RECORD BREAKERS — Synchronizing their watches after breaking the world record for the mile relay at the recent Mt. San Antonio College Relays are the Sun Devil relay team, Mike Barrick, Henry Carr, Ron Freeman and Ulis Williams. The team set the world record with a 3:04.5 performance. It had been previously held by the 1960 United States Relay team.

Mile Relay Mark Falls At Mt. SAC

By ALAN MICHAELS

Arizona State's unparalleled mile relay team shattered the world's record with a 3:04.5 performance in Saturday's Mt. San Antonio College Relays at Walnut, Calif.

The A-State quartet of Mike Barrick, Henry Carr, Ron Freeman and Ulis Williams bettered the mark of 3:05.6, set by the 1960 United States Olympic team.

Interestingly enough, the U.S. tandem of Eddie Southern, Jack Yerman, Earl Young and Otis Davis recorded that standard on this same Mt. SAC track 3 years ago.

INDIVIDUAL lap times for the new record were: Barrick :48.0, Carr :45.1, Freeman :45.6 and Williams :45.8.

Coach Baldy Castillo's unit set the national collegiate record two weeks earlier with a 3:05.9 clocking and owned an all-time best of 3:05.7 prior to the meet.

CARR ALREADY has the world's record for the 220-yard dash, a mark of 20.3 set March 23 in a triangular meet with the University of Southern California and the UofA at Goodwin Stadium.

Said Carr: "I'm very elated and happy. It was about time we got the record after flirting with it for two years."

Castillo had the Devils employ non-visual handoffs for the first time. Previously, the runner receiving the baton faced the oncoming runner.

THE STRATEGY, however, did not appear to be instrumental in the record run inasmuch as the Devils broke the old standard by more than a full second.

Barrick, leading off, was disappointed with his performance. Said Mike, "I'm happy we got the record and knew we could. But I should be running faster than I am."

Carr took the handoff for lap 2 and shot to the inside, overtaking Mike Larrabee of the Southern California Striders. At the half-mile, it was simply a matter of whether or not the Devils would break the mark as Henry moved out to a commanding lead.

Freeman exceeded all expectations with his blistering third leg and Williams romped home unopposed as a capacity crowd and a national television audience looked on.

U.S. antarctic program during the 1958 International Geophysical Year.

Dr. Gould was second in command to Admiral Byrd on the first antarctic expedition in 1928 and also was a part of several other such ventures including the Greenland Expedition of 1926. He is presently U.S. representative to the Special Committee on Antarctic Research, established in 1957.

HONORARY DEGREES from several institutions, including the University of Michigan, New York University, Dartmouth, Columbia, Notre Dame, Chicago Medical School and Wayne State University have been received by Dr. Gould.

The honors convocation, a traditional assembly honoring the academic achievement of ASU students, will be held in the MU ballroom on May 17 at 10:40. According to Dr. H. D. Richardson, academic vice president, class absences will be excused for those wishing to attend.

Dark Continent Calls

Education Future Of Africa Is Topic

"Educational Opportunities in Africa" will be discussed by Townsend Coles (previously referred to in the State Press as Edwin Kieth Coles) today at 2:45 p.m. in the MU upper lounge.

The Liberal Arts Honors Council will sponsor the open lecture.

Coles is on a sixteen-week tour of the U. S. and Canada, sponsored by the Canadian Association of Directors Summer Schools and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. Arrangements for the U. S. portion of his trip are being made by the Association for the Study of Liberal Education for Adults.

In 1956 Coles received a degree in geography from the University of Durham, South Africa. From 1956 to 1959 he served as education secretary on the National Council of YMCA's.

Coles is now honorary consultant of the Southern Rhodesia Council of Social Services; chairman of the executive committee, Ranche House, adult education college; and honorary director of the Fulerum Trust, an adult education fund.

Professor Dies Due To Poison

Dr. William H. R. Shaw, 39, professor of chemistry who was found dead in his office in the Physical Sciences building last Wednesday, is reported to have died from cyanide poisoning, according to the Maricopa County medical examiner.

It was reported that no "foul play" was indicated by the circumstances of the death.

The body, which was found by Dr. Tom Thompson, also of the chemistry department, will be flown to Aspen, Colo., for services, according to Campus Security officials.

Dr. Shaw joined the ASU staff Feb. 1 of this year. He previously was a member of the University of Texas faculty from 1952 to 1961. During this time he received several awards for outstanding teaching.

Dr. Shaw received his Master's and Ph.D. from Harvard University where he also was a post doctorate fellow.

Donald Stocks vs. the Religious Council was the first case on the records of an Arizona State Supreme Court.

UN Deputy Will Speak On Friday

Ambassador Charles Woodruff Yost, U.S. deputy permanent representative to the United Nations, will speak on "The United States and the United Nations" Friday at 11 a.m. in the MU upper lounge.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Collegiate Council for the United Nations headed by Steve Sargent.

Yost, who holds an honorary degree of Doctor of Law, was a sponsor of the Atlantic Council and a member of the Advisory Committee of the International Studies Association.

World Issues Are Argued At Model UN Conference

This year's 13th annual Model United Nations session, at which ASU represented Thailand, was termed "... turbulent but productive ..." by Jim Stoffa, co-chairman of the ASU delegation.

The ASU delegation of eight students, advised by Dr. T. James Leonard, assistant professor of political science, met for four days at San Jose, Calif., with over a thousand students from 103 colleges and universities in the seven western states.

Problems discussed at this year's session included: disarmament, status of Angola, the Federation of Malaysia, free trade and food surplus distribution, capital development fund and the truce in Laos.

In the closing minutes of the General Assembly plenary session, the ASU delegation submitted an emergency resolution regarding the violation of the truce in the Plain Des Jarres of Laos.

The resolution was accomplished by obtaining 72 signatures of heads of various delegations, a procedure rarely used because of the difficulties involved even under simulated conditions, according to Jim Stoffa.

Advisement Period Ends

Careers For Youth—Help That Counts

By BOB ZACHE

There are charitable organizations and there are charitable organizations, all of them doing their bit to help the less fortunate.

Careers For Youth works where it counts; with the next generation — the adults of tomorrow.

A civil engineer, Robert B. Choate, Jr., started Careers back in 1959 to help kids from the wrong side of the tracks become wage earners.

"IT WASN'T just another vocational guidance thing," said Point West magazine a year ago. "The kids who live in the depressed areas of town need more than vocational guidance. They need inspiration — something to aspire to. They need to think there's a chance for them to have something more in life than their fathers and grandfathers have had. They need to break out of the vicious circle of despair-leading-to-failure-and-failure-leading-to-despair. In other words, they need to be able to hope."

To do this, Choate felt, the kids had to know what they could be. Tours of the FBI office, hospitals, power plants were organized. They were taken to a ballet show, a symphony concert, a restaurant. "BUT," POINT West continues, "Careers doesn't just dangle goodies under kids' noses and then go off leaving them with their mouths watering. It lays hard cash money on the line. 'Our primary aim,' says Bob Choate, 'is to get them through high school.'"

And Careers has put at least one of these kids into ASU. In September, 1961 a Phoenix high school graduate entered with a 122 on her IQ test. The average person ranges between 97 and 110.

Careers recently got a shot in the arm via a Ford Foundation grant of $295,000 to help support the project.

THIS PROJECT will involve three major courses of action:

1. Establish a youth corps in Phoenix recruited from volunteer students who will offer their services to: (a) raise horizons of younger students, (b) tutor younger students, (c) orient adolescents to their own community and its assets, (d) advise and assist families of lesser chance students to make use of existing community resources.

2. Inaugurate a program that will investigate and pursue the most effective method of promoting employment for newly motivated low economic youth.

3. For the next two critical years, provide Careers For Youth with the professional resources to (a) evaluate the true meaning of its results to date, (b) capitalize on the trust it has engendered in the low economic community, (c) expand its use of volunteer efforts from the business and professional world.

THAT FIRST part is where we come in. It will break down completely unless student volunteers agree to help.

Help will involve about four hours a week of your time, much more valuable than money. Class credit will be granted for some areas of this project, and a minimal salary (about $1 an hour) will be paid to some.

How can you or your group help? Contact Bob Choate at AL 3-4128, or write Careers For Youth, P.O. Box 2326, Phoenix, Arizona. You can also call ASU extension 567 and talk with Dr. Horace W. Lundberg, Dean of the Graduate School of Social Work in SS 331.

They will be glad to help you — to help someone else.

How To Do It

Taking Good Class Notes Pays

Lost: 90 per cent of a student's thinking power while attending lectures.

Reward: A better grade if all or part of the wasted thinking power is recovered and controlled in class.

KNOWING how to listen and take notes in lecture is one of the most important phases of getting an education. Dr. Leslie P. Nason of the University of Southern California explains this in an article from his booklet "You CAN Get Better Grades."

As students we gather about three-fourths of our facts and ideas through listening and only about one-fourth through reading.

Soooo the first step is to start attending classes regularly. Once there, stop watching the footprints on the ceiling, counting the egg specks on the lecturer's shirt or checking out the latest hem line.

DON'T JUST sit there and day dream or wait for the bell to ring — turn the tables on the professor. Skim the day's assignment in advance and get an idea of what's going to be discussed, Dr. Nason advises.

Read the text before going to class. You will be able to get more out of the lecture, including the answers to any questions that may have arisen from your reading.

For those that don't take voluminous notes — the answer: Trying to take down everything the speaker says is a big mistake, Dr. Nason stated. The idea is not to take so many notes that you lose track of the line of thought the lecturer is following.

A BRIEF OUTLINE of note-taking would look like this:

1. Points not brought out in the lecture.

2. They should be brief and cover only the vital points. (This is confusing—doesn't every lecturer think EVERYTHING he says is vital?)

3. They should be in your own words.

4. Condense the speaker's remarks into a short statement of your own.

Following this outline will help you keep your attention and in turn get more out of your classes.

Advice For Advisement

Be sure to get advised!

Yes, this is heard every year and advisement week is here again. But what does this mean?

It is supposed to mean that professors help the students determine next semester's program and explain graduation requirements. This means also that the students should do their share in deciding on elective subjects.

However, this is not always the case.

There are times when professors hand out blue slips to students having them fill it in alone. The professor then signs it. Some students think this is great because they choose any course they like. This is fine until graduation — but then what?

However, students are not blameless either. Some go in to be advised without any preliminary thought. They expect the advisors to do all the work.

One thing that could be done to alleviate this is more work on both the advisors' and students' parts. Advising is part of a professor's job and deciding on some courses is part of the student's job. The student should check into the requirements more closely and have a program partly outlined. By doing this in advance, the student would know exactly what questions he would need to ask. This would save time for both.

Why not make advisement week as easy as possible and everyone do their share of work; both the students and the advisors?

JANET WOLHETER

They Do Have A Problem

Next year's ASU student body officers are in quite a predicament, as any close observer of the recent elections can see.

Three of the top ASASU officers, president, first vice president, and activities vice president, are members of the same social fraternity.

This creates a problem, not only for the present, but for the future, mainly in next year's election.

If the officers do not broaden their cabinet, chief justices, committee heads and board chairmen, with members of opposing fraternities, as well as independents, then the group to which they belong will suffer.

If all the student government positions are occupied by members of the same organization, there is little room left for other "campus leaders" to have a chance to learn about the workings of student government.

A careful, well-planned staff should be the main goal of the newly elected officers, as this will be the basis of any future growth of their fraternity, as well as the student government system of Arizona State, mainly ASASU.

Look around, new officers. Look beyond the circle of brothers and acquaintances you now have. Thinking today, is success tomorrow, for your fraternity, for ASU and most of all for yourself.

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to say something about the "fairness" of the Security Department. An off-campus student who displays his parking decal improperly can very easily receive a citation from a "fair and just" officer, but how about a faculty member? I understand that the "just" department occasionally patrols faculty parking areas, but patrols them for what? For students who parked in the wrong lot, that's who for.

According to a kind-hearted officer, I was informed that parking decals must be displayed in the lower bottom of the rear window (except of course, if the car is a convertible).

I decided to investigate, and on the way over from the Physical Science building, I counted ninety faculty automobiles and thirty two of them had their decals displayed improperly. Yet not one had a citation from a "fair" officer.

From this, I believe it would indeed be in order to see a few citations (about 32 in all) on the windshields of some staff members' automobiles.

Foreign Students Include ASU On Tour Schedule

ASU was host to fifteen foreign students last week from two Nicaraguan universities. Members of the La Liga Panamericana ASU Spanish Club, acted as interpreters.

The foreign students were on a tour of U.S. universities. They considered ASU one of the most interesting universities because this was the first university visited in which they were able to talk to the professors and visit laboratories.

All the visiting students are honor students in various fields. Their studies range from pre-medicine, law, engineering, dentistry, pharmacy and journalism.

The Nicaraguan government sponsored the trip, to show them more ideas about the United States and their prospective vocation.

Bob Carter, George Stuart, Dr. Mary Escudero of the Spanish department, and Dr. May-land Parker of the agriculture department, hosted the occasion.

BEVERLY ALLBRIGHT of the Department of State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, and Gilbert Rangel accompanied the students.

Rangel is a native of Arizona and a graduate of ASU. He is currently working in the U.S. Embassy in Nicaragua.

ASU Prepares For First 'Law Day USA' Recognition

Law Day, U.S.A., proclaimed by President Kennedy and mayors of various cities, is being celebrated today by bar associations and law clubs across the country.

The first Law Day was held on May 1, 1958. Its main purpose was to counteract the effect of Russia's May Day. It is an informative day to emphasize rule of law in contrast to Russia's rule of might, according to Dr. Richard Merkle, advisor to ASU's Pre-law Club.

IN CONJUNCTION with Law Day U.S.A., the first Law Day ASU will be held Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Business Administration building.

Its purpose is to introduce high school seniors, college and university undergraduates to the possibilities of a career in law.

Students interested in registering for Law Day must do so before noon tomorrow. Registration forms may be obtained at the MU information desk or in BA 205B.

The program will feature four noted legal representatives. Addressing the students will be Judge Renz Jennings, Arizona Supreme Court; Carl Muecke, United States Federal Attorney; John Frank, practicing attorney and Maynard P. Goudy, corporation lawyer.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER, William T. Keogh, Associate Dean of the Stanford University Law School, will discuss "An Education in the Law."

A display concerning Law Day and the law as a career may be seen on the first floor of the Business Administration building.

A photographic exhibition presented by the School of Architecture today through the 22nd on the third floor of the Engineering Center.

The creative use of furnishings and decoration by famed designers and architects in recent residential and non-resi-

Do you think Charlie can win a ribbon?

That's what Joan Anderson, 4-H girl, is striving for: a blue ribbon for Charlie at the County Fair.

Working for excellence is one of many fine principles which the 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America inspire in their youthful members.

Honoring their purposes, our Company annually provides 74 first-year college scholarships for 4-H and Joan Anderson plans to apply for one of these.

Officer Discovers Work Difference

By GORDON BLACK

A retired New York City police officer who walked a beat in Harlem finds ASU work quite different from his last job.

Sgt. Irving Jaffe said in an interview last week, "Harlem is like no other place I ever worked, and I dealt with every

SGT. JAFFE, while discussing his campus duties said, "We realize that students are inclined to kick up their heels from time to time, and we are here to keep this within harmless bounds."

JAFFE stated that panty raids and similar activities which can lead to more serious offenses and actual crime must and will be strictly and rigidly dealt with.

Campus officials have been lenient in some dealings with students. "However, those who don't respond to this comparative leniency must be dealt with according to the laws and rules that apply," he continued.

ASU Symphony Orchestra To Aid Contest Promotion

A Music Memory contest will be highlighted by concerts by the ASU Symphony Orchestra at the Hotel Westward Ho in Phoenix.

These concerts, to be May 2-3, will be attended by 13 thousand grade school children from second through eighth grades.

The orchestra will play 16 compositions which the students have studied for the last year in their classrooms.

100,000 students have participated in this contest this year, according to associate professor of music Eugene Lombardi.

Those who finish the studies with a perfect grade are rewarded by getting to hear those compositions they have studied played by the ASU Symphony Orchestra.

Some of the compositions include "Overture and March" from Nutcracker" by Tschai-kowsky, "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2" by Listz, and second movement from "New World" by Dvorak.

This contest, according to Lombardi, is designed to increase the musical tastes of the student and is promoted by KTAR radio and the Phoenix Gazette.

HOW TO SEE EUROPE FOR ONLY $300 A DAY: NO. 1

Summer vacation is just around the corner, and naturally all of you are going to Europe. Perhaps I can offer a handy tip or two. (I must confess that I myself have never been to Europe, but I do have a French poodle and a German shepherd, so I am not entirely unqualified.)

First let me say that no trip to Europe is complete without a visit to England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Lichtenstein, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Russia, Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania, Crete, Sardinia, Sicily, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Lapland, and Andorra.

Let us take up these countries in order. First, England.

The old ones are thrown away

The capital of England is London—or Liverpool, as it is sometimes called. There are many interesting things to see in London—chiefly the changing of the guards. The guards are changed daily. The old ones are thrown away.

Another "must" while in London is a visit to the palace of the Duke of Marlborough. Marlborough is spelled Marlborough, but pronounced Marlboro. English spelling is very quaint, but terribly disorganized. The late George Bernard Shaw, author of Little Women, fought all his life to simplify English spelling. They tell a story about Shaw once asking a friend, "What does g-h-o-t-i spell?"

The friend pondered a bit and replied, "Goatee."

Shaw sniggered. "Pshaw," said Shaw. "G-h-o-t-i does not spell goatee. It spells fish."

"How is that?" said the friend.

Shaw answered, "Gh as in enough, o as in women, ti as in motion. Put them all together, you get fish."

This was very clever of Shaw when you consider that he was a vegetarian. And a good thing he was. As Disraeli once remarked to Guy Fawkes, "If Shaw were not a vegetarian, no lamb chop in London would be safe."

But I digress. We were speaking of the palace of the Duke of Marlborough—or Marlboro, as it is called in the United States. It is called Marlboro by every smoker who enjoys a fine, rich breed of tobaccos, who appreciates a pure white filter, who likes a soft pack that is really soft, a Flip-Top box that really flips. Be sure you are well supplied with Marlboros when you make your trip abroad. After a long, tiring day of sightseeing there is nothing so welcome as a good flavorful Marlboro and a foot-bath with hot Epsom salts.

Epsom salts can be obtained in England at Epsom Downs. Kensington salts can be obtained at Kensington Gardens, Albert salts can be obtained at Albert Hall, Hyde salts can be obtained at Hyde Park, and the crown jewels can be obtained at the Tower of London.

The guards at the Tower of London are called Beefeaters because they are always beefing about what they get to eat. This is also known as "cricket" or "petrol."

Well, I guess that about covers England. In next week's column we will visit the Land of the Midnight Sun—France.

©1963 Max Shulman

Wherever you may roam in Europe and in all fifty states of the Union, you'll find Marlboro ever-present and ever-pleasant—filter, flavor, pack or box.

ASU Nine Takes Two From Lobos

By NORDY JENSEN

ASU's baseball team solved Albuquerque winds and University of New Mexico pitching for two wins last weekend but couldn't overcome sloppy defensive play which cost them a victory in the finale of the three game set.

The sixth ranked Sun Devils (30-11) won Friday, 8-3, and Saturday's opener, 10-2, but gave up three unearned runs in the nightcap for a 7-5 defeat.

STERLING Slaughter successfully faced harsh winds which hurt the effectiveness of his fast ball to gain the win Friday. He struck out 10, bringing his season's total to 126 in 91 innings, but walked six, a single game high for him.

The win gave Slaughter the school record for most victories in a single season.

Tony Alesci hit a line drive home run aided by a tail wind for two runs Friday. Rich Oliver, who went six for 12 in the series, had three singles Friday.

Stout hitting in spacious Lobo Field netted the Devils five extra base blasts in Saturday's opener. Luis Lagunas had a two run homer while Jack Handley and Alan Schmelz added triples and Oliver a double.

GARY GRAHAM had UNM (11-11) under control, allowing only seven hits and never was in serious trouble.

Errors by Schmelz and Lagunas gave UNM three unearned runs and the margin of victory in the final game. Sam Cook suffered his first defeat of the season, allowing 10 hits including shortstop Isidro Rubi's two run triple and run scoring single for the Lobos.

Oliver connected for an inside-the-park homer for two ASU runs and Dick Heiden and Lagunas each got three hits.

CONFERENCE play continues Friday and Saturday at Mesa Rendezvous Park for ASU with a do-or-die series against University of Arizona. ASU needs a three game sweep to keep its WAC Southern Division title hopes alive.

Game Tickets To Go On Sale For UofA Series

Tickets are now on sale at the ticket office in the Gymnasium for the ASU-Arizona baseball series this weekend and the All-Conference Western Athletic Conference track meet May 24-25.

Baseball tickets are $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for high school students and children.

ASU students and faculty will be admitted free with their ID cards.

The Sun Devils and Wildcats will play a three game series—Friday at 7:30 p.m., Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. and again Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

All games will be played at Rendezvous Park in Mesa.

Cat Killer?

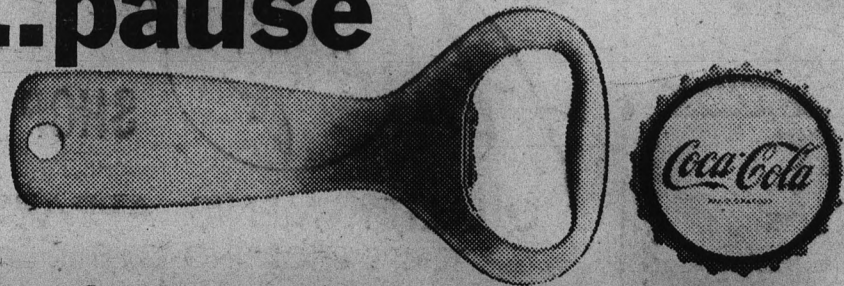

WILDCATS NEXT — Gary Graham, Sun Devil hurler from Van Nuys, Calif., will receive the starting nod from Coach Winkles for the first game in Saturday's doubleheader against the UofA. Graham gave up only seven scattered hits last weekend as he dealt NMU a 10-2 defeat.

Off The Cuff

JOE HEATH
Sports Editor

A few years ago people never heard of Arizona State University—suddenly, they started asking “where is that school?”—and now, people all over are wondering “what they will come up with next.”

The public relations director for General Motors couldn't have done a better job of putting ASU on the map than the athletic program.

FRANK KUSH and his football team started things off by receiving national ranking on their way to a winning season.

Then came Ned Wulk and company and collegiate athletic followers all over the nation found out that the team from Arizona was called the Sun Devils.

For those who only heard about the four teams at Louisville, Henry Carr took up the slack. His world record run in the 220-yd. dash made the sports pages all over the country.

And, we can all thank the mile relay team for taking the opportune time to set a new world mark in its special event. The American Broadcasting Company's Wide World of Sports Television crew was on hand for Saturday's record run and allowed sports enthusiasts from coast-to-coast to watch the Devil sprinters circle the Mt. SAC oval.

TO TELL YOU THE TRUTH, I had heard of ASU before I transferred here this year from California. However, all I had heard about was the tremendous baseball program that Arizona State was known for.

It's true that ASU is growing fast, but it must grow fast to keep up with its name that is getting bigger every day.

Look at the rosters and see how many seniors will be graduated from this year's teams. You won't find many.

And where do high school athletes and junior college transfers want to go? To ASU, where the winning teams and record marks are being made.

Records Fall As Wind Aids Times

Three world's records and the fastest 100-meter dash in history highlighted Saturday's Mt. San Antonio College Relays at Walnut, Calif.

Florida A&M's Bob Hayes proved conclusively he is the world's fastest human by whipping ASU's Henry Carr in the century.

Hayes was clocked in 9.9, bettering Armin Hary's world standard by one-tenth of a second.

The mark will not be submitted for official recognition, however, as Hayes was aided by an 11 mile-per-hour wind, well over the allowable 4.473 mph.

CARR edged the Southern California Striders' Johnny Gilbert for second, both timed in 10 flat.

Al Oerter, the two-time Olympic champion from New Hyde Park, N. Y., erased his own world mark in the discus with a heave of 205 feet, 5½ inches.

Oerter's previous best was 204-10½.

C. K. YANG of UCLA laid claim to the role of the world's greatest all-around athlete by smashing ex-teammate Rafer Johnson's world record in the two-day decathlon competition.

Yang, bothered by leg muscle cramps on Sunday, ran up 9,121 points, far surpassing Johnson's total of 8,683.

The Bruin star cleared 15-10½ in the pole vault and narrowly missed his third attempt at 16-6½.

COULD THIS BE WHY THE FOUR FRESHMEN CAN'T FINISH SCHOOL?

Yes. But there's nothing wrong with their addition. Four master vocalists, plus four swinging instrumentalists, plus four on stage-off the cuff comedians total Four Freshmen. Honest. And this fantastic triple threat versatility is why college audiences refuse to let the Freshmen finish school.

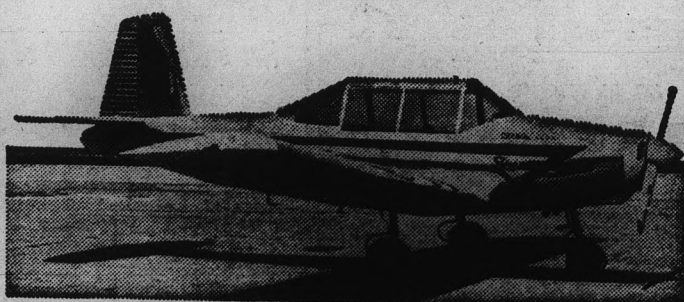

In "The Four Freshmen in Person • Volume 2" on Capitol, you'll hear them at their versatile best, in a recording made during an unforgettable performance at Long Beach City College. The packed house called it great, and so will you.

Look for "The Four Freshmen in Person • Volume 2" on Capitol, and look for the Four Freshmen in concert on your campus.

ASU Relay Squad Wins Dinner Too

By LARRY WARD

"We can't break any more world records," Ron Freeman said taking a last gulp of milk early this week, "I can't take it."

Freeman, Mike Barrick, Henry Carr and Ullis Williams, new world record holders of the mile relay, feasted on fresh pineapple, orange juice and 14-ounce steaks as guests of Saga Foods last Monday in the MU cafeteria.

Ed Kountz, MU cafeteria manager and Don Lander personally served the dinner to the celebrities.

A standing ovation greeted the foursome as they entered the cafeteria and were seated at their table decorated with a flower centerpiece and candles.

Kountz explained the steak dinner wasn't a new idea. When Henry Carr broke the world record in the 220, he also was treated to a steak dinner with all the fixin's.

Saga Foods announced that the steak dinner policy will continue for any outstanding team or athlete who breaks a world record.

Freeman's statement doesn't mean the mile relay champs won't be trying to better their time. The nationally publicized track team will go into action Saturday in Tucson against the UofA.
