Honors Convocation Slated Today

Construction Set For Auditorium

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Grady Gammage Memorial Auditorium will be Wednesday, according to a campus News Bureau release.

The ceremonies will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the site of the structure.

Contractors will begin work immediately after.

The auditorium will be built on approximately 15 acres of land bordering the Mesa-Tempe highway at the southwest corner of the campus.

Greetings at the ceremony will be given by ASU President G. Homer Durham.

Arizona Governor Paul Fannin, Samuel H. Morris, president of the Board of Regents, Dr. Merle C. Nutt, chairman of the ASU faculty assembly, and Gary Walker, ASU student body president, are also slated as speakers.

Special guests at the ceremony will be Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright, widow of the designer of the structure, and Mrs. Grady Gammage, widow of the late ASU president for whom the new auditorium was named.

The $2,362,910 structure will take from 20 months to two years to complete and after completion will house sections of the drama, music, art and dance departments.

It will be 304 feet long, 235 feet wide and will rise more than 80 feet above ground level.

Capacity of the auditorium when completed will be 2,955.

GOLDWATER ON KAET TONIGHT

Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater will appear on KAET's "Open Line" program tonight at 7 p.m.

The program has been extended to one hour in length for the senator's appearance.

Senator Goldwater will answer questions that have been mailed to the educational station this week during the first half of the program.

A panel of some 20 ASU political science students will quiz the senator on current issues during the second half of the program.

The program will be video-taped this afternoon at 2 p.m. for the 7 p.m. airing over Channel 8.

Program Begins At 10:40 In MU

Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship, will address ASU's annual student Honors Convocation this morning at 10:40 in the MU Ballroom.

Dr. Rosenhaupt will speak on "Some More Equal," a discussion of difficulties and challenges faced by the intellectual elite in a democratic society.

The Honors Convocation, sponsored by ASU Faculty Senate Committee on Academic Affairs, recognizes outstanding ASU students and marks the beginning of each year's commencement activities.

All 10:40 classes will be dismissed for the program, according to Dr. H. D. Richardson, academic vice president.

The hour-long program also will feature selections by the ASU brass ensemble, under the direction of Martin R. Williams, and a greeting by ASU President G. Homer Durham.

Dr. Karl H. Dannenfeldt, head of the ASU behavioral and social sciences division and chairman of the Faculty Senate Committee on Academic Affairs, will preside at the convocation.

The public is invited to the event.

Previous speakers for the convocation were Aldous Huxley, 1960, and Allan Nevins, 1961. Both are prominent literary figures.

Dr. Rosenhaupt is also an author. "How to Wage Peace," published in 1949, and "Isolation in Modern German Literature," are two of his books.

He also lectures at various colleges and universities and on radio and TV.

Dr. Rosenhaupt has headed the Woodrow Wilson Foundation since 1958.

The foundation grants 1,000 fellowships annually through a $25 million grant from the Ford Foundation.

Southern California Theology President To Deliver ASU Baccalaureate Address

ASU's 1962 baccalaureate address will be delivered by Dr. Ernest C. Colwell, president of the Southern California School of Theology at Claremont, June 3 at 8 p.m. in Sun Devil Stadium.

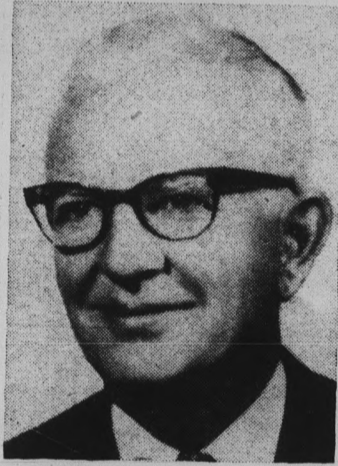

Dr. Colwell, president of the University of Chicago from 1945 to 1951, will discuss "Hope of the Future?" during the 76th annual ASU commencement exercises.

The speaker received the bachelor of philosophy degree from Emory University, a bachelor of divinity degree from the Candler School of Theology and a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California.

Dr. Colwell, an instructor in English literature and the Bible at Emory from 1924 to 1928, was also dean of faculties and vice president of the institution from 1951 to 1957. He also has received the following honorary degrees: doctor of letters from Emory University, doctor of laws from Colby College and doctor of sacred theology from Harvard.

He is a member of the Methodist Church, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Chi.

Debate Sponsored By ASU Forum Draws 'Standing Room Only' Crowd

By BOB ZACHE

Late comers got standing room only Wednesday night at the ASU forum's debate, "Is Federal Subsidy of Education Wrong?"

Taking the positive side (federal aid is wrong) were John Conlan, ASU Political Science instructor, and Arizona Republic editorial writer, Edwin McDowell.

They outlined their argument in four points: 1) federal aid is unconstitutional; 2) morally wrong; 3) unnecessary, and 4) leads to federal control.

Arguing the negative side (federal aid is not wrong) were Dr. Roy P. Doyle, ASU associate professor of Education, and Dr. William W. Phillips, ASU assistant professor of History.

They contended that 1) our republican form of government depends upon the education of the electorate, and some states provide better education than others; 2) economic progress depends upon educational progress; 3) as leaders of the Western world we must develop our brain power to meet our obligations in the cold war, and 4) federal aid is older than the constitution.

Conlan led off the debate saying that nowhere in the federal constitution is it delegated to the federal government to subsidize education and that this is a state responsibility.

He then argued that federal aid is morally wrong, according to Judaeo-Christian principals.

He said that it is a parental responsibility to educate their children, and this should be done on the local level.

McDowell said that federal aid in other areas has led to control of them by the govern-

Student's Art Added To ASASU Collection

Representatives of the ASASU Cultural Affairs committee recently selected seven works of art from the annual student art exhibit to become part of the ASASU permanent art collection.

Selecting the art works were Oliver White, program director of the MU; Ben Goo, of the ASU Art department; Georgia Nelson, advisor to the Cultural Affairs committee and Bob Day and Sherry Kraus of the ASASU Cultural Affairs committee.

Alicia Selette's oil painting, "Arcadia," and Darlene Goto's print, "Creature," are the first place prize winners in the collection.

Miss Goto's oil, "Old Man," third place winner, and her print, "The Kite," were also added to the collection.

"Wall Relief," by John Heric, representing the crafts division of art, is an honorable mention winner to be added to the collection, as is "Park," an oil by Betty Field.

Also added to the collection was "Grocery Cart," a print by Nancy West.

Goo said, "The works that were purchased are excellent and reflect credit to the artist as well as the institution."

He also said that these artists in the near future will be leaders in the Arizona art field and possibly in the international field of art.

Mrs. Nelson added that ASASU is being foresighted and interested in art, which is shown through the purchase of these student art works.

Dr. Clinton Adams, dean of the College of Fine Arts, University of New Mexico, selected the prize winners of the student art exhibit late in April.

Tour, Luncheon Set For Visitors

ASU student officers will be hosts to four student body presidents from the University of Sonora, Hermosillo, Mexico, in a "goodwill exchange" today and tomorrow.

Jesus Valle, president of the Mexican school's student body, Enrique Salgado, Rene Salas and Omberto Tapia, all presidents of college student organizations, were invited by ASU Student President Gary Walker.

A campus tour and luncheon with students and faculty will be followed by a meeting at 3:30 p.m. Friday with Gov. Paul Fannin and Adolfo Quezada, Mexican consul to Phoenix, at the governor's office.

The visitors will be escorted to the Grand Canyon and Arizona State College on an overnight trip Saturday by Walker, Bob Carter, incoming student president, and Barbara Peck, ASU Spanish major, along with ASU students from Mexico.

Warren Named Summer Editor

Linda Warren, editor of the State Press next fall, will also head the summer publication of the paper, according to Dr. Roy C. Rice, director of the summer sessions.

Miss Warren, a junior majoring in English, was previously assignments editor and news editor of the State Press.

The paper will be published eight times during the 10 weeks of summer school.

It will come out on Fridays.

Aid To Education Debate

He also said that, in spite of its support, federal aid now constitutes only one per cent of the educational funds in America.

Dr. Phillips, in his opening statement on the negative side, said that due to increased migration of the populace from state to state, unequal education puts an unequal burden on some states.

Dr. Doyle contended that education is supported by taxes, whether on the local or federal level and that the government can collect taxes more efficiently than local governments can and can administer educational programs more efficiently.

Contrasting the new Sky Harbor Airport, which was built with federal aid, to a school on 24th street, in which the students attend in double sessions, Dr. Doyle asked, "Why are we doing the important things the hard way?"

ASASU President Gary Walker said that ASU students can look forward to similar programs next fall.

New Senators See Finance Bill Pass

ASASU's Student Senate yesterday passed the 1962-63 finance bill in the presence of a gallery overflowing with newly-elected senators.

Nineteen senators-elect were on hand to become acquainted with the retiring senators from their constituencies and to get an insight into their future roles.

The finance bill received its final affirmative vote with only one opposing vote.

The senate committee of the whole recommended bill 178, establishing a Student Education Board, "do pass."

This bill is a revision of S.B. 171, which passed the senate earlier this year but was vetoed by President G. Homer Durham.

Bill 177, establishing the Sahuaro yearbook under ASASU, was postponed by the committee until the Rules committee can report on it at the senate's final session next week.

Problem Remains: Horses Or Cars?

By ROBERT HUDNALL

History has never recorded the conversation that Dr. James McNaughton, president of the Normal School, had with his secretary in 1896, when he galloped up to his hitching post outside of the Old Building and found that a cowboy freshman had taken his hitching place.

However, it is recorded in "The ASU Story" that in that same year, parking became such a problem that students were charged $1 a month to pasture their horses.

ASU still has parking problems.

The outlook, however, is brighter for the next fall semester, according to Capt. Norman Peck, chief of Campus Police.

Since September, 1961, the registered automobile population of ASU has been 15,145.

This represents 11,342 off-campus students, 1,048 dormitory students, 2,241 staff and faculty, 277 graduate assistant students and 237 disabled students and commercial vehicles.

Approximately 9,500 parking spaces are now available at ASU.

By fall, a new, paved, 335-space parking lot for students will be built in conjunction with the new auditorium, said Capt. Peck.

Construction plans call for the lot to be sunk four feet below ground surface and surrounded by a hedge. This will protect the aesthetic appearance of the Frank Lloyd Wright auditorium.

Also, the girls' dormitories, Wilson Hall, Dixie Gammage Hall and the McClintock Halls will have a needed 225 to 250 car parking lot located opposite their dormitories on Forest Ave.

This lot will be created after the removal of the houses on Forest Ave.

Capt. Peck said there is one parking lot that is not used to capacity on campus. This is the student parking lot located east of College Ave. and E. 13th St. 13th St.

Tentative plans for relieving the congestion for students registering automobiles next fall calls for car registration to be conducted within the class registration hall, said Capt. Peck.

The parking situation for next semester looks snug but improved, he said.

There will be no car registration fee next year, and if there ever is, at the $1 a month pasture rate of 1896, inflation of the '60's could make us all attend school by horseback.

to the asu forum—our congratulations

AN EDITORIAL

The tremendous success of the first debate sponsored by the newly organized ASU Forum indicates that students at ASU have once again taken the initiative... and thereby have added an important contribution to our campus community.

The Forum has been organized to present outstanding speakers, forums and debates on national and international issues to the student body at ASU.

We salute this effort and can indeed see its merits.

We students need to be informed as much as possible... to have an opportunity to hear and place judgment upon both sides of each political issue, be it national or international.

We need the opportunity to hear outstanding speakers from Arizona and across America.

We need the opportunity to meet them, to pose questions to them, to probe their thinking and to criticize their thinking if we so choose.

The classroom is often inadequate for this. The subservient position of student to professor does not always allow an atmosphere of truly free inquiry and speech — particularly if one wishes to express viewpoints contrary to those of the professor.

The ASU Forum will alleviate this situation.

It will give us an opportunity to hear and openly discuss political situations with leading political thinkers.

The Forum is a group of students. Therefore, the speakers will be selected by students.

It will give us a chance to hear the men we wish to hear. We have needed a program such as this...

To the ASU Forum — congratulations on an auspicious beginning and best wishes as you put the finishing touches on coming programs.

COVERING COLLEGE AVENUE

VI's Harold truly 'covers college avenue'

By BABS MARLOWE

The tall, lean man stood at the coffee urn and said, "Forget it, Babs, this one's on me."

An unusual statement for anyone to make, except for Harold at the VI.

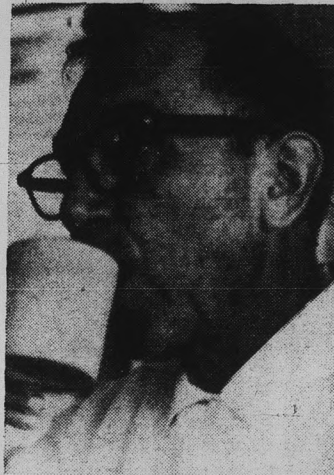

He has seen us come as eager, innocent freshmen and leave ASU as matured graduating seniors.

He has seen us return with our young children. And we all do return to the VI.

No one knows, not even Harold, just how many free meals pass across the counter of the VI. Why? Because Dick and Jane and you and I forgot our money that evening.

We always feel so honored to have professors remember our names, and yet, to have Harold call us by name doesn't seem unusual.

Those of us who write this column often feel inadequate and surpassed by the title of the column. But Harold is truly a person who covers College Avenue in the original sense of the word.

"HAROLD"

For this reason, we pay a note of tribute and thanks to him who has done more than just serve ASU.

We are still waiting for the map to be put up in the MU for those students who need riders and rides to various parts of the nation.

Even a small map would do the job right now and would enable planning for large things for next year's needs.

We hear that they are working on this project, but just how long does it take to buy a few colored pins and obtain a map of the U.S.?

Maybe the poor committee is wrapped up in the usual red tape of obtaining appropriations for such things.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

we few are giving bad name to the university

To the Editor:

After reading Bill Overend's article, "I Cover College Avenue" (May 16, 1962), I was very surprised to find this unique aspect of the American university.

Was Mr. Overend trying to tell us that fraternities and sororities are holding discriminatory policies but should be exempt from any investigation?

The Declaration of Independence states clearly, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal."

Was he trying to tell us that some are more equal than others?"

I must applaud the action of Robert Bonitati and Dan Moulton, who introduced the resolution urging that "All persons and firms using University services and facilities extend the same privileges to all students regardless of race, religion or national origin."

I guess in Bill Overend's opinion the Greeks never use the services and facilities provided by the University.

In the first sentence, he stated "Racial discrimination at ASU, if it exists, will..." After finishing the article, perhaps the word "if" should be scratched out.

Evidently, discrimination does exist at ASU.

If this is true, it seems to me that the University should use its rightful power to discourage such practice.

I am sure, however, that the majority of students on campus do not practice such discrimination. But, the few who do give a bad name to the University. Somporn Sangchai Thailand

Editor's Note: Ours is not a perfect country. We have such terrible things as discrimination, selective service and taxes... but we Americans love this place.

Today there are 5000 American soliders in Thailand, your country. Our men are over there protecting your homeland while you are here enjoying the benefits of obtaining an education in a free country.

Perhaps you should go home and fight for freedom and equality in your country. If you did, then we could bring home one of our boys... to enjoy his "imperfect" America.

support has diminished to complete neglect

To the Editor:

The Student-Faculty Relations committee has tried very hard to contribute positively to the academic atmosphere on this campus by sponsoring College Bowl.

We are sure the campus appreciates the "outstanding" coverage that has been given to this project.

The State Press had an excellent editorial supporting this project when it was first started.

This support has now diminished to the point where you can not even print the scores each week.

We feel that the State Press, as the official voice of student news and opinion, has shamefully neglected many fields of student activities, especially academic.

Mary Avery

Karen Deckelmeier

Editor's Note: We pushed "College Bowl" when it was new and perhaps unable to push itself. Now there are new projects, and it is their turn for publicity space. It is unfortunate that this space has to be so limited.

what is meant by non-activity?

To the Editor:

I have often wondered what is meant by the now famous non-activity week.

From what I have heard, it is a week set aside — without any activity — so that students can start to cram for their exams.

But it seems that what I have heard is not the case and that this week is a time that certain groups are not allowed to have meetings while others are.

The reason I bring this up is on Tuesday of the above mentioned week AMS is having its banquet.

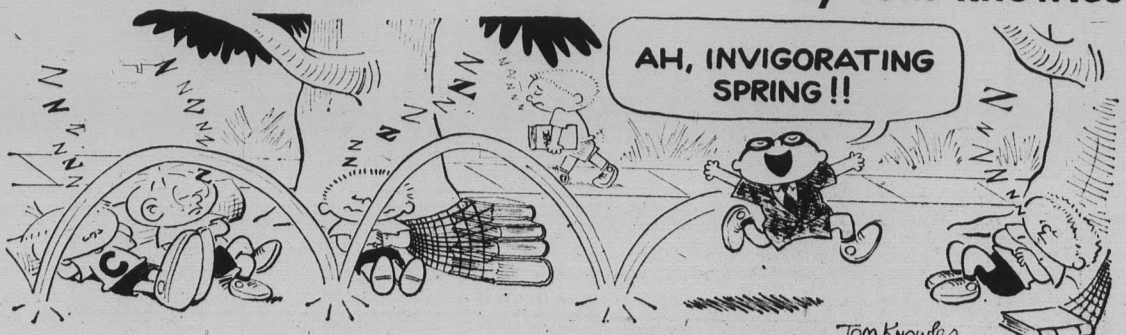

Does this seem fair to you? What about this school standard?

Maybe someone had better explain the reason behind this.

CRAM COURSE NO. 5: SHAKESPEARE

Continuing our series of pre-final exam cram courses, today we take up the works of William Shakespeare (or "The Bard of Avon" as he is jocularly called).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare (or "The Pearl of the Antilles" as he is affectionately referred to) is not the real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist that the plays are so full of classical allusions and learned references that they couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

To which I reply, "Faugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all accounts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but baseball, alas, had not yet been invented.) It used to break young Isaac's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on uniform, spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base, bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. That's all—waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled, "Good show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but everyone else in town used to snigger and pelt the Newtons with overripe fruit—figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous occasion came about when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leapt to his feet, shouted, "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!"

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Marlboro Cigarettes. Light one. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and comfort! And why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with a happy cigarette—a felicitous blend of jolly tobaccos, a good-natured filter, a rollicking flip-top box, a merry soft pack. As Newton often said, "You begin with better makin's, you end with better smokin's." Small wonder they called him "The Swedish Nightingale!"

But baseball, alas, had not yet been invented.

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appellated).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet (or Macbeth, as it is sometimes called). This play tells in living color the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goat he sees: I have a first folio edition that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is so upset by seeing the ghost (or goat) that he stabs Polonius and Bare Bodkin. He is thereupon banished to a leather factory by the King, who cries, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to a beanery!" Ophelia is so miffed that she chases her little dog out of the room, crying, "Out, out damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for swearing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival—complete with amateur theatricals, kissing games, and a pie-eating contest. Everyone has a perfectly splendid time till Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard III that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion during which everyone is killed. The little dog Spot returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

*Alack, the play forsooth was sad and sobby,
But be of cheer—there's Marlboros in the lobby!*

© 1962 Max Shulman

As the slings and arrows of outrageous finals loom closer, perchance the makers of Marlboro are not untoward to offer this friendly suggestion: Get thee to a library!

Clubs Name Veni, Vidi, Vici-- New Officers Anyone For Latin?

Pleiades, the senior women's honorary, has selected new officers to serve next fall.

Elected were Sharon Brosseau, president; Margaret Baker, vice president; Donna Arnote, secretary; Eileen Fredricks, treasurer, and Karn Sorgatz, historian-editor.

Sue Rawson has been selected as next year's president of Natani, junior women's honorary.

Other new leaders are Vergie Brehens, vice president; Anna Sue Crush, secretary; Mary Sue Ittner, treasurer, and Jean Ison, historian-editor.

Beginning with the fall 1962 semester, ASU will offer an advanced course in Latin, according to Dr. Russell Bowman, chairman of the ASU department of Foreign Languages.

The course in elementary Latin will fulfill the general education foreign language requirement and may be of particular value to students majoring in the sciences, history or literature, pre-law, pre-medical and to students in the honors program.

Graduate students who will need a reading knowledge of Latin for advanced work here or at other universities may also enroll.

The class will be offered at 8:40 a.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday. Four hours of credit will be given.

Besides learning the basic grammar, students will begin to read from simplified versions of Roman mythology and historical narratives.

During the second semester, readings will be selected from edited Latin historians and some writers and poets.

An advanced course of study is anticipated for the fall semester, 1963, as a continuation of the basic study.

Which diamond is a girl's best friend?

Every girl knows "a rose is a rose is a rose." But is a diamond a diamond a diamond?

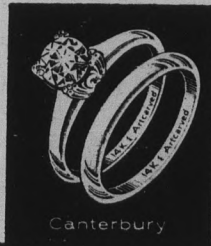

The smart girl who cares (about beauty and value) knows there's more to a diamond than meets her eye. Even under magnification, a diamond reveals its inner secrets only to the eye of a trained expert. That's why America's College Queens have chosen their "best friends" from among the award-winning designs of the world-famous Artcarved selection.

Every Artcarved diamond gives you more than the beauty which meets your eye. The quality and value of its inner beauty is also certified by a written guarantee that is recognized and respected by leading jewelers everywhere.

If you want to be sure of the inner beauty and value of your diamond, see your Artcarved jeweler. Ask him to show you the styles chosen by America's College Queens.

Tracksters Enter Coliseum Classic

By DENNIS ANDERSON
All eyes of the track and field world fall on the 22nd renewal of the famed Coliseum Relays in Los Angeles tonight.

And Arizona State's brilliant relay corps certainly will get their share of the spotlight, as the Devils face their stiffest challenge to date in both the half mile and mile races.

The meet marks the first meeting ever between the "Big Three" of collegiate mile-relays:

ASU, Abilene Christian and USC.

Among these three teams, the college mile relay standard has been held at one time or another during the past year. First, the Abilene Wildcats from the Lone Star state ran 3:07.9 at the '61 Texas Relays.

A few weeks later, right here at Goodwin Stadium, USC tied that mark by defeating the Sun Devils.

Then, the Trojans improved the record to 3:07.6 at the '61 Mt. Sac Relays with ASU again second, tying the old mark in the process.

The Compton, Calif., invitational, June, '61 version, was the site of the next record onslaught—Abilene tied USC's mark of 3:07.6, and once more ASU's quartet was second.

USC did not enter as its ace runners Kevin Hogan and Rex Cawley were out with leg injuries.

This year's Mt. San Antonio Relays saw the Sun Devils in their greatest glory, as the foursome of Mike Barrick, Henry Carr, Ron Freeman and Uli Williams sped to a new record of 3:07.5, with the Trojans second in 3:08.

Abilene Christian was at the Penn Relays the same day losing to NYU, another entrant in tonight's meet.

Perhaps a "sleeper" quartet in the race will be Texas Southern, who ran 3:09 earlier this year, virtually unopposed. Abilene has a best of 3:10, and NYU has a 3:12.9. Others are San Jose (3:10.1), Southern Cal Striders (3:09.7), and Northeast Louisiana Track Club (3:11).

Abilene and Texas Southern are favorites in the 880 relay off their season's bests of 1:23.6 and 1:23.7.

Here once more, ASU's undefeated skin will face rugged opposition.

All the open running events will be run in Olympic style meters.

Thus Williams goes in the 400 meter dash, Carr in the 100 meter dash and Gaston Green in the 110 meter hurdles.

Carr is up against a fabulous field, headed by Villanovas's Frank Budd and Florida A and M's Robert Hayes, co-holders of the world 100 yard dash record of 9.2.

George Davies and John Rose, ASU's superb polevaulter get their second try in as many weeks against the originators of the "16-0 Club," John Uelses and Dave Tork.

BOB VIEWS SPORTS NEWS

Records Could Fall Tonight

By BOB EGER
Sports Editor

Another batch of record performances could be added to the growing list of 1962 Sun Devil track and field achievements if the elements don't disagree tonight in Los Angeles.

Coach Baldy Castillo's congregation of world record threateners is due for some terrific marks.

All of the elements that produce a world record will be in evidence tonight at the Coliseum Relays, with one possible exception — the weather.

Sports fans around the world know of the ability of Ullis Williams, Hubie Watson, Henry Carr, George Davies and John Rose.

And friends of these determined young men know of the terrific desire possessed by them.

Another important element in a world record is the competition. Probably nowhere in the nation this year will it be more intense.

Name performers like Earl Young, Frank Budd, Paul Drayton, Robert Hayes, John Uelses and Dave Tork will furnish the competition for ASU's entries.

Facilities are also important, and the Coliseum is more than adequate in terms of a fast track and a good field event area.

Most of the qualifications for a world mark have been fulfilled. The talent, desire, competition and facilities couldn't be much better. If the weatherman does his part and provides a windless and not-too-cold evening — some records are quite likely to fall.

Davies is still the official holder of the world pole vault record at 15-10 1/4, although Uelses and Tork have surpassed 16 feet.

The ASU vaulter has had some good efforts lately and could be ready for 16 himself.

Rose, bothered considerably by a leg injury, may not be at his best tonight, but he's a definite threat to go 16 feet when healthy.

The fact that Williams has not yet bested the world mark for the 440 may be due to his lack of competition.

Young and possibly Adolph Plummer will provide plenty tonight, but the race has been slated for 400 meters and that could spoil record attempts.

The world record for that race, which is 437.6 yards, is 44.9 by the USA's great Otis Davis in the 1960 Olympics. The world 440 mark is 45.7 by Glenn Davis. That's quite a difference for just a little more than two yards.

ASU's 880 relay crew of Watson, Ron Freeman, Williams and Carr and the mile relay foursome of Mike Barrick, Carr, Freeman and Williams also have good chances for even faster times than before.

Their qualifications have been hashed and re-hashed numerous times in print, so we won't go into them.

Perhaps the big question mark is Carr. He'll try 100 meters against the world's fastest sprinters.

Can he beat Budd, Hayes, Drayton and Harry Jerome?

We'll be at that finish line with our stop watch and our fingers crossed.

INTRAMURAL Scene

The number of men taking part in the intramural golf and softball program showed a large increase for the month of April according to statistics released by the intramural office.

During the month of April, there were 16 teams composed of 327 men in the softball competition and 16 teams made up of 64 men in the golf competition.

This increase boosted the total number of intramural participants to 2,444 this year.
