Defense Loans Are Available

National defense loan application forms are now available for ASU students in the financial aids office reported Dr. Woodrow V. Nold, ASU's financial aid officer.

Dr. Nold also said "Application forms for loans to cover the first semester or the entire academic year 1962-63, along with references, must be received by June 1."

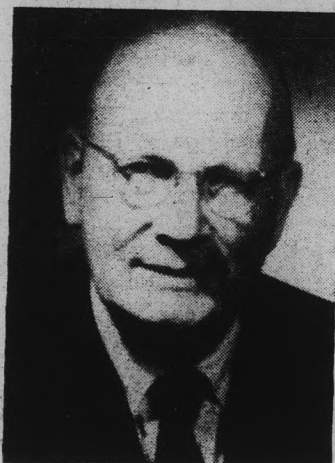

Loan applicants must have an accumulative index of 2.50 or better and should be prospective teachers or at least have background indicating a superior capacity in science, mathematics, engineering or a modern foreign language.

The applicant must also have two recommendations from ASU faculty members. In addition, a financial statement, verified by a responsible person, must be obtained. These must be received before loans are considered.

"Students who have not demonstrated ability to make 2.50 or better but have unusual extenuating circumstances should make an appointment for a personal interview with the financial aid officer," said Dr. Nold.

"All interested, qualified full-time students who are in need of this type of loan to pursue a course of study and are capable of maintaining good academic standing are urged to consult the financial aid officer," said Dr. Nold.

Dr. Frank Baxter Will Speak Here

By BILL FLICK
Editor-in-Chief

Dr. Frank C. Baxter, prominent Shakespearean scholar and English professor, has accepted an invitation to be the featured speaker at the Arizona State University Foundation's annual dinner April 17 in the Hotel Westward Ho in Phoenix.

Dr. Baxter, now professor emeritus of the University of Southern California, also will address a special student convocation on the same day. His topic will be "The College Student of 1962: A Creed for a Vulnerable Generation."

Dr. Baxter was the first individual to receive the George Foster Peabody Award for television education, presented in 1956.

Other awards received by Dr. Baxter include the Sylvania Award, seven "Emmys" from the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences and the Ohio State University Award.

The Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. conferred its Paul Revere Award upon him in 1961, noting that television had been enriched by his "wit and wisdom."

Dr. Baxter retired from USC in 1961 after 31 years on the faculty. His banquet address for the ASU Foundation dinner is entitled, "Comments on a Noble Experiment: Mass Education in America."

Further information concerning the student convocation at which Dr. Baxter will speak will appear in the State Press.

Anderson Talks On Hypnosis

"Hypnosis or its equivalent existed before the time of Christ, yet it is still in the dark ages," Dr. Gary R. Anderson, dean of men, said yesterday in a speech in the MU upper lounge.

Dean Anderson's original topic, "Some New Concepts in Psychology, Hypnosis, and Human Engineering," was retitled at the beginning of his talk to be "The Use and Misuse of Hypnosis."

The dean said later in the speech that perhaps medicine, more than any other field, will be benefited by progress in research on hypnosis.

The dean devoted most of his talk to hypnosis and spoke briefly on psychology and human engineering.

April 9 Set As Date Of Next Asian Lecture

No lecture is scheduled for next Monday on "America and the Challenge of Asia."

"Current Problems of Red China," the fifth program in the series of six, is slated for April 9 at 2:40 p.m. in the MU Ballroom.

Dr. Guilford Dudley, ASU associate professor of History, will be the speaker.

The subjects of lectures to be in order are "Asian Neutrality," "Art of India," "Population Dilemma of Southeast Asia" and "Arab Middle East — Palestine Refugee Problem."

Last lecture in the series will be "Primitive Remnant Peoples of Asia" by Dr. Kenneth M. Stewart, ASU professor of Anthropology, which is scheduled for April 16.

Birthday Party Set April 14; 'Arizona' Is Part Of Theme

By BECKY WATSON

"Seattle World's Fair-Arizona Day" will theme the sixth annual Memorial Union Birthday Party April 14.

"Every day at the World's Fair in Seattle they will be honoring a different state. We are honoring Arizona at the MU Party," said Oliver R. White, program director of the MU.

The student-faculty committees at ASU are attempting to recreate the World's Fair in Seattle, which will open April 21, one week after the MU party, White added.

George Brizindine of the Joint Council of Engineering

Societies is directing the construction of the 40-foot space needle that will be located on the northeast corner of the MU lawn.

Sue Rawson, chairman of the Faculty-Student Relations committee, will be in charge of the world of science, industry and commerce, which will exhibit modern business machines, new solar power inventions, rocket power devices, astronomy displays, science projects from the Regional Science Foundation and a space theater featuring films of astronaut John Glenn's flight.

Social Board Chairman Steve Montgomery will supervise Gay Way "21," a midway featuring a 50-foot ferris wheel and the Blue Key Carnival.

The Social Board will also sponsor a band, combos and folk singers in the dance and fashion pavilion of the MU cafeteria plus an observation deck on the terrace of the ballroom which will offer telescopes for viewing Mt. Ranier (Hayden Butte).

The board will also sponsor a movie about Washington and the Seattle World's Fair.

'Little Mo' To Be Guest

Maureen Connolly Brinker, former Wimbledon tennis champion, will be the guest of the ASU Racquet Club at a luncheon on April 4 at 12:30 p.m. in MU 218.

Mrs. Brinker will give a tennis demonstration, along with members of the ASU women's team, on the tennis courts at 2:30 p.m., after the luncheon.

For information about the luncheon, contact a Racquet Club member or Miss Pittman at extension 482.

ASU Service Honorary Adds Eleven Members

Four senior and seven junior upper-classmen were tapped at dawn today for membership in Blue Key, national service honorary.

They were Pete "Rocky" Anselmo, Fred Ayer, Martin Pavell and George "Rett" Wilbur, seniors, and John Ash, Roger Baymiller, Robert Carter, Robert Clampett, Andrew Coles, Robert Hobbs and Gary Nichols, juniors.

New members were received at a post-tapping breakfast at the Tempe Sands. They were elected by current members of the honorary on the basis of scholarship, activities and service to the school.

Blue Key sponsors several scholarships as well as the annual Blue Key Musicale and carnival. The men are called throughout the year to assist in various projects, including football program sales.

Faculty advisors are Dr. B. Ira Judd, professor of Agronomy, and Dr. L. Mayland Parker, associate professor of Farm Management.

Regional Science Fair On Campus April 6-7

Arizona State University will host the ninth annual Central Arizona Regional Science Fair April 6-7.

The fair will be in ASU's men's gymnasium and is free to the public. The fair times are 3:30-10 p.m. April 6 and 8:30 a.m. to noon on April 7.

Sponsoring the fair, which will exhibit the works of seventh through 12th graders in 12 divisions, will be the Phoenix Gazette and 15 industrial co-sponsors.

The junior division, ninth grade and below, will include individual entries in physical and biological science principles and collections and group entries in physical and biological science.

In the senior division category 10th-12th grades, entries concerning biology, chemistry, physics, agriculture, mineralogy and engineering will be included.

According to Dr. Ernest Snyder of ASU, director of the fair, between 450 and 500 students are expected to enter.

Six scholarships will be awarded to senior winners by ASU. Additional awards will be given by the Air Force, Navy, American Rocket Society, Chemical Rubber Company and the New American Library.

Science Made Fun By New Approach

By ROXANNA BERRY

To many non-science majors, the thought of studying science is formidable if not frightening.

To students who have had PL 360, officially titled "Science and Man," science is interesting, exciting and even downright fun.

The difference? A simple, wheels-within-the-wheels approach for teaching science, initiated on this campus by Dr. John P. Decker of the U. S. Forest Service.

Dr. Decker's students buy no book — their text is personal experience, and they study any natural event in this realm. Thus, the subject matter of PL 360 is interdisciplinary, recognizing no divisions in science.

The method or technique used in studying and explaining these events is analytical, or as Dr. Decker puts it, "just common sense slightly formalized." However, this simple analytical procedure emphasized in the course has been termed by a former PL 360 student as the greatest advantage the class offers.

Student reaction to the course, offered for the first time in the fall of 1960, is mainly one of gratitude. Comments from the 22 students who have taken it range from, "I'm no longer afraid of science" to "It should be a prerequisite for all science courses."

Although the course was basically designed for non-Science majors, it offers a fresh approach for those majoring in Science. A science student enrolled last semester remarked that he would like to take some of his science courses over, because he had a different view of things now.

Student praise for the course is equalled only by that for the instructor. Said one member of the class, "The success of this course depends on the person teaching it — and Dr. Decker is the man."

But Dr. Decker denies this. He believes the new approach fired up his own enthusiasm and made a better teacher of him — and that it would do the same for anybody.

Although employed by the U.S. Forest Service, Dr. Decker is also a member of the ASU faculty, available for graduate instruction and research on a cooperative basis with the University. With a doctorate in physiology from Duke University, he has worked at Syracuse and the University of Nebraska before coming here.

Dr. Decker sums up his belief concerning the teaching of science in this way: "The scientific knowledge that most clearly distinguishes an educated layman from a primitive bushman is that pertaining to the commonplace events that happen near you and within you in your everyday life.

"A primitive may explain these events in terms of magic and spirits. A snob may use the semantic claptrap of word-magic. An educated layman and a competent scientist can explain them in simple basic English."

More About — MU Party

(Continued From Page 1) trance and the exterior of the MU and the reviewing stand will be under the supervision of John Brookings, chairman of the Rally and Traditions board.

Ron Horner, chairman of the Cultural Affairs committee will be in charge of the world of art, which will feature the performing and display arts.

Interpretative dance, poetic readings, jazz combos and folk singing will comprise the performing arts. Paintings and sculpture from the ASU Art department and the Phoenix Art Museum, contemporary art from New York and Paris and architectural models donated by the ASU Architecture department will be in the display arts exhibit.

Jim Howard, activities chairman, is the general chairman of the MU Birthday Party.

The second deck of the MU will be featured as "Avenues of the World," displaying foreign countries, food and entertainment.

May 3 Set For Annual Woman's Day

"To Be Womanly — All Ways" will theme this year's Woman's Day, May 3.

Purpose of the day is to honor the position of women in today's world. The day's activities will include a morning assembly, featuring a guest speaker, and an evening banquet, at which awards and honors are granted ASU women.

Marilyn Rossini will be general chairman of the activities. Assisting her will be Gay Walberg and Shari Andre, decorations; Barbara Burt, maintenance; Martha Dillner and Candy Garland, tickets, and Mary Sue Itner and Beth Mitchell, program and awards banquet.

Piano Concert Will Close ASU Series

The Concert and Lecture series will present its last program of the 1961-62 season, featuring American pianist, William Masselos, Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in the MU Ballroom.

Masselos, well known for his selection of classic and contemporary music, will play selections from Charles Ives' "First Piano Sonata," Aaron Copeland's "Piano Fantasy" and varied works of Ben Weber.

Masselos also will conduct a day-long seminar for ASU students Monday.

Offices Attract 57; Petitions Due Soon

Student offices in ASASU elections appear to be wide open, as 14 more students have picked up petitions for student offices, bringing the total to 57 candidates.

Additional students who have picked up senator petitions include: senior class—Eugene Hoel; off campus women—Mary Lou McNatt, Carole Walker and Nancy Tenney, and off campus men—Bob Bramlet.

Also, College of Applied Arts and Sciences—Robert Cook, Ron Washem and Bill Barnes; Business Administration College —

Ron Autenrieth and Eddie Royses; Liberal Arts—Hugo Zettler; Education—Don Noller and Danny Baker; Graduate College—Bob Bonitati.

All petitions for ASASU offices must be turned in to the ASASU secretary's office by Monday.

A mandatory assembly for all candidates will be April 5 at 3 p.m. in MU 7.

An assembly for ASU students to meet the prospective candidates will be April 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the north half of the MU Ballroom.

Committee To Discuss Corps Goals

A panel discussion, "What Price Peace Corps," will be presented by the Views and Previews committee of the Cultural Affairs Board Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the MU upper lounge.

Janet Hughes, chairman of the committee, has arranged for the panel because of the amount of controversy and misunderstanding concerning the Peace Corps, its goals and its administration.

Refreshments will follow the panel.

Interviews Set For This Week

Commercial and educational recruiters are scheduled for campus interviews today and next week, as the interviewing season begins to taper off, according to Dr. Robert F. Menke, director of placement.

Interviews will be downstairs in MU 8. Students registered with the Placement Center may check their schedule for the exact times of specific interviews.

Today, in the commercial area, Sears, Roebuck and Company representatives will discuss retail positions with business administration and liberal arts graduates. Firestone Tire and Rubber will interview graduates in accounting, marketing and general business.

In the education area, Tustin and Inglewood Elementary School Districts, in California, will recruit for teaching positions in kindergarten through eighth grade.

Monday, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance and Goodyear Tire and Rubber recruiters will discuss sales positions with interested business administration or liberal arts graduates.

Barstow and Bakersfield City Elementary School Districts in California will interview for vacancies in kindergarten through sixth grade.

Tuesday, Fidelity and Deposit Company will interview business administration graduates for special agent trainees. New York Life Insurance Company and Goodyear Tire and Rubber representatives will talk to business administration and liberal arts graduates.

Space Seminar On Biophysics Set For April 2

"Life in a Non-Terrestrial Gravity" is the title of a seminar on space biophysics to be conducted by Dr. Charles C. Wunder, biophysicist and assistant professor of Physiology, Iowa State University College of Medicine, April 2.

The seminar will be in the Physical Sciences building, room 150B, at 4 p.m.

Attention at the seminar will be focused on the fact that some forms of terrestrial life could tolerate gravitational fields more intense than any of those encountered in the solar system.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

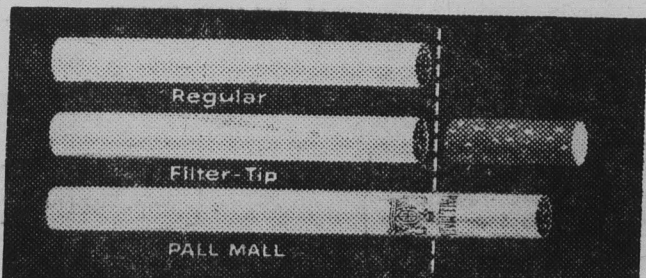

Blue-Jeaned Ranchwrecker

LESSON 10—Girls should be real

Bird watching manuals clearly state that this is the study of living birds. It has nothing whatsoever to do with stuffed birds, models of birds or photographs of birds. The girl watching purist observes this same rule. In other words, girl watchers do not consider it a true function of their art to watch girls in movies or magazines.

The real, live girl is only and always the object of his quest, the subject of his contemplation. As experienced girl watchers (such as the cowboys above) know, there's no substitute for the real thing. (Pall Mall smokers know it, too. There's no substitute for Pall Mall's natural mildness—it's so good to your taste!)

Compare all three! Smoke "traveled" through fine tobacco tastes best. See the difference! With Pall Mall, you get that famous length of the finest tobaccos money can buy. Pall Mall's famous length travels and gentles the smoke naturally... over, under, around and through Pall Mall's fine, mellow tobaccos. Makes it mild... but does not filter out that satisfying flavor!

Pall Mall's natural mildness is so good to your taste!

So smooth, so satisfying, so downright smokeable!

COVERING COLLEGE AVENUE

carter's brain child: the ams judicial council

By BABS MARLOWE

Judgment by our peers has long been included in our governmental systems.

Woman's equality is a later addition (but at least we have it!)

The twist on the equality movement this time is that the men have just gained it. They've named it the Associated Men Students' Judicial Council.

This six week old "baby" is the brain child of AMS President Bob Carter, who made the need for such a council a major plank in platform last spring.

In its first six weeks of existence, the council has handled about 45 cases.

Carter said the cases referred to the council by Dean Bill Coulson involved a misdemeanor where students were concerned or incidents which reflected on the good name of the student body or the university.

The judicial council has appellate as well as original jurisdiction powers. A male student may appeal to the council any decision made by the individual hall council. This may be done through formal letter application to Dean Coulson.

The council works through a chief judge, Ron Paquin, an associate chief judge, Eric Maxwell, and three assistant judges, Mark Cockrill, Andy Coles and Jim Elling. All these men are juniors or seniors and have a cumulative index of 2.25 or better. Traffic violators are sometimes handled by the judicial council.

However, the work of the council does not overlap the Traffic Appeals Board, as the council might handle cases where the student refused to pay and was referred to the council by Dean Coulson.

The council has the power to place a student on probation with any provision which Dean Coulson may deem necessary.

If the council is unable to come to a decision, a student is sent to the University Disciplinary committee. Referral to the university committee may also come if the judges do not feel qualified for one reason or another to handle the case.

Aside from being the fulfillment of a promise, Carter feels that the establishment of the AMS Judicial Council is a major stride forward for the men students. The women have had a judicial council, which functions similarly, for a number of years.

Its primary purpose is "to give the male students greater voice and responsibility in maintaining high standards of conduct."

We've all been hollering for better this and better that. This is a step forward and we haven't even started up the hill.

In case you're interested — an old Welsh courting custom originated the term "spooning." A young man calling on his girl was compelled to carve a set of wooden spoons to keep his hands busy.

And that's 29!

OFF THE EDITOR'S DESK

take your choice; there's a lot offered

Occasionally, we hear the comment that this column deals entirely too much with such things as sports and fraternities. Possibly so. But, today we feel there's a valid reason for saying a little bit on the athletic side of things. The reason: This is probably the biggest weekend of sports ASU has ever had.

If only there were a basketball game going on around here someplace, you would have a chance to witness every major sport this weekend.

Actually, it's a good thing there isn't any roundball scheduled, because baseball, track and spring football will be keeping ASU sports fans plenty busy... in fact, too busy. There's so much going on that the events overlap.

THE EXPLOSION starts tonight at 7:30 when the Sun Devil baseball squad (now 13th in the nation) will be entertaining the University of Arizona Wildcats (11th nationally) in Rendezvous Park in Mesa.

Saturday's the big day. At 1 p.m. it's the second game of the ASU-UofA baseball series. This time the site is the Sun Devil diamond.

ASU's highpowered track team hosts Occidental Saturday evening in Goodwin stadium, and this event should draw as much attention as any of the weekend's festivities. Field events begin at 6; ASU's amazing runners will go to work in the track events at 6:30. It should be quite a show... Occidental is tough enough to make it one.

SATURDAY NIGHT it's more baseball... (among others things). The scene moves to Phoenix Municipal Park, where the Devils will again be hammering away at their oldest and toughest baseball rivals... the Wildcats from down south. Game time is 8 p.m.

Also, Saturday night is the annual spring football intrasquad match, to be played in Sun Devil Stadium, beginning at 8.

It is unfortunate that these two games are scheduled for the same hour. However, it could not have been easily avoided.

If we may, we would like to recommend that you attend the baseball game (even though football is number one in our "favorite sports" category).

The reason: the baseball game counts. It is against intercollegiate competition. It could prove to be a very important game when playoff time rolls around. The Devils need your support... they can win it. It would make things so much better if they did.

CLEARING THE DESK: A statement from the University Disciplinary committee: "In recent weeks the University Disciplinary committee has taken formal action against several students for failure to respond to official University correspondence. The committee wishes to point out that whenever University correspondence (even a form letter) requests a response by a student, failure to respond constitutes grounds for disciplinary action."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

vacate your nesting grounds, fellows

To the Editor:

After the very learned repartee on political and economic subjects, which has graced the editorial page of the State Press lately, I am certain that my comments will seem anticlimactic.

I believe that those moronic imbeciles, who choke the sidewalk in front of the Business Administration building with their flaccid bodies between classes and thereby render difficult the task of either entering or leaving that building, show a marked lack of consideration for their fellow students.

Surely these students could find some more convenient area in which to conduct their trivial conversations and to suck on their cigarettes than the rather narrow entrance to the building. It is obvious that the characteristics attributed in the preceding sentence to the entrance of the building are equally applicable to the minds of the students whom I have previously indicated.

I sincerely hope that these students will show that they are capable of showing some consideration for their fellow students by vacating their nesting grounds at the Business Administration building. Thank you.

J. C. West

it's a simple matter of guilt by association

To The Editor:

I wish to comment on Ken Berger's letter to the editor, which appeared in the March 23 State Press. Berger asserts that the basic economics text used here is "Socialist trash."

I don't know enough about economics or Paul Samuelson, the book's author, to even begin evaluating the charge, but let me quote from Mr. Berger's letter:

"The basic economics textbook at ASU is written by an admitted follower of John Maynard Keynes... Keynes was a Fabian Socialist; therefore, his student, Paul A. Samuelson, is preaching socialism."

This is a pure and simple example of guilt by association, a judgment fallacy that no court in this country would even consider. It is this type of reckless accusation that may soon undermine our democratic society, if it is allowed to go unchecked.

David Mogilefsky

the time to avoid the confusion is now

To the Editor:

In case of an air raid alert at ASU, where do we go for shelter? In case of fire, what method of evacuation do we follow? Is there an air raid evacuation route near the campus?

Oral instructions and practice drills would be impractical on a campus this size. Could a booklet of diagrams showing the shortest and safest escape patterns be made available to the students?

Is this situation under the jurisdiction of one of the boards or committees on campus, or should a special group be appointed to study the question?

I believe this could prove to be a very acute problem at ASU, should the evacuation problem occur. The time to avoid confusion is now, before the need arises.

Tomorrow's Performance Closes Play

The two weekend run of "Volpone" by the ASU Drama Workshop will close tomorrow evening in the Lyceum building.

Tonight's and tomorrow night's performances will end the six performances by the ASU cast.

Performances begin at 8 p.m. Mike Byron, Susan Flannery, Jim Mancuso and Jeff Boucher are featured.

Other members of the cast are Lynda Salisbury, James Seeman, Michael Soloman, Alvie Thomas, Glenn Campbell, Joseph Smart, Kenneth Streckler and James Lindell.

The next play to be produced by the Drama Workshop is Eugene O'Neill's "Touch of A Poet."

KAET To Show 'Time Of War'

Tonight at 7:30 KAET Channel 8 presents the second in the "Special: Lorentz on Film" series.

Called "In Time of War," this evening's feature will begin with an analysis of the technique Lorentz used in producing film.

Charles Rockwell is the narrator of the series, and he will discuss some of the film Pare Lorentz prepared during World War II. Lorentz was the commanding officer of the U.S. Air Force overseas technical unit. He was responsible for making 280 films to enable pilots to recognize unfamiliar terrain. Two of these will be shown tonight.

On Monday, KAET will highlight the "Special: The Age of Dissent" program. The program will feature, "The Youth of Today — Young Men With Opinions."

In this outspoken film, the youth of Canada and Great Britain will present their views on the good and bad in the world. Sequences will be tied together with commentary by Ian MacNeil, writer-producer of the film, and Professor Frank Scott, of the McGill University faculty of law.

Two programs of special note will be featured on KAET Tuesday.

At 7:30 p.m., the educational channel will present, "Heritage: Branch Rickey." The program features "Baseball: The Men," as Branch Rickey will discuss some of the men he has known in his baseball career.

At 9 p.m., Channel 8 will continue the series, "Great Decisions — 1962," with a feature on "U.N. — Independent Force?" Howard K. Smith will narrate the program, which is a discussion of the effectiveness and future status of the world organization.

Student Panel Appears On TV Program

ASU students comprise the panel for KAET-TV's public service program "Editorials, U.S.A." every other Sunday.

The half-hour program, appearing on Channel 3 every Sunday afternoon at 4:30, features a panel of students in discussion of controversial political, economic and social issues.

The panelists will be Boyd Rollins, graduate, and Lou Meyer, graduate, representing the liberal policy, and Larry Nims, graduate, and Ken Berger, freshman, representing the conservative viewpoint.

Discussion material for the designated topic is obtained from newspaper and periodical editorials from around the nation and from any other editorials the panelists choose to use. The panelists are given copies of the editorials several days in advance of the filming.

How would you forecast your next few years?

Today, the young man planning his life realizes as never before that in today's world his own future is tied inevitably to America's future. How can he serve both?

Many college graduates, both men and women, are finding a rewarding answer on the Aerospace Team — as officers in the U.S. Air Force. Here is a career that is compelling in its challenge and opportunity. And it is a way of life that holds the unsurpassed satisfactions that come with service to country.

As a college student, how can you become an Air Force Officer?

If you have not completed Air Force ROTC, Officer Training School provides an opportunity to qualify for a variety of vitally needed jobs in the Aerospace Age. A graduate of this three-month course earns a commission as a second lieutenant. Also open to college men is the Navigator Training program.

For full information — including the chance to obtain graduate degrees at Air Force expense — see the Air Force Selection Team when it visits your college. Or write: Officer Career Information, Dept. SC23, Box 805, New York 1, N. Y.

ASU Foreign Students Represent 40 Countries

By EDIE C. ALLERS

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to attend a university in a foreign land?

Have you wondered how foreign students feel about attending a university in the United States?

At ASU there are 30 foreign students, representing over 40 countries, who are currently experiencing American college life.

Five of these students were interviewed to find out how they feel about ASU, its students, the United States and English and foreign languages.

According to Hormoz Hormozi of Iran, a junior majoring in Engineering, "ASU has more of a variety of foreign students than any other university in the U.S."

"From my own observation, most foreign students are in the College of Engineering, because it entails lots of reading, writing and math problems and doesn't involve a lot of conversation," said Hormozi, who is president of the ASU Foreign Student Club.

"The students might have an interest in other courses, but not knowing the English language well, they have difficulty," he added.

Many of the foreign students at ASU have studied English in high school and are able to read and write in English. "I hope we have an international language some day. We won't have these problems and will be able to understand each other better," said Hormozi.

Hormozi has been in the U.S. for two years. "When I first arrived, I could only say 'good morning' and 'good night,'" he said. "I used to say 'beg your pardon' about 40 times a day," he added.

According to Sel Erder of Turkey, a Journalism major senior, "I didn't find any difficulty with the English language at all." Miss Erder has studied English since she was ten years old. "I went to a private school where the teachers were British," she said.

When Miss Erder went to West Phoenix High school, she took class notes in English.

Asked which foreign language she found most difficult to learn, Miss Erder said, "French." "I took French for the first time in my first year in college. It's a beautiful language, so I'd like to continue with it," she added.

About Americans she has met, Miss Erder said, "I found them to be very friendly and helpful."

Cemil Gunyuz, also of Turkey, an Architect major freshman, doesn't find English too difficult either. "I went to English speaking summer camps for three years in Turkey," he said. "The camps were run by American professors associated with Turkish universities," he added.

About foreign languages, Gunyuz said, "In Turkey, a foreign language is compulsory. One must take either French, English or German all through his six years of high school," he said.

Gunyuz finds the American language difficult to learn. "You might say I speak three different languages — American, Turkish and English," he said.

Asked if he takes class notes in English or Turkish, Gunyuz said, "Sometimes when I must write in a hurry, I write in Turkish."

Gunyuz has been in the U.S. about two months. "American people are wonderful people—joyful and understanding of life. They made me feel at home," he said.

Steve Swai of Kenya, British East Africa, a Business major freshman, arrived in America last September.

Swai studied English in high school, also. "For four years," he said.

Asked about ASU students, Swai said, "They are very nice. They've been wonderful to me. One fellow, David George, even saw me through registration," he added.

"The students I meet are very anxious to learn about my country, as most of them don't seem to know much about it," Swai said.

Swai likes campus life. "I have made quite a few friends already," he said.

Brigitte Postler of Germany, a junior majoring in Psychology, has been in the U.S. for about six months.

Miss Postler studied English for nine years in high school in Germany and also took Latin and French. "I'm taking Spanish now," she said.

"The students at ASU are very nice," said Miss Postler, who is secretary of the Foreign Student Club and a member of Angel Flight, women's Air Force auxiliary.

April Deadline Announced For Magazine Manuscripts

The deadline for all manuscripts for the third annual Prospector, ASU literary magazine, will be April 9.

Prizes will be awarded in three categories; poetry, prose and essay.

First prize in each division will be $50, and second prize will be $25.

Nine English faculty members will be judges, three in each division.

All manuscripts must be typed, double-spaced on 8½ by 11 paper. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be included with the submitted manuscript.

A minimum of 2,500 words is required of all prose entries. Only previously unpublished material will be accepted. Manuscripts can be turned in to any English instructor or to the English building, Room 114A.

The Swarthout prizes will be awarded May 10 at the annual English Evening in the MU.

The Prospector will be for sale on campus the following day. This edition will be printed rather than mimeographed, as it has been in the past.

Professor Glendon Swarthout, a lecturer in English at ASU, is the author of "Where the Boys Are" and "They Came to Cordura." Dr. Swarthout has just finished another novel, to be published in June.

SHAKESPEARE DOESN'T LIVE HERE ANY MORE

A recent and most heartening development in American college life has been the emergence of the artist-in-residence. In fact, the artist-in-residence has become as familiar a sight on campus as Latin ponies, leather elbow patches, Rorschach tests, hula hoops, and Marlboro cigarettes.

And we all know how familiar that is—I mean Marlboro cigarettes. And why should it not be familiar? Why, where learning is king, where taste is sovereign, where brain power rules supreme, should not Marlboro be everyone's favorite? The same good sense that gets you through an exam in Restoration Poetry or solid-state physics certainly does not desert you when you come to pick a cigarette. You look for a flavor that is flavorful, a filter pure and white, a choice of pack or box, a lot to like. You look, in short, for Marlboro—and happily you don't have to look far. Marlboro is available at your friendly tobacconist's or vending machine, wherever cigarettes are sold in all fifty states and Las Vegas.

But I digress. We were speaking of the new campus phenomenon—the artist-in-residence—a man or woman who writes, paints, or composes right on your very own campus and who is also available for occasional consultations with superior students.

Take, for example, William Cullen Sigafoos, artist-in-residence at the Toledo College of Belles Lettres and Fingerprint Identification.

As we all know, Mr. Sigafoos has been working for many years on an epic poem in rhymed couplets about the opening of the Youngstown-Akron highway. Until, however, he went into residence at the Toledo College of Belles Lettres and Fingerprint Identification, his progress was not what you would call rapid. He started well enough with the immortal couplet we all know: They speed along on wheels of rubber, rushing home in time for supper...

Then Mr. Sigafoos got stuck. It is not that his muse deserted him; it is that he became involved in a series of time-consuming episodes—a prefrontal lobotomy for Irwin, his faithful sled dog; fourteen consecutive months of jury duty on a very complicated case of overtime parking; getting his coattail caught in the door of a jet bound for Brisbane, Australia; stuff like that.

He was engaged in a very arduous job in Sandusky—posing for a sculptor of hydrants—when an offer came from the Toledo College of Belles Lettres and Fingerprint Identification to take up residence there, finish his magnum opus and, from time to time, see a few gifted students.

Mr. Sigafoos accepted with pleasure and in three short years completed the second couplet of his Youngstown-Akron Turnpike epic: The highway is made of solid concrete and at the toll station you get a receipt.

"What is truth?" said one.

Then a few gifted students came to visit him. They were a prepossessing lot—the boys with corduroy jackets and long, shaggy beards; the girls also with corduroy jackets but with beards neatly braided.

"What is truth?" said one. "What is beauty?" said another. "Should a writer live first and write later or should he write and do a little living in his spare time?" said another.

"How do you find happiness—and having found it, how do you get rid of it?" said another.

"Whither are we drifting?" said another.

"I don't know whither you are drifting," said Mr. Sigafoos, "but as for me, I am drifting back to Sandusky to pose for the hydrant sculptor."

And back he went, alas, leaving only a fragment of his Youngstown-Akron Turnpike epic to rank with other such uncompleted masterpieces as Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, the Venus de Milo, and Singer's Midgets.

Take cheer, good friends, from one masterpiece that is complete. We, refer, of course, to Marlboro cigarettes. Filter end and tobacco end are both as good as tobacco artistry and science can make them.

Variety Is 'Spice Of Life' To ASASU Social Board

Ladies and Gentlemen

By BILL OVEREND
Campus Editor

"We offer everything from bridge lessons to formal dances for as many ASU students who choose to participate."

That's how Steve Montgomery, Social Board chairman, sums up his committee's role in the ASU social scene.

The Social Board, which handles $7,600 yearly under the largest working budget of any ASASU committee, is truly a busy group.

"We sponsor about 50 different events during the year," Steve said. "It's our job to make sure that ASU students have something to do every weekend."

Right now, the committee is busy preparing for the MU Birthday Party April 14, and the Inauguration Ball May 12, at which the new student body officers will be formally introduced to the campus.

Operating under a new organizational set up this year, the Social Board has introduced such new campus activities as the Ski Trip to Flagstaff plus a greatly expanded games room program.

The committee itself is divided into four sub-committees, Games and Recreations, Publicity, Dance and Weekend.

The Games and Recreation sub-committee sponsors the bowling team, pool and table tennis tournaments, checkers, chess and bridge lessons, and open nights and couples nights in the games room.

The Dance sub-committee handles after-game dances, the Christmas dance and other prominent campus functions. The Weekend sub-committee sponsors events in Clancy's and Sunday afternoon jazz concerts.

Since 68 cents out of every activity fee is delegated to the Social Board, the 30 students on Steve's staff are faced with the responsibility of satisfying many different tastes in entertainment and recreation.

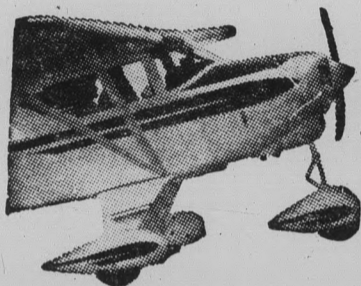

"Variety is probably the most important part of a good college social program," Steve explained. "This October's Conference of Student Leaders at Laramie, Wyo., was a big help to me as far as planning events and understanding committee workings."

Steve, who has managed to have almost $2,000 for the remaining two months of school, wants to make this year's MU Birthday Party the best ever.

"After all," he concluded, "we're nothing more than employees of the student body. Our committee strives to give the students their money's worth!"

EMCEE — Steve Montgomery, Social Board chairman is shown at the rostrum emceeing one of many Social Board activities. He claims it's the board's job to make sure ASU students have something to do every weekend.

Greek Week Events To Start With Sing

By TWILA DRUMM

Greek Week will get underway tonight with the IFC Sing at 7:30 in the West Hall quad.

Broadway show tunes, medleys, patriotic songs and a score of hits will be sung by 19 sororities and fraternities for divisional trophies and sweepstakes.

Tomorrow morning the Greeks will offer their services from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. to raise funds for their 1962 philanthropic projects.

Sorority and fraternity members will cover the Scottsdale, Tempe and Mesa area performing odd jobs to benefit children at Sunshine Acres and the Scottsdale-Tempe YMCA.

Greeks will convene in the MU Ballroom Monday evening at 8 to hear Dr. Arthur M. Lee, executive secretary to Governor Paul Fannin, Jerry Sullivan, IFC president, and Margie Holstine, Panhellenic president, will also address the convocation.

A new project has been included in the full week of activities this year. It is the Leadership Seminar, scheduled for next Tuesday at 7 p.m. in MU 218 A and B.

The one-hour seminar is designed to facilitate the flow of interfraternity in-

After Hours

Greeks On Display Throughout Week!

By BILL OVEREND
Campus Editor

It's the hour of decision for ASU Greeks! Their big week finally starts tonight. It's success depends, of course, only on the energy and time that all our fraternities and sororities are willing to devote to promoting their own cause.

It should be a great week, not only for the Greek system, but for this university as well. Greek Week is always a colorful and exciting pageant. This year, with such additions as the Leadership Seminar, it should be educational and informative. This is the best opportunity for our Greeks to show the campus just how good their system is.

We'll be watching with interest!

Greeks at a Glance

Last week's Greek parties are still the talk of the campus. The highlight of the Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta, Tau Kappa Epsilon barn dance was a hotly-disputed twist contest, which was finally won by Bob Bigham and Ann Reid. The Alpha Tau Omega high school party was also one of the best of the year!

Sigma Phi Epsilon held an exchange with their auxiliary, the Golden Hearts, Monday night. Last Saturday the Sigma Sigma Sigmas shined shoes for charity. Phi Kappa Tau will hold an open house and pool smoker this Sunday at 2 p.m. And the men of Phi Sigma Kappa celebrated their Founders Day banquet last night.

Around the Town

The big one has finally hit Phoenix! "West Side Story," which opened Wednesday at the Kachina, will now be stealing the crowds away from every other Valley theater. It's slated for close to a dozen Academy Awards, from best musical score on down the list. Don't miss it!

Greeks To Elect Royalty

Diana and Apollo — queen and king of Greek Week — will be selected today by sorority and fraternity members from eight finalists.

Diana and Apollo will be crowned tonight, during the intermission of the Greek Sing, by last year's Diana, Linda Lowry.

The finalists were selected from 30 candidates, representing all the fraternities and sororities on campus, during the primary elections Wednesday.

Candidates and their activities are: Dianne Huber, Chi Omega, Angel Flight, Social Board, Water Sports Day Queen, Milba Queen and WAA.

Susan Poe, Alpha Delta Pi, Kaydettes, Philadelphians, Alpha Delta Pi high scholarship award and the AWS blood drive.

Suzi Smith, Alpha Phi, Junior Panhellenic representative, Rally and Traditions Board, Social Board, Orchesis and pretty coed of the week.

Monnie Tiffany, Delta Gamma, Social Board, Philadelphians, Newman Club, SNEA, Freshman Week committee and Woman's Day committee.

Finalists for Apollo and their activities are: John Brooking, Sigma Chi, chairman of Rally and Traditions Board, cheerleader and Activities Coordination Board.

Dan Curtis, Delta Sigma Phi, Society for Advancement of Management and Construction Society of America.

Dan Roth, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, ASU track team, Delta Sigma Pi and rush chairman of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Ron Schmietenknop, Alpha Tau Omega, Social Board, freshman basketball team and co-chairman of the Memorial Union Birthday Party. See pictures on today's front page.

Tickets Reduced For 'West Side'

Special prices are available for the Cultural Affairs Theater Party for the April 8 showing of "West Side Story," starring Natalie Wood and Richard Beymer.

Tickets may be purchased at the MU information desk for $1.29 and $1.72. Sales will end April 6 at 5 p.m.

Transportation to the movie, showing at the Kachina Theater, will be provided. The bus will leave from the MU at 7:30 p.m.

Slaughter In Another Fine Relief Role

Sterling Slaughter turned in his customary fine relief job as Arizona State dumped Wyoming 9-6 in a baseball contest Wednesday on the ASU diamond.

The junior righthander boosted his season mark to 4-1 with his second relief win in three days, as the Devils topped the Cowboys for the third straight time.

Slaughter took over in the fifth inning when John Miller ran into control trouble. Miller had relieved starter Harley Anderson in the fourth.

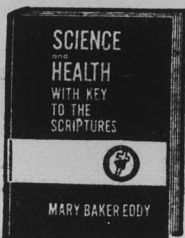

The Sun Devils trailed 5-4 going into the bottom of the fifth inning, but they pushed across five big runs in that frame. Key blows in the fifth inning were struck by Jack Handley, with a two-run single, and Paul Runge, with a triple.

Arizona State's hitting attack showed more life than it had in previous games, as the Devils rapped out a total of ten safeties. Handley had three hits and Runge two.

BOB VIEWS SPORTS NEWS

UofA Has Reputation

By BOB EGER
Sports Editor

If you've been around this state very long and if you follow baseball, you probably know something about the reputation of University of Arizona baseball teams.

You've probably heard that year after year they're among the nation's best and that the brand of ball they play is not far removed from baseball on the professional level.

If you've heard this, you've heard right. And here are a few facts and figures to back up the reputation of Arizona State's current diamond foe.

The Wildcats, under coach Frank Sancet, have reached the regional playoffs prior to the NCAA tourney the last 12 years in a row. They've reached the College World Series six times in those 12 years.

Sancet, who has more wins than any other coach in college baseball, has had the distinction of coaching 15 All Americans. The most recent of these is Joe Skaisgir, who returns to haunt the Sun Devils after a great series against the Demons last year.

Perhaps even more of an indication of the Wildcats' wealth of talent is the fact that in Sancet's 12 years, 35 UofA players have signed pro contracts. Last year's club, which topped the Sun Devils three games to one, contained six players which have since turned pro.

In recent years, Arizona State's Sun Devils, under the guiding hand of Bobby Winkles, have begun to chisel off little bits of national recognition by practically matching the 'Cats' heroics in the won-lost column.

This year, the Demons would like to chip off a big hunk of Arizona's domination of Southwest baseball. To do so, the ASU crew needs to win the six game series between the two schools. If the Devils can pull off this king-sized task, they will stop Arizona's string of successive District Six playoff berths.

There's no question that the Sun Devils are rising fast on the college baseball horizon. They've been ranked in various spots between fifth and 15th nationally during the past two years, and the only thing that has kept them from rising any higher is the fact that they haven't been able to win the yearly series between the two schools.

Winkles and company are hoping that this will be the year that past trends are halted and new ones begun. If the Devils can grab a series lead after this weekend's home stand, they will be holding the commanding position in this year's version of the annual battle.

Last season, the Devils lost two in Tucson and, with all the pressure on them, managed only a split in two games there. The year before, ASU won two games here but failed to win in two tries on the 'Cats' home grounds. This year, with the series expanded to six games, one team could establish a definite superiority over the other.

As usual, both camps are emitting statements which tend to be overly pessimistic and, as usual, a terrific series seems to be ready to unfold.

There'll be a lot at stake when these two teams clash and, as anyone who has witnessed an ASU-UofA diamond game in recent years can attest, anything can and probably will happen.

Spring Grid Game Tomorrow Night

Arizona State football fans will be afforded a look at things to come in the annual Maroon-Gold grid clash tomorrow night at 8 in Sun Devil Stadium.

The Maroon team looks like the one to beat as it is loaded with choice grid talent, but if past trends for this game hold true, don't bet on anything.

Coach Frank Kush has been pleased with recent practice sessions and a lot of Kush's merry feeling can be attributed to his speedy backfield, which rates as the fastest he's ever coached.

Playing in the Maroon backfield, which gets the nod over the Golds in experience, is quarterback John Jacobs, halfbacks Tony Lorick and Charlie Taylor and fullback Mitch Siskowski.

Kush has been somewhat concerned with the performances of his quarterback candidates. Jacobs is the top choice, with Lou Reynolds and Jim Clements next in that order. All three have displayed flashes of brilliance during spring workouts, but all three have been inconsistent in their quarterbacking efforts.

They're all vying for the spot left open when senior signal callers Joe Zuger and Ron Cosner used up their eligibility at the conclusion of last season.

Devil Diamonders Battle Wildcats

Devils, 'Cats Ranked High

Arizona State and rival Arizona, perennially among the nation's top-ranked college baseball teams, are once again near the nation's top.

In the first poll of the country's coaches and baseball writers, the Wildcats rate 11th nationally and the Sun Devils rank 13th.

ASU Nine Tops Wyoming Club

Arizona State continued its winning ways with a 4-0 baseball victory over Wyoming on the ASU diamond yesterday afternoon. The win was the Sun Devil's 10th straight and gives them an impressive 14-3 season mark.

Dan Acuff pitched a four hitter to record his first win of the season against no losses. He struck out seven Cowboy batters and walked only one in going the distance.

Third baseman Phil Groover got three hits, including a booming triple, to pace the Sun Devils at the plate. Larry Walker and Doug Westley each rapped out a pair of hits for ASU.

Host Powerful Tucson Foe For Three Crucial Games

By BOB EGER
Sports Editor

Two Goliaths of the college baseball world—Arizona and Arizona State—clash tonight at 7:30 in Mesa's Rendezvous Park to start a three game series that promises to be packed with thrills.

Not only is the rivalry between the two one of the most intense in the nation, but also it ranks as one of the most important. The winner of the ASU-UofA season series will represent this area in the playoffs for the right to participate in the College World Series in June.

This year the Devils and 'Cats play six games instead of four, as in the past. They meet at 1 p.m. tomorrow on the ASU diamond and again tomorrow night at 8 on Phoenix Municipal Stadium's grounds. The remaining three games will be played in Tucson on May 4 and 5.

Sun Devil Coach Bobby Winkles has named righthander Gary Graham to start on the mound tonight, and ASU's hopes will ride with lefty Harley Anderson and righty Pete Lovrich in tomorrow's contests.

Sterling Slaughter, who hurled a four-hit shutout against Southern Illinois last Saturday, has since picked up two victories in relief roles against Wyoming, and Winkles plans to use him in that capacity against the Wildcats.

Most of ASU's success thus far has come from the arms of the pitching staff, and it appears that there will be no variation from that pattern against the 'Cats.

Sun Devil hitters aren't expected to fatten their averages against the UofA's standout hurlers, led by Dan Schneider. Schneider, only a sophomore, already has a 5-0 record this season.

The Wildcats started the season much like the Devils—with good pitching but a definite lack of offensive punch. In recent games, however, Frank Sancet's crew has been ripping the ball at a pace in excess of .380, and the team average for the season is now hovering around the .300 mark.

Sancet's club, always one of the national powerhouses, brings a lusty 15-1-1 record to town against a healthy 14-3 mark for the Sun Devils. Those records won't be that good for long, though. In the next two days three more losses will be distributed in some manner between the two team's loss columns.

WE LIKE IKE — Has become the slogan of Sun Devil baseball fans who have seen Danny Ikeda in action. Not only does he cover center field like a blanket, but the Devils' All American candidate also wields a mean stick.

ENJOY JARMAN'S FRIENDLINESS OF FIT

The story here (a true story) is that this Jarman offers more casual good looks and comfort than most any shoe you can find. The handsome "sideline" stitching is hand sewn. The leather is supple grain. The construction is genuine moccasin, for durability and wearing ease. The price is surprisingly modest. The thing to do, therefore, is come in right away and try a pair.

Oxy Spikers Test Devils

By DENNIS ANDERSON
Occidental College meets Arizona State's cindermen in a Goodwin Stadium twilight dual meet tomorrow.

Field events get underway at 6 p.m., and the mile run starts track events half an hour later.

This will be the fourth meeting between the teams. "Oxy" has won the previous three, which date back to 1959. The meet should be hotly contested, and the outcome might be decided by the mile relay.

On the basis of a common opponent, Oregon State, ASU rates as the favorite. Two weeks ago the hustlin' Devils handed the Beavers a shocking 79-57 upset. Last week Oregon State turned around and nipped Occidental 67 2/3-63 1/3.

A torrid sprint battle shapes up between Oxy sensation Steve Haas and ASU's equally sensational Hubie Watson. Last week Haas ran the 220 around a curve in 20.5, tying the world record. When officials measured the track for submission of the mark, it was found to be five feet, nine inches short, hence the record was not allowed.

But Haas, who twice defeated ASU's Ullis Williams during the indoor season, turned in a 9.5 century against Oregon State and ran a 46.4 anchor leg to give the Tigers a 3:13.2 mile relay win.

Occidental brings in one of the nation's great all-around trackmen in Dixon Farmer, who was on the same U. S. European tour with ASU's Williams last summer. Farmer is proficient in several events. He broad jumps, hurdles, runs the 440 and half mile.

John McGrath, one of the country's up and coming weightmen also performs for Occidental. He shot puts 57 1/4 and twirls the discus 180-5 1/2.

As has been true with every team visiting ASU this year, Occidental boasts a foreign star. He is Britisher Richard Jones, who has clipped off a 9.04 2-mile and 4:13 mile.

JUMPIN' JOE — Caldwell, the human popo stick, shows the form that makes him a chief threat to take top honors every time he competes in the high jump event. Caldwell, fresh off the basketball hardwoods, has been consistently around the 6-6 mark in recent meets.
