The ASU symphony orchestra will present its first campus concert of the season at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in the MU ballroom.

Eugene P. Lombardi, assistant professor of Music at ASU, will conduct the 50-piece orchestra in the free concert.

A special feature of the concert will be a performance of the "Mozart Symphony in D Major" written for string orchestra.

Other compositions include Sir Thomas Beecham's arrangement of Delius' work, "The Walk to the Paradise Garden" and Eugene Ormandy's arrangement of Bach's Chorale Prelude, "Awake! Hear the Call of Watchmen."

Also included in "Concerto for Orchestra" adapted from the works of Jean Baptiste Beval by Orien Dalley, and Mendelssohn's "Overture to Athalia."

Memorial Union Building Policies Clarified By Board Chairman Koory

Clarification of two Memorial Union building policies for students was given yesterday by Fred Koory, MU board chairman.

"Lounges in the union are not for study purposes," Koory stated. "They are to be used for relaxation, art exhibits, receptions and other social get-togethers."

"When students walk into a lounge, and someone is studying, they feel they can't talk or watch TV, so they go elsewhere. The purpose of lounging rooms is then defeated. "The board is trying to obtain rooms for studying in the MU in the near future," Koory added. "The lighting in the rooms will be more sufficient for studying than lighting in the lounges. Until these rooms are available, students are urged to use the library or the north upper lounge, which has been set aside as a study room."

As MU board chairman, Koory also reminded students that the bulletin board outside the union may be used by any campus organization which gets approval at the information desk.

He also announced that board members will keep office hours weekdays in MU 103 to handle student problems or requests concerning the union.

Deadline Set For Scholarship Applications

Deadline for picking up applications for Fullbright Scholarships is Sunday Nov. 1.

The scholarships are offered to students who have been recommended by a faculty member. Qualifications include a high grade index and participation in extra-curricular activities.

The applications are to be picked up in the Scholarship office, and filled in fully and returned by the deadline.

Scholarships are offered to South America, Europe and Asia.

'Coffin Corner' Ceremony Today

Coach Kush's Coffin Corner will be inaugurated with the burying of Colorado State University today.

At 11:30 a.m., MU patio, a headstone will be laid for Colorado State. The newly-shined victory bell, which hasn't rung this semester, will toll the victory score with the Sun Devils doing the honors.

Movie Premier Tonight

The movie version of Glendon Swarthout's best selling novel, "They Came To Cordura," will have its Arizona premier tonight at the Paramount Theater in Phoenix.

Swarthout, ASU Contemporary Fiction instructor, is presently in New York for the movie's world premiere. The film stars Gary Cooper, Rita Hayworth, Van Heflin, Tab Hunter, and Richard Conte. Swarthout spent three months on location as a technical adviser. He also wrote part of the script.

Formerly a resident of East Lansing, Mich., Swarthout moved to Scottsdale two months ago with his wife and son. He has taught at the University of Michigan, Michigan State, and the University of Maryland.

Currently he is working on another novel. He said that it will be his longest yet and won't be finished for several years. Due out in January in his, "Where The Boys Are." MGM has already purchased film rights on the comedy.

He has worked on a newspaper in South America, in advertising as a copy writer, spent time in the Army, and did freelance work for many years.

His first novel, "Willow Run," was published in 1943. A short story of his, "A Glass of Blessings," will be included in the O. Henry Collection of Prize Stories for 1960. He's also had stories in several nationally known magazines.

Swarthout says teaching is his hobby. "I teach because I enjoy it and because I like young people."

He claims that there is just one way to write and "that is to write." He also admits that writing is a lonesome business.

"There are two kinds of writers, those who work and those who talk about it." His advice to aspiring writers is to work at it. He says, "If you have talent it will show up."

Willis Palmer, senior radio-TV major, has been named program director of KASN, campus radio station.

p.m. over KPHO radio, Phoenix.

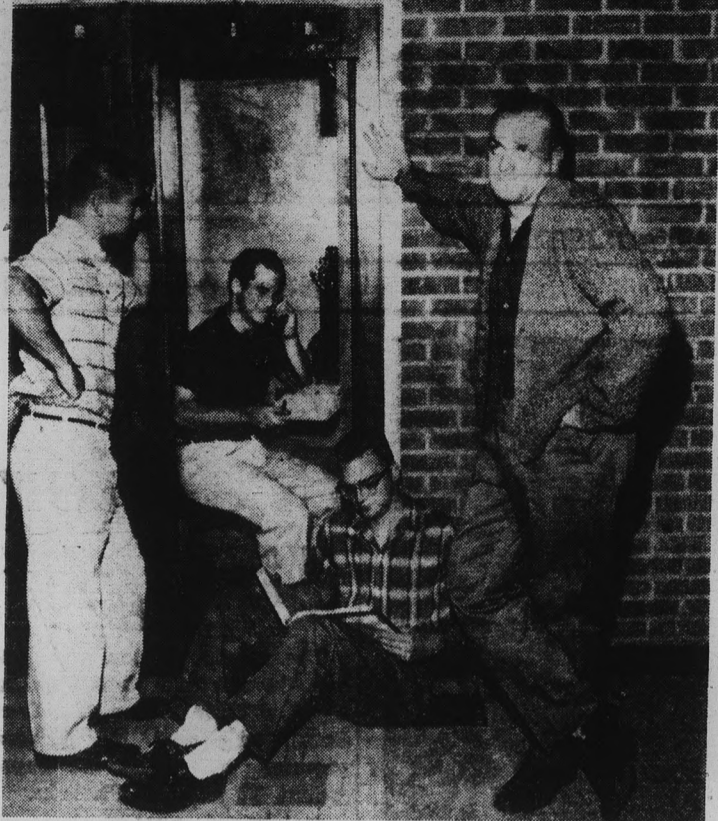

Moderating the discussion designed for parents of school-age children will be Dr. Karl H. Dannenfeldt, division chairman of Behavioral Sciences.

Other speakers will include Dr. Lester S. Perril, chairman of the department of Sociology and Anthropology; Dr. Sherman K. Fitzgerald, associate professor of Sociology; and Dr. Paul Hubbard, acting chairman of the department of History.

The ASU radio-television bureau produces the weekly program.

ASU Enrollment Hits All-Time High; 11,768 Students Now Attend

An increase of 663 students over last semester has been reported by Alfred J. Thomas Jr., registrar and director of admissions. He said 11,768 students are enrolled at ASU this semester.

Of the total students, 10,268 are registered in residence courses, and 1,500 are registered in extension courses. The latter figure is incomplete because extension centers have not reported final enrollment. The breakdown of residence undergraduates is: College of Liberal Arts, 2,054; College of Education, 2,403; College of Business Administration, 1,575; College of Applied Arts and Sciences, 1,723, and Special, 519.

Students are registered for a total number of 124,583 semester hours.

Projected residence enrollment for this semester was 11,500. This figure was not met, due to the construction strikes, tighter admissions policy, tightening up of academic standards, and lack of housing.

High School Brainwashing Is Explored By Author Root

The book "Brainwashing in the High Schools," by E. Merrill Root, professor of English at Barham College, Richmond, Ind., has been termed "disturbing" by Dr. Paul Hubbard, acting chairman of ASU's History department.

Dr. Hubbard reviewed the book at a meeting of the Arizona Society, Sons of the American Revolution, in the MU faculty dining room yesterday.

"The thesis of the book is that one-third of the American soldiers captured during the Korean war became collaborators, cooperating with their captors because they were unable to resist communist brainwashing," Dr. Hubbard said.

"According to Mr. Root, the simple reason for this was that these Americans had not been instructed to appreciate the factors in American history which made the U. S. the world's most successful experiment in free government," he added.

Dr. Hubbard pointed out that the book uses quotes from "standard textbooks currently in use in high schools, to support its thesis." He also termed the authors thesis too simple. "He implies that it's modern Americans who can be brainwashed, because of a conspiracy to undermine their Americanism in the school," Dr. Hubbard explained.

"The author uses devices which are not acceptable when one is attempting to make a scholarly analysis of his subject," Dr. Hubbard commented.

Play, 'The Tender Trap' Stars AS Student, Mullen

Last evening ASU student Frank Mullen — veteran radio and TV actor, director, part time producer and prominent Phoenix businessman — opened a 10-day run as star of the Broadway comedy, "The Tender Trap," at the Phoenix Little Theatre.

Student tickets to the performances are available for $1.25 at the Cultural Affairs box office in MU 200c.

As a veteran of TV, Mr. Mullen starred as the original Commander Corry of Space Patrol, the first dramatic series produced on TV. Among other TV roles, he played opposite Veronica Lake in "Lights Out," opposite Sarah Churchill on the Hallmark Hall of Fame, and co-starred in the "Petrified Forest" on Robert Montgomery Presents.

In Hollywood, Mr. Mullen played in "Battle Cry," "Strategic Air Command" and "Command Decision." In all, he has acted in over 600 productions in movies and TV.

Mr. Mullen said, "Having so much experience, naturally the Phoenix Little Theatre people encouraged me to be active in dramatics after my return to Phoenix."

IDYLS, proposed campus literary magazine, is in need of material, especially short stories. Manuscripts may be submitted in the IDYLS' box, first floor English building.

Dr. E. L. Parker Will Speak Tuesday At Pasadena Meet

Dr. Ernest L. Parker, ASU professor of Animal Husbandry, will leave Monday to be a featured speaker at a West Coast conference of feed manufacturers and research personnel.

The conference will be Tuesday at the Pasadena branch of the Ray Ewing Company, one of the largest consultant corporations in the nation.

Dr. Parker, director of Arizona State's poultry husbandry program, will discuss the results of an experiment conducted at the poultry section of the ASU farm on South Mill Ave. last summer.

In his experiment, Dr. Parker found the adverse effects of Arizona's summer heat on egg production can be reduced with the use of a tranquilizer, Serpasil, a trade-name for Reserpine. Normally, during the extreme heat of the local summers, egg production and size drops markedly. By adding Serpasil in minute quantities to the feed of the hens tested, Dr. Parker was able to curb these effects of heat.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING —

'Time For You...'

"Time for you and time for me
 And time yet for a hundred indecisions
 And for a hundred visions and revisions
 Before the taking of a toast and tea"

These lines, penned by English poet T. S. Eliot, have a universal ring of truth which thinking men have pondered over many years.

The thoughts in Eliot's words are particularly applicable to college students, for their last years of formal education are years of decision.

Why are we here; what are our goals? Are our value judgments honest, our goals good? Or is everything relative, nothing positive? Are there abstracts of goodness and honesty? What is our future, the ultimate of our existence? Have we asked these questions and are there answers?

As the minute hand on the clock ticks away the hours, days and years of that microscopic span of time, life — what do we hope to achieve, if anything?

To some collegians, school life orbits around the physical sun of superficial socialities. To others, it is a time of mental growing, questioning, learning, understanding and appreciating of what this life means.

For in this tension-filled nuclear world of missiles and space satellites, a rocket may be launched from one country and minutes later, thousands of miles across the sea, explode in another land, consuming millions of human lives in a flash of devastating light.

Supposedly, the future leaders of this society are thinking, learning and training to accept responsibility and to deal with other peoples of different ideologies. But if these leaders do not make maximum efforts during their privileged school years of training, they may not be another "lost generation" but the "last generation."

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

For weeks now I have heard the fumbling about the Library and every time the State Press comes out, I hasten through it to see if anyone has written in their views, but alas, I guess everyone is as busy as I am.

What has happened to the survey which was to be conducted? What are the facts about the resignation which took place recently? It seems that we as students should be told.

How many people who work in the Library have degrees in Library Science?

Let's put a suggestion box in the lobby of the library where students can express their view; lets have our survey; and then above all lets do something about it.

I feel the Library has done an excellent job in the past, but what about the future? I feel very strongly that the Library could be improved. Since I pay my Library fee I feel we as students should exercise our rights to question?

Dan Burke
 Off-Campus Student

(Editor's note: As soon as further information is released to us for publication, it will appear in the State Press. As for student opinion, we, too, are wondering.)

To the Editor:

In the past few weeks there have been a lot of opinions voiced about what college students should wear. As with any topic concerning so many people, opinions vary from one extreme to the other. The fact that college students are of adult age and should dress accordingly has been discussed. Agreed! Why not let college students make up their own minds as to what they should wear?

The majority of students realize that being neatly dressed for classes is the accepted standard. But how many students like to dress up every time they go to the bookstore, to the center, or even to the library? It is my belief that as long as students are neat, and adequately covered, there is no reason why they should not be comfortable as long as they are not in a location in which informal wear is out of place — and I consider classes, the Memorial Union and the Administration Building "out-of-bounds" in this respect. The library, bookstore, and dorms are places where informal wear should be appropriate!

Sincerely,
 Pat Dixon

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

SOMETIMES I THINK THE MATH SECTION OF THIS TEST IS A LITTLE TOO ROUGH.

By PETEY OLMSTED

Maybe it's early to be thinking of next summer, but I am... because the idea of traveling abroad and being paid for it appeals to me. You too?

Would you like to see sunny Spain? (It's rumored that the rain stays mainly on the plain... but from what I hear, you won't go thirsty in town.)

Germany, England, Switzerland, France, Scandinavian countries, Italy — all are offering employment to American students from June to October.

Pay isn't the greatest, dollar-wise, but living expenses are covered and modest amounts of pocket money are provided — and rewards of a longer-lasting nature are ample.

Sponsored by the American Student Information Service, work in the various countries runs the gamut: farm labor, forestry, construction (skilled and unskilled), resort and hotel work, camp counselling, child care and sales work. A few positions will be open at the Olympics, too.

The A.S.I.S. will help students obtain travel rate discounts. Arrangements must be completed by April 15.

Walter Geiger, senior Spanish major, spent last summer mowing hay in Germany under this program. Now, as campus representative for A.S.I.S., he may be contacted at WI 3-5441, 1014 Verde Ave., Phoenix, between 5 and 8 p.m. daily.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

In the Wednesday, Oct. 21, edition of the State Press, you referred to Felix Candela as Mexico's "Frank Lloyd Wright." I'm sure Mr. Candela doesn't have any intentions of being another "Frank Lloyd Wright." In the first place, their styles and philosophies of architecture are not alike. In the second place, Mr. Candela is a champion of the hyperbolic paraboloid, a form which Wright rarely, if ever, used.

Mr. Wright and Mr. Candela are both great architects and contemporaries, but I don't think they should be compared in that manner that you used in your article. Mr. Candela is a great architect in his own right and should be thought of as an individual and not as another "Frank Lloyd Wright" which he is not, with all due respects to the late Mr. Wright.

Your truly,
 Otho Adkins
 (Editor's note: We intended the comparison to be in stature only, not style. Thanks to Mr. Adkins for untangling our hyperbolic paraboloids.)

By MIKE BARRETT

"The Dilemma of Sex Before marriage," by Norman M. Lobsenz, in Redbook Magazine, October, is interesting reading.

"Young people today are well informed about sex.

"After all the frank discussion of the past decade, the current generation seems to be suffering from a highly informed confusion about sex and love that may be causing as many problems as the ignorance of previous generations," Lobsenz wrote.

He based his observations on 1) "The high rate of illegitimate births in America, 200,000 children born to unmarried women in 1957 — 87,000 of them to teen-age girls. 2) A Census Bureau study indicates that marriages are three times more likely to end in divorce when the brides are teenagers than when they are in their twenties. 3) And in survey after survey, young men and women continue to express serious doubts about their premarital sex behavior."

Lobsenz based his article largely upon "Premarital Dating Behavior," to be published later this month, by Dr. Winston Ehrmann, professor of Sociology, Colorado State University.

Dr. Ehrmann and his associates have questioned 1,000 single young men and women, late teens and early twenties, in the last few years "to find out not only what they do sexually but why — and how they do it," Lobsenz reported. "Only 14 per cent of the women and 66 per cent of the men had actually had sexual relations," according to the survey.

One boy stated that "he never went out a second time with girls he had been able to kiss on the first date. 'How would I be able to trust a wife like that?'" he asked.

A 21-year-old girl said, "I would not make any general rule about others..."

"In our society, young men first become involved in sex for the sake of sex itself; young women, in the pursuit of love," wrote Lobsenz.

Margaret Mead, who wrote the introduction to Dr. Ehrmann's book, stated, "In many ways it is a sorry picture in which both boys and girls are offered exploitive roles. The boy plays on the girl's hope of early marriage to get sexual compliance while the girl plays on the vulnerability of the boy by entangling him in a sexual intimacy which will propel him towards marriage."

Psychiatrist George J. Mohr was quoted by Lobsenz as saying "that although the interval between sexual maturity and social sanction for its expression is a time of discomfort and conflict... it also makes an ultimately fuller emotional development."

Although writer Lobsenz's popular magazine article may be considered sociologically interesting, there is no reference of the cross section of Dr. Ehrmann's survey, that is, the exact ages, social, economic, cultural, religious and environmental background of those questioned.

Therefore, the validity of the survey and the authorities' comments are questionable.

Athletic Director At Boston Meeting

Clyde Smith, ASU athletic director, left by plane Tuesday for a meeting with the National Collegiate Athletic Association Council in Boston.

Smith spoke yesterday to the Colorado Education Association physical education convention on his way east.

The NCAA has charged ASU with three rule violations, including excessive entertainment, excessive aid, and illegal transportation of athletes to the ASU campus.

Smith said next Monday's session with the NCAA council is being held at his request, but he declined to comment on what subjects would be discussed.

Although Smith was neither optimistic nor pessimistic about the meeting, he felt further public discussion of the talks with the NCAA would help neither that group nor ASU.

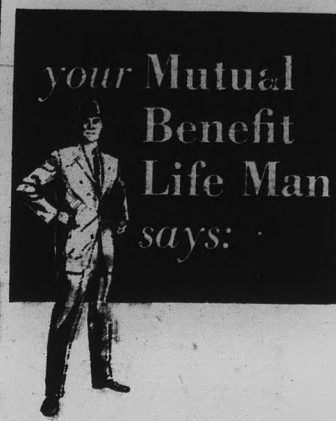

TV Engineering Course 'Well Received' In Valley

ME-102-TV, the introductory television course in Elementary Engineering Problem Analysis, has been extremely well received by industry throughout the valley, according to Sheldon P. Siegel, TV production manager for the Radio-Television Bureau.

The telecourse originates live from the ASU television studios daily at 1 p.m. and is micro-waved to KPHO-TV. The program is then broadcast through the facilities of Channel 5. ME-102-TV is a two-hour course taught by Dr. George Beakley, ASU professor of Engineering.

Many industrial plants throughout the valley have made time available during the mid-day hour for employees to view the telecourse either for credit or on a non-credit basis. Motorola, Sperry-Rand, General Electric, AiResearch, The Salt River Power District, and Arizona Public Service are among the major plants which have expressed enthusiasm for the telecourse.

Shakespeare said it this way: "The smallest worm will turn, being trodden on." But Miguel de Cervantes beat him to it in "Don Quixote", Part II, Book 3: "Even a worm when trod upon, will turn again."

"MUSIC HAS CHARMS"

The 17th Century playwright, William Congreve, was the first to set down this classic metaphor concerning the powers of sound and rhythm. You'll find the whole quote in "The Mourning Bride", Act I, Sc. 1:

Talk Is Set On Therapy

Dr. Aaron H. Canter, chief clinical psychologist at the Phoenix Veterans Administration hospital, will speak at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the MU upper lounge.

"Group Therapy in the Treatment of Schizophrenics" will be the subject of his lecture.

"Group therapy is a particularly effective treatment modality in our experience," comments Dr. Canter. "At a time when 26 percent of all hospital beds in the U. S. are occupied by schizophrenics, and 10 percent of all adults in the U. S. may be hospitalized for mental illness within their lifetime, this approach to treatment merits attention," he added.

Psi Chi, national psychology honorary at ASU, will sponsor the lecture.

Clancy's Opens As Lunch Room

Students bringing their own lunches are invited to eat in Clancy's in the MU basement, beginning Monday, according to Harry Mitchell, Social Board member in charge of the project.

New Local Fraternity Formed On Campus; Members Eliminate 'Kid Stuff' Pledging

A group of students, mostly ex-GIs met Friday at the Ramada Inn to form a new fraternity, Pi Delta Phi.

According to Terry Holleran, secretary, "these students formed Pi Delta Phi because of the rates charged by the other fraternities for dues, initiation, etc. and, because of the 'kid stuff' such as paddling, harassing, and pranks."

The members, whose average age is 23, also objected to the various pledge duties. "If we wanted to make someone else's bed, or do KP, we would have stayed in the service," is the way Mel Edwards, president, related it.

The constitution, ratified at the Friday meeting, states that the purpose of the new fraternity is to promote moral and intellectual development of those qualities which made one a worthy individual in our democratic society, and to maintain and develop an atmosphere of fellowship and trust.

In addition to Terry Holleran and Mel Edwards, officers include Walter Cox, vice president; Barry Goldwater Jr., committee chairman; David Moeser, committee vice chairman; Tony Koleski, sergeant-at-arms, and Donald Engberg, representative to IFC.

The next meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight at the Mountain Shadows.

DUAL FILTER DOES IT!

It filters as no single filter can for mild, full flavor!

POPULAR FILTER PRICE

HERE'S HOW THE DUAL FILTER DOES IT:

1. It combines a unique inner filter of ACTIVATED CHARCOAL... definitely proved to make the smoke of a cigarette mild and smooth...
2. with an efficient pure white outer filter. Together they bring you the real thing in mildness and fine tobacco taste!

Arizona State Kaydettes Are Attractive And Active

Adding color and interest to ASU's Army ROTC drills and parades are 13 attractive girls known as the Kaydettes.

Attracting as much attention as an intercontinental ballistic missile would on the Sun Devil campus, these girls may be seen every Tuesday morning drilling with the cadets in their official uniform — a green outfit with white military braid.

The main purpose of Kaydettes is to act as honorary sponsors for the Army ROTC; as hostesses at their social functions; as company sponsors during review, parades and inspections and also as candidates for the Arizona State Military Queen.

Officially known as honorary cadet officers, and not girl scouts or U.S. Army recruits as they are sometimes jokingly referred to, the girls are selected on the basis of interest in the army, personal appearance, poise, personality, and character.

New members selected last week by the Kaydettes and ROTC cadets are: Marie Burnham, Sue Musfelt, Linda Rankin, Jeri Smith, Linda Edgar and Beth Beirlein.

Captain James F. Rast is advisor for the group and Mrs. Herman Schmidt acts as sponsor. Kaydettes are taken through their paces by a liaison selected from the advanced ROTC cadets.

A corn roast honoring alumni of Delta Sigma Phi will be given tomorrow night by the local chapter at the fraternity house. Steak and corn will be served and the Ott Brothers Trio will perform. The event is an annual affair.

Initiation tonight will climax Friendship Week for Alpha Delta Pi pledges Janie Wolcott, Jane Taylor, Suzanne Ledbetter, Carol Ann King, Martha Peck, Carolyn McDonald and Nancy Blair. The new actives will be honored at an initiation banquet tomorrow.

After returning from their hayride Saturday night, Alpha Tau Omegas found that brothers Frank Windes and John Marshall had been recipients of an all-expense paid, one-way trip to Camp Verde—compliments of the pledge class! Must have entered that same old Walk-back contest!

Pledge class officers of Phi Sigma Kappa are: Desi Sanchez, president; Jim Zampetti, vice president; Lloyd Poindexter, secretary; and Mike Phillips, treasurer.

The "Little Sisters of Minerva" gave Phi Alpha members a surprise hot dog roast Sunday at Tempe Beach. New officers of the Little Sisters are: Deena Crim, president; Marie Burnham, vice president; Patty Foster, secretary.

New DG actives are Nancy Estep, Sally Calfee and Linda Bump.

Kappa Deltas are wearing green and white ribbons beneath their pins today to commemorate their founding. The sorority and alumnae will attend a Founders' banquet Monday evening at the Hi-Way house.

Kappa Kappa Gamma pledge of the week is Georgia Brown. Juanita Smith is a new Kappa pledge.

A dinner at the Stein and Sirloin will follow Sue Olson's initiation into Alpha Sigma Alpha this evening in the ASA chapter room at 5 o'clock.

Delta Sigs and dates will attend a party at the fraternity house tonight following the Cal Tjader concert in the Union. Tjader and his group will be special guests at the party.

Bob Reid, Sigma Chi Sigma, pledge president, is Sig "pledge of the week" for organizing a skit for the ASU Triad party last weekend. He is excused from pledge duties and wears the white pledge button.

Recording star, Dean Reed, led a jam session at the ATO house Sunday evening, after stopping there during a nationwide tour. Reed was visiting Ron Schmietenknop who played his band this summer.

There's still peace between Phi Sig actives and pledges! The two groups played to an 18-18 deadlock Sunday in their annual pledge-active football game!

Kappa Kappa Gamma will be guests of Sigma Nu at an exchange at the fraternity house Tuesday evening.

A "bum" party will be held by Sigma Phi Epsilons and dates during the radio broadcast of the football game tomorrow night. All will dress as bums, and dinner will consist of Mulligan stew.

Jed Myall, Lee Pomeroy and Doug Mortenson will be hosts to the Phi Delta Thetas at a T.G.I.F. party late this afternoon.

Lucky Lambda Chis and dates will picnic in the Payson pines "if it's sunny Sunday." Alliteration anyone?

Delta Gamma's pledge class president is Diane Jones. Other pledges serving with her are:

Trish Doerges, secretary-treasurer; Deane Morris, activities; Noel Owens, social chairman; Helen Denton, national project chairman; and Jan Werner, Nancy White, Panhellenic representatives.

Gamma Phi Beta has announced the addition of Sharon Teufel and Margo Cruse to the sorority's fall pledge class.

Devils Worried By San Jose Passing

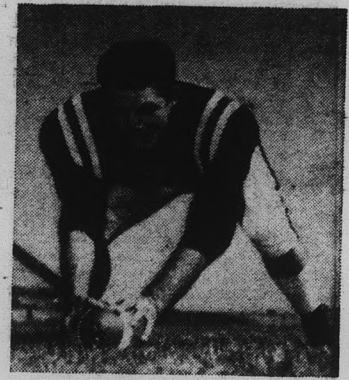

Arizona State will face a devastating aerial and rushing attack when the Sun Devils encounter San Jose State tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Spartan's Stadium. Coach Frank Kush's 35 man traveling squad will leave Sky Harbor Airport at 1 p.m. today, arriving in San Jose at approximately 5 p.m.

The Spartans' pro-type offense using quarterbacks Mike Jones, Emmet Lee and Ray Podesto, displayed fine passing abilities as their aerial attack chalked up 258 yards against Fresno State last week. The Spartans were ranked the fifth best passing team in the nation before their 40-14 win over Fresno.

San Jose's rushing attack netted 255 yards in the same game, with fullback Dave Kilbourne running through the line on draw plays and speedy right half Oneal Cuterry racing around end. Cuterry is leading the team in scoring and rushing. The fastest back on the Spartans' team is Mack Burton, a 9.6 dash man.

"They will be the best team we have faced this season due to their versatile passing and running attack," stated Kush. The Sun Devils have been working this week on pass defense in preparation for the Spartans' aerial show and also on offensive plays. The Devils gained only 76 yards rushing against Colorado State last week. Tomorrow night's encounter figures to be a high scoring contest. San Jose nipped the Devils last year in a 21-20 score which broke the Spartans' three game losing streak.

STARTING... at the center position again after being demoted last week is John Vucichevich.

Baseballers In Fall Practice

The World Series is over, but baseball is still very much in the Arizona State spotlight. The Demon horsehiders began fall baseball practice with enthusiasm Sept. 28.

In a seven-game practice slate between the varsity and the freshman squads, the varsity has won three, by scores of 15-1, 8-2, and 4-3. The Sun Imps took the remaining game 19-7.

Fall practice ends Monday. Coach Bobby Winkles will begin trimming his squad down to 27 players. Looking good in practice are infielders Regoli, Ikeda, Ramirez, Lefebre and Tomlinson; pitchers Tatum, Kudron, Barson and Hachevar.

Coach Winkles stated, "We should be a little stronger than last year, as we will have more depth. The infield and the outfield should be stronger, but the pitching will be about the same. The catching staff should also be much improved. Our schedule this year is much tougher because we have dropped the easier clubs and added stronger ones."

READY . . . for action is Arizona State basketball guard Paul Howard. He was named to the Border Conference All-Star team last year, and should rate mention in All-American polls this season. Howard's long set shots and fancy dribbling delighted fans last season, and his speed and poise confused many ASU opponent defenders.

NCAA Stats

ASU's punting average of more than 46 yards per punt continues to lead the nation's major college football teams.

But the Sun Devils dropped out of the top 10 in the latest NCAA statistics on rushing and total offense. Last Saturday ASU managed only 76 yards rushing against Colorado State, and 107 passing.

Halfback Nolan Jones is third in scoring with 44 points, averaging 11 per game. Pervis Atkins, New Mexico State, leads with 55 points. He has scored nine touchdowns in the Aggies' first five games.

Hardin-Simmons halfback Joe Allen leads in kickoff returns with 229 yards in 10 attempts.

Demon Thinlies Lose To UA; Host Wildcats This Week

Distance star Alex Henderson will seek his second win of the cross country season tomorrow afternoon when ASU hosts the UofA Wildcats.

Arizona State dropped the first encounter of the season to a stronger Wildcat team, 30-25, last week. Henderson covered the windy 3-mile course in the southern town with a 16:38.4 clocking. Wildcat runners placed second, third, fourth and tenth.

Sun Devil Jim McGowan placed fifth, Joe Ehlers was seventh, Don Capps placed eight and Pete Koelsch was ninth.

Henderson has been working out at a much slower pace than he normally follows, due to his collapse this summer at the Compton Relays. Although the winning time was not par for Henderson this is a preliminary conditioning toward re-attaining his peak performance.

Tomorrow's rematch will be run at Papago Park. ASU alumnus John Sandige will present a trophy to the runner with the most cumulative points.

The Demon's Lair

By BOB LAIRSON

In 1959 football games, the Lair has speculated on 80 games, and has a record of 59 right, 23 wrong, and 3 ties.

In gridiron frays this week, we begin by giving ASU the nod over San Jose State, followed by Colorado over Arizona, Hardin-Simmons over West Texas, and New Mexico State over Texas Western. ASU opponents outside the Border Conference should fare something like this: Utah State over Montana State, Army over Colorado State, and BYU over Denver.

Around the nation, games to be played this weekend look something like this; Northwestern over Notre Dame, Arkansas over Mississippi, LSU over Florida, Texas over Rice, USC over Stanford, Auburn over Miami, Michigan State over Indiana, UCLA over the Air Force, Oklahoma over Kansas, Georgia Tech over Tulane, Texas A&M over Baylor, and New Mexico over Montana.
