Reason For Postponement —

Board Disqualifies ASASU Candidate

Dick Shaw is disqualified as a candidate for ASASU president.

The decision was reached by the Election Board at 4 p.m. yesterday. The disqualification was based on Shaw's infraction of the Election Code by bringing illegal campaign material on campus.

SB 113 Article V, Section B states that all other materials other than 5 posters and 2 banners shall be illegal.

Shaw's defense centered around the fair market value of the trailer and rocket parked in front of the Memorial Union. He stated that he rented this material and for that reason could not be considered in the legality of fair market value for donations.

Legal advisor for ASASU, Bud Bartlett, was quoted by Tom Brown, Election Board chairman, as saying this material was illegal if strict interpretation was given to the law.

A smaller infraction concerning posters was also considered. The Election Code states that posters may either be printed or picture. In this interpretation, the picture which Shaw had on the trailer was illegal since it exceeded the maximum of five.

The vote for disqualification was 5 for, 1 against, and 1 abstaining.

Another matter, a smear campaign against Frank Hennig, candidate for ASASU president, was discussed.

The Election Board received a letter of protest from Sharon Fuller and Don Kunkel concerning various posters proclaiming Hennig to be "pro-red," to have a "shady past." The posters are signed by the "Student Committee on Un-American Activities."

The protesters called for an election postponement until April 19 in order to investigate the smear tactics.

The board voted this suggestion down saying that any smear campaign can hold up an election. By postponing this election, more candidates would be hurt and put them at a disadvantage.

Brown stated that the matter would be handed to local law enforcement agencies for investigation.

Student Government Posts Sought By 70 Competitors

Editor's Note: This issue of the newspaper was set aside as the Spring Election Edition. Due to action last night at 9:45 when the State Press was ready to go to press, the grammatical tense of the election story reads as if the election were still to be held today. We suggest you keep this paper for next week's delayed primary election.

ASU's primary election, previously scheduled today, was postponed last night by the ASASU Supreme Court to provide for a hearing for ASASU presidential candidate Richard Shaw, who yesterday afternoon was deemed disqualified by the Election Board.

ASASU, Associated Men Students, Associated Women Students and senate candidates are presented in this State Press.

The primary election has been postponed until April 19; the general election, which was set for April 19, will be April 26.

Shaw's case will be brought before the court tomorrow, Supreme Court Justice Fred Koory said last night.

Selections on the official ballot must be indicated by an "X" in the proper square for the vote to be counted, Tom Broad, Election Board chairman, emphasized.

Voting this year will be in three precincts, the northeast corner of College Ave. and Orange St.; on the lawn before the Business Administration building; and on the Old Main lawn. Activity cards will be necessary.

8 a.m. through 5 p.m. have been designated as election hours.

Presidential Hopetuls State Platforms

Five ASU men, all juniors, are in the running for ASASU president. They are Grant Allen, Frank Hennig, Dick Shaw, Jim Sult and Gary K. Walker.

Allen has a 3.88 cumulative grade index, and is an Electrical Engineering major.

He is vice president of Delta Phi honorary, supply officer of Pershing Rifles and past president of Lambda Delta Sigma.

He has won the Sons of the American Revolution Medal, the Outstanding Sophomore Cadet ribbon, and is a previous holder of the Phelps-Dodge scholarship.

Allen's platform is "to provide for the students of ASU a complete system of activities including regular assemblies, dances, programs and outings; and to assist student participation through adequate organization and publicity of these functions."

Hennig has a 3.47 cumulative and is majoring in Accounting.

He is student advisor to Alpha Mu Sigma sophomore men's honorary and member of Stray Greeks, S. A. M., Accounting club, Veterans of Foreign Wars and is a senator.

His goal is "to represent to the administration and the public to the fullest extent of my abilities the needs and desires of the student body."

Shaw has a 3.07 cumulative and is a Political Science major.

He belongs to Phi Delta Theta fraternity, Pi Keppa Delta Speech honorary, is senate parliamentarian, Arizona Inter-Collegiate Debate champion and former governor of the Model Legislature.

"Important goals for the progress of student government as proposed by a candidate for the presidency," he states, "should necessarily be defined in terms of the most important need area. After many discussions with students, faculty and administrative personnel, I feel this need lies in a revision of the constitution and statutes."

Sult has a 2.5 cumulative and is also majoring in Political Science.

He is president of the Inter-hall Council, a member of the Irish Hall council, AMS legislature and Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

Sult wants "a smooth running student organization through closer student contact and better faculty relations. This can be accomplished through: reinstatement of class councils; student control of the State Press through student government; an ASU student government semesterly publication for every student, faculty and staff member."

Walker has a 2.47 cumulative and is a Pre-Law major.

He is a member of Blue Key, Sigma Chi fraternity and Rho Phi, independent fraternity; is past chairman of the Rally and Traditions Board and of the Leadership and Organizations Board.

Campaigners erected their election posters and banners Monday, first day following Easter vacation. The primary election won't be held today, though, but was postponed until next Wednesday.

Want Ads To Start Next Issue

Classified advertising will be included in the State Press starting with Friday's edition, it was announced by Hal Hubele, advertising manager.

"The Board of Publications believes that students and faculty want want ads," Hubele said, "so we'll run them as a service."

Want ads will be limited to students and faculty. They are to be submitted to MU 207 Monday for Wednesday's State Press, and on Wednesday for Friday's issue.

Office hours are from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

No personal-type classified ads will be accepted; all ads must be paid for in advance at 10 cents a line each edition. A 35 cent minimum has been established.

given me the opportunity to realize what these desires and wishes might be. If elected, I will try to surround myself with capable individuals, giving them a free hand in their various endeavors."

Chilton, Mitchell Race For 1st V.P. Spot

Campaigning for the office of ASASU first vice president are Jim Chilton, junior; and Andy Mitchell, senior. The winner will be declared by today's voting.

Chilton, a Chemistry major, has a 2.35 cumulative.

He is a senator, a member of the Student Religious Council, Agrarians Agriculture honorary, Wesley Foundation and is a past member of the AMS legislature and freshman class council.

"I will, through positive leadership, provide the type of atmosphere within the Senate which will be conducive to individual initiative and creativeness on the part of each senator," Chilton said. "Therefore, all 35 senators will be examining and solving student problems."

Mitchell, a Philosophy and Psychology major, has a 2.86 cumulative and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity and the Education Board; is AMS treasurer and vice president of the Interfraternity Council.

"I believe that the most important branch of student government is the senate," Mitchell said. "In the past, too few students have been aware of its functions. If I am elected I will strive to make more students aware of the senate through publicity and at the same time bring closer contact between the students and their senators."

Activities V.P.: Craig or Howard?

Either Michael A. Craig or Jim Howard, both juniors, will be next year's ASASU activities vice president according to the way today's primary vote goes.

Craig is a biology major with a 2.83 cumulative.

He is chairman of the Cultural Affairs committee and is a member of Blue Key, Sigma Chi fraternity, Collegium Musicum, Concert Choir and Beta Beta Beta.

He is also former secretary and treasurer of Sahuaro Hall.

I will exert every effort to the inspiration of those around me, and to the betterment of the university, always keeping alive the motto of our Diamond Jubilee, "A Tradition of Growth . . . A Commitment to Quality," Craig said.

Howard, a Political Science major, has a 2.5 cumulative.

He is a member of Blue Key, Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and is chairman of the Social committee, on which he has served for three years. He attended the 1960 Association of College Unions conference in Albuquerque.

"My major goal in student government is better coordination and communication," Howard stated. "I could implement this goal by compiling and publicizing at the first of each month a fully coordinated calendar of Associated Students activities. This would lead to long-range planning by the committees, resulting in a more successful program."

She is a member of Alpha Phi Epsilon Secretarial honorary and is on the A. B. Robbs scholarship and the Dean's List.

EDITOR'S Scratchpad

By TOM HILTON

Easter "Regression" is over all too soon for almost all of us, but we still have the stories to tell, don't we?

A few of us spent our vacation in Mexico, all the way from Nogales to Matzatlan. While there, some of us learned from the customs and traditions of the Mexican people.

Hilton

Manners mostly. We also noted, with some surprise, the kind of questions we were asked (in Spanish) about the United States.

For example: "Do the people of the United States speak English correctly?" Or, "How bad is the racial problem in the United States?" Also they asked: "Now that Mr. Kennedy is President, will the United States help Latin America?"

Trying to answer these questions positively was a problem.

Mexico, and almost all of Latin America look to the United States for help in many ways, but the United States would benefit by taking a long look at Mexico. We would learn a lot.

Guitars seem to be standard equipment in Mexico, so we brought ours along in hopes of learning some beautiful Spanish songs. But alas, we played rock and roll songs day and night, from the parks of Hermosillo to the beach at Kino Bay. No one, it seemed, wanted to hear anything in Mexico except rock and roll and Elvis Presley. A turn for the worse we would say.

While deep in Mexico however, we heard the rumblings of the ASU party Wednesday night at Laguna Beach. Must have been a good one. It might be the last one for a while though, because there probably will be only a four day vacation next Easter. Lots of luck revelers and studiers.

The "I Cover College Avenue's" hard hitting candidate for ASASU president, Mr. Dickie Down, has withdrawn from the race. Mr. Down feels that he can give the students more by spending his campaign money in the various college hang-outs, buying the students cokes and things.

Mr. Down may have a point, especially when you consider how many people vote in the election. More people went to the MU Birthday Party than will vote in today's and next week's elections combined.

We are disappointed that Mr. Dickie Down has dropped from the campaign, but with an eye for better government, we will initiate a draught . . . Mrs. Feeley for president!

The Spartan Daily reported Jefferson Poland, a San Jose State sophomore, withdrew from school March 16 to "voluntarily" return to Florida and serve a jail sentence rather than pay a fine for participating in a lunch counter sit-in demonstration over a year ago.

A person may talk much, but not be able to express himself to his advantage when he needs to. This dilemma is acute when it involves one's inability to express one's self to his professors.

To our mercy comes Robert Tyson, of the Hunter College Psychology department.

He has nicely submitted a two-part "How to Stay in College" advice sheet, the first, categorized "Alibiography for Students," we will present here today.

We hope his advice will help you in your future back talk to teachers.

What to say . . .

... When given an objective test: "It doesn't let you express yourself."

... When given an essay test: "It's so vague. You don't know what's expected."

... When given a few major tests: "Too much depends on each one."

... When given many minor tests: "Why not have a few big ones? This keeps you on edge all the time."

... When given no tests: "It's not fair. How can you possibly judge what we know?"

... When every part of the subject is taken up in class: "Oh, you just follow the book."

... When asked to study a part of the subject yourself: "Why, we never even discussed it!"

... When the course is in lecture form: "We never get a chance to say anything!"

... When the course consists of informal lecture and discussion: "Who wants to hear the students, sir? They don't know how to teach the course."

... When detailed material is presented: "What's the use? You forget it all after the exam anyway."

... When general principles are presented: "What did we learn? We knew that before we took the course."

AFTER-THOUGHT — If you didn't notice it, we didn't even mention when Easter vacation ended in our March 29 edition. To err is human. Verily, we say unto you — classes are to start again last Monday at 7:40 a.m.

One Vote Counts

It's primary election time. There's no need to encourage students to "get up, get out and vote," because we feel those who are interested in their student government would vote anyway.

We do feel, however, a need for a livelier interest in student government. Many of us are quick to criticize student officials when they take some action we don't endorse.

But so few of us vote for our student officials. What is wrong? It doesn't take long to support our candidates by voting. It doesn't take long at all. There's no strain.

"One vote doesn't make much difference," we think so often in self defense, when we really know one vote does count . . . that it would matter if the vote were for ourselves . . . that if a dozen students took a similar defense, twelve votes would be sacrificed.

So why don't more students vote? We're at a loss for an answer.

Voting is a privilege, an important part of our democratic society. If we don't take more interest now as we study on the threshold of adult life "outside," what will we do when we emerge?

Too Few Deductions

Tax returns must be filed by Saturday.

Thousands of U.S. citizens will get money returns from federal and state government.

But many thousands of working college students will get little back and may end up on the short end of a very long stick.

We are referring to students who are working their way through college.

A recent survey revealed that the average college student spend over $1,500 a year for his education.

Yet, if this same student earns his entire college bill, he is disregarded when it comes to tax compensations. If he is single he may claim one dependent, himself, for a $600 deduction, no more.

The federal government cries for higher educated individuals, yet does nothing in the way of encouraging college students through added deductions.

We suggest the government let the student who earns money for his education deduct all expenses incurred for this education.

This would encourage our young men and women to seek a higher education even if it does mean working to meet expenses.

Letters To The Editor

Not Caustic

To the Editor:

Attention: Mr. J. Kent Butler. I had originally planned a rather caustic reply to your article, but, after careful consideration, I sincerely feel the most effective method of combating well-meaning ignorance is through kindness and understanding. So, I humbly suggest you gather all the facts before hurling challenges that could prove to be embarrassing to yourself. At your leisure, read Committee Investigator William Wheeler's statement that serious distortion does exist in the film; also, read the Reporter magazine's original expose of the confiscation and

"editing" of this film (Nov. 60) and, if this doesn't convince you, consult the ultra-conservative Time magazine's condemnation of this incident (March 17, 1961).

I do feel you owe Dean Shofstall an apology. By stating that the "liberals" refused to enter the field of battle while the opponents were under the command of the fearless Schwartz but did wantonly attack Dean Shofstall you cast considerable disparagement upon Dean Shofstall's ability to wage his own witch-hunt.

Play Ends Tonight

By JACK ONG

There was no Easter vacation for the Drama Workshop . . . vacation-wise at least. Members and volunteer helpers toiled hundreds of hours in preparing "The Merchant of Venice," which the group will perform for the last time tonight.

"The Merchant" is second in a series of three Shakespeare plays being presented as a part of the current Phoenix Festival of Arts. ASU's show opened Monday.

The plays are presented at the Phoenix Little Theatre, quite a change in working conditions from Payne Auditorium.

Under the direction of Dr. James W. Yeater, assistant Drama professor, the cast made three curtain calls for a relatively unresponsive dress rehearsal audience Sunday evening. The rehearsal itself was nearly flawless.

Enacted before one excellent, very colorful set, "The Merchant of Venice" presents to the Valley ASU's acting, make-up and stage construction abilities.

Shakespeare's blank verse is very naturally spoken by the cast. Outstanding performances are given by David Barker, as Shylock; Marjorie Jones, Portia; and James Lindell, the humorous Lancelot.

Barker, in his portrayal of the bitter, rich Jew, also rates the best make-up job. Under the spots, his "age" is extremely convincing.

Keeping a consistent, hoarse voice, Barker is also featured in an "outstanding silhouette shot immediately before a 15-minute intermission.

Miss Jones appears calm and well-versed in the female romantic lead. As the rich heiress, though, Portia's waiting maid Nerissa, played by Lynn Wood, gives a more "aristocratic" air than her lady.

Lindell, a Psychology major, keeps the audience chuckling

Teens Deliberate Traffic Problems

Delegates to the annual Arizona Teenage Traffic Association meeting at ASU voted to request that driver education courses be made available to all Arizona high school students.

The convention's resolution asks for courses consisting of both classroom and behind-the-wheel stages of driver education.

Edward Burks, of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., opening speaker at the meet, expressed disappointment that civic groups in Phoenix have failed to back a voluntary vehicle safety check. He suggested that failure to have safety check stickers be treated as a misdemeanor.

It's For Free!

The Regents of the University of Wisconsin recently passed a policy calling for elimination of student fees for state residents. Wisconsin students now pay $110 a semester.

starting from his long aside through his comical antics dotting the various scenes.

Stage lighting is effective in scene changing from location to location on the one set.

Particularly good are the court scene and the final scene that draws the play to a chuckling finale.

Characters in the background could take a bit more action, and still not distract from the central movement. At times the audience is amused at the "stone deadness" of background extras.

Other good portrayals are furnished by Michael Rost, Bassanio; and Robert Adams, who plays Antonio the merchant.

Next on the Drama Workshop's schedule is a bill of one-act plays to be presented the first of May, Dr. Yeater said.

"It's been hectic, with a pretty close schedule," he said about the Fine Arts selection.

Scholarship Contest Open To Students

F. E. Olds & Son announced its fourth annual "Scholarships in Music" contest, April 14-June 15.

Open to all juniors, seniors and graduate students in college accredited schools or departments of Music, the scholarships will be awarded for the thesis, term papers or articles completed during the current academic year. They will be judged on original thinking, sound research and intelligent objectives. The papers may be on any subject related to instrumental music.

The first scholarship award is $500, second $350, third $200. These amounts will be paid on request to any credited music school or college with accredited Music departments against tuition costs of further study.

Survey Reveals Engineer Has Top-Paying U. S. Job

Electrical engineers still lead the field in total number and top dollar offers through campus recruiting, according to a recent survey by Dr. Robert F. Menke, ASU placement director.

Average offers to electrical engineers are $553 per month followed by aeronautical engineers at $547, mechanical engineers at $541, chemical engineers at $540, and the physical sciences at $539.

Statistics show that the greatest increase in salary offers at the end of March were to Liberal arts and biological sciences candidates.

The new average for Liberal Arts and biological sciences candidates stands at $442, a $19 increase from last year.

In the non-technical areas, accounting majors lead with an average of $470 a month, followed by business students with $444 per month.

Employers offering the most money are in the field of electronics and instruments at $553; aircraft and parts at $551; electrical machines and equipment at $554; petroleum and allied products at $534; and chemicals, drugs, and allied products at $532.

Dr. Menke pointed out that the College Placement Council is a non-profit organization representing the eight regional placement associations of the United States and Canada.

Through its three surveys during the school year, the Council provides both employers and placement offices with information on current salary offers made to male, bachelor-degree candidates in the 11 most active curricula and 16 key areas of employment.

LUCKY STRIKE PRESENTS:

DEAR DR. FROOD:

DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: In college, it isn't who you know that counts—it's whom.

Dear Dr. Frood: I have a confession. All my life I have been trying to learn how to whistle. I just can't. Please, will you tell me how to whistle?

Puckered

DEAR PUCKERED: Watch the birds. Notice how they gather a pocket of air deep within the breast, then push thin jets of this air into the throat, through the larynx, up and around the curled tongue, and then bounce the air from the roof of the mouth out through the teeth (which act like the keyboard on a piano). Practice this. In no time your friends will be amazed at the beautiful, warbly trills that flow from your beak.

Dear Dr. Frood: I just can't seem to get in step with the rest of the students here. They enjoy parties, dancing, folk singing and dating. None of these things interest me at all. Am I behind the times or what?

Left Out

Dear Dr. Frood: What do you think accounts for the fact that college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular?

Marketing Student

DEAR MS: Collegiate Lucky smokers.

Dear Dr. Frood: My coach is writing this letter for me because I am illiterate. We want to know if I got to learn how to read to get into college. I am the best football player in the state.

X

DEAR X: Every college today will insist that you meet certain basic entrance requirements. I'm afraid you're just out of luck, X, unless you learn how to read diagrams and count to eleven.

Dear Dr. Frood: Hamlet killed Polonius. Macbeth stabbed Duncan. Richard murdered his little nephews. Othello strangled Desdemona, and Titus served Tamora her two sons in a pie before killing her. Don't you think this obsession with violence would make an excellent subject for a term paper?

English Major

DEAR ENGLISH: No, I don't, and my advice to you is to stop running around with that crowd.

ARE YOU READY FOR THE FLOOD? Most students today live a carefree, devil-may-care existence—buying their Luckies day to day. Only a handful have had the good sense to set aside an emergency cache of three or four Lucky cartons, wrapped in oilskin. When the dam breaks—they'll be ready. Will you?

CHANGE TO LUCKIES and get some taste for a change!

DIGITAL READOUT CAPABILITY INCREASED 2500 PER CENT. The big problem in achieving higher storage densities in magnetic disc or drum memories is not one of getting information in, but one of reading it out. To solve the problem, NCR engineers record magnetically, read optically. In their developmental MAGOP system, a beam of plane-polarized light responds to the surface magnetization of the disc or drum, enabling the system to read out five times as much linear information (25 times as much per area) as present magnetic equipment.

FOOLPROOF FIGURES HELP MACHINES "READ" BETTER. Business machines must be infallible readers, even though ink splashes, worn printing ribbons and other conditions conspire to "fool" them. To keep data accurate, NCR logical designers have created numerals that are virtually immune to variations in printing. These numerals embody a double-code reliability concept in which separate readings are taken across upper and lower portions of the figures. Optical reading permits direct processing of printed data without further intervention by a human operator, thus eliminating another possible source of error.

PAPER TAPE READING SPEED INCREASED TO 1800 CHARACTERS PER SECOND. Starting and stopping instantaneously at this rate without tearing the tape was an electromechanical problem of the first order. NCR engineers solved it with a unique direct drive which uses independent "bang-bang" servo motors for feed and take-up reels. Conventional clutching is eliminated. A 3-foot section of tape remains slack for safe, low-inertia starts, and a photoelectric system reads and checks data at the unprecedented speed of 15 feet per second.

RANDOM-ACCESS MEMORY TIME CUT FROM 3 MINUTES TO 1/5 SECOND. Each card above stores as much information as seven feet of magnetic tape. You can record the equivalent of 1800 feet of tape-stored information on the 256 cards that comprise the full memory. The cards hang from eight trunions, each of which rotates to the right or left depending upon the binary coded signal. Only the card whose die-cut top corresponds to the alignment of all eight trunions is free to fall. A pneumatic system pulls the card past the readout head and shoots it back to the magazine. Maximum access time—less than 1/5 second!

WANTED:

INCISIVE, LOGICAL THINKERS WITH IDEAS LIKE THESE

If you have done work in math, statistics, business administration or the sciences you may qualify for an important creative position at NCR. You may or may not be an engineer, but you must be a capable planner. If you are, you may use your own talent as a short cut to success.

Digital computer technology is "taking off." It is wide open to new ideas from technical and non-technical people alike, and it holds rich promise for the superior creative thinker. If you major in any of the areas listed above and have elementary knowledge of computers, you may be able to help us plan the systems of ten years from now. If you qualify, you will work with some of America's foremost computer specialists. You will earn an exceptionally good salary and you will have the satisfaction of seeing your own bright ideas contribute to widespread social, economic and cultural advancement. To learn more, be sure to reserve the date below.

Official Launches Campaign To Open Student Forum To Feature Durham

An attempt to relieve America's schools professional personnel of burdensome clerical work through technology was launched at ASU recently.

Members of ASU's College of Education asked representatives of 22 leading industrial firms to participate in a cooperative effort to develop equipment that will increase the efficiency of school operation.

The appeal came during the first national invitational conference on the challenge of school efficiency which was sponsored by the College of Education and the Valley National Bank of Phoenix.

Dr. G. D. McGrath, dean of the College of Education, confirmed the need for business and industry to team with education to improve school efficiency by best uses of teaching devices and machines, development of new types of self-instructional materials, analysis and reappraisal of the record-keeping system, and maximum use of existing facilities.

Following sessions, during which a number of faculty members and public school administrators described many of the teacher's and school administrator's clerical tasks, university educators called for a series of studies providing information which would assist industry in the development of equipment designed to increase school efficiency.

Citing research concerning the amount of time school teachers spend in the performance of non-instructional duties, the ASU educators asked for an up-to-date national survey to determine the number and variety of clerical tasks which confront the elementary and secondary teachers.

In addition to Dr. McGrath, ASU participants included Dr. G. C. Helmstadter, Dr. John B. Barnes and Dr. Robert Baker, among others.

Through annual conferences and a publication, educators will be able to describe their needs to industry, and industry will be able to inform schools of recently developed equipment which will improve educational work.

Present at the conference were representatives — largely specialists in new products, research and development personnel — of 22 firms, most of which rank among the nation's top five hundred in size. All are actual or potential manufacturers of school equipment and materials, and all have demonstrated an interest in improving American education.

Dr. G. Homer Durham, ASU president, will hold an open student forum at 3:45 p.m., April 20 in the MU upper lounge, reported Larry Ellis, chairman of the Education board, at the Executive Council meeting Monday.

During the forum, Durham will answer any questions asked by students.

Also, the swimming pool question is still being investigated. John Sampson, AMS president, previously suggested he felt the university pool wasn't being used as much as it should be by the students.

One of the reasons, he suggested, is that some students object to wearing "tank suits," which are required because of "health reasons."

Also, he noted that a few odd hours have been set aside for free or recreational swimming because those were the only times left after physical education swimming classes. Yet the revenue for the pool maintenance comes from fees paid by each student at registration, he noted.

There is talk of having an inaugural dinner honoring the new ASASU officers and Senators after the election.

J. C. Brown, chairman of the Organizations and Leadership board, said the program for the Payson Workshop is completed. The event will take place April 28-30 at Camp Tontozona, Payson, Ariz., with approximately 80 participants.

John Sumner, ASASU activities vice president, reported the scheduling of next year's MU Birthday Party will be done so as to avoid conflicts with any other event on campus.

Second Annual Writing Contest Open To Students

The second annual Glendon and Kathryn Swarhout creative writing contest is open to all ASU students, announced Dr. Collice Portnoff, chairman of the English department.

Selections will be entered in three divisions: prose, fiction, and poetry. Awards of $50 will be awarded first place winners and $25 to second place winners in each division.

All entries must be in Dr. Portnoff's office by May 1. The manuscripts will be judged by faculty members of the English department. Prizes will be awarded May 11.

Dr. Swarhout, who originated the contest to encourage creative writing on the ASU campus, has written several best-selling books and is currently lecturing in English.

Two of his more famous novels, "Where the Boys Are," and "They Came to Cordura" have been produced as motion pictures. The O. Henry Memorial Collection of Prize Stories for 1960 included his short story, "A Glass of Blessings."

Rental Deadline Set For April 21

Order deadline for faculty caps and gowns for Commencement is Apr. 21, the University Bookstore announced today.

Faculty members are advised to order the regalia in person, rather than by phone, since exact measurements and precise information as to academic degree is necessary to avoid error.

A late charge of 50 cents will be made on all orders received after Apr. 21. No faculty discount will be given on cap and gown orders.

THE DEAN YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Now in the waning days of the school year when the hardest heart grows mellow and the very air is charged with memories, let us pause for a moment and pay tribute to that overworked and underappreciated campus figure, your friend and mine, the dean of students.

Policeman and confessor, shepherd and seer, warden and oracle, proconsul and pal, the dean of students is by far the most enigmatic of all academicians. How can we understand him? Well sir, perhaps the best way is to take an average day in the life of an average dean. Here, for example, is what happened last Thursday to Dean Killjoy N. Damper of Duluth A and M.

At 6 a.m. he woke, dressed, lit a Marlboro, and went up on the roof of his house to remove the statue of the Founder which had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 7 a.m. he lit a Marlboro and walked briskly to the campus. (The Dean had not been driving his car since it had been placed on the roof of the girls dormitory by high-spirited undergraduates.)

She was placed there by high-spirited undergraduates

At 7:45 a.m. he arrived on campus, lit a Marlboro, and climbed the bell tower to remove his secretary who had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 8 a.m. he reached his office, lit a Marlboro, and met with Derther Sigafoos, editor of the student newspaper. Young Sigafoos had been writing a series of editorials urging the United States to annex Canada. When his editorials had evoked no response, he had taken matters into his own hands. Accompanied by his sports editor and two copy readers, he had gone over the border and conquered Manitoba. With great patience and several excellent Marlboro Cigarettes, the Dean persuaded young Sigafoos to give Manitoba back. Young Sigafoos, however, insisted on keeping Winnipeg.

At 9 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with Erwin J. Bender, president of the local Sigma Chi chapter, who came to report that the Deke house had been put on top of the Sigma Chi house during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 10 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and went to umpire an intramural softball game on the roof of the law school where the campus baseball diamond had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 12 noon the Dean had a luncheon meeting with the president of the university, the bursar, the registrar, and the chairman of the English department at the bottom of the campus swimming pool where the faculty dining room had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates. Marlbors were passed after lunch, but not lit owing to the dampness.

At 2 p.m., back in his office, the Dean lit a Marlboro and received the Canadian minister of war who said that unless young Sigafoos gave back Winnipeg, Canada would march. Young Sigafoos was summoned and agreed to give back Winnipeg if he could have Saskatoon. The Canadian minister of war at first refused, but finally agreed after young Sigafoos placed him on the roof of the mining and metallurgy building.

At 3 p.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with a delegation from the student council who came to present him with a set of matched luggage in honor of his fifty years' service as dean of students. The Dean promptly packed the luggage with his clothing and Marlbors and fled to Utica, New York, where he is now in the aluminum siding game.

Driver Education To Be Studied By ASU Group

The ASU division of educational research will conduct an attitude study of driver education in the high schools, Dr. John B. Barnes, division director announced last week.

The project, financed by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, will be conducted with the assistance of the Traffic Safety Division of the Arizona Highway Department.

The study, suggested by Gov. Paul Fannin's Coordinating Council, will determine the driver education attitudes of parents, high school seniors, principals and counselors in 77 Arizona towns. Charles Pemberton, supervisor of the Traffic Safety Division of the Highway Department, is chairman of the Council's study committee.

The ASU division will develop instruments for gathering and analyzing the data and will submit a final report to the Council at its first meeting in Sept. Dr. Barnes said.

Ah L'Amour

An ASU professor, introducing chemistry of carbon elements, (of which diamonds are an example) asked a coed, "What is a girl's best friend?" Her answer, "Boys!"

Macpherson will enter the five year course of architecture.

Hi again! Welcome back. Today's motto: "Mexico swings; do you?" While we were gone, the maintenance department filled in that hole at the intersection of College and Orange. Good show! To bad they didn't get that freshman out in time.

Speaking of filling in holes; the Palo Verde parking lot could use some work. It looks like an old "Kaboom" field. Also that chain blocking one of the entrances is interesting. Good Luck!

Remember the music they played at class breaks in the SS building just before Easter? We thought it was nice. Let's hear some more. It makes those ole 10:40's a little easier to take.

Good luck to the students running for office. So far the campaigns have been good. What do you say me take time out from spring games to vote.

Campus Crusade Spring Banquet Set For Tonight

Mr. Bright will be the main speaker at the spring banquet of CCC, 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Memorial Union.

Karl Dennison, ASASU president, Nolan Jones, co-captain of last year's football team, and Carol Coon, vice president of AWS, will be speakers at the program.

Also on the program will be Ralph Platt of Flagstaff, comedian and whistling artist who has made many sacred recordings.

The CCC movement, started in 1951, has spread to approximately 50 campuses across America and in Korea and Pakistan.

Banquet tickets can be purchased by dialing WO 7-4351 or writing crusade headquarters, 551 W. 17th Pl., Tempe.

Orchesis Finds Practice Pays

"Flat back . . . Arms beside ears . . . Don't bend that front leg . . . Arch that back . . . Let's see that head do something . . . Lift the leg from the hip please, not from the knee. . ."

These words are part of the warm up exercises of Orchesis, modern dance honorary.

Each Thursday night they ring out as 35 dancers meet for practice sessions.

Each semester, members present a concert besides performing for various organizations. The group recently appeared at the Valley Fine Arts Festival.

Orchesis is one of the few organized groups on campus that is directly related to fine arts. The purpose of the club is to create a greater appreciation of modern dance as a separate art form.

The organization started at ASU in 1953 with five people. It now has an active membership of 35.

Miss Margaret Gisolo, Orchesis advisor, reports that "as the number wishing to join grows larger every year, the performing group increases in ability."

"In Orchesis a meeting of many arts is found . . . music, poetry, drama, architecture, sculpture . . . all expressed in movement," Margaret DesJardin, accompanist for the group, explained.

Tracksters Win Home Dual Meets; Host USC

Arizona State's track and field team, victorious in its last two dual meet outings, faces the unenviable task of competing against the tremendous Trojans of Southern Cal in a dual meet here Saturday.

The Devils trounced BYU 80-51 here March 30 and topped the Southern California Striders 76-55 in Goodwin Stadium last Saturday.

The Striders, one of the track and field powers of the West, were without the services of several outstanding performers, among them Ron Morris, Joe Faust and Bob Humphreys. Morris and Faust are past Olympic performers.

Arizona State won ten of the 15 events against the Striders, copping seven of nine running events.

Hubie Watson and Gaston Green once again racked up double victories for Arizona State. Watson won the hundred in 9.7 and the 220 in 21.5. Green had clockings of 14.6 and 24.3 in the high and low hurdles respectively.

Don Jeisy, eyeing possible post-season decathlon competition, tied for first in the pole vault, placed second in the high jump and finished third in the broad jump.

Other ASU winners were Mal Spence (47.5) in the 440, Mel Spence (1:53.2) in the 880, Pete Anselmo (50-3½) in the shot put, Carol Lindroos (172-7½) in the discus and John Rose with a 14-0 vault to tie Jeisy in the pole vault.

The Sun Devil mile relay team, running without usual anchor man Mal Spence, turned in a respectable 3:14.9 clocking to win easily.

Highlighting next Saturday's meet with the Trojans will be the mile relay. The two teams finished in a dead heat at 3:10.6

in their last competition but since then the Trojans have cracked the three-ten mark.

Helms Names Armstrong All-American

Larry Armstrong has been honored again for his basketball talents by being presented with a third team All-American certificate by the Helms Athletic Foundation.

Armstrong, the most honored roundballer in Arizona State history, stated that he felt this recognition to be the high point in his court career.

Sweet Larry was selected to the all-Border Conference first team, second team Small Am-

The 5-9 junior has one more year to play and by virtue of playing against some of the toughest competition in the country next season, the spark-plug guard could become the first bonafide All-American to wear a Sun Devil uniform.

Despite averaging better than 19 points per game this past season and leading the Devils to their finest record in history, Armstrong best remembers the unwritten compliments voiced by the multitude of fans who swarmed Sky Harbor Airport to greet the Demons following their Cinderella effort in the NCAA regionals in Portland.

BOB VIEWS SPORTS NEWS

Winklemen Get Rest... Finally

By BOB EGER
Sports Editor

Baseball coach Bobby Winkles went fishing Monday.

It was a fishing trip he really earned. His Sun Devil nine has just undergone the most gruelling part of one of the most rigorous collegiate baseball schedules in the country.

The Devils played 26 games in 20 playing days (every day but Sunday) during the past three weeks. They won 21 of those games.

Now they have a week off before taking a swing through Southern California where they will meet Los Angeles State, Cal Poly, Loyola and the University of San Diego.

Even that sturdy pitching staff, proclaimed by Winkles to be the best in college baseball, was beginning to wilt under the strain of everyday play, untimely illness and the big bats of Michigan and Wisconsin.

Those tired arms are now resting up for the stretch run, climaxed by four games against the perennial power of the Southwest — Arizona's Wildcats.

The Devils and Cats will play two games in Tucson on the 29th of this month and will meet here for a day-night twin-bill on May 6. There's going to be a lot of baseball played in those four games.

THOSE TERRIFIC TROJANS

Southern Cal's Trojans, already an American track and field legend and with no sign of a letup in the near future, come to town Saturday night and will be heavily favored over Baldy Castillo's trackmen.

The Trojans are undefeated in their last 93 dual meets — a string that started way back in 1945.

Even though the outcome is pretty much pre-determined, the meet should produce plenty of thrills and afford fans the opportunity to see some great athletes.

And it will answer a lot of questions. Can Mal Spence (47.1), undefeated in Goodwin Stadium in four years of competition, win his last, and probably toughest open quarter mile against the Trojan's Rex Cawley (46.2)?

Can sprinter Hubie Watson keep his unbeaten string alive by besting Bruce Munn and Jim Bates in the 100 and 220 yard-dashes?

Can Gaston Green, undefeated at home in the high hurdles and with only one loss in the lows, match the Trojans' array of talented hurdlers?

Will Don Jeisy and John Rose win their running pole vault duel with Jim Brewer of Troy? Rose beat Brewer and Jeisy tied him in the SPAAU meet but the ex-North High vaulter came back to top them both and clear 15 feet in Santa Barbara recently.

Will Dallas Long of USC threaten Bill Neider's 65-1 world shot put mark?

Only last week Long put together the best series of throws the event has ever known including a best effort of 64-3½.

And last, but of the most importance as far as the two schools are concerned, is the mile relay.

Southern California newspapers have a heyday whenever the two teams meet and this is no exception. The Trojans, led by the fantastic efforts of Cawley, have edged ahead of the Devils in national standings and are second behind Abilene Christian's national record setting team. ASU is third.

The Coast scribes figure Troy might be ready to topple the Demons but four determined young men in Arizona State track suits have things planned otherwise.

Three of them, Mal Spence, Mel Spence and Karl Schreiner, will be running their last race in Goodwin Stadium and they want to make that one go down in history.

BULLETIN

Arizona State was ranked ninth nationally in the Associated Press baseball poll released yesterday. The Sun Devils jumped up five places in the standings from a pre-season rating of 14th.

Netters Leave For California

ASU's men's tennis team will leave today at 1 p.m. on a two-day trip to California.

The netters will be trying for their third win of the season against powerful Redlands and Pomona. Redlands has already defeated the UofA, while the Sun Devils lost to the Wildcats 9-0.

George Emmons, Brian Hemming, Dick Draper, Edd Leonard, Wally Kendig, and Sam Schulz will make the trip.

Devil Nine Now 27-5 ASU Golfers Stretch String To 24 Straight Victories

Win Badger Series; Lose To Michigan

Coach Bobby Winkles and his Sun Devil baseballers are getting a well-earned rest after eleven rugged games during the Easter vacation.

The Sun Devils had their winning streak halted by Wisconsin on March 31 as the Badgers pounded out an 11-9 win. ASU came back to win six of eight games from the Badgers but dropped a three game series to powerful Michigan.

Arizona State's season record stands at 27-5 and the Devils are idle until the first of next week when they travel to Southern California for several games against coast schools.

Arizona State's golf team finished second in the Northern California Intercollegiate Championships in Santa Cruz, Calif., during the Easter vacation.

The Devils carded a 595, just three strokes back of Fresno State, the tourney champ. Southern Cal had 600, Stanford 601 and San Diego State 602 in the two-day meet.

ASU stretched its dual match winning streak to 24 last week with victories over Wyoming and New Mexico State. Rex Wilsen led the Demon linksters in competition with low rounds of 65 and 68 last week. Today ASU hosts the San Diego Naval Training Center and meets the Navy here again Friday.

Patsy Willard 2nd In National Diving

ASU's Patsy Willard was defeated by Joel Lenzi of Southern Illinois University in her bid to defend her national 1-meter diving championship in Hialeah, Florida, last week.

Miss Willard lost her title by a narrow margin to the Illinois coed and came close to defeating Miss Lenzi for the three meter crown in the National AAU indoor championships.

Patsy led in early competition in both diving events but Miss Lenzi rallied to win both titles with her final dives.

Miss Willard, an Olympic performer last summer, plans increased workouts with hopes of beating Miss Lenzi in future competition this year.

Sherry Cards 71

Sherry Wheeler of Arizona State shattered the women's course record at Paradise Valley Country Club Saturday with a 72 off men's tees.

She toured the same course on Sunday with a 71, erasing the day-old mark. The course record prior to her feat Saturday was 75, held by JoAnne Gunderson, also of ASU.

Miss Gunderson and Miss Wheeler give ASU the top one-two punch in women's collegiate golf.
