Phi Kappa Phi Will Initiate 31

Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic society, will initiate 31 new members to the ASU chapter during a 6:30 p.m. banquet Friday in the Memorial Union.

Bert Fireman, executive vice president of the Arizona Historical Foundation, will deliver the banquet address, "Whose West?"

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lombardi, of the ASU faculty, will perform musical selections at the event.

The 13 members of the junior class who will be initiated into the group are: Betty Lu Barclay, Margie Ann Boerner, Andrea Marie Ehrlich, Susan R. Griffiths, Bryan H. Ravert, Gladys S. Robbins and Stephen L. Sargent.

Others are Oscar L. George Jr., Samuel E. Hill, Laura Jean Forbes, Dennis Lee Goudy, Anne Okada and Michael Lewis Skolnik.

The 15 seniors among the new members are: David I. Matthews, Patricia M. Nelson, Leslie Beresford Pearson, Roberta K. Taylor, Earl L. Walpole, Margaret Jo Williams and Mary Ann Williams.

Also, Bernice Lomanell Crance, Virginia M. Deever, Joanne E.

Hall, Linda L. Helser, Robert W. Repp, Wanda J. Watson, Roxanne K. Berry and Ransom F. McClellan Jr.

The following graduate students will also be initiated: Beverly K. Alisky, Eugene W. Henning and Creta Dambacher Sabine.

Dr. E. E. Burgoyne, professor of Chemistry and president of the campus chapter of the society, will preside at the banquet.

Phi Kappa Phi officers are: Dr. Daniel C. Robinson, chairman of the division of Agriculture, president; Dr. John H. Krenkel, professor of History, vice president; Nicholas A. Salerno, instructor in English, secretary; Mrs. Helen M. Hoover, assistant professor of Home Economics, treasurer, and Dr. Wilbur F. Murra, associate professor of Education, journal correspondent.

Carter Wins General Election

Bob Carter was declared president for 1962 after defeating Garth Tallman 1119 to 796 in the ASASU general election last Wednesday.

Doug Zimmerman defeated Jerry Epple, 549 to 525 for AMS president, and Kay Lynskey defeated Diane Voorhis 358 to 331 for AWS president.

New senior class senators are Tom McDougall, 261, and Pete McClennen, 245, who defeated George Rhodes, 237, and Mark Cockrill, 230.

Sophomore class senators are Judy Wilson and Karl Wochner, who edged out Bev Bulla with votes of 429, 349 and 336, respectively.

Hugo Zettler and June Koenig defeated Jeff Louis for liberal arts senator posts with votes of 444, 404 and 349, respectively, and education senators Bill West and Janice Ayers defeated Danny Baker 345, and 341 to 237.

Business administration senators are Fahir Kirdar, 323, and

President Views ROTC Proposal

The U.S. Army proposed last Wednesday that college ROTC be changed from the present four-year program to a two-year program.

The new program, as recommended to the Defense Department, would be confined to the junior and senior years, with a four-week basic training camp before the junior year and an eight-week advanced training camp between the junior and senior years.

As background and information concerning the current proposal, President G. Homer Durham explained today, "The Department of Defense has had the college ROTC program under extensive study for more than two years, during both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations."

"The Air Force ROTC and the Secretary of the Air Force made their recommendations for the two-year program to the Department of Defense last December," said Durham.

"The Department of Defense has been trying to work out a program compatible to both the Army and Air Force," said Durham.

"It now appears that the Army ROTC has made the same proposal to the Department of Defense, which will make recommendations to the President and Congress.

"This is undoubtedly a new approach to officer procurement. The proposal represents a long period of study of military officers and educators," he added.

"An ROTC program confined to the junior and senior years will open a new pool for officer procurement — the junior college transfer," said Durham.

However, a spokesman for President Durham said it was premature at this early date to voice the University's position in regards to changing or continuing the present program.

Curriculum Advisement Scheduled In Two Weeks

Curriculum advisement week, for all students who plan to register for six or more semester hours next fall, will be from May 7 until noon May 12.

Students may pick up the fall semester schedule of classes at the office of the registrar after May 3.

Students planning to register for six hours or more will be required to present an approved program of studies signed by their curriculum adviser for admission to registration on regular registration days.

Part-time students who intend to enroll for less than six semester hours should consult with their advisers concerning their programs, if this work is being taken to meet degree requirements, graduate or undergraduate.

Part-time students do not need an approved program of studies signed by their adviser.

Students who do not obtain a signed approved program of studies during the regular advisement period will not be able to see their advisers during the normal registration days in the fall, and they will have to meet with their advisers in the short period scheduled for late registration.

The purpose of this special advisement period is to give students the opportunity to meet with their adviser for educational planning and for the approval of a program of studies for the next semester.

Curriculum advisers will post special office hours for this advisement period.

Students who do not know the name of their adviser or his office number should inquire at the office of the dean of the college in which they are registered.

Spring Payson Workshop Slated For Next Weekend

By NANCY TENNEY

"A Closer Look at Student Leadership" is the overall theme of the Spring Leadership Workshop at Camp Tontozona May 4, 5 and 6.

The purpose of the semi-annual workshop is to allow members of the student body government to become acquainted with each other and hold discussions in an informal atmosphere while becoming aware of the responsibilities of leadership through speeches, buzz groups and panel discussions.

Along with 50 student government members, 30 members of the student body at large were selected to attend the workshop, which is sponsored by the Organization and Leadership Board.

These students were chosen from more than 50 applications submitted to the board on the basis of grade average, activities and leadership potential.

Students will leave the campus at 3 p.m. May 4, arriving at Camp Tontozona at 5:30.

Supper will be followed by introductions and group singing, a keynote address by Dean Gary Anderson and the major address by the Rev. Kermit L. Long, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Phoenix. Dancing and entertainment will close the evening's events.

Following breakfast on Saturday morning, Professor Sherwood G. Huneryager, ASU's coordinator of executive development programs, will give a demonstration and discussion of "Role Playing."

Gary Walker will lead a panel discussion of "A Critique of Campaign Promises," after which the students will break into small buzz or special discussion groups.

Major addresses will be given in the afternoon by James D. Lay, special assistant, Office of Public Affairs, U.S. Peace Corps and, Dr. Gerald V. Haigh, ASU clinical psychologist.

Evening activities include group singing, a major address by Phoenix Mayor

Samuel Mardian Jr., a feature film and a campfire program at Tontozona or dancing at Kohl's Ranch.

A non-denominational worship service will be Sunday morning, after which there will be closing remarks and a workshop evaluation led by Dean W. P. Shofstall.

Naiads Will Present Swim Show May 4-5

Naiads, ASU's swimming honorary, will present its annual water show at the ASU pool, May 4 and 5 at 8 p.m.

The show, "Aloha Hawaii," will feature, for the first time, a number by the boys' swimming team.

Participating in "The Hawaiian War Chant" will be John Frederick, Jerry Maston, Al Raphael, Larry Lieberman, Tom Schultz and Tom Rietow.

Members of the Naiads who will take part in the show are: Karen Maglich, Mary Jane Isbell, Beverly Dexter, Kathy Huffman, Tracy Duncan and Becky Manniere.

Also, Julie Goodson, Judy Davenport, Sheryl Coffin, Janet Kaufman and Lila Pemberton.

Others are Jean Puckle, Liz Huish, Millie Loughridge, Marilyn Hanson and Connie Sadely.

Divers in the show will be Patsy Willard, Bette Barr and Harvey Plant.

At the AAU indoor championships in California this weekend, Miss Willard took first place and Miss Barr fifth in the one-meter board event.

The show, which will follow the story of Hawaii's history, will feature costumes including flowers, special lighting effects and grass skirts.

UN Speaker Here Tonight

Paul Edwards, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund representative to the Philippines, will speak tonight at 7:30 in the Alumni House.

UNICEF is a United Nations organization that provides food and medical care to children in underprivileged areas of the world.

Edwards, an outstanding speaker from the West Coast, is passing through Arizona on his vacation.

His lecture is sponsored by the Sociology Club and ASU Foreign Students Club.

Chilton Appoints Committee To Study Election Policies

By TOM WING

Action on the floor of the ASU Student Senate last Wednesday afternoon lead to Speaker Jim Chilton's appointment of a select study committee to look into the policies and procedures of the Election Board.

Senator Bob Bonatati, a re-elected senator from the Graduate College, started the action by moving that such a committee be appointed. Senator Dianne Bowman seconded the motion, which passed.

Eight grievances against the way the ASU general elections had been handled were discussed in debate before the Student Senate.

Some of the major points brought out concerning the election procedures were:

1. Some of the paper ballots were being torn in half after being counted rather than being filed in the office of the ASU secretary for one week as the statutes require;

2. The paper ballots merely were mimeographed, thus could be easily duplicated;

3. One senator's name had been inserted in a wrong slot on one of the voting machines, and the students were not being informed that they would have to pull the lever above to vote for the candidate;

4. The voting machines were not adequately supervised in several ways in order to make certain that students voted for the correct constituencies, and

5. The paper ballots merely were stacked on top of the voting tables with a rock on top of them, making them easily accessible to anyone.

The select committee appointed by Chilton will be headed by Gary Nichols. Others on it are Jerry Trammel, Lon Lee and Sheila Brennan.

No Examinations On Memorial Day

The Commencement committee voted, at its last meeting, to revise the examination schedule for this semester so that Memorial Day will be deleted from the schedule.

The new exam schedule will be released sometime next week, according to Dr. H. D. Richardson, academic vice president.

Dean Of College To Talk Here

Dr. Clinton Adams, dean of the College of Fine Arts, University of New Mexico, will lecture on "The Avant Garde and the Academy" at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Social Sciences 105.

Mrs. Gammage To Give Talk

Mrs. Grady Gammage, assistant for development and public affairs at ASU, will be guest speaker May 1 at Women's Day at Texas Tech.

Mrs. Gammage, who is also associate secretary of the ASU Foundation, is current president of the state division of the American Association of University Women.

Federal Exam Set For May

The last scheduled federal service entrance examination for this spring will be May 12.

Eligibility on the examination will be good until about Feb. 1, 1963.

Students interested in this exam may obtain Form 5000-AB from the placement office of the Tempe Post Office. This form must be mailed to the Denver Civil Service Region, Building 41, Denver Federal Center, Denver, 25, Colo., by tomorrow.

The examination is open to all academic majors, and seniors with majors in business administration and biological sciences are particularly urged to apply.

Speaker Announced For Women's Day

Dr. Pearl Tang, director of maternal and child health, division of Medical Science of the Maricopa County Health Department, will be the main speaker for ASU Women's Day on May 3.

Dr. Tang, M.D., received her degrees at the University of Arizona and the University of Aurora, Shanghai, China.

She is a member of the County Medical Society, Arizona

Medical Society and the American Medical Association.

Final preparations for Women's Day are now under way, according to Marilyn Rossini, chairman of the steering committee for the event.

Among the events planned are a morning assembly at 10:30 in the MU Ballroom and a banquet that evening.

Other speakers for the banquet will be Dean Gary Anderson and Dean Catherine Nichols.

Senate Establishes New Western Week

ASU's traditional Western Week was finally established in writing when the Student Senate passed SB 174 last Wednesday.

The bill, introduced by Senator Gary Nichols of the College of Applied Arts and Sciences, passed by a vote of 21-11.

Western Week, one of the oldest traditional activities of the ASU campus, has previously been under the supervision of the activities vice president, the Activities Coordination Board and a committee appointed by the Senate.

Under the procedure of the bill, the Western Week committee will be composed of a "marshal" (chairman) appointed by the activities vice president and three to six "deputies" appointed by the marshal.

The committee will be responsible to the activities vice president and the Activities Coordination Board.

Its duties will be to promote Western Week and urge all university organizations to participate to sponsor a Western Week Queen contest, a dance and other western activities that allow for voluntary participation.

An additional duty will be to urge, but not make mandatory, western dress on campus.

The bill established the annual affair for the first five days preceding the university rodeo plus the days of the rodeo.

Advisors Needed For Next Year

Sahuaro Hall needs floor advisors for next year, according to Ken Calbeck, hall director.

Applications may be picked up in Dean Gary Anderson's office or from Calbeck at Sahuaro Hall and are due May 15.

The Adelpia row units need graduate students for next year's house advisors. These applications also may be picked up at Dean Anderson's office.

Day Honors Top Group In Business

Top ASU business students were honored last week at a luncheon during Business Day activities on campus.

Graduating seniors with the highest grade index in the College of Business Administration were presented keys by Delta Sigma Pi, business fraternity.

Recipients were Wanda J. Watson, Richard S. Ray and W. E. Wilson, a January graduate and former president of the organization.

Alpha Pi Epsilon, national secretarial honorary, named Carmen Rivera as the outstanding senior woman. She received a bracelet.

The Wall Street Journal award, given to the outstanding student majoring in Finance, was presented to Gerald E. Rupp.

Mrs. LaRue Hubbard was selected as outstanding senior in business education on the basis of scholarship and activities. She was awarded a certificate from the United Business Educators Association.

John Trowbridge, president of Pi Sigma Epsilon, national professional fraternity in marketing, sales management and selling, was given a special award for helping the ASU chapter win the national top chapter award two years in a row.

The Society for the Advancement of Management honored John Cole as the outstanding student for his activities.

Career Cues:

"An interest in student activities can pay you dividends later on!"

Gibson F. Dailey, Asst. to the President
George A. Fuller Company

"Extracurricular activities never really interested me... architecture and construction always did. It's a paradox, though, because as it turned out student activities gave me a big jump on my career in construction.

"Studies educated me. But college activities provided the confidence I needed to approach the business world. Looking back, it was these activities that really gave me my first knowledge of people, administration, leadership.

"Working for the college newspaper, fun magazine, and engineering bulletin taught me writing—a gift I use today in the promotion and getting of new business. Student Council brought the chance to work with other men—a daily occurrence now. Penn's theatrical group and engineering shows helped me relax in front of an audience then—and help me find my voice when I'm talking to large groups now.

"True, today's heavy college curriculum doesn't allow much time for activities. There wasn't much time for them in my day either. I burned a lot of midnight oil on architectural studies, but difficult as they were I still found time for student activities.—I'm mighty happy that I did.

"If you have time during the rest of your years in school to take an interest in activities—do it! It's certain to pay big dividends in an inspiring future in the business of your choice."

Gibson Dailey started with the George A. Fuller Company, the largest building construction firm in the country, right after college. Today he is assistant to the president. Gib started smoking Camels while still on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania. He's been a Camel smoker ever since.

38 days to go— it's time to punt

The time has come. There are 38 days left.

The drop period ended over a month ago. Easter vacation flew by and most of us didn't even realize it... (A bunch of guys went to California and by the time they reached Yuma the vacation period was one-fourth over.) The Greeks succeeded in the election. And in seven days it will be May.

ASTONISHING, huh? Our point: It's time to put away the Coppertone, cut down on the cerveza, limit movie-watching to the weekends... and get serious.

If you're in the situation we're in, you've got an awful lot to do in those coming 38 days. Chances are you'll never get it all done, but we suggest you put forth an amazing effort and try to get as much of it done as possible.

To put it briefly, let's try the BOOK library for a change. Besides, you ought to be running out of money pretty soon, and that will cut down the spring fever activities more than anything else.

OTHER THINGS: We are awaiting the announcement of the names selected for the two streets which are a part of the new fraternity row.

Names were suggested by several fraternities and the Alumni Interfraternity Council narrowed the proposed names down to five or six. They were supposedly then sent to Business Vice President Cady's office for final selection.

We are wondering if they were sent, and if the final decision has been reached... and, if it has been reached, we think a lot of people would like to know what the streets will be called... especially in view of the fact that the row is getting closer and closer to completion.

CLEARING THE DESK: That old American source of influence — called "popular demand" — has brought back to the pages of the State Press the cartoon series "Little Man On Campus." Hope you enjoy him... we'll try to get him in whenever possible.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

election process quivering with inadequacy

To the Editor:

I protest! Just because one doesn't face a senate sub-committee or the possibility of a jail sentence, is this any reason why there cannot be honor?

In the recent campus elections, and I use the term loosely, there were certain rather unfortunate activities. Certain groups were known to practice and encourage the violation of election rules "en masse."

If activities of this sort are not dealt with, if crowds jam an election line to create confusion, if persons vote as members of one class and one college under a fictitious shroud in order that their beloved cohort shall represent a "democratic body" of the University legislative body, then something is wrong.

When persons from student class honoraries fail to fulfill their duties by allowing activities of this sort to go on, then the purpose of such honoraries is defeated.

Perhaps those who receive their positions by such devious means will fulfill them in a manner pleasing to the student body.

Perhaps underhanded methods are to the liking of the student body. If they are not, then someone should take action.

As far as I'm concerned the results seem rather meaningless. Our election process seems to quiver with inadequacy.

COVERING COLLEGE AVENUE

pre-vacation activity centers around bookstore

By ROSALYN WHITNEY
Spring break has sprung! Now it is back again to books, hikes to the Education building and 6:40 alarms.

Activity preceding the "vacation" was centered around the University Bookstore, where students spent their Easter savings on typing paper.

The term paper assignments weren't cut in accordance with the slice of six days from the spring break.

Determined to see that not one precious moment was lost, many Arizona Staters made their annual trek to California, with Mexico running a close second, departing immediately after Thursday classes.

As they raced back for Tuesday classes, they jealously returned waves from the "Nogo Tech" Wildkittens as the latter began their celebration jaunt to the beaches.

The FAC didn't let the 10 minus 6 problem daunt its spirit, as parties celebrated the start, climax and finish of our glorious spring break.

The clan has only one minor detail to fret about: Which one will be the recipient of the next pie?

Summer school will begin June 18 and with it will come the worst example of chaos ever to hit the ASU campus — registration.

Although the number of prospective students dwindles considerably, the lines get longer and what is usually the scene of confusion becomes a mad house.

We wish all of you who are planning to tackle the heat and gain a few extra hours the best of luck. One suggestion: Carry a chair and canteen with you.

We have a bouquet to present.

In the midst of all the rush and resulting short tempers, it is extremely gratifying to find a patient and helpful person.

We were struggling with an assignment in the curriculum laboratory when we discovered such an individual.

Jessie C. Russell, curriculum laboratory manager, is always ready to offer her assistance and is quick to do so. To her we give our thanks!

We were glad to see that the number of voters increased for the ASU general elections, but it's a pretty poor showing when, with four "vote here" locations, not even 20 per cent of the students managed to take a few minutes out to cast their ballots.

Finals are on the horizon, are you ready?

Matthews Library is destined to fall under the last minute rush of the slow starters and electricity, coffee and cigarette bills will hit their peak as the all-nighters begin the race to the wire.

Resolutions will once again be made to "keep up on the assignments next semester."

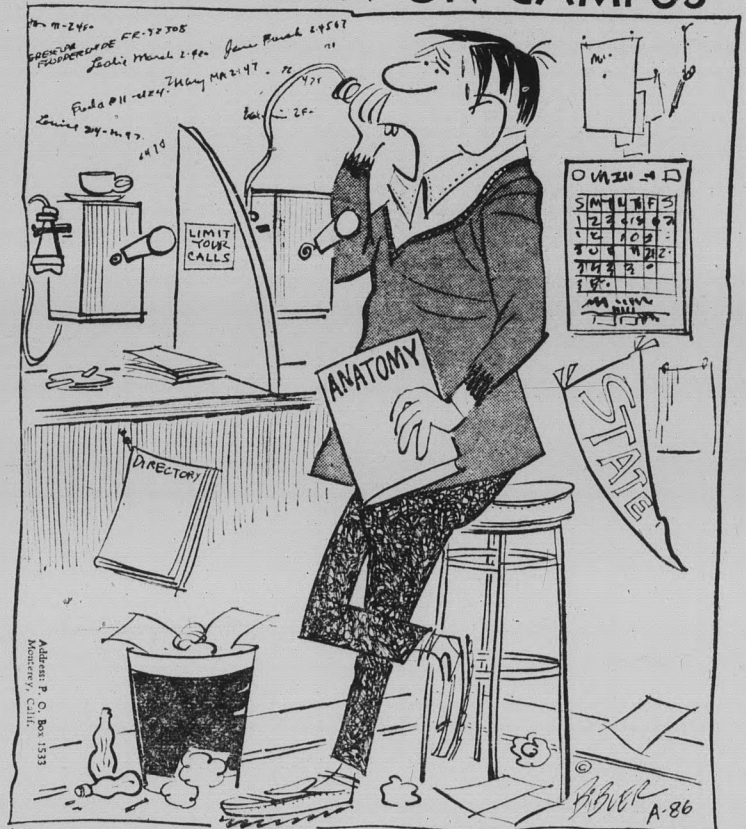

In closing, we offer our readers some words to the wise:

"It ain't the things you don't know what gets you into trouble; it's the things you know for sure what ain't so."

That's all!

Cheerleader Forms Are Due On April 27

The deadline for cheerleader applications has been extended until Friday at 5 p.m., it was announced by Barbara Stickler, tryout chairman.

Late applications can still be picked up at the MU information desk. Completed applications should be returned to the desk before the Friday deadline.

Miss Stickler said, "We would like to see as many men try out as possible, as we have found they are best able to hold the attention of the crowd."

Cheerleader requirements set by the Rally and Traditions Board and the University are: a 2.00 grade point average, attendance at ASU for at least one semester and registration for a minimum of 12 hours.

Tryouts will be May 1 at 3 p.m. in the men's gym.

Judges will include ASASU President Gary Walker; Sue Chemnick, senator; John Brookling, activities vice president; Jim Howard; Ollie White; Dean Gary Anderson; Margaret Gisol; Bob Reynolds, Rally and Traditions Board advisor, and Miss Stickler.

Applicants will be judged on leadership, personality, coordination, voice and poise. All applicants must give an original and traditional yell.

Alums Donate To Memorial Scholarship

ASU alumni recently added $15,112 to the Grady Gamage Memorial Scholarship fund, according to Edward M. Carson, Phoenix, chairman of the first annual alumni campaign.

Carson said Thursday that 1,373 alumni contributed.

Dr. G. Homer Durham, president of the University, praised Carson for the "success of the campaign and the establishment of a high standard of alumni giving."

The donations averaged $11.28. Thirty-four "cum laude" members each contributed $100 or more to the fund.

CRAM COURSE No. 3: ENGLISH POETRY

Final exams will soon be upon us. This is no time for fun and games. Let us instead study hard, cram fiercely, prepare assiduously.

In this column today let us make a quick survey of English poetry. When we speak of English poetry, we are, of course, speaking of Byron, Shelley, and Keats. Some say that of the three, Keats was the most talented. It is true that he displayed his gifts earlier than the others. While still a schoolboy at St. Swithin's he wrote his epic lines:

*If I am good, I get an apple,
So I don't whistle in the chapel.*

From this distinguished beginning, he went on to write another 40,000 poems in his lifetime—which is all the more remarkable when you consider that he was only five feet tall!

I mention this fact only to show that physical problems never keep the true artist from creating. Byron, for example, was lame. Shelley had an ingrown hair. Nonetheless, these three titans of literature turned out a veritable torrent of romantic poetry.

Nor did they neglect their personal lives. Byron, a devil with the ladies, was expelled from Oxford for dipping Elizabeth Barrett's pigtails in an inkwell. He thereupon left England to fight in the Greek war of independence. He fought bravely and well, but women were never far from his mind, as evidenced by this immortal poem:

*How splendid it is to fight for the Greek,
But I don't enjoy it half as much as dancing cheek to cheek.*

While Byron fought in Greece, Shelley remained in England, where he became court poet to the Duke of Marlborough. (It is interesting to note in passing that Marlborough was the original spelling of Marlboro Cigarettes, but the makers were unable to get the entire word on the package. With characteristic ingenuity they cleverly lopped off the final "gh". This, of course, left them with a "gh" lying around the factory. They looked for some place to put it and finally decided to give it to the Director of Sales, Mr. Vincent Van Go. This had a rather curious result. As plain Van Go, he had been a crackerjack director of sales, but once he became Van Gogh, he felt a mysterious, irresistible urge to paint. He resigned from the Company and became an artist. It did not work out too well. When Van Gogh learned what a great success Marlboro Cigarettes quickly became—as, of course, they had to with such a flavorful flavor, such a filterful filter, such a flip-top box, such a soft pack—he was so upset about leaving the firm that he cut off his ear in a fit of chagrin.)

But I digress. Byron, I say, was in Italy and Shelley in

He resigned from the Company and became an artist

England. Meanwhile Keats went to Rome to try to grow. Who does not remember his wistful lyric:

*Although I am only five feet high,
Some day I will look in an elephant's eye.*

But Keats did not grow. His friends, Shelley and Byron, touched to the heart, rushed to Rome to stretch him. This too failed. Then Byron, ever the ladies' man, took up with Lucrezia Borgia, Catherine of Aragon, and Annie Oakley. Shelley, a more domestic type, stayed home with his wife Mary, and wrote his famous poem:

*I love to stay home with the missus and write,
And hug her and kiss her and give her a bite.*

Mary Shelley finally got so tired of being bitten that she went into another room and wrote Frankenstein. Upon reading the manuscript, Shelley and Byron got so scared they immediately booked passage home to England. Keats tried to go too, but he was so small that the clerk at the steamship office couldn't see him over the top of the counter. So Keats remained in Rome and died of a broken heart.

Byron and Shelley cried a lot and then together composed this immortal epitaph:

*Good old Keats, he might have been short,
But he was a great American and a heck of a good sport.*

Truth, not poetry, is the business of the Marlboro makers, and we tell you truly that you can't find a better tasting, better smoking cigarette than today's Marlboro.

Gamma Phi Beta Follies On Tap Friday, Saturday

"Things are Tough All Over" is the title of the 12th annual Gamma Phi Follies to be presented this Friday and Saturday at Mesa High School's auditorium at 8 p.m.

The follies, which have become an ASU tradition, are a musical comedy dealing with college life.

This year's follies are centered around a college campus and the problems during the war with a shortage of men.

Dottie Cooley will star in the follies, which is under the direction of Sandi Watts and Rainy Brooks.

Other cast members include Karen Lindstrom, Sharon Wilkes, Darcy Brooks, Carol Ingersol, Judy Russell, Billie Stormont, Virginia Maddox and Suzanne Young.

This year, the Gamma Phis will present seven variety skits of singing and dancing between the acts of the comedy.

Tickets may be purchased from any Gamma Phi or at the auditorium on the nights of the performances. A ticket booth will be set up this week on the corner of the MU.

The women of Gamma Phi Beta have presented the follies ever since 1949 when they became the first national sorority on the ASU campus.

Before 1949, Zeta Sigma, the local which became Gamma Phi Beta, had presented their follies on the Arizona State campus.

The Society for the Advancement of Management elected officers at a noon coffee hour last week in MU 218C.

John Cole was selected the "outstanding society member of 1962."

Frank Kirdar was elected president of the organization.

Other officers are: Bill Tennyson, executive vice president; Dwayne Gross, vice president; Cecilia Morgan, secretary, and Fahir Kirdar, treasurer.

Fraternity Assets Listed By Greeks

By BILL OVEREND
Campus Editor
(Last in a Series of Two)

Defending fraternities as educational supplements to college life, fraternity men spoke out yesterday in the second of two student polls investigating the relative assets and liabilities of Greek and independent living.

Leadership training, group cooperation and tolerance were listed as additional benefits by almost all Greeks questioned. One man seemed disappointed with his experiences in a fraternity.

Some student comments follow:

Jack Phillips, Alpha Tau Omega: "Two of the greatest benefits of fraternity life are the tolerance and brotherhood gained in learning to get along with people in different circumstances. College is a good place to start practicing these things."

Mitchell Holder, Delta Chi: "The most important benefit from a fraternity, in my estimation, is the sense of belonging and group cooperation which comes from working together toward the same goal."

Dave Mills, Sigma Nu: "I have seen very few benefits in my three years at ASU in being a fraternity man. If I had it all to do again, I would concentrate less on the trivialities of fraternity life and more on the ideals."

Sheldon Miller, Alpha Epsilon Pi: "I joined a fraternity because I realized that classes offer only academic education, while fraternities offer social education, not only for social events, but for leadership training, a working knowledge of brotherhood and tolerance."

Dean Anderson, Sigma Chi: "I think a fraternity is the only thing for someone out of state. If one works towards the ideals of the fraternity, he can get a lot out of it. But, like anything else, you only get from a fraternity what you put into it."

Russ Culver, Sigma Phi Epsilon: "Fraternity benefits are many and varied. First, you get the benefit of close associations with people of similar interests. You learn how to work with them. Also, fraternities provide you with an organized social and athletic life on campus."

Devil Spikers Edge Tough Lobos

By DENNIS ANDERSON

For the first time this season, Arizona State's thinclads showed semblance of depth in the broad jump, as they defeated a game University of New Mexico 69-62 in a Goodwin Stadium meet last week.

Hustlin' Henry Carr placed second to the Lobos' Ken Medley, with a 22-8 leap. The Detroit comet narrowly fouled on a leap of 23-8. Medley won at 23-7. Joe Caldwell came through with 21-6½, good for third, in his initial try at the event.

Carr continued his supremacy over Demon teamie, Hubie Watson, by winning the 100 in 9.5. New Mexico's Adolph Plummer, passing up the quarter, placed second, with Watson third, favoring a muscle twinge that kept him out of the 220.

Plummer won the longer race in a stadium record time of 20.3.

ASU's splendid quarter milers Uli Williams, Ron Fregman and Mike Barrick finished in that order. Uli's winning time was a sub-par 47.1. Hurdler Gaston

Green had a fine double victory with times of 14.3 and 23.5.

John Rose achieved a career best by vaulting 15-6, making him the second best in collegiate ranks. Fred Hansen of Rice has a 15-6¼ vault. On the basis of consistency, John is rated first; he's been over 15 feet in every home meet, seven to date.

Competitive Dan Roth lowered his season half mile time to 1:52.5 but was edged by UNM's Pete Brown, who raced to his all-time best, 1:52.3.

Australian Eric Owers ran an inspired 2 mile for the Demons, coming in third by outkicking his opponent in the final 200 yards. This proved to be important to the Devils' cause.

ASU held on 64-62 going into the mile relay, where Carr made his season debut by contributing a 48.6 second leg, as the Devils won handily in 3:10.6, after the Lobos dropped the baton on the final pass.

Road Venture Unsuccessful

Arizona State's baseballers are back in friendly Tempe after a disastrous road trip through southern California which saw them lose six times in seven outings.

The Devils' season record currently stands at 19-17.

On Tuesday of last week, the Devils were topped twice by West Coast powerhouses in the Los Angeles State Easter tournament.

The ASU nine lost a morning contest to the nation's top-ranked collegiate team, USC, by an 8-6 score in 12 innings, and UCLA dumped the Devils 14-6 in an afternoon contest that same day.

In a Wednesday tournament contest, LA State topped ASU 6-2, and Thursday, San Jose State bested the Devils by a 5-1 score. Cal Poly also topped the Devils 5-4 Thursday in the 13th inning of a contest which had been continued from Monday with the score deadlocked at the end of 12.

ASU won its only game of the trip Friday with a 2-1 conquest of LA State in a non-tournament contest, but the Devils fell to Cal Poly 12-5 Saturday to close out the trip.

WIMP PLACES 10th

Les Wimp of ASU placed tenth in the Northern California Collegiate golf tournament last weekend.

Wimp, a standout on the Sun Devil golf crew all season, fired rounds of 76, 73, 76 and 75 to card a 300 for the 72 hole tourney.
