Petitions To Be Available Starting Wed., March 21

Petitions for the ASU elections will be available in the ASASU secretary's office starting March 21, according to Dick Langmade, chairman of the Elections Board.

The petitions are due back in the secretary's office by April 2 at 4 p.m.

Primary elections are April 11, and the general elections are April 18.

General qualifications for all candidates, according to the revised statutes of Associated Students, are: All candidates shall have been in attendance at the University for at least one school year immediately preceding the taking of office, except for freshmen.

All candidates shall be registered for at least 12 semester hours at time of candidacy. No candidate may compete for more than one office in any one election.

Also, all candidates must have a 2.00 cumulative index. They must be bona fide members of the constituency for whose office they are competing except in the case of class senators, who may be members of the next lower class.

Offices open for candidacy are ASASU president, activities vice president, first vice president and secretary.

Other positions open are AMS and AWS president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Two senatorial positions are open for each of the following colleges: Education, Liberal Arts, Applied Arts and Graduate.

Two senate positions are open in the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Other senatorial positions available are two positions for off campus men and two for off campus women.

A general orientation meeting for all candidates will be April 5 at 3 p.m. in MU 7.

ASU Registrar Announces New Enrollment Figures

Enrollment figures for second semester classes were announced yesterday by Alfred Thomas Jr., ASU registrar and director of admissions.

A total of 11,398 on-campus students are enrolled this semester.

This figure excludes the number of students enrolled in extension and correspondence courses, a figure which, according to Thomas, is expected to increase the total enrollment to more than 13,000 students.

Breakdown of the total enrollment figure, according to college, is as follows:

Graduate, 2,594; Education, 2,575; Liberal Arts, 2,509; Business Administration, 1,603; Applied Arts and Sciences, 1,561.

A total of 556 students are listed as special undergraduates who are unclassified.

Seniors, Faculty To Hear Dr. Geren

Dr. Paul Geren, U.S. deputy director of the Peace Corps, will address seniors and interested faculty members in the MU lower lounge today at 3 p.m.

Sponsored by the Organization and Leadership Board, Dr. Geren will answer questions on the Peace Corps, with special emphasis on how the corps hopes to fill its commitments overseas.

Dr. Geren is on campus to inspect the Peace Corps trainees.

He is a career foreign service officer who has served in India, Washington, Syria and Jordan.

In 1956, Dr. Geren resigned to accept the vice presidency of Baylor University. In 1958, he became director of the Dallas

Council on World Affairs which was described by the late John Foster Dulles as "the most vigorous and successful organization of its kind in the world."

He re-entered the foreign service in 1961 and was assigned to the Peace Corps as a member of the special financial group to Vietnam.

Dr. Geren has also distinguished himself in the field of education by teaching at Louisiana State University, Southern Methodist University and Baylor University.

He has also written books including "Burma Diary," "New Voices" and "Old World."

Musicale Tickets Go On Sale

Men of Blue Key will attend classes in membership blazer jackets today, tomorrow and Friday to promote their annual musicale in Cosner Auditorium Friday and Saturday nights.

Tickets, 75 cents per person and $1 per couple, are available from Blue Key members, at the MU information desk and will be sold at the door.

Three trophies will be awarded to the best acts of the musicale. Show time both evenings is 8 p.m.

General chairman of the service honorary's scholarship fund project is Jack Ong. Assisting him on the planning committee are Andy Mitchell, posters; Ike Alleman, judges; Bob Schure, staging, and Michael Craig, trophies.

Peace Corps Reception Set

ASU's International Relations Club will sponsor an informal reception honoring the Peace Corps at 8:30 tonight in the MU upper lounge.

All students are invited to the reception to meet the 61 members of the Peace Corps.

The Peace Corps volunteers started a nine week training period on Feb. 5 and will end their extensive preparation for service in Colombia, South America, on April 6. On May 16, the volunteers will depart for Colombia.

Methodist Missionaries To Speak In MU Today

Two Methodist missionaries from Angola, sponsored by the Wesley Foundation, will speak in the MU upper lounge today at 3:30 p.m.

The two men are Rev. Malcolm McVeigh and Fred Brancel, a layman who served a 90-day prison term in Lisbon for allegedly printing and distributing subversive literature within the Portuguese province of Angola in West Africa.

They will report on the fighting and terror tactics which exploded nearly a year ago in Angola and flamed into a virtual civil war between Africans and the Portuguese whites.

A firsthand report will be given concerning Portugal's attempt to maintain its control over the West African colony.

Methodist leaders in Africa have estimated that 1,000 whites and 45,000 Africans have been killed and more than 250,000 Africans have fled to the Congo for safety.

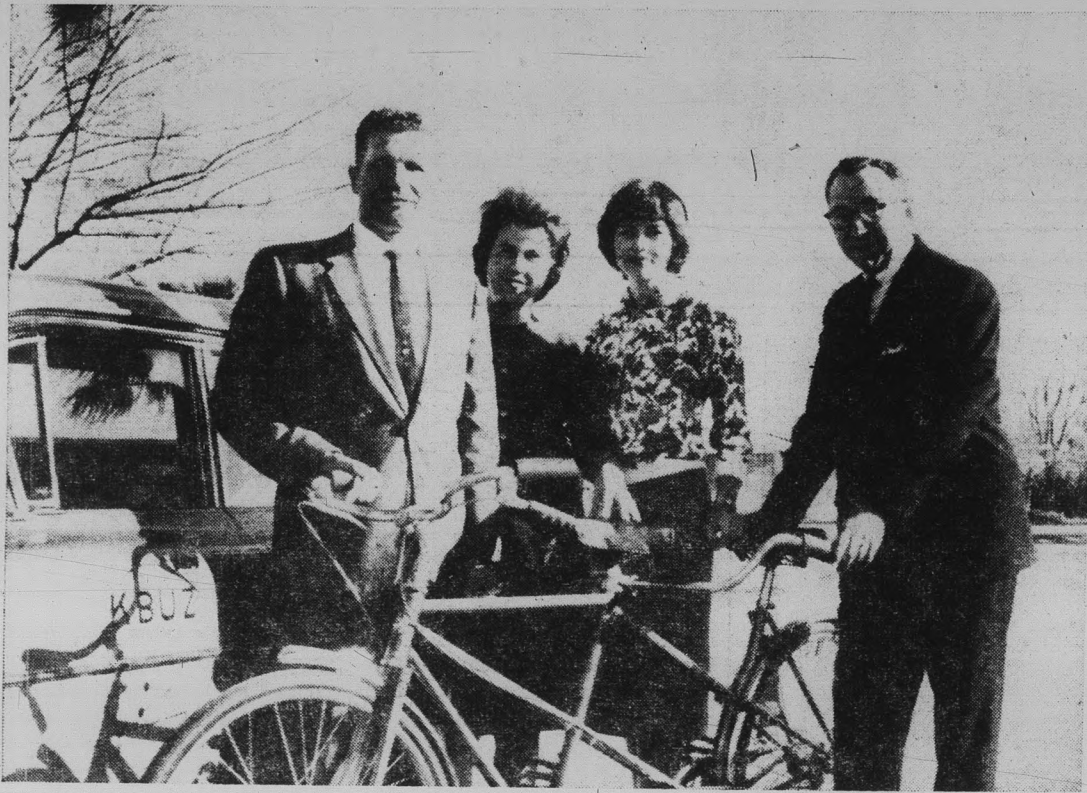

The Methodist Church has had missions in Angola since 1885 and reports that the conditions of the Africans under Portuguese rule has changed little in the last 100 years.

Between July and December, 1961, several Methodist missionaries were arrested, imprisoned and eventually deported from Angola by the Portuguese government, among them were Brancel and Rev. McVeigh.

Meeting Set For Party

A meeting is scheduled at 4 p.m. tomorrow in MU 218A for all students interested in working on the annual Memorial Union Birthday Party.

ASASU Activities Vice President Jim Howard made the announcement and has asked as many students to attend as possible.

SWEETHEARTS WIN BIKE — Dr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson were awarded a bicycle-built-for-two after an entry recommending them for the honor, submitted by Mary Jane Bolner, ASU freshman, was selected from over 200 in the KBUZ radio Valentine contest. Burglars Strike Twice; Take $2,224 From MU

Two early morning burglaries, in which approximately $2,224 was taken from the MU, occurred last Thursday and Saturday, according to Campus Security's Sgt. Tom Godbehere.

"They broke into the bowling alley early Thursday morning, broke open a small safe and took $224," said Sgt. Godbehere.

Saga Food Service's office in the MU was then robbed early Saturday morning. "Approximately $2,000 were taken from a safe and a locked file-cabinet," Godbehere stated.

In both burglaries, entry was gained through the underground utility tunnel beneath the MU.

The Games room was closed on Thursday until around 11 a.m., while campus police looked for fingerprints on the safe, doors and other pertinent areas.

Maricopa County Sheriff's Office is investigating the burglaries in cooperation with Campus Security.

American And Asiatic Relations To Be Subject Of Lecture Series

Dr. T. James Leonard, assistant professor of Political Science, will be the first ASU professor to speak, in a series of six public addresses, on "America and the Challenge of Asia."

Dr. Leonard will discuss Asian neutralism at 2:40 p.m. Monday in the MU ballroom.

Other ASU professors and their topics are as follows:

Dr. John D. Hale will speak on the art of India, March 12.

Dr. Frederick L. Wernstedt will discuss the population dilemma of Southeast Asia, March 19.

Dr. Kent Pillsbury will discuss the Arab Middle East and the Palestine refugee problem, March 26.

Dr. Guilford A. Dudley will speak on the current problems of Red China, April 9.

Dr. Kenneth M. Stewart will talk about the primitive remnant people of Asia, April 16.

This series, which is sponsored by the Asian affairs division of the Behavioral and Social Sciences department, is free and open to the public.

Anthropology Museum Tells State History

By BOB ZACHE

What kind of people roamed this valley and this state hundreds of years before the white man came? What did they eat and wear? How did they live?

You can see for yourself in the Social Sciences building at the Anthropology department's new museum.

Directed by Dr. Reynold J. Ruppe, chairman of the department of Sociology and Anthropology, the museum serves a double function: it serves as a laboratory for Anthropology students, and it is for the general education and interest of the University.

Although the museum has been planned since the Social Sciences building was under construction, work did not start until last semester. Sixteen students from a class in museum techniques have each worked an average of four hours a week to complete the exhibit, where only two hours a week were required to complete the class requirements.

The exhibits should be finished by the end of the semester.

It is hoped that through enlarging and developing the exhibits, ASU's museum will eventually compare with the UofA's, which is the official museum of Arizona and one of the best in the Southwest.

Total cost of the materials used in the exhibits is approximately $100. Many artifacts used in the exhibits have been collected by anthropology students on field trips and some have been donated by the Heard Museum in Phoenix and the Arizona State Museum at Tucson. A few others have been purchased for specific exhibits.

A summer training program for anthropology students is in the final stages of planning. A permanent camp will be set up on the Navajo reservation in northern Arizona near the village of Ganado.

Advanced Army ROTC...

And right away, you'll feel better about your Military Obligation...

Because you know, as an officer, your military service will be a stimulating and rewarding experience. You will enjoy the pay, the prestige, the traditional privileges of an officer...

your military service can pay off handsomely in later life. For example, ROTC can be tremendously helpful when a man starts his climb up the civilian ladder. Success in the executive areas of business and industry comes earlier and more substantially to the man who can lead. Few are born leaders; but leadership can be learned. And Advanced ROTC is a great place to learn it...

you will be contributing to the limit of your potentialities in one of the biggest jobs we face today... you can help keep America so strong the war the whole world dreads need never happen.

During your 2-year Advanced Army ROTC course, there will be a subsistence allowance of $535. Uniforms and military textbooks are paid for. There is a $117 allowance for your six-week summer camp training, plus travel allowance. And when you're commissioned, a $300 uniform allowance.

And then, of course, there is the warm sense of accomplishment you will feel in June 1963 when the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant are pinned on your Army uniform.

COVERING COLLEGE AVENUE

the new auditorium: two sides to the question

By BABS MARLOWE

Overheard in the Devils Den: "If it only seats 3,000, then why should we build it?"

"But it is a Frank Lloyd Wright design."

"I don't care who designed it. If it will only seat just a fourth of our student body, then it is almost a waste of money."

"All the students go home on, the weekends, anyway, so there isn't need for all that room."

"That may be somewhat true now, but just wait and see what would happen if we did have room to seat students."

This conversation, which entered into the realm of old questions (do the students go home on weekends because there is nothing to do, or is there nothing to do because all the students go home) was not greatly different than others last week. Many students are concerned that the Grady Gammage Memorial Auditorium seats only 2,930, a small fraction of our student body. It's great, they say, to have a Frank Lloyd Wright building on campus, but at that great expense and with so little seating available?

And the design — will it fit the rest of the architectural atmosphere of the campus? (The final plans were modified before they were finally approved by the Board of Regents.)

If it's to serve the metropolitan Phoenix area, then is room for art displays and exhibits, classrooms, rehearsal rooms, and costume shops justification for the expense?

Yes, it's certainly good public relations and will definitely be a drawing point for visitors to the area. But —

Others considering the other side of the question wonder if the students are looking at the advantages of this auditorium or if they are simply looking for a gripe, and found one, or if they realize the tribute Arizona is paying to the memory of a man who created an era in architecture.

Next week: the other side of the coin.

Thanks to a united student effort, the Alpha Phiis will be able to turn over to the Heart Fund over $6,000. Jeannette Jensen, a Delta Gamma, collected over $1,600 for the philanthropy, which gained her the title of Heart Fund Queen.

And what can you possibly say about our basketball team, who beat the Air Force 93-69, except — stay in there and rest assured that the students are behind you all the way.

If you have time this week, the mid-term exam in EX 100 (elementary extracurricular activities) is coming up, so remember to study. It's contagious and you might be a carrier of the disease.

OFF THE EDITOR'S DESK

rides, water fights not news to us

Two fraternity men approached us in the Den recently and asked, "What happened to all the Greek stuff in the paper?"

They were referring to the old "Greek to Me" column which, until this semester, had been a part of the State Press for nearly as long as we can remember.

THEREFORE, for the record, we will state our idea on what should and should not be covered by this paper concerning fraternities and sororities on this campus.

To us, fraternity rides, charter stealing and water fights are not news. By the same token, independent events such as dormitory soap battles, hall council meetings and slumber parties are not news.

However, multi-million dollar housing projects, national charity campaigns, chapter colonizations and campus-wide social events are news.

WE ADMIT there is a certain readership — and a rather large readership — that requests information more on the "gossipy" line . . . everyone seems to want to know what everyone else is doing. Therefore, we have "Rings 'N Things" to fill you in on the love department. And Campus Editor Overend is covering the rest of the Greek "social" news in his weekly column.

Excepting the editorial page, the rest of this paper is for news. And that's what we will be reporting — news — be it Greek, independent, faculty or any other kind.

CLEARING THE DESK: Vice President Lyndon Johnson received this message from an Indian on a reservation: "Be careful with your immigration laws. We were careless with ours."

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

everyone is my people

A very interesting "letter" was turned in to us this week. It is short and powerful . . . traits which are often lacking in letters received by the State Press.

It is not addressed to any one person in particular . . . perhaps it's intended audience is mankind in its entirety.

The letter was written by Sam Fanelli of Hayden Hall . . . we think you should read it.

"I have no people, everyone is my people. When I look at a person, I look at the individual, I do not see color, nationality or religion. There are good and bad, dirty and clean, religious and unreligious in every race and nationality. I see a man for what he is, not the color of his skin or how his name is spelled or how and what he believes in. Yes, the Lord had his reasons for there being different races. I believe in the eyes of God man is judged equally, and man should not be the judge of anyone, only to be judged by the Lord up above. I believe the world has to live together and all be equal, or there shall be suffering for those who are unjust. I also believe that man is judged on how he treats others."

Like we said . . . simple and powerful.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

in defense of the foreign study tours

To the Editor:

I note the letter of Feb. 21 by an anonymous graduate student comparing the ASU study tours unfavorably with his reading of 900 pages in two texts.

It is good to be able to read. But the duty of a university is to educate, and there are many knowledges for which a vicarious reading of another's experiences should be, whenever possible, but a supplementary method to more immediate experiences.

Our ASU study tours of Europe and the Middle East are in comparative education and educational sociology. In Hamburg, we visit in the homes of German teachers and over dinner discuss German education and sociological and political problems of post-war Europe. We attend conferences with teachers and others of the Sonnenberg International Institute in the Harz Mountains and study at the International Textbook Center in Braunschweig. In Hanover, we observe teachers and children in the classrooms.

At the University of Hamburg, the University of Vienna and again at the University of London we exchange ideas with students in the classrooms and attend lectures by the faculty. In Geneva, we learn from officials of many international agencies their purposes and problems. We listen and then discuss educational, political and social problems with officials of the ministries of education in seven countries of Western Europe.

In Italy, we are taught lessons of history through Roman antiquities. We learn of the Roman Catholic Church at St. Peter's and other, and we have a Papal-audience. In England, we visit the places that recall the great events and the great men of letters and science so influential in our U. S. culture. And not least, educationally speaking, we attend operas in Rome, Shakespearean plays at Stratford and symphonies in Salzburg and London.

Rabbi Albert Plotkin, who co-conducts the tour, is an "archaeology buff." We anticipate an understanding of Judeo-Christianity unequalled by a sedentary course taught abstractly through literature. From Beersheba to Galilee, Rabbi Plotkin will guide us to religious knowledge foundational to us either as teachers or as persons. For my part, I know the Arabs in the Arab Middle East and Israel, and they pose a fascinating sociological problem.

But I do not depreciate the educational worth of reading. I personally most anticipate Athens—this place of Socrates. For you, Mr. Graduate Student, I herewith pledge to declaim to the group from "Plato's Republic" while astride a pillar on the Acropolis.

Or, better yet, you come along and read to us from your two texts of 900 pages. But, seriously, I do welcome inquiries and the privilege of defending the Europe and Middle East study tours as educationally worthy of a university. Anyone interested should visit with me.

Kent Pillsbury,
College of Education

Editor's Note: Now that we have published a 446-word plug for the foreign study tours, we are still wondering (as did "Mr. Graduate Student") about the merits of the World's Fair tour. Perhaps another professor can take up an equal amount of space in your newspaper and "defend" that tour.

Annual Formal Concert Is Set March 2-3 By Symphonic Band

The ASU Symphonic Band will present its annual formal concert on March 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. at Tempe Union High School.

The 75-piece symphony will be conducted by Harold Hines. Aiding Hines will be Ronald Holloway, assistant band director, and Dr. Felix McKernan, former ASU bandmaster and now director of bands at Occidental College.

Free tickets may be obtained at the band building, MU information desk or from a band member.

Greco Tickets Available Here

Jose Greco, dancing star of "Around the World in 80 Days," will appear in the Phoenix Union High School auditorium tonight at 8:30.

Tickets for the performance are available at the MU information desk.

Sun Angels' Task Is Promoting ASU

By JIM BAKER

The Sun Angel Foundation has been actively promoting Arizona State University for more than fifteen years, yet many students have little or no knowledge of the work done by this organization.

Some think of a booster group as being mostly alumni and interested only in the athletic program. This is not the case with the Sun Angels.

The foundation is an organization of civic and business leaders dedicated to assist in the growth of ASU.

The group had its beginning in the summer of 1946, The State Press issue of Oct. 11, 1946 said:

"The Thunderbirds of the Phoenix Chamber of Commerce have organized a special promotional group called the Sun Angels, and recently the Tempe supporters, who have in the past years been called 'Bulldog Boosters,' have dropped their name and joined with the Phoenix group for unified aid and interest in college students and college activities. . . ."

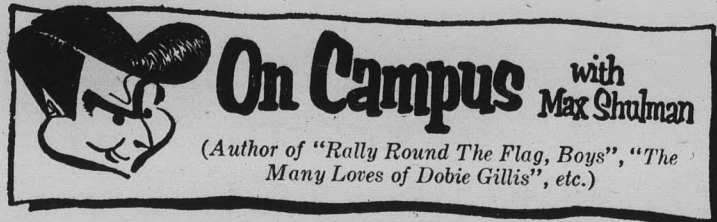

The Sun Angels were officially incorporated Jan. 27, 1947. It is interesting to note that one half of the present group of officers and nearly half of the board of directors were on the original board.

President James H. Coles and Executive Secretary Miles W. Casteel have each served in their respective positions since 1950. Casteel was head coach at the University of Arizona from 1939 through 1948.

The present board of directors include such well-known men as Governor Paul Fannin, cartoonist Walt Ditzen and attorney Walter E. Craig, president-elect of the American Bar Association.

Honorary board members include Herbert R. Askins, former assistant secretary of the Navy; J. Howard Pyle, former governor of Arizona, and Charles A. Stauffer, Sr., general chairman of the Memorial Union campaign, which helped raise funds for construction of the building. Stauffer is an ASU alumnus, class of 1901.

(To be concluded Friday)

HOW TO BE A BWOC

Ladies, let me be frank. The days of the college year dwindle down to a precious few. And some of you—let's face it—have not yet become BWOC's. Yes, I know, you've been busy what with going to class and walking your cheetah, but really, ladies, becoming a BWOC is so easy if you'll only follow a few simple rules.

The first and most basic step on the road to being a BWOC is to attract attention. Get yourself noticed. But be very, very careful not to do it the wrong way. I mean, any old girl is bound to be noticed if she goes around with a placard that says, "HEY! LOOKIT ME!" Don't you make such a horrid gaffe. On your placard put: "ZUT! REGARDÉZ MOI!" This, as you can see, lends a whole new dimension of tone and dignity.

Once you have been noticed, it is no longer necessary to carry the placard. It will suffice if, from time to time, you make distinctive noises. If, for instance, every three or four minutes you cry, "Whippoorwill!" you cannot but stay fresh in the minds of onlookers.

We come now to clothes, a vital accessory to the BWOC—indeed, to any girl who wishes to remain out of jail. But to the BWOC clothes are more than just a decent cover; they are, it is not too much to say, a way of life.

This spring the "little boy look" is all the rage on campus. Every coed, in a mad effort to look like a little boy, is wearing short pants, knee sox, and boyshirts. But the BWOC is doing more. She has gone the whole hog in achieving little boyhood. She has frogs in her pockets, scabs on her knees, down on her upper lip, and is followed everywhere by a dog named Spot.

All this, of course, is only by day. When evening falls and her date comes calling, the BWOC is the very picture of chic femininity. She dresses in severe, simple basic black, relieved only by a fourteen pound charm bracelet. Her hair is exquisitely coiffed, with a fresh rubber band around the pony tail. Her daytime sneakers have been replaced by fashionable high heeled pumps, and she does not remove them until she gets to the movies.

After the movies, at the campus cafe, the BWOC undergoes her severest test. The true BWOC will never, never, never, order the entire menu. This is gluttony and can only cause one's date to blanch. The true BWOC will pick six or seven good entrees and then have nothing more till dessert. This is class and is the hallmark of the true BWOC.

Finally, the BWOC, upon being asked by the cigarette vendor which is the brand of her choice, will always reply, "Marlboro, of course!" For any girl knows that a Marlboro in one's hand stamps one instantly as a person of taste and discernment, as the possessor of an educated palate, as a connoisseur of the finer, loftier pleasures. This Marlboro, this badge of savoir-faire, comes to you in flip-top boxes that flip, or in soft packs that are soft, with a filter that filters and a flavor that is flavorful, in all fifty states of the Union and Duluth.

ASU Fraternity Elections Reveal Seven Turnovers

First returns on the recent wave of fraternity elections reveal seven new slates of officers for ASU's Greek system.

Sigma Nus met Sunday to elect Dan Pflumm, president; Jim Oakley, vice president; Kirk Collier, treasurer, and Jack Kaufman, secretary.

New Tau Kappa Epsilon officers are Lou Volpe, president; Tom Zoellner, vice president; Tim LaGrey, treasurer, and Nelson Coleman, secretary.

Ron Fisher has been elected president of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Other officers are Bill West, vice president; Charlie Roberts, comptroller, and Duane Clay, secretary.

New Sigma Alpha Epsilon officers are Wesley Metzler, president; Tim Lee, vice president; Richard Vincent, secretary, and Richard Rendo, treasurer.

New Delta Sigma Phi officers are Andy Coles, president; Noel Amherd and Rick Lavis, vice presidents; Tom Johnson, secretary, and Bob Hansson, treasurer.

Marty Pavell will head the new group of Alpha Epsilon Pi officers this year. Other officers are Jerome Spector, vice president; Harry Green, secretary, and Alvin Bender, treasurer.

Screen Classic To Be Shown

"A Place In The Sun," an Oscar-winning movie, will be shown Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Cosner Auditorium.

The movie, adapted from Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," is a commentary on American society and the efforts of one young man, Montgomery Clift, to achieve social prominence.

Charleston Finally Hits The Desert!

West Hall will become a speakeasy at 7 tonight.

The dorm is sponsoring a Roaring 20's dance from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the lobby.

All flappers around the ASU campus are invited to come and bring their beaus for a night of the Charleston and black bottom. A special prize will be awarded to the best Charleston dancers on campus.

Admission to the speakeasy is a 25-cent donation for the Pleiades scholarship fund for incoming freshmen women. The leader of the "mob" for the evening is Robert Finkbine, Arcadia high school teacher, who will play both old and new records.

"We would like to have the whole campus go back to the speakeasy days with us," Hall President Bev Christensen said. "The evening should be lots of fun, if you like your punch served from a bath tub, and aren't afraid of our bouncers."

Stahnke To Talk

Dr. Herbert L. Stahnke, head of Life Sciences and director of the poisonous animals research laboratory at ASU, will deliver an address on "Impressions of a Research Biologist in Europe" before the Mesa Hiram Club during a luncheon this Friday at the Maricopa Inn.

Sociology Workshop Scheduled

ASU's department of Sociology and Anthropology is co-sponsoring a workshop starting at 9 a.m. Friday and Saturday at Arizona State Hospital, Phoenix.

The theme of the workshop is "Understanding and Working With Hard To Reach Families."

The other sponsors of the workshops are the Central Arizona Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers and the Arizona Department of Mental Health.

Devils Demolish Falcon Cagers

Arizona State's Sun Devils, known for their mighty offense, displayed considerable defensive talent Saturday night and let the points take care of themselves, as they plucked the Air Force Falcons 93-69 in Sun Devil Gym.

The Devils kept a close eye on the Falcons as the Air Force quint played around with its shuffle offense much to the dismay of the point-happy ASU partisans.

Also a cause for dismay was the officiating, which brought cries of "We'll never come back again," from Air Force Coach Lt. Col. Bob Spear.

"We'll never see anything worse than this, no matter where we go," said Spear after the game. He added, however, "I thought the crowd was fine and well-behaved."

The Devils, despite being called for 28 fouls, completely outclassed their visitors from Colorado, outshooting the Falcons from both the floor and the foul line and grabbing 57 rebounds to 30 for the Air Force.

Larry Armstrong topped Devil scorers with 25 points. He was closely followed by Jerry Hahn, who connected for 24 markers. Art Becker had 14 and Joe Caldwell 13.

IS IT SQUARE TO SEE EUROPE ON A TOUR?

A Munich songfest, a London theatre party, the Lido Club in Paris, the Student Inn in Heidelberg—all are part of American Express' 1962 Student Tours.

This year, American Express will take students to a Bavarian songfest in Munich; a party at the famous Student Inn in Heidelberg; on a gondola tour of Venice by night; a theatre party in London; a "Sound and Light" spectacular at the Roman Forum; open-air opera and concerts in Rome, Verona and Salzburg; a Swiss fondue dinner; on a visit to the Flea Market, and to dinner and show at the Lido Club in Paris. Does that sound square?

There will be ten student tours in all. These tours are priced from $1132 up, including transportation. Details are arranged by a regular tour escort. You needn't fuss over timetables and road maps. You'll have more time to learn, to see things, make friends and have fun.

The tours will leave New York June 8 through July 12 and return July 26-Sept. 5. They last from 6 to 10½ weeks. Six tours feature transportation on the new S.S. France. In addition to Western Europe, itineraries include Russia, the Scandinavian countries and Israel.

Each tour will be led by one or more faculty members from Yale, Harvard, Brown, Briarcliff, Radcliffe, Smith, Simmons, Notre Dame or Southern Methodist.

ASU Spikers Shine

Arizona State's talented tracksters served notice Saturday that they are ready to open their toughest schedule ever, as they dominated the Arizona Relays in Tucson.

No points were kept in the meet, a relay affair, but ASU grabbed eight of the 14 first places against competition from the UofA, New Mexico State, New Mexico Western and Texas Western.

Pole vaulter John Rose turned in the most spectacular effort of the day with a 15-2¼ vault, to give him a new ASU outdoor mark and surpasses the meet and stadium records. It was his first competition outdoors this season and marked the sixth time he's cleared 15-2 or better since Jan. 20.

ASU vaulter George Davies, claimant to the world record, was supposed to compete unattached, but a rule was dug up at the last moment prohibiting his competition in the meet.

Javelin thrower Frank Covelli, one of the nation's best JC spear flingers at Cerritos last year, got off a 223-4 toss for a new meet record. ASU's Wayne McDonnell finished second with a 209-9½ heave. McDonnell was the Border Conference javelin champ in 1960.

An 880 relay team of Ron Freeman, Mike Barrick, Henry Carr and Hubie Watson scampered to a 1:26.4 clocking for a new meet record.

In the mile relay, ASU breezed home without any trouble in 3:17.2. Barrick (49.4) put the Devils in front and Watson (50.2), Freeman (49.2) and Ullis (48.4) brought the baton in far ahead of the pack.

Arizona State also outclassed the rest in the two mile relay, as Don Roth (1:57.0), Denny

Green (2:01.7), Williams (1:57.5) and Eric Owers (1:57.4) combined for a 7:53.6 win. Owers, an Australian import, showed a finishing kick reminiscent of the days of Alex Henderson at ASU, as he left UofA's highly-touted Jack Hudson in his wake on the final turn of their anchor leg.

Gaston Green and Darrell Jansen finished 1-2 in the high hurdles with 14.5 and 14.7 times. Green's clocking equaled the meet record.

Green and Jansen also ran key legs on ASU's winning 480 yard low shuttle hurdles relay team. Jim Tucker and Larry Medlock held down the other two spots in the relay.

Pete Anselmo was another winner for Arizona State with a heave of 49-8½ in the shot put.

Playoff Switched To Neutral Site

BY BOB EGER
Sports Editor

Utah State's cries to have the site of the NCAA playoffs between Arizona State and the Skyline representative shifted from Sun Devil Gym to a neutral location worked.

The NCAA used its head and rightly decided to move the playoffs to a neutral site. The location for the March 13 playoff is Corvallis, Ore.

But the move only got the Skyline representative out of the proverbial frying pan into something just about as warm.

The Pacific Northwest is a second home to the ASU cagers, after their spectacular success at Portland last year in the Far West Classic and the NCAA Western Regionals.

And the fans of home town Oregon State would like nothing better than to see the stage set for a rubber match between ASU and the Beavers. The two teams split a pair of games last season—the Devils winning at home and losing at Corvallis.

Although the new site is basically neutral, it is quite likely that the crowd will favor ASU, hoping that the Devils can advance to the Western Regional finals where, if everything goes right, the Devils could conceivably meet Oregon State.

Last season in Portland the Devils edged Seattle and then bombed mighty USC, while the Oregon fans cheered ASU madly and hooted at the failure of the Trojans.

This was due partly to a hostile feeling in that area towards USC—"I think if the Trojans played Red China here, the fans would root for the Communists," said Trojan Coach Forrest Twogood following the game.

But the crowd-pleasing style of go-go basketball, which is the Devils' trademark, was a big contributing factor to the popularity of Ned Wulk's cagers.

The Sun Devils still don't know who they'll play in the playoff game. Utah State and Colorado State are still waging violent warfare to see who makes it to Corvallis.

Devils Tops In Scoring Battle

Ned Wulk's hoop-happy Sun Devil cagers are the highest-scoring team in the nation according to NCAA statistics through Feb. 20.

Prior to Saturday's game with the Air Force, ASU was flying along at a 92.3 clip and their 93 points against the Falcons didn't hurt them a bit. Their closest competition in the points race comes from Loyola of Chicago with a 91.9 average.

Jerry Hahn has been threading the ball through the hoop and at the same time threading his way through the field goal percentage leaders until he rests in the number two spot nationally behind everybody's All American from Ohio State, Jerry Lucas.

Prior to Saturday's action, Lucas had 65.7 percent from the floor and Hahn 59.4. Hahn hit seven of ten shots against the Air Force to raise his mark to 59.8.

Tony Cerkevnik, another dead-eyed Devil, is hitting 57.7 per cent of his shots and that mark ranks him fifth in the nation.

The steady shooting of Hahn and Cerkevnik plus good marksmanship by Mike McConnell (52.6), Art Becker (52.5) and Joe Caldwell (50.2) ranks the Devils fifth nationally in team field goal percentage, with a 47.8 mark.

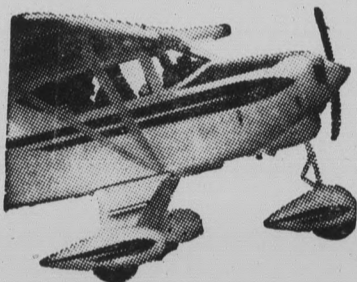

Arizona State is also among the top ten in another category which is not often publicized but which is extremely vital to a team's success. The Devils rank 10th in rebound percentage—grabbing 56.5 per cent.

Cerkevnik is leading the rebound parade with an average of 12.2 grabs per game, and Caldwell is second with 10.2. Hahn is not far behind at 9.1.

En route to their 92 point scoring average the Devils surpassed the 100 point mark seven times prior to last night's game with the UofA. Their highest score was 130 points against Pasadena College in Sun Devil Gym.

Judo Meeting Tonight

ASU's Judo Club, currently in the process of formation, will meet tonight at 7 in the men's gym annex. The meeting is open to all students interested in judo. Maurice Leininger, second degree black belt and a judo instructor, will speak, and a demonstration of judo technique is planned.

Gridders Start Spring Ball

Coach Frank Kush, who has long wanted a good breakaway back, has perhaps the best bunch of speedsters ever assembled at ASU and is putting them through their paces in spring football.

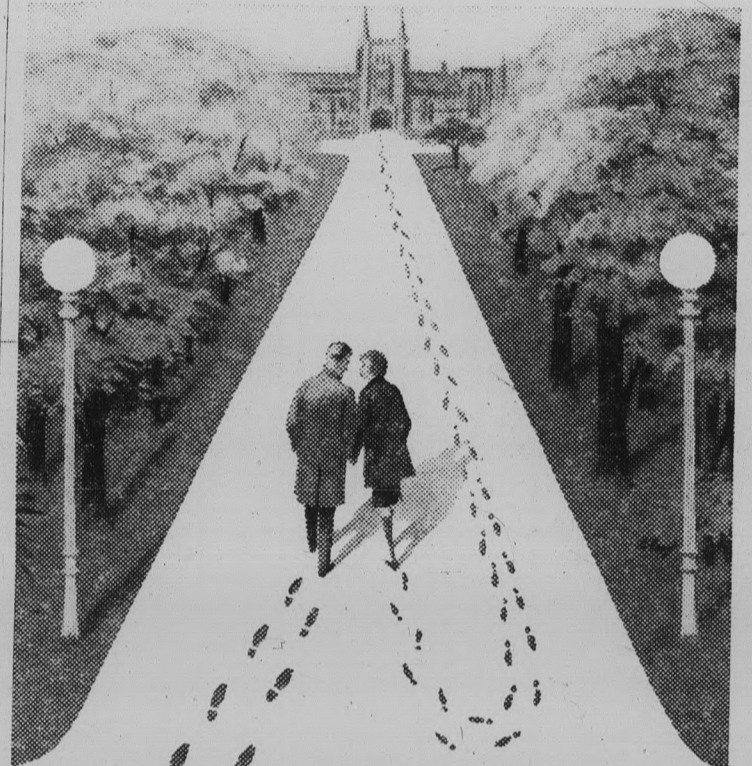

The spring sessions of the grid sport started Monday.

The most talked-about newcomer to Kush's backfield is sprint sensation Henry Carr, who transferred to ASU at the semester. He'll help fill backfield spots left open by the graduation of standout half-backs Nolan Jones, Ossie McCarty and John McFalls.

Kush also lost his entire starting interior line and is hoping to strengthen it with talent from last fall's rugged Sun Imp team.
