AT AMS BANQUET —

Reish Named ASU Man of the Year

Student Body President Fred Reish was named ASU Man of the Year at the annual AMS Awards Banquet held last night in the MU ballroom.

Nearly 250 men attended to witness the awarding of AMS intramural awards.

RHODES scholar Robert Wagers was the recipient of the Academic Man of the Year award. Bernie Wrightson, ASU's national diving champion, was named the outstanding individual athlete and Freddie Lewis, of the varsity basketball team, was named outstanding team athlete.

ASASU Administrative Vice President Max Goodrich of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity received the Fraternity Man of the Year award and John Fung of Best A received the Residence Hall Man of the Year trophy.

Major Alexander J. Moser was cited as Adviser of the Year by the organization.

PHI SIGMA Kappa fraternity and Best A residence hall walked off with the lion's share of intramural awards. The Phi Sigs received a blanket designating them as the intramural team champions. Sigma Chi and Alpha Tau Omega tied for second.

Phi Sig Dick Wiley received both the Outstanding Individual Athlete and Outstanding Sportsmanship awards.

Best A was cited as the Outstanding Hall in intramural participation with team manager John Ottenstein being named Outstanding Manager.

AFTER THE FALL — An election poster for Chuck Walrad seems to have suffered the brunt of campaign strain as letters, pictures and decorations were ripped down. Most of Miss Walrad's signs suffered the same fate. See story below.

Walrad Victor in AS Special Election

Chuck Walrad was elected the new AS activities vice president yesterday as 943 students voted in the special election.

Voting was light at both the Palo Verde and Administration polling booths throughout the day and results were tabulated

Election Board Chairman Bill Stanford yesterday released the following statement:

"Your statement in State Press concerning Pi Kappa Alpha's involvement in the names on Pat Carver's petition is entirely false. The forged names were printed by an unknown person."

by the card sorter in the Data Processing Center 45 minutes after the polls closed.

Miss Walrad ran a close race with 289 votes, followed by Lolly Williams with 277, Duane Vild with 230 and Patrick Carver with 116.

MIKE HELFNER, chairman of the election, accounted for the poor turnout because the election was held on such short notice.

Unknown individuals Sunday night defaced seven campaign posters belonging to Chuck Walrad. Because of obscenities on the material. Campus Security removed the posters. Miss Walrad, the only candidate having trouble with her posters, said she had to repair the remaining three posters and put up new ones.

Monday, at the request of the Executive Council, the Election Board reversed its earlier decision to disqualify two candidates in the race for failing to obtain the necessary 150 signatures on nominating petitions.

The council felt the slightly less than the legally required number of signatures met the intent, if not the letter, of the election regulation.

The election was caused when Nancy Valleskey resigned the post before she was sworn in and it was felt work should begin on the office during the summer instead of holding the election in the fall.

Student Advisement Begins Today, Get Cards at Moeur

Student advisement for pre-registration begins today.

In order to be pre-registered, a student must go to his adviser and have his tentative schedule approved. Early registration will be void unless the adviser's signature is on the course request card.

Course request cards can be picked up in the Moeur Administration Building.

Advisement will continue through Friday. Students should schedule appointments with their advisers who will then check the schedule and approve or reject it.

Course bulletins are also available in the Moeur Building. After students have had their schedules approved, the IBM will complete registration and students will be notified of its decision in August.

WATER SPORTS — This banner above the Devils Den entrance reminds students of AMS Water Sports Day Saturday at Butcher Jones Beach, Saguaro Lake. The banner was banned from the MU and had to be moved to the Den.

ESP Is Topic Of Talk Tonight

A demonstration on extrasensory perception will be at 8 p.m. today in Best "C" Hall 114.

The ESP demonstration is sponsored by Interhall Council. Doors will open at 7:45 p.m.

Party Prompts Walkout

By United Press International

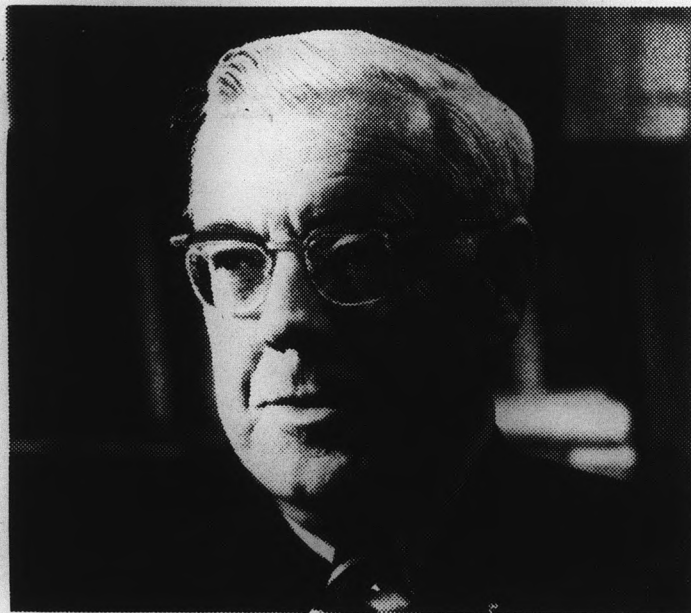

NEW YORK — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen walked out on Long Island Railroad, the nation's biggest commuter railroad yesterday because railroad executives honored President Thomas Goodfellow with a cocktail party and luncheon. Union official Harold Pryor said that the cocktail party violated "Rule G" which states that the "use of intoxicants by employes subject to duty or their possession or use while on duty is prohibited." A railroad spokesman called the move "blatant blackmail."

DETROIT — Chrysler Corp. joined General Motors and Ford yesterday in announcing plans for a production cutback.

DETROIT — Twelve soap factory employes and several school children were injured by an explosion in the soap factory here yesterday. The explosion shattered the windows of a nearby elementary school as well as damaging the soap plant.

MSU President Hannah Will Address Graduates

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, East Lansing, will deliver the Commencement address May 27 during the 80th annual graduation exercises.

Approximately 3,000 graduate and undergraduate students are expected to receive degrees during the 8 p.m. program in Sun Devil Stadium, to which the public is invited.

Dr. Hannah, who has received more than a dozen honorary degrees from universities throughout this country and abroad, will complete on July 1 a quarter of a century as chief executive at MSU.

PRESIDENT OF the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges in 1949-50, Dr. Hannah has been the choice of four Presidents for important positions within the federal government.

He served two years by appointment of President Truman on the International Development Board, which formulated policy for the Point Four Program of technical and economic aid to the underdeveloped areas of the world.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower appointed him Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower and Personnel). He served in that post from Feb. 11, 1953 through July 31, 1954. Upon completion of his tenure as Assistant Secretary, Dr. Hannah was awarded the Medal of Freedom.

In January, 1954, he was appointed by President Eisenhower as chairman of the U. S. section of the Permanent Joint Board on Defense, Canada-U.S. He served in this capacity until September, 1963, heading a five-man American section of a 10-man agency charged with the responsibility for coordinating the defense of the two countries.

In 1956 he made a survey of foreign aid programs in the Far East for the Foreign Relations Committee of the U. S. Senate.

IN DECEMBER, 1957, Dr. Hannah was appointed by President Eisenhower to serve as chairman of the Commission on Civil Rights. He was reappointed chairman of the Commission in 1961 by President Kennedy and is continuing in this post under President Johnson.

Immediately following his graduation from MSU in 1923, Dr. Hannah became a member of the University's faculty as an agricultural extension specialist. In 1935 he was appointed secretary of the Board of Trustees, the governing body of Michigan State, and served in that position until his appointment as president of MSU on July 1, 1941.

John A. Hannah To Deliver Graduation Address

3,308 File For Commencement

A total of 3,308 students have filed applications for graduate and undergraduate degrees to be awarded May 27 at 8 p.m. in Sun Devil Stadium during the 80th annual Commencement program.

John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, will deliver the commencement address.

BACCALAUREATE services will be in Sun Devil Stadium at 7 p.m. May 22. The Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, director of the Newman center, will speak on "The Pepsi Generation and God."

A reception on the lawn of the Alumni House will follow Baccalaureate. President and Mrs. Durham will honor members of the graduating class, candidates for graduate degrees and their parents.

A GOLDEN Reunion of the Class of 1916 will then be held at the Alumni House at 10 a.m.

Commencement rehearsal will be May 20 at 8 a.m. Registrar Alfred Thomas Jr., said, "It is important that every degree candidate be prompt in attendance at the rehearsal. There will be only one practice. It takes careful planning and close attention on the part of each participant in order to have everyone in the correct position."

IF GRADUATES are unable to attend the rehearsal, a copy of commencement instructions will be available in the Moeur Building Lobby from 9 a.m. until noon May 21.

"If you can't be at rehearsal or come to the office on Saturday, then report to the east side of Sun Devil Stadium promptly at 6 p.m. Sunday, May 22," said Thomas.

ALL GRADUATES must report to the east side of the stadium no later than 7 p.m. for the May 27 commencement. All participants in the Baccalaureate and commencement must be in academic robes. A list for obtaining the robes is available in the Moeur Building.

Caps and gowns must be returned before 11 p.m. May 27 or a $2.00 late fee will be charged. This is a bookstore regulation.

THE NUMBER of graduates includes 2,040 men and 1,268 women. Students who completed requirements last semester and during the summer will receive diplomas during commencement and those qualifying for graduation this semester will receive empty envelopes.

A new policy went into effect this year. Only one final exam period will be held and grades will not be compiled until four days after commencement. Diplomas will be mailed in June to those successfully completing requirements.

"ON THE BASIS of previous experience, the number of students actually qualifying for degrees by commencement time will be somewhat less than those applying," President Durham observed.

Applicants include 1,140 graduate students and 2,168 undergraduates. Graduate degrees include 41 for doctor of philosophy, 41 for the doctorate in education, 20 for the master in social work offered by the graduate school of social service administration, and a total of 40 applicants from the college of fine arts which opened last July.

Student Government: Quite an Act

Comedian Bob Newhart regularly gets laughs in his night club act with his explanation for quitting as a certified public accountant—"I figured that if I got with-in $5 or $6 either way, it was all right." Judging from the events of the past two days, the Election Board has one heck of an act.

The Election Board, apparently bowing to pressures from the Executive Council, reversed an earlier decision to disqualify two candidates for yesterday's special activities vice president election. The candidates, Patrick Carver and Lolly Williams, turned in nominating petitions that fell several signatures short of the 150-signatures required for nomination. Apparently, Carver's petition contained some duplicate names and forged signatures. Miss Williams' petition reportedly was two names short.

THE ELECTION Board had voted to disqualify the two because they had not met the minimum requirements for nomination, but AS President Fred Reish, and Administrative Vice President Max Goodrich told the Election Board to leave the names of the two candidates on the ballot, pending an Executive Council decision on the matter. Reish, who previously had not exhibited any affection for the elections, said that he stepped in because he thought that slightly less than the legally required number of signatures met the intent, if not the letter, of the election law.

It should be noted here, before all reason is covered with whipped cream, that the 150-signature regulation was set by the very same Executive Council, and that Reish and Goodrich are members of said council. One might ask, in seriousness, what meaning any laws have in student government if they may be interpreted this loosely, but the question is rhetorical—the laws mean just what Mr. Reish and Mr. Goodrich say they mean, no more, and no less.

THE SPECIAL election for activities vice president has no profound significance to any except those running for office, but the precedent established by the Executive Council should be cause for deep concern among any students who still have confidence in student government's ability to administer student affairs.

It makes no difference what rules or laws student government chooses to make, so long as it realizes that it cannot change the rules once the game has begun.

The AS Executive Council made news by NOT doing something Monday, also. Leo D. Vichules, assistant professor of political science and advisor-designate to the proposed chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, said the council had not acted in good faith on the application.

Vichules said that the council had bypassed the CORE application while approving other requests for rulings, and that there is apparently no intent by council members to give due process of law to the group.

State Press suggests that, applying the Reish-Goodrich rationale to the case, CORE's application complies with the intent, if not the letter, of the law, and should therefore be given approval posthaste.

Letters to the Editor

'Statesman' Article on SDS: A Rebuttal

In the current issue of the Arizona Statesman, Mr. Richard Newhall has provided, in an article entitled "ASU vs. SDS," his version of the so-called SDS Case. Since Mr. Newhall's version is, in many respects, that of the ASU administration, it might be helpful to examine a few of the issues. He discusses at least two distinguishable aspects of the SDS case: first, the question of recognition; second, that of censorship.

It is the administration's view that SDS did not really want to be recognized. The evidence adduced by, for example, Vice President Schabacker, is that SDS refused to follow the appeals routine. President Durham has also taken this position. The appeals procedures have been described as "patently clear." But the unfortunate fact is that the procedures seemed to provide for the SDS case to go to the Student Affairs Committee following the rejection, on October 4th, of the SDS recognition petition by the ASASU Executive Council. That next step, however, was denied SDS by Vice President Schabacker.

SUBSEQUENTLY, the administration proposed a variety of other suggestions, none of them in accord with the regulations that President Durham was later to claim were "patently clear." Mr. Newhall adds a variation on the administration's theme. Mr. Newhall cites the 'fact' that SDS waited "nearly three weeks" after the October 4th rejection to request a meeting with the vice president as evidence of the disingenuousness of the SDS people. But Mr. Newhall had access to the documents in the case.

He has no excuse for not knowing the numerous moves made by SDS during that period—including a meeting with the vice president on October 5th and a letter to him on October 15th. Moreover the formal rejection of SDS was not sent to SDS until October 19th, and then only after it had been requested in writing. Thus both the general charge that SDS was not really interested in recognition, as evidenced by the disregard of the appeals procedures, plus the citation of the inactive "three weeks" are falsified by the facts.

WITH REGARD to the matter of censorship, Mr. Newhall has chosen to forget that seven recognized campus organizations (including five religious groups) were involved in the dispute over the distribution of literature—as were four campus ministers and several faculty members (see, e.g., State Press, XI, 17, 65). The usual administration argument has been restated by Mr. Newhall: Mr. Dick Finley just enforces the advertising and franchise policy. No one, to my knowledge, has claimed that Mr. Finley sought to enforce a statute entitled 'Censorship.' Mr. Finley's critics have simply pointed out that the advertising policy has been used to suppress the free distribution of political and religious literature.

Specifically, Mr. Finley has been 'selective' in the application of the advertising policy. For example, he does not prevent the sale and distribution of newspapers on the campus. But there is nothing in the texts he relies on to justify his attempted suppression of SDS literature which warrants his not requiring seven-day pre-distribution 'examination' of newspapers or even of material handed out by a professor in class.

I FOR ONE am distressed to find administrators resorting to these techniques. The record shows that it was the administration, and not SDS, that violated those "patently clear" appeals procedures. By persistent and systematic distortion, the administration may succeed in placing the blame on SDS. The administration may continue to offer as evidence of SDS insincerity, claims known to be false. The administration may even continue to win support among those who appreciate the importance of projecting a "good image." But the University is paying a price. For insofar as history is re-written at ASU, the University sacrifices its intellectual and moral integrity.

Indeed, the ASU graduating class of 1964 is 18 years ahead of schedule.

Letter-writer Must Be Jealous

EDITOR: I've been trying to figure out what could have possibly motivated Mr. Maake to make his ignorance a matter of public record. If he is joking, it is in very poor taste. Maybe he got tired of reading about bells and decided to start a new flag on campus.

I've come to the conclusions that: (1) he is envious of the grades that the 300-odd military students in the engineering center are making or, (2) He has been reclassified by his draft board and thinks he is too good to do anything for his country.

I hope for his sake that he won't be drafted. The military has little patience with misfits such as Mr. Maake. They usually end up being discharged under less than honorable conditions.

It must be very comforting to all those pilots and you know who I mean, the ones with the low I.Q.'s and master's degrees that are being shot at and shot down every day to know that Mr. Maake thinks that they are secure because they are in the Air Force. I wonder why these poor guys don't get a more dangerous job in civilian industry at twice the salary. Could it be because of "sickening overtones" of Old Glory, etc. Thank goodness the only people intelligent enough not to be fooled by this "snow job" are of Mr. Maake's caliber.

Mr. Maake must feel that he is surrounded by mental mid-gets since almost 50 per cent of the students in the engineering school are in some branch of the military.

If you are so dissatisfied with your surroundings, Mr. Maake, I hear they are accepting applications for Honor U.

Maybe you would be happier there.

THOMAS J. VAN DYKE

ASASU Hits All-time Low

EDITOR: What has been referred to on this campus as "student government" has reached an all time low.

It appears from the activities of the past weekend, regarding the election of an activities vice president, that no longer do the student body officers have to mask their activities in violating the rules and regulations established. They can outrightly get away with flagrant violations of any rule whether they make it or not.

Once again we come to the crucial point - objective criteria. This was the major issue in the debate for approval of campus organizations.

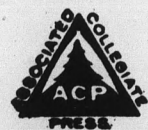

In the current situation, a ruling was made that 150 signatures must be obtained. When several candidates turned up with less than the required number, the student body president and vice-president allowed the candidates who had not met the criteria to remain in the campaign because they met the intent if not the letter of the election regulation. After screaming for the past two years that most of the problems regarding "student government" are due to vague and poorly written statutes, regulations and policies, this is one hell of a way to help straighten out matters. Why make an election regulation at all because it appears that the objective criteria are unimportant? What seems to count is not the requirements in the case of the campaign or the objectives of an organization seeking recognition but what those in authority think of the group or the candidate, regardless of whether their action is legal or not.

The word "student government" at Arizona State University should no longer be used. It no longer represents the students (if it ever did) and it is a mockery to use the word government to describe the disgusting behavior of a few.

TO FILL VACUUM —

Press Part of ASU Future But Question Is When

There are hopes for an ASU University Press sometime in the future. Just how far in the future is something else again.

University presses are dedicated primarily to the publication of scholarly books rather than those which will merely sell.

The type of scholarly publications done by the estimated 70 university presses in the United States today were adopted by America from Great Britain and the examples of the Oxford and Cambridge University Presses.

THE PRINCIPAL function of a university press is that of filling publishing vacuums. University presses publish books which, for economic reasons, are either entirely neglected or badly slighted by trade publishers.

Attitudes of most trade publishers have changed toward books with limited sales potential because of inflated costs.

Before World War II publishing houses could sell 3,000 copies of a book with a small profit, but today they break even with a sales of 9,000, states Frank H. Wardlaw, director of the University of Texas Press.

Dean E. Smith, director of development and publications at ASU, says that the possibility of a university press here is a matter of great interest for him.

"ASU NEEDS a university press," states Smith. "A university press adds academic prestige and provides a better opportunity for scholars to publish their works."

Smith explains that he has talked to President Durham about a university press many times, "but we have to wait our turn because of other financial obligations," says Smith.

Problems of finance seem to be the main reasons for the lack of a university press at ASU.

IT IS estimated by other schools with university presses that 1/3 of the cost of the press is met by its school and the other 2/3 by sale of its books.

University presses are affiliated with the Association of American University Presses which helps to drum up the largest possible audience for the publications.

Dr. Joseph Schabacker, academic vice-president, says that the funds needed for a university press are not available now.

"When funds are appropriated decisions are made as to how these funds are to be spent. When a school is still in its growing stages, as is ASU, there are more important and pressing financial considerations," Schabacker states.

"I DO PREDICT ASU will have a university press," he says, "but when I can't say."

Lawrence Toschik, production director and artist with the ASU Bureau of Publications, explains that some publications are being printed by his department, although this is by no means an official university press.

"We are publishing books hoping to bring about a favorable impression for a university press," says Toschik.

The works being published by the bureau of publications are initiated by departments on campus. "The bureau of publications works with these departments at their request," he explains.

TOSCHICK says he feels it is "important that a university of this size have a university press.

"There are many valuable documents that aren't being published because we don't have a university press," says Toschick.

Honorary Plans Initiates' Tea

Alpha Lambda Delta will hold their annual initiates, tea Sunday at 5:30 p.m. in the MU upper lounge.

The tea is to honor the 60 girls eligible for membership this year. Judy Simmons, senior adviser for the group, will be guest speaker.

Alpha Lambda Delta is the freshman women's scholastic honorary open to all girls maintaining at least a 3.5 cumulative index. Their major service project is the "Little School of Four Hundred" which is a preschool for underprivileged children.

The honorary also presents a scholarship to an outstanding high school senior each year.

Dinner Honoring Dean Shofstall Will Be Held at Westward Ho

An appreciation dinner in honor of Dr. Weldon Shofstall, dean of students, will be held at the Westward Ho Hotel, Firday.

Dr. Howard E. Kershner, president of the Christian Freedom Foundation in New York, will be the guest speaker.

Reservations for the 7 p.m. dinner with a social hour at 6 p.m. can be made by calling Miss Marilyn Vihel, 966-3239, or contacting her at MU 228. There is a $5 donation for adults and $3.50 for students. Deadline for reservations is Thursday morning.

ACHIEVEMENT AND SATISFACTION

Personal satisfaction comes from many sources. One of the greatest is individual achievement.

Working in a field that offers opportunities for developing your own abilities is certainly rewarding. For many men, this has come through a career in life insurance sales and sales management.

Provident Mutual starts training college men while they're still students, giving them a chance to earn while they learn. Our Campus Internship Program numbers among its graduates many men who are currently enjoying successful careers with the Company in sales, supervisory, and management positions.

We welcome the chance to tell you more.

'Man a Religious Animal' Cites Goddard in Speech

"Man is a religious animal," said Governor Sam Goddard last Monday at the first annual Governor's Student Leadership Prayer Breakfast.

Speaking to some 60 student leaders, Goddard said, "Anyone who says this isn't true either thinks too little or too much. The one who thinks too much is too concerned with his environment, a constantly changing sequence we call time."

"THE IDEA that life is an accident in this vast universe is intolerable," he claimed. "The gift of our ancestors is the idea that man is a free spirit capable of thinking for himself in religion."

Goddard praised the free-thinking, probing mind of man, but had more to say on unthinkers.

"Taking someone else's thinking for granted is accepting on the surface what others have thought out for us," he said. "It's a ridiculous concept that someone else's spiritual thinking can bring us salvation. As a result of this belief, many of us have grown up with a stereotype about religion."

"Man has always lived with fears, usually about the physical universe. But now man scratches for truth, illuminating the darkness of his fears," he said.

GODDARD ALSO spoke of the dichotomy of man the animal, and man the spirit. The Old Testament teacher Micah writes of a perfect society in which men and nations live in harmony, he explained. "But to love one's enemies is the hardest of the teachings, and man has forged weapons of hate and pride from the peaceful teachings of the ancient Hebrew author.

"As a science, politics and government are so complex that they're a completely absorbing subject. Yet people seem to want personal attention on their problems of sickness, law, justice and the like" he observed.

He felt that the leaders of today fail by fitting molds which the public gives them. "Then we aren't leading," he said, "we're falling into."

"What state governments need is a fusion for vitality, a spiritual fusion which must come from the people," he claimed.

"A freedom with spiritual compassion is the only means to a free environment and successful society," he concluded.

Netters Fall Twice To Cal Western

The Sun Devil netmen dropped two matches to a powerful Cal Western squad last weekend, 5-4 and 7-2.

The loss drops the Devils season record to 14-9, with the next matches coming up this weekend in Tucson against the UofA.

Dave Farmer was the bright spot for the Devils in the matches, defeating nationally ranked Tom Kuhle of Cal Western on both days. Farmer's record is now 18-5.

Farmer teamed with netter Larry Stanley to capture doubles honors both days while Roger Wright and Briggs Bosworth won their first - day matches.

SPORTS-WHYS

To the Snake Pit

By ORV FREEBISH

Proof positive that Tucson is a snake pit was demonstrated last weekend when New Mexico scored a grand total of six runs in three games, only four of which were earned, while their opponents, the title-minded UofA, racked up merely 49 runs on 58 hits in the same three-game series.

And you'll never guess who has to play in Tucson this weekend! And you'll never guess just what all is at stake when you-know-who plays "them" down there!

WITH THE UofA's three big (and I mean big) wins over New Mexico last weekend, it puts the Wildcats 6-3 in WAC play. That's a carbon copy of the Devils' record and the three-game series this weekend will decide the whole shooting match.

Apparently, it will be a battle of southpaws in Friday night's series opener with Jeff Pentland going for the Devils against Wildcat ace Pat O'Brien.

O'Brien, a Phoenix product who defected, has an unblemished record of 9-0 this season. He was effective and then some for five innings against New Mexico, striking out a total of 10 Lobo batsmen in those five frames.

HE GAVE up only one hit but in the sixth inning couldn't buy a strike, walked five batters in a row and had to come out for a reliever. It was 8-0 when O'Brien blew up, so you can bet your bottom dollar that it was lack of concentration and little else that caused his sudden downfall.

The second pitcher the Devils are likely to see will be Wildcat Gayle Kennedy. Kennedy was the hurler the Devils teed off on at Mesa's Rendezvous Park in the first game of the three-game set up here last month. John Pavlik, who will probably pitch the second game in Tucson, was the winning pitcher that day as the Devils won, 7-3.

DALE SPIER is the tentative starter for Saturday night's finale. The team which wins at least two games down there will be the WAC southern division champ and earn the right to meet the northern division winner for the overall conference title. But for the other team, there's no tomorrow.

So, after a long season of 49 games, all the marbles are on the line with only three to play. Anybody for tranquilizers?

Soccermen Place Six on All-star Team

Six soccer players from the Arizona State team have been chosen for the Phoenix Soccer League's All-Star Team. Included on the 11-man team were Joao Claudio Todorov, Steve Swai, Bill Allen, Dick Kolbrenner, Frank Scarsella and Frank Linnartz.

Two other players, captain Pete Versteegen and Alex Fashen, were chosen for the squad but were not able to be present during post-season activities.

THE ALL-Star Team was chosen by League President Alexander Ellis and a committee of the eight team captains in the league.

The ASU team wound up the season with an 11-3 record in league play and had a 13-5 overall mark. The Devils scored a total of 87 goals to their opponents' 30. Frank Linnartz contributed 25 goals on the year to lead ASU scoring. Next in scoring were Todorov with 15, Versteegen with 8, Allen with 7 and Jean Bordeaux and Pedro Gomez with 6 each.

ALL-STAR players will be honored at the Soccer Banquet to be held at Peter's Hofbrau, May 21. The Devils will be presented with the Knock-Out Cup they won earlier in the season. Players will also receive individual honors for the team's second-place finish in league competition.

WAC Convention Set for May 18

Athletic directors and faculty representatives of Western Athletic Conference schools will hold their annual spring meetings in Provo, Utah, May 18-21, Commissioner Paul W. Brechler announced yesterday.

The meetings will be held during the week of the conference golf, tennis and track and field championships, which are scheduled for May 20-21.

ATHLETIC directors will meet on May 18 to work on scheduling of games and proposed revisions of the constitution and by-laws. Also, they will study a proposed policy with regard to radio and television projection of athletic contests.

Faculty representatives will meet on the morning of May 19 to clarify eligibility requirements for junior college transfers and rule on special eligibility hardship cases.

The NCAA rule which requires a student athlete to have a predicted 1.6 grade average (C-minus) in order to qualify for a grant-in-aid will be clarified. Discussions will hinge principally upon uniform methods of evaluating high school credits, using admission tests and applying a formula for computing the required grade average.

ATHLETIC directors also will consider a request of the national basketball rules committee that the WAC experiment next season with a proposed rule which would require teams to take the ball out of bounds on the first six opponent fouls committed against non-shooters each half, instead of getting a free throw each time.

Willmore Kendall Speaks On 'Doctrine of Equality'

Dr. Willmore Kendall, chairman of the department of politics and economics at the University of Dallas, will speak in the MU ballroom today at 3 p.m.

"Does the Declaration of Independence Commit the American People to the Doctrine of Equality?" will be the topic of Dr. Kendall's speech.

He is also the author of several articles and books including John Locke and the Doctrine of Majority Rule, The Conservative Affirmation, and War and the Use of Force, with Mulford Q. Sibley.

Dr. Kendall, a Rhodes scholar, is a former associate professor of political science at Yale, and served as head of the Latin-American Division of the Central Intelligence Agency, 1946-47.

Summer KAET Series Promotes Understanding of Desert Animals

This summer Arizona residents will have a chance to learn more about the desert area they live and work in. A new television series called Desert Dwellers will begin on KAET in June.

Max Nikerson and Stan Williams of the ASU Zoology department will host the new series which deals with different areas of desert life, ranging from snakes to scorpions.

Tom Cheronis, director - producer of the new series, said the aim of the program is to bring about a better understanding of desert life by discussing some of the problems faced by desert animals in their fight for survival.

It's GRADUATION TIME

You're a nervous wreck.

What are you going to wear? And say?

Maybe you'll go back to grad school.

First impressions are lasting, so don't get caught with your appearance down. Wear a Cricketeer University Dacron® and worsted suit in a new medium tone. At least the inter-lower will see you have good taste. And tell him how suits with Dacron stay neat and wrinkle free. He'll be impressed.
