

Vance Packard To Speak At MU

Well Known Author Due On Tuesday

Vance Packard, well-known author and social critic, will lecture at ASU Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the MU ballroom.

The lecture, entitled "Our Morality and the New Persuasion Techniques," is the fourth in a series presented by the Social Affairs Board under the Concert and Lecture Series.

PACKARD has written a quartet of books which attack the weaknesses and evils of our society.

Three of the books, "The Status Seekers," "The Hidden Persuaders" and "The Waste Makers," have made best-seller lists.

His articles have been published in The Atlantic Monthly, Look, Readers Digest, Ladies' Home Journal and the New York Times Magazine.

HIS LATEST book, "The Pyramid Climbers," concerned with corporations, maintains they are shaped like a pyramid, with a lot of room at the bottom and no room at the top.

Packard gathered the book material over four years and filled 167 notebooks.

A native of Pennsylvania, he received the master's degree from the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism.

He has been an author, writer and teacher for 20 years.

FOR THE last 12 years he has publicized new developments in social sciences.

Students will be admitted with ID cards. Guests will be admitted for $1.

New Names, Fees OK'ed By Regents

Two name changes and a simplification of the general enrollment fee were approved for ASU in weekend action by the Board of Regents.

As recommended by President G. Homer Durham, the "outmoded" name of the College of Applied Arts and Sciences was changed to the College of Engineering Sciences.

In another modernization, the present Division of Industrial Education was renamed the Division of Industrial Design and Technology.

THE REVISED fee structure for students enrolling for more than six semester hours of credit provides a flat fee of $115 in lieu of $103.50 per semester plus the assessment of various class and laboratory fees.

In essence, students enrolling in laboratory courses next fall will have their fees partly paid by other students in nonlaboratory courses.

Fees for private music instruction must be paid as before by the students involved.

"THE $115 flat fee eliminates 157 class fees and opens the way for ease in handling registration," explained Dr. Durham. "For most students this will present no increase in fee. For some it will represent a slight decrease."

The registration fee for students taking six or less hours will be established at $12 per credit hour. The rate will include all class and laboratory fees except those for private music instruction.

A RECOMMENDATION that the fee for summer session and extension courses be set at $12 per credit hour, also eliminating the assessment of individual class and laboratory fees, was approved and will be effective Sept. 1, 1963.

Cosner Film Set Tonight

The movie "Alexander Nevsky," called one of the great Russian film classics, will be shown at Cosner Auditorium this evening at 7:30.

Santa Claus Good To ASU; Gifts, Grants Top $400,000

(See pages 2 and 6 for related stories)

Many friends and boosters of ASU played Santa Claus this Christmas by giving more than $400,000 in gifts and grants since Nov. 1, President G. Homer Durham told the Board of Regents at their recent meeting on this campus.

Gifts presented to the University include two oil paintings, one valued at $75,000, a group of 52 prints and five thousand musical scores specifically commissioned and written for the Wayne King Orchestra.

MISCELLANEOUS scientific equipment valued at $56,500 for use in the chemistry and physics departments was donated by the Control Company of America in Tempe and $2,500 from Thorne Donnelly of Scottsdale was received for use in the Audio-Visual Aids Center.

President Durham told the regents that ASU had been awarded six scientific grants totaling $290,236.

Included was a $3,368 grant from Merck, Sharpe and Dohme Research Laboratories for "Synthesis of Compounds for Antiviral Research" by Dr. Roland K. Robins, professor of chemistry. An $84,998 grant for "Synthesis of Certain Purine Antagonists" was also presented to Dr. Robins by the National Institute of Health.

THE NATIONAL Science Foundation presented the other four scientific grants.

These include $52,600 to cover a "Summer Institute in Biochemistry and Cellular Biology" by Dr. George M. Bateman, professor of chemistry and $39,300 for a "Summer Institute in Desert Biology for College Teachers of Biological Science" by Dr. Robert L. Burgess, assistant professor of botany.

Others were a $44,600 grant for a "Summer Institute in Mathematics for High School Teachers of Mathematics" by Dr. Lehi T. Smith, assistant professor of mathematics and $65,100 for a "Summer Institute in Chemistry for Physics for Secondary School Teachers of Chemistry, Physics and General Science" by Alan T. Wager, chairman of the physics department.

SCHOLARSHIPS and loans received as announced by Dr. Durham include $1,000 for the student loan fund from Para-

President Durham Speaks To Cadets On World Affairs

President G. Homer Durham addressed the entire ASU Air Force cadet corps and the detachment personnel concerning "The United States and World Affairs" Thursday morning.

Approximately 1,380 student cadets in both the advanced and basic courses convened in Sun Devil gymnasium during the regular drill laboratory time to hear the second annual address of the president.

Cadet Col. Bufford Ness called the cadet wing to attention after which Col. Jack Armstrong, chairman of the Department of Air Science, escorted Dr. Durham to the speaker's stand and introduced him.

Dr. Durham, who received the Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1939, contrasted the present U.S. foreign policy of "collective security" with the major previous U.S. policy of isolationism.

Durham, however, preceeded his remarks by asking the audience to contemplate the recent revolution in human relationships brought by science and technology with such inventions as TelStar and the future armed space platforms.

The human challenge in world affairs is to "foresee with the mind" using relevant facts available rather than responding to "feeling" and emotion, according to the president.

Durham noted that the U.S. shift from isolationism to collective security to maintain world peace resulted from a choice between following either the classic example of Pax Romana or Pax Britannica.

Following the example of Pax Romana would be to attempt to maintain world peace by force, assuming a state of war with any country not occupied by U.S. forces, as the Romans did, Durham said.

The alternative, Pax Britannica, would be to maintain peace by superiority of armed forces, especially naval forces, and division of other world powers to keep all other powers weaker than the U.S., according to Durham.

Durham noted an inevitable dilemma in the U.S. choice between Pax Romana and Pax Britannica by the very essence of the U.S. founding, the Christian philosophy of "thy brother's keeper," Durham noted.

Durham described the resulting present U.S. foreign policy as maintenance of national security by means of collective security and national strength, with the hope that in combination, peace and order can be widened by careful, mutual aid and assistance.

In conclusion, the president stressed the importance of the ASU cadet students in maintaining the strategic role of U.S. air and space power, which he evaluated as equivalent to the naval power that successfully protected the British Empire from 1450 to 1940.

TOM J. HARTER, professor of art at ASU, admires "The Adoration of the Child," by Jacob Jordaens. The oil painting, valued at $75,000, was given to ASU last month by Lewis Ruskins, Scottsdale philanthropist. It can be seen in the Regents Room, second floor of the Administration building.

Paintings, Etchings Presented To University; One Worth $75,000

Numerous paintings and etchings were given to ASU recently, including an oil, "The Adoration of the Child," valued at $75,000.

The oil, measuring 32 by 46 inches, was presented in December by Lewis Ruskin, Scottsdale philanthropist.

It is on display in the Regents Room, second floor of the Administration building.

"The Hunter," a 30 by 64-inch painting of E. Irving Couse, was presented to the university by Phoenix auto dealer Read Mullan. The canvas is hanging in ASU's Collection of American Art in Matthews Library.

A group of 52 prints by such notable artists as James McNeill Whistler, Gerald Brockhurst, A. W. Heintzelman, Anders Zorn and John S. Sargent, complete the list of art gifts awarded to the university.

Donors of the prints are Mr. and Mrs. Orme Lewis of Phoenix, Philip Leavitt of Scottsdale, and Mrs. Bradford Doughty of Tempe.

"The Adoration of the Child" was added to the Lewis and Leonore collection of Renaissance and 17th century paintings. The 10 original paintings in the collection were given to ASU by Ruskin in 1958.

"Adoration" was painted by Jacob Jordaens, a Flemish master who lived from 1593 to 1678.

The group of 52 prints includes etchings, drypoints, lithographs and pencil drawings by American, English and Scottish Artists.

The prints will be housed in ASU's Collection of American Art.

The Collection, located in Matthews Library, is valued at more than a half million dollars and includes about 150 paintings in oil, water color and tempera; numerous works of sculpture; a division of ceramics, and the extensive print collection.

Colorful '63 Created In Design Class Work

Within 12 hours Wednesday, 1963 developed into an array of every conceivable combination of color, thought and material on the Engineering Center's third floor.

Given the designated requirements for a sketch presentation, Architectural Design students proceeded to interpret the new year's calendar.

According to the program statement, "The calendar has been subject to repeated functional re-design through the centuries that it has recorded and it has always been a challenge to the visual designer."

"ESSENTIALLY, it is a division of time into increments so that all people in a social organization can keep count of it in the same way."

"All calendars have been based upon natural divisions of time, usually astronomical cycles. The only division not based on natural causes is the week, which has its basis in religion.

"It should be immediately obvious that the calendar is rich in rhythm and symbolism, presenting an ideal challenge to the designer," stated the program.

THE ONLY basic requirement for the calendars was that each be a two-dimensional layout for the students own use throughout the year.

The only limitations in media and technique were the designers' imaginations.

BY 12:30 A.M., 27 calendars were mounted in the architecture jury room where they will be graded by critics Robert E. McConnell and Jeffrey Cook, both assistant professors of architecture.

Calendars varied from fish bubbling the months to swinging mobiles, from simple conventional wall calendars to extreme compositions, from spinning octagons to flat booklets.

Vandals Destroy Moeur Fixtures In $1,000 Spree

ASU's Department of Security was busied with burglaries, thefts and vandalism over the holiday vacation in addition to the apprehension of federal fugitive James Meador.

Juvenile vandals did an estimated $1,000 damage to fixtures and furniture in B. B. Moeur Auditorium when they broke in Dec. 31, Lt. Thomas G. Godbehere reported.

AMONG items wrecked were two large mirrors. Furniture was smashed, drapes ruined and light bulbs were broken as well, the lieutenant said.

A total of $75 in cash was taken from Arts 204 in a burglary over the Dec. 23-27 period, according to Lt. Godbehere.

THE BURGLAR or burglars broke a second story window to gain entrance, the lieutenant said, and pried open two desk drawers to obtain the money.

During the same period, the theft of a side curtain from an MG auto parked on Alpha Drive was reported.

AN ASU student was referred to the Dean of Students office Dec. 29 for possible disciplinary action for failure to pay nine traffic citations totaling $61 in fines and late charges, the lieutenant said.

Accountant Receives $200

Charles E. Milliner, Arizona State University junior majoring in accounting, was given a $200 scholarship this week by the Phoenix chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Milliner was selected by the chapter scholarship committee, composed of three ASU faculty members. He was awarded the scholarship by the chapter president, Donald E. Beattie of Phoenix Title and Trust Company.

The campus security division welcomed the students back to school yesterday and gave 103 of the returning students belated Christmas presents in the form of parking tickets.

USNSA And Federal Government Unite For Nation-wide Conference

The United States National Student Association recently announced that it would co-sponsor a nation-wide student conference on the proposed "Domestic Peace Corps" Feb. 15-17.

In cooperation with the federal government USNSA will hold the conference on the campus of American University, Washington, D.C.

As conceived, the domestic peace corps will operate in much the same manner as does the present peace corps.

One important difference is that the domestic corps will work exclusively with those whom President Kennedy has termed "the 32 million persons now living on a lower level than America is capable of providing for its citizens."

Possible areas where the domestic corps will operate are depressed areas, Indian reservations, urban slums and emergency areas.

The domestic corps will select its volunteers in the same fashion as the Peace Corps, and the period of service is expected to be from one to two years.

Like the Peace Corps the domestic group will search out specially talented young Americans for special programs.

It is expected that the new organization will be used to train badly needed social workers as well.

Sounding Off....

By LINDA WARREN SIMS

There are a couple of pertinent announcements to pass on today.

First, second semester curriculum advisement week has been scheduled for Monday, January 7 until noon, January 12. Students planning to carry more than six semester hours of study must meet with their advisers to get an approved program of study.

Schedules of classes may be obtained at the office of the Registrar.

Students unable to make appointments during the advisement period will not be able to do so until late in registration week.

Any student who does not know how to contact an adviser should inquire at the dean's office in the college in which he is enrolled.

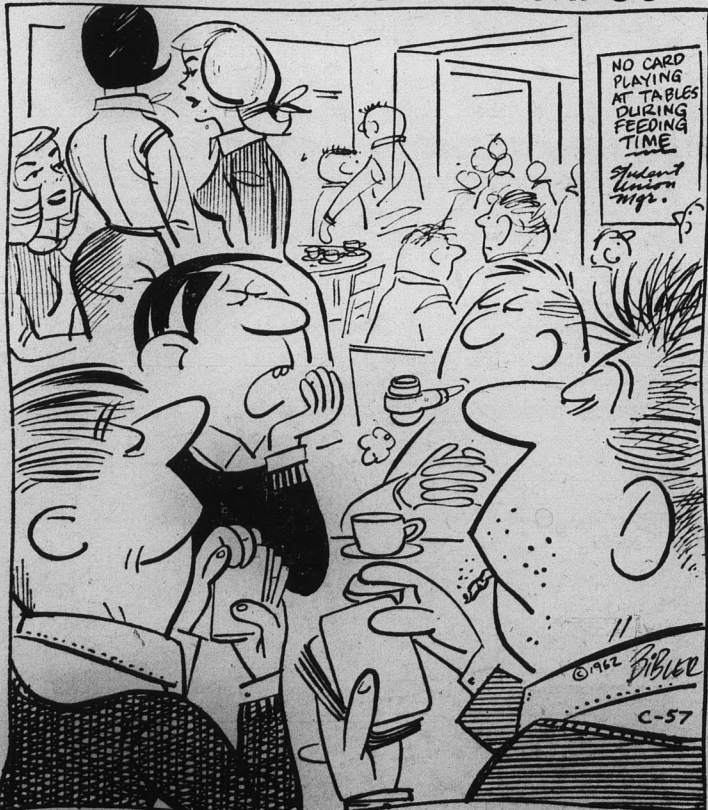

E. R. HUNTER, associate comptroller, announces that a more liberal check cashing policy has been adopted by the University administration. Students may cash their own personal checks in amounts up to $20 at the cashier's window on the main floor of the Administration building. Identification by means of the I.D. card will be required. The cashier's window is open from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

This certainly will be a time saver. Also, certain student government personnel are working on a larger check cashing service that will be able to handle payroll checks.

WELL, WELCOME back, everyone. Hope you all had a nice holiday session. However, it was rather anticlimatic to return on New Year's Day. Maybe next year we can join the other institutions of higher learning in this state and return on the third or fourth of January.

REMEMBER, fees are up again, so calculate correctly for second semester.

I Cover College Avenue

By BOB HUDNALL

There are many people around this campus who cover college avenue. Among these is ASU campus policeman, James E. Diehl. Over the Christmas vacation, Diehl played a major part in the capture of James H. Meador, escaped fugitive from the Pima county jail.

When asked recently about the different aspects of the case, John B. O'Leary, acting director of the campus department of security said that good police methods are employed at all times by his department. While at the time of Meador's arrest on campus, no information of the fugitive was available on campus, it is department policy to keep all patrolmen informed about wanted criminals.

O'Leary also said that in cases involving known criminals in the immediate area, such information is passed on to all dormitories and resident halls. Special caution is demanded from patrolmen when such criminals are women molestors.

In retrospect, it might be concluded that a major crime was avoided by the time of Meador's escape and capture. It occurred during a holiday period when the campus was almost vacant. If this had not been true, it is likely that one of the women students might have been criminally assaulted.

It was also fortunate for Diehl that Meador reacted in a suspicious manner when he reached for his toy pistol. It is possible that he could have surprised Diehl, who then would have been faced with taking a chance that Meador was bluffing.

Again it was fortunate that Ralph W. Fowler, Justice of the Peace at Tempe, recognized Meador.

It seems that Judge Fowler is one man who does his judicial homework by observing wanted fugitives on television.

O'Leary explained that usually in a case of this type, Tempe police would send Meador's fingerprints to the F.B.I. Identification Bureau in Washington, D.C., by first class mail. During this period, the mail was slowed down by the holiday mail. When the fingerprint card arrived at the bureau, it would have been handled by a skeleton force (even the F.B.I. has to recognize holidays).

Taking all these factors into account, Meador had an excellent chance to escape detection during his sentence. He would have been identified, but by that time Meador would have been released.

So . . . we can all rest easy tonight, for our Campus Security Department is awake.

Aliens Required To Report New Addresses Now

James L. Turner, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, reported that the annual alien address report program is now under way.

These address reports are required by law and willful failure to comply with these requirements may lead to serious consequences.

THE LAW requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers, to report their addresses to the Government each January.

The parent or legal guardian of an alien child under 14 years of age must fill out the address report form for the child in order to comply with the law.

NECESSARY forms for the reports are available at any Post Office or office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Those who are unable to pick up a form due to illness, or other reasons, may have a friend or relative obtain a card for them. The card should then be returned to one of these offices.

Slide Show Set Of France Tour

Voyez la France! A pictorial tour of France will be presented by the McClintock cultural committee Monday at 9 p.m.

Dr. R. Craig Rover, assistant professor of education, will speak and show slides of France. A highlight of the itinerary is the Louvre Museum.

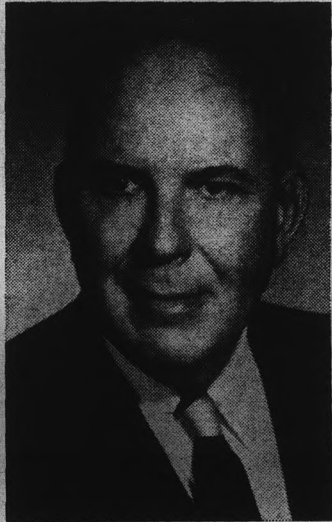

Dr. Rover and his family visited France this past summer during a European cruise and tour.

Engineers Honor ASU Professor

Arizona State University associate professor of engineering, Dr. Merle C. Nutt, was named engineer of the month for December by the central chapter of the Arizona Society of Professional Engineers.

Dr. Robert D. Kersten, professor and chairman of the civil engineering faculty at ASU announced the honor Dec. 13 at the meeting of the ASPE at the Beef Eaters Restaurant.

Dr. Nutt, whose degrees were granted by Illinois Institute of Technology, the University of Iowa and Illinois Wesleyan University, worked as plant engineer, secretary-treasurer, vice president, general manager, chief engineer and president of Moline Iron Works.

Dr. Nutt took on a new career in engineering education at ASU after "retiring" to the board chairmanship of the Iron Works in 1956.

Instrumental in founding the ASU chapter of Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary, he served last year as chairman of the University Faculty, and previously served on the Board of Regents committee to select a new university president.

National vice president of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers in 1960-61, he also helped to found the central Arizona chapter.

Arizona 1984 Scheduled

A glimpse into the unpredictable future of Arizona will be presented by seven architecture students Monday.

The project, entitled "Arizona 1984: A Center for Three Counties," will be presented in room 309 of the Engineering Center at 2 p.m.

Newly appointed member of the Board of Regents, Arthur B. Schellenberg; Blaine Drake, Phoenix architect; Charles A. Guinn, director of planning and zoning in Pinal County; and Mary Leonhard, of the Arizona Republic will be guests.

Orchestra Show Is KAET Special

The Congress of Strings, an orchestra composed of 130 talented music students from Canada and the U.S., will be televised on KAET this month as part of the National Educational Television's "Festival of the Arts." Channel 8 will air the presentation tonight and Tuesday at 10 p.m.

DURING THE first part of the program Robert Shaw, associate conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra and founder and director of the Robert Shaw Chorale, will direct the orchestra in a rehearsal of the Schubert Mass in G Major.

The Michigan State University Festival Chorus will sing with Martha Pender, soprano, Loren Jones, tenor, and Bennie Middaugh, baritone, as soloists.

THE SECOND part of the program will feature Erich Leinsdorf, conductor, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, directing the string orchestra in a concert performance of Symphony No. 9 in C Major for Strings by Mendelssohn.

Chosen each year by competitive auditions, the musicians attend an intensive eight-week session on the campus of Michigan State University in East Lansing. The session is sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians.

Infirmiry Work Resumes As 10 Are Hospitalized

The holiday vacation took its toll as students came limping and sneezing back to school this week, the main complaint being strain, fatigue and exhaustion of driving to Tempe from various parts of the country.

Six students were admitted to the infirmiry hospital Wednesday, and ten had been admitted by Thursday afternoon. In January of 1962, only three patients were reported admitted after returning from the long vacation.

THE UNIVERSITY Health Service reported 53 students in the ward and 2,180 students in the clinic for the month of January, 1962. Mrs. Elaine McFarland, service director, stated that this was a light month compared to others. October 1962, with a total of 4,007 patients treated in the clinic and 163 patients in the ward, broke all records, she said.

The Arizona State Health Office recently said that not a single case of influenza with a laboratory confirmation has been found in the state this fall.

STUDENTS, however, are urged to get their flu vaccinations if they have not done so. According to Mrs. McFarland, the more people who have had the vaccine, less chance there is of an epidemic ever occurring on this campus.

Faculty Facts

Dr. Judith Radke, assistant professor of French at Arizona State University, is author of an article on playwright Samuel Beckett in the current issue of Yale French Studies.

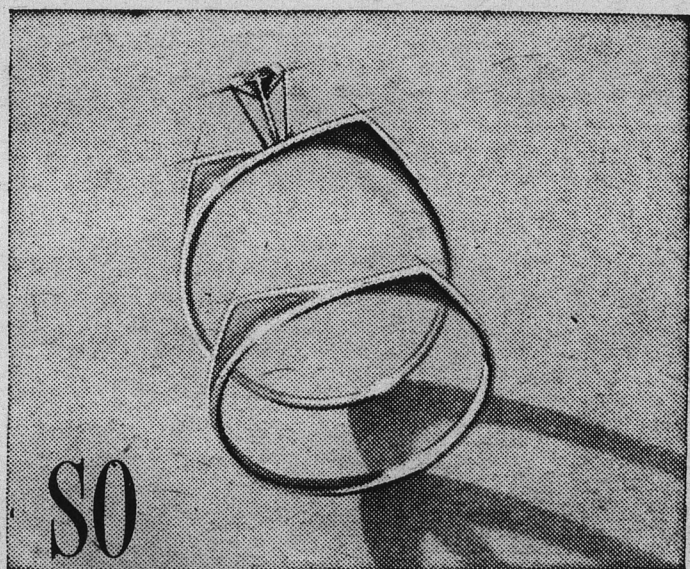

Dr. Radke is rapidly achieving national recognition as an authority on the theater of Beckett, who is author of "Waiting for Godot" and other avant-garde masterpieces. She has prepared a taped lecture on Beckett which will be broadcast over radio stations in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Dr. Richard E. Schutz, associate professor of educational psychology at Arizona State University, is the author of a newly published book on media research.

Titled "Curriculum Guide for a Course in Educational Media Research," the book was prepared at the request of the United States Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It will be distributed by the Office of Education.

The 120-page guide will be used by colleges and universities throughout the nation as a basis for special courses and summer workshops to prepare classroom teachers to perform research in the instructional use of motion pictures, film strips, teaching machines, television and other audio-visual devices.

The guide presents a comprehensive instructional plan for teaching the course. The course will make full use of modern computers and other electronic data processing equipment.

Wayne King, whose saxophone has entertained listeners for more than 30 years, has donated arrangements, kinescopes and recordings containing the history of an era of music to Arizona State University, Dr. Wendell Rider, chairman of the music department, has announced.

More than 5,000 orchestrations plus records of waltzes and other music created by King are included and, as new ones are brought out, they will be added to the collection, Dr. Rider said.

These orchestrations were made exclusively for King and were played by no one else, accounting in part for the exclusive sound of King's music.

Faculty Trio

A recital, sponsored by the music department, featuring a faculty trio will be at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in the MU ballroom.

Members of the trio are Edwin Putnik, flutist, Eugene P. Lombardi, violinist, and Arnold Bullock, pianist.

Also included are 119 kinescopes of King's early television shows in Chicago, which provide detail of the pioneering days of TV.

Forensic Meet Invitations Sent

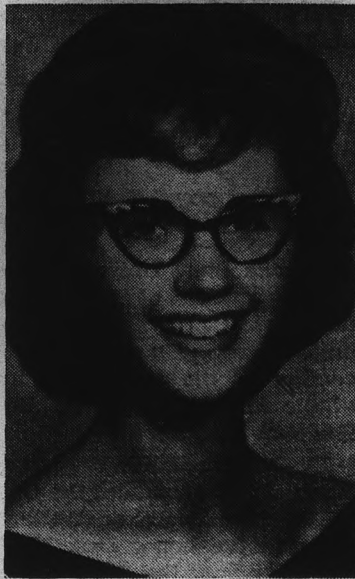

Plans for the Feb. 16 annual invitational high school debate tournament will be discussed at the Wednesday meeting of Pi Kappa Delta at 2:30 p.m. in SS 105.

The local chapter of the national forensic fraternity annually hosts the event.

Invitations have been sent to 60 schools in Arizona, Nevada, California and Utah.

Last year 350 individuals participated in the speech meet.

The meeting's agenda will also include discussion of the February Desert Invitational Collegiate Tournament at the University of Arizona and plans for the organization's spring outing.

New Color To Star In 1963 Fashions

By MARTI CZEPOWSKI

'63 looks as fashionably promising as the weather seen through sun-colored glasses. According to "Mademoiselle" this month it will be a year of young, pretty, marvelously wearable clothes.

Included in the magazine's list of new '63 fashion ideas you'll find minuscule pleating in dresses guaranteed to turn a girl into a lovely motion study; rivers of pleats that flow in empire-tied columns to the knee or ankle.

There's a jeweler's look to shoes this year: gilded chains replacing straps, rococo scrolling in leather, and a more opened-out fragile look.

And speaking of jewelry, bracelets climb high on the arm, rings will be worn in twos and three on one finger and big-bead necklaces take the form of tatted lace collars.

COLOR IS the big '63 fashion news and that color is a sunny enamel yellow — the freshest paint in town that adds zing to any wardrobe.

To be worn pure or mixed, the magazine shows enamel yellow taking to suede in a little overblouse and skirt adorned with scrollwork of white kidskin. And there are a number of the new pullover looks, jackets that take the form of an overblouse — all in enamel yellow.

AS WELL AS going to town, enamel yellow takes to the sunny climes with equal ease. With an extra touch of blue or mauvy-pink this bright important color will race gaily into warm weather.

For news in knits January "Mademoiselle" suggests "The Kinetic Knits," plumb-line or pleated, they will slide under a coat and walk through spring.

'The Medieval World'

An exhibition, "The Medieval World," is being presented by the ASU school of architecture on the third floor of the Engineering Center.

It opened Wednesday and will close Jan. 23.

Photographs and reproductions of prints and engravings show the roles of the church, the town and the castle in the life of the medieval man.

Junior Recital Features Oboist

The music department presented a recital in the Memorial Union Wednesday which featured oboist Fred Capps.

Capps attended the Aspen Festival Music School in Aspen, Colorado, where he won the concerto contest.

Assisting Capps were Gerald Brown, French horn; Margaret Butte, piano; Patricia Fawcett, flute; Barre Griffith, bassoon; and Henry Spencer, clarinet.

Off The Cuff

By BOB JACOBSEN
Sports Editor

The Sun Devils, on the basis of their Queen City tournament triumph and two very impressive victories over Colorado and Minnesota before Christmas have jumped to No. 4 ranking in both the major polls.

The ranking is the highest ever attained by a major college team in Arizona.

THE RANKING WAS NOT one easily attained and one assuredly to be proud of.

When the poll was taken, the three teams ahead of the Devils were all unbeaten Midwest basketball powers, but Monday night third-ranked Illinois suffered a 90-88 defeat at the hands of Notre Dame making the Illini record 8-1.

Cincinnati, NCAA champs the past two seasons, is 9-0, and Loyola of Chicago, who edged ASU for the national collegiate scoring title last year by 90.2 to 90.1, is 10-0.

FOLLOWING THE DEVILS in the AP poll are Ohio State, whose only defeat was to Wichita 71-54; Kentucky, who was bombed by St. Louis Monday night 87-63 for its third loss; and Duke, who has suffered two defeats this campaign.

Wichita, who gave the Devils their only defeat this campaign, 92-90 in overtime, is ranked No. 8; UCLA, winner of the Los Angeles classic and owners of a 10-2 record, follow in ninth; and unbeaten Auburn, 8-0, is tenth.

Chances for a Devil rise to third depend on tonight's and tomorrow night's games with old rivals New Mexico State and Texas Western.

The Aggies lost their first seven games of the campaign but have won their last two and always will remain a threat in Las Cruces.

THE MINERS, SPARKED BY 6-8, 240-pound, JC transfer Jim Barnes, have come into prominence this year whipping Tennessee and Texas to win the Sun Bowl Carnival last weekend and are possessors of a 9-3 record.

Both the Aggies and the Miners want nothing more than to knock the Devils from their high ranking with victories this weekend.

The Western Athletic Conference is proving it has some of the nation's outstanding basketball teams and individuals.

Along with ASU's triumph at Buffalo, Wyoming and Brigham Young received seconds for their efforts in the All-College and Quaker City tourneys at Oklahoma City and Philadelphia respectively.

FLYNN ROBINSON OF WYOMING, a 6-1 jump shot artist from Elgin, Ill., was voted All-College's most valuable player.

Joe Caldwell was most valuable Queen City tourney player.

The Cowboys bowed to Loyola of Chicago, 93-82, in the finals but were behind only 71-69 with a little more than five minutes remaining.

BYU was whipped 76-64 by St. Joseph's in the finals of the Quaker City tournament.

Ticket stubs for next week's contest with BYU and Utah may be obtained in the MPE building Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Gymnasts Engage Denver In Initial WAC Campaign

ASU's 1963 gymnastics team enters its initial Western Athletic Conference season with promises of good depth and potential but a lack of experience, according to coach Norris Steverson.

The team opens its 1963 campaign this afternoon at 3:30 p.m. in the ASU gym annex against the University of Denver.

STEVERSON is building a freshmen-laden team around four returning lettermen led by team captain Jerry Stansbury.

Other lettermen are Chris Evans, Tom Kalos and Benny Bishop.

Stansbury, a junior from Phoenix, placed ninth last year in the all-around category of the Western Intercollegiate gymnastics championships.

TWO TOP freshmen on the Devil squad who will see their first varsity competition are Dennis Sullivan, Minnesota all-around high school champ the past two years, and Skip Johnson, from Phoenix, the fifth best in Arizona prep all-around competition.

Other frosh include Les Christianson, state AAU still ring champ, John Nowak, state high school trampoline champ, Dave Lambert, state long horse champ in 1961, and Jim Nelson, state high school runner-up in tumbling.

Coach Steverson says his squad, composed primarily of Arizona boys, will be better all-around this year than in the past and will have more depth in each event.

There will be a meeting for all men interested in varsity or frosh tennis Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. in the lobby of the MPE building, according to coach Ted Bredehoff.

ponent, Denver, romped through an undefeated season in 1962, winning 10 dual meets and finishing ninth in the NCAA championships.

Denver returns nine lettermen this year.

Top Pioneer performer is sophomore John Quintana, who as a frosh was Denver's top point maker.

He took ninth place in the NCAA all-around championships last year.

Sun Devils Nip Pioneers, 79-72

Sparked by Gary Senitza, and then Joe Caldwell, ASU's fourth-ranked Sun Devils edged the Denver Pioneers 79-72 in overtime Monday.

The win was the Devils' 39th in a row on their home court.

With the score tied 67-67 and 51 seconds remaining in the game, Denver rebounded an ASU missed shot and stalled for a final try at the basket, which fell twelve inches short.

Caldwell counted 11 of the Devils' 12 points in overtime and finished with 25 markers.

Art Becker and Gary Senitza, who sparked the Devils with eight straight points late in the second half, scored 17 points each.

Dennis Dairman and Tony Cerkevnik countered 12 and eight markers respectively.

Leading the Pioneer attack was 6-1 guard Dennis Hodge, who arched his long bomb jump shots in for 27 points, and Tim Vezic, who matched Hodge's 11 field goals but tallied no free shots.

Ted Oglesby followed with 14 points.

ASU traveled to Buffalo, N.Y., last weekend for the annual Queen City tournament and whipped Canisius College 67-63 in the finals to win the tourney.

Senitza again supplied the spark with a jump shot with 2:30 remaining in the game to put the Demons in front to stay, 63-61.

Bill O'Connor of Canisius, who was third in the nation in scoring and countered 41 points against South Carolina in the semifinals, was held to 12 points by Cerkevnik and Caldwell.

Becker led the Devils' scoring with 23 points and Caldwell, voted the tourn-ament's most valuable player, added 20.

Tony Gennari led the losers with 17 points.

Becker and Caldwell, along with O'Connor and Gennari, and South Carolina's Scottey Ward made the all-tournament first team.

Dairman and Cerkevnik were named to the second team with Charlie Lee and Steve Chubin of Rhode Island and Ronnie Collins of South Carolina.

In ASU's semifinal contest with Rhode Island, the Devils again pulled away in the final minutes to edge the Rams, 89-83.

Caldwell's 24, Becker's 22 and Dairman's 19 paced ASU.

On Dec. 21 and 22, the Devils hosted two top college quintets, Colorado and Minnesota, and beat both.

Shooting a torrid 65 per cent from the field in the first half, the Devils rushed to a demanding 56-27 lead against Minnesota at halftime.

Employing a full court press in the second half, the Gophers cut the margin, at one time, to 11 points, but ASU put on a late spurt and trounced the Gophers, 98-79.

The night before, a slow-down Colorado offense did nothing to slow down ASU's offense as the Devils bounced the Buffs, 71-53.

Colorado had been ranked No. 6 in the nation by Associated Press.

Dairman paced ASU against Minnesota with 25 points, while Caldwell led the Devils in the CU victory with 18.

DEVIL GUARDS — Gary Senitza, left, and Dennis Dairman, have been two vital cogs in ASU attaining its No. 4 ranking to date. Senitza was the Devils' "clutch" player in the Queen City tourney and scored a career high of 17 points against Denver, while Dairman is averaging 14.3 points per game and hit his career high against Colorado with 25 points.

Devils Meet Aggies; TWC Miners Next

By JOE HEATH

ASU coach Ned Wulk takes his fourth-ranked Sun Devils on the road this weekend, looking for victories over New Mexico State University tonight, and Texas Western tomorrow.

Tonight, the Devils face a team that has dropped seven of nine games this year.

However, the two Aggie wins have come in their last two outings—against St. Michael's of Santa Fe and Idaho State.

The Aggie lineup bolsters a squad filled with junior college transfers.

Heading the list is Leroy Canady, 6-0, Sherman Hammond, 6-3, and Wilbert Booker, 6-3, all transfers from Gibbs Junior College in St. Petersburg, Fla.

What NMSU lacks is height—the biggest man is 6-5 Davis Kilburn.

Coach Presley Askew's crew stresses speed, and uses a pressing man-to-man defense.

The contest will mark the 54th meeting between the two universities, with ASU holding a 29-25 advantage.

Tomorrow night the once-beaten Devils play a powerful Texas Western team, which could be a cliff-hanger.

The red-hot Miners dug gold for Christmas, and found it too, beating Tennessee and the University of Texas for the Sun Bowl Classic championship.

The Texans have come out on top in 9 of their 12 contests this year.

After the New Year's Eve win over Denver, the Sun Devils have four of their starters averaging in double figures.

Jumpin' Joe Caldwell leads the list of scorers with 228 points in 11 games for a 20.7 clip.

Only a good night's work behind him is big Art Becker—499 points for a 18.1 average.

Dennis Dairman and Tony Cerkvenik are averaging 14.3 and 13.6, respectively.

The other Devil starter, guard Gary Senitza, isn't far behind his high scoring teammates.

Senitza has hit 100 points for a 9.1 average.

After the Canisius game, statistics showed the Devils hit an amazing .492 from the floor.

Art Becker led, making good 72 of 118 attempts for a .610 percentage.

Caldwell, whose rebounding was the turning point in the overtime win against Denver, is pulling down an average of over 13 unclaimed balls a game.

ASU will open WAC play Jan. 11.

"Wulk's Wonders" will play host to Brigham Young in the initial league contest.

It will be the first major sport bid for a Western Athletic Conference crown by an ASU team.

Sun Imps Visit EAJC

ASU's Sun Imps put their 3-0 record on the line Monday night when they meet Eastern Arizona JC at Thatcher.

In EAJC, the frosh will be facing their roughest competition of the still young season.

The Monsters are led by 6-5 Hayward Sharp, a tough rebounder and EAJC's top scorer.

Jim Whitehead, a 6-3 outside man, is pacing the Sun Imps in scoring with a 15.6 average.

He is followed by inside men Paul Meany, 12.6, John Myers, 11.0, and Dennis Hamilton, 9.3.

Hamilton and Charles Robinson are rebounding leaders, averaging more than 11 each.

Probable ASU starters are, inside, Hamilton, Robinson and Myers with Meany available for relief; and outside, Whitehead and Rich Coppola.

The yearlings will return home Jan. 11 to face the ASC Axbabes in a 6:30 p.m. preliminary to the varsity-Brigham Young contest.

The Devils came closest against Minnesota, scoring 56 points in the first half, but only tallied 42 in the second to counter 98.

Last year also produced the highest score ever attained in Sun Devil gym — 130 points against Pasadena College last Feb. 17.
