No. 4

PEACE CORPS POINTERS — Lawrence E. Dennis, left, associate director of the Peace Corps from Washington, D.C., imparts a bit of insight into the Peace Corps objectives for Judith and James Herberger current trainees at ASU from Columbus, Ohio. Now in their third week of training, this group of trainees will serve in Bolivia, South America. An ASU trained group is currently in Colombia, South America.

Second Session Registration Set

Students now attending classes may pick up registration materials between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday (July 17-18) for the second term of the current summer sessions of study.

The materials will be available at the Moeur Activity building, according to Dr. Roy C. Rice, dean of the summer session program.

Students planning to enroll for the first time this summer will be given registration materials on the second-term registration day, July 23.

Late registration will be held July 24 through 26, and night registration for late afternoon and evening classes will be conducted from 6 to 8 p.m. July 23 and 24. More than 300 college-credit courses on both the graduate and undergraduate levels will be offered during the second term, July 23 through Aug. 25.

Special features of the second term include the residence study in art at Sedona, July 24 through Aug. 25; a student council leadership conference, Aug. 12-17; a clothing construction workshop, July 23 through Aug. 10; a clothing illustrative materials workshop, Aug. 13-25; an education workshop in clerical practices, July 23-Aug. 25; an Indian Education workshop, July 25-Aug. 25; and the continuation of the Delinquency Control Institute through Aug. 18.

A post-session of study will be held Aug. 27 through Sept. 7.

Colonel Camunez Retires From Army

Lt. Col. Arthur D. Camunez, assistant professor of military science at ASU since 1958, has retired after 29 years of service with the U.S. Army. He will make his home on a ranch near Prescott which he has owned since 1942.

After playing guard on the New Mexico A&M College football teams of 1932, 1933 and 1934, Col. Camunez was commissioned from the ROTC program there in 1934.

Entering active duty in 1942, Col. Camunez served in Europe with the 2nd Infantry Division, and participated in the Battle of the Normandy Beachhead, the Breakthrough at St. Lo, and the Battle of the Ardennes, better known as the Battle of the Bulge.

During the Korean War, he commanded a transportation port company at the Port of Pusan during the Battle of the Pusan Perimeter.

Col. Camunez has been awarded the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, Purple Heart, Combat Infantryman Badge, Meritorious Unit Citation, Distinguished Unit Badge and Presidential Citation.

Art Center Set In Sedona Area

The annual Sedona Art Center, offering undergraduate and graduate credit or available without credit, will be in session July 24 to August 25.

Directed by Ray Fink, associate professor of Art, the residence study in art will be limited to the first 100 applicants, according to Dr. Roy Rice, director of summer sessions. Early registration may be made through Dr. Rice's office.

Classes will be offered in painting, sculpture, ceramics and photography.

Sculptor, painter and designer, Fink received his master of science in art education degree from the Institute of Design in Chicago, and his bachelor of art education degree from the Art Institute of Chicago. He has taught at both of these institutions. His work has been exhibited all over the country.

Other outstanding instructors will include Jack Stuler, professional photographer and ASU graduate assistant; and William Bradford, noted ceramist who has assisted on the ceramics staff of the University of Southern California for several years.

In addition to studio work, students have the opportunity to paint on location in the colorful red rock country of Sedona and Oak Creek Canyon. Other locations available near-by are the ghost town of Jerome, Flagstaff's San Francisco Peaks, Montezuma Castle and Slide Rock.

Movie Fun In Store At Cosner

"Heaven Knows Mr. Allison," starring Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum is featured on the marquee at Cosner Auditorium tonight at 7:30 p.m.

In cinemascope and color, the movie involves the battle for survival alternating with the fight for self-control in an amusing tale of a rough marine and a lovely nun marooned together on a war-ravaged Pacific atoll during WW II.

Next week beginning Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Cosner is "The Bravados" starring Gregory Peck, Joan Collins and Stephen Boyd. This movie continues through Wednesday.

A touch of outdoor adventure shows how a grim stranger to a southern border town hunts down four vicious bravados who killed his wife, and then explores the consequences of this violence on his conscience.

Goldwater Sweatshirts Latest Fad

Taken from the Arizona Republic July 12, 1962

"Be the first in your precinct to own a Barry Goldwater sweatshirt," says an advertisement in National Review, which is offering the sweatshirts to the public for $3.95.

The sweatshirts — made in genuine sweat shops — have a lifesize head of Barry Goldwater, Arizona's junior senator, with his name below to identify him.

"You'll delight in watching liberals recoil in terror when they see you in your Barry Goldwater sweatshirts," says the Indianapolis bookstore that is selling the sweatshirts.

The ad also has a number of testimonials including:

"I dreamt I was sent to Washington in my Barry Goldwater sweatshirt." — Harvard Professor.

Also, "I'm sweating more now but enjoying it less." — JFK.

Phi Delta Kappa Draft Candidates

Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary professional education fraternity, will hold a formal initiation for nine candidates elected for membership, Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m. in MU 218.

The initiation will be held after a dinner. Reservations for the dinner should be turned in to Bob Alberti at the MU information desk. The fee will be $2.

Exam Schedule

Classes will meet as usual on Friday, July 20, with final examinations beginning at 2 p.m., according to the following schedule.

No examinations are given in advance of schedule. A student leaving or failing to take the examination is given an "Incomplete" or an "E" according to the judgment of the instructor.

Registration materials for the second summer session will be distributed at the Moeur Activity building Tuesday and Wednesday, July 17 and 18 during the hours of 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. This is for the convenience of students currently registered.

THE STATE PRESS, distributed by the campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi under the direction of Circulation Manager Mike Barrick, is the official campus newspaper of Arizona State University. It is published each Wednesday and Friday throughout the school year, excepting holidays, and is entered as second class matter at the Tempe, Arizona, Post Office under the Acts of March 3, 1879, and August 24, 1912. Subscription price, $3 per school year.

THE STATE PRESS is a member of the Arizona Newspapers Association, Associated Collegiate Press and National Advertising Service, Inc.

YOUR ATTENTION PLEASE — Patti Smith of Safford, leads her fellow high school music campers at a recent band practice. Under a sign reading, "You can't build a 'Band' on excuses," ASU band director, Harold Hines, right, presides over the practice to see that the youngsters absorb this attitude.

Music Campers Finish Session

The climax of three-weeks of intensive work by young musicians will be reached Saturday night at the final concert of the All-State High School Music Camp, which has been in session at ASU since June 24.

Open to the public free of charge, the concert will be in the Tempe Union High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

The Maroon, Gold and Honor bands, directed by Harold Hines, Director of ASU's Sun Devil Band, will be presented first on the program, followed by the Camp Chorus, directed by David B. Scouler, professor of Music, and the Camp Orchestra, directed by Dr. Wendell Rider, chairman of the ASU music department.

As is traditional, the last number on the program will be "Sine Nomine," written by Vaughn Williams, and arranged for chorus and orchestra by Miles Dresskell, ASU professor of Music and camp director.

During the program, awards will be presented to fourth and fifth year campers. Presentation of scholarships for the 1963 camp will be made to outstanding campers. These scholarships are given by Redwill Music Company, PBSW Supply and Equipment Company, and Dr. Elizabeth Arvad, of Long Beach, Calif. Scholarships given by the Music Camp will also be announced.

Robert Zacher Receives Post In Advertising

Robert V. Zacher, Arizona State University associate professor of advertising, has been re-appointed education director of the Advertising Association of the West.

The election was held last week at the joint meeting of the AAW and the Advertising Federation of America in Denver. Zacher addressed the convention on "Advertising Education."

As education director, his duties include coordination of educational activities of the 44 member advertising clubs in the 13 western states.

Second Term Intramurals Program Set

An intramural program for second session students has been scheduled.

The following activities will be offered:

Badminton — Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Swimming — Daily.

Softball — Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Tennis — Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Volleyball — Mondays and Wednesdays beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Weight Training — Mondays and Wednesdays from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

ASU Students Are Recipients Of Scholarships

The Arizona Society of Certified Public Accountants has awarded $200 scholarships for the 1962-63 academic year to four ASU students.

The scholarship winners are James A. Mansperger, Anthony N. Corea, Jay F. Lyman and Patricia Nelson Bryan.

Awarded on the basis of financial need, academic achievement and leadership qualities, the scholarships are available to accounting majors of junior or senior class standing.

Mansperger, who was graduated from Palo Verde College in 1959, has also attended California Western University, while Corea was graduated from Butler High School, Pa., before enrolling at ASU.

Mrs. Bryan was graduated from Mesa High School in 1956, and Lyman was graduated from Phoenix College in 1961 before enrolling at ASU.

Mosquito Suspect As Disease Carrier

(From: Arizona Public Health News)

To the average American, the mosquito is a pesky little insect that carries malaria and yellow fever. In most of the United States, however, he is thought to be merely an irritating buzzer whose greatest crime is spoiling evening picnics.

But public health officials are now taking a second look at our six legged friend and are starting to ask if he should be returned from the nuisance category to the menace category.

The deep interest in the mosquito stems from a suspicion that there is a lot more mosquito borne encephalitis in Arizona than is recognized.

Mosquito borne encephalitis (brain fever) is an interesting disease. The natural hosts for the virus causing this disease are wild birds. Every so often the virus is transmitted by a mosquito to a horse or to a human being. Perhaps the most tragic cases of this encephalitis occur among very young children. The central nervous system can be damaged irreparably.

Philip Hotchkiss, D.V.M., director of veterinary public health, has been conducting an interesting study to get more data on the actual problem.

According to Dr. Hotchkiss the purpose of the study has four points: 1) to determine which viruses are found in Arizona; 2) to gauge transmission rates, particularly related to seasonal conditions; 3) to spot areas where infection seems most prevalent; 4) to survey the mosquito population. The main mosquito involved in the transmission of encephalitis is the one classified as Culex tarsalis.

ASU Change Leaves Oldster Far Behind

By JIM BAKER

An "old timer" around ASU is a person who remembers the ornamental iron fence that once enclosed the campus.

Four years ago, when the present group of seniors were starting their college careers, the fence still ran along Eighth Street in front of Old Main and beside the palm walk east of the president's home (Alumni House now).

The Physical Sciences building was under construction at that time, and the installation of a utility tunnel under the palm walk necessitated removal of the fence beside the president's home.

After construction was completed, the fence was erected again near its original site. By peeking through the hedge, it may still be seen.

The most obvious reminder of the fence's existence is the gate at the west end of the walk leading to Old Main from College Avenue.

The reason for the iron fence was given in The Arizona Republican of August 21, 1928.

The head of the story read, "The Prevention Of Vandalism, Protection From Tramps Cause For Campus Fence."

According to the story, Dr. A. J. Matthews, president of the college, said, "The college campus is primarily for the people of the college, and while we welcome visitors at any and all times, we do not appreciate use of the spacious lawns as lounging and sleeping quarters for the unemployed.

"We have endeavored to make the campus attractive and inviting and it appears that we have succeeded in such an extent that the reaction is detrimental.

"Prior to the construction of the fence, scores of tramps . . . utilized the lawns for lounging and sleeping purposes. Students do not care to associate with people of this character, so they were deprived of the thing to which they were rightfully entitled.

"We encountered a great deal of opposition from Tempe townspeople when it became known that the ornamental fence was to be constructed, but this opposition has largely disappeared in recent months."

CHICKENS HELP IN STUDY

In order to get the data necessary, Dr. Hotchkiss has stationed eight flocks of chickens, thirty to a flock, in Yuma, Santa Cruz, Cochise, Graham, Gila, and Pinal counties. He is also planning to station a flock in Yavapai County this summer. Maricopa County was not included in the state survey since Verdes Ueckert, D.V.M., of the Maricopa County Health Department is conducting a separate study with a grant from the National Institutes of Health.

At assigned intervals these chickens will be bled to determine rates of infection. These chickens are being cooped in the same conditions as would exist on chicken farms throughout the state.

Concurrently wild birds will be bled to determine which wild birds seem to serve most frequently as host to the virus. It is hoped that in a few years the periodic findings from this study will weave a definitive pattern pertaining to the scope of encephalitis in Arizona.

Dr. Hotchkiss cautioned that no conclusions can be drawn at this point about the study. "We are firmly convinced, however," he stated, "that until we get more data, a possible danger to the public health of the people of Arizona will remain unexplored."

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"AS A MATTER OF FACT, IT'S FOR YOU — WE'RE GOING TO MISS SEEING YOU AROUND HERE NEXT TERM."
