

SENIOR DAY FINAL PLANS — Senior senators and co-chairman of 1961 annual Senior Day Marilyn Talley and Ed Logan discuss final plans for the event, in which some 4,000 high school seniors will participate.

Kennedy Motor Caravan Leaves Campus At 11:40

President John F. Kennedy will be greeted by a motorcade of ASU students when he arrives this afternoon at Sky Harbor Airport.

Cars for the motorcade will line up at the half circle drive by Old Main at 11:40 a.m. They will travel south on College Avenue, then northeast on Apache and Mill Avenue. They will proceed west on Washington to 24th Street, then south on 24th Street to the airport.

President Kennedy comes to Phoenix to attend the testimonial dinner for Sen. Carl Hayden this evening.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and 33 members of Congress will be at the airport to greet the President.

Governor Paul Fannin and Phoenix Mayor Sam Mardian will greet President Kennedy at a podium near airports gates 9 and 10. He will speak from there after being introduced by the governor.

This is the first time a president in office has visited Arizona on official business.

After arrival ceremonies, the President and his party will leave the airport in another motorcade. It will move north on 24th Street to Washington and west on Washington to Central Avenue, then north on Central to the Hotel Westward Ho.

At approximately 1:45 p.m. the President will arrive at the hotel. He will attend the dinner for Sen. Hayden at 7 p.m. and leave Phoenix shortly thereafter.

Press, Radio To Cover Events

Jack Ong and Bill Overend will represent the State Press at a press conference with President John F. Kennedy in Phoenix this afternoon, it has been announced.

The conference, scheduled for 4:30 at the Hotel Westward Ho, is for members of the Valley press, the editor and one staff member of accredited high school and college newspapers.

Campus radio station KASN, 580 on the dial, will present live, remote coverage of the events today starting at 12:45. News-men will follow the car caravan from campus and will cover the press conference and the dinner tonight.

IFPC Plans Food Drive For Charity

By DENNIS HIXSON

A contest between fraternities and sororities is being waged — with the community being the eventual winner.

Sponsored by the Interfraternity Pledge Council, the contest, which begins today, is based on the recent collegiate fad of stuffing phone booths with pebble. The IFPC will substitute canned food, which will be eventually turned over to the United Fund for distribution.

The booths are located in the patio separating the University Bookstore and the Devils Den. The booths were donated to IFPC by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph.

IFPC is composed of representatives from each fraternity pledge class and donates its time to service projects to better the name of the fraternities at Arizona State University.

Winner of the contest will be announced in the State Press next Wednesday. Final time of contributing canned goods is 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Individual organizations are invited to participate and all contributions to this worthy cause will be appreciated.

Senior Day Planned -

Annual Event Set Tomorrow

High school seniors from throughout the state will gather on the ASU campus tomorrow for the annual Senior Day.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the MU upper lounge. The seniors will meet Arizona State personalities at an assembly at 10 a.m. at which time they will be greeted by Dr. H. D. Richardson and introduced to the various deans and staff members. Dr. Alfred Thomas, Jr., will be master of ceremonies at the assembly.

At 10:45 the students will attend college group meetings with the various deans of the colleges. Dr. G. D. McGrath, College of Education, will hold his meeting in the MU ballroom; Dr. G. D. Overman, College of Business Administration, in BA 203; Dr. Lee B. Thompson, College of Applied Arts, in the Physical Sciences auditorium, and Dr. Arnold Tilden, College of Liberal Arts, in Life Sciences 191.

Lunch will be served in the cafeteria, followed by a student talent show emceed by Ron Schmietenknop. Gary Walker and Frank Kush will extend their greetings to the seniors and introductions will be made by Senior Day co-chairmen Marilyn Talley and Ed Logan.

At the conclusion of the variety show, the Senior Day queen contestants from 27 Arizona high schools will be presented.

Campus guides will conduct tours of the campus beginning at 3 p.m. The tour will include the Life Sciences, Social Science, Engineering Center, Business Administration, Home Economics and Education buildings. Hayden Hall and West Hall will also be open for inspection.

A basketball game will be played at 3:45 in the men's gym by interested seniors. The cafeteria will serve dinner for those students wishing to remain on campus.

The queen finalists will be announced at half-time of the University of Detroit game and crowned at the after-game dance in the MU ballroom. Seniors will be admitted to both events with their Senior Day badges.

Judges for the queen contest will be Dr. G. R. Anderson, W. G. Baroody, Dr. W. R. Campbell, Dr. Jessie M. Rannels and Mrs. Trudy Thomas.

OPERATION CANNED GOODS — Karen Arneson and Steve McCullough receive canned goods contributions from Rich Pagoria, as a part of the charity project being sponsored by the Interfraternity Pledge Council and Junior Panhellenic Council. Fraternities, sororities and independent organizations are invited to "help fill the phone booths."

Five Measures Voted Upon In Senate Action Wednesday

Five measures were discussed and acted upon Wednesday during the fourth session of the ASASU Senate.

A bill was passed unanimously by the Senate permitting Sel Erder, ASASU secretary, to receive her salary through a scholarship.

Secretary Erder, a foreign student, has been unable to receive payment for her duties due to a state law forbidding state funds to be paid to a foreign citizen.

With Senator Steve Sargent presiding, the Committee of the Whole recommended the passage of a bill allowing the Spiritual Exploration Week to be held at the discretion of the Student Religious Council.

A directive concerning the funds allocated AWS was assigned to the Senate Finance Committee for investigation by Speaker Chilton.

The Senate voted not to confirm the appointment of Dick Langmade as chairman of the Elections Board.

Speaker Chilton announced the appointment of Jim Kohnke as senator from the Foreign Language department. Kohnke will serve on the Public Relations committee of the senate.

Irish Hall Caucus Soothes Tempers

By BILL SMITH

A meeting between ASU housing officials and residents of Irish Hall Tuesday night averted a possible demonstration Wednesday by the 150 dormitory residents over claimed inadequate facilities.

Dorm residents, led by Irish president Charles Stewart, complained to Edward Hickcox, university housing official and Dean William R. Coulson, assistant dean of men, that dorm rooms were lacking desks, wastebaskets, desk lamps and that there were no usable mailboxes.

Dorm residents had contemplated delaying payment of room rent until the deficiencies were corrected.

Campus Troops To Guard Bell Until UofA Tilt

A guard for the Victory Bell has been established by Jim Howard, activities vice president, with the men of Pershing Rifles, Army ROTC honorary, and Arnold Air Society, Air Force ROTC unit.

The bell was the victim of attempted theft by eight University of Arizona students Nov. 3. Campus police nabbed the students, but no charges were pressed.

Guard will be mounted from 10 p.m. to 7 a.m. starting tonight and continuing until the night of the ASU-UofA football game, Howard stated.

After Hickcox's and Coulson's assurance that "action will be taken to provide adequate service to hall residents," President Stewart asked the residents to pay as usual.

Hickcox said, "We admit the need exists, but at the beginning of each semester we are faced with the problem of 2,700 students who need housing; this creates 2,700 problems. We have to apply priority to more important items."

Regarding the problem of the mailboxes, Hickcox continued, "The University is considering the possibility of a central mail room for all students and faculty that will be operated like a post office sub-station."

"Until this, or something else suitable can be accomplished, we will either repair the existing boxes or install new ones."

Hickcox attributed some of the lack of furniture in the rooms to vandalism and pre-class swapping with unoccupied rooms. "Twenty-five new desks are on order and fifty more will be delivered next summer," Hickcox said.

Hickcox concluded, "We are trying to bring halls up to standards and create even higher standards. In the meantime, if something is wrong, contact us — we aren't always aware of conditions and complaints."

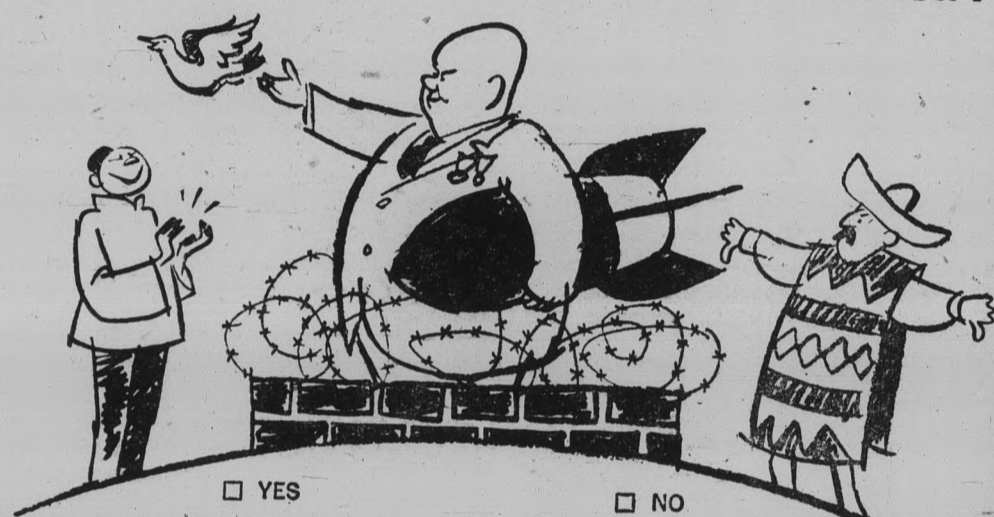

Stewart closed the meeting, saying, "We will hold off for a month and see what action is taken." Hickcox said he would be pleased to report back to the dorm in two weeks.

activities prior to the big game that night.

Players on both teams will consist of Interfraternity Council members and fraternity presidents.

"We must emphasize the fact that these men are not necessarily tremendous athletes, but, rather, they are the campus leaders," said Jon Flach, IFC president. "Therefore, it should be quite a humorous and interesting event," Flach concluded.

Co-chairmen for the event are Jerry Sullivan and Jim Oakley, public relations directors for the IFC.

Admission charge for the "coat and tie football" contest is a 25-cent donation which will be given to a selected charity.

Just one week ago today, probably about the time you're reading this paper (two o'clock in the afternoon to be exact), a few of the ASASU officers panicked. One such officer, big, hefty (to say the least) "Buddha" Howard turned to companion Mitchell and worriedly exclaimed, "Only 4,000 students have picked up their 'U' stubs. What in the (CENSORED) are we going to do?"

Companion Mitchell, who is vice president of the Interfraternity Council and chairman of the Interfraternity Pledge Council, went to work in an all-out attempt to answer "Buddha's" startling question. Howard also went to work, bringing a third individual into the act — Secretary Buchanan, who typed ditto masters with which to make fliers reminding students of the stub deadline.

The result: In less than 45 minutes, Mitchell had rounded up nearly 20 pledges from "several" fraternities to distribute the fliers. Howard and Miss Buchanan had finished the dittos.

One hour later, one such flier had been put on the windshield of nearly every car on campus. Also, bulletin boards all over campus were plastered with the notices.

To Jim Howard, Andy Mitchell, Cindi Buchanan and the Interfraternity Pledge Council let us say...

Congratulations on a job well done.

An employee of the ASU Publications department has been stricken with a tragic and, as yet, unknown blood disease. His name is Bruce Benson.

Tuesday, Bruce was flown to Salt Lake City to be examined by specialists. Apparently, his heart can no longer pump blood. That is all that is known at this time.

Before being flown to Salt Lake City, Bruce was in Mesa's Southside District Hospital. He was given transfusions for several days. He accumulated a large "blood debt," one which he cannot afford to pay at $25 a pint. Bruce is 29, married and the father of two young children.

AND HE NEEDS BLOOD DONATIONS DESPERATELY.

We are doing what Bruce is unable to do. We are asking Detroit 5. ????

You may call the hospital mentioned above at WO 4-1731 or contact Andy Mitchell at the Student Publicity Service, ext. 419.

Went down to Housing last Friday to pay November's bill. We arrived there just before four o'clock and the door was closed. There was no response to a knock. Another girl standing there said the door had just closed.

Immediately we went upstairs and called the operator. Correct time was 3:58.

Upon paying the bill Monday, we got the little "why-are-you-late?" lecture. We told them that the door was closed two minutes early, and we agreed that two minutes was a trivial matter. But if Housing closed two minutes early every day, by the end of the year they'd have one whole extra day of vacation.

Their reply: "We were down here till 5:30 anyhow."

Our reply: "That's one of the tragedies of the profession." So, again, mox nix.

For tomorrow night, an unbelievable — Arizona State 7, unable to do. We are asking Detroit 5. ????

Highway Safety: Not Stressed Enough

"Are you going to be home for the holiday?" is a question that can be followed easily by another question: "Dead or alive?"

The latter is of vital importance nowadays in relation to the first query. On the road, to vacation spots, to homes, to work last year, 427 Arizona drivers were killed in automobile accidents. In 1960, motor vehicle accidents cost Americans $2,200,000,000.

Traffic safety, indeed, is stressed everywhere you turn. Newspapers, radio and television studios and outdoor billboards advocate it. Some people have actually come to ignore the slogans urging safer driving, there are so many all around them.

Yet traffic safety becomes a more necessary thing each day of our lives. There is an alarming constant increase of accidents. And no matter how many accidents we see, it still isn't easy to look at one without sympathizing with the parties involved, without shuddering at the sight of an overturned car, shattered windshields, crunched steel.

The State Press recognizes this much stressed thing called traffic safety; however, we feel it still is not stressed enough, according to national, state and local statistics concerning the problem.

With our readers' permission, we should like very much to "stress" just a little more, with Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations in the near future, the need we see for more looking to the left and right, stopping for pedestrians, slowing down in residential areas, signaling.

Welcome, Diplomats; Thank You, IA Club

Members of the International Affairs Club meet our praises for adding another chore to their schedule of mid-term examinations, part-time jobs and school work.

This week they have been taking extra time off to spread good will for ASU, the Valley of the Sun and Arizona... in the American style.

As hosts to a group of Senegal, W. Africa, and Afghanistan diplomats here on an unofficial visit, the students have conducted the visitors on tours of the Tempe-Phoenix vicinity, taken them to dinner clubs and even to an evening of jazz Wednesday.

The foreign diplomats are staying off-campus as well as in the homes of volunteering club members.

Two are housed in Sahuaro Hall.

We hope our visitors have enjoyed themselves and the hospitality of our school, most of which has been rendered by the International Affairs group.

And to the club: thank you for representing us all.

Student Affairs committee. He delighted in cutting up this "juggernaut of destruction" and insinuating that this could ruin the Greek system at our school. These statements panicked me, so I checked up on this "Animal Farm"-type council and came up with a few facts that Mr. Overend "failed" to include.

There are twelve members on this council, including Dr. Durham, Deans Shofstall, Nichols and Anderson, two faculty members, three school officials and our ASASU, AMS and AWS presidents.

If those 12 people are not qualified to advise and recommend on certain school matters, maybe Mr. Overend can recommend some others for us.

And advise and recommend are all that this group will do. They will not, as Mr. Overend insinuates, use their power to execute matters themselves.

If I may, I would like to point out to Mr. Overend that a group such as this might just preserve our Greeks by keeping them from doing what others have done at schools such as S. C. and Wis.

And if I may remind you, there is only one person in charge of the Apollos and Dianas right now. What seems fairer to you?

Do I hear someone hollering wolf around here?

within the framework of university regulations, on matters of collective importance.

Specifically, we ask consideration of the following:

1. That all rooms have at least desks, lamps and wastebaskets.
2. That mail boxes be installed to allow prompt and secure distribution of the mails.
3. That serious consideration be given to the value of the present vending machine service.

4. That dormitory hall councils be paid, as promised, amounts equal to revenue previously received, in order to allow dormitories to participate in the social, educational and charitable activities each is expected to support.

of the gym was packed, while the general admission section had many empty seats. A plausible idea would be to let the students use these seats if they are not claimed by the public at game time. If the public won't try to arrive in time for the start of the game, they don't deserve to be seated anyway.

This would be an adequate return favor for the students. However, it will never be done for one reason — the Athletic department doesn't stand to make any money off the deal.

Larry Cammarata

To the Editor:

No school, certainly not a great university, would expect a student living in its dormitories to lack the essential services and equipment, which are in reality the reasons for living on campus in a men's residence hall.

No public employee should consider himself judge of the people's wants or needs. We affirm the right to act in unison,

So we students did the Athletic department a favor by picking up UofA tickets ahead of time. Now let the Athletic department do us a favor in return.

Cyclists Set For Big Race

Alpha Tau Omegas of ASU are sponsoring next Saturday's annual bicycle race from Tucson to Tempe.

At least ten teams, composed of University of Arizona student organizations, are expected to compete in the 116-mile race. Governor Paul Fannin will present trophies to the winning teams during the half-time ceremonies of the ASU-UofA football game.

'Parada' Queen Applications Now Available In Scottsdale

Applications for Scottsdale's eighth annual Parada Del Sol queen contest are being received. Deadline is Nov. 25.

Entrants, who must be 18 years old by the end of 1961, have to be unmarried high school graduates. Entry blanks are available at the Scottsdale Chamber of Commerce office, 27 S. Scottsdale Rd.

Contestants will be judged on beauty, poise, personality and horsemanship.

The Parada queen and her attendants will reign over the Parada celebration and make personal appearances on the radio and at public gatherings.

Men have their chance, in a beard contest. To be eligible, a man must sign up, clean-shaven, any time between today and Jan. 26, 1962. Entry blanks can be obtained at 125 W. Main Street, Scottsdale.

From the "Sunshine Festival" in 1953, the Parada has grown to a month-long celebration with gunfights, bank robberies, hangings and kangaroo courts.

The rodeo has become one of the major events of the Southwest, attracting more than 200 of the top rodeo contestants in the nation.

Honorary Plans Three Screenings Of Williams' 'Cat'

Arrangements have been completed for three benefit screenings of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" at ASU, according to Jack Ong, president of the sponsoring Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary journalism fraternity.

Tennessee Williams' Pulitzer prize-winning drama, produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in Technicolor, will be shown at Cosner Auditorium Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

"Cat" stars Elizabeth Taylor, who was nominated for an Academy Award as Maggie the Cat; Paul Newman, Burl Ives, Judith Anderson and Jack Carson.

Proceeds of the screenings will aid the honorary organization's Christmas charity, Ong said.

Admission will be 50 cents.

Students Comment On New Structure

By GREGG HOOVER

Comments ranging from "It's a building we really needed" to "It looks like a Country Club" were expressed by students and faculty at the opening of classes in the Education building Monday.

The building's construction is similar to that of the Social Sciences building, featuring a patio and open stairways. The building, named after Hiram Bradford Farmer, has four floors with most of the faculty offices housed on the fourth floor.

Various comments made by students include:

Carolyn Jones, majoring in Business Education, said that she thought the building was very modern, but it was too far away from her other classes.

Carolyn Brock, Elementary Education major, said she "loves the building" but wished there were more windows in the classrooms.

DeEtta Hankins, Elementary Education major, said that this is a building that was "really needed" at ASU.

Almost all of the students thought the building was too far from their other classes.

Faculty comments included:

Assistant professor Carmen O'Brien said, "In the classrooms we have found all we have been wishing to have for so long. The faculty has always 'wanted to be together as a unit.'"

Associate professor Dr. G. C. Helmstadter said he is happy to have the much needed room, but he wished there was "more book space and less floor space in the offices."

Associate professor Dr. Kent Pillsbury said he likes the privacy of the individual faculty offices.

Faculty and students generally agree to the beauty and convenience of the building. The professors are happy with their rooms after their cramped sojourn in Old Main.

Mitchell-Ruff Trio To Perform

The Mitchell-Ruff Trio, American jazz experts, will appear in the MU ballroom tonight at 8:15 p.m. as part of the 1961-62 concert series.

Tickets for the performance will be available to the public for $1 and will be sold at the door. Students will be admitted by activity cards.

The trio consists of Dwiki Mitchell, pianist, Willie Ruff, who plays both the bass and the French horn, and Charley Smith, the group's drummer.

Building on a firm foundation of classical music as well as high spirited jazz, the trio produces works which are both inventive and modern.

The trio has been praised extensively in Time, Newsweek, Downbeat, Variety, The New York Times and other publications from coast to coast.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

The nudge is permitted when a beautiful girl is sighted in an unusual place or at an unusual time.

LESSON 3 - Concerning self-control

Although we believe that girl watching has it all over bird watching, we feel that these two hobbies do share one important characteristic. They are both genteel. They both respect the rights of the watched. A girl watcher who asks a beautiful stranger for her name and phone number is like a bird watcher who steals eggs. (If the stranger happens to have a pack of Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes, and you're dying for a good, natural smoke, you may break this rule.) Normally, the girl watcher's pleasure is warm, quiet and internal. However, there are cases when a discovery is so dazzling it must be shared. Such a case is illustrated above.

Tempe Butte Gets New Name, But Can't Shed Old History

By JIM BAKER

The evening of November 9, 1961, Tempe Butte ceased to exist by official proclamation.

The Tempe city council renamed the prominent landmark Hayden Butte to honor both Charles Trumbull Hayden, founder of the city and his son, Senator Carl Hayden.

The history of this double butte goes back several centuries before the first white man visited the North American continent.

Centuries later, in August of 1870, a white man climbed the same ridge of the double butte. He too looked at the valley, but his eyes saw no civilization—only gray desert, brush and cactus. For Charles T. Hayden, green fields were something to dream about—something to work toward.

Three months later, Hayden announced the formation of a company to take water from the river near the butte.

Soon a town grew at the base of the butte. The town was named Hayden's Ferry; the butte became Hayden's Butte. In less than a decade the town's name was changed to Tempe. The Butte remained Hayden's Butte for many years, then gradually became known as Tempe Butte. Charles Hayden was instrumental in having a Normal School built at Tempe in 1895. The school had its growing pains, but each year things looked a little better.

The Tempe Normal School class of 1918 decided that the Butte should display a monogram to advertise the school, so a large "N" was built on the west ridge. The letter on the Butte remained undisturbed until April Fool's day, 1919.

Students of a men's dormitory noticed activity on the Butte about 11 p.m. that night. By the time a group of suspicious students could reach the location, the pranksters had gone, leaving the "N's" diagonal bar covered with dirt and a horizontal bar of whitewashed rocks placed across the letter to form an "H."

Members of the investigation party worked until 3 a.m. repairing the damage. No doubt the culprits were surprised the next morning to see the usual "N" shining from the Butte in all its whitewashed glory.

The "N" lasted only eight years. After the school became Tempe State Teachers' College in 1925, the occasion called for a new letter on the Butte. The seniors of 1926 obliged by donating the money for construction of a concrete "T."

Students started the day of March 9, 1926, with a pep assembly, after which they climbed the Butte and began building a large block-letter "T". It was noted that "the task occupied practically the entire morning."

After a twelve-year reign, the "T", like the "N" before it, had to give way to progress. The students of Arizona State Teachers College wanted an "A" to decorate the Butte.

Members of the "A" club, lettermen in school sports, marched up the side of the Butte on Mar.

19, 1938 with picks and sledgehammers, and broke the "T" into small rocks.

Plans for the new letter called for a 50-foot block "A", designed similar to the letters given varsity athletes, placed further east on the hill. The letter would be dug to an approximate depth of twelve to eighteen inches, with rock and scrap iron filling the bottom, and concrete on top.

With the Letterman's club directing the project, it was hoped that the letter could be completed in two days.

The first day of construction was scheduled for March 26, 1938. Only nine students showed up.

With student apathy plaguing the project, a new plan was decided upon. The "A" would be built of rock and then whitewashed. The letter could be set in concrete later.

When the fall term began, construction was hastened by newcomers to the campus. On one day 71 people showed up for work. Of this number, 65 were freshmen.

By the middle of October, it was reported that a pile of rock, concrete and white-wash on the side of the Butte could be easily recognized as an "A."

(Wednesday's issue — the "A" bombing)

Contest Starts Today

All girls entering the ASU Western Week rodeo queen contest are to meet at the Wilson Hall lobby in white shirts and Levis today at 3:30 p.m.

Transportation will be available there to take those without cars to the Triple R Training Center, where the horsemanship judging will take place.

Any girl who does not have a white shirt or Levis may contact Nelda Wright in Wilson Hall. This is the required costume for pictures.

Coffee On Tap

The Student Faculty Relations Board will sponsor a coffee hour Monday at the new Education Building between 3 and 4:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Council Sets Tea To Honor Officers

A tea honoring delegates to the National Panhellenic Conference in Chandler will be given today at 3:30 p.m. in the MU upper lounge by ASU's Panhellenic Council.

Miss Carolyn Stabler, ASU Panhellenic president, will be accompanied in the receiving line by Dr. Catherine G. Nichols, associate dean of students, and Mrs. N. R. Dorris, an assistant dean.

Students acting as committee chairmen are Misses Jane Tiffany, hostess; Judy Mumford, transportation, and Margaret Holstine, refreshments.

Special guests include Mrs. William Goodheart, president of Phoenix Panhellenic, and Mrs. David Thompson, liaison between Phoenix and ASU Panhellenic groups.

Bank Tour Is Planned

The Society for the Advancement of Management will attend a tour of the First National Bank of Arizona, 411 N. Central Ave., Tuesday.

The tour of the bank's facilities and newly installed computer system will begin at 3 p.m. A question and answer period will follow. Those wishing to observe the computer system in actual operation may return for a second tour.

It is suggested by SAM board members that those wishing to attend meet at the parking lot entrance to the BA building at 2:30 p.m. Those who wish to go directly to the bank should meet in the bank cafeteria.

Fannin To Talk

Paul Fannin, governor of the state of Arizona will speak to an open meeting of the ASU Young Republicans Tuesday in the MU upper lounge at 3:40 p.m.

Society Of Pershing Rifles Sets Regimental Convention

The 10th Regimental Headquarters for the National Society of the Pershing Rifles, located on the ASU campus, will hold its annual Regimental Convention Saturday.

Approximately twenty-five company commanders and executive officers of the six companies from the regiment, which are distributed throughout the western United States, will be here.

Registration and informal discussion, a luncheon at Tempe Sands and a gathering at Clancy's before the game are included in the events for the day. The confirmation of Steve Anderson's appointment as regimental commander will highlight the luncheon.

Actives and pledges of Sigma Phi Epsilon will be sold as slaves to any girls who wish to purchase them for three hours of captivity.

The fund-raising auction will be in front of Old Main today at 3:30 p.m., with Bill Reed as auctioneer.

Five Tapped By Honorary

Alpha Mu Sigma, sophomore men's honorary, has admitted five new members.

The new members are Dudley Greer, Danny Baker, Chester Arey, Dick Latin and Steve Rummel.

Members for the honorary are selected by the previous sophomore members on the basis of campus activity participation and high scholarship. Membership in the organization is limited to twenty.

The ASU group will attend a convention Saturday at Arizona State College, Flagstaff. The sophomore men's honoraries from ASC and the University of Arizona will also be represented. The purpose will be to form a state organization known as the Sophos, the present name of the ASC and UofA organizations.

Flying Devils Hold Meeting

The Flying Devils will meet on Monday at 3 p.m. in the upper lounge of the MU, to discuss new low flying rates.

The group encourages membership for all students interested in flying and its related activities. The meeting is designed for new members.

Club elections were held last week: Fred Finell Jr., president; John Vieldman, vice president; Janet Foster, secretary, and Don Castaro, treasurer.

BOB VIEWS SPORTS NEWS

Adrian Needs Anthropology

By BOB EGER
Sports Editor

When young Adrian Metcalfe took a verbal slam at Arizona State University the other day, he certainly started something.

Metcalfe, a student at Oxford University in England and holder of the world's fastest 400 meters time this year at 45.2, touched off quite a spark with a few choice words.

It all started when ASU track coach Baldy Castillo wrote a letter to a coach friend in England, George Hubert, casually asking if Metcalfe might be interested in attending ASU.

The letter was passed on to Metcalfe and he took it as a direct offer to attend ASU on scholarship even though the letter mentioned nothing about any scholarship. (We read the letter.)

Here's what Metcalfe said: "Quite frankly their offer staggered me. I have written saying that I am at a university which was founded when their ancestors were in trees. Imagine the temerity of suggesting that I should leave Oxford for Arizona. I have no idea what they might suggest I should study. It's probably handwriting."

How about a course or two in anthropology, Adrian? You might learn there that our ancestors weren't "in the trees" when Oxford was founded.

When Castillo heard Metcalfe's rash statements, he quickly set things straight. "No scholarship was offered the kid — I've never even corresponded with the boy. He's just blowing a lot of wind."

When confronted with this, Metcalfe backed down. He acknowledged that no direct approach had been made to him. "I was perhaps a little uncivil," he admitted.

It's a shame something of this nature has to mar the terrific relationship ASU has enjoyed with foreign athletes.

During the past few years international track and field greats such as Alex Henderson, Carol Lindroos and Mal and Mel Spence have spread the name of Arizona State University throughout the world.

We think they would be unanimous in their advice to you Mr. Metcalfe. Don't knock it unless you've tried it.

Fan Cage Clinic Set For Tuesday

Head basketball coach Ned Wulk will conduct the annual fans cage clinic Tuesday night at 7:30 in Sun Devil Gym.

Basketball rules will be covered, including new rules this year, and fans will be instructed in what to look for in a game.

Feature of the clinic is a full scrimmage between the ASU varsity and freshman teams. The clinic is free of charge.

Tuesday night will offer Sun Devil fans their first look at the team which reached the western regional finals of the NCAA championship tournament last spring.

This year the Sun Devils are ranked as high as tenth nationally in some pre-season basketball polls.

Basketball, Mat Workshops In Gym Tomorrow

Arizona's high school basketball and wrestling coaches will attend clinics in Sun Devil gym tomorrow morning.

Ned Wulk will conduct the basketball workshop with the assistance of two Phoenix area high school coaches, Gerald Jones and Bob Hutchinson.

The Sun Devil cagers will be on hand to demonstrate offensive and defensive phases of the game.

Conducting the wrestling clinic will be Ted Bredehoff, coach of the Sun Devil wrestling club. He will be assisted by several high school coaches.

ASU trainer Art Dickenson will talk on health and safety practices in a wrestling program.

Another Top Thrower Tries Devils

By BOB JACOBSEN

Again facing a top-notch passer for the umpteenth time this campaign, the Arizona State Sun Devils meet the Detroit Titans tomorrow in a battle which is expected to see the football flying all over the place.

Sophomore Ron Bishop, who took over for the injured Jerry Gross, the nation's No. 1 man in total offense, led the Titans in their 20-6 win last week over previously once-beaten and bowl-bound Villanova.

Detroit has played seven games to date, losing only to powerful Army (34-7) and Navy (37-19). They have whipped small college power Western Michigan (21-14), Xavier (34-8), Boston College (20-3), Dayton (41-12) and Villanova. ASU fullback Dornel Nelson and end Roger Locke, who were injured in the San Jose game and saw little action last week against Texas Western, are expected to be near full strength for the Titan fray.

The Devils are again expected to go with Joe Zuger at quarterback, Nolan Jones and John McFalls at the halfback posts and Clay Freney at fullback, although Coach Kush claims he is three deep in every backfield position with quarterbacks Ron Cosner and John Jacobs, left halfbacks Ossie McCarty and Tony Lorick, right halfbacks Charlie Taylor and Steve Turkovich and fullbacks Nelson and Mitch Siskowski.

The Devils close out their 1961 campaign next week against the University of Arizona Wildcats.

These Lockes Are Keys

By GARY OLMSTEAD

ASU's Sun Devils have a riddle for their grid opponents to ponder: when are Lockes keys?

The answer: when they are two sturdy, football-playing brothers who hail from Muskegon, Mich., and who currently man a position apiece on Frank Kush's first team varsity offensive and defensive elevens.

For the Locke brothers, football playing began to loom as their forte back in Michigan at Muskegon High School.

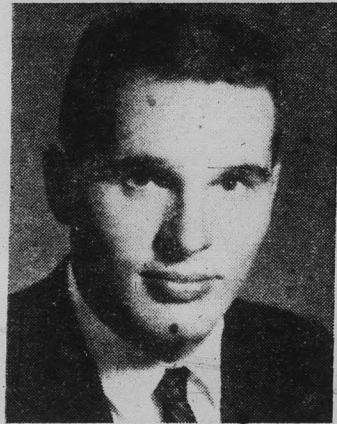

In three years' competition there for each, Dick, the elder of the two, achieved All-City and All-State status, while Roger gained All-City distinction.

Currently, Dick, a 5' 11", 210 pounder, is a starter at offensive guard and at defensive middle guard. Roger, a 6' 4", 210 pounder, has as his football roles, offensive right end and defensive left end.

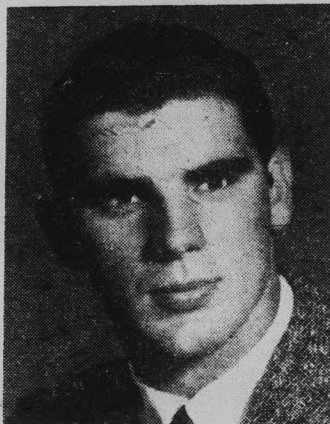

A third year Sun Devil veteran, Dick was described by Chuck Fairbanks, defensive backfield coach, now as "probably the key blocker in ASU's offensive system." Fairbanks was instrumental in bringing the brothers to Tempe.

Presently a co-captain of the Devils, Dick had a tremendous football year in 1960.

He not only enlarged his collection of grid laurels by grabbing the All-Border Conference first team guard slot and by capturing ASU's MVP award, but also gained a nomination for AP's "lineman of the week," after playing his best collegiate tilt to date, against North Carolina State.

DICK LOCKE

The husky P. E. major, who would like to teach after graduation, accumulated 106 defensive points in 1960, which was supreme among the Demon defensemen.

Coach Fairbanks commented on Roger, "He's one of the most improved players on the squad."

Also, at the present time, he is the top, Devil aerial receptor, with 12 passes secured for 207 yards and 2 TD's, despite the fact that an aggravated shoulder injury has plagued him throughout the season.

Varsity end coach Gene Felker lauded Roger, "He should be one of our strong points next year. He has all the physical attributes (speed, size, willingness) to make him one of the outstanding ends in the country."

The Oregon State encounter, judged the roughest personal battle so far this season by the Michigan pair, was one of the finest games that Roger has played. He blocked a punt to stop a Beaver advancement, grabbed a valuable 2-point conversion pass and recovered the only Devil fumble that was salvaged, besides hauling in two additional aeri-

How do the Lockes feel about playing together on the same squad? "It makes us play harder," they concurred. And it must. Look at their accomplishments.
