Planning Banquet

ASU's Business College Receives Full Accreditation

ASU's College of Business Administration has been fully accredited by the American Association of Collegiate School of Business, Dr. G. Homer Durham, ASU president recently announced.

Although basic requirements of the association have been met for five years, it was necessary to wait until students had graduated and proved their competence in various fields of business before making application, said Dean Glenn Overman of the Business College.

Accreditation by the AACSB will bring a number of advantages to both students and faculty, according to Dean Overman.

He said foundation grants for research are often available only to member schools.

Approval for accreditation is based on the results of an intensive study of the standards, curriculum, faculty and facilities of the Business College.

A personal inspection last December by a committee of deans from member institutions brought praise concerning the quality of the ASU business administration program during a period of remarkable expansion.

More than half of the 56-member faculty hold doctorate degrees.

Approximately 2,000 students are currently majoring in undergraduate and graduate programs in one of the six departments: Accounting, Economics, Marketing, Management, General Business Administration and Office Administration.

The college is authorized to grant the bachelor of science degree in 10 fields of specialization, the master of business administration degree and the master of science degree in accounting, economics and business administration.

WSD Queen Contestants Vie Today

Three campus bathing beauties will be selected as finalists in the Water Sports Day Queen contest at 4 p.m. this afternoon at the ASU swimming pool.

Crowning of the queen will highlight the Interfraternity Council-sponsored Water Sports Day May 5 at Saguaro Lake.

Wearing banners with the names of their sponsoring organizations, contestants will be judged on personality, poise and bathing suit appearance.

Judges will be Mrs. Trudy Thomas, assistant director of the MU; Mrs. Mary Sterling, of the Flair School of Modeling and Charm; Dick Mansperger, assistant football coach; Dean Gary Anderson, and William R. Ramsey instructor of educational psychology.

Larry Summerson, queen contest chairman, will present the queen with a gold trophy and a bouquet of flowers.

Carl Hayden, Howard Pyle Honored At Banquet Saturday

Two of Tempe's most famous "sons," Senator Carl Hayden and former Arizona Governor Howard Pyle, were honored Saturday night at a banquet in the MU.

James W. Creasman, executive secretary of the ASU Alumni Association, presented the two guests with portraits in stone relief, which will hang in the MU.

Senator Hayden has represented Arizona longer than any of the 10,000 congressmen in the history of the U.S.

He is currently president pro-tempore of the U.S. Senate and chairman of the influential Senate Appropriations committee.

Pyle is now the president and chairman of the Board of the National Safety Council. He served several years as an assistant to President Eisenhower.

During the ceremonies, Senator Hayden, on behalf of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, presented ASU with a cancer research grant of $5,000.

The informal dinner was sponsored by the Tempe Chamber of Commerce. Around 232 Valley residents attended.

Among the dignitaries attending the dinner were Secretary of State and Mrs. Wesley Bolin, ASU President and Mrs. G. Homer Durham, Phoenix Mayor Sam Mardian, Corporation Commissioner Duke Sinner and the Rev. Thomas Pyle, father of the former governor.

Natani Taps 25 At Dawn

This morning at 4:30, Natani, junior women's honorary, tapped 25 new members.

The new initiates must have at least a 2.7 grade index and must have excelled in leadership and service to the school.

The 25 are: Beverly Adkins, Mary Avery, Jo Dee Baird, Vergie Behrens, Dianne Bowman, Ferne Bridge, Pat Brinias, Susan Chemnick and Susan Collins.

Also, Anna Sue Crush, Martha Dillner, Linda Fallgren, Sarah Frost, Sandra Garmire, Margaret Holstine, Sharon House and Jean Ison.

Others are Mary Sue Ittner, Pauline Leung, Bonnie Miller, Margaret Murphy, Barbara Peck, Sue Rawson, Mary Ellen Ross and Pat Rovey.

Natani, along with the other three women's honoraries, will be presented at the Associated Women Students Women's Day banquet, tomorrow evening at 5:30.

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary, initiated 47 new members.

New members include:

Merrilee Bean, Barbara Beatty, Pamela Beers, Tina Beers, Patricia Betton, Sheila Boblitt, Donna Butts, Candy Cottage, Diane Diedrick, Judith Elliott, Margarita Esparza, Lynn Finell, Betty Fisher, Janet Fisher and Karen Ford.

Others were: Della Gardner, Roberta Glenn, Elizabeth Goswick, Polly Hepburn, Kathleen Hock, Janice Hutchens, Mary Jordan, Elaine Kosowsky, Sharon Kraus, Karen Kuehnman, Barbara Kulik, Donna Laser, Judy Lebeau, Dorothy Marshall, Robin Miller, Susan Murphy, Margaret Nelson, Laurel O'Day, and Karla Payne.

Also, Judy Pedersen, Gay Petricka, Cynthia Rigden, Marilyn Schiedat, Algene Schwanz, Marilyn Steel, Diane Ulmer,

Fellowship Director Named Honors Convocation Speaker

By LARRY AUGSBURGER

Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, national director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship, will address ASU's annual student Honors Convocation May 18.

The Honors Convocation, which recognizes outstanding ASU students, will be at 10:40 a.m. in the MU Ballroom and is open to the public. It signals the beginning of each year's commencement activities.

Dr. Rosenhaupt will speak on "Some More Equal," a discussion of the difficulties and challenges faced by an intellectual elite in a democratic society.

Rosenhaupt has headed the Woodrow Wilson foundation since 1958, when it was expanded to its present size. It now grants 1,000 fellowships annually through a $25,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Prior to that time, he had been in charge of admissions to the graduate faculties at Columbia University for 10 years.

Dr. Rosenhaupt was born in Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Germany, in 1911, and attended universities in Frankfurt, Berlin and Munich.

In 1935 he received the Ph.D. from the University of Berne, Switzerland, and came to the United States. He became a U.S. citizen in 1940.

During World War II he served in the U.S. Army in military intelligence, and after the war he lectured throughout the country on foreign affairs under the auspices of Rotary International.

These lectures gave birth to a book, "How to Wage Peace," published in 1949.

Faculty Club To Salute Scottsdale As Part Of 'Town-Gown' Series

The second in a series of "Town and Gown" observances will be Friday and will honor Scottsdale.

The series, sponsored by the ASU Faculty Club, is designed to "develop closer relations between ASU and the various Valley communities of which the university is a part," according to E. J. Demson, president of the Faculty Club.

Special invitations have been sent to leading Scottsdale civic leaders, including Mayor William P. Schrader, to attend a barbecue picnic at the new ASU farm at Elliot and Price Roads, six miles southeast of the main campus.

The picnic is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m.

Adults will be charged $1.25 and children 50 cents.

Senators Study Code Violations

The select senate committee to study the recent ASU elections will report to the senate today, said Gary Nichols, chairman.

The report of the committee came to the conclusion that (1) each candidate did not get a fair chance to win and (2) the Election Board did not do its fullest duty in carrying out the past elections.

The violations of the statutes were:

1. Polling areas were not patrolled by the University Police.
  2. Space was not provided for write-in candidates for each office.
  3. Voters were not notified that they were entitled to vote for two senators from each of their constituencies, but need only vote for one.
  4. A sign was not posted at each poll instructing voters that the only valid mark was an "X".
  5. Ballots were not kept for at least two weeks in the ASU secretary's office.
  6. There was not observance of strict silence and no campaign material in the designated election areas.
  7. Ten clerks were not appointed to help the Election Board with the counting of votes.
  8. Sample ballots were not posted at all polling places on the election day.
- Poor judgment on the part of the Election Board was in these areas:
1. Policy concerning placing certain candidates on the ballot for the general election.
  2. Selection of polling areas and number of polls set up.
  3. The honoraries that worked the polling places were not properly informed as to what security they could take to insure an honest election.
- The resolution which is

Jane Warne, Judith Wilson and Florence Wright.

The sophomore women's honorary, Spurs, tapped 32 new members yesterday.

They are: Martha Brubaker, Diane Diedrich, Elizabeth Dyer, Peggy Eklund, Natalie Freedman, Roberta Glenn, Janice Jo Hutchens, Elizabeth Mitchell, Karla Payne, Algene Schwanz, Jerry Shields, Nancy Tenney, Mary Ann Wahl and Gay Walberg.

Also, Mary Lou Ayala, Mary Jordan, Sally Davis, Robin Miller, Karen Kuerneman, Judy Wilson, Diane Ulmer, Candy Cottage, Carole Edwards and Margarita Esparza.

Others are Ann Gardner, Diane Mitchell, Patricia Betton, Barbara Elliott, Carol Ingersoll, Sharon Kay Johnson, Margaret Jane Nelson and Carol Sorenson.

According to Marilyn Rosini, chairman of Women's Day activities, this year's day of celebration for the women will be one of the best.

Tickets can still be purchased at the dean of women's office.

They are 75 cents with a meal ticket and $1.75 without.

expected to be introduced by Gary Nichols would "censure" the Executive Council, which the Election Board is directly responsible to, and the Election Board.

In other Senate action, the publications-Public Relations committee is expected to report on the results of its questionnaire on the State Press which was sent to 250 campus students. Also, debate in the committee of the whole will be on S.B. 175 establishing a university plebescite and S.B. 176 establishing a procedure for recognizing outstanding faculty members.

Nogales Trip Is Scheduled For May 5

Heading the Cultural Affairs committee calendar of events will be a trip to the Cinco de Mayo centennial celebration May 5 in Nogales, Mexico.

Bus transportation will be provided for those purchasing the $8 tickets, on sale through Friday.

The semester's schedule of activities will be brought to an end with a Cultural Affairs Night, May 18.

Classical jazz and guitar music will be attractions of the celebration along with a reception in the lower lounge for student art exhibitors.

Iran Magic-Master To Perform Tonight

Asdollah Hadjikhani, acclaimed Iran's foremost magician, will perform at 8 p.m. Friday in the MU Ballroom.

Proceeds from the show, entitled, "A Magic Night," will go to the ASU Foreign Students Club loan fund.

Hadjikhani's act will include chewing razor blades into straight pins, fire eating and card sleight-of-hand.

The program also will feature foreign dances by club members.

Admission is $1 for the public and 50 cents for students and faculty.

Fall Advisement Set

All students who plan to register next fall for more than six semester hours are expected to see their curriculum advisers between May 7 and 12.

Advisers will post additional office hours during this special period for schedule planning and curriculum advisement.

Students are required to have an approved program of studies for fall registration.

Officers Refer Two For Dean's Action

Two ASU students were referred to the dean of student's office for violations of university regulations last weekend, according to Lt. Tom Godbehere of the ASU Police department.

"One student was referred to the dean's office last Saturday for illegal consumption and the other last Sunday for having liquor on campus," said Godbehere.

When asked for a comment concerning the students, Dean William R. Coulson, assistant dean of students, said, "The students haven't been in to see me yet, as I'm booked up. They'll probably see me Monday."

"I'll refer the cases to AMS Men's Judicial Council for action," he added.

Other items on the ASU police blotter concerned several thefts and a case of malicious mischief.

"A bicycle, valued at about $50, was stolen from an MU bike rack, and a .22 caliber pistol, valued at $62.50, was stolen from a student's car parked on Normal Ave., Saturday," Godbehere said.

"Both cases were grand theft," he said.

A transistor radio was stolen from a student's room in East Hail last Wednesday, and a text valued at $10, was stolen from the University Bookstore rack, Monday, according to Godbehere.

The case of malicious mischief occurred Sunday when "someone smashed three more windows in the phone booth located at the north end of Sun Devil Stadium," he said.

Dean Invited To Address Organization

Dean Weldon P. Shofstall, ASU dean of students, is slated to speak before the 72nd annual Congress of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution on May 30 in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia.

Dean Shofstall will speak on "Lets Keep America Free."

When asked about his speech, the dean said, "The issue in America today is not Communism but freedom."

"I am proud to have the opportunity to bring this message to the annual president-general's banquet of this national organization," he said.

Faculty's Picnic Will Close Year

The ASU Faculty Club will sponsor a picnic May 4 at 5:30 p.m. at the new ASU farm on Price Road.

The picnic, the last program of the year for the Faculty Club, will feature a barbecued beef.

Dr. Ernest Parker, of the Agriculture department, is chairman of the event.

OFF THE EDITOR'S DESK

storm is dwindling; we look to football

It's now May . . . and with each passing day the grade-damaging storm of spring activities slowly becomes less and less intense.

THE STUDENT Senate has a new committee investigating the elections, the MU Board is still a little worried about the dress policy and the intricacies of student government in relation to checks and balances, fraternities and sororities, are preparing for spring formals and a few people are actually beginning their studies for this semester . . . but other than that, not too much is up.

This weekend's events — Water Sports Day and the Payson Workshop — will nearly conclude the vast array of all-campus activities which have competed for spectators and participants this spring.

As the enormity of these thousands of spring activities becomes less enormous, a few people are starting to realize the ridiculousness of everyone trying to do so much in such a small amount of time.

UNFORTUNATELY, we have no solution for the future. If you do, we'd sure like to hear it.

Because things are finally starting to dwindle off and because we are tired of talking about everything that's been going on in the last six weeks, we look to the future and mention something which we feel has not yet made an impression on many ASU students.

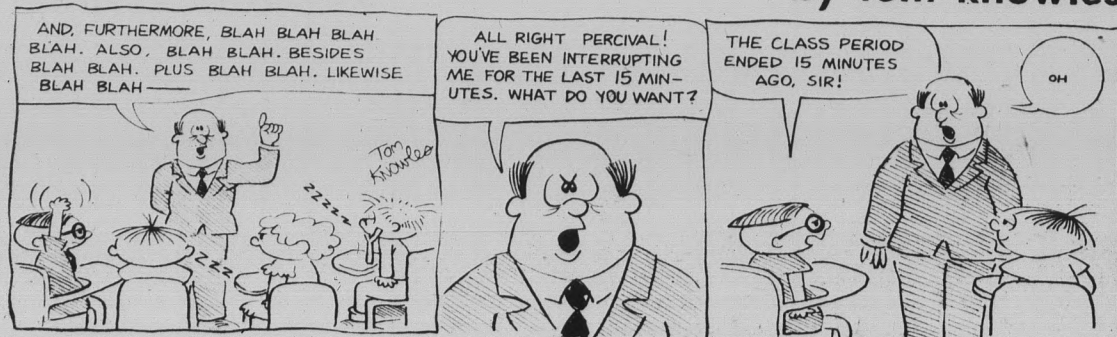

It's the 1962 Sun Devil football schedule. And to us, it's rather impressive. It will provide sports fans of this area with a lot of football.

Scheduled are eight consecutive home games, all starting at 8 p.m. in Sun Devil Stadium.

FOR THOSE of you who have not yet seen a copy of the schedule, it appears below:

Oct. 13—West Texas
Oct. 20—San Jose
Oct. 27—Texas Western
Nov. 3 Utah State

CLAUDE HOPPER

SPECIAL FEATURE

state press reporter takes a look at asu history

By BOB ZACHE

Remember when ASU was called Arizona State Teachers College, and we were the Bulldogs instead of the Sun Devils?

From the front page of the Aug. 2, 1935, Collegian, State Press's predecessor, comes this item:

"Following the trend of higher prices for food stuffs and other necessities, room and board costs at Arizona State for the fall semester have been raised to $23.50 a month, one dollar higher than last year, President Grady Gammage announced this week.

"The new cost will be effective until January 1, when prevailing conditions may make changes necessary, it was stated."

It seems like those prevailing conditions kept right on prevailing, and then some.

The ASU General Catalog for 1961-62 lists room and board as approximately $600 for the year. This comes to about $66.66 per month.

The cheapest room listed comes to $25 a month. A five-day meal ticket at the Memorial Union Dining Hall (their description, not ours) costs $27.50 a month.

If a person likes to eat seven days a week it will cost him $37.50 a month.

"So what?" is the next logical statement a person would make. "People earned less then."

Correct you are, for a quick look at some tables published by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that wages have increased anywhere from three to four times or more since 1935.

Our comparison of room and board costs at ASU shows that this, at least, has increased about three times.

What does all this prove? Not much except things aren't quite as bad as they seem some times.

We've even heard that through improved methods and techniques this school now sells a little more education for the money than it used to.

Something else we overheard the other day doesn't seem to have changed much in the past 30 years.

It seems that one student was telling another that a college education today is about as valuable as a high school education was a generation ago.

From the same front page of The Collegian came this enlightening bit of information:

"Time was, only a generation ago, when the average high school was in name and fact the 'peoples college.' Thirty years ago it was a distinction to be a graduate of a high school.

"Not so today. Almost everybody goes to high school now, and a large proportion of those who attend, graduate. To gain the distinction today which a high school graduate of 30 years ago had, one must at least be a college graduate."

And 30 years from now students will probably be telling each other the same thing.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

board chairman offers comments on the elections

To the Editor:

As chairman of the Election Board and the person responsible for the recent elections, I feel a few comments are in order.

This letter was prompted in part by the misinformed statements made by Eric Maxwell in his letter in the April 27 edition of the State Press.

First, I would like to commend the Spurs, Sophos and Blue Key on the fine job they did during the election, which helped to insure a fair and democratic selection of student body officers.

However, this year, as in the past, there were discrepancies of which I shall give you a brief summary.

"Paper ballots were held down by rocks and were easily accessible to anyone." This is absurd, as there was a responsible person in control of the ballots at all times, and it is doubtful if there has ever been a school election that didn't use some type of weight to keep the ballots from blowing away.

"Paper ballots were torn in half after counting which was construed as a violation of the election code." Approximately 40 per cent of the ballots were torn in half before I was cognizant of it. However, all ballots were rechecked and are still countable.

Another charge was "the ballots were mimeographed and easily duplicated." Every precaution possible was taken to insure against this type of practice, which was attempted during the Homecoming King and Queen elections.

However, this attempt was detected because of identifying marks placed on the ballots. Needless to say, the same procedures were followed in the general election, and no discrepancies were found.

In as much as there were a few irregularities in the election, none of them in any way gave one candidate an unfair advantage over another nor obstructed the democratic process of selecting our student officers. Dick Langmade how about a little better coverage?

To the Editor:

Just today I heard that a group sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Board took a bus trip to Tucson to see some art shows, and I didn't hear anything about it until too late!

The only announcements were made in Dr. Hale's Renaissance art class, I hear. You have the paper full of stuff about the trip to Nogales to see a bull get stuck (some "culture;" the SPCA should sponsor it) on Cinco de Mayo and leave out a real culture announcement.

How about a little better coverage here?

We Goofed On 'Book' Story

The State Press regrets an error that appeared in Friday's issue which said that Dr. Irving W. Stout and his wife, Dr. Grace Langdon, co-authored a book.

Dr. Langdon is not married to Dr. Stout.

Dr. Stout, dean of the Grad-

Dr. Langdon is a consultant in child development and lives in Tempe. She co-authors a syndicated column with Dr. Stout entitled "Today's Children," which appears regularly in the Arizona Republic.

CRAM COURSE NO. 4: BATHYMETRY

Continuing our series of pre-final exam cram courses, today we take up bathymetry—the study of ocean depths.

Admittedly, this is not a terribly popular course on most campuses. And small wonder. In the whole world there is only one bathyscape, and only two people can get into it.

Nevertheless, the study of ocean depths is of great importance. Why, do you realize that the ocean is by far the world's largest biological environment? The ocean has more than three hundred times as much living room as all the continents and islands combined! Unfortunately, only fishes live in it.

And small wonder. Who'd want to live some place where he couldn't smoke? Surely not I! I wouldn't give up my good Marlboro Cigarettes for the Atlantic and the Pacific put together. Nothing could induce me to forego Marlboro's fine mellow flavor, Marlboro's clean white filter, Marlboro's flip-top box that really flips, Marlboro's soft pack that's really soft. Let others repair to the spacious deeps. Me, I will stick with my Marlboros and the tiny garret I share with a tympanist.

But I digress. Back to the oceans. The largest, as we know, is the Pacific, which was discovered by Balboa, a Spaniard of great vision. To give you an idea of Balboa's vision, he first saw the Pacific while standing on a peak in Darien, which is in Connecticut.

Even more astounding, when Balboa reached San Francisco, he clearly saw the Hawaiian Islands! Being, as we know, a friendly cuss, Balboa waved merrily to the Hawaiians and shouted, "Great little ocean you got here, kids!" The Hawaiians, also, as we know, friendly cusses, waved back, declared a half holiday, organized a luau, built a cheery fire over which they prepared several gallons of poi, a suckling pig, and Captain Cook. This, of course, was the origin of Cooking.

Who'd want to live there?

But I digress. The Pacific, I say, is the largest ocean and also the deepest. The Mindanao Trench, off the Philippines, measures more than 5,000 fathoms in depth. (It should be pointed out here that ocean depths are measured in fathoms—lengths of six feet—after Sir Walter Fathom, a noted British sea measurer of the seventeenth century who, upon his twenty-first birthday, was given a string six feet long with which he used to go scampering all over England measuring sea water until he was arrested for loitering. A passion for measuring seems to have run in the family; Fathom's cousin, Sir Sol Furlong, spent all his waking hours measuring race tracks until Charles II had him beheaded in honor of the opening of the London School of Economics.)

But I digress. Let us, as the poet Masefield said, go down to the seas again. (The seas, incidentally, have ever been a favorite subject for poets and composers.) Who does not remember Tennyson's "Break, break, break"? Or Byron's "Roll on, thou dark and deep blue ocean, roll"? Or the many hearty sea chancies that have enriched our folk music—songs like "Sailing Through Kansas" and "I'll Swab Your Deck If You'll Swab Mine" and "The Artificial Respiration Polka." My own favorite sea chanty goes like this:

*A girl loved a sailor and he did jilt her,
 And she did weep and roar-ho!
 Until she found a perfect filter,
 And a perfect smoke—Marlboro!
 Sing hey, sing ho, sing ring-a-ding-ding,
 Sing tars and spars and patches,
 Sing pack and box and lots to like,
 And don't forget the matches!*

Women Present Sorority Benefits

By TWILA DRUMM
(Second in a Series)

"There are two sides to every story."

Greek women voiced their opinions and views yesterday in the second of two student polls investigating the assets and liabilities of Greek sorority and independent living.

They attempted to clear up some misconceptions that independent women have about sorority life and expressed the desire that the sorority-independent relationship would improve.

Here are the opinions expressed by a cross-section of sorority women at ASU.

Pamela Seavey, freshman, Sigma Sigma Sigma: "I joined a sorority to get acquainted with the campus and to become better adjusted to college life.

"Being a freshman sorority woman helps you to make your grades because of required study tables and then helps to maintain them because you are naturally conditioned to keep a study schedule."

Discussing the subject of friendships, Miss Seavey said, "You meet women in a sorority and form close friendships. These friends last a lifetime."

"A misconception, some independents have is that sorority girls stick together but we have independents living and sharing dorm life with us in Palo Verde. In fact, my roommate is an independent and we are the closest of friends."

Diane Bowman, sophomore, Gamma Phi Beta: "I feel a sorority is advantageous only if a girl can give her utmost to the members of the group. If she starts out with a negative attitude, sorority life will only hinder her in college. The unity found in a sorority can be rewarding. One can gain much by accepting the challenge of getting along with all the members.

"Many women cannot see 'paying for friendship' which, in a sense, is exactly what sororities are. If this is all a person can see in a sorority, then there is no sense in presenting the good points of it.

"It takes time and frequently 'guts' to get over the humps and bad spots in Greek life, but I feel it is worthwhile for the friendship."

Kathie Mangano, junior, Kappa Alpha Theta: "Sororities aren't institutions for dependent people. The girls who belong to sororities are usually socially out-going and self-confident and as academically capable as independents."

Suzi Gerber, senior, Chi Omega: "A sorority program is usually well-ordered and consistent, providing for the development of the cultured woman specifically aiming for her life after college.

"One cannot make rash generalizations about certain detrimental practices, such as keeping illegal files — for most sororities do not indulge in this practice."

Nancy Brewer, sophomore, Kappa Delta: "Since I've been in a sorority, I feel I have grown much more, socially. The sorority has given me needed self-confidence to meet people and become interested in campus activities.

Lynne Peterson, sophomore, Alpha Delta Pi: "Independents have many friends, just as the Greeks do. The benefits derived from being a Greek comes with the ability to get along with your sisters (or brothers) because you have a common bond. This forces you to adapt your personality to the other person."

2 Movies Offered By Board

"Quo Vadis," a spectacle set in ancient Rome, and "Camille" are the two films offered by the Cultural Affairs committee tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 in Cosner Auditorium.

The story of "Quo Vadis" is built around a conflict between Marcus Vinicus (Robert Taylor) and Lygia (Deborah Kerr), who struggle over love and Christianity.

The film is set in the time of Nero, portrayed by Peter Ustinov.

"Camille" is an MGM movie about one of the gayest eras in the romantic history of Paris.

Greta Garbo portrays a woman who, though suffering from an incurable disease, tries to make the last days of her life the best.

The story is based on a play by Alexander Dumas.

Previously advertised, "Man With the Golden Arm" was unavailable to the Cultural Affairs committee.

Devil Mile Relay Team Sets Mark

By DENNIS ANDERSON

Though the weather was cloudy and a bit chilly, the afternoon proved to be bright and successful for Arizona State's tracksters at the fourth annual Mt. Sac Relays in California last Saturday.

The Sun Devils garnered four first places, a third, fourth and a fifth. Hustlin' Henry Carr and Ullis Williams stood out with great individual performances for ASU.

Carr anchored the 440 relay team to a third place finish, coming back from a five yard deficit and barely being nipped for second by Larry Dunn of the UofA. ASU and Arizona were given identical times of 40.7 behind the winning 40.4 of the Southern Cal Striders.

Next was the 100 yard dash, and Carr defeated a great field with a 9:5 clocking, despite a poor start that found him lagging behind for the first 10 yards.

But the thriller came in the 880 yard relay. Taking the baton on the anchor leg some 10 yards behind, Carr shot through with a blazing 20.3 to nip Oregon State's Norm Monroe and give ASU a 1:24.1 victory. Hubie Watson led off for the Devils, running 21.6, Gaston Green had a 21.2, and Ron Freeman 21.0 before Carr took over.

One hour later came the meet-concluding mile relay. The Sun Devils broke the national collegiate record with 3:07.5, clipping one-tenth of a second off the mark held jointly by USC and Abilene Christian.

And here is where Carr topped off a great day, running a terrific 46.6 leg, perhaps the key to the record, as Mike Barrick lead off with 47.8, followed by Carr, Freeman with 47:2 and a 45.9 anchor by Williams.

A bad pass resulting in a ripped shoe and foot slash for Freeman cost the Devils a 3.07 or better. Carr, handing off to Freeman, was bumped and spiked Ron, almost knocking him into the railing.

Williams had one of the greatest 440 doubles ever. He ran away from the open 440 field, winning in 46.0, to equal his world's best time for the season. Then came his 45.9 anchor on the mile relay.

The sprint medley relay team of Green (440), Darrell Jansen (220), Jim Tucker (220) and Dan Roth (880) finished fourth in 3:25.6 behind the winning 3:22.6 of Oregon State.

Frank Covelli had his best javelin throw of the year, 235-0, but it was only good for fifth, as Dan Studney of San Jose won with a meet record 247-1/2. Covelli was edged by 10 inches for third, and 4 inches separated him and the fourth place finisher.

Pole vaulter John Rose, plagued by a bad knee, went unplaced at 14-6, and missed three times at 15-0, the first time since early March that he failed to vault 15-0.

Joe Caldwell, competing in a high jump field that included two members of the "7-foot" club, also went unplaced with a jump of 6-4. Mt. Sac's Joe Faust won at 6-11.

All in all, it was an outstanding performance by Arizona State. The four firsts, third, fourth and fifth were the top team placings at the meet. This put the Devils ahead of such nationally renowned collegiate track powers as USC, UCLA, San Jose, Oregon State, Stanford and Occidental.

Davies Vaults 15-6 And 15-7

George Davies, ASU student, was a travelin' man last weekend, competing at the Drake Relays in Iowa on Friday and at the Mt. Sac Relays in California on Saturday.

Davies, competing unattached under NCAA transfer rules, vaulted 15-6 to win the Drake meet, defeating, among others, John Uelses, the first member of the "16-foot" club.

He left immediately after the meet, arriving in Los Angeles at 11:45 p.m.

Pole vault competition started at 1 p.m. in the afternoon Saturday, and George was right there until 7 p.m. when Marine Dave Tork cleared the epic 16-2 to break all existing records. Davies placed second at 15-7, his second best all-time mark, and had three good attempts at 16-2, but was unsuccessful.

Here Are The Facts About Mile Relays

Since Arizona State cruised to its new national collegiate mile relay record at Mt. Sac Saturday, various erroneous mentions concerning national and world mile relay times have appeared in local newspapers.

Here are the facts:

The world record for the mile relay is 3:05.6. It was set on August 12, 1960, in Walnut, Calif., by the U.S.A. national team of Eddie Southern, Earl Young, Otis Davis and Jack Yerman. That mark also stands as the American record.

The national collegiate record is now 3:07.5. That's the time run by ASU's foursome of Mike Barrick, Henry Carr, Ron Freeman and Ullis Williams at Mt. Sac Saturday.

A USC team of Bobby Staten, Dean Balzaret, Kevin Hogan and Rex Cawley ran 3:07.6 at Mt. Sac on April 29 last year.

An Abilene Christian quartet composed of Dennis Richardson, Pat McKennon, Bud Clanton and Young also ran 3:07.6 last year. Abilene's mark was set on June 2 at Compton, Calif.

BOB VIEWS SPORTS NEWS

Hustlin' Hank Marches On

By BOB EGER
Sports Editor

Henry Carr, the freshman sprint sensation from Detroit, has the ASU campus buzzing.

And last weekend he let West Coast track fans know who he was. They're buzzing now, too.

Hustling Hank, who's been labeled as one of the greatest football prospects ever to hit the ASU campus, is also establishing himself as one of the foremost track and field competitors in the nation.

He could develop into the greatest all-around athlete in the history of this university.

He's run the hundred yard dash in 9.5, equaling the school record for that event. He has yet to be beaten at that distance, and he's been up against some of the nation's best.

He's clocked a speedy 20.5 in the 220. That time is only a tenth of a second off the school mark held by teammate Hubie Watson. He's been beaten in that event only by New Mexico's sensational Adolph Plummer, and Plummer had to sprint the furlong in a blazing 20.3 to edge Carr.

He's run a 46.6 quarter mile leg on ASU's apparently untouchable mile relay team. Take away the running relay starts and that's equivalent to about a 47.1 for a 440 out of the blocks. A lot of good runners spend an entire career of hard training and never achieve a time that fast. Carr did it his third try at that distance — something almost beyond belief.

A couple of weeks ago, he decided to try his hand at broad jumping in the New Mexico meet. He did 22-8 officially and had a 23-10 jump nullified because he scratched by less than an inch.

At Mt. Sac Saturday, people in the stands were wondering who the big boy in the Sun Devil uniform was. This bewilderment was observed before he beat a tough field for a 9.5 hundred yard dash victory. And it was before he brought ASU's 880 yard relay team from third to first on the anchor leg with a blistering 20.3 time. And, it was before he stuck the Sun Devils out in front in the mile relay with his 46.6 effort.

He's not a bad football player, either. Good enough that several coaches throughout the nation have called him the best offensive backfield threat they've ever seen.

Sun Devil gridiron fans are itching to see him tuck a football under his arm and head for touchdown territory.

Track fans are already predicting records of world-wide proportions, if he doesn't get banged up during his football chores.

Carr will be in action at home for the last time this year Saturday night in the dual meet against the UofA. Keep an eye on him as he busily scurries about his job of building up points. If he stays healthy and if his intense competitive desire doesn't fade, he could be one of the greatest of them all.

Devil Nine Preps For 'Cats

Arizona State's baseballers are resting this week, hoping to prepare a successful ambush for the nation's top ranked team, the University of Arizona, when the two teams clash in a three-game set in Tucson Friday and Saturday.

The Devils have made somewhat of a comeback after a disastrous road trip through southern California, winning four in a row against easier competition than they faced on the West Coast.

Friday, they dropped Arizona State College 4-0, and Saturday, they pounded out a resounding 14-2 win over the same club. Both games were played on the ASU diamond, and they ran the Devils' season record to 23-17.

In Friday's contest, Gary Graham hurled a five hit shut-out to pick up his third victory of the season. The junior right-hander was in control all the way, striking out eight and walking only two in going the distance.

The Devils scored a single run in the first inning and added three in the third to give Graham more than enough margin for the win.

The key blow of the game was Dennis Starkins' third inning double, which drove in a pair of ASU runs. Starkins later scored on a sacrifice fly by Syd Smith.

Ernie Panek, former ASU hurler, went the distance and took the loss for the Lumberjacks.

Saturday the Devils combined 12 hits, 12 bases on balls and six Axer miscues to win easily and sweep the two game series.

ASU pitcher John Miller solved his control trouble and picked up his first win against no losses this year.

Miller, who has a world of stuff, sometimes has trouble getting the ball over the plate, but he didn't walk a man. Pete Lovrich took over in the sixth to get in a little mound work before the layoff this week.

Starkins and Paul Runge furnished a good portion of ASU's offensive attack, smashing three hits each. Two of Runge's hits were doubles, and one of Starkins' blows went for two bases.

The Devils continued their improved defensive play, committing only one error. They played errorless ball Friday. Miscues were one of the big reasons for their downfall on the California trip.
