

ASU's 77th Anniversary Today

"Devotion and continued efforts to the tradition of growth and commitment to quality" was pledged by President G. Homer Durham in a statement released yesterday commemorating ASU's 77th anniversary celebration today.

The bill providing for the establishment of ASU was passed March 12, 1885, by the 13th Territorial Legislature. However, it wasn't until Feb. 8, 1886, that the Territorial Normal School opened its doors to a class of 33 students.

In his statement, Dr. Durham cited that the purpose of the institution as established by the Territorial Legislature of 1885 was "the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common school education; also to give instruction in the mechanical arts and in husbandry and agricultural chemistry, in the fundamental law of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens."

Dr. Durham further stated:

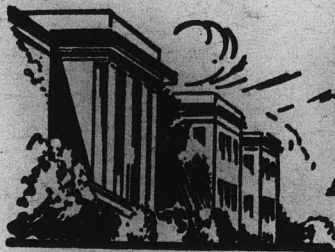

"Arizona State University is proud of this pioneer inheritance. On this anniversary of opening day, we pledge our devotion and continued efforts to the tradition of growth and commitment to quality."

"Instruction in the mechanical arts has given way to our schools of engineering and architecture and the other divisions of the College of Engineering Sciences.

"The Colleges of Business Administration, Education and Liberal Arts, the Graduate School, the School of Nursing, the Graduate School of Social Service Administration, the Extension Division and the Summer Sessions, together with the Engineering Sciences, are deeply concerned in what regards the rights and duties of citizens now and in the future years to come," the statement concluded.

'Sweet Georgia' Boys Appear Here Tonight

By LARRY WARD

Those "Sweet Georgia Brown" boys are back in town tonight.

The Harlem Globetrotters, the world's wittiest comedy show on a basketball court, will go on stage tonight at 8 in the Sun Devil gym.

The usual aggregation of basketball comedians, including "Meadowlark" Lemon and "Sweetwater" Clifton, are joined in a half-time vaudeville show featuring "Peg Leg" Bates in an unusual dance routine.

Tonight's one night stand is one of 250 appearances to be made by the professional team across the nation this year.

Originally the Globetrotters were a legitimate professional crew. When they beat every East Coast team, they began clowning and bending the rules a little.

Somewhere in their 37 years on the courts, they initiated a vaudeville show and have featured vaudeville acts during intermissions ever since.

The Globetrotters average about three weeks vacation a year and often play double headers on Sundays. They always bring their own opponents, and tomorrow night they go up against the Atlantic City Sea Gulls.

The Phoenix Press Box Association is sponsoring the contest as one of two major projects of the year.

Proceeds of the game will go to the Scholarship Fund.

As of this morning, there are still 300 tickets available at the lobby ticket office in the men's gym for the performance.

Senate Probes Ticket Program

The Student Senate voted unanimously Wednesday to form a special committee to investigate alleged irregularities in basketball ticket distribution.

The action followed the recommendation of Senator Jeff Louis, Liberal Arts representative.

Louis said that recently he was the fourth person in the student ticket line and was told all the seats in section "M" were gone. Ticket office personnel never had received them for distribution, he said.

Louis said that seats in end sections were empty at Monday's game against New Mexico State and he believes these should be opened to students.

The motion came moments after the passage of S.B. 181, a bill appropriating the athletics department more than $2,300 for student seating at athletic events, in addition to the previous appropriation for seating.

Louis investigated the affair. He said, and found that three rows of section "M" are reserved for newsmen.

He also noted that there are only five daily newspapers in the Valley, including small-town papers. He believed this amount of space is more than that needed by the newsmen.

Another senator said that high school athletes receive free tickets to ASU games.

The four-man investigating committee has invited all students with pertinent information or complaints concerning seating to contact Cindy Buchanan, ASASU secretary, MU 202.

The committee will report to the Senate again on Feb. 20.

Freeman, Pat Grove and Tima Irani. The queen will be announced at the Military Ball on Friday night in the gymnasium.

Eight MILBA Queen Candidates Selected

Eight candidates for the Military Ball Queen title were selected yesterday morning by the ROTC cadets.

The group includes Shari Andre, Nancy Cook, Kathy Erickson, Pat Freeman, Pat Grove, Pat Hogan, Tima Irani and Margie Jaeger.

The queen and two attendants will be chosen from these candidates.

Kaydettes is the Army ROTC women's auxiliary and Angel Flight is Air Force ROTC women's auxiliary.

The 15th annual Army-Air Force ball is set for Friday,

Feb. 15 in the men's gym.

Carl Ritter's dance band will provide music from 8:30 p.m. to midnight.

Admission for the ball is $3 a couple. Cadets may buy tickets by signing a waiver. The cost will be deducted from their ROTC deposits.

'Fijis' To Colonize On Campus Sunday

The Delta colony of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity will colonize ASU in a formal ceremony in the MU ballroom Sunday, say fraternity representatives.

Nicknamed "Fijis," the colony will have 26 charter members, more than any other starting group on this campus.

The ceremony will be attended by a large group from the Phoenix alumni organization, which numbers over 240. The UofA chapter of 90 members and pledges plans to "lock up the house" and attend also.

Among the alumni expected to attend this Sunday are Jack Nicklaus, winner of the Palm Springs Golf Classic and other national contests, and Robert Pickrell, state attorney general.

The Fijis were organized at ASU in September, 1962. The first party was held in October to coincide with the appearance of the Brothers Four, Fiji alumni from the University of Washington. Since then several smokers have been held.

The Fijis are the brother fraternity of Kappa Alpha Theta, the first Greek letter sorority. Members of Phi Gamma Delta were instrumental in the foundation of Thetas.

For the present time the fraternity will be housed in Sahuaro Hall. There are currently 88 Fiji chapters in the U.S.

Drop-Add

Monday is the last day of drop-add, according to the registrar's office.

All students wishing to go through drop-add should contact the departmental office of courses involved for proper forms by Monday.

The number of students going through drop-add usually equals the entire enrollment of the university, according to administrators.

A huge last-minute rush is anticipated, according to officials.

Chinese Revolution Told In Sand Pebbles, Author's 1st

By BARBARA ZACHE

This is the first of a weekly series of book reviews to be printed by the State Press.

"The Sand Pebbles" by Richard McKenna, Harper & Row, $5.95.

This is the story of a country in chaos, of believable people torn by loyalties and values who must adjust or perish.

"The Sand Pebbles" can be called an historical novel, for its background is the Chinese revolution of the 1920s during Chiang Kai-Shek's rise to power.

JAKE HOLMAN is a machinist's mate, assigned to duty on an ancient gun boat, the San Pablo, built for the Spanish-American War. The boat patrols the upper Yangtze River to protect the American treaty, in operation at that time.

Jake has had a troubled, though experienced boyhood and has developed only one love — that for machinery. His faith is machinery, and this faith he gladly preaches when he finds a willing disciple in one of the engine room coolies, Po-han.

The passage to Po-han of Jake's knowledge and love of engines, as well as the friendship between the two, develops into one of the most moving incidents in the book.

JAKE IS a non-conformist by nature and distrustful of military men and values, including the commanding officer of the ship, Lt. Collins, who is heart and soul part of the Navy. Though he lives the code, Lt. Collins is not merely a puppet, as the story points out.

Throughout the story, one is confronted with the system of coolies on the ship who do all the hard work and who are "paid" by the crew but are treated as inferior people by all concerned.

This treatment is extended to all the Chinese by most of the Navy personnel who patrol rivers.

"THE SAND PEBBLES" is the first novel of 50-year-old James McKenna, who spent two years on a Yangtze River gun boat in the 1930's and served as a machinist's mate during World War II. He retired from the Navy in 1953 after 22 years service.

McKenna's style of writing is straight-forward and easy to read, though occasionally too detailed. The series of incidents which make up the book are continuous and often dramatic. It contains very little romantic interest and its sex aura is unsensational, a quality often lacking in many new books.

THE READER may sometimes wish the story would hurry along faster to answer many questions presented, but it holds interest and is a book truly hard to put down. It won the Harper's Prize, was chosen by the Book-of-the-Month Club and has been sold to Hollywood for a movie.

"The Sand Pebbles" can be ordered from the University Bookstore.

Army ROTC Uniforms

Uniforms will not be compulsory attire Tuesday for basic ROTC cadets who will be attending the military Ball, according to ROTC Cadet Col. Baymiller.

Matthews Library Rearranges Layout To Better Organize Student Facilities

Matthews Library has been rearranged recently to make more services available to the student. The card catalog has been moved to the front of the library in the place of the education reading room. Current Periodicals now occupy the space formerly allotted the card catalog. The book stack entrance is now at the left of the loan service desk. The humanities reading rooms have been moved down stairs to the former position of the general periodicals reading room.

Other changes have been made upstairs.

Services have been increased. There are now three points of service: the humanities reading room, education reading room, and the science, technology and business administration reading room.

The heavily used reserve service has been moved down stairs. The card catalog has been enlarged for better freedom of movement.

We are proud to announce the addition of four new guitar teachers.

'Sands Of Time' Is Party Theme

"Sands of Time," the theme of the seventh annual MU Birthday Party, will transform the MU into phases of history on March 9.

The Blue Key Carnival, in conjunction with the Birthday Party, will also create historical settings including prehistoric, Roman and Greek, Medieval, Sgyptian and the 20th Century.

The Birthday Party is a traditional student event. General chairman of the event, John Brooking, activities vice-president, is working with the activities coordinating board in sponsoring the party.

ALL STUDENTS interested in assisting on any phase of the party may attend a general meeting Feb. 14 in MU.

Blue Key, men's honorary, will sponsor a medieval carnival across the street from the MU on the East Hall lawn.

According to Mike Craig, president of Blue Key, information has been sent to all sororities, fraternities and dormitories about sponsoring booths at the carnival.

Replies and entries may be sent to the ASASU activities vice-president's office, MU 203, by Feb. 15.

There is no admission to the Birthday Party, but the money received from the Carnival will go toward Blue Key scholarships.

Businessman Conference

Arizona business teachers will attend the Fifth Annual Business Education Conference at ASU tomorrow.

Registration at 8:45 a.m. will be followed by a welcoming assembly, a panel discussion and a noon luncheon featuring W. W. "Skipper" Dick, state superintendent of public instruction, as speaker.

Dick will speak on "Vocational Education for Arizona."

"Vocational Education for Today's Office" will be the topic for the panel.

The Department of Office Administration and Business Education will sponsor the conference jointly with the ASU Bureau of Business Services and the Phoenix Business Education Committee.

Ceramic Works To Be Shown In MU Lounge

Ceramic works by John Arnold, art department graduate assistant, will be on display through March in the MU lower lounge.

Arnold received his BA degree from the University of Minnesota and is working toward a Masters in Fine Arts at ASU.

Cross Your Fingers

... and keep them crossed. Arizona's Republican Senator Barry Goldwater is going to need all the help he can get to pass his recently proposed bill concerning education and taxes.

This bill contains three general ideas, one of which concerns college students directly. Goldwater stated that financing education has become a hardship for many parents with college-age children. "Hence, a federal program to aid our children to secure a college education should be directed toward helping their parents do the job."

If passed, the bill would allow parents to deduct up to $2,000 a year for college expenses. It would limit the deduction to persons with income under $10,000, and those with income over $10,000 could deduct a sum equal to the difference between $2,000 and their income in excess of $10,000.

WE HOPE, naturally, that this deduction would apply not only to parents, but also to students paying their own way.

As the rest of Goldwater's bill, he declared that state and local governments have made magnificent efforts to find the money to meet school needs and their success has been ignored.

The bill proposes a system of federal income tax credits to property taxpayers based on their local school taxes. Property owners would be allowed to deduct from federal income tax up to $100 of local property taxes they pay for school purposes.

FINALLY, the bill proposes a system of national merit scholarships to promote quality in pre-college education by stirring competition for education among high school graduates. Goldwater said these scholarships would cost but a small sum of federal money.

No figures are readily available on how many such bills have been proposed in the past, but they are many, and as yet none has passed. Like we said, cross your fingers; better yet, you out-of-state students could write a letter to your own congressman.

Registration... Whose Fault?

By JERRY REILLY

What's the matter with registration?

Yep, it's the same old question popping up again, only this time I think I have the answer to the blasted riddle.

AFTER STANDING for a few hours in the snaking registration lines viewing my fellow students, I suddenly realized what was wrong with student registration.

The students themselves are to blame. In fact, registration would be a breeze if EVERY student would play by the rules.

It's not the "manhandling" campus cops or the "mixed-up" registrar's office or the "smug" little student checkers who are making registration intolerable, its 99% of the student body (the other 1% worked for the registrar's office).

THE ONLY proof I can offer for this startling hypothesis is my own humble experience as a fellow student and your consciences.

As I stood in line down by the baseball diamond, I felt depressed but in a way, I was proud of the orderly lines and polite students around me. I struck up a conversation with a couple of other R-Z juniors and, before I knew it, the line began to move.

As I neared the chutes to the gym, the line came to an abrupt halt and any stray seniors and graduates were allowed to pass. This was just fine. But while our line was waiting to go in, two students in front of me called to one of their friends who was just coming to registration. THIS MADE THREE.

Well, I guess you know what happened next or maybe you experienced the same thing. Before I knew it there were seven people in front of me, five of whom didn't belong. I looked behind me and saw other clots that had formed on this vein.

My two acquaintances could take it no longer and decided to take things in their hands. They asked the crowding-inners to leave. They didn't. So one of my acquaintances went to Campus Security - Lt. Tom Godbehere, but alas he was too late and the five sneaks got in.

Discontent Necessary?

Today is the seventy-seventh anniversary of the first day of classes of Arizona State University.

It has taken ASU over three quarters of a century to build up to where we stand today, yet many ASU students seem willing to disregard the tradition that has been accumulated through the years.

Many students spend a great deal of their time complaining about things to do on this campus.

Questions such as "Why don't they do something good around here?" "Why don't they do things like big schools do?" "Why this, why that, and why anything else they can find to question."

The question shouldn't be "Why don't they?" It should be "Why don't I put myself out just a little bit and find something to do?"

Remember, "it is not the critic who counts; the credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; who knows the great enthusiasm, the great devotions and spends himself in a worthy cause."

So, ASU students who have continued to go about finding "wrong" in all school sponsored activities, how about making our seventy-eighth year a real step ahead?

We Get Letters

TO THE EDITOR:

For once Mary Gorman is right. ASU is in desperate need of a well-organized book co-op.

So the school owns the bookstore and makes 25 per cent profit on used books, huh? This plus the raise in fees makes quite an extra lump we're throwing into the coffers, and no extra services in return loom over the horizon.

If the schools need more money, let them economize here and there. How many books does a fountain buy? We have more than enough fountains around, so why don't we cash in?

Maybe with some less-expensive soap in campus washrooms we can save enough so we don't have to sell the dean, which would be disastrous.

Name Withheld

EDITOR'S NOTE: The bookstore, though owned by ASU, must be self-supporting. That "25 per cent profit" is used to run the place and pay forty working students.

TO THE EDITOR:

Concerning your suggestion of a student book exchange, I should like to describe a system used at the old Los Angeles Junior College (probably has a different name now). There the students used to gather at the beginning of the new semester and literally exchange books.

It was like the old Curb Stock Exchange in New York. Students would be walking around through the groups with chemistry, physics, art, etc., books swapping on an even basis or with a small monetary difference, depending on original price and condition. Sometimes it was two cheap books for the price of one expensive one.

Admittedly, this is less efficient than what you suggest, but it worked. To be sure, there was a bookstore for students who did not want to bother with bartering. The main difficulty is in starting such a tradition.

Sincerely, J. D. H.

Today is the 77th anniversary of the first day of classes at Arizona State University, near Tempe Normal School.

On Feb. 8, 1886, the first class of 33 students met in the classroom of Prof. Hiram B. Farmer for the first lecture. Prof. Farmer was the school's first principal and, for two years, the entire faculty.

INFORMATION on the first student to fall asleep in class is not readily available.

The foundation of the school actually took place on March 12, 1885, with the passing of a law by the 13th Legislative Assembly of Arizona.

It took nearly a year to get things really moving ahead with great vigor, but remember that cars had not yet replaced horses.

TEMPE NORMAL became a four-year college in 1925, after successful lobbying by the alumni association. The degree of B.A. in education was first installed that year and the name changed to Arizona State College.

This was a definite move forward. ASC fits into cheers much better than ASTC at Tempe ever could.

On March 17, 1937, the College adopted a curriculum leading to a Master's in education.

THAT WAS the year Mrs. Krause, head of the ASC cafeteria, impounded a pair of red suspenders from a male student. He found that a belt kept him from eating as much as he liked.

To allow free use of both his hands, the student went back to a belt.

Arizona State College enlarged its curriculum and facilities again in 1945 to accommodate an increase of veterans. Registration was a jam that year, too.

It was on Nov. 4, 1958, that Arizona State College passed into that Great Big Campus in the Sky and Arizona State University was formed in its place. Notice they kept part of the school's old name.

SINCE that date "ASU" has been constantly on the lips of the world's sneezers. What an honor.

No celebrations are being planned for today, according to the office of the dean of women, where the University calendar is compiled.

"So far," said Dean Nichols, "nothing has been calendared by the faculty."

THIS COULD mean that faculty members are planning unofficial parties on the sly. None of the colleges admits having any celebrations scheduled.

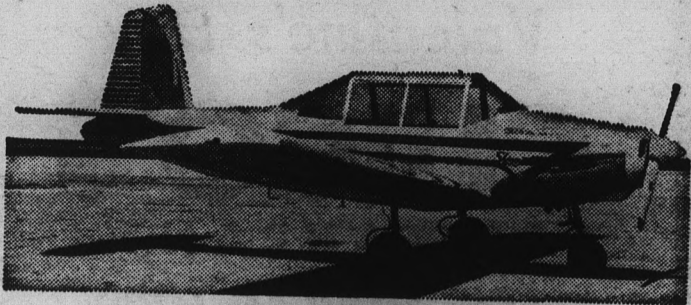

It's really a little disappointing.

New Wing Almost Ready

The new $400,000 south wing of the Life Sciences Center should be completed and ready for use by April, according to John R. Ellingson, director of ASU's Physical Plant.

A reptile and amphibian museum collection, plant collection and two small greenhouses are among the special units to be housed in the building.

Entries Due By March 18 For Student Prospector

All manuscript entries which are submitted by ASU students for the "Prospector" and the fourth annual Swarthout Prizes will be due between Feb. 11 and March 18.

Publishing date for the "Prospector," an English department publication, is April 22. Swarthout prize awards will be presented later in the semester. The magazine is a non-profit project.

CONTEST PROCEDURES for the Swarthout Prize contest include:

1) The Swarthout Prizes consist of three $50 first prize awards and three $25 second prize awards for the categories of poetry, prose fiction and the essay.

2) Graduates and undergraduates will be in competition with each other.

3) AN ENTRY for either the Swarthout Prizes or the "Prospector" will be considered an entry for both.

4) The "Prospector" will publish the Swarthout prize-winning stories, poems and essays this semester together with several other committee-selected pieces of fiction, poems and essays.

5) The Swarthout-Prospector committee consists of three sub-committees which will judge the different categories of poetry, fiction and essay manuscripts.

MANUSCRIPTS may be delivered in person or mailed to any member of the English faculty or the English office, Eng. 114.

Katherine and Glendon Swarthout established the prizes in an effort to encourage creative writing on the ASU campus. Dr. Swarthout is a visiting English lecturer from Michigan State University.

He has published several short stories and has received critical acclaim for his two novels, "They Came to Cordura" and "Where The Boys Are."

DETAILS concerning the submission of manuscripts are:

All manuscripts must be typed and double-spaced on standard quality 8 1/2 x 11 paper and should be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Fiction entries should be no more than 2500 words. Significant and self-sustaining excerpts from novels or novels-in-progress will be accepted for judgment. Essays should be no more than 2500 words.

ALL VERSE forms will be considered, but only previously unpublished material will be considered by the Swarthout-Prospector committee.

Students submitting award-winning manuscripts and/or writings published in the "Prospector" retain all rights to republication.

Speak Easy

By CHARLES STOUGH

This new column is devoted to the minor news items on and around the ASU campus, which under normal circumstances might go unnoticed.

Wednesday night the Women's Athletic Association had an initiation, Phrateres had a pledge test and the MU area was crawling with female congestion.

This reporter wonders how footprints (sneakers, size 9) got in the moss on the bottom of the Old Main fishpond.

Speaking of fishponds, the SS building's only has two fish, while Old Main rates dozens.

Do we have a happy couple or a frustrated pair?

The Starfires, ASU rifle team, wish to extend their thanks to the anonymous donor(s) who gives cake to them prior to each match. They have lost only one match since the cake donations.

The coke machine on the porch of the den sometimes gives 10c cokes for a nickle.

Yesterday, the men of Irish Hall checked to be certain that all the fire extinguisher boxes were locked. In case of fire, run for the janitor to get a key.

Starfires Win Williams Match

The Starfires, ASU rifle team, won their shoulder-to-shoulder shooting match against the Williams Air Force Base team Tuesday night.

Vic Elsberry emerged with high scoring honors firing a 386 out of 400 points possible and the team took 1,835 points while Williams managed 1,588.

The Starfires will host the Luke Air Force Base team Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Goodwin Stadium range.

Alpha Phi To Present Annual Fund-Raising Heart Ball

Alpha Phi sorority's annual fund raising Heart Ball will be Feb. 16 from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. in the Peace Pipe Room of Camelback Inn.

A "HEART QUEEN", chosen from five finalists will be crowned during the evening's events. She will be awarded a trophy, donated by Maricopa County Heart Association.

Queen candidates were nominated by sororities and halls. Finalists were selected by representatives from men's dorms and fraternity presidents.

Pi Kappa Delta To Host Debate

Four hundred students from four western states will compete in the Sixth Annual High School Invitational Forensic Tournament Feb. 16 at ASU.

Pi Kappa Delta, national speech fraternity, will host the debaters.

Trophies, certificates and critiques will be presented Saturday evening for debate events as well as oratory, extemporaneous speaking, impromptu, oral interpretation and listening.

Greeks At A Glance

By ROSS FISH

New actives, new pledges, new officers—the new semester marks the beginning of a new Greek season with new activities, goals and responsibilities.

Tradition finds the Greek calendar packed with competitive events.

ORGANIZATION and enthusiasm will prove their success.

To rattle off the complete list of spring activities would stagger any rushee hunting for brotherhood to round out his educational career.

PERHAPS the fact that a couple of pledges made it through last semester adds encouragement.

Actually, in comparison with the past few semesters, nearly every fraternity and sorority had high percentages of pledges making their grades.

The quantity needed and received during rush has proved its quality.

LAST SEMESTER is gone. Let's look ahead.

Two groups will celebrate the first weekend with parties. Pi Kappa Alpha will hold its second annual alumni Casino party tonight. Chartered buses will take the Sigma Sigma Sigmas to the Snowbowl for a two-day spree.

Camelback Inn will be the scene of this year's Heart Fund Ball Feb. 16 from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Tickets for the charity dance, sponsored annually by Alpha Phi, are $2 per couple.

TWO EVENTS are slated for March 2. Sigma Chi Derby Day will feature a day of competitive activities. In the afternoon, Alpha Delta Pi will sponsor the annual "Guide for Brides" fashion show at Phoenix Country Club. Tickets are $2.

Greek Week climaxes March. That's only six weeks away. Need more be said?

The Gamma Phis and Delta Sigs are combining talents for one big Follies, April 26-27.

TO BREAK the spring fever, IFC will again sponsor the annual Water Sports Day at Saguaro Lake.

Senior Recital Will Be Given Sunday Evening

A senior recital, featuring Evangeline Mendoza, is scheduled for Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in MU ballroom.

Miss Mendoza's program will include the "Toccata in E Minor" by Bach, "Sonata in E Minor, Opus 90" by Beethoven, "Variations on a Theme of Clara Wieck" by Schumann, "Rhapsody in B minor, Opus 79" by Brahms and "Ballade" by Debussy.

Miss Mendoza, a student of Arnold Bullock, ASU professor of music, was a two year recipient of the Elenore Altman piano scholarship. She is accompanist for the ASU Concert Choir and the University Chor-us.

The recital is open to the public.

Cultural Affairs To Present Film

"Cat On a Hot Tin Roof," starring Elizabeth Taylor and Paul Newman, will show tonight at 7:30 at Cosner Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee, the weekly film presentations are open to the public. A donation of 25 cents per person is asked.

Also scheduled for February are: "The Hustler," Feb. 14, 15; "This Happy Feeling," Feb. 21, 22, and "This Earth Is Mine," Feb. 28, March 1.

Greek Spring Rush Scheduled To Begin

Second semester sorority and fraternity rush begins this month.

Fraternity rush begins Feb. 10 with an Information Hour at 2 p.m. in MU upper lounge.

Displays will acquaint the rushees with the various fraternities and the various phases of fraternity life.

SORORITY RUSH formally begins Feb. 18 and will continue through Mar. 31. A panel discussion on "What Sororities Have to Offer You" will be presented Feb. 11 at 10 p.m. in the living room of the quad.

An orientation meeting, for those interested in participating in second semester rush will be Feb. 14 at 3:30 p.m. in MU upper lounge. Feb. 15 there will be an open house at Palo Verde.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for second semester rush each participating girl must register in the dean of women's office and have a minimum of 2.20 grade index.

For further information, contact Dean Maxine Neelly in the dean of women's office, or Pat Matthias, Panhellenic rush chairman.

Two Utah Meets Await Wrestlers

By NORDY JENSEN

Having left a firm wrestling imprint on Colorado on last week's road trip, Arizona State University's grapplers venture into Utah this weekend for a pair of meets.

Brigham Young University provides the opposition Friday with the Sun Devils meeting Utah Saturday. The ASU wrestlers waded through three matches in Colorado, emerging with two victories and a 16-16 tie with nationally ranked Colorado State College. The two wins were over Colorado Mines, 26-8, and Denver, 22-8.

Even though the Devils managed to move at a hot pace in Colorado, Bredehoff fears the Utah swing could be the roughest of the season. "It will give us a preview of what the Western Athletic Conference championships will offer," Bredehoff said.

Three ASU wrestlers have won eight dual matches in a row, including sophomore Buzz Hays, 157-pounder from Salem, Ore., who has yet to lose a collegiate match. He was undefeated last season as a freshman. The other undefeated wrestlers are Pete Russo, 123-pounder from Portland, Ore. and Dave Greer, 147-pounder from Del City, Okla.

The Devils should be at full strength this weekend as Bredehoff expects Rick Jackson, 167-pounds, to be fully recovered

Frosh Host UofA Wildkittens; Five Faces Missing On Team

With a new look, the Arizona State University Sun Imps basketball team is ready for Saturday's game with the arch-rival UofA Wildkittens.

This operation, not generally desirable but successful thus far, was performed on the Imps during semester exam week. Five team members fell by the wayside, three by grades, one left the squad and the other passed too many hours.

HIT with scholastic difficulties were Charles Robinson, Jim Holloway and Chris Richmond. Dave Zimbro left the team and top scorer Paul Meany passed enough hours to become a sophomore and therefore is ruled ineligible for further frosh competition.

These losses left Coach Bill Mann with two inside men and six guards to face Eastern Arizona JC Monday night. The result was a 107-82 victory for the Sun Imps and their highest scoring total of the year.

The eight-man squad, averaging only 6-1 in height, now boasts an 8-2 record, with three men scoring in double figures.

HIGH SCHOOL All-American Dennis Hamilton, 6-7, leads the team in scoring, with 13.1 points per game, and rebounding with a 10.5 average. The other players in double figures are outside man Jim Whitehead with 12.2 and inside performer John Myers at 10.6 points.

The Wildkittens from Tucson also bring an 8-2 record into Saturday night's contest with its latest victory also coming over EAJC last Saturday, 84-55.

TIP-OFF time is 6:30 p.m. in Sun Devil Gym.

The probable starting line-ups: For UofA, forwards Tom Sutton (6-6), and Ted Pickett (6-5), center Bob Hanson (6-6) and guards Harvey Fox (6-4) and Bob Spahn (6-1). For the Sun Imps, forwards Jim Whitehead (6-3) and John Myers (6-5), center Dennis Hamilton (6-7) and guards Rich Coppola (6-2) and Don Holmes (6-1).

from a knee injury that kept him out of the Colorado Mines match.

Probable wrestlers for ASU include: 155 pounds—Manuel Aragon or Bob Cavalliere, 123—Russo, 130—John Hagan, 137—Bill Rodgers or John Davis, 147—Greer, 157—Hays, 167—Jackson, 177—Sonny McCullough, 191—Jim Milliron, heavyweight—Dave Vereb or Sam Fanelli.

Bulletin

Dennis Dairman suffered a separation of the little finger on his right hand yesterday in basketball practice.

However, Dairman is expected to be ready for action Saturday against Arizona.

Devils Seek Revenge Against 'Cats

By JOE HEATH

"You Choked, Tempe, You Choked!" With these words still ringing in their ears, ASU fans will pack Sun Devil gymnasium tomorrow night for a grudge game with UofA.

After the big football upset of last November, Coach Ned Wulk points out that "the Wildcats are always tough, regardless of records, because of the rivalry factor."

The Devils, ranked fifth in the nation by both Associated Press and United Press, will enter the game with a 3-1 WAC record.

WHILE THE Wildcats are 0-4 in the conference, Wulk points out that they will be one of the best defensive clubs that the Devils will face.

Despite the four straight league losses, Coach Bruce Larsen's Wildcats have a 10-10 seasonal record.

Wulk was more than happy with his team's two victories last week.

"I THOUGHT we played well after being off for the two week semester final break," he said.

"I was disappointed the way we let Texas Western off the hook, yet was pleased with our overall performance because the Miners are the toughest team that we have faced all year."

Receiving special praise by the Devil coach was 6-4 Alan Schmelz.

SCHMELZ came in off the bench to hit eight of ten shots from the floor against New Mexico State.

Both coaches are expected to stay with the same starting lineups.

For ASU, this will mean that

Caldwell, Cerkvnik, Becker, Dairman and Senitz will be in at the tip off.

ARIZONA will start Al Johnson, 6-5, and Larry Harris, 6-4, at the forward spots; Wes Flynn, 6-1, and Warren Rustand, 6-1, at guards, and the big man will be 6-6 center Monte Clausen.

Johnson, only a sophomore, leads the Wildcats in both the scoring and rebounding departments.

He is averaging 12.7 points and 10.4 rebounds per outing.

In rolling up 17 wins out of 19 tries, the Devils have shot an amazing percentage of .493 per game.

ART BECKER leads the individual shooters, hitting on 150 of 253 floor shots for a .593 percentage.

Joe Caldwell is leading all Devil rebounders by pulling down 11.1 per game.

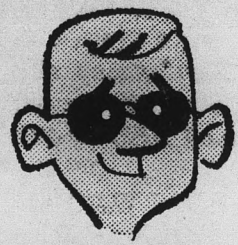

NEVER A LOSER—Raul Disarufino, 6-2 senior guard from Los Angeles, will have a personal streak of his own to keep tomorrow night against Arizona. He, along with teammate Tony Cerkvnik, has never lost to the 'Cats since he enrolled at ASU. Tip-off time is 8:30 p.m.

'Frisco Clinic Has Dickinson

Dr. Art Dickinson, head athletic trainer at Arizona State University, will be a featured speaker at the "Coach of the Year" clinic in San Francisco, Feb. 22-23.

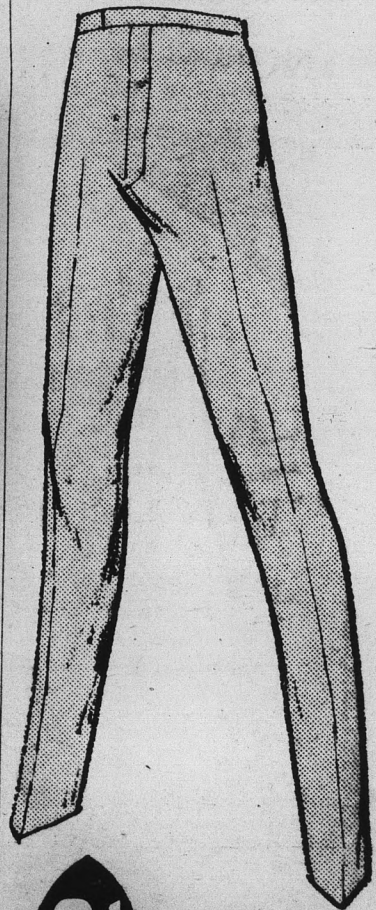

Dr. Dickinson will speak on athletic training and conditioning.

He will speak in Tucson this Saturday at the annual meeting of the Arizona Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.
