada, and the United States.

A tour of the ASU campus for the Spanish choral group will be sponsored by Alpha Mu Gamma, foreign language honorary.

Admission to the concert will be $1.50 for the public and activity tickets for students.

Separate Seating Disliked, Council Poll Results Show

Eighty seven per cent of the ASU resident men students in dorms are opposed to separate seating for men and women at football games, according to an Inter-Hall Council survey made last week.

Are you for or against separate seating? Would you be willing to try it once?

These questions were asked in a poll conducted by the Inter-Hall Council among the 1,200 on-campus men residents.

Only 12 per cent of those polled were for the proposal of the Rally and Traditions Board, and one per cent had no opinion.

Chilton said, "This is not a professional poll, but I think it reflects how the students really feel."

"The Inter-Hall Council has gone into action, after two years of idleness," Chilton added. The IHC will send members to meetings of the various student boards. These members should then report back to the councils.

"The present IHC constitution will be revised, and more student polls may be taken on future campus issues," Chilton reports.

Student NEA Honors Birthday Of Philosopher

"Teaching opportunities in Arizona, as well as other states are overwhelming," Warren F. Gotthard, assistant director of Placement, told a Student National Education Association meeting last night.

The meeting was held to commemorate the 100th birthday of John Dewey, a person known as a great influence on progressive education.

Dewey was born in 1859 in Vermont. He is considered to be one of the greatest philosophers of the United States. He questioned the assumption that difficult tasks, per se, were good things for children. He found by experimentation that an interested student learns more than a non-interested student.

Gotthard said teachers of English, mathematics and women's physical education are most in demand in Arizona. Librarians are also needed, he added.

Members of Alpha Mu Gamma, foreign language honorary, are selling candy on campus at $1 per pound. Proceeds go to the group's project fund.

'Liberty And Authority' Chosen Symposium Topic As Result Of Discussion On 'Viewpoint' Series

"Liberty and Authority" will be the subject for the annual symposium of the division of Behavioral and Social Sciences this year, according to Dr. Karl H. Dannenfeldt, division chairman.

The symposium Nov. 18, at 3:45 p.m. in the MU upper lounge, will be open to faculty and students.

Speakers at the symposium will be:

Dr. Raymond Uhl, professor of Political Science; Dr. Douglas G. Arner, associate professor of Philosophy, and Dr. Quino E. Martinez, associate professor of Spanish.

Dr. Dannenfeldt said he selected this title as a result of the panel discussion during the third radio broadcast of the "Viewpoint" series, entitled "Democracy: Ideal and Actual." The Viewpoint series will continue each Saturday at 7 p.m. over Phoenix radio station KPHO. On Oct. 24, "What's taking the place of the family?" will be discussed by Dr. Lester S. Perrill, chairman of the department of Sociology and Anthropology; Dr. Paul G. Hubbard, acting chairman, department of History; and Donald G. Fitzgerald, instructor in Physics.

Mexico's 'Frank Lloyd Wright' Speaks To ASU Student Groups

Mr. Felix Candela, Mexico's "Frank Lloyd Wright," has been on the ASU campus this week talking to student groups.

Monday, Mr. Candela showed slides of some of his designs to Architecture and Engineering students, and continued the discussion yesterday afternoon with about fifty students.

Last evening, Mr. Candela spoke to the public and showed slides in the BA building.

Commenting on the buildings on campus, Mr. Candela said, "I think they are quite good. They serve their purpose and are useful. I think in general, you have good architecture here."

He is an instructor at the University of Mexico School of Architecture.

Blue Key Men Tap At Dawn

By FRAN BRESLIN

Twelve ASU men were tapped for membership in Blue Key, national honorary leadership fraternity at sunrise this morning.

New Blue Key members include: Karl Dennison, Cultural Affairs Board chairman, Music major; Frank Howard, Delta Phi, Young Republican president, Political Science major; John Kiedaish, Pershing Rifles, Phi Eta Sigma, outstanding freshman cadet, Architecture major; Fred Korry, Memorial Union Board, football, English major; and Mike Kreutz, Alpha Tau Omega, Education Board, Electrical Engineering major.

Also Richard Leo, Phi Eta

Sigma, Rally and Traditions, AMS senator, president of Sahuaro Hall, Physics major; John Singleton, Delta Sigma Pi, Memorial Union Board, Investigation board, Management major; John Summers, Alpha Tau Omega, Social Board, Engineering major.

Dick Thomas, Delta Sigma Phi, AMS secretary, Delta Sigma Pi, Pre-Law major; Craig Thompson, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Mu Sigma, Engineering major; Gary Walker, Sigma Chi Sigma, Rallies and Traditions Board chairman, Psychology major; and Pete Koelsh, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Associate Chief Justice, Engineering major.

After the tapping ceremonies, the new members were honored at a breakfast held at Harmon's Ranch Restaurant. W. P. Shofstall, dean of students; Gary Anderson, dean of men, and Herman Schmidt, assistant dean of students were present as special speakers and guests.

President Bert Dodson introduced the new members who were chosen on the basis of junior or senior class standing, a scholarship index of 2.5 or better, campus leadership, and high moral character.

AS Band To Leave On Tour

ASU's marching band will appear on a nationally-televised broadcast at half-time of the Los Angeles Rams-Detroit Lions football game Sunday afternoon from the Los Angeles Coliseum.

This will be the last performance on a 1,600 mile road trip which will include appearances at the ASU-San Jose State football game at San Jose Saturday night, and the Bakersfield North High - South High game at Bakersfield Friday night.

The band was invited for a return engagement by the Rams after a performance at Los Angeles game last year.

Harold C. Hines, associate professor of Music, and his assistant, Ron Holloway, will direct.

The touring group will include 112 marching members of the band, eight substitutes, 10 pom pon girls, drum Major Roy Barbatti, solo baton twirler Harlie Judy and majorettes Barbara Goodrich and Bea Bachman.

The band returns to campus Monday night.

Ensembles Give Concert

ASU's percussion and brass ensembles will present a concert tonight, 8:15 p.m., in the MU ballroom.

Under direction of Eugene Chausow, ASU assistant professor of Music, the 12-member brass ensemble will start its recital with performances of Francisque's "Suite from Le Tresor D'Orphee" and Lebow's "Suite for Brass."

Exchanges With U Of Sonora Planned By Arizona Schools

A committee to promote exchanges of students and faculty of Arizona's universities with the University of Sonora, Mexico, was formed at the Governor's conference, held last week at Hermosillo, Mexico. Tom Hulen, ASASU President, who attended the conference, said the exchanges, which would probably last from one to two weeks at a time would help to improve relations between the two countries.

Hulen said he has invited two faculty members of the University of Sonora with the student body president to visit the ASU campus. He added that arrangements are being made for their visit.

Hulen also invited several of the businessmen that attended the conference to the ASU UofA football game, Nov. 28.

Arizona members of the committee included Dr. Gammage, ASU president; Dr. Nugent, U of A vice president; Dr. Walkup, ASC president; Charles Gist, American Institute for Foreign Trade, Dan Shafton, UofA student body president and Hulen. Mexican members of the committee were not known and no chairman has been selected.

Entertainment Bureau To Book ASU Talent

An Entertainment Bureau has been formed at ASU to help make talent available to campus organizations needing performers for social functions.

Linda Church, bureau chairman, says she feels there is a large and growing need for this facility at Arizona State, and points out that "It will prove a great service to both the organization and the entertainer."

The Bureau will list only campus talent at present, but hopes to include outside talent later. Interested students may leave their names at the Memorial Union information desk.

Members of the bureau, which is a sub-committee of the Social and Cultural Affairs Boards, are Linda Church, Barbara Wheeler, Edith Moores, Sue Ann Owens, Sally Stewart and Don Glabe. Mrs. Helen Bell, Assistant Director of the Memorial Union, is the group advisor.

Original Poems Sought For New Poetry Collection

Original poems of college students are being compiled for publication in the second annual anthology of outstanding College Poetry.

Student works may be submitted to Mr. Alan C. Fox, Executive Secretary, American College Poetry Society, Box 24463, Los Angeles 24, California.

Poems may be on any subject and must be original work of the contributor. Each poem should not exceed 48 lines; and only five poems will be accepted from any one student. The entrant's name, address, and school should appear on each page.

All entries must be post-marked no later than Dec. 1.

Ten Best-Dressed Students At ASU Voice Various Campus-Dress Views

By SEL ERDER

"Skirts, blouses and sweaters are all right for campus wear," stated Linda Habluetzal, ASU's best-dressed woman. Carey Gregory, the best-dressed man, agreed on casual campus dress and added, "I think bermudas and slacks are fine anywhere on campus, including in the Memorial Union."

Last Thursday evening, at the annual AMS-AWS fashion show, a committee of eight judges chose Carey Gregory, Ray Embry, Bill Beasley, Jerry Hasset and Dick Thomas as ASU's best-dressed men. Best-dressed women are Linda Habluetzal, Linda McMillan, Barbara Droke, Joan Martin and Bette Segersten.

When asked their opinions on the proper dress for football games and dates, they all seemed to agree. When the subject came to campus wear, there was a difference of opinion, especially between the men and women.

According to the five men, it should be correct to wear bermudas on campus, to classes and in the Memorial Union.

The women, however, preferred that neither men nor women wear bermudas. Joan Martin said professors should have the "say-so" on this subject. According to Linda Habluetzal, it should be permissable to wear bermudas to lunches and dinners on campus, but "It is not appropriate to wear them to classes." Bette Segersten prefers capris to bermudas.

Fall outfits, consisting of casual campus wear, sports clothes, football-date wears and sophisticated formals were modeled by Arizona State students. The fashion show was highlighted by the Jamaican twins, Mel and Mal Spence, who sang, "Destiny," "Jamaica Farewell" and "I Do Adore Her."

The latest that individual courses may be dropped is 4:30 p.m. Oct. 27.

Regents Approve $7 Million Budget For Coming Year

The State Board of Regents Saturday, approved the 1960-61 fiscal operational budget of $7,782,023 for ASU.

A total budget of $22,487,200 was approved for the three state institutions of higher education. Of the total, the U of A will receive $14,184,071, and ASC $1,521,106.

The State Legislature will be asked for about $16 million of the new budget, and the remainder will come from student fees and other sources.

Most of the operating budget will pay for faculty salaries. Construction funds are not included in the budget.

ASU, with an estimated 1960-61 enrollment of 11,700, was granted an increase of $723,381. The current enrollment is 10,268.

Budget requests by the three schools were cut $966,401, with ASU suffering the largest cut.

A total of $808,960 was cut from ASU's original request, including $200,000 asked by the library, registrar's office, nursing school and television department.

The U of A's allotment was increased $1,580,958 over its 1959-60 budget.

UofA expects an enrollment of 13,545 next year, compared with 11,912 this year.

Non-resident tuition at ASU was raised from $225 to $250 a semester and a raise from $7.50 to $11.25 per unit for students taking less than six hours work.

Out-of-state tuition at ASC was upped from $125 to $140 a semester.

French, German Literature Open To Graduates

Several 500-level French and German literature courses have been added at ASU.

The additions followed authorization from the Board of Regents to grant Master of Arts degrees in French and German.

The new courses include History of the French Novel, Seminar in Contemporary French Drama, and Seminar in the Works of Goethe.

Students may contact Dr. Russel K. Bowman, chairman of the department of Foreign Languages for information.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING —

Press Suppressed

Last week, our "On Other Campi" column carried the story of the UofA Wildcat which was published with a blank space on the editorial page.

The blank space represented an editorial which had been suppressed by the administration. The Wildcat later reported that a legitimate news story was also squelched.

We have never seen a blank space in the State Press. We hope that, when they saw the space in the Wildcat, those responsible realized they had violated one of the basic freedoms upon which our country is founded.

Today being the last day of National Newspaper Week, this seems like a good time to express our appreciation of the autonomy we enjoy here at ASU, of the privilege of living in a country where such autonomy is possible, and the opportunity to serve the community of ASU.

Squirts?

Last week, the "I Cover College Avenue" column discussed fire extinguishers which apparently had not been refilled for some time.

All campus fire extinguishers now have been rechecked to be double sure they are up to date.

Now we wonder: "How much good is this going to do?"

Anyone who has wandered into some dorms and fraternity houses when the residents were engaged in "fire extinguisher fights" knows that no amount of refilling can keep these extinguishers full.

The maintenance men are doing their best, but how can they succeed against this kind of competition?

Seems some of these "play babies" would rather burn up than grow up!

Think

ASU's patch of Arizona sky is intermittently obscured by the dust-clouds of progress . . . dust clouds blowing up from grass-less construction areas on campus.

Soon these areas will be transformed into modern buildings, landscaped lawns. Then, the dust will subside . . . if the newly seeded lawns aren't trampled to death by thoughtless footsteps, as are newly seeded areas now.

Must signs be posted for university students? Or can we find sidewalks without help from the ground-keepers?

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor,
 When the victorious Sun Devil football team arrived at Sky Harbor airport after their 24-9 win over Colorado State, only one faculty member, one fiance of a football player, and the wives of the football coaches were there to greet them. There were no pom pon girls, no pep band, no students, no nothin' else! I mean — no one else!

Why? I think that our school spirit just isn't! Perhaps the students are going to "cultural affairs" and the faculty are attending meetings. This sounded half-way plausible until I noticed meetings are not usually scheduled for Sunday. Then what happened?

If I sound a little bit angry, don't think I am. I'm hopping mad! I am sick, sicker, sickest of this do-nothing student body. Why — since the Sun Devils have won the last nine football games — don't we show our appreciation? Or, do we really appreciate what has been done for us all by a few?

Just what is it that makes us so dead and lifeless as far as supporting our school? School spirit seems to be a little word around this campus, that means totally NOTHING to anyone.

All right, so I'm a simpleton. I'm still curious why such a great university as ours isn't supported by the students. Does anyone know the answer? If you do — please let me know.

Disgustedly yours,
 A Student

To the Editor:
 I wish to assure the readers of the State Press that the Administrative Officers of Arizona State University do read the letters to the Editor.

I appreciate the letter in the Oct. 14 issue signed by George Spelvin. For some time now the alphabetical arrangement for registration has been reversed the second semester. We plan to follow this procedure again this year. Therefore, students whose last names are in the last letters of the alphabet will be scheduled first.

It is interesting to note that we have no record of a student being registered this semester with the name of George Spelvin. Could it be that he is participating in our University Community without having made the effort to become registered?

Sincerely yours,
 Alfred Thomas, Jr.
 Registrar and Director of Admissions

To the Editor:
 Arizona State is now a university. However, we the women residents, are still abiding by "college" dorm hours. Even many colleges have "reasonable" weekend hours — and upperclass late privileges during the week.

An AWS appointed committee was recently formed to make recommendations to our AWS Council concerning this matter. I hope, along with probably every other student who has encountered the ASU dorm hours, that they will make an earnest comprehensive report; and that a solution can be found which will be tailored to fit the needs of our university.

Sincerely,
 Trustworthy Senior

By GORDON PETERSON

Last Friday two men in white suits walked into the State Press office.

At first, we tried to hide under the desk. Then, we realized the men weren't carrying butterfly nets or straight jackets — just a large book.

We crawled out from under the desk and the men identified themselves as representatives of the Maintenance department. The large book was a record of fire-fighting equipment on campus. They asked us which fire extinguisher we had referred to in our column that day as one "that hasn't been recharged since April 11, 1956, according to the tag on it."

We told them, and together we looked up the record of that particular extinguisher. Turns out the thing was recharged less than a year ago — somebody just forgot to mark the tag.

The men didn't stop there, however. They recharged the extinguisher again, just to be sure. They also made a careful check of all other extinguishers on campus — as they do periodically, according to the record book.

We still have trouble getting out of the BA third floor at 11:30 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. This, obviously, can't be helped. Thousands of students enter and leave this building every day. There are bound to be traffic jams. Even there, though the "men in the white suits" are doing their best to keep us safe. The BA building is equipped with fire hoses at strategic locations. The idea is that any fire in these buildings should be under control before we would have to worry about getting out.

To the men who came to visit us, we give our thanks. They came into the office not to complain, but to clear up a possible misunderstanding. If their promptness and efficiency is an example of the way things are handled in the Maintenance department, we have there an organization to be proud of.

STUDYING CAN BE SCREAMS

If studying is bugging you, try mnemonics.

Mnemonics, as we all know, was invented by the great Greek philosopher Mnemon in 526 B.C. (Mnemonics, incidentally, was only one of the inventions of this fertile Athenian. He also invented the staircase which, as you may imagine, was of inestimable value to mankind. Before the staircase people who wished to go from floor to floor were forced to live out their lives, willy-nilly, on the ground floor, and many of them grew cross as bears. Especially Demosthenes who was elected Consul of Athens three times but never served because he was unable to get up to the office of Commissioner of Oaths on the third floor to be sworn in. But after Mnemon's staircase, Demosthenes got up to the third floor easy as pie—to Athens' sorrow, as it turned out. Demosthenes, his temper shortened by years of confinement to the ground floor, soon embroiled his countrymen in a series of senseless wars with the Persians, the Visigoths and the Ogallala Sioux. He was voted out of office in 517 B.C. and Mnemon, who had made his accession possible, was pelted to death with fruit salad in the Duomo. This later became known as the Missouri Compromise.)

But I digress. We were discussing mnemonics, which are nothing more than aids to memory—catchwords or jingles that help you remember names, dates and places. For example:

*Columbus sailed the ocean blue
In fourteen hundred ninety-two.*

See how simple? Make up your own jingles. What, for instance, is the important event immediately following Columbus's discovery of America? The Boston Tea Party, of course. Try this:

*Samuel Adams flung the tea
Into the briny Zuyder Zee.*

(NOTE: The Zuyder Zee was located in Boston Harbor until 1904 when Salmon P. Chase traded it to Holland for Louisiana and two outfielders.)

But I digress. To get back to mnemonics, you can see how simple and useful they are—not only for history but also for everyday living; for instance:

*In nineteen hundred fifty-nine
The smoke to look for is Alpine.*

"Why Alpine?" you ask. Taste that fine, fresh flavor. Enjoy that subtle coolness. Until Alpine you needed two cigarettes to reap the benefits of Alpine—one for flavor, one for high filtration—and smoking two cigarettes is never graceful; in fact, with mittens it is nigh impossible. Now you need only one cigarette—Alpine. Get some. You'll see.

VOLLEYBALLERS . . . Hayden Hall and Sigma Chi Sigma battle here in intramural volleyball action last Monday. Hayden won the first game with a 15-3 score, but the Sigs bounced back to take the remaining two games 15-0 and 15-8 to remain in contention for the intramurals championship.

Imps Lose 12-10 Squeaker

Coach Gene Felker's freshman squad lost a close game to New Mexico Western Saturday night, 12-10, at Silver City. The Sun Imps were trailing in the game when quarterback Raul Disarufino passed 30 yards to Phil Atkerson on an apparent touchdown romp which was called back on a penalty. Referees ruled that the Imps had an ineligible receiver downfield, which nullified the play. "We didn't look good," commented coach Felker, concerning the overall team play. The Imps had very little time to prepare for the second game of their schedule, but the overall squad should receive more attention and individual help from the varsity coaches now that the Imps have joined forces with the varsity. Outstanding performances were turned in by Halfbacks Kenny Bryant, and Butch Kokaly, and by guard Bob Widmer, according to coach Felker. The Sun Imps next scheduled game is Nov. 14 against EAJC there.

Devils Down Colorado State For Fourth Season Victory

Arizona State University made the most of its breaks at Ft. Collins, Colo., Saturday, and defeated Colorado State 24-9, for its fourth straight football win. The victory, fashioned on the flashing feet of sophomore halfback Nolan Jones, was the Sun Devils' ninth consecutive win over a two-year period. Only

Louisiana State, with 15 straight, has a longer win streak. Jones put on a one-man show for Colorado State's home-coming day fans. He scored two touchdowns, kicked three conversions and a field goal. ASU scored the first time it had the ball, moving 72 yards in nine plays. Halfback John McFalls went the last 25 yards. Two other Sun Devil touchdowns were products of Colorado State fumbles. ASU recovered fumbles on the Rams' 16 and 30 yard lines scoring each time. Colorado State began rolling in the second period with an 86-yard scoring march. The big play was a 37-yard pass to the ASU 28 from quarterback Bill Wade to halfback Joe Martinez. Martinez then circled end to score, but the conversion failed.

Arizona State made it 14-6 late in the second period. Quarterback Fran Urban recovered a Colorado State fumble on the Rams' 16. Two plays later, Jones scored from the point.

The Demon's Lair

By BOB LAIRSON

ASU Sun Devils will suffer in the national statistics race this week in both scoring and rushing averages. Prior to the Colorado State game, ASU was leading the nation with a 33-point-per-game scoring average. The 24 points tallied against the Rams will drop the average for four games to about 30 points. Arizona State was listed among the top 10 teams of the nation in rushing average, but the meager 76 yards gained against CSU will drop this figure considerably. Dick Clausen, U of A athletic director, announced last week that the U of A is contemplating pulling out of the Border Conference. This announcement comes as no surprise to state sports fans, as the BC has been obviously outgrown by both ASU and the U of A for several years. If U of A pulls out, then ASU will probably follow, either immediately, or within one or two years. The enrollment possessed by the two Arizona schools far exceeds enrollment of remaining BC schools, and as many of the fees levied for conference operations are assessed on a student enrollment basis, the withdrawal of the two schools will severely weaken the conference. Without the presence of the UofA, Arizona State will have to assume added expenses within the conference.

Rudy Lavik Still Training

By RON CONTRERAS

Ever since the Greeks originated the Olympic Games, running has been considered one of the most important athletic events and many persons seeking physical fitness since ancient Grecian times have incorporated running into their health programs.

Such a man on the ASU campus is Rudolf H. Lavik, professor of Physical Education a great believer in running as a method of gaining physical fitness. Mr. Lavik has run an estimated 16,000 miles within the last 32 years, an average of 500 miles per year.

This "young" gentleman, who recently turned 67, daily runs around the track in Goodwin stadium, seeking what many desire — better physical condition.

"Science can prolong a man's life, but what good is it if he can't enjoy it?" Mr. Lavik asks. "If I feel like it, I go hiking or do some other strenuous activity without suffering the effects of stiffness and soreness afterwards," he said.

He considers the enjoyment and rewards derived from self-initiated work-outs to be very gratifying. This young-looking gentleman began his health program 32 years ago. Participation in group sports didn't accomplish what he desired, so he began working out by himself under his own program.

A typical weekday morning for Mr. Lavik begins with neck, V-sit and bicycle exercises and push-ups, before breakfast. In the afternoon he runs a mile, walks around the track with his arms rotating in a circular motion at shoulder level; next exercise is the Harvard step test which accomplishes the effects of running except that it is done with a bench. He works on this exercise for five minutes by stepping on and off the 20-inch-high bench approximately 30 times per minute, and after a minute's rest, he takes his pulse to compare it with that recorded on the chart.

"This Harvard step test is wonderful for people who would like to run but do not have space or do not want to expose themselves to ridicule," commented Mr. Lavik. Chin-ups end his daily routine.

"I would be very happy to work out individual health programs for students and faculty alike and could extend my office hours to help them; all these exercises could be done in just one hour's time," he stated. He can be contacted at Ext. 535 for personal consultation and could arrange to speak at fraternities, dorms and other campus organizations.

He has spoken to different civic organizations and to his classes about the many benefits acquired from working out just one hour per day.

Mr. Lavik came to Arizona in 1927 and coached football for ASC, at Flagstaff, the first six years. He came here in 1933 as head of the Physical Education department and director of Athletics.

UofA May Leave BC Next Year

The University of Arizona is considering a break of athletic ties with the Border Conference.

The UofA Athletic Director Richard Clausen said last Thursday that he had talked to officials outside the BC regarding a new athletic tie-up by Arizona, "but I'm not at liberty to say who they were."

Clausen said he does not expect Arizona to leave the BC this year. "Right now, the Border Conference will do until something better comes along," he said.

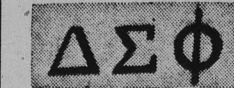

Speculation has been increasing that Arizona will leave the BC after a December meeting of league officials in Abilene, Tex.

The decisive factor in the U of A's decision might be the demand among some conference members that a round-robin schedule be required in football.

"If that plan were passed, we would call or retake on the matter of our conference membership. We would review our whole future of athletics," Clausen said.

Clausen said there already are certain areas of incompatibility between the UofA and the BC. He said, "There are such things as school size, type of athletic programs and differences of opinions over use of freshman athletes."

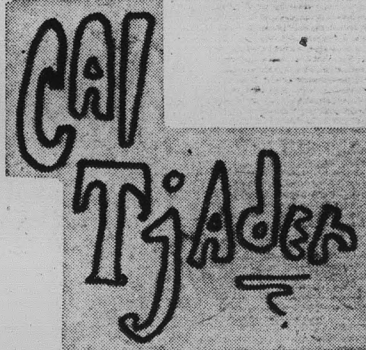

Clausen said there has been no official action regarding Arizona's severance with the
