Campus Skyline Is Altered As Construction Proceeds

By TROY IRVINE

Construction of the Grady Gammage Memorial Auditorium, Palm East dormitory and the new Life Science building wing is progressing on schedule, according to physical plant director John Ellingson.

The $2,800,000 auditorium is one-third finished with the pouring of concrete on the third floor of the backstage level this week.

Completion of the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed structure is scheduled for March, 1964.

The Life Science wing addition is 98 per cent completed and will be ready for the summer session. The 22,000 square foot addition will include laboratories and offices.

Palm East women's dormitory is about one-fourth completed. Workmen are pouring concrete on the sixth floor this week.

In recent bond approvals by the Arizona State Legislature, one and three quarter million dollars were approved for bond release for Palm West dormitory, Palm East's twin

The only difference in two seven story dorms — Palm West will have a basement and facilities for linen service.

The LDS Institute of Religion on the proposed site of Palm West will be razed. The new LDS college center will be located at the corner of Orange and McAllister.

Future construction plans for expanding the ASU campus include a new field house, library, dormitories and a modernistic entrance-way to the university.

ASU is rapidly expanding its facilities and boundaries in anticipation of the 30,000 enrollment expected in ten years, according to Ellingson.

ROSENZWEIGS SCOTTSDALE OPEN THURSDAYS TILL 9

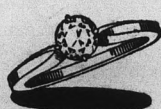

When buying diamonds, like buying beef, would you say, "I'll take a carat of diamonds"?

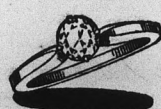

This ad is intended for the marryin' kind and for the inquisitive. Diamonds, like cuts of tenderloin, (blue ribbon, prime, choice, etc.), differ greatly in quality . . . so don't be misled into buying your diamond by weight alone. "The adamos (diamond) is the most valuable, not only of precious stones, but of all things in the world," wrote Pliny, the early Roman historian. It takes 250 tons of diamond-bearing rock to yield one (1) carat size cut diamond of gem quality. A carat is approximately 1/150 of an ounce. A trained, reputable jeweler judges the true value of a diamond by the "4C's" . . . Color, Clarity, Cutting as well as Carat weight. Diamonds of the finest quality are actually colorless or crystal-clear white. Variations in color can best be seen by comparing one diamond with another. Clarity refers to the degree of absence of interior and exterior carbon spots, bubbles or other blemishes. Exactness of cutting is essential to a diamond's brilliance . . . even the tiniest error affects value.

European's Views Conclude Series

By BILL DEWHURST

A French aristocrat and scholar with a peculiarly French philosophy of American democracy figured prominently in the concluding lecture in the ASU Center for American Studies series Wednesday afternoon.

"A European Looks at America" was the title of the lecture presented in the MU ballroom by Dr. John A. De Jong, assistant professor of history. Contributing additional comments was Dr. Heinz Hink, professor of public law and political theory courses.

DR. DE JONG DISCUSSED Alexis de Tocqueville's "Democracy in America" in which the noted French philosopher stated his views on the American democratic society of 1830.

Tocqueville believed he had located in the nature and customs of the American people the surest and safest defense against the dangers of democracy and its inherent mob rule, the professor said.

"Undoubtedly the items in Tocqueville's intellectual baggage which had the most powerful effect on his study of democracy in America were his fears concerning the weaknesses and dangers of democracy."

HE NOT ONLY FEARED the characteristic materialism of such a society, but also the absolute sovereignty of the majority, which he felt endangered individual liberty.

Dr. De Jong stated that Tocqueville was, nevertheless, "particularly enthusiastic over the successful incorporation of the features of federalism and nationalism in the Constitution of the United States." Only despotism and anarchy can destroy the free institutions of America, according to Tocqueville.

THE PROFESSOR concluded with the thought that "many of us are concerned today about the pressures which exist in our society for conformity and the tendency to exalt society over the individual."

However, he said he doubts the validity of an anarchistic majority and whether it will, as Tocqueville feared, be the destructive element in our society.

For That Tired Run-Down Feeling...

By JERRY REILLY

For those of you who think college life is becoming a bit humdrum, here's your chance to add a dash of excitement,

Just go north to Eighth Street between College and Van Ness Avenue anytime during the day and watch the pedestrians flirt with traffic. And if you're really daring, try to get across the street yourself.

APPROXIMATELY 600 Palo Verde residents and an unknown number of off-campus students stream across Eighth Street every day, sometimes in the crosswalks and sometimes catch-as-catch-can.

There haven't been any fatal accidents as of yet, but to watch a winsome coed argue with a 16-ton concrete mixer for the right of way... well it makes you wonder.

Students in a hurry cross where they can. This provides an obstacle course for the drivers who are in a hurry. Now we have a very sticky wicket.

AND NOW for the solution to this pedestrian-vehicle dilemma. An overpass or an underpass could be the answer to avoid tragedy.

The overpass idea has been kicked around before and sounds like the best idea price-wise. It could be placed across Eighth Street equidistant from College and Van Ness Avenues. This would provide a central location for safe and speedy crossings.

John Ellingson, director of the physical plant, said that plans are being made to utilize the overpass in two ways — as a heating and cooling utility tunnel from the physical plant to the women's dorms and of course for student crossing.

THE TWO new women's dorms going up beside Palo Verde will increase the problem as far as crossing the street is concerned and at the same time give rise to another problem — finding parking space for the dorm residents and control of the dorm traffic.

Good old Van Ness and Eighth Street take a beating now, but add a few hundred more girls with cars and you'll have a calamity (there have been quite a few accidents at this intersection due to its heavy load.)

THE GIRLS will probably have to walk a block to park their cars (where off-campus students are supposed to park) and the off-campus students in turn will have to take their cars and stick them up on the buttes somewhere.

The whole problem is — too many cars in too little space, but who knows what to do, as soon as room is cleared for a lot, a building goes up before you can turn off the key and get out of your car.

ASU should consider itself very lucky to have a visitor as well known as poet W. H. Auden appear on campus.

It's kind of pathetic, though, to ask someone to speak here, then not offer them decent conditions under which to speak.

I'M SPEAKING of the microphone used on Wednesday night when Auden addressed students, faculty and public in the MU ballroom.

Most of the time during which Auden spoke, it was not even possible to hear him. He is a soft-spoken man to begin with, so this should have been taken into consideration.

We need that auditorium more than we think, I guess. Let's hope with all the fancy architecture we can rate good speaking facilities.

Letters To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Since the senate seems to be spending so much time investigating offices, officials and departments, why don't they investigate the rules on this campus for women and the people who make them?

Number one, it can really run into money when a "woman" has to call her parents collect to get permission to check out of the dorm, even after they have signed a so-called unrestricted permit.

Number two, there is nothing quite like the feeling of being an upperclass woman and earning high enough grades that you are trusted to stay out until the "wee" hour of 10:30 p.m.

Number three, not only do we pay rent for a room we are required to live in, until we reach the glorious age of 23, but the management also stipulates that we submit to a room inspection at least twice a week.

It is my sincere hope that something will be done about this situation and that in the near future ASU will have some decent twentieth-century rules.

Name Withheld

TO THE EDITOR:

Please allow me to convey my compliments to Arizona State University on their fine and efficient placement center.

During the period in which I used the facilities of the center, I found the personnel to be friendly and extremely helpful. Dr. Menke was ready to help at all times, but I was especially grateful to Judy, Mr. Armstrong's secretary, and Mr. Armstrong himself for taking such a personal interest in graduating seniors. ASU is lucky to have such a fine service.

Faith H. Lee

TO THE EDITOR:

I sure was glad to see Janet Wolhuter's editorial speaking out against the ridiculous policies concerning so-called unrestricted sign-outs — unrestricted sign-outs that are in reality restricted by immature rules. And there are so many stupid rules that literally run the life of the ASU coed.

It's about time someone investigated all these rules, modernized them and made ASU a decent place for coeds to live. ASU shouldn't be like a prison, but it is.

I'm willing to bet that many students will say, "Yes, investigate and change the rules." A few students will seriously consider such action. But no one will do a thing so all the coeds will suffer indefinitely under ASU's stone-age rules and regulations.

Name Withheld

TO THE EDITOR:

We would like to express, in the form of a written protest, our disapproval of the expulsion of seven students from Arizona State University because of social behavior.

Moral conduct of students living on campus must conform to the standards set up by the school administration, faculty and students, and therefore we do not protest expulsion from the dorms because of improper conduct.

However, an education is the most precious tool we will have to work with in later years and it is our opinion that these students should not be barred from classes as long as they still possess the desire to learn.

Expulsion from college is a stigma that will drastically alter the careers of these seven students and could adversely affect them the rest of their lives.

Therefore, we protest this punishment as having a too long-term affect for the immediate crime.

Sincerely,
Robie Allen
Cheryl Wilke

TO THE EDITOR:

The Crescents and the men of Lambda Chi Alpha would like to take this opportunity to thank both the faculty and students for their support of our car wash last Saturday, March 16.

The money received will be used to sponsor an Easter celebration for the orphans of the Greater Phoenix area.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"THERE ALWAYS SEEMS TO BE THIS INFERNAL LAG BETWEEN OUR INCREASED ENROLLMENT AND OUR BUILDING PROGRAM."

There Is A Reason

In answer to the protests registered in two of today's letters to the editor, let it be said that all the rules and regulations do have a purpose, no matter how obscure.

If all women were mature, sensible beings no rules would be necessary. However, because of a few (not you, of course) all must submit to regulation.

AS TO THE unrestricted sign-outs, although it's not stated on the slip, these are meant to be unrestricted within reason. What's within reason? This is up to the individual head resident. Each instance is judged according to it's own circumstances, the girl's request must be considered in light of her past behavior and attitude.

WHAT CAN you do? According to Dean Nichols, "Any individual case which comes up where a girl feels an injustice has been done, we will be glad to investigate and do our best to solve the problem."

This is not much help after the game is over but for the next one, if permission is requested early enough and refused, appeal the case.

Another point raised was why do the girls over 21 have to live in dorms? One answer to this, though it doesn't help the girls in there now, is to be patient.

THERE ARE presently 13 dorms, five fraternity houses on Adelphi Drive and ten on Alpha Drive. That makes 28 housing units with a capacity of 3,066 students, 1,710 men and 1,356 women.

Unofficially, there are plans to eventually tear down East, North, South and West Halls. Irish and Haigler are scheduled to come down, too. Other dorms (still unofficially) are supposed to be built around the periphery of the campus leaving the center for classrooms, administration and other facilities.

NOW, IT'S going to take a lot of dorms just to keep up with the present enrollment. What happens when the number of students is doubled? Either more dorms will have to be built, all the men moved off campus to make room for the women or let all women over 21 move out and shift for themselves; or more probable a combination of the three.

So you see, just be patient, you're soon going to outgrow the facilities.

Freshmen Injured In Explosion

Two ASU freshmen received slight face and body injuries Wednesday night while experimenting with a collection of World War II explosive weapons, according to Tempe police.

The two, Jesse Brimhall and Gregory Iverson, were at the home of Brimhall, 927 Granada, Tempe, when the explosion occurred.

Luke Air Force Base officers were called to handle the weapons. The Tempe Police department does not have a demolition squad.

The demolition squad confiscated the weapons.

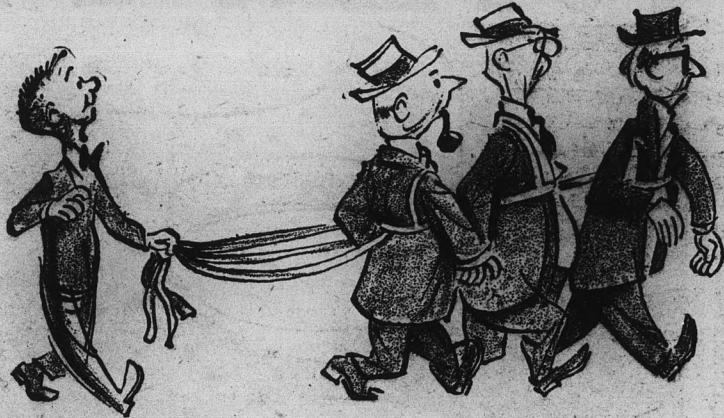

Brimhall and Iverson were able to drive themselves to the Tempe Clinic where they were treated and released.

HAIL TO THE DEAN!

Today let us examine that much maligned, widely misunderstood, grossly overworked, wholly dedicated campus figure—the dean.

The dean (from the Latin Deanere—to expel) is not, as many think, primarily a disciplinary officer. He is a counselor and guide, a haven and refuge for the troubled student. The dean (from the Greek Deanos—to skewer) is characterized chiefly by sympathy, wisdom, patience, forbearance, and a fondness for homely pleasures like community singing, farina, spelledowns, and Marlboro Cigarettes. The dean (from the German Deangemacht—to poop a party) is fond of Marlboros for the same reason that all men of good will are fond of Marlboros—because Marlboro is an honest cigarette. Those good Marlboro tobaccos are honestly good, honestly aged to the peak of perfection, honestly blended for the best of all possible flavors. Marlboro honestly comes in two different containers—a soft pack which is honestly soft and a Flip-Top box which honestly flips. You too will flip when next you try an honest Marlboro, which, one honestly hopes, will be soon.

There is not a dry eye in Yutah

But I digress. We were learning how a dean helps poor, troubled undergraduates. To illustrate, let us take a typical case from the files of Dean S. of the University of Y. (Oh, why be so mysterious? The dean's name is Sigafos and the University is Yutah.)

Wise, kindly Dean Sigafos was visited one day by a freshman named Walter Aguincoourt who came to ask permission to marry one Emma Blenheim, his dormitory laundress. To the dean the marriage seemed ill-advised, for Walter was only 18 years old and Emma was 91. Walter agreed with the dean, but said he felt obligated to go through with it because Emma had invested her life savings in a transparent rainhood to protect her from the mist at Niagara Falls, where they planned to spend their honeymoon. If Walter called off the wedding, what use would the poor woman possibly have for a rainhood in Yutah? The wise, kindly dean pondered briefly and came up with a brilliant answer: let Walter punch holes in the back of Emma's steam iron. With steam billowing back at the old lady, she would find a rainhood very useful—possibly even essential.

Whimpering with gratitude, Walter kissed the dean's Phi Beta Kappa key and hastened away to follow his advice—and the results, I am pleased to report, were madly successful!

Today Emma is a happy woman—singing lustily, wearing her rainhood, eating soft-center chocolates, and ironing clothes—twice as happy, to be candid, than if she had married Walter And what of Walter? He is happy too. Freed from his unwanted liaison with Emma, he married a girl much nearer his own age—Agnes Yucca, 72. Walter is now the proud father—stepfather, to be perfectly accurate—of three fine, healthy boys from Agnes's first marriage—Everett, 38; Wilhelm, 43; and Irving, 55—and when Walter puts the boys on a lead and takes them for a stroll in the park on Sunday afternoon, you may be sure there is not a dry eye in Yutah.

And Dean Sigafos? He too is happy—happy to spend long, tiring hours in his little office, giving counsel without stint and without complaint, doing his bit to set the young, uncertain feet of his charges on the path to a brighter tomorrow.

Psychologist Dr. Skinner To Discuss Cultural Theories Stressing Education

Harvard professor of psychology Dr. B. F. Skinner will discuss "Experimental Designs of a Culture" at 9 tonight in LSC 191.

Dr. Skinner will discuss theories of a culture in which education would be maximized.

THE PSYCHOLOGIST is noted for his work in experimental analysis of behavior and the study of "operant" behavior.

This study of "operant" behavior led to the development of teaching machines based on the theory that behavior is governed by consequences.

While a professor at the University of Indiana, Dr. Skinner served as chairman of the psychology department prior to his appointment to Harvard in 1947. Before that he taught at the University of Minnesota and conducted a war research project sponsored by General Mills.

HE IS A member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Philosophical Society and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

In 1958, Dr. Skinner was appointed the Edgar Pierce Professor of Psychology, an endowed professorship at Harvard.

His experimental work has been mostly with rats and pigeons. He has recently extended his study to the human organism in the study of psychotic behavior, analysis of verbal behavior and design of instructional devices.

DR. SKINNER has written various technical articles and a novel, "Walden Two," in which he applies the principles of systematic learning to an entire culture.

Dr. Skinner's lecture tonight will be open to the public. Tomorrow morning at 10:30 he will speak to students in the MU upper lounge.

Disciplinary Board Suspends Students

By TOM WING

Six students were suspended from ASU for an indefinite period of time by the University Disciplinary committee when it met Tuesday, according to Dr. W. P. Shofstall, dean of students.

The disciplinary decision gave the three men and three women the right to appeal for reinstatement June 30 or after.

The committee's consensus was that each student had violated the standards of conduct as listed in the University catalogue.

THE DECISION followed a study by the committee of each student's record, according to Dr. Shofstall.

Records revealed that none of the women previously had been in disciplinary trouble. Two of the men were currently on disciplinary probation and the other had been on disciplinary probation before.

AS STATED in the catalogue, "... each student is expected to conduct himself in such a manner as to uphold, not detract from, the good name of the University and fellow students by conforming to the law and accepting the moral and social practices of the community, state and nation."

On the record of a fourth man involved an ex-ASU student not currently enrolled, the committee placed "Not allowed to enroll (at ASU) without permission of the University Disciplinary Committee."

Auden Ushers Audience Through World Of Poet

By TIMA IRANI

Few artists in the world of poetry today live, breathe and love poetry as naturally and as effectively as W. H. Auden.

He dramatized the story of "The Poet and His Problems" Wednesday night.

Poetry is pure art, according to Auden. The expression of art must be inspiring, whether it be from horror, shock, ugliness or beauty.

Art is beautiful only when it is in its proper dress, he said.

If the exact form is missing, art loses its expression, and the poetry becomes ugly.

Poetry cannot be confined, Auden continued. It must be unanimous — it can never pertain to a single thing. Each person reads into a poem what he wants to read. "A poem is never finished, it is abandoned," Auden added.

Speakers Leave For Conventions

ASU will be represented by three profs at the joint Conference on College Composition and Communication and convention of the California Association of Teachers of English in Los Angeles from March 21 through 24.

Sidney W. Wilcox, ASU assistant professor of technical communications; and Dr. L. M. Myers and Dr. Brice Harris, both professors of English at ASU, will attend the convention.

Book Review-

Author Gives World Report On 'Kids, Crime And Chaos'

By SHERRI LANE

"Kids, Crime and Chaos" by Roul Tunley, Harper and Brothers, $3.95.

"Kids, Crime and Chaos" attempts to discuss the sociological problem of delinquency from a lay perspective.

The author realistically criticizes the juvenile courts, police systems and social agencies which have tried to curb the rise of delinquency. His approach is descriptive, and the contents of his "world report on juvenile delinquency" reveal that he has done much footwork and interviewing internationally as well as in the United States.

HE COLORS his book by giving vivid case histories and accounts by professional workers. His conversational tone gives him good audience contact, yet the sentences flow, filled with emotionally charged comments, which actually offer little in terms of an objective view of the problem.

His style is slick; that is, it's directed towards a non-professional reader, who normally wouldn't read a more complex treatment of the subject. In essence, the basic liabilities in presenting this kind of material in a watered-down version are embodied in his work.

THE INDIVIDUAL positions along with their accomplishments are lost, analysis is impossible, valid scientific causal relationships are ignored and what is left is fast moving, lucid prose which says little of value.

Tunley makes statements such as "Our doctors, lawyers, educators and chiropractors are constantly attending international meetings and rubbing shoulders with their opposite numbers. But our delinquency experts are strictly stay-at-homes. And their thinking reflects it."

First of all, he cites no source for his "stay-at-home" theory, and "their thinking" bears the connotation of collective, homogeneous inefficacy.

AS A REPORTER, Mr. Tunley knows and obviously utilizes the devices of his trade to slant his writing. He makes generalized statements which may have no counterparts in reality and yet wins support with his personalistic approach.

CONVERSELY, in technical, prosperous societies, the delinquency problem is grave and on the rise. After stating the above, Mr. Tunley inferred that prosperity does indeed cause delinquency.

This kind of unsupported subjectivity deserves a more careful analysis. Although he emphatically adheres to the rather well taken position that social workers and sociologists have failed up to now, in accomplishing their objectives, he immediately adds the connotation that any scientific analysis would prove futile.

"If I had it to do over again, would I take Army R.O.T.C.?"

My wife and I are in Panama at the moment. She likes it. You know, Officers' Club, dances—that sort of thing. I like it, too. But whether I stay in the Army or not, the question is: Would I take Army R.O.T.C. if I had it to do over again? Yes, I certainly would. In spades, I didn't realize how lucky I was. At the time I figured: Okay, so I'll get my degree—get an Army commission, too, and pick up some extra money along the way! I wasn't the leadership type, I thought. I was wrong. Boy, was I wrong! Looking back on it, I wouldn't trade the leadership training I got for anything! Take my word for it, leaders are made—not born! Whether I stay in the Army or not, nobody can take away what I've learned. And let's face it, where can anybody my age step out of college and walk into a standard of living this good? Look, if you have already invested two years in college ROTC, take it from me: Stick it out! It'll be one of the smartest things you ever did. I say so."

Off The Cuff

JOE HEATH
 Sports Editor

When the Western Athletic Conference was originated, one of the prime objectives was to have a well balanced league.

Well, since the WAC started passing out championships this year, five of the six conference teams have earned a trophy in the five sports decided thus far.

THE FIRST championship went to Arizona last November when it won the cross-country title. New Mexico won football; Arizona State, basketball; Brigham Young, wrestling, and Utah, swimming.

Wyoming is the only team which didn't take home some brass.

The next championship to be decided is gymnastics and, since Wyoming doesn't field a team, its chances for glory will have to wait a while.

The gymnastics title will be won at Albuquerque and is rated as a toss-up between ASU and Arizona.

ASU'S BASKETBALL TEAM chose the all-opponent team the other day with Mel Counts, Oregon State, being voted the outstanding player to face the Devils this year.

Along with Counts on the first team are 6-7 Paul Silas, Creighton; 6-7 Dave Stallworth, Wichita; 6-6 Wayne Estes, Utah State and 6-8 Jim Barnes, Texas Western.

It's interesting to note that none of these men are seniors and Stallworth and Estes are only sophomores.

Devil Gym Team To Invade NMU

The ASU gymnastic team moves to Albuquerque for its toughest test of the season — the Western Athletic Conference championships Saturday at the University of New Mexico.

Coach Norris Steverson's Sun Devils are fresh from a creditable fourth place finish last weekend in the Western Intercollegiate Gymnastics Association's championships at Washington State University.

ASU is the co-favorite for the conference crown along with the University of Arizona, who finished sixth in last weekend's meet.

Standouts for the Sun Devils at Washington State were Jerry Stansbury, fourth in long horse, sixth in parallel bars, seventh on the horizontal bar, and seventh in all-around; Jim Nelson, third in tumbling and Chris Evans, fourth in still rings.

Devil Spikers Host Track Meet At Goodwin Oval

The eyes of the track and field world will be focused upon Goodwin Stadium tomorrow evening when Arizona State's Sun Devils host the University of Southern California and the Wildcats of Arizona in a triangular meet.

ASU's Henry Carr broke the world's record for the 220-yard dash Tuesday night as the Devils trounced the University of Utah, 115½-27½. Carr's 20.4 clocking erased the old mark of 20.5 held jointly by Peter Radford of Great Britain and Paul Drayton of Villanova.

Henry Carr

ASU's Frank Covelli set a team, stadium and dual meet mark when he tossed the javelin 250-11½.

Covelli's throw is the longest in the nation this year.

Devils Sweep CSU Series

Hays Enters NCAA Tilt

Lagunas' RBI's Spark 14-3 Win

By NORDY JENSEN

Luis Lagunas snapped the ASU baseball team out of a short batting slump Wednesday, driving in five runs in the Devil's 14-5 rout of Colorado State University.

The Devils swept the three-game series with CSU, running their season record to 11-1.

Lagunas, making his first appearance since he fractured a finger two weeks ago, banged out a two-run triple, a three-run home run and a single.

ASU OPENED a four-game set with Oregon State University Thursday and yesterday's score is elsewhere on the sports page.

Scheduled to start today's 3 p.m. contest with OSU is strikeout artist Sterling Slaughter. Slaughter set a new school record of 22 strikeouts last Monday against CSU and has 45 in 24 1/3 innings so far this season.

Limited to only 12 hits in the first two games against the Rams, ASU bashed out 15 Wednesday, including five extra-base hits.

BOB KAVGIAN hit a two-run homer while Syd Smith, seeing his first action of the year, had a double and two singles.

The win went to Lad Nemecek in his first start of the season. He went six innings striking out nine and allowing only two hits. His control was spotty, however, as he walked seven. Ron Lea worked the final three innings.

Terrell (Buzz) Hays is representing ASU at the NCAA Wrestling Tournament which began yesterday and runs through tomorrow at Kent State University in Kent, Ohio.

Hays has suffered only one defeat in two years of collegiate wrestling. Coach Ted Bredehoff accompanied his star to the meet.
