Basketball Seating Policies' Solutions Are Still In Doubt

If the Board of Athletic Control had a chance to reconsider the basketball seating policy, it would follow different procedures, Chairman Dr. Joel J. Dauten said.

Dr. Dauten and Clyde B. Smith, athletic director, discussed the new basketball seating policy at a Senate session Wednesday. The plan, initiated by the board and put into effect this year, was labeled a breach of contract by the Senate.

"IF WE had it to do again, we would do a better job of communicating with the students before putting the policy into effect," Dr. Dauten explained.

When asked why the board did not seek Senate opinion concerning the new policy, Smith said he was under the mistaken impression AS President Karl Wochner was the Senate's representative on the board.

Wochner is head of the executive branch of student government and does not represent the Senate, the legislative branch.

Smith said Wochner has since been asked to appoint a senator to the board.

"There is no way to revise the seating policy for this year," he said.

Dr. Dauten said closed circuit television, considered a solution to the problem, would require $50,000 worth of equipment.

SMITH SAID the commercial televising of home games would decrease paid public attendance which pays 80 per cent of the cost of the games.

In other action, the Senate swore in three members: Jerry Atwood, College of Architecture; Ron Merkley, College of Engineering, and Bob Burns, Graduate College.

Two ASU Graduates Considered For 1965 Rhodes Scholarships

Daryl Winn, AS president last year, is one of nine students selected for consideration by the Arizona Selection Committee for the awarding of Rhodes Scholarships.

Winn is one of two ASU students up for consideration. The other is John Garretson of Phoenix.

Of the nine applicants from Arizona, only two will be selected to represent the state in district seven, composed of Hawaii, California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona. The committee will select four to represent the district. These will be awarded scholarships.

Last year ASU student Mike Skolnik was chosen. After graduating from ASU he studied economics at the University of California at Berkeley before accepting the scholarship. He began his studies at Oxford this fall.

Winn is presently doing graduate work in business at the University of Michigan. After graduate school, Winn plans to remain in Michigan and enter law school.

While at ASU, he was selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," in addition to being a senator, member of Blue Key, Arizona president of Sophos, and holder of every major office in Theta Delta Chi social fraternity. He was AS president in 1963-64.

Garretson, 22, was ROTC brigade commander last semester, received the Outstanding Accounting Student award, the Outstanding Business Student award and was a member of Blue Key. He plans to take his ROTC commission and enter the Army next month.

Holiday Road Conditions Worsened By Snow, Ice

Homebound students may face hazardous driving conditions.

Driving conditions throughout Arizona were reported "good" yesterday by the Arizona Highway Patrol.

HOWEVER, the northwestern, midwestern and northeastern sections of the country have been hard-hit by winter weather.

AAA suggests that any students traveling northwest should avoid routes through northern Arizona. Cars driven in this area should be equipped with chains, said AAA spokesman Bill Dropko. He also emphasized that the highway patrol "can and will" stop cars without chains.

A suggested route to the northwestern part of the United States is from Phoenix to Los Angeles and north along the coast on Highway 99. There has been some fog in the area north of Los Angeles, but driving conditions are generally good.

Eastern Washington and Oregon are covered with snow and are experiencing sub-zero temperatures.

DROPKO suggests that east-bound students use southern routes to avoid wide-spread snow and ice in the mid-section of the country. Students heading for St. Louis, Mo., should travel through Tucson, El Paso, Ft. Worth and Dallas before heading north.

Routes through Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa and farther east are reported icy and dangerous.

Western routes through Las Vegas and Reno are "pretty good so far," Dropko said. "But a new storm moving in from the northwest now covers Washington and Oregon and will probably move farther south."

Seating Answer Out

The seating problem in Gamage Auditorium seems to be without solution, according to a report released this week by the Activities Policy Committee.

"Conceivably every seat for a special program in the auditorium could be occupied by a student at a discount rate," Ronald Hockenber, committee chairman, said.

The committee report said that 2,100 seats are reserved for students with cultural activity coupons. The 900 remaining seats are offered to the general public.

The report states that there are 11,000 full-time students at ASU, and only 20 per cent of them can attend any one performance.

Discount rate tickets for special programs are available on a first-come, first-serve basis to students, according to the report.

Council Needed

The judicial board of Associated Women Students (AWS) has been looked upon with some dismay by a few coeds because they believe the council has been granted "excessive powers." The allegation was presumably based on recent "unfair" decisions.

Since AWS judicial hearings are confidential in "respect and consideration for the girls involved," it would be presumptuous to comment on the board's decisions. Consequently, what is more important here is the powers the AWS Judicial Board has and the avenues of defense and appeal available to coeds.

ACTING AS AN intermediate body between the residence hall councils, Phrateres, the associate dean of students office and the Discipline Committee, the judicial board reviews cases involving infraction of University and dormitory regulations. The board is not a court of law and its decisions are subject to appeal.

The authority of the judicial board includes talking to the student, referral to counseling, transfer from one residence hall to another and AWS probation (i.e. if infraction occurs, referral to disciplinary committee or recommended suspension).

In each case the decision can be appealed to the University's Discipline Committee or a new hearing called if additional evidence is submitted.

The board cannot suspend a coed (although suspension can be recommended) and it cannot "place any notation on a student's permanent record." Outside witnesses can appear before the board in the coed's behalf (i.e. a church minister) and attorneys can be hired.

The AWS Judicial Board has been meticulously created. No one needs to justify its existence because some University women do not know how to behave themselves and find it great sport to shoplift and drink in their dormitories. But when the board reviews cases, it takes the "total girl into consideration." This vast generalization can lead to harmful, negative decisions as well as positive corrective action.

IT IS A well-established procedure under the U.S. legal system that reputation has no bearing on judicial findings unless the defendant is still under probation or is a chronic offender. Yet, one former dorm official admitted that reputation often was a factor in judging girls on both the dormitory and AWS Judicial Board level.

Generally, the AWS Judicial Board must be considered effective and sincere or more decisions would have been repealed. The obligation of responsible government does not just rest with elective officials but with the governed as well.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

Now that everyone is leaving for Christmas vacation, it is time to remember that in order to be in condition to return in January, everyone must drive with extra caution.

There is nothing difficult about having an accident. Carelessness on the part of one driver may cause a four-car collision.

I witnessed a near-smashup recently. A car was passing a slow-moving vehicle when a fast-moving car came up behind them. The driver of the third car was in too much of a hurry to wait and attempted to pass both cars while they were side by side. Around the corner in front of them came a large truck. It was luck and driving skill on the part of the drivers of the first two cars and truck that a four-vehicle collision was averted. The driver of the car that caused the complication, continued on his way without even slowing down to see if the truck hit the other two cars.

The Arizona Highway Patrol estimates that 650 people will die in car accidents over the holidays. How many this year will be ASU students, killed because of their own carelessness or because of someone else's?

BETSY JEAN FRITH

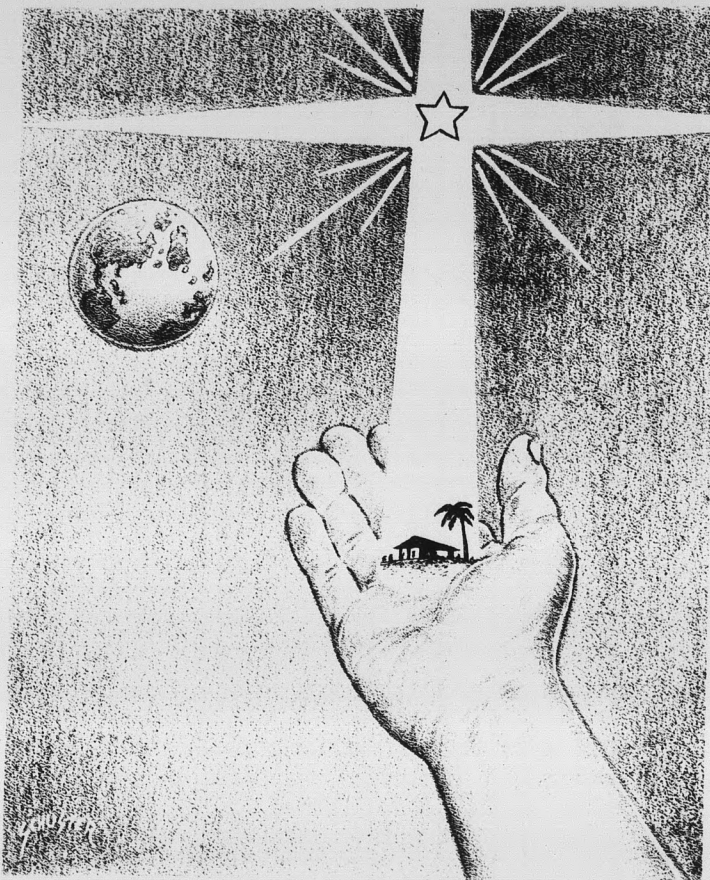

To the Editor:

The athletes at ASU are getting tired of putting up with the insults thrown at them by anyone who wants to. Before you criticize anyone on the football team, go over to the equipment room and check out some football gear and get out on the field and practice from September to December, take an eight week rest and then do it all over again in the spring. Then we'll listen to you. Athletes are not the only ones who cut into line in the cafeteria and take two desserts.

As for Larry Todd, what business is it of Bob Carlton's or any one else to tell Larry, or anybody for that matter, what he should be doing with his personal life. Larry was one of the more popular Sun Devils; we hate to see him go but we still wish him all the luck in the world.

Mr. Carlton should feel lucky that the "animals" did not take the letter he wrote too seriously. The feelings in this letter are those of all athletes in all universities, most of all here at ASU.

True Meaning Of Christmas Disappears In Holiday Events

Many students are busily preparing for that long trip home while others are buying gifts and preparing for a Christmas here in the Valley.

This is all well and good, but we, as young people, often forget — or underestimate — the real significance of Christmas. Buying new clothes, giving and receiving gifts, and drinking has tended to "take the Christ out of most of our Christmases."

THIS IS not in keeping with the real Christmas spirit which began nearly 2,000 years ago with the birth of Christ.

Fires and lights, the symbols of warmth and lasting life, have always been associated with the winter festival in both pagan and Christian contexts. Evergreens, as a symbol of survival, have a long association with Christmas festivities, probably dating from the 18th century when St. Boniface completed the Christianization of what is now Germany and dedicated the fir tree to the Holy Child to replace the sacred Oak of Odin.

In the US, traditional Christmas customs were at first suppressed because the Puritans considered them pagan. But since the middle of the 19th century the celebrations have become increasingly popular and commercialized. Christmas is traditionally regarded as the festival of the family and of the children under the name of whose patron, St. Nicholas, presents are given.

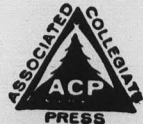

SANTA CLAUS is fine, but he should not be played up so much that he overshadows Christ in Christmas.

So as we go on our separate ways, to do our own individual Christmas celebrating, let each of us remember what this special day means; that without Christ, there would be no celebrating.

I Cover College Avenue

By ED HEATH
Managing Editor

"Let's dance and sing and make good cheer,

For Christmas comes but once a year."

The guy who wrote that had a great idea but he must not have gone to college as we know it today.

Many of us still have half-completed term papers and study to catch up on for the finals which are just two weeks after we return from "vacation."

It is a good idea to get away from campus and probably the farther the better. It also is good to attend parties and raise a little ruckus, but in this case, exercise caution... moderation if you wish, but at least caution.

ON THE subject of Christmas and this "Christ out of Christmas," commercial atmosphere that has evolved... If it is true, it is through no one else's actions but our own.

Who is the scapegoat for this degradation of the Christmas "spirit"? Businessmen? Advertisers? Dirty old men? Bicycle riders?

I don't think it is any of these or any particular group of people or special interests.

If Christmas does not achieve the joy you wish it to there is no one to blame but yourself.

After all the gifts are given (and received), Christmas is a personal and family celebration. Here is where the spirit of Christmas should be rated and if it is not up to par, then at least put the blame where it belongs.

Nuf' said.

THE RECENT issue of the Arizona Statesman magazine, published quarterly by the University Alumni Association, contains a picture story about College Avenue and preparations to transform it into a mall.

However, the story makes an assertion that saddens me:

"With completion, the mall apparently will end a traditional column in the State Press entitled I Cover College Avenue."

Mall or no mall, College Avenue will always be known as College Avenue and the activities that have occurred will continue... and I would like to think the same goes for this column.

Merry Christmas and
Happy New Year
To You All

International Fete Plans Under Way

An International Bazaar, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 20, is being planned by the International Student Relations Committee with the cooperation of the foreign students.

The gala music of a French can can, the throaty call of a slave barker, the rhythmic beat of African dances and the colorful headdresses of the American Indians are some of the internationally-flavored ingredients combined to create the bazaar.

The bazaar will consist of booths representing seven parts of the world — Arabia, Africa, Latin America, the South Sea Islands, the Orient, Europe and North America. An International Coffee House also will be featured.

The purpose of the bazaar is to "make the ASU-American students aware that there are more than 200 foreign students on campus and to raise enough money to send 10 foreign and 10 American students to the People-to-People Western States Regional Convention in San Francisco during Easter vacation," Shah Maroufkhani, chairman of a bazaar subcommittee, said.

"This undoubtedly will be one of the largest and most extensive programs we will be carrying out this year. Students and faculty who are interested in the bazaar and wish to help with plans or participate in activities may contact me at Palo Verde Hall," said Sue Ellen Hutchens, chairman of the International Student Relations Committee.

United Nations Sponsors Contest

The Collegiate Council for the United Nations (CCUN) is sponsoring a college essay-writing contest and will award a first prize of a month-long, all-expense paid trip will include a special school session on the United Nations in Geneva.

CCUN is basing the contest on the first of a series of 90-minute television programs about the UN being developed by the Telsun Foundation, Inc.

APPLICANTS must be undergraduate students enrolled in any accredited college or university. The essay must be of 3,500 words or less written on "Carol for Another Christmas," a TV program being televised on the ABC network at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 28.

Preliminary winners will be judged regionally. The top five finalists will be selected by a panel of national judges.

The panel includes Clark M. Eichelberger, vice president, United Nations Association; author John Gunther; Arthur Larson, director, World Rule of Law Center at Duke University; Henry Cabot Lodge, until recently U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam and former U.S. representative at the United Nations, and Ambassador Marjette Tree, U.S. mission to the UN.

EACH ESSAY must concentrate on the same theme on which noted TV writer Rod Serling based his script for "Carol for Another Christmas," the idea that today, more than ever before, no man can live as an island.

Second prize is an expense-paid trip to New York to attend intensive briefings about the UN at a special summer session.

Third prize is a trip to San Francisco in June to participate in the 20th anniversary celebration of the signing of the UN Charter. Fourth and fifth prize winners will receive complete 24-volume sets of the Encyclopedia Britannica, while 12 regional winners will receive two-volume sets of the Britannica World Language Dictionary.

ALL STUDENTS interested must notify the CCUN, at 345 E. 46th St., New York City, no later than Jan. 15, 1965. Complete rules and details will then be mailed.

L. E. Philbrook, Methodist campus pastor at the J. C. Baker Center, can be contacted for further information.

Morphine Retards Recovery

In case of scorpion sting, don't break out the morphine!

Dr. Herbert L. Stahnke, director of the Poisonous Animals Research Laboratory, said morphine and related substances complicate the treatment of scorpion stings.

In "The Effect of Morphine and Related Substances on the Toxicity of Venom," in the American Journal of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene, Dr. Stahnke discusses experiments with the substances.

Scorpion stings have caused twice as many deaths in Arizona as all other venomous animals combined from 1929-1948, Dr. Stahnke reported. Most deaths attributed to scorpions occurred to children under 17.

Pom Pon's Yule Gift Is Flight To Hawaii

Thanks to businessmen in Tempe and the Valley, the pom pon girls are getting an unusual Christmas present — a trip to Honolulu to support the Sun Devil basketball squad during a Christmas tournament Dec. 25-31. ASU is one of seven schools entered in the tournament.

The squad members, all residents of the Valley, have been working since August to reach a goal of $1,600 needed to cover round trip plane fare from Los Angeles to Honolulu.

When the donations reached $1,200, the girls began to make travel arrangements. Fifty dollars from each girl completed the amount.

WHILE IN Honolulu, the girls will be guests in the home of an ASU student from Honolulu.

Five of the eight girls have never flown and the other three have never flown by jet. "I won't believe we're really going until we get on the plane," Karen Henrickson said.

Two weeks ago, when the final approval came and travel arrangements were completed, the girls began to assemble the various accessories which a 44-pound luggage limit would allow them to carry along.

Movie cameras, wardrobe of swimsuits and capri pants, hair dryers, Mexican hats and serapes are on their packing lists.

INCORRECT AD

Chinese Hospitality, Cooking Overwhelms ASU Professor

By CAROL LIVESAY

Not many college professors can afford the luxury of employing an ordinary cook for their households, but Dr. Bruce B. Mason had one that could speak in five different languages, as well.

Of course, as Dr. Mason quickly points out, he had to go all the way to Taiwan first.

Dr. Mason, a professor of political science and director of the Bureau of Government Research, took a leave of absence from ASU between the Junes of 1963 and 1964 to lend technical assistance under a government program of foreign aid.

In an agreement with the Republic of China, the U.S. government's Agency for International Development (AID) contracted with the University of Michigan to send instructors of public and business administration. Dr. Mason was a member of this staff.

AS A TEAM instructor, Dr. Mason conducted seminars for businessmen in the national university near Taipei. Purpose of the educational program was to help develop skills in administration. He taught courses to China's governmental employes in an "in-service training program."

Communication wasn't an obstacle in lectures since there was a simultaneous translation from English to Chinese and vice versa, explained Dr. Mason.

In addition to teaching in the classroom, he helped build a library of some 10,000 volumes of business administration books and periodicals. When he wasn't being consulted by Chinese businessmen in methods of research, marketing and qualitative control, he was working on publications of research and case studies of business and public practices.

"THE CHINESE overwhelmed me with their hospitality. In the first eight days I was treated nightly to 14-course dinners," said Dr. Mason of the sociable aspects of his job.

Children Feted At Dorm Party

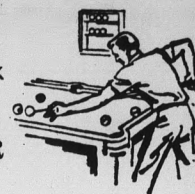

The men of Best B entertained 25 children at a Christmas party at their dorm Tuesday. The children were from Sacred Heart Parish in Phoenix.

Punch and cake were served, and the children sang carols until Santa arrived. Santa (Scott Sievert) distributed gifts to the children.

This is the first year Best B has given a Christmas party.

If your mother won't pay a bit more to give you this cordless shaver for Christmas, it isn't because she's pinching pennies.

It's probably because you're still her little boy.

Sentimental mom.

Still can't accept the facts of life. Sit down and tell her a few. About the REMINGTON® LEKTRONIC II Shaver.

Tell her it's cordless. That it runs on rechargeable energy cells.* So you can shave on the spot. Any spot. That a "man" needs this kind of freedom.

Tell her about the big shaver head. With 756 slots. How once a whisker goes through, it's going, going, gone.

Tell her about the 4 Roller Combs. How they gently let you get to the whiskers, but not the skin. How they even take care of any peach fuzz leftover from bygone days.

Tell her about 348 cutting edges. That start keen, stay keen because they're honed from surgical high-carbon steel.

Tell her the REMINGTON LEKTRONIC II motor is the most powerful in electric shaving. That it never slows down on straightaways or tricky curves.

Tell her how the head case flicks off—and there's a straight cutting edge for clean, even sideburns. Neat.

Will all this change your mother's mind? Don't ask us.

You're a big boy now. Remember?

Russo Looks For Crown

Tony Russo, 137-pound ASU grappler, will carry the colors of A-State into the fifth annual AAU open wrestling tournament at 1 p.m. tomorrow in Phoenix College Gym.

The meet, cosponsored by the Arizona Olympic Club and Phoenix YMCA, is open to all amateur athletes. Finals will be at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Russo, last year's state AAU champ and fourth-place finisher in the U.S. Olympic trials, will be out to improve his second-place finish of last year.

He is considered one of the nation's top AAU performers

Sun Devil Fact

Walt Schlueter, ASU swimming coach, will be a featured speaker at the 25th annual Aquatic Clinic and Forum at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Dec. 21-23.

and is currently the defending Arizona collegiate and WAC defending champ.

Out-of-state entries include defending team champs, the Los Angeles YMCA, the San Diego Navy-Marines, Camp Pendleton and individuals from Utah, Colorado and California.

Coed Named All-American

Carol Ann Hopkins has been named for the second consecutive year to the official collegiate All-America women's archery team for 1964. Miss Hopkins is the only woman to ever win twice. Two other ASU coeds, Judith Kay Severance and Carolyn Maxwell, won honorable mention.

The team was picked by the executive committee of the National Collegiate Archery Coaches' Association.

AS Soccer Squad To Host Yankees

A-State's once-beaten soccer club will do battle at 10 a.m. tomorrow with the Phoenix Yanks as the Phoenix Soccer League begins to take shape.

ASU, 4-1, will host the match to be played on the soccer field behind Alpha Drive fraternity houses.

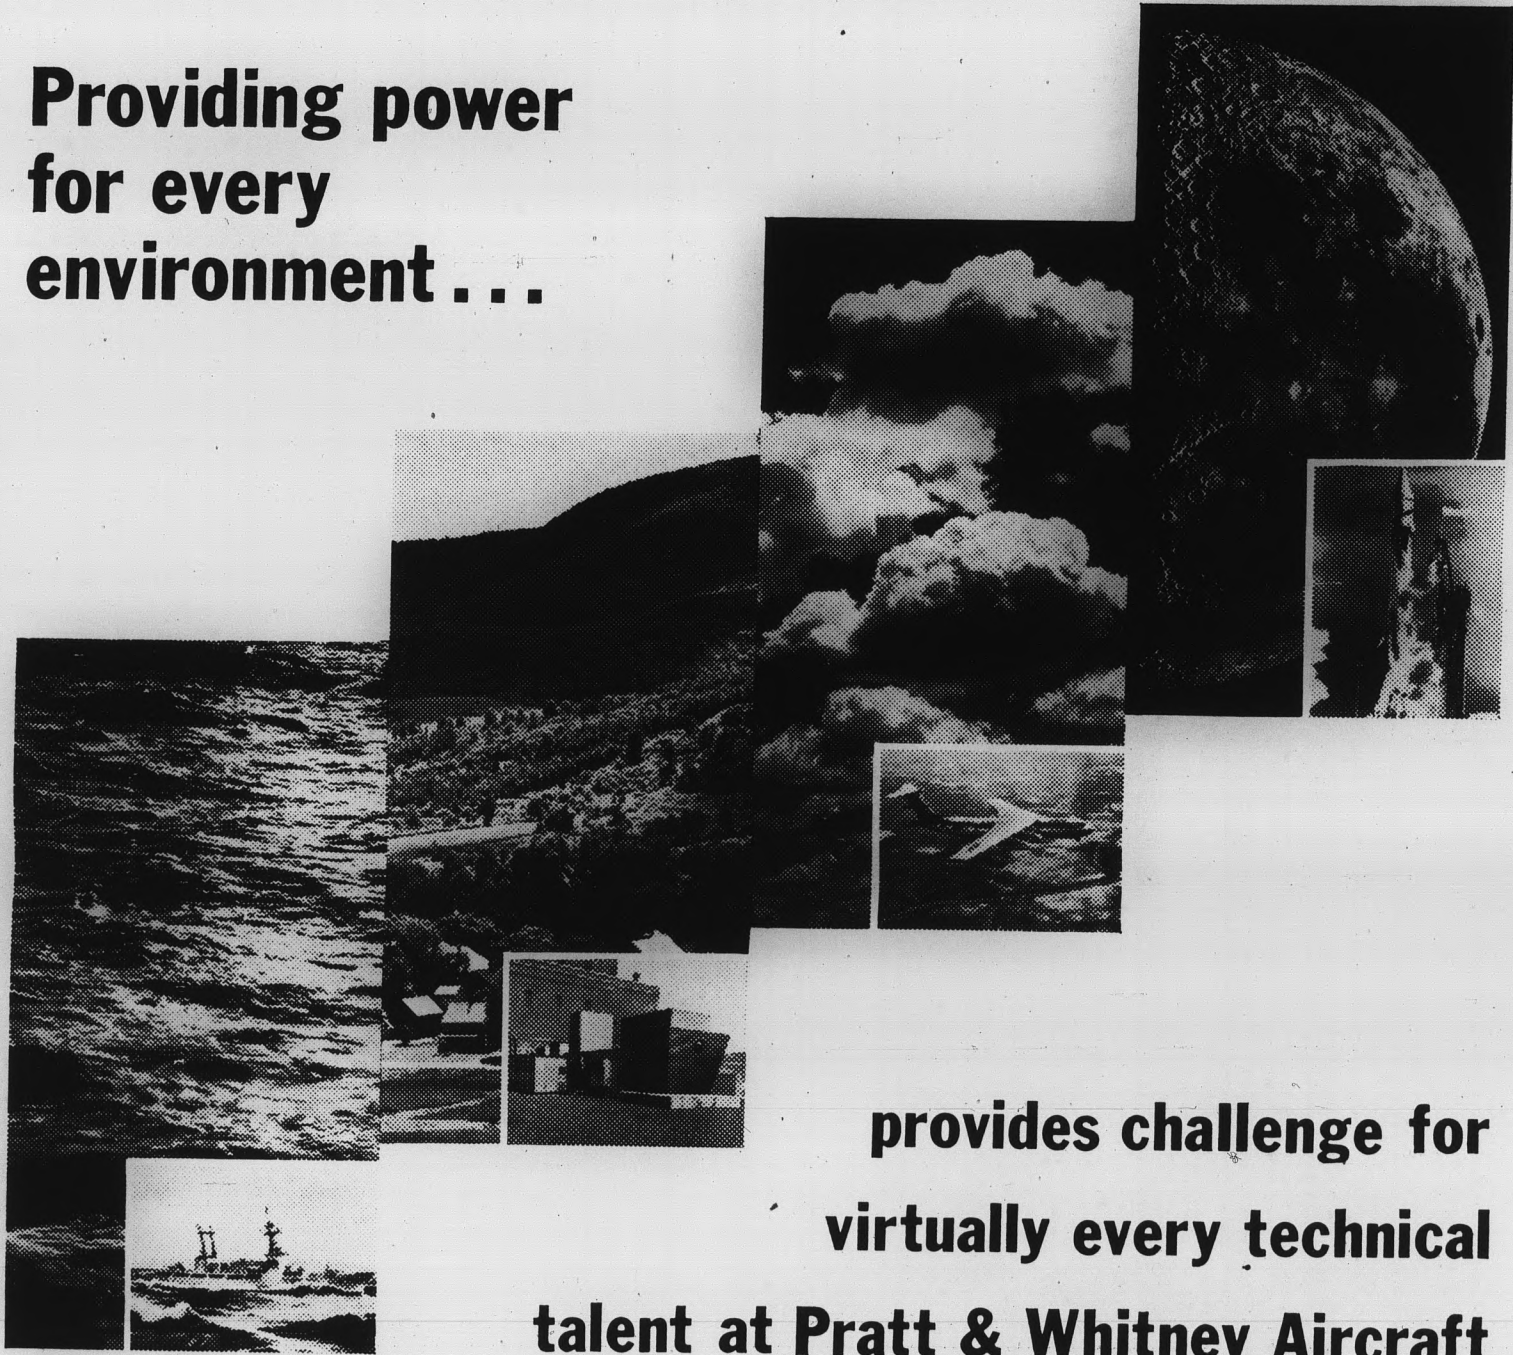

The Yanks have posted two wins and one loss for a total of four points. Soccer standings are based on a scale of two points for a win, one for a tie and none for a loss.

ASU has compiled a total of eight points to be tied for the league lead with Fletcher Jones.

Captain of this year's ASU squad is Pete Versteegen, a Dutch student.

Providing power for every environment . . .

provides challenge for virtually every technical talent at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Being a technically trained man . . . we assume you are looking ahead to a career of exciting growth and accomplishment and that you are looking for a company possessing these same qualities.

If our assumption is correct, we would like you to take a close look at us. For this Company, while solving the problems of the day, thrives on a sort of creative restlessness which anticipates the challenges of tomorrow. And more important to you, it recognizes its engineers and scientists as the master key to its present success and future progress.

From a solid foundation of basic and applied research, our Company has gained a firm foothold in the land, sea, air, and space programs that are helping to shape our nation's future. Our engineers and scientists are exploring ever-broadening avenues of energy conversion for every environment. Should you join them, you'll be assigned early responsibility . . . to apply your engineering talents to such areas as advanced gas turbines . . . rocket engines . . . fuel cells and nuclear power.

Such trail-blazing projects command the best of varied talent. That's why you'll find at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft men with college training as diverse as their responsibilities. You will also find that opportunities for professional growth are further enhanced by our corporation-financed Graduate Education Program. Your degree? It can be a B.S., M.S. or Ph.D. in: MECHANICAL • AERONAUTICAL • ELECTRICAL • CHEMICAL and NUCLEAR ENGINEERING • PHYSICS • CHEMISTRY • METALLURGY • CERAMICS • MATHEMATICS • ENGINEERING SCIENCE or APPLIED MECHANICS.

Cagers Battle With Murray In Annual Sun Devil Classic

By JOE HEATH

Still limping somewhat from a disastrous road trip, the Sun Devils will be trying to even the season at 3-3 when they take on Washington State in the opening round of the second annual Sun Devil Classic in Sun Devil Gym at 9:30 p.m. today.

In the first game of the four-team, two-day tourney, Murray State College will battle Texas Western at 7:30 p.m.

The two winners will advance to the championship game tomorrow night with the losers playing for the consolation crown.

THE DEVILS, winners of last year's tournament, are a slight favorite because they will be playing in the comfort of home.

They are 2-0 here this year and have won 86 of their last 88 home games.

Washington State is 1-4 in the yet young season but the play of Murray and Texas Western has been somewhat different.

A-STATE Coach Ned Wulk said: "These two teams appear to be the soundest in the tournament. Murray beat Canisius in Buffalo — no easy thing to do — and lost by only two points at Bradley. These two factors alone make them a potent team."

As for the TWC Miners: "They are probably suffering somewhat without the services of Jim (Bad News) Barnes. But they played Wichita as good a game as Brigham Young did at Wichita," Wulk said.

Gymnastics Get Under Way

Arizona State will have two representatives at the annual East-West Gymnastics Meet to be conducted at the UofA Dec. 28.

Jerry Stansbury and Chris Evans have completed their eligibility at ASU, but are completing their undergraduate work in pursuit of a degree. Stansbury will compete in long horse and Evans in still rings. Evans was NCAA still rings champion last season.

More About -

Classic

play doesn't get under way until Jan. 7 but is already building up to quite a race.

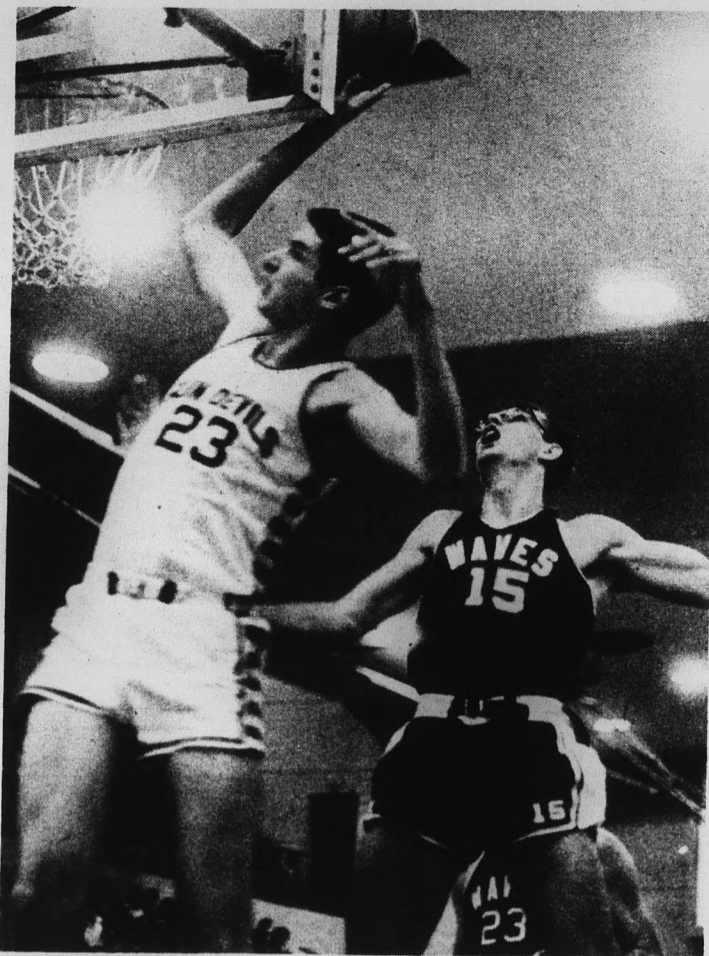

UTAH, 4-0, and New Mexico, 5-1, are pacing the way thus far but an interesting trend has started to catch hold.

WAC teams have posted an amazing 18-0 mark in games played on their home courts.

A close analysis of home and away games looks something like this: A-State (2-0 and 0-3), Arizona (2-0 and 1-2), Brigham Young (2-0 and 0-2), New Mexico (5-0 and 0-1), Utah (4-0 and 0-0), and Wyoming (3-0 and 0-3).

AS COACH Wulk aptly put it: "At this rate every team in the conference will finish 5-5. I wonder what kind of a six-team playoff we'd come up with?"

Seemingly, the biggest threat to be posed by the Cougars might come in rebounding. Washington State has an inside mainstay in 6-8 Ted Warner, 6-7 Randy Stoll and 6-7 John Runyard.

DEVILS' ANSWER — ASU's answer to the height advantage that Murray State brings into tonight's game will be Jim Proctor, a 6-10, 209-pound junior from Santa Ana, Calif. Murray has three men inside who average over 6-7.

May we take this opportunity to thank you for your patronage, and to extend our sincere wishes for a happy & joyous holiday season.
