Gold-Flow Problem Topic Of ASU Economic Forum

Success of the U.S. post-World War II world reconstruction policy, the American dollar's becoming the world's No. 1 reserve currency, and growing U.S. international payments deficit have been the prime contributors to the U.S. gold-flow problem.

This was the conclusion of Carl Bimson, Phoenix banker and civic leader, at the third presentation of the President's Forum last Thursday.

ASU economic professors Dr. John Cochran and Marvin Jackson also discussed the European Common Market and the USSR economy at the forum entitled "Important Economic Developments of the World Today."

Cochran evaluated the establishment of the Common Market as "Perhaps the single most important development in the area of economics and perhaps even in politics, in the 20th century."

The U.S. can expect the Soviet economy to sell exports at a loss in order to wage economic warfare along three lines, according to Jackson.

The gold-flow problem in the U.S. is directly dependent upon bringing our domestic budget and international payments into balance, according to Bimson.

Bimson further noted that despite an annual U.S. favorable balance of trade, which would normally create a gold surplus, the growing payments deficit is because the U.S.:

1. Is continuing to give away dollars, goods and services in foreign aid, amounting to about two billion dollars annually.
2. Spends about three billion dollars per year on the maintenance of U.S. armed forces abroad.
3. Corporations have made large investments in plants in foreign countries, amounting to about $35 billion or five times that of foreign investments in the U.S.
4. Individuals are spending millions on foreign travel.
5. Increased volume of foreign borrowings in the U.S., due to a cheaper rate of interest than abroad.

Cochran noted the importance of the formation of the Common Market because he thought it could possibly lead to the formation of a United States of Europe, encompassing 250,000,000 people.

The U.S. may stand both to gain and to lose by further growth and greater importance of the Common Market, according to Cochran.

The Market might be a barrier to the U.S. exchange of agricultural and industrial products with the very profitable European market, Cochran said.

On the other hand, the Market might be a "dream come true" for the U.S. through the higher standards of living and economic growth of the Common Market countries.

Jackson concluded that we may expect volume of Soviet trade in the future to increase to make the USSR a major trade force, despite such an increase would not stimulate their interior economic growth.

The USSR is probably engaged in an all-out economic cold war along the following three lines:

1. Trade used to increase their domestic production and interior economic strength.
2. Foreign trade used to influence the economic and political policies of the other countries.
3. Direct trade war to break up the other's economic ties.

Senate Rules Committee Thought Most Important

Which is the most important committee of the ASASU student senate?

The Rules committee is a likely answer.

This is despite the fact that the Rules committee this year no longer has the controlling power of checking all bills before their introduction into the senate.

THIS RULE change is only one of those established by the committee at the beginning of the year in its rules for the procedures of the senate.

It is this power, establishing the rules by which the senate must abide during all of its sessions, that gives the committee whatever claim it may have to being the "most important."

The Rules committee is an original committee of the First ASU Senate of 1953-54.

THE COMMITTEE establishes the senate rules of order by adopting those of the previous year with revisions.

The rules must be ready for presentation to the senate by its second session, only a few weeks after the beginning of classes. This makes it necessary for the committee to be the only one of the senate which must meet during the summer to do legislative work.

THE COMMITTEE must also make the senate rules known to the senators, determine points of parliamentary procedure during senate sessions and work on legislation assigned to it.

It is the only committee which can meet during sessions, due to duty of determining points of parliamentary procedure.

The pledge of allegiance was added at the beginning of each session to the senate procedures by the senate's rules of this year.

The committee also added the Student Government Operations committee to the senate this year while abolishing the Student Services committee.

RULES SUBMITTED by the committee and adopted by the senate this year also made it mandatory for committees studying bills to submit a written report of the committee's recommendation to the ASASU secretary.

The new rules also defined directives, memorials, resolutions and petitions, establishing the procedures for their use.

Karl Wochner, sophomore senator, is chairman of the Rules committee, having served as its chairman last semester.

Senators Judy Wilson, sophomore representative, and Vergie Behrens, AWS, are also on the committee, with Barbara Brock serving as secretary for the committee.

Purse Lost By Student

A young mother and her four small children face a not-so-Merry Christmas this year as a result of a lost purse.

In addition to Christmas money, the purse contained the family's rent money for the month.

The purse was left in the music room of the Arts building Monday afternoon.

If the purse is returned to Room 106 in the Education building, no questions will be asked. Or the finder may put the money in an envelope and leave it in the campus mail slot outside of Room 106.

Regents

The Board of Regents will meet Saturday, Dec. 29, at 9:30 a.m. at ASU.

Concern Expressed Over Chinese Military Threat

Indian youth and student organizations have figured strongly in the preparation of their nation to meet the recent military threat from Communist China.

The National Council of Indian University Students (NCUSI), the Indian national union of students, has expressed concern over the Chinese military threat for the past year. On Sept. 16 of this year, the All-India Youth Congress, youth section of the ruling party of Prime Minister Nehru, issued a resolution expressing anxiety over continued border skirmishes.

On Oct. 26, Mr. Nehru addressed the student body at Delhi University, warning them that "the time may come when you will have to leave your studies and go to the battlefield to save your country's freedom."

The day after the Prime Minister's speech, army recruiting offices were swarmed by crowds of students. At Delhi, police were forced to close the gates to the recruiting center — but the students scaled the walls, and were soon "packed like sardines in the can" as the press put it.

Youth and student organizations throughout the country gave blood and scarce pocket money to help the war effort. NCUSI proclaimed Nov. 1 as "National Crush the Chinese Aggressors Day" and turned out 10,000 students to parade in the streets of New Delhi, shouting furious slogans and creating near-riot conditions. The Soviet consulate in Bombay was picketed by students charging USSR complicity in the Chinese invasion of India.

Youth and student groups in India organized into a National Youth and Students Defense Committee, excluding only the small pro-Communist All-India Students Federation. The Indian students announced receipt of messages of solidarity from all corners of the world, from UFUCH Chile to USNSA United States.

A Task Unfinished

Arizona State University students will be enjoying their last day of Christmas vacation on New Year's Day, 1963. They may be sleeping off a New Year's Eve hang-over or making New Year's resolutions to turn over a new leaf starting January 1, 1963.

The United States of America turned over a new leaf on January 1, 1863. On New Year's Day, one-hundred years ago, President Lincoln signed a document which marked a turning point in America's history. The Emancipation Proclamation declared to all the world that "all persons held as slaves . . . are, and henceforward, shall be free . . ." On its face, the Emancipation Proclamation freed the slaves, but in the word of President Kennedy, ". . . the Emancipation Proclamation was more than an individual action of wisdom and courage. It was a part-payment on our debt to the founding fathers of this republic — an installment in our national determination to realize for all our citizens the promise of equal rights and equal opportunities to which this nation is forever dedicated."

On January 1, 1963, there will doubtless be celebrations commemorating this great event. Absent from these celebrations will be the many Americans languishing in jails for their attempts to secure those rights implicit in the Proclamation and explicit in the Constitution. Also not attending the celebrations will be: a U.S. Senator from Louisiana, who is currently on a U.S. good will tour in Africa, teaching self-government, Dixie style; or the citizens of Oxford, Mississippi, who had their own private celebration in September; or the Communists, who will be too busy exploiting U.S. race relations as a cold war propaganda tool; or members of the Black Muslims, a fanatical Negro sect who feel that the last hundred years have brought nothing to celebrate.

Contrary to the Black Muslims, we agree with President Kennedy that there have been gains, and that, ". . . It has been, more than anything else, the proud and steadfast commitment of our Negro fellow citizens to the fulfillment of their rights that has brought about the extraordinary advances of these years." The fact that practically all of this progress has come about in the last twenty years shows that the American Negro is dissatisfied with his second-class citizenship and doesn't want to wait another hundred years. He is tired of separate-but-equal schools that are inherently unequal, of discrimination in employment and housing, of abridgment of his constitutional right to vote by rigged literacy tests and economic pressures.

Racial discrimination is by no means confined to the South. Just last year a negro Air Force engineering student at ASU made headlines because he was unable to find housing for himself and his family in the Tempe area. There have been similar cases that haven't made the newspapers. Perhaps the best example of racial discrimination close to home is the existence of social organizations at ASU which bar individuals because of their skin color.

Thus, one century after the Emancipation Proclamation, we are still far from the goal of equal opportunities for all. President Kennedy's housing order represents the type of bold action needed to achieve what time by itself has failed to bring. However, to be effective, such positive governmental action must have the full support of an informed public.

We hope that all ASU students will consider the special significance of New Year's Day, 1963.

"— AND, SIR, IN JUNE I EXPECT TO BE GRADUATED. HEY, ED, HOW DO YOU SPELL GRADUATED? "

Editorially Speaking

Editorial Published In
 The Center City Journal Dec. 19, 1962

The colors red and green have been traditionally the colors of Christmas. Today, they are just colors, but the custom of using red and green to symbolize Christmas is so firmly established, with roots extending far back into history, that historians believe that the usage has some logical basis.

Some authorities think that the custom began around the middle of the 20th century. Although theologians point out that most people of that era professed a belief in God, sociologists believe that the colors were associated with barbaric rites or games rather than with the religious significance of the holiday.

During that era, some sort of mass mutual slaying movement existed that was so effective (according to existing records) that in one year (1961) 38,000 people were killed and 1,400,000 injured with a weapon called the "automobile." Month-to-month records show that the greatest number of people were killed during the Christmas holidays, with July 4 running a close second. This would indicate holiday games or rituals. (Note also that the color red is associated with both holidays.)

A suggestion that killing by automobile (which was a type of vehicle) was a method employed to dampen a population explosion cannot be taken seriously, since records show that over half of those involved in the slaughter were under the influence of an anesthetizing agent known as alcohol. Medical men have informed us that alcohol is a depressant; that drinking it would impair the judgment and reflexes of an individual engaged in any type of scientific process where accuracy is desirable. In other words, using alcohol would prevent precise aiming of the vehicle.

Nor is it reasonable to believe that so many deaths were caused by accident when the automobile was used for transportation. The Atomic Era began in the 20th century. Surely such an advanced civilization would realize that common courtesy and rational thinking would almost eliminate the probability of accidents.

Despite the diversity of opinion, the consensus of symbologists is that the use of red and green can be traced to that era.

Green would stand for money — the wealth (nearly 7 billion, including injuries and property damage in 1961) that the seemingly senseless killings cost.

Red, of course, would be blood — the blood must have flowed rather freely on the highways in that age when people in automobiles were killing each other.

In 1961, Arizona:

was among 15 states having over 6.0 traffic deaths per 100,000,000 vehicle miles. (Ariz. 7.5)

was among 13 states having over 27.0 traffic deaths per 100,000 population (Ariz. 36.7) was among those states having the highest death rates and the highest bodily injury claims.

By BOB ZACHE

Drinking coffee in the Corral the other day, a couple of us got to wondering.

Now is the season of good will and charity. Everyone is worrying about the less fortunate everywhere and chipping in to feed and clothe them over the holidays.

IT'S KIND of curious, isn't it? I wonder what all the poor people do for the rest of the year.

Just sit around being poor and waiting for Christmas, I guess.

Fortunately, one organization around here isn't Christmas oriented.

Phoenix branch of the American Association of University Women has been maintaining 23 children in high school since September.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manera, ASU women's physical education instructor, said that the group started work last July contacting the children to be helped. She solicited other organizations for donations, collected clothing and books for the newly graduated eighth graders.

FAMILY SERVICES of the Salvation Army and the Maricopa County Welfare Department provided plenty of names and addresses of needy children.

Interclub Council, an organization of 23 Valley women's clubs, got member groups working to collect the estimated $1,400 minimum needed to put 23 freshmen into high school and keep them there for a year. They got $700.

The University Women have been trying to make up the difference.

Books, clothes, lunches and transportation are the big items that need taking care of.

PHOENIX POLICE Department made sure some of the boys got bicycles through their auctions. This provided for those who lived beyond bus routes.

One girl didn't show up for school the first day even though her books and lunch had been provided for.

Workers found that she had only one shirt and a pair of capris to wear. They dressed her and she's been in school since.

Mrs. Manera said they still need cash and clothing. She can be reached at ASU ext. 525 for those groups who find themselves in need of a good cause to work on.

AND YOU can help anytime — even after Christmas.

Oh well. 'Tis the season to be jolly.

It's a good thing people get the spirit at least once a year. Enjoy yourselves merry ladies and gentlemen.

God rest ye one and all.

Devil's Den Has New Look

Regular patrons to the Devil's Den and patio have noticed some new changes this week.

Larger and more comfortable tables and chairs have been moved from the faculty dining room next door.

Mrs. Judy Thomas, director of the MU and Stan Brown, campus representative for Saga Foods do not expect an increase in seating capacity in the Den, but they are pleased with the possibility of 50 to 60 places on the patio.

The faculty dining room in turn has been furnished with new and slightly larger tables and chairs.

Mrs. Thomas explained that the faculty dining room is available evenings after 7 for private clubs and organizations.

St. Nicholas Is Renowned Despite Evolving Changes

By BILL QUAYLE

It was one of the nights before Christmas and about the year 325 that a man who was soon to become world renowned performed his first great miracle.

This man was called St. Nicholas and he was about to restore a child that was severely burnt, by making a cross over its body.

At one time this great man was Bishop of a town in Asia Minor. Soon, with his great deeds, he was elevated to a Saint. Legend makes him the Patron Saint of children all over the world. He was loved by children because of the things he did for them.

Some of the things that he is accredited with are converting a gang of robbers, calming a storm, giving life to those who were destined to die and giving his wealth to the poor.

In 342 this great man passed away and was buried in the shrine at Myra. Since then December 6 has been "Saint Nicholas Day."

Throughout history there have been many people like St. Nicholas. Some are Silenus, Saturn, Thor, Kris Krinkle and finally, Santa Claus.

If you look closely at the Santa of today you will probably find that he differs from Saint Nicholas in appearance. Today's Santa is dressed all in fur from his head to his feet. His clothes are all tarnished with ashes and soot. We also find that he has a broad face and a little round belly that shakes when he laughs. This was hardly the appearance of St. Nicholas.

Even though they don't look alike, both have one great characteristic, they are Saints. Both brought joy and happiness into the hearts of children. Both produced miracles, one by healing and the other by love.

My only concern is will Santa always ride around in his sleigh dressed all in fur from his head to his feet, or will he be dressed from his head to his feet in a space suit and ride in a rocket ship?

Curriculum Week Is January 7-12

Curriculum Advisement Week for the second semester is scheduled for the week Jan. 7-12.

The purpose of this special advisement period is to provide each student an opportunity to meet with his curriculum adviser for educational planning in general, and, more especially, for the approval of a program of studies for the second semester. Students who do not know the name or office number of their adviser should inquire at the office of the dean at the college in which they are registered.

Students who do not obtain a signed approved program of studies before Jan. 12 will not be able to see the advisers during the regular registration days, Jan. 31 to Feb. 2. It cannot be too strongly urged, therefore, that all students plan to see curriculum advisers during the special advisement period.

Students Foil Tire Theft Try

A tire theft attempt was foiled early Friday morning by Sahuaro Hall residents, the Department of Security reported.

Two ASU students were apprehended at 2:30 a.m. Friday by Campus Security after allegedly removing two rear tires from a 1962 Chevrolet, parked on Apache Blvd.

The two were interrupted when residents of B-wing awoke and went outside to investigate, Campus Security officers said.

The Sahuaro Hall occupants arrived at the scene and found the car placed on blocks and two tires missing.

The Security officers, Irving Jaffee and Halldor Hjalmanson, took two suspects into custody and later turned them over to the Tempe Police Department.

Impressive Libraries Listed

Dr. Alan Covey, head librarian, and John Ellingson, director of the physical plant, recently toured twelve reknown college libraries in connection with the proposed ASU library.

Dr. Covey said that most impressive libraries were those of Cornell and Brigham Young. He studied their combination of old and new libraries which would be applicable here, should legislature approve the budget.

The new library, to be built by 1965, would replace East Hall and have Matthews as an auxiliary. It would contain one million more volumes and four times the seating space.

The Arizona Highway Patrol announces good road conditions throughout the state today and tomorrow. U.S. Highway 66 will have snow along the Coronado Trail but it won't be necessary to put on chains.

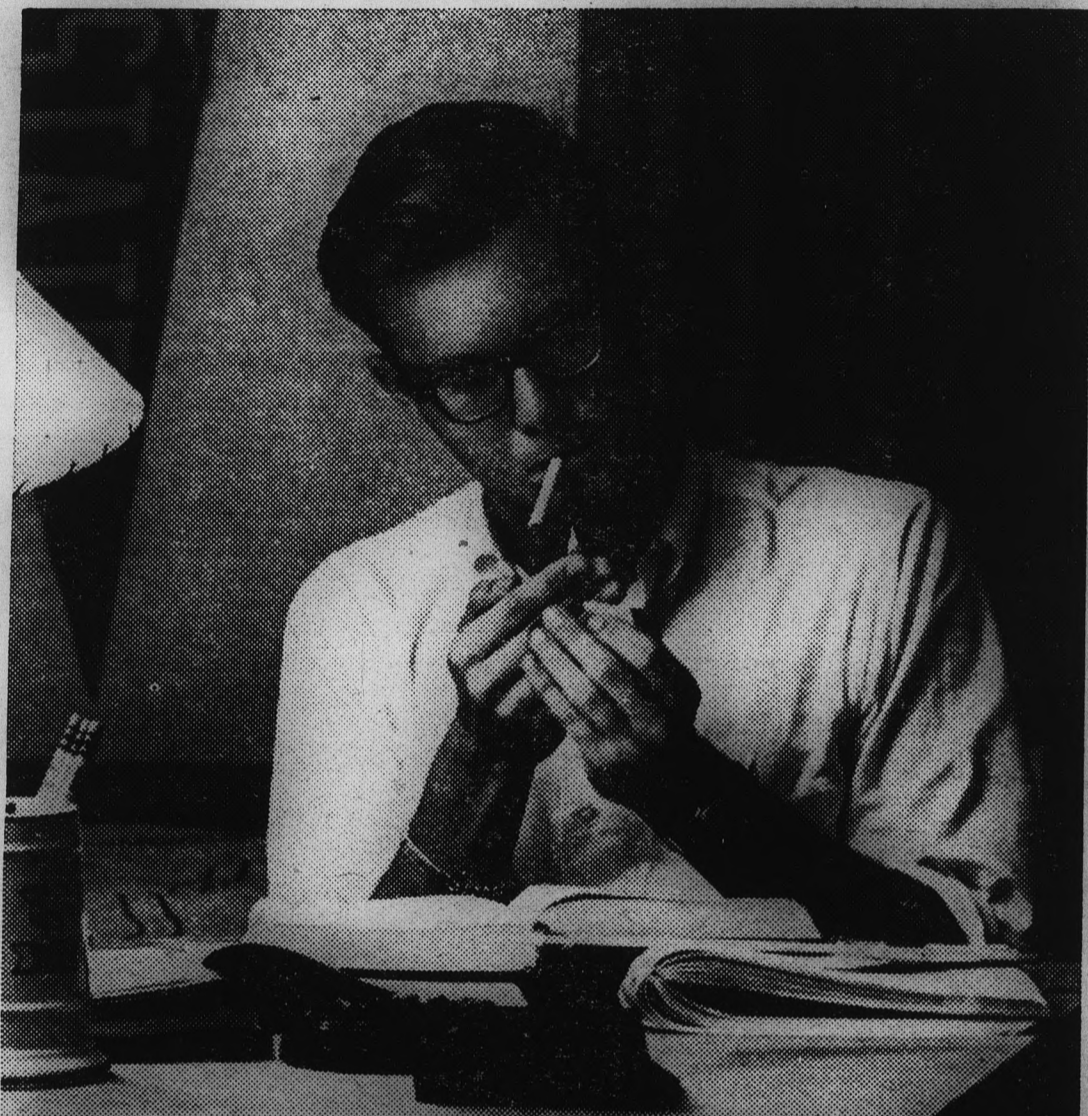

There will be scattered showers throughout the higher elevation areas. All students were asked by the Highway Patrol to drive safely even with good road conditions.

Sky Harbor weather bureau predicts low clouds and fog today and tomorrow in the Chicago area. There is snow on the ground but no more is expected until the end of the week.

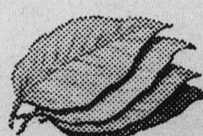

Boston is reported to be about 20 degrees below freezing but clear with rain and snow toward the end of the week.

Reviewer Acclaims Talent Of Soprano, Piano Artists

By SPERO THEODORE

Last Thursday evening two young artists gave a most gratifying joint recital in the MU ballroom. Miss Vicky Bond, soprano, and Jerry Cobb, pianist, presented a program that showcased their budding talents and revealed their potential for future artistic growth.

Miss Bond, a pupil of Josephine Antoine, sang lieder of Schumann, Brahms and Mozart, as well as works of Rachmaninoff, Barber, and Hageman. Her voice was especially effective in the lieder of Brahms and Schumann. Here, she projected well the songs' emotion and romantic warmth.

ACCOMPANIST for Miss Bond was Mr. Wallace Hornbrook who lent the complimentary support that is most vital to lieder. Gerald Moore, famed accompanist, has a most enlightening and humorous record on the Angel label titled "The Unabashed Accompanist." It is a must for lieder fans.

In his performances of Mozart's Sonata in D Major, K.576 and Liszt's Transcendental Etude N. 11 "Harmonies du Soir," Jerry Cobb showed fine technique, sensitive phrasing, and delicate dynamic control. The Liszt piece came off the better of the two compositions performed.

JERRY IS very much at home in the romantic idiom of musical expression and this writer would like to hear him in such things as the seldom played Rubinstein Concerto no. 4.

Students at ASU are fortunate in having such artists to perform for them. Americans, as a musical audience, have a tendency to be late in recognizing or appreciating their young artists. Note the case of Van Cliburn who set a mode of recognition that other American artists have since followed.

PROBABLY MOST Americans do not know it, but far the majority of the world's best young pianists are American. It is also a generally unknown fact that because of the wealth of young operatic talent in our country, Italy has sent monetary contributions to the opera here to stimulate the recruitment of singers.

Dorms Send Yule Gifts

Several more dorms have planned special projects for the Christmas season.

THE QUAD — North, South and West Halls — are donating three decorated Christmas trees to the Golden Gate Settlement Home in Phoenix. They are also sending clothing, toys and blankets to the Guadalupe Mission.

HAIGLER HALL collected white star bottle caps and exchanged them for $25. The money was given to the Cystic Fibrosis National Research Foundation in Phoenix.

SAHUARO "B" sent 125 Christmas cards into radio station KBUZ. The station gave one turkey to a needy family for every 25 cards they received from their listeners. Five families received turkeys in this manner from "B".

Pi Sigma Epsilon Completes Year-Long Collection Drive

ASU's Iota Chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon recently completed its project of "Books for World Universities" by sending about 400 books to Nommensen University in Medan, Indonesia.

The project began in 1961 when 27 text and reference books in the field of marketing and selling were sent to the university.

A letter of appreciation for the gift was received at that time from Professor William A. Nielander, an academic member of Iota chapter, now on leave from ASU and teaching at Nommensen.

IN THE LETTER Dr. Nielander said, "The Russians are spending millions on free textbooks to countries, and a program such as we are proposing would do much to counteract this."

At the Pi Sigma Epsilon national convention in Detroit last

March, the Iota chapter presented its proposal that all chapters participate in the project of "Books for World Universities."

A SECOND proposal to the convention was for each chapter of Pi Sigma Epsilon to expand the book project to other interested professional clubs and fraternities in its university.

Universities in underdeveloped countries need texts and references in all subjects. The books should have a copyright date of 1957 or later. No volume should contain content material on comparative economic systems.

Iota chapter has a list of universities that are in need.

Iranian Twins Laud ASU 'Opportunities'

College life in the U.S. is exciting and different to twins Nasser and Mansur Haghighi from Iran. "We like the spirit of the students, the football games and the cheerleaders," Nasser said. "But, ah! The pompon girls!" Mansur added with a twinkle in his eyes.

The twins agreed that college life is much more fun here. "In Iran there is less opportunity for social life," Nasser commented.

"The fraternity system doesn't exist in Iran. Joining a fraternity or sorority is a good way of making friends, especially during the first and second years of college," Mansur observed.

"Coeducation in universities is a good thing too. It helps young people to adjust better socially," Nasser added.

On the academic side, the twins observed that education in the U.S. offers more opportunities that it does in Iran. They are of the opinion that the informal relationship between professors and students here makes the students feel freer to express their ideas and opinions.

"The professors in Iran are on such a different level that the relationship is very formal," Mansur commented.

Mansur was the first of the twins to come to the U.S. After attending college in Oklahoma for two years, he transferred to ASU. He liked ASU so well that he encouraged Nasser to join him this year.

Mansur is a senior working for a degree in chemical engineering. Nasser is a sophomore majoring in mechanical engineering.

Mansur wishes to become a U.S. citizen while Nasser plans to return to Iran.

DECK THE HALLS

When you think of Christmas gifts you naturally think of Marlboro cigarettes, leading seller in flip-top box in all fifty states—and if we annex Wales, in all fifty-one—and if we annex Lapland—in all fifty-two. This talk about annexing Wales and Lapland is, incidentally, not just idle speculation. Great Britain wants to trade Wales to the United States for a desert. Great Britain needs a desert desperately on account of the tourist trade. Tourists are always coming up to the Prime Minister or the Lord Privy Seal or like that and saying, "I'm not knocking your country, mind you. It's very quaint and picturesque, etc. what with Buckingham Palace and Bovril and Scotland Yard, etc., but where's your desert?" (Before I forget, let me point out that Scotland Yard, Britain's plain-clothes police branch, was named after Wally Scotland and Fred Yard who invented plain clothes. The American plain-clothes force is called the FBI after Frank B. Incheliff, who invented fingerprints. Before Mr. Incheliff's invention, everybody's fingers were absolutely glassy smooth. This, as you may imagine, played hob with the identification of newborn babies in hospitals. From 1791 until 1904 no American parent

... Some of them well over eighty ever brought home the right baby from the hospital. This later became known as the Black Tom Explosion.)

But I digress. England, I was saying, wants to trade Wales for a desert. Sweden wants to trade Lapland for Frank B. Incheliff. The reason is that Swedes to this day still don't have fingerprints. As a result, identification of babies in Swedish hospitals is so haphazard that Swedes flatly refuse to bring their babies home. There are, at present, nearly a half-billion unclaimed babies in Swedish hospitals—some of them well over eighty years old.

But I digress. We were speaking of Christmas gifts which naturally put us in mind of Marlboro cigarettes. What could be more welcome at Christmas time than Marlboro's flavor, Marlboro's soft pack, Marlboro's flip-top box? What indeed would be more welcome at any time of year—winter or summer, rain or shine, night or day? Any time, any season, when you light a Marlboro you can always be certain that you will get the same mild, flavorful, completely comfortable smoke.

There are, of course, other things you can give for Christmas besides Marlboro cigarettes. If, for example, you are looking for something to give a music lover, let me call to your attention a revolutionary new development in phonographs—the Low-fi phonograph. The Low-fi, product of years of patient research, has so little fidelity to the record you put on it that if, for instance, you put "Stardust" on the turntable, "Melancholy Baby" will come out. This is an especially welcome gift for people who have grown tired of "Stardust".

Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night.

The makers of Marlboro cigarettes, who take pleasure in bringing you this column throughout the school year, wish to join old Max in extending greetings of the Season.

On The Go

By MARY GORMAN

ASU finally has a humor magazine in the December issue of Savant.

The first issue was a notable effort but was seriously lacking in humor.

The latest addition to the campus press situation carries a variety of articles on subjects of appeal to everyone from the dean of women to the athletes.

THE "HUMBUG" ISSUE covers the world situation, the campus situation, Saga Food, werewolves, and a Queen of Beasts contest.

It also contains excerpts from Jerry Lewis' stay on campus and a student's response to his activities.

A big feature of the issue is the contest, rules on the back cover, which is patterned after the recent Ugly Person contest.

The Queen of Beasts contest is the issue's real drawing card.

THE CONTEST IS OPEN to all women's social organizations and dormitories.

Contest petitions must be submitted between Jan. 2 and 9.

Prospective entrants should obtain their copy of Savant now to find out vital details.

Oh, by the way, girls, the winner of the contest receives a banner, a pound of raw hamburger and a dog collar with chain and stake.

Don't you want to add these items to your collection?

WHEN YOU DO GET a copy of the magazine, flip to page 16 and see how many of the buildings you can identify.

You have a 50-50 chance to recognize one-half of the fixtures.

For those who are always "on the go," this page presents a real challenge to your power of observation.

Copies of Savant can be purchased in the bookstore for 25 cents.

There weren't many left early this week, so you better hurry to get your copy.

There will be an art exhibit at the Wesley Foundation house Dec. 30 for all those interested in photographic art.

JOHN STULER, GRADUATE student, is showing his works, which deal with nature and emotion.

The public is invited.

The rest of the entertainment this weekend is on the basketball court, as the rest of the campus will be pretty much closed up.

Merry Christmas, all.

Varied Destinations Signify Christmas Vacation Exodus

The Christmas spirit and gala festivities send ASU students to all sections of the country for the holidays.

Some fly, take a train or bus or drive. They spend hours travelling for the purpose of celebrating Christ's birthday with their loved ones.

Anyone who still needs a ride should check with the MU information desk.

There they have a large map showing the destinations of those who have space in their cars for passengers.

The desk also keeps a file of the names of people who are driving and those who need rides. Some drivers who will be leaving tomorrow or later can still be contacted.

These are to Montgomery, Ala., call (274-0300); California Bay area (967-5756); Los Angeles, Calif., (967-9894); Des Moines, Iowa (967-9845 Rm. 16); Los Alamos, N.M., (266-8992); Minneapolis, Minn., (943-7097); St. Paul, Minn., (946-2013); Rapid City, S.D., (253-4662), and Salt Lake City, Utah (253-7740).

On campus there are also nine women and 13 men who will celebrate Christmas in the dormitories, the women in East, the men in Haigler. Among these are William Greene, Miami Beach, Fla.; Dan Oesterle, Lansing, Mich.; Don Breault, Springfield, Mass.; Kevin Kane, Kenmore, N.Y.; Barbara Porter, Alexandria, Va., and Bess Chen, Taipei, China.

Denver Slated Dec. 31

The University of Denver Pioneers will invade Sun Devil Gymnasium Tuesday, Dec. 31, in the Devils' last game of the calendar year.

The Pioneers have lost all four of their contests this year but will bring a tall team to ASU.

They have been whipped by UCLA 70-41, Southern California 70-62, New Mexico 63-52, and Evansville College 88-84.

DU is led by Tim Vezie, a forward-guard, who is averaging 13.3 points per game and Dennis Hodge, a guard, who won All-Skyline honors last year and is averaging 10.8 points per contest this campaign.

ASU Coeds Win Tourney

ASU coeds Lynn Haines, Pinky Shoemaker and Emma Flores dominated the recent Hotel Tropicana Charity tennis tournament at the Arizona Racquet Club.

Miss Haines took a first in the ladies singles division.

Nationally ranked third in women's doubles with Stanford's Julie Heldman and 18th in women's singles, Miss Haines beat another ASU contender, Miss Shoemaker, in the finals to win the title.

Miss Shoemaker and Miss Flores teamed to win the ladies doubles.

Miss Shoemaker also doubled with Howard Ryan of Phoenix to win the mixed doubles.

Sandy Smith, another ASU student entered in women's doubles with Miss Haines, was eliminated in the semi-finals.

Ina Leffler and Pat North, ASU students, entered the women's doubles but also were eliminated in the semi-finals.

Locke, Keller Play In Bowls

Roger Locke, ASU end, will play in two post-season football bowl games in Alabama.

Another Sun Devil end, Dale Keller, who hails from Flint, Mich., will be on the major college squad against the small school stars in the Tucson All-America Bowl Dec. 29.

W. A. A.

The Women's Athletic Association and the Woman's Physical Education Department will be moved from the Moer Activity building to the Annex of the Men's Gymnasium during the Christmas holidays.

The move will give W.A.A. and the W.P.E. more working room while the evacuation of the Moer Activity Building will provide more office space for administration.

Rejects Triumph Over Sigma Chi

The Rejects looked anything but rejected Monday as they whipped Sigma Chi 12-6 in overtime to win the intramural football championship.

Quarterback Lou Reynolds connected with halfback Jim Clements and end Dick Heiden for 12 and 20-yard scoring plays to cop the crown.

The Rejects drew first blood when, with eight minutes left in the first half, Reynolds dropped back and passed to Clements on the 10-yard line, and Clements ran it over.

Sigma Chi quarterback Dick Scott retaliated a few moments later, throwing a 70-yard scoring strike to end Bill Lindner to knot the count at 6-6.

Both tries for the extra point failed.

Midway through the second half, Scott hit halfback Graham Dorland with a 39-yard scoring strike, but it was called back as Dorland's flag had apparently fallen off before the catch.

Late in the game Sigma Chi stopped a Reject threat on the one-yard line.

Sparked by a 20-yard pass from Reynolds to end Darrell Jansen, the Rejects had driven 40 yards to the one.

With the score tied 6-6 after the end of regulation play, each team was awarded the ball for four plays, with the team picking up the most yardage emerging the winner.

The Rejects threw an incomplete pass on first down. Reynolds then hit Jansen for a 60-yard TD pass, but a personal foul penalty nullified it.

Reynolds tossed to Heiden for 32 yards, and on fourth down, again hit Heiden for 20 yards and a touchdown.

The Sigs threw two incomplete passes, Scott was thrown for a 10-yard loss, and on the last play of the game, Scott was stopped on the Rejects 10-yard line after picking up 25 yards.

Both teams were undefeated going into the finals.

The Rejects whipped the Jolly Boys 20-12 in the independent final, while Sigma Chi bounced Phi Sigma Kappa 26-6 to win the fraternity division.

In semifinal fraternity clashes, Sigma Chi edged Delta Sigma Phi, and Phi Sigma Kappa beat Pi Kappa Alpha.

Off The Cuff

By BOB JACOBSEN
Sports Editor

Although our ninth-ranked (UPI) Sun Devils sustained their first defeat of the season Monday night to Wichita, the manner in which the Wheatshockers did it was not one to bring shame to the Sun Devils.

ASU matched the favored 'Shockers shot for shot only to be beaten in overtime by a Wichita reserve's first bucket of the night.

THE SPARKLING PLAY OF all the Sun Devils on the road trip should make ASU students extremely proud of our basketball team.

The Western Athletic Conference has enjoyed considerable success against non-conference opponents this season with a 21-15 record against the non-league foes.

Five of the WAC's six teams are over .500 in over-all play with only BYU below the middle mark, and it took Wichita two overtimes to edge the Cougars 91-89 last weekend.

New Mexico's Lobos are 5-2, Arizona and Wyoming 3-2, Utah 4-3 and BYU 1-5 along with ASU's 5-1.

THIS WEEK ARIZONA HOSTS Idaho State and Colorado, Colorado State University and Southwestern Missouri invade New Mexico.

Baylor plays two games at Brigham Young, Utah hosts Michigan State and St. Mary's, and Wyoming travels to Stanford and California.

UPI has ASU ranked ninth this week, 16 points behind Stanford's Indians and four points ahead of West Virginia's Mountaineers.

Cincinnati again leads the poll, followed by Duke, Loyola of Chicago, Ohio State, Mississippi State, Bowling Green, Illinois, Stanford, ASU and West Virginia.

THIS WEEK'S OPPONENTS, Colorado and Minnesota, are ranked 11th and 15th respectively by UPI.

The Buffs, who are unbeaten, yesterday got a 6th ranking by AP.

Incidentally, the gates will open at 7:15 for both games this weekend due to the absence of the frosh preliminary games.

Game time will be 8:30.

The Dec. 31 game with Denver will start at 7:30, with the games opening at 6:45.

Elegance FOR EVENING

EAJC Stars Sign ASU

Two Eastern Arizona Junior College football players, co-winners of the most valuable player award, have signed letters of intent to ASU, according to Frank Kush, head football coach.

They are Jerry Smith, a 6-3 200-pound end, and Bob Johnson, a 6-0, 215-pound center.

During the 1962 season Smith caught 82 passes for 1,004 yards.

Against the powerful New Mexico Military Institute Broncos Smith caught 10 passes, and in three games his receiving yardage exceeded 120 yards.

Devils Await Buff, Gopher Invasions

By JOHN NADEL

The Sun Devils, after their swing through Kansas, return home this weekend to host two high ranking teams, the Colorado Buffaloes Friday night and the Minnesota Gophers Saturday night.

Colorado, ranked 6th this week by Associated Press, holds wins over nationally ranked Wichita, 79-69 in double overtime, UCLA and an improved Northwestern team.

THE BUFFS, Big Eight champions of a year ago, have been paced thus far by Ken Charlton, a 6-6 forward who has averaged 21 points per game, and 6-8 center Jim Davis, who has hit for 20 points per game.

CU thus far has had great shooting percentages, which have led them to victory. In their win over Wichita, they shot .449 from the floor; in their 82-60 romp over UCLA, they shot .509, and in beating Northwestern, 69-64, they shot an even .500. This, along with a tough defense, has aided the Buffs in their first three encounters.

SATURDAY NIGHT the Devils host tough Minnesota. The Gophers, already victors over Kansas State and Bradley, are coached by the well known John Kundla, who led the former Minneapolis Lakers a few years back.

Minnesota is led by their 6-6 captain and All-America candidate, Eric Magdanz. Magdanz was instrumental in the Gophers' victory over the Devils last year.

But the probable key to the Gophers is sophomore Mel Northway, a 6-8 center. In their first two wins over Wake Forest and Kansas State, Northway was a key factor with 32 points and 27 rebounds.

LAST FRIDAY and Saturday nights, the Devils joined Cincinnati, the nation's number one team, Kansas and Kansas State, two tough teams from the Big Eight, in the Sunflower doubleheader.

Friday night, the Devils played deliberate, possession basketball in defeating Kansas 71-62, with Art Becker leading the way with 19 points. The 6-8 junior was followed by Tony Cerkenik with 16 and Jumpin' Joe Caldwell with 15. Kansas was led by 6-7 sophomore George Unseld with 21. In the nightcap, Cincinnati staggered by Kansas State, 75-61.

SATURDAY NIGHT, ASU and Cincinnati switched opponents, with the Devils taking on a tough Kansas State quintet. Coming from behind, the Devils worked through for a 77-72 victory. Shooting a fantastic 64 per cent from the floor with 32 out of 50, the Devils had four men in double figures, led by Joe Caldwell with 20.

THE DEVILS, playing perhaps the tallest opponents of the year in Wichita, were edged in overtime 92-90 on a field goal by Larry Nosich, his only score of the night, with five seconds remaining.

In a hard, well fought game, the Devils were led by Becker with 25 points. Close behind was Dairman, playing his finest game of the year, with 24, until he fouled out with 4:33 left to go. Caldwell tallied 17.

Leading Wichita was perhaps one of the finest players the Devils will meet all season, sophomore forward Dave Stallworth, a 6-7 future great, with 38 points, including many key buckets.
