

London Farces Open Players' Fall Season

By CONNIE MIDEY

The University Players will open their season tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Lyceum with two one-act comedies, "The Resounding Tinkle" and "The Hole."

The companion pieces, by England's N.F. Simpson, are "hilarious plays dealing with absurd situations," said Dr. James Yeater, associate professor of speech and drama and director of "The Hole."

"They are quite funny, most unusual, and provocative as well as amusing," he added.

The cast for "The Hole" includes: Mike Boicourt as the visionary, Mike Rapinchuck as Endo, Bob Greybill as Cerebro, Bill English as Soma, Dolores Clark as Mrs. Meso, Gloria Whiting as Mrs. Ecto, and Jon Reque as the workman.

"The Resounding Tinkle," directed by Dr. Daniel Witt, features Bill Zorn as Bro, Joanne Yeo as Middy, and Betty Smith as Uncle Ted.

Performances will also be given Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29 to Oct. 1, and Oct. 6 to 8, with curtain time at 8:30 p.m. Thursday. Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Lyceum box office.

Five other productions, two of them in cooperation with the Lyric Opera Theatre, have been scheduled for this season.

They are "Electra," by Euripides; "The Roar of the Greasepaint — The Smell of the Crowd," by Anthony Newley and Leslie Bricusse; "The Mad Woman of Chaillot," by Jean Giraudoux; "Summer and Smoke," by Tennessee Williams; and "Susannah," by Carlisle Floyd.

Season tickets are also available at the box office.

HOLE IN THE STREET — Speculating on a mysterious hole in a London street are: background from left, Bob Greybill, Bill English, Dolores Clark, and Gloria Whiting. Mike Boicourt is in the foreground. "The Hole" and "A Resounding Tinkle," both by N. F. Simpson, will be staged at the Lyceum by the University Players Sept. 22 to 24, Sept. 29 to Oct. 1, and Oct. 6 to 8.

Student Interest High In Board Positions

"I was really surprised at the number of students who signed up for boards at Student Government Day," said Gwin Hagler, social board co-chairman.

She said, "Students were even willing to get recommendations for board positions." The social board received more than 45 applications for positions.

Concerning the selection process, Miss Hagler said, "We try to get a varied group of students on each board. We encourage students to apply for more than one board."

Miss Hagler said the student government handbook aided students in selecting boards to apply for. The handbook described the various boards.

Mark Winsor, acting chairman of the Student Information Board, said "We're well satisfied with the turnout. It's been a busy afternoon."

Miss Hagler added that students who have applied two and three times before are still trying for a board position.

Boards represented were: social, international student relations, faculty student relations, rally and traditions, cultural affairs, student information, campus affairs, MU, leadership, organizations and elections.

200 New Faces Greet Students

Nearly 200 new faculty members have been added to the university's classrooms, laboratories, and offices since the end of last semester.

The greatest gains were made by the social science departments which received 38 of the 196 newcomers. Other departmental gains were felt by the College of Education with 26 additions, the College of Engineering with 23, and the College of Business with 21.

In addition, the physical science departments received 18 new faculty members; the College of Fine arts, 12; military science, 9; social services, foreign languages, and the library each have 8; physical education and the life sciences with 6 each; home economics, 5; speech and drama, 3; the College of Law, 2; and architecture, mass communications, and the health service each have 1.

Series Coupons Still At Gammage

Students may still pick up Fine Arts Series coupons at the Gammage Auditorium box office. The coupons entitle the bearer to seats worth up to $4 for the upcoming concerts. Series coupons have all been distributed.

The Fine Arts events include: guitarist Maniñas de Plata, the Broadway play, The Odd Couple, the Houston Symphony Orchestra, the American Ballet Theater, and the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

As of yesterday there were only coupons left for 400 students. They are distributed on a first-come basis. Coupons can be obtained, by presenting registration receipt at the box office from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Library Talk Set For Convocation

As President Bob McConnell will address a convocation of faculty and students at 10:40 a.m. tomorrow in Gammage Auditorium.

In addition to McConnell, a senior political science major, the faculty and students will hear talks by President Durham and Dr. William F. Podlich, professor of education and chairman of the faculty assembly.

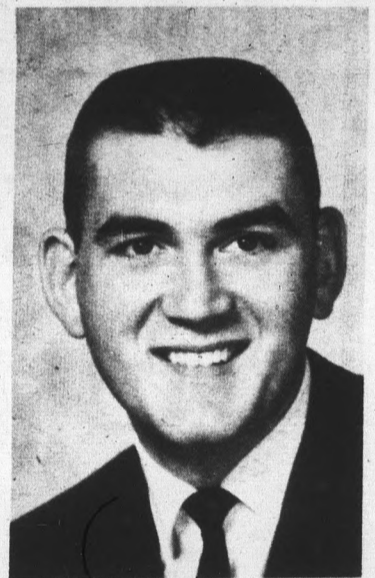

A report on the progress at the Charles Trumbull Hayden Library will be given by Dr. Alan D. Covey, University li- and furnishes intelligence di- marks will be delivered by Dr. George F. Hamm, dean of students.

Music will be provided by Charles S. Brown, University organist and assistant professor of music.

"Individual classes meeting during the hour," said Vice-President Joseph C. Schabacker, "may be dismissed at the option of the instructor concerned for the purpose of attending the convocation."

The convocation is expected to end by 11:15 a.m.

Activity, ID Card Deadline Nears; Thousands Remain

More than 7,000 student activity cards and 5,000 student identification cards have yet to be claimed by Friday.

Faculty wives will be handing out the cards to students each day from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in MU 200.

The orange and white activity card admits students to all intercollegiate athletic contests the new Hayden Library, and numerous other events.

Bill Gorman, ASU ticket manager, has announced that students who do not have activity cards for the remaining home football schedule will be required to purchase $4 tickets to attend games.

All students who had identification photos taken through Saturday, Sept. 1, (walk-through registration) will find their cards at MU 200.

Students who have not had an identification photo taken must do so by Friday in MU 207 of the MU.

The identification card is a permanent laminated card which is designed for use during the student's entire time in college.

Only students carrying seven or more semester hours are required to have the activity and identification cards. Students carrying less than seven hours can claim a library card at the main desk in the new Hayden Library.

SIGNING UP — Freshman elementary education major Nancy Anderson was one of many who signed up yesterday for various activities and administrative boards as part of Student Government Day. See story above.

Alpha Mu Gamma to Meet On Foreign Languages

Alpha Mu Gamma, national foreign languages honorary fraternity, begins this year's campus activities Friday under its new officers.

President Virginia Hyde, assisted by Vice-president Carol Ownby and Secretary-Treasurer Yvonne Burgins, will conduct the business meeting to be held at 3 p.m. in LL 213.

The new officers will be in their first official roles with the group since their initiation and election at the annual chapter banquet last May.

A foreign languages literary contest and publications will be under discussion this week, attendance at foreign movies by the group as a whole, and an International Fair is tentatively planned for the spring.

Members are receiving invitations this week to take an active part in this year's events.

Fraternity membership requires a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 and achievement in a foreign language.

Where To Park Presents Puzzle

"The main problem with the parking situation at the game Saturday night was that people didn't know where to park," said Lt. Thomas W. Godbehere of Campus Security.

Lt. Godbehere stated that much of the parking problem could have been solved if people had used the student lot south of University Dr. Also the problem would have been relieved if those who drove to the game had become familiar with the lots available to them beforehand.

STATE DEPARTMENT-SPONSORED TOUR —

In Colombia, a Duty Involvement in Politics:

"Involvement in politics is a duty of the Colombian student. He would not wish to sit and watch his country's history go by. The students are an important factor of change."

This statement concerning the political involvement of students at Colombian universities was made by one of six Colombian students visiting Phoenix and the University as participants in the Educational Travel program sponsored by the State Department.

THE GROUP is composed of student leaders from their country's universities who are touring the U.S. with special interest in its government, labor-management relations, civil rights procedures, educational system, cultural events and individual professions.

While at ASU, one of the students' chief concerns is with the political participation of student organizations.

One member of the visiting group, Luis Salazar, is president of a Young Conservatives club in Colombia. He and the other students, Gustavo Orejuela, Alvaro Galindo, Nora Salazar and Blanca Vallejo, agreed that university students of their country feel a deep commitment to its political evolution.

OREJUELA is an economics student at the University of Valle. The other group members are law students at Santiago de Cali University.

The students and their interpreter will spend September 14-17 in the Valley area and will be on campus much of this time. They then will visit San Francisco.

Summer Sessions Hot But Plenty Newsworthy

By BILL CUSHING

More than 15,000 summer students attended 10 hot weeks of summer sessions, according to the registrar's office.

It was not a dull summer. Dean of Men George F. Hamm was named new Dean of Students. Replacing Hamm was Assistant Dean of Men Russell O. Bloyer.

THE UNIVERSITY'S drawing board College of Law moved closer to reality with the naming of its first professor, Dr. Harold C. Havighurst of Northwestern.

June's end saw 336 musicians from Arizona's high schools converge on campus for intensive study during the two-week 21st annual All-State Music Camp.

That same week Robert H.

Ellis, director of broadcasting, was elected president of the Phoenix chapter of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

KAET GAINED professional recognition by commercial broadcasters with Ellis' election, the first time Arizona elected an educational broadcaster to its presidency.

Then "Thieves' Carnival," the comedy by Jean Anouilh, came for a three-week run at Gammage Auditorium.

Over 100 high school and college teachers moved on campus to attend 80 summer institutes supported by the National Science Foundation.

ON JULY 4TH, three professors and a number of students were among 45 persons who demonstrated in front of the home of Barry Goldwater to protest the war in Viet Nam.

Students for a Democratic Society sponsored the demonstration, nationally televised, which featured a statement of refusal to pay a part of their taxes and refusing to serve in the armed forces in Viet Nam.

Later that week Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity announced purchase of an apartment house for $105,000.

PRESIDENT Durham named William H. Hill as the new director of bands. A 140-piece marching band this fall is Hill's goal.

The West's largest Upward Bound program, to stimulate poverty-level high school students to higher education, was attended by some 200 Phoenix area 10th graders. The two-month campus program was financed by a $160,000 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

THE UNIVERSITY announced downtown Phoenix was to become a virtual part of the campus with 15 courses being offered in an empty office building.

As the second session drew to a close, the new College of Nursing Building, the new library and mall and the new Women's Physical Education Complex received finishing touches.

Finally, a musical version of "Wizrd of Oz" played to packed audiences at Gammage Auditorium.

Fulbright - Hays Act Offers Money for Study, Travel

Students currently attending ASU have the opportunity for research or study abroad in 1967-68. Applications are now being accepted for government travel and full grants in 53 countries made available by the Fulbright-Hays Act, according to Dr. Wallace Adams, professor of history and campus Fulbright program adviser. Also available under the program are grants for professional training and study in the creative and performing arts.

Applications will be due October 31 except for applicants in the creative and performing arts who must submit their application and additional materials by October 15. Applicants must be U.S. citizens, possess a bachelor's degree or its equivalent before the beginning date of the grant. The applicant must be proficient in the language of the host country with a few exceptions.

Information and applications on the grants are available from Dr. Adams in room 225 SS. Several grants are available to those persons interested in medicine and social work who meet the required qualifications.

A full award provides the grantee with tuition, maintenance, round-trip transportation, health and accident insurance and an incidental allowance.

Ticket Cars Minus Decals

The warning period has ended and students are being cited for sticker and parking violations, said John Duffy director of campus security.

The parking areas are marked and the letter on the parking sticker must correspond with the designated letter on the parking signs. Parking stickers may be obtained at the Administration Building.

Coed Gets Title As Valley Queen

ASU freshman Sonia Moreno, 18, is the new "Reina del Valle" (Queen of the Valley). The queen represents the country's 160,000 Mexican - Americans.

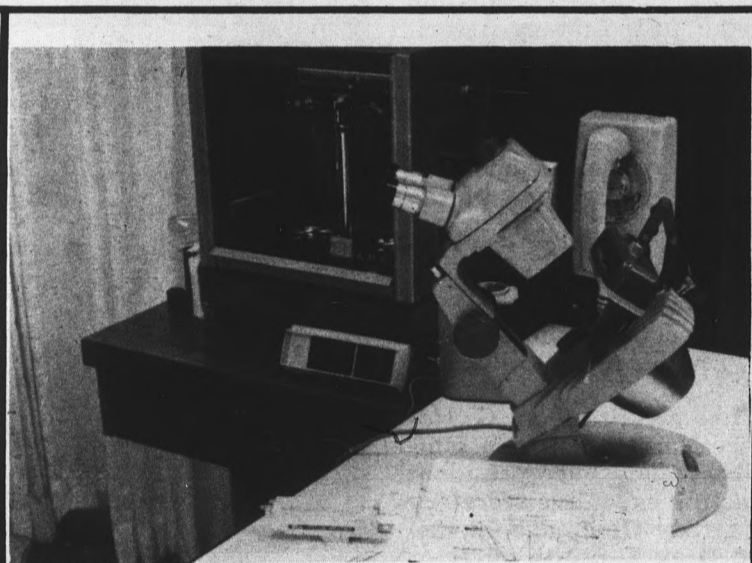

Miss Moreno won the contest over 15 other contestants. The contest was sponsored by the Descuentos Fiesta, Inc., one of the largest Mexican - American organizations in this area.

FOREIGN SERVICE

CAREERS

Mr. George Barraclough, Foreign Service Officer will be on campus Sept. 26 to discuss career opportunities.

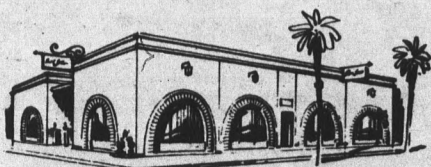

A film, "In Search of Peace," will be shown See your Placement Advisor for details.

Hayden Library Campus Effort

Not since 1956, when students solicited donations and the faculty pledged a percentage of its salary to help construct the MU, has a building received as much campus and community support as Charles Trumbull Hayden Library.

The five-story library has been the recipient of student body legislative allocations. Fraternities and sororities have donated funds for books. A committee of prominent Valley residents have formed to promote development of the collection. And, last semester, toads hopped for the library's benefit.

The $3,259,000 structure, heart of the University's educational system, opened its full services Sept. 19.

The 303 by 158 foot library, surrounded by a 30-foot dry moat, is named for the pioneer Arizonan who, while once waiting for the flooded Salt River to recede, sat atop what is now Tempe Butte and envisioned the town of Tempe which he later helped to establish.

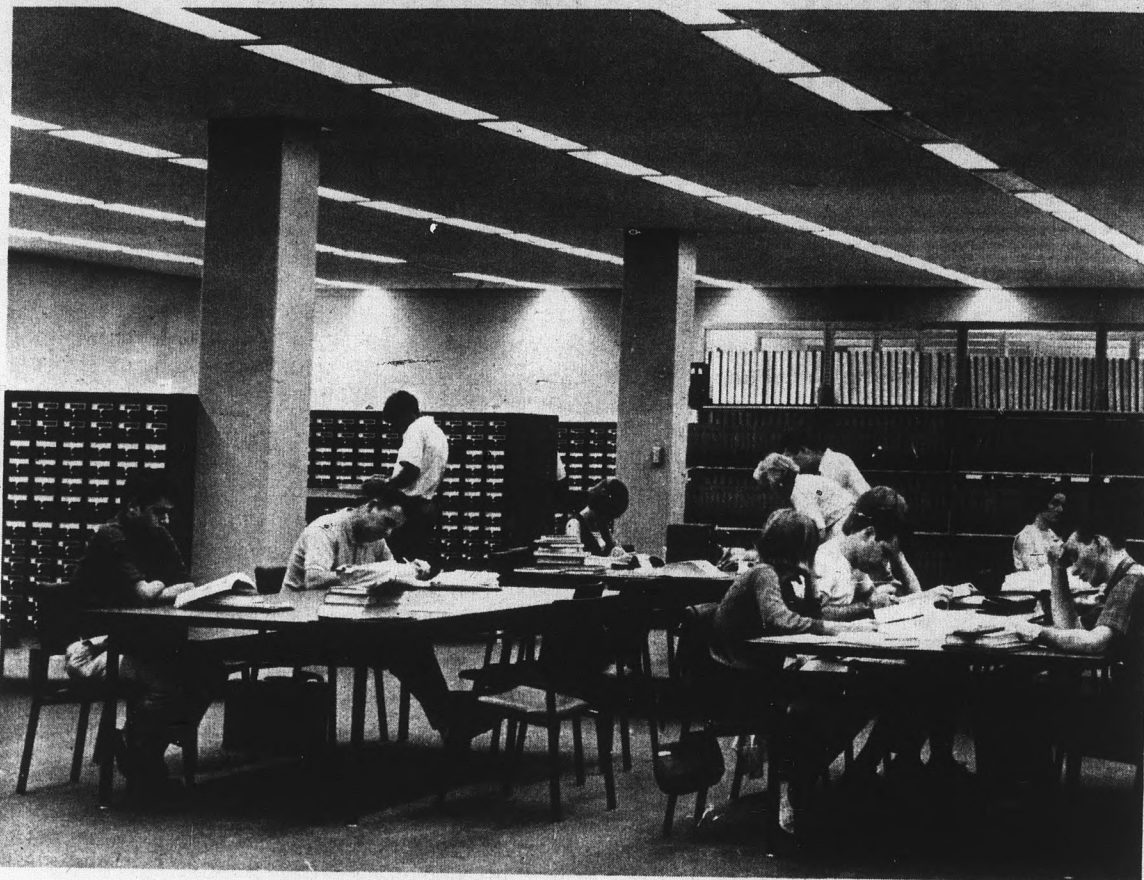

The new educational center has space to accommodate a million volumes which students help to purchase. During the summer and the first days of school, student helpers and library employees were busy moving books from the outgrown Matthews library to Hayden Library.

A recent survey by Dr. Alan Covey, University Librarian, emphasizes the University's needs for more books. ASU, he says, has about 26.5 volumes per student compared with 56.3 at the University of Arizona, 78 at Utah and 89 at Kansas.

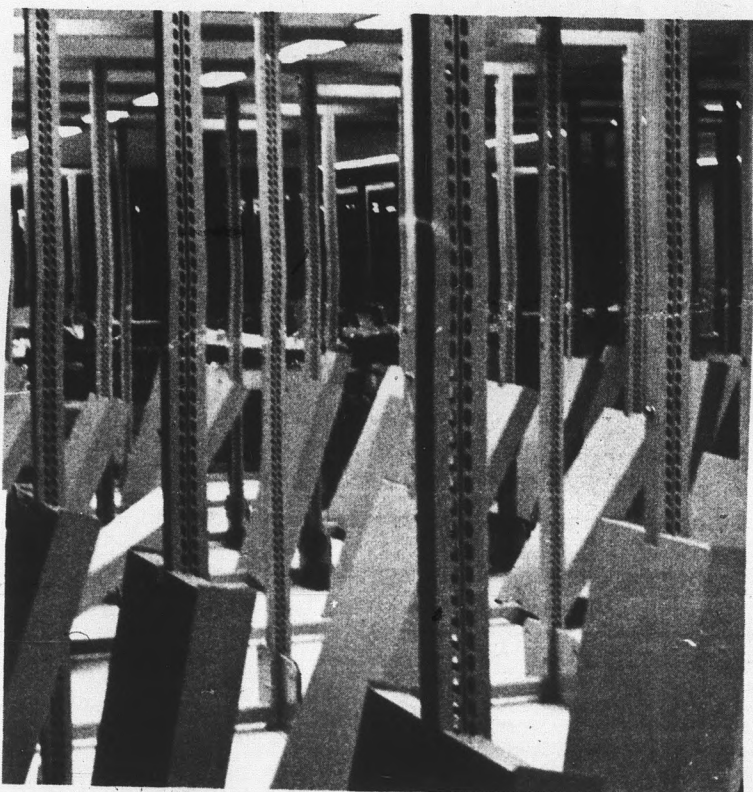

The University's budget allows it to catch up at only 1.6 volumes per student per year, compared with 3.1 as the average for comparable university libraries. Hence, the compelling need for outside support.

The student senate, recognizing the need for books, has appropriated $35,000 for their purchase.

In addition, the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils donated $1,700 to purchase 400 fiction and non-

Second level card catalog and study room

Future Shelving on fifth floor fiction works to start a recreational reading collection. The books form a nucleus of a proposed collection of 1,500 general interest books to be shelved on the library's second floor.

Another $700 was raised for the library when the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity donated proceeds from its annual toad hop. The toads wore banners of student organizations, alumni, and local businesses. Another example of student support was $100 received from two national social sororities which were colonized on campus last spring.

The most recent addition to the library is formation of an organizing committee for the ASU Library Associates, a group that will help develop the library as a prominent part of community cultural life. The group also will encourage gifts, endowments, collections and memorials for the library.

Edward M. Carson, administrative vice president of the First National Bank of Arizona, is chairman of the organizing committee. Members are Royal Alderman, Gary Driggs, Chet Goldberg, Jr., Mrs. John E. Griffith, Dr. C. Lester Hogan, Mrs. John M. Jacobs, Richard G. Kleindienst, Sam Mardian, Mrs. Allen J. Rosenberg, Mrs. Henry Sargent, Jr., and Mrs. Roger C. Thomas, all of Phoenix; H. Richard Poynter, Tempe, and William C. Turner, Scottsdale.

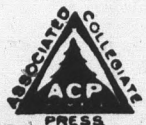

ASU officials on the committee are President G. Homer Durham; Dr. Covey, Dr. Brice Harris, chairman, University Library Committee; Gilbert Cady, vice president for business affairs; Don Dotts, acting executive secretary of the alumni association; Mrs. Grady Gammage, associate director of development, and Dean E. Smith, director of development and publications.

Sahuaro Waits; Seniors Should Hurry for Pics

If all the seniors who have had their 1967 Sahuaro portraits taken since Monday were laid end to end, they wouldn't make a very long line, according to Alan Frazier's Sahuaro adviser.

As of noon yesterday, only 15 seniors whose last names begin with A or B had their portraits taken.

No appointment is necessary for the photograph but seniors must go to the ASU Photo Service, located in Matthews Hall behind the old library, the day of the alphabetical scheduling. Other than makeup dates, this schedule will be followed as published daily in the STATE PRESS.

Sitting fees for yearbook photographs at other universities have been a common practice. At ASU, the students have been fortunate that the studio has been able to withhold the charge for this long. Sitting fees at other schools run from as low as $1 to more than $5.

The Sahuaro staff has expressed a desire that all seniors who expect to graduate in January, May, or August, respond and have their portraits taken. The sitting requires only about 10 minutes.

The Photo Service will be open for senior portraits from 8 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. This Saturday is a make-up date for all students whose last names begin with letters A through C, that otherwise didn't make the regular schedule. The studio will be open from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for that purpose.

Fans Evaporate Then Reappear

By JOHN WALLACE

Sun Devil fans are similar to fans everywhere. They forgive and they forget, but especially, they forget.

The first ten minutes against the Miners seemed to set what would be the pattern of the game, and at the half it was Texas Western over ASU 19-7.

The ASU spectators were somewhat disappointed, and had something to say about it. In fact, they had a lot to say about it.

THE CRITICISM was on three fronts. The first, and most common, was the most general. It was like the man who turned to his wife and asked, "Where's the line?" His spouse gave him one of those blank smiles that women have made famous at sports encounters.

"It's the offensive line and the defensive secondary that's killing us," wailed one distressed sophomore. The big yell was against the Sun Devils' offensive guards and tackles. "Their quarterback can wait as long as he wants," mused one blonde coed, "but Goodman has to throw right away, or else he gets it."

Then there were complaints about Goodman himself. "He's too slow, he can't throw, he doesn't use his blockers, and he can't run the team." And so the abuse came, thick and fast. Next under fire was Coach Kush, for a sin of omission. "All those PC boys going out of state," complained one distraught fan. "Look at 'em. Wallace, Carr, McHenry. Kush didn't want any of 'em!"

BUT IT WASN'T all criticism. "Stevens throws as good a forward pass as I've ever seen," was one honest fan's remark. "Look at Wallace," was another comment. "That guy does everything!" One spectator was amazed by the Miners' fullback, Leroy Johnson. "That man must think he's in the pros. He goes over guys instead of trying to get around them."

So, amidst the grumbling, complaining and criticizing, the second half began, and 30 playing minutes later, the good guys were the good guys again.

Soccer Group Forms Tonight

The ASU Soccer Club will begin organizing for the 1966-67 campaign with a meeting tonight at 7 in the MU senate chamber.

It is necessary that anyone interested in playing for, or belonging to the club, be present at this first meeting. The alternative is to contact club president Bill Allen.

The team last year won the "Knock-out" cup in their league's round robin. The club took second in the league championship.

The team renews its rivalry with its toughest competition of last year, Luftwaffe and Hollandia in an expanded league this season.

The new teams are the University of Arizona, Yuma, International German Americans and Vienna Kitchens.

Coed Volleyball Match Date Set

The Women's Recreation Association is sponsoring an All-University Women's Open Volleyball Tournament October 4, 5, and 6.

Entries for the team competition, due on September 27, should be turned in to the WRA office in the new women's gym.

Sorority Division competition will be on October 11, 12 and 13. These entries are due Tuesday, October 4.

KEY MAN — Quarterback John Goodman was named our candidate for "WAC Back-of-the-Week" for his fine passing performance against Texas Western last Saturday night. Goodman completed 17 of 31 passes for three touchdowns in leading the Devils to a 30-26 victory.

RODEO CHAMPS — Susan Hamman, Barbara Swedlund and Janiece Johnson admire the trophies won in the regional rodeos. The National Championship trophy the group received last summer is on display in the MU trophy case.

Girl Rodeo Team Earns Championship

By LINDA COTTAM
Assistant Society Editor

Expert goat-tying and speedy barrel racing helped the University's three-member girls' rodeo team to win the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Championship at Vermillion, S. D., last summer.

Susan Hamman, senior, and Barbara Swedlund, junior, both education majors, and Janiece Johnson, a spring graduate in physical education, won the title for the Sun Devil Rodeo Association by totaling up 215 points at the rodeo arena at the University of South Dakota. Their closest competitor was Midwestern University in second place with 125 points.

IT IS THE first time the national championship has been won by any ASU rodeo team.

Miss Hamman placed third in a "go around" of barrel racing, and Miss Swedlund won a first place and a fourth place in goat-tying "go arounds." Miss Johnson placed fourth and second in the goat-tying "go arounds" and went on to win second place in the final goat-tying event.

The team won their eligibility to enter the national finals by acquiring the highest number of points of any team in the West Coast region, which includes California, Arizona and Nevada.

The Sun Devil men's team was also eligible, but did not enter the finals.

During the last of November the ASU team will put on the annual rodeo for the West Coast region.

9 Couturiers' Works Form Show Tonight

"Phi Beta Cool," a fashion show featuring collections of nine world famous fashions designers, will be presented tonight at 8:15 in Gammage Auditorium.

Sponsored in part by ASU's home economics department, the show will include the works of the following designers:

Jenny Bell of New York; Melba Hobson of New York; Patrick De Barentzen of Rome; Maurice Attwood of London; Philippe Heim of Paris; Nora of Rome; Simonetta of Paris; Jonathan Burn and John Steiner of London and Eve Stillman of New York.

Twelve New York models will participate in the college-oriented show. Men's fashions will be modeled by six ASU students including Bob Walker, Gil Smith, Rodger Ross and Frank Lacey.

Tickets are available to students at the home economics department, the Memorial Union or Gammage Auditorium at $1. Proceeds will go to a scholarship for an ASU fashion student.

Research Evidence Says Smoking Shortens Life

By SUSAN ARNOLD

People who smoke two packs of cigarettes a day will behave physiologically like a 56-year-old when they reach 40 said Dr. J. Toohey, associate professor of Health education recently.

Dr. Toohey, who taught at the University of Illinois, has more grim and eye-opening facts to relate. The New York University Medical School estimates that smokers of more than one pack a day absorb 1.7 pints of tar each year.

The fact that 98 percent of lung cancer victims are smokers is revealed by the American College of Chest Physicians.

Even heart disease increases progressively with the rate of daily cigarette consumption and inhalation.

In seven major studies on the effect of smoking on life span by the Advisory Committee to the Surgeon General all reports arrived at the same conclusion — smoking shortens life.

Dr. Toohey attacks the widespread belief that smoking calm nerves. "Perhaps what appears to be a restful influence is actually the alleviation of nervousness that has developed because the person has gone a period of time without smoking." An experiment at George William College showed that with some people, unsteadiness increased 100 percent immediately after smoking two cigarettes.

Even in the past smoking has been warned against. In 1624 the Pope threatened to excommunicate smokers. The Turks gave smokers the death penalty and Russia had smokers flogged, their noses slit, and then packed off to Siberia. Now, only nature stands in the way of smoking.

One of the reasons that smoking is so popular today is because young people identify with the glamorous image presented by advertising. Another difficulty is that smokers receive immediate satisfaction which reinforces the habit. Non-smokers don't receive their reward, a longer and healthier life, until 20 years later.

So, if you must smoke in spite of the condemning evidence, Dr. Toohey gives these three tips;

- (1) Don't inhale.
- (2) Don't smoke the cigarette to its very end.
- (3) Don't light cigarette butts; they are loaded with nicotine.
