

Enjoy Vacation; Drive Carefully; Be Back!

Example Set By '51 Chevy

The 1951 Chevrolet on exhibit in the bookstore quadrangle is meant as a timely reminder to Arizona State of the dangers of the highway.

The car was involved in a head-on collision at 65 m.p.h. The driver, a woman, broke nine ribs but suffered no permanent injuries.

B & B Auto Wreckers brought the car here after the accident. The photographs displayed on the bookstore wall were supplied by the Arizona Highway Patrol.

Sigma Pi fraternity is sponsoring the exhibit as a warning to vacation-bound ASU students to drive carefully.

Info Sheets Due —

Primaries, Rally Due After Vacation

Students will vote in Spring primary election two days after their return from Easter vacation.

Elections for ASASU, AMS, AWS and senate positions has been set for Wednesday, April 12. Final elections will be April 19.

Information sheets on all candidates must be returned as complete as possible to the State Press office, MU 211, by 2:30 this afternoon.

Candidates for ASASU offices, AMS and AWS presidencies must have their pictures taken by 4 p.m. today at Matthews Hall.

Sheets were distributed by Elections board Chairman Tom Brown yesterday; they are available at the ASASU secretary's office, MU 202.

There will be a campaign rally April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the MU ballroom, candidates were informed yesterday.

ASASU, AMS president and AWS president hopefuls will be given five minutes to speak; senatorial candidates will be announced.

Esquire Fashion Director Aims Column Toward Men

Today's "Be Our Guest!" column, on the Editorial Page, takes on a theme in an "Easter Parade" mood, except it's aimed with the man's point of view.

Guest columnist is O. E. Schoeffler, vice president and fashion director of Esquire, Gentlemen's Quarterly and Coronet magazines.

Schoeffler has made major contributions to the development of fashion ideas and stimulated the flow of fashion information throughout the world.

Some men's fashion ideas inspired by Schoeffler are the slip-on shoe, Bermuda shorts, the new "Shaped" look and the re-discovery of the fancy vest.

Through the years, Schoeffler's editorial leadership has made the phrase "Like a Page Out of Esquire" an international symbol for sartorial perfection.

Budget Being Studied

The Senate Finance Committee is preparing the budget for the 1961-62 school year, according to Chairman Tod Walker.

The operation includes a budget for each activity submitted.

The Finance committee meets with a representative from each organization on campus which receives an allotment in the budget. The bill is then submitted to the Board of Financial Control.

After it is approved, the bill is sent to the Student Senate and discussed thoroughly. If the bill is passed, it is sent to the ASASU president, then to President Durham for final approval.

"The goal of the committee is to give each group enough to produce a good program," said Walker.

The budget will be figured on the same basis as last year — a basis of 7,000 full-time students. The total requests for this year are $200,500 with an anticipated income reduction of $19,350.

Up to three years ago, there was sufficient funds to distribute to various groups without any deductions. Because of the cost of building the bowling alley, and since enrollment has not increased as anticipated, the reserve has been reduced to $2,000. The budget will stay the same until the present enrollment has increased.

Some of the activities and clubs the Finance committee allot money to are: Spiritual Exploration Week, MU Birthday Party, Women's Day, Star Formal, Band Day, Senior Day, Homecoming, Freshman Week, Drama Workshop, Card Section, Pom Pon, and Cheerleaders.

Any group that feels they should be allotted money, should submit their budget to Linda Houle in the ASASU office.

For April Fool's Day . . .

School Site Big Question

Is Tucson favored for the Medical School?

Speculation rose recently when Dr. Joseph F. Volker, director of the study, said that a medical school in Arizona would have chances to provide health services in Sonora, Mexico, Latin America, and among the Indians in Arizona.

The citizens advisory committee members interpreted Volker's remarks to mean that the UofA may be in a better location to perform these services than ASU.

Volker was presented charts indicating great growth for Maricopa and Pima counties in the next decade. These charts show that Maricopa County will keep well ahead of Pima County in the population race in the next ten years.

Workshop Presents 'Merchant Of Venice'

Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" will be presented by the ASU Drama Workshop at the Phoenix Little Theater April 10-12.

A special performance on April 9, 8:30 p.m., will be presented free to all ASU students, faculty and staff. They will be admitted on the presentation of I.D. cards.

According to Margie Jones, general manager of the Drama Workshop, "This is the fourth production the workshop has presented in connection with Phoenix's annual Shakespearian Festival." The festival has run for five consecutive years.

The production, under the direction of Dr. James Yeater, assistant professor of Drama, has a crew of 85 students, 45 of which are in the cast. "It is one of the largest productions the workshop has ever presented," said Miss Jones.

This is Dr. Yeater's second production in the festival, the first being "As You Like It" in 1959. Other productions by the workshop were "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Twelfth Night" directed by Mr. Frank Byers, chairman of ASU's Drama department.

Also in this Shakespearian series is Phoenix Little Theater's production of "Hamlet," April 6-8, and Arizona State College's presentation of "King Richard III," April 13-15.

All productions for the festival begin at 8:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased through the Cultural Affairs box office in the Memorial Union or at the Phoenix Civic Center at McDowell and First St. Student tickets are $1.75 per show or four dollars for the entire series.

Prospector Sets Spring Deadline

April 15 is the deadline for submitting manuscripts to the Prospector.

The compositions for the campus literary publication can be given to English instructors or the English department office. May 8 is the tentative issue date for the spring issue of the magazine.

There are three major writing areas, poetry, fiction and non-fictional prose and critical essays. A limit of 2,000 words is set for both prose and essays.

It's easy to feel that way when you can't seem to get ahead of financial woes. But, things probably aren't as bad as they seem. A good way to begin your financial planning is through life insurance. And a good time to begin is now, when you'll profit by lower premiums. Many new plans and features, especially attractive to college students, deserve your consideration.

Campus Security Reports Petty Thefts; Reminds Students To Lock Up Valuables

By BING BROWN

The Department of Campus Security reports that during the past week there have been six petty thefts which netted some $137 dollars and 30 cents in cash and materials.

There was one grand theft. Hubcaps valued at $50 were taken from a faculty member's car. One burglary was reported in Hayden Hall, in which cash and property worth $31 was taken.

Some 32 moving vehicle citations were issued during the week.

Campus officers reported eight illegal consumption cases, while Tempe city police reported four students involved in such actions.

There was also one dormitory violation, in which a girl was out all night without signing out.

Lieutenant Norman Peck has reported that the campus police have five unclaimed bicycles in their possession.

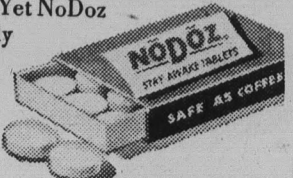

In connection with the above mentioned thefts, students are re-reminded (cq) to lock their rooms and lockers and put away all valuables. Lt. Peck maintains that such action would greatly reduce the number of thefts.

Election Delay Is Rumor -- Brown

Rumored postponement of the elections because of Easter vacation intervention is not so said Tom Brown, Elections board chairman, at the Executive Council meeting Monday.

The campaign rally will be at 7:30 p.m. in the MU ballroom, April 11, before the primary election April 12. All candidates will be introduced and speeches will be given by ASASU officers and the Presidents of AWS and AMS.

Linda Rankin, ASU junior, suggested some revisions for the Homecoming celebration. She proposed electing a Homecoming Queen who would reign for the whole week of Homecoming with her two attendants. (Previously, a Homecoming King and Queen were elected and reigned the night of the Homecoming game only.)

Also, only the ASU band would be scheduled to play at half-time.

Dick Finley, ASU Executive Manager, reported it had been recommended new cement benches replace the present ones on campus. The new benches won't have advertising on them.

John Sumners, ASASU activities vice president, and Karl Dennison, ASASU president, lunched with Governor Fannin Monday. They presented him with etchings and recordings featuring San Francisco from James Warnock, publicity director of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, in commemoration of the MU Birthday Party.

Les Miller, ASASU first vice president, said the Board of Publications decided to have a classified ad section in the State Press. Details are not completed as yet.

Movie Scheduled

Films of the NCAA tournament played in Portland recently will be shown tonight at 7:30, BA 204.

Sponsored by the AMS Quarterback Club, the showing is open to anyone and will feature the games played with Southern California, Oregon and Utah.

Doesn't it seem strange, with all the beautiful weather we have we can not have a little fresh air in our library?

Why aren't the convenient mail shutes in the SS building being used? They were probably a big cost factor in the construction of the building.

Found: One small type sports car in the gigantic hole in the intersection of College and Orange. Owner may claim car at campus maintenance.

In The Student Interest: ASU is having an exchange with Mexico next week. Don't forget to see the Mexican Consul in Phoenix. It costs you three dollars to get a tourista pass. See you there.

We would implicate the State Press if we thought it would ever get in the paper.

Other Adventures in the SS-Building: Painter was seen a couple of weeks ago smoking a cigarette painting a sign on the second floor main door — Sign: NO SMOKING.

Creative Writing Contest Announced By Department

The second annual Glendon and Katherine Swarthout creative writing contest in poetry and prose fiction was announced yesterday by the English department.

Winners in the contest's poetry and prose divisions will receive $50 each. Second prize winners will receive $25 each.

May 1 is the entry deadline. Award winners will be announced May 11, after selection by an English faculty committee.

Any eligible student may submit as many manuscripts as he wishes, but he must submit each work separately.

Manuscripts must be typewritten on 8 1/2 x 11 inch paper and have adequate margins. They may be brought to 114-A, English building, or mailed to the English department, in care of the Swarthout Contest.

Entries should be unfolded, in an envelope and have student's name, address, and title of his work on the outside of the envelope.

To insure a maximum of objectivity in judging the contest, students should not place their names on the manuscripts. Students also are reminded to keep a carbon copy of submitted manuscripts.

Dr. Swarthout, noted author and former faculty member at Michigan, Michigan State, and Maryland before joining the ASU faculty, began the contest last year to encourage ASU creative writers.

He is the author of the best sellers "They Came to Cordura" and "Where the Boys Are," both of which were made into movies.

Men More Conscious Of Clothes They Wear

By O. E. SCHOEFLER

Fashion Director, Esquire Magazine

University men are becoming much more aware of fashion ideas in apparel. The changes nowadays are more rapid, as is indicated by some of the fashions reported by stores and designers.

Easter vacation time draweth nigh, and men are turning thoughts away from differential calculus or Chaucer and concentrating on dazzling the hometown belles with fashion acumen.

The "big three" choices for university men this season are muted glen plaids in worsteds or blends; soft flannel or unfinished worsteds; and hairline stripes. In all of these, and particularly in the plaids, the outstanding color is olive. Expect to see plenty of the soft greenish cast that topped top fashion honors last year and also new variations on the olive theme... olives with golden, bluish or blackish casts.

Runner-up color is a basic medium grey. Also being considered is black with half-inch white chalk stripes (very new in tropical worsted) and the new checks.

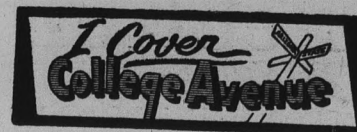

The favored silhouette continues to be our native three-button Natural Shoulder or a version thereof. This styling achieves its look of easy simplicity through careful attention to many small details. Look for a soft natural shoulder, straight hanging jacket lines, center vent and flap pockets. Single row stitching with a raised welt accents collar, lapels, sleeve and back seams and pockets.

Trousers are plain, pleatless and tapered.

Cuff jackets should be short enough to allow at least a half-inch of shirt cuff to show. Ditto on the jacket collar to give it proper slope. Trousers should be long enough to just break over the instep.

Speaking of shirts, the button-down collar models in white or pale pastels are almost de rigueur with a traditional suit.

In shoes this season, most popular are the plainer models: slip-ons in dark brown or plain tip ties in brown or one of the burnished olives.

By BING BROWN

Last Friday, Greek Week games were held in the old stadium. They were supposed to start at 7 p.m., but for one reason or another, they were held up for practically half an hour.

This in itself would not have been so bad, but as the evening progressed, every event seemed to drag. Finally, about 11:30, the finals of the chariot race were held, ending the evenings festivities.

During the four-hour period, some ten of twelve different events were held. Each one of these events took up little more than 5 minutes.

Why then was it necessary to use four hours?

One of the reasons is obvious. Little was done to keep the events moving smoothly. At times, everyone was on the field, and it might have been easier to hold the next event in the stands.

Would it not have been possible to have contestants for each event notified over the public address system that they were next? In other words, just as in a baseball game, one batter is at the plate, another is on the "on deck" circle, and still a third is picking out his bat.

If the games were run off more quickly, everyone might have enjoyed them more, especially those who were not competing.

On still another subject, we of the "Palo Verde Clock Watchers Society" were pleasantly surprised Sunday night. The clock in the lobby was only one-and-a-half minutes late. Will wonders never cease? That's the closest it's been to Mountain Standard Time since the organization was founded.

Easter vacation is coming fast upon us and with its dizzying pace, comes plans for trips, trips and more trips. The car in front of the Memorial Union graphically illustrates what can happen if one is not careful. Take it easy on the road (and the bottle) so that you can be back to put up with all the things wrong with ASU. Or if you don't believe in a negative attitude, so that you can enjoy all the things right with it.

It sure is nice to be able to park near the Library in the evenings. Some people may stay around the campus, just so that they can put the new parking space into use. Oh well, it will be here after Easter vacation. Just think, a faculty lot too. Students, take heart... your rights will be upheld. Are there any other lots that can be commandeered?

One final thing... this is the last weekend that the Snowbowl near Flagstaff will be open for skiing. Its been real nice up north and a combination of the Grand Canyon Easter Sunrise Services and a little skiing might be a wonderful way to start the vacation.

The STATE PRESS, distributed by the campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi under the direction of Circulation Manager Charles Higeman, is the official campus newspaper of Arizona State University. It is published each Wednesday and Friday throughout the school year, excepting holidays, and is entered as second class matter at the Tempe, Arizona, Post Office under the Acts of March 3, 1879, and August 24, 1912. Subscription price, $3 per school year. The STATE PRESS is a member of the Arizona Newspapers Association, Associated Collegiate Press and National Advertising Service, Inc.

We are prohibited to run letters that are not hand-signed by their authors, but we feel there will be lasting hard feelings by one author, identified only as "An Observer," should we not try to clarify some misunderstandings.

"After reading the letter 'Thanks' from the Memorial Union Staff," our observer wrote, "I have to voice my opinion."

"Not one word of appreciation was extended to the men in the grey pants and matching shirts or the woman in the green and white uniform who have worked all week cleaning up after the Party."

The writer, of course, was referring to the fifth annual MU Birthday Party, Mar. 18.

"I am sure that if the students who painted the windows had to wash the paint off, they wouldn't be quite so anxious to paint them again."

"Not only have the custodians had a job, but what about the fellow that works for Saga Foods that had the 'pleasure' of washing and scrubbing the paint off of the windows of the Faculty Lounge?"

"I also wonder if Bob Svob, who tries to beautify the campus, appreciates the black dirt around and on the flowers at the main entrance of the building."

"Of course, there are the marks and stains that will remain with the building..."

"If the MU is to be the center of life on our campus, why not try to make it look like something to be proud of, rather than looking like a child's discarded toy? Just think what our campus would look like if a separate Birthday Party was held for each building in that respective building!..."

Well, Observer, we are glad you have voiced your opinion. Our only regret is that such a huge student project as the party has left a sour taste with you.

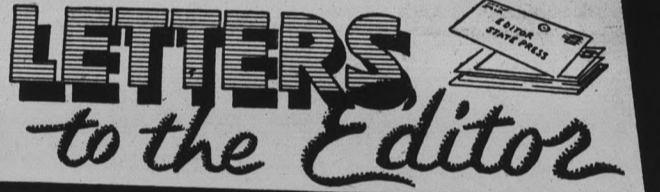

First, we'd like you to know the MU Staff has done more than merely thank Saga Food by commending ASU's branch of the food service in a special letter to the national office.

The men in grey and women in green have been paid as well as thanked. And we would thank over and over the hundreds of students who thought enough of this "living memorial" building to take time, energy and spirit to come decorate it and honor its fifth birthday. Their spirit and energy, their observance of the Memorial Union's significance is the very stuff of any memorial.

Permanent stains? We'll be happier to recognize these stains as ones established by efforts toward creativity than to frown at the deliberate slashes on the couches in the lounges, the cigarette burns stepped into the carpeting, the remarks on the rest room walls some people had "the pleasure" of etching.

In case there's the slightest chance of some worker not being thanked, we'll take the liberty of doing it now.

AFTER-THOUGHT—"He who laughs last... has found a new meaning"...

Don't Have To Have To

To the Editor:

I would like to call to your attention that just one short year ago a bitter controversy was raging on our campus about the Military Ball. At that time, the affair was compulsory for all cadets of the Army and Air Force ROTC. As a result, there was a great deal of ill feeling created against the military.

This year it was decided to have the "Ball" on a voluntary basis. It turned out to be a huge success. The Campus Police that were on duty remarked afterward, that it was one of the most orderly affairs of its size, they had ever seen.

This achievement was gained through no little effort on the part of those concerned. The military, such as Pershing Rifles, the sponsors, and civilians like Johnny Walker and George Neblett, gave their time and talent. Members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity even answered at a last minute plea for help.

It took hard work and cooperation but the Cadre and Cadets of the Army and Air Force proved that the Military Ball can stand on its own merits without compulsion.

Richard A. Strombres

YDs Defended

To the Editor:

In response to Mr. Cereghino's congratulatory letter, I must clarify some of the misleading implications presented.

The Arizona State University Young Democrats presented a panel discussion on which three professors discussed the loyalty oath, its conceivable effect on academic freedom, its possible abuse and the measure's legality. Questions from the floor were also received and discussed.

In light of these facts, how then can Mr. Cereghino say the program was presented "under the guise of a panel discussion?"

A panel discussion was offered. A panel discussion was held. A number of different opinions were exchanged.

I challenge Mr. Cereghino's use of the term hoodwinked. Anyone with average college intellectual capacity knows it means "to prevent from seeing the truth." The panel presented the "truth." The "truth" was discussed.

Approximately 75 people did attend the event, but if they were displeased there were no mandatory provisions preventing them from leaving.

I advise Mr. Cereghino not to use words he does not fully understand.

Letter Says Commie Talk 'Nonsense' Conrad The Campus Cop

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on the Communist scare now prevalent on this campus.

It seems to me that the real purpose of Dean Shofstall and other Red-hunters is to oppose liberalism, not Communism. Dean Shofstall admitted at a recent meeting that he knows of no Communists on the ASU campus. Yet Dr. Shofstall insisted that students' belief in liberalism will eventually lead to Communism.

Dean Shofstall said that many youths suffer from "ten delusions." Included among these "delusions" were the principles of sociology and psychology, belief in separation of the church and state, and a belief in logical relativism.

The Dean said that if students believe the truth is relative and ever-changing, they will be easy prey for Communism.

I think such talk is nonsense. A true liberal abhors Communism. He knows the viciousness, ruthlessness and dogmatism of Communism. Far from being relativist, Communism is the most absolute, dogmatic system that exists. Communists do not permit individualism, nonconformity, or other concepts that liberals favor. Thus, I can see no logical reason why liberalism leads to Communism. Indeed, I believe that the dogmatism of Dean Shofstall and other anti-Communists is more akin to the Red system.

On economic issues, I agree almost entirely with Dean Shofstall. I support free enterprise in economics. But I am confident that free enterprise can win out without being enforced by a police state. We must have a free market of ideas and beliefs as well as in commodities.

We are too smart to succumb to Red wiles. I hope we are equally wary of the anti-civil liberties brand of anti-Communism now being peddled. Either system will destroy the American republican government.

HAPPINESS CAN'T BUY MONEY

With tuition costs spiralling ever upward, more and more undergraduates are investigating the student loan plan. If you are one who is considering the "Learn Now, Pay Later" system, you would do well first to study the case of Leonid Sigafos.

Leonid, the son of an upholsterer in Straitened Circumstances, Idaho, had his heart set on going to college, but his father, alas, could not afford to send him. Leonid applied for a Regents Scholarship, but his reading speed, alas, was not very rapid—two words an hour—and before he could finish the first page of his test the Regents had closed their brief cases crossly and gone home. Leonid then applied for an athletic scholarship, but he had, alas, only a single athletic skill—balancing a stick on his chin—and this, alas, aroused only passing enthusiasm among the coaches.

He had, alas, only a single athletic skill.

And then, huzzah, Leonid learned of the student loan plan: he could borrow money for his tuition and repay it in easy monthly installments after he left school!

Happily Leonid enrolled in the Southeastern Idaho College of Woodpulp and Restoration Drama and happily began a college career that grew more happy year by year. Indeed, it became altogether ecstatic in his senior year because Leonid met a coed named Salina T. Nem with hair like beaten gold and eyes like two squirts of Lake Louise. Love gripped them in its big moist palm and they were betrothed on the Eve of St. Agnes.

Happily they made plans to be married the day after commencement—plans, alas, that never were to come to fruition because Leonid, alas, learned that Salina, like himself, was in college on a student loan, which meant that he had not only to repay his own loan when he left school but also Salina's, and the job, alas, that was waiting for Leonid after graduation at the Boise Raccoon Works simply did not pay enough, alas, to cover both their loans, plus rent and food and clothing.

Sick at heart, Leonid and Salina sat down and lit Marlboro Cigarettes and tried to find an answer to their problem—and, sure enough, they did! I do not know whether or not Marlboro Cigarettes helped them find an answer; all I know is that Marlboros taste good and look good, and when things close in and a feller needs a friend and the world is black as the pit from pole to pole, it is a heap of comfort and satisfaction to be sure that Marlboros will always provide the same unflinching pleasure, the same unstinting quality, in all times and climes and conditions. That's all I know.

Leonid and Salina, I say, did find an answer—a very simple one. If their student loans did not come due until they left school, why, then they just wouldn't leave school! So after receiving their bachelor degrees, they re-enrolled and took masters degrees. After that they took doctors degrees, loads and loads of them, until today Leonid and Salina, both aged 78, both still in school, hold doctorates in Philosophy, Humane Letters, Jurisprudence, Veterinary Medicine, Civil Engineering, Optometry, and Dewey Decimals. Their student loans, as of last January 1, amounted to a combined total of eighteen million dollars, a sum which they probably would have found great difficulty in repaying had not the Department of the Interior recently declared them a National Park.

Letter On Movie Received

To the Editor:

I should like to point out why the film, "Operation Abolition," gives a seriously distorted view of the events which took place in San Francisco on May 12-14, 1960.

First we are shown a huge student demonstration against the House Un-American Activities Committee but at no time are we informed of the events which produced that demonstration. The facts are: The committee had come to California the year before, in a storm of publicity, and had subpoenaed 110 teachers in the state to appear before the committee. Either through error or by intention the names of the teachers became public, and they were therefore damned by implication before the hearing.

The hearing itself never took place. The committee suddenly decided to call off the hearing and leave the state, after having done its damage. These same teachers were subjected to social and economic pressures, all without a chance to defend themselves in a hearing or trial.

Why had the committee called off the hearings? Evidently because it had not a shred of legal evidence to back up its accusations.

The committee's activities in California were condemned by the Episcopal Diocese of California, the Southern California-Arizona Conference of the Methodist Church, the San Francisco Chronicle, the California State Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, the San Francisco Call-Bulletin, the Los Angeles Mirror-News, and the American Federation of Teachers.

But the actual distortions in the film are less important than its repeated assumption that anyone who openly criticizes an activity of our government is a Communist or a Communist dupe, an assumption which at bottom is totalitarian and genuinely un-American. Through its activities, its unjust persecution the HUAC is doing more to help the Communists than to fight them.

Puzzling Rules

To the Editor:

Puzzling little rules on our "University's" campus concerning the consumption of alcoholic beverages, which have proven most amusing:

Strange, isn't it, that the State of Arizona and the United States of America declare persons 21 years of age to be legally free to consume whatever beverage they choose, but our "University" allows no one to return to a campus residence with the smell of liquor on his breath. Let us hasten to add that we mean to criticize treatment given persons proven to have been drinking, not drunken.

How pitiful are the creatures who strive so desperately to find a secure nook in life for themselves by lurking in the background and reporting to the Powers that Be just who had a cocktail on his date tonight.

How contemptible indeed for some members of a council we know to engage in this type of informing when they have been often and unmistakably recognized with liquor in hand an hour or two before returning to a residence hall. How bad is bad?

Survey Reveals Steak Preferred

"Students prefer steak or roast beef for dinner," said Dick Munkachy, director of food services at ASU.

In a recent survey, students indicated their food preferences for each meal. According to Munkachy these preferences "haven't changed much over the past few years."

The primary items of most popularity were scrambled eggs for breakfast; hamburger or hot beef sandwich for lunch; steak or roast beef for dinner. Munkachy said, "We cater to these preferences."

The survey showed that most students like beef cooked medium rare or well done.

The purpose of the survey is to indicate any changes in menu or preparation that should be made. The survey is taken each year at the three cafeterias on campus. These cafeterias are operated by Saga Food Service, a national catering company. The company operates cafeterias on approximately 88 campuses.

A sign over the door leading from the kitchen into the MU cafeteria says, "If you are not proud of it don't serve it."

The Delta Chi social fraternity at the State University of Iowa recently pledged a Negro member for the first time in its history at the school.

Lectures Scheduled

A series of six lectures on computer fundamentals and applications is scheduled this month at ASU.

The series is arranged by the ASU Industrial Education department and the General Electric Computer department.

G.E. personnel who will be featured are computer experts George G. Barriger, senior product service instructor, speaking April 10 and 12, and Robert S. Gillett, computer application engineer, speaking April 17, 19, 24 and 26.

The lectures are scheduled for the 9:40 Monday-Wednesday class on electronics in industry, taught by Robert P. Balin, faculty associate.

The Easter Story —

Easter Celebration Varies In Style

(Last in a Series of Five)

From Paris, Ill., to Paris, France, from Sweden to Syria, Christians find hope and joy in Easter. They also find different ways to celebrate the holiday.

In France and some other European countries, church bells do not ring from Good Friday to Easter. According to a legend uncovered by Mrs. Francine Klagsbrun, religion editor of World Book Encyclopedia, the bells fly to Rome. On their way back for Easter, they drop the eggs which children find.

Germans color eggs green on Maundy Thursday and carry them around all day for good luck. The Shrove Tuesday festival is called Fastnacht, or fast night, in Germany and Switzerland.

The English are especially careful to wear new clothes, because an old rhyme warns, "At Easter let your clothes be new, or else be sure you will rue." The custom of wearing new clothes comes from the early days of Christianity, when newly baptized persons were dressed in white linen garments. Easter has always been a favorite time for baptism.

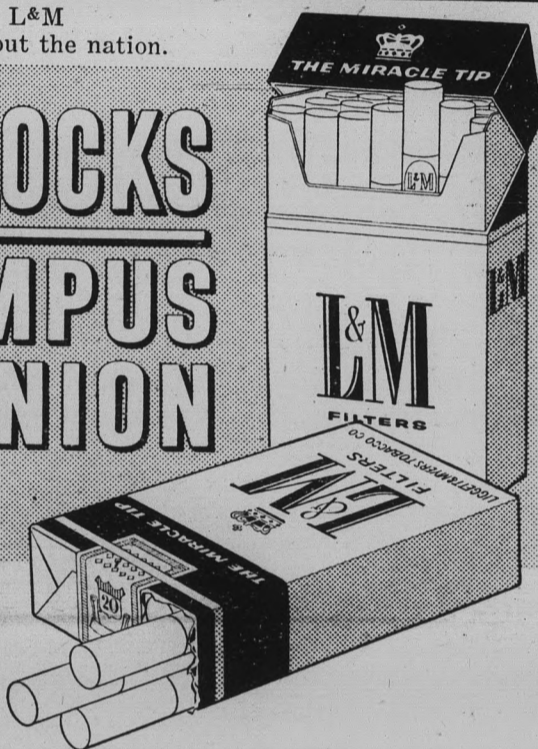

Religious processions mark Good Friday in Spain. Sometimes the processions include pasos, or wooden figures mounted on platforms which represent scenes from the last week in Christ's life. Easter Day is celebrated with dancing and bullfights.

Children in Denmark and Norway trim birch branches with paper streamers on Shrove Tuesday and playfully beat their elders until they receive hot cross buns. During Lent, Swedish people decorate their houses with birch twigs trimmed with chicken feathers.

In the United States, New York City's Easter parade and the White House egg-rolling contest are well-known customs. In Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, the trombone choir of the Moravian church awakens the people early on Easter morning, and they sing and pray as they wait for the dawn. Outdoor sunrise services are observed in many places, such as the Hollywood Bowl in California and the Hawaiian Punchbowl, overlooking Honolulu.

Survey Shows Lot Lacks Usage

A recent survey shows that the parking facilities in Lot C, behind the Library and Arts building, are not being utilized to the fullest, according to Gayle Shuman, director of Campus Security.

During evening class time there have been considerable vacant spaces. To date this lot has been restricted 24 hours a day from Monday through Friday.

By lifting this restriction at 4 p.m. each day, this lot can be used to its capacity, thus relieving the pressure of other overcrowded lots, said Shuman.

The change will be effective April 10.

Motion On The Floor —

Adjournment OK If Fire Is Present

A privileged motion is one which takes immediate precedence over another, such as a point of order. In other words, it must be resolved immediately. A question of privilege is a motion referring to the immediate welfare of the group individually or collectively.

For example, let us assume that we are in the gallery of the ASASU Student Senate. All of a sudden, certain left wing elements appear and begin to bodily remove some of those more recalcitrant Senators who oppose the voluntary ROTC bill. The senators in question may raise a point of personal privilege, stating that they would like the chair to restore order in the senate chambers.

Not a few individuals have been ridden rough shod over in the process of nominations and elections. Take the case of Osmond Grunch. He had been scheming for months to get elected to his club's highest office — that of Most Eminent Hero.

Nominations were opened and Bueford Clappsaddle was nominated first. Then someone moved that the nominations be closed, they were closed, and Clappsaddle, with no opposition, won by a landslide. Strictly speaking, Grunch doesn't have any legal grounds to stand on in the ensuing vehement objections.

However, permitting this type of railroading was highly unethical on the part of the chair. The chair is morally bound to protect the minority, and a premature motion to close nominations should be disregarded until it is apparent there are no more nominations.

There are some other important things to remember about nominations and elections. Nominations do not require a second. When there is obviously no opposition for the office or offices, and when ample opportunity has been given for nominations from the floor, the motion to CLOSE NOMINATIONS AND INSTRUCT THE SECRETARY TO CAST A BALLOT FOR THE NOMINEE is in order.

This simply amounts to a unanimous election and if there is one negative vote, the motion is defeated. The motion to SUSPEND THE RULES AND ELECT BY ACCLAMATION is in order only when the constitution permits suspension of the election rules. Even when permitted by the constitution, this procedure usually requires a

Schlesinger Set As Keynoter

The ASU Psychology department will sponsor the third annual workshop on clinical problems, Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Herbert J. Schlesinger, chief clinical psychologist of the adult services at Menninger Clinic, will be the keynote speaker at the 7 p.m. meeting in the BA building.

His address, "Interaction of Reality and Dynamic Factors in the Clinical Interview," will be followed by discussion of the paper by Dr. Will Strachan, Phoenix psychiatrist.

KASN Staff Taking Poll Of Audience

KASN, ASU's radio station, is conducting a listenership survey of all on-campus students.

The survey began yesterday and will continue throughout the week.

Jerry Boch, KASN Commercial Business Manager, said he hoped this survey will bring about a better and more spirited campus radio network.

"We can only ask for cooperation of the students in this undertaking. The importance of this is only as important as mass media communications is to the students here at ASU," Boch said.

The results of the survey will lead to a better broadcast schedule and reception.

Hostesses Practice Proper Graciousness Procedures

Any girl can learn the art of graciousness while providing a service for ASU by joining the Freshman Hostess Committee.

Mrs. Ellen M. Bell, sponsor and assistant MU director, explained the girls are trained, through lectures and demonstrations, how to answer the telephone, serve at teas, introduce and make people feel at ease and welcome.

During one meeting the members taped their voices, analyzed them and decided where and how they could be improved.

At other meetings, representatives from two model agencies discussed clothing selection, make-up, hair styles, and figure control.

Members of the hostess committee, besides being on hand to answer questions during the day at the MU information desk, usher and serve at different events in the MU and other buildings on campus.

Officially sponsored by the AWS Council, the Freshman Hostess Committee was started in fall, 1957, with 30 freshmen women. They now total 72, all outfitted with turquoise-blue sheath-dress "uniforms" which they made themselves.

"Experience as a hostess is a spring-board to other activities on campus. The girls become acquainted with most of the organizations on campus and thus find where their interests lie," Mrs. Bell concluded.

Towards the end of the school year, members are to learn leadership techniques of serving on committees and/or being a committee chairman.

Summer Tours And Jobs Are Offered To European And American Students

Reduced traveling rates, planned tours and summer jobs are being offered to American and European college students by the American Student Information Service.

John Bachert, ASU sophomore, said this summer ASIS is offering their program to European students as well as American students.

Bachert worked in a hospital in Germany last summer and earned enough money to pay for his board and room while there.

ASIS has made arrangements for 1,850 paying jobs this summer in Germany, Switzerland, France, England, Spain, Scandinavia, Israel and Portugal. These jobs include farm work, resort and hotel work, factory work, child care, construction work and hospital work for periods of four to eight weeks.

Bachert added that participants are not required to apply for a job but if they do, they should be prepared to work hard.

"The European working day is longer and harder than they may be accustomed to," he added.

To qualify for a job the student must be 17 years or older and meet the minimum language requirement. The language requirement can be acquired with a month's use of language records which are sent to all ASIS member-participants.

ASIS was founded to "promote better understanding among the people of different nations through practical application, educational and recreational activities," Bachert concluded.

"If we are going to take advantage of the assumption that all people want peace, then the problem is for people to get together and to leap governments . . . if necessary to evade government . . . to work out not one method, but thousands of methods by which people can gradually learn a little bit more about each other," said Dwight D. Eisenhower at the White House Conference, Sept. 11, 1956. This is the philosophy of ASIS.

Further information concerning ASIS tours and job placement may be obtained from the American Student Information Service, Jahnstrasse 56 - a, Frankfurt/Main, Germany.

Add Four Victories

Diamonders Still Winning

ASU opened a four-game baseball series against Wyoming Monday with a 7-0 victory, sparked by the two hit pitching of Sterling Slaughter.

Prior to Monday's contest, the Devils swept a three game series with Utah with a 14-1 win Friday and a 4-3 and 7-4 doubleheader sweep Saturday.

Slaughter had a no-hitter going for 6 2/3 innings Monday before the Cowboys got to him for a pair of safeties in the seventh. He struck out 10 and walked three, as he chalked up victory number five of the season.

The game was scoreless until the fourth inning when the Devils pushed across four runs. They added two in the fifth and one in the eighth.

Larry Brion led ASU hitters with three singles in four trips to the plate, two runs and two runs batted in.

In the opener of Saturday's Utah doubleheader, the Devils came from behind to tie the game at three-all and won it in the bottom of the seventh inning on a single by Paul Runge which drove in the clinching run.

Slaughter, working in relief of starter Roger Barnson, notched the win.

Second baseman Mike Matsik hit ASU's only home run of the game, a blast off the scoreboard in right field with one

Devils Win 19th Straight

Arizona State thumped Wyoming 9-3 yesterday afternoon on Sun Devil diamond to stretch its current winning streak to 19 games.

The undefeated Sun Devils will try to make it 20 in a row this afternoon at 3:30 when they send Sam Cook (3-0) to the mound against the Cowboys. Cook pitched a no-hitter against Utah State last Thursday.

Roger Barnson, working in relief of starter Gary Graham, notched his third win of the season yesterday. He pitched 7 1/3 innings and scattered seven hits, allowing only one run. He struck out six and allowed no bases on balls.

Ed Littleton led ASU hitters with a home run and two singles in five at bats. It was his third homer of the season.

Bob Kavagian broke into the lineup in left field and promptly showed he wants to keep a starting berth by smashing three hits, including a double, and driving in two runs.

Barnson helped his own cause with two hits, one a two-bagger, and two runs batted in.

out in the fourth.

The Sun Devils picked up a 1-0 lead in the first inning of Saturday's second game and were never headed as they added two in the second, two in the fifth, one in the sixth and a final run in the eighth.

Mike Tatum, last year's winningest pitcher with a 9-3 record, picked up victory number four against no defeats as he scattered 10 Utah hits and whiffed 12 Wildcat batters.

Friday the Devils had little trouble with the Wildcats as they pounded out 16 hits for their fourteen runs and played errorless ball.

Starting pitcher Harley Anderson was the winner for ASU, picking up his third victory of the season. He had relief from Ramiro Lujan and John Miller.

Runge blasted his fourth home run of the season with two on in the first inning and added a single later in the game.

BYU Tracksters Battle Demons

Arizona State's cindermen meet Brigham Young tomorrow night in a dual meet at Goodwin Stadium with field events scheduled to begin at 7:30 and running events at 8.

The Devils come into the meet after an impressive showing in the Santa Barbara Easter Relays last Saturday.

The mile relay duel between Arizona State and Southern Cal Saturday was all that was expected and then some. Although the two teams failed in their attempt for a new national record due to poor conditions, they finished in a disputed dead heat for first place with identical 3:10.6 clockings.

In doing so, they came within two tenths of a second of equaling the fastest time in the nation this year — 3:10.4 by ASU in the SPAAU meet earlier this month.

Gaston Green turned in one of the outstanding performances of the day Saturday as he won the high hurdles against several of the top hurdlers in the West. Green's 14.2 time was his fastest this season.

ASU sprinter Hubie Watson defeated a tough field as he breezed to a 9.5 clocking in the hundred-yard dash, beating Doug Smith of Occidental and Larry Dunn of Arizona.

Arizona State's 880 relay team edged UCLA for second place behind USC.

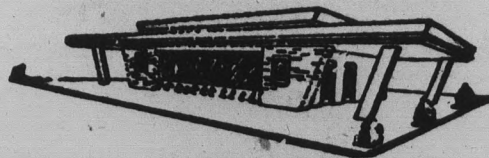

Joe Caldwell placed fourth in the high jump at 6-4 and John Rose and Don Jeisy tied for fourth in the pole vault at 14-0.

It grows almost like Jack's beanstalk

To him, it's amazing. To teeming millions in crowded areas of the world, it's a new source of hope — of better food, a richer life.

For in food crops, astonishing new growth is being released by the green thumb of science.

One striking development in agriculture, for instance, is plant foods created by the people of Standard's ORTHO Division.

These plant foods come in dry pellet form... and can literally be "rained" on fields by plane. They can increase yields of fruit and vegetables 100%, make pastures rich enough to graze five times more livestock.

Imagine what advances like these can mean to the peoples of other free world nations. Our field men see it... working with farmers and the land in 70 countries. Poor soil becomes fertile; plants become rich in nourishment.

And this has a larger meaning... more food brings more vitality to peoples of crowded lands, a stronger economy... a healthier soil for the growth of freedom.
