

FEW SEATS — Devil's Den has few seats open during daily class periods. At periods from 9:30 a.m. until after 3 in the afternoon, seating is difficult to find. The patio area, which offers several tables in the sun, is usually crowded during the rush periods. Plans for expansion of the MU, to include the Den, are under consideration now but no action is expected before 1967.

MU to Double Size Within Two Years

Plans are in the programming stages for a $2½ million expansion of the MU, according to John Ellingson, director of the Physical Plant.

The 100,000 square foot addition will double MU's present size.

Ellingson said that planning will take from six to eight months with approximately a year to a year and a half for construction. "It will be at least a couple of years before the addition will be ready for use."

The actual construction will be south of the present MU and north of Goodwin Stadium and the proposed business addition. Funds for the project will come from selling $2 million in bonds with approximately $650,000 to come from food services.

Many of the facilities presently in the building will be re-assigned or re-enlarged. "There will also be several new uses to the building," Ellingson stated.

Senate Petition Reaction Slow

Only four freshmen and two graduates have taken out petitions for senate seats, according to Ellen Shanhan, election board chairman. The deadline for petition pickup is next Wednesday.

Miss Shanhan said that in past elections, a minimum of 15 students took out petitions for the two seats for each class. "If a freshman has any desire to become involved in student government, this is the perfect opportunity," said Miss Shanhan.

There will be a candidate orientation meeting next Thursday at 4 p.m. in MU 211,

Greek Pledges Up This Year

By RICK SWITZER

Even with current figures not yet up to date, the number of pledges taken by ASU fraternities this year exceeds last year's total by 27. So far, 369 men are on the IFC roster as compared with 342 last year.

Although pledging this year is up, total participation is down. Only 650 prospective Greeks plodded through formal rush this year as compared to 724 hardy souls just one year ago.

DURING THE COURSE of this year, a greater stress was put on housing than ever before. There is a great deal of difference between Alpha Row houses and Adelphi Row houses and this difference was reflected by both the rush program in each house and the results of it. The consensus of several rush participants indicates they received much less personal attention on Alpha Dr. than on Adelphi. They were, however, taken on more extensive tours in the Alpha houses, and points, such as newness, size, and less administrative control, were stressed.

Having a new house to live in apparently makes more sense to a rushee than living in one a few years old. Even losing a $25 dorm deposit makes little difference. This idea is substantiated by current figures now in the IFC office. The houses on Adelphi Dr. pledged an average of 14 men apiece, while Alpha Dr. houses pledged over twice as many with an average of 29.

The short length of time in which a rushee has to decide on a fraternity may have a lot to do with the number pledging the new houses, since first impressions are always important.

Agents Seize Drug Cache

State narcotics officers yesterday disclosed the seizure of an estimated $10,000 worth of marijuana, LSD and other drugs in a residence near campus, according to the Phoenix Gazette.

Narcotics agents arrested Paul E. Simon, 26, at his home, a former fraternity house at 108 W. University Drive. Simon and his wife, Cynthia, 22, were taken into custody on warrants charging illegal possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Capt. Phil Morgan, head of the narcotics section of the State Liquor Control Department, said drugs were hidden in almost every room of the two-story building.

The drugs included 12 pounds of marijuana, a bottle of the hallucinatory drug, LSD; peyote, various types of stimulant and dangerous drugs, herbs and other drugs the agents were unable to identify. Two sacks contained dried mushroom which when chewed produce a hallucinatory effect, according to the raiding officers.

The couple were booked into Maricopa County Jail shortly after their arrest at 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

Records show Simon had been arrested in Phoenix in August 1964, police claiming they found 8-foot-tall marijuana plants growing up the sides of his house at 1411 N. 43rd Place. At that time he was a student at ASU. He was convicted and given a year's probation.

The raid was a joint operation of state agents and Phoenix police, who developed the information which led to the arrests.

ASU's Phoenix Classes Commence Next Month

Arizona State University's Phoenix Downtown Extension Center opens Oct. 3, with a class schedule of 20 courses, according to Vice-President Joseph C. Schabacker.

All but two of the courses will be held at 302 W. Washington St. in a building leased from the City of Phoenix. The building is located on the northwest corner of the intersection at W. Washington and 3rd Avenue.

TWO CLASSES in public administration will be held in the City Council Chambers conference room, 200 W. Jefferson St.

Each of the eighteen courses will be worth three semester hours of credit. Students wishing to audit classes may do so.

In addition, are offered, two non-credit courses, a class in management training beginning Oct. 4, and a course designed for executive housekeepers of hotels, motels, hospitals and restaurants starting Oct. 5.

REGISTRATION will be at the first meeting of the classes, Oct. 3 through 6, according to Dr. Roy C. Rice, dean of the ASU extension division.

Parking will be available on streets adjacent to the center, or in the public parking lot one-half block south of the building.

The college credit courses will be held from 7 to 9:40 p.m. starting Monday, Oct. 3 and include:

Oct. 3: The North American Indian; Contemporary Latin America; Phonics and Lower Elementary Reading; a Workshop in Modern Mathematics, Grades 1-8; a Workshop in behavior Problems in the Classroom; American Art.

Oct. 4: Mathematics in the Elementary School; a Workshop in Improving the Teaching of Social Studies in the Elementary Schools; Safety Education; Public Personnel Administration (offered in the City Council Chambers).

Oct. 5: a Workshop in Audio-Visual Materials and Proceed-ures; Survey of American Music; Public Administration (City Council Chambers); and Business Law.

Oct. 6: Orientation to Education of Exceptional Children; Business and Professional Speech; a Workshop in Music and Creative Materials for Elementary Schools; Electronic Data Processing.

Additional course information may be obtained from the ASU extension office in Tempe.

Students Protest at UofA; Paper Ceases Publication

University of Arizona's student newspaper, The Arizona Daily Wildcat, ceased publication yesterday.

Twenty-five journalists, including the major editors, submitted their resignations to Sherman Miller, head of the journalism departments at the UofA and faculty adviser for the Wildcat, according to The Arizona Republic.

"THEY WERE protesting interference in the management of their paper by non-teaching people at the Student Union which controls the pursestrings of the paper," Miller said, according to The Republic. "The kids are burned up about the fact we have to publish in a different print shop," Miller said.

In a telephone interview with State Press yesterday, Bill Woodruff, editor of the Wildcat, said "things are up in the air right now. We have come to no conclusions as of yet."

Miller said that officials at the Student Union, in an effort to save $7,000 on a printing contract, let it to Hi-Color Lithographers.

MILLER SAID that the job of putting the paper together at the print shop normally should take from two to three hours. "Instead, he said, 'it's been dragging on for 12 or 14 hours.'" He said that the journalism students have no time to study when it takes that long to complete the paper.

Miller stressed that the students "aren't mad at the journalism department."

JEWISH HOLIDAYS —

Yom Kippur Celebration Ends Jewish New Year

As Yom Kippur, the day marking the end of the Jewish New Year, begins tomorrow at sundown, millions of Jews will celebrate the "birthday of the world" by praying and fasting for 24 hours.

Rosh Hoshanah, the holy day which begins the Jewish New Year, was celebrated last Thursday and Friday.

DURING THE "day of affliction," Yom Kippur, the Jewish refrain from eating, drinking, bathing, massaging, and wearing shoes, even when it occurs on the Sabbath. In the synagogue, the altar cloths, maroon on the Sabbaths and blue on festivals, are changed to white, the symbol of purity.

Serving as the prelude to Yom Kippur is the Kol Nidre chant, led by the cantor and recited just before the sun sets tomorrow.

THIS CHANT is a prayer for absolution, even though all the prayers of Yom Kippur cannot absolve a man from sins against his neighbors; only a forgiving neighbor can do so.

Then on the actual Day of Atonement the ritual includes a portion which forgives all the sins committed by the worshippers present.

World-Traveled Colonel Selected To Direct Aerospace Department

Colonel Robert W. McFadden has accepted the position of chairman of the Department of Aerospace Studies at ASU.

Commissioned in the Army Air Corps in 1942, Colonel McFadden served in the South Pacific during World War II. After the war, he served in a number of different and interesting places, among these, the Canal Zone, France, and Southeast Asia.

"AN ASSIGNMENT to an ROTC unit is one of the most important duties an Air Force officer can be given," said Colonel McFadden. "I considered myself fortunate to have been

18 Latin American Visitors Guests of Student Board

Eighteen students and faculty members from the University of Sonora arrived on campus today for the second annual exchange of visits with Arizona State University.

During their three day visit the students and faculty from Hermosillo, Mexico will tour the campus as guests of the University's International Student Relations Board.

Five law students and an interpreter from Cauca, Colombia, South America, ended a three-day visit on campus last Saturday as part of a program sponsored by the U. S. State Department.

According to Bill Sage, chairman of the International Student Relations Board, the objective of these visits is "to help these international groups, through informal discussions and seminars, achieve a better understanding of American higher education in action."

Pi Delta Epsilon Meets Tomorrow

The campus chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism honorary, will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow at 2:40 p.m. in MU 7.

A description of the organization's purpose and yearly activities will be followed by refreshments.

All members, from this and other universities, as well as all interested persons with at least second semester sophomore standing are invited to attend.

Two things have made the student dig into his pocketbook a little deeper this semester. One is the high cost of new automated equipment and the other the increase in student enrollments.

These two things have combined to increase the tuition fee from $115 to $143 for Arizona students, $440 to $550.50 for non-resident students and the parking fees from $2 to $5 for all students.

The State of Arizona has become greatly concerned over "economizing" and in effect has cut the budgets in every state, county and city organization. It also affected the University budget by $535,722 as reported in the Sept. 13 issue of the State Press.

Currently the University is doing everything possible to regain the lost revenue, while still taking as much care as possible to provide for the approximately 2,300 new students enrolled this semester. One of the ways to offset rising costs was to raise the tuition fees approximately 13 per cent according to the University President's office.

Most students would like to know where this 13 per cent is going and if there was any other way to defray the increasing costs per student.

As simply as possible, the $28 increase can be broken down into six areas: (1) $10 is slated for the construction of new educational facilities; (2) $2 is for the entertainment arts; (3) $1 for stadium debt retirement; (4) $2 for MU debt retirement; (5) $9 for operational costs; and (6) $4 for special surveys.

The increase in the parking fee will help pay bills for paving parking lots and to insure better University security, and at a later date, aid in the construction of split level parking facilities. The cost for non-resident students increases proportionately to the figures except in parking and security.

Was the increase absolutely necessary? Dr. Gilbert Cady, vice president for business affairs, says yes. He points out that with "Arizona growing like it is, there is great pressure for the tax dollar." The $10.50 property tax (Tempe) can't meet the needs of the state, and it can hardly be raised without the people getting up in arms, said Cady.

He also said the cost of buying necessary automated equipment for study and research is extremely expensive.

At ASU "our dollar cost per student is extremely low as compared to other academic institutions," continued Cady. "because we are concerned about high costs to the student and do not wish to deprive him of the greatest educational opportunity that any generation of young people has ever had in the history of the world."

So, if there is any real alma mater spirit left at this University, the student will accept the increased cost as a necessary evil and later when his education pays off — and undoubtedly will — he might aid the "younger generation" who will face even greater financial burdens in the future.

We can count ourselves "lucky."

A Salute!

Dr. Collice Portnoff, professor of English, and long time member of the Board of Publications and friend of the State Press, has been reassigned to another advisory capacity by the University.

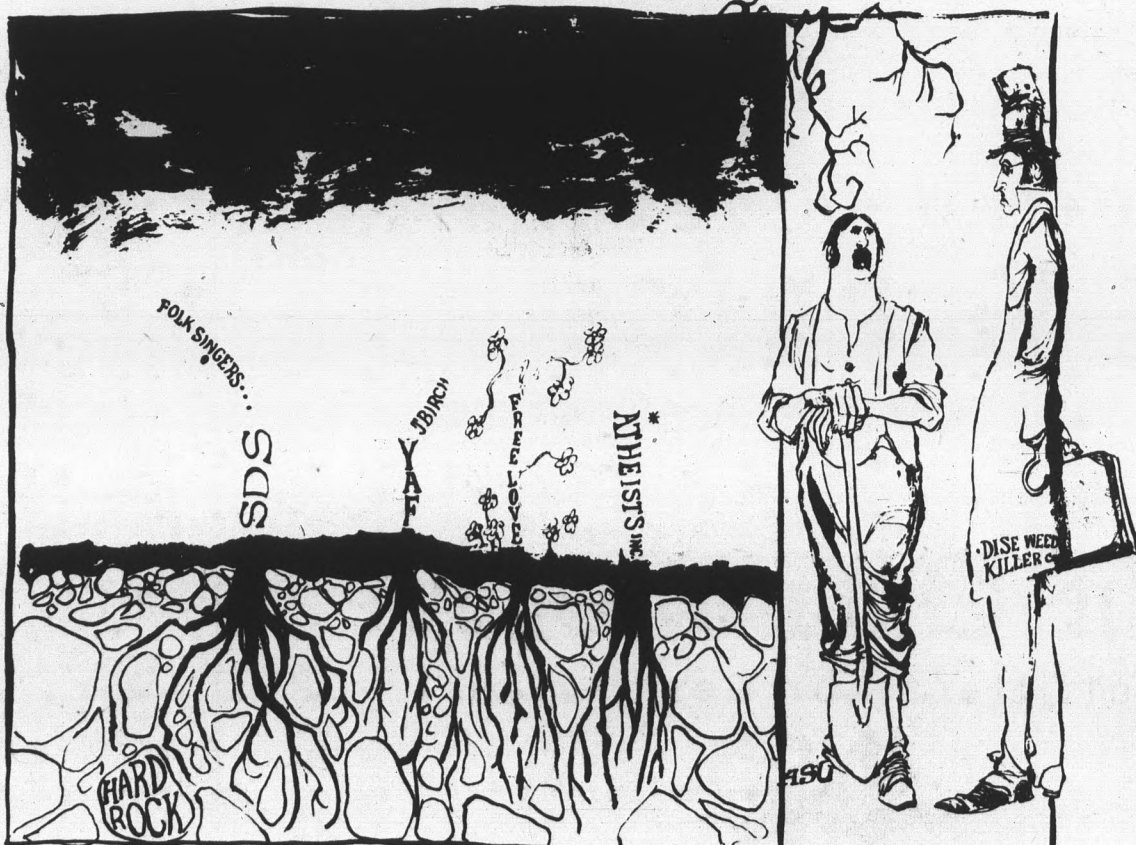

The members of the State Press staffs, both past and present, wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many times she has come to the aid of the newspaper. Dr. Portnoff, who believes that the students are truly the "Sine qua non" of any university became a member of the Board of Publications 16 years ago.

"She is the strongest kind of supporter of liberal news policies," said Professor Emeritus of Journalism Ernest (Hoppy) Hopkins, who founded the journalism department.

Dr. Portnoff, who holds an MA in English from University of California at Berkeley, an MA in Archeology, a PhD in Classics from Stanford and a fellowship in FAAR, a learned society in the classics in Rome, is truly a friend of every student at ASU. We of the State Press staff hope she will return to the board next year.

We salute you Dr. Portnoff.

Students! - Do you care?

Would you believe? Only five students have shown enough interest in the $31,000 left in the unappropriated balance to take the time to fill out the form below.

It seems to the State Press that $31,000 of student money laying around is very important, but to the students it hardly seems worth worrying about. Isn't it conceivable that with 22,000 students on this campus, more than five are interested in what their money is being used for? We hope so, and are rerunning the form again in the slim hope that this time students will take time to think of a few ideas. Are ideas so hard to come by?

Letters to the Editor

FELLOW STUDENTS: We

are well aware of the $28 increase in tuition fees. We are well aware of the rising costs of our necessities. We are well aware of the difficulties involved in meeting all of the demands of the inflationary spiral.

As students of ASU, we must question the extent to which our fine university is actively striving to aid us. We are duly proud of our new library, College of Nursing, and P.E. facilities, and of the projected Law School and dormitory.

But let us investigate other areas of spending which deeply affect the average student:

(1) Cafeteria food is neither cheaper nor better than last year or than some of the neighborhood eating establishments.

(2) The cost of off-campus student parking stickers has risen from $2 to $5, yet we have fewer parking spaces and more students. In addition, it costs another $5 per student for a second car — as if he can drive more than one car at a time or use more than one space at a time.

(3) In many circles of campus life, a top football team is desirable. But does this reconcile the fact that 38 members of the football team have been recruited from out of state (11 from Pennsylvania alone) and only six from Arizona?

If the directors of this policy deem it essential, in the best interests of the student body, to allot large sums for recruiting players, let us at least give priority to our own Arizona boys. Out state (and the valley in particular) has matured past the stage when people believed that anyone from out of state was either an expert or at least better qualified than one locally produced.

As ASU students, we realize that our school is not ranked among the best in the country, and that it has been called good, "for a western school." But at our present rate of growth we should receive the national recognition which we deserve by 1980, and our degrees will shine brightly.

To facilitate our rise to prominence, we must spend huge sums of money, but we must also reduce spending in unnecessary areas and lighten the growing burdens of the student. We are, in a sense, "buying" our education — and we must look more closely at exactly what we are paying for.

M. J. NODIFF

Digest Offers Data From L. America

A new bimonthly publication has been initiated by the Center for Latin American Studies. Dr. Marvin Alisky, center director, will edit the new paper, called the "Latin American Digest."

The publication is designed to keep scholars around the state and nation up to date on major political, economical and social trends in Latin American.

THE SEPTEMBER issue reports the political crisis in the Mexican state of Durango, the campaign for equal pay for women in Sonora, the story of a French labor leader in Cuba and many other topics.

The digest is based upon reports from leading Latin American newspapers and magazines, excerpts from radio broadcasts, government news releases and other sources.

"We try to use triangulation," Dr. Alisky said. "If a major news item appears in a Latin American newspaper, also in U. S. wire service reports or the Chase Manhattan Bank bulletin or a reliable news magazine, the item gets marked for the digest."

WHEN THREE sources agree in their versions, the item, if significant, goes into the digest, Dr. Alisky explained.

Wisconsin Economist First S & H Lecturer

The University has been selected to participate in the Sperry and Hutchinson Company Foundation Lectureship Program.

The first lecture, open to the public at no charge, will be presented at 8 p.m. Oct. 17 in the MU Ballroom.

Speaker for the first of the four lectures will be Professor Jack Barbash, an economist at the University of Wisconsin, who will speak on "Changing Role of Labor Unions."

Grants are given to universities by the S & R Foundation to bring to the campus prominent speakers in public affairs and social sciences.

The grants serve the dual purpose of enriching established curricula and strengthening and extending the influence of the university by the presentation of public lectures by the visiting speakers.

According to Dr. William H. Huizings, acting dean, College of Business Administration, the theme of the program is "The Changing American Business System."

The other public lectures will be given by Cloud Wampler, former chairman of the board, Carrier Corporation, Syracuse, New York; Professor Dale Yoder, Stanford University, speaking on "Then Changing Role of Management;" and Professor Roland I. Robinson, professor of finance and economics, Michigan State University, who will speak on "The Changing Role of Financial Institutions."

Announcement of the dates and times for future programs will be made at a later date.

Dr. Nielander To World Parley On Public Relations

Dr. William A. Nielander, professor of marketing at Arizona State University, will attend the seventh inter-american conference of the Interamerican Federation of Public Relations Associations, Sept. 26 to 30, in Mexico City.

Slated for discussion at the conference are the formation of a world federation of public relations associations; education for public relations; and the possibility of developing an international business language.

Dr. Nielander is a director of the Arizona chapter of the Public Relations Society of America.

Bits and Pieces

LAW

A 63-volume set of "Arizona Reports" was recently presented to the new College of Law. The gift was presented by W. B. Barkley, former Arizona Speaker of the House and member of the Sun Angels' board of directors.

Leslie A. Marchand

Richard C. Dahl, law librarian and professor of law accepted the gift and stated that the multi-volume set would be a welcome addition to the law library.

BYRON AUTHORITY

Dr. Leslie A. Marchand, an authority on the poetry of Byron, has joined the faculty as visiting professor of English. Professor of English at Rutgers since 1953, he is the author of a three-volume biography on Byron.

ENCYCLOPEDIA

Of 640 contributing authors to the "Encyclopedia of Chemistry," recently published by Reinhold Publishing Corp., New York, Dr. R. T. Sanderson, professor of chemistry, is one of three writers cited in the preface for contributions to the volume. He is author of six articles in the publication.

COORDINATOR

Jack E. Stadmler, assistant professor of technical communications, has been appointed coordinator of student advisement in the College of Engineering.

Stadmler will assist the college's 2,100 undergraduates in the selection of major fields, choice of individual advisers, and in obtaining academic counseling available from other sources within the University.

Stadmler

Before joining the faculty in 1963, Stadmler had been dean of students and director of admissions and guidance at Eastern Arizona Junior College since 1958.

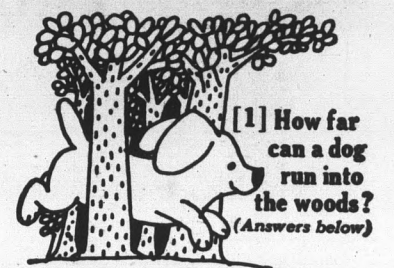

SIGMA XI

Dr. Harold B. Hunnicutt, assistant dean of the Graduate College, will speak to the University's chapter of the Society of the Sigma XI, national honorary research society, at 8 p.m. Monday in the Memorial Union. He will discuss "The Functions of the ASU Office of Research Grants and Contracts" in the meeting open to the public.

Drugs: Kicks, Secrecy, Danger, Inner Conflict

Drug usage among American teen-agers may not be as widespread as some fear, but it is not confined to the slums, or to a miniscule beatnik fringe.

According to a report in the September issue of Seventeen Magazine, based on 1,100 responses to a survey of girls, 13 to 20, from every state in the union:

5.5 percent surveyed (close to one out of every 18) have used drugs for other than medicinal purposes at least once;

Three out of 10 of these experimenters — one in every 61 girls studied — are still using drugs;

More than eight out of 10 of the regular users smoke marijuana . . . more than a third swallow pep pills almost a third take LSD and most are involved with more than a single drug;

These girls have little difficulty in securing drugs through illicit channels. A careful analysis of the teens' frank and anonymous answers to the four-page questionnaire also shows that:

Among girls who have tried drugs, half used amphetamines (pep pills); almost half, marijuana; one in five, LSD. About one in 10 sniffed glue or swallowed barbiturates. Three-fourths of the girls who have tried drugs did so between the ages of 15 and 17, but 18.0 percent were 14 or younger.

Almost half the girls in the sample have had at least indirect contact with drugs. 47.0 percent know a boy or girl who uses drugs, or know one they believe is using them.

Most teens have low opinions of other teens who try drugs, but most are highly curious about drugs. 95.0 percent have discussed the subject with friends, in school, with their parents, or in church.

Although most teens from average homes have enough knowledge of heroin to steer clear of it ("No kid in his right mind takes heroin," says one college freshman), some do not realize they are flirting with narcotics when they seek a drug high from non-prescription cough medicines.

Fewer than one in 10 of the surveyed teens who had tried drugs chose "goof balls" (teen vernacular for barbiturates, prescription sleeping pills), but the study shows, pep pills (amphetamines) are widely used by teens who underestimate their dangers. Some college students take them at exam time to keep awake for all-night studying and some mistakenly believe dextroamphetamine (a full-fledged amphetamine) is free from hazard. One student, who had four finals in three days, took "dex" to help her stay awake to study, a friend reports. The results: "she though she wrote a brilliant economics exam . . . found out later that she had just scrawled a single sentence, 'I am a sugar plum fairy,' all over the blue book."

Some girls who find it difficult to mix at a party take pep pills to get an exhilarating sense of hectic involvement. Others pop a few into their mouths before a date. One of these teens reported a "frightening reaction" — her mouth and neck became locked in a spasm, causing her to be hospitalized. The same girl tried a relaxant before a date and later "couldn't remember a thing that happened all evening."

A 17-year-old Virginian smokes marijuana ("blows pot") because I enjoy it and don't feel it's wrong," a college freshman because "everything is very nice . . . you have a constant smile on your face." An 18-year-old, who doesn't "like young marijuana smokers are in danger of moving on to the bigger bang of LSD and other drugs which alter the consciousness. These hallucinogens have a sharp fascination for teen-agers, particularly those looking for a gimmick to self-understanding.

A college freshman said "Taking drugs is the cool thing to do . . . It's in." Pressure from the crowd is another factor inducing teen-agers to try drugs. ("I couldn't say no, not be part of the group," explained a 15-year-old from Illinois.) In some schools, drug users form an exclusive clique ("It's something to do at a party and then brag about.").

Phrateres Pledges Over 50 In Early Morning Ceremony

Phrateres, off-campus women's organization, held its pledging ceremony last Tuesday at 6:30 a.m. in the MU upper lounge.

The 51 new pledges were given white mums to wear on campus Tuesday, and a breakfast of coffee and doughnuts was given in their honor in the MU Pagoda Room after the ceremony.

New Phrateres pledges include:

Mary Jane Bierman, Lila Burns, Linda J. Scheuneman, Joyanne Christoffersen, Vivien Crumbaker, Edythe Edgar, Millie Dobbs, Anila Bellville, Rita Gruner, Diann Wenger, Sally Ebeling, Carol Bucholz, Irene Marcus, Cheryl Ivans, Anita

Agan, Judy Wiens, Jeanne Lusier, Conselo Wager, Marr Redekop, Asleean Adams, Barbara Rudolph, June Grieff, Susan Bowman, Mary G. Hewett, Bernice Stansell and Susan L. Simons.

Also, Carleen Timbra, Susan McPeck, Judy Anderson, Anne La Zarr, Susan Boone, Kietha Eve Kroeismon, Roseann Danilewicz, Lorna Dillman, Karen McCarthy, Faith Ann Kocuba, Regina Nelm, Sandy Your, Frances High, Elizabeth Harrison, Annette Horwitz, Ruth Keene, Martha K. MacKison, Phyllis Starner, Sylvia Vasquez, Diane Miller, Nancy Swick, Patricia Tobin, Barbara Scott, Marilyn Poach, Barbara Jensen and Brenda Simpson.

Informal Rush Underway

Informal sorority rush is now underway. In order to participate, a coed must fill out a registration form in the office of the Associate Dean of Students in the MU.

Requirements include an enrollment load of at least 12 hours, a 2.2 college cumulative index, or a 2.5 grade index from high school, based on a 4 point scale with 4 the highest.

Informal rush will continue until the end of the semester. Panhellenic advises those coeds wishing to participate to fill out an application as soon as possible. The sororities will take it upon themselves to invite coeds to their parties as they schedule them.

Coed Golf Club to Begin Season

Parbusters, ASU's women's golf club, is now open to all coeds. The meetings will be held Mondays and Tuesdays, and practice sessions will include instructors to help improve games.

For further information concerning times and courses for practice, contact Miss Hardwick in room 206 of the new Women's Physical Education building.

WAC LINEMAN OF THE WEEK — Two-way star John Pitts was selected Tuesday as WAC lineman of the week for his outstanding play against Texas Western in last Saturday's 30-26 Sun Devil victory. A defensive specialist, Pitts also caught six passes for 51 yards and the first Devil TD.

Quarterbacks Rule In WAC Kingdom

This could be the Year of the Quarterback in the Western Athletic Conference.

With only one week gone in the football season, WAC quarterbacks have connected for seven touchdown passes as WAC teams won three of four non-conference games. The only loss for the conference was suffered by the U of A, 31-20 at the hands of Iowa, and in that game, the Wildcats got a record performance from starting quarterback Mark Reed.

Reed connected on 23 of 37 passes, both school records, for a net total of 211 yards and two TDs. His passing led a fourth quarter drive that almost won the game for Arizona. More remarkable is the fact that Reed set his records in spite of being benched during the second and third quarters.

The University of New Mexico Lobos appear to have abandoned their conservative style of football in favor of the wide-open pass game. Sophomore quarterback Randy Beitler led the Lobos to a 17-3 win over Utah State by hitting on TD strikes of 50 and 3 yards.

Wyoming quarterback Rick Egloff, who will match his arm against ASU's John Goodman in Laramie Saturday, hit on 16 of 28 passes for 195 yards against the Air Force. Included among his completions were two TD tosses.

Goodman, meanwhile, came out on top of his duel with Texas Western's Billy (the Kid) Stevens. The Sacramento senior matched Stevens' three touchdown passes as he completed 17 out of 31 with no interceptions.

As good as WAC quarterbacks were last week, the best may be yet to come, once Brigham Young begins its season. The Cougars are favored to take the conference crown this year, largely due to the return of their quarterback, Virgil Carter.

Carter was voted the WAC Back of the Year Award last season when he finished third in the nation in total offense. He holds more than thirty BYU and WAC records.

Utah also has yet to play its first game this year. The Redskins' quarterback situation is undecided. Two sophomores, Darrell Bigelow and Dick Wilson, are pushing last year's alternate QB, Jack Gehrke, for the starting assignment.

Sports Short

The Sun Devil Karate Club will give a demonstration this afternoon at 3:30 in the Cosner Auditorium cafeteria.

The club also will sponsor a beginning class in karate starting Saturday at 9 a.m. in the MPE Annex. All persons interested are invited to attend both these events.

Freshman basketball tryouts will begin Oct. 17 under frosh coach Bill Mann.

All freshmen and students with no previous college basketball experience are eligible.

The premier week's practice, Oct. 17-21, will be at 6 p.m. in the gym. Questions should be referred to Coach Mann.

'Lazo' Kentura To Evaluate Cowboy Game

Arizona State University alumnus Larry "Lazo" Kentura, in his first year as Sun Devil End Coach, will be welcomed "back home" Thursday noon when he speaks to the ASU alumni and boosters luncheon.

Sponsored by the Phoenix Alumni Chapter, the luncheon will be at the Ontra Cafeteria, 3033 North Central avenue, Thursday noon.

Kentura, who witnessed the University of Wyoming win over Air Force last weekend, will tell the luncheon group about the Cowboys, and what might be expected when the Sun Devils meet them in Laramie Saturday afternoon.

He will be introduced by Bob Vache, KTAR radio sportscaster, who announces the Sun Devils' games.

All alumni, members of the Sun Angel Foundation, and other boosters of ASU are invited to the luncheon, according to Danny Seivert, President of the Phoenix Alumni Chapter.

Tough Cowboys Nurse Grudge

By DAN GRIJALVA

Last Nov. 20, the University of Wyoming football team was leading the Western Athletic Conference and was the only undefeated team in league play. That night, the Cowboys took on Frank Kush's eighth Sun Devil team in Tempe and got stung, 14-10.

Eventually, Wyoming ended the season with a 6-4 won-lost record, and a third place standing in the conference.

SATURDAY NIGHT, Coach Lloyd Eaton's Cowboys will get a chance to avenge the loss that knocked them out of last year's pennant race, and this time the game will be played in Laramie, Wyo.

For the past few years Wyoming has been notorious for getting off to a good start, then fading in the second half of the season.

This year, a schedule break gives the Cowboys a chance to play four of their five league games at home in the first half of the season, and they now have the potential to make the break pay off.

Wyoming has a young man named Rick Egloff manning the quarterback post this year, and indications are that the senior scrambler may be more than most teams can handle.

In Saturday's 13-0 win over the Air Force Academy, Egloff completed 16 of his 28 passes for 195 yards and two touchdowns. Only one pass was intercepted.

IN ADDITION, he peeled off a 38-yard run to set up his second TD toss.

Unlike Texas Western's Billy

Stevens, who prefers to pass out of a protective pocket, Egloff likes to roll out and either pass or run, depending on what the defense does. He will be difficult for the Sun Devil front line to catch.

In addition to containing Egloff, the Devil defense will get its first real test of the season against a strong running game.

Wyoming has its six top rushers back from last year's team, including All-Conference tailback Jim Kiick, and a widely heralded sophomore named Vic Washington, who averaged 8.8 yards on Wyoming's undefeated freshman team last year.

This strong ground attack netted 237 yards against an experienced Air Force defense.

FINALLY, IN case the rest of the team has a hard time getting into the Devil end zone, Wyoming has the WAC's premier kicker in Jerry DePoyster, who last year led the Cowboys in scoring.

DePoyster can kick field goals from almost 50 yards out, and so far has averaged 41 yards per punt.

Provided the Devil defense can stop, or at least slow down, the Wyoming offense, ASU will need another good effort from Quarterback John Goodman to win in Laramie.

And, in order to get a good game from Goodman, the Devil offensive line — Shirey, Kane, Hummer, Lowe, Serignese — will have to do a better job of keeping the Cowboy defensive line out of the ASU backfield than it did against Texas Western.

English Professor Chosen To Pick $3,000 Fellowships

Dr. Brice Harris, professor of English, has been appointed a regional judge in the Book-of-the-Month Club Writing Fellowship Program.

Dr. Harris, former president of the National Council of Teachers of English, is one of three regional judges who will screen fellowships from Arizona, California, Hawaii, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon and Texas.

The program will award two fellowships of $3,000 each in each of the seven regions. The program is open to all students who will be seniors on Dec. 1, 1966. The applicant must be nominated by a member of the English department of his college.

Harry Scherman, chairman of the program, said that while there are many fellowships available for scientific and scholarly investigations, there are few available to the creative writer.

"It is our hope," Scherman said "that this program will help rectify this situation. We have designed it to give the gifted senior an opportunity to develop his creative talents in the year following his graduation."

Application blanks and full information about the program may be obtained from the English department or by writing to Dr. Donald Sears, Director, Book-of-the-Month Club Writing Fellowship Program, c/o College English Association, Howard University, Washington, D.C. 20001.

Fantasy Theme For Homecoming

"World of Fantasy," the 1966 Homecoming theme, will be portrayed using mobile floats which will form a parade through campus and Tempe.

Float competition will be divided into three groups: Greek organizations and commercial. In the Greek division, two houses may combine their efforts in presenting a float, and in the organization and commercial divisions two or more groups may join together.

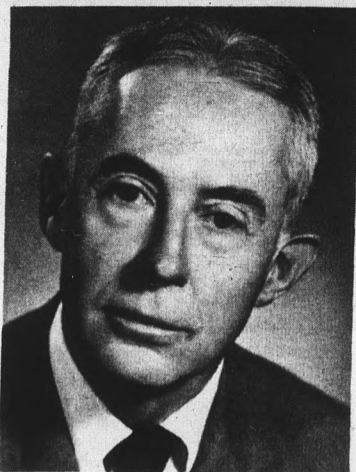

Lolly Williams and Terry Forsberg are co-chairmen of the steering committee which will hold meetings every Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in room 211 at the Memorial Union.

Boyd Receives Study Stipend

George A. Boyd, associate director of the Arizona State University Center for Meteorite Studies, has been awarded a National Science Foundation grant to participate through Sept. 30 in an international institute in Portugal on economic forecasting.

The Scientific Affairs Division of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Calouste Gulbenkian Foundation are the joint sponsors of the institute, "Economic Forecasting on a Scientific Basis."

Following the institute, which will be held at Curia, Portugal, Boyd will study the meteorite collection at the National Museum of Natural Sciences in Madrid, Spain.

Debate Team to Present Dummy Trial on Channel 8

A mock trial of United States foreign aid entitled "On Trial," will be presented by the ASU debate team in a program on KAET, Channel 8 this Saturday at 5:30 p.m. The trial will be conducted in a courtroom scene with pro's and cons presented before a jury; the audience.

Following the introduction by John Pacilio Jr., assistant debate coach, arguments will be presented by the defense attorney, played by team member Larry Stephan and by the prosecution attorney, played by Bill Walker.

The debate statement is; It is resolved that the United States should substantially reduce its foreign policy commitments.

THE HIGH POINT, according to Stephan, is the cross examination of witnesses. Witnesses for the prosecution are Glen Brooks, playing the part of Andrew Tully author of "Where does your money go," and David Stamat playing the part of Representative Otto Passman.

The witnesses for the defense are Connie Lundburg as Barbara Ward, a writer for the newspaper "British Economist," and Mark Wienberg in the role of David Bell, an administrator of the Agency of International Development.

The debate is the first of a series of dramatic presentations and selections performed by the readers theater to be performed on KAET over the year. The programs are directed for television by Bob Moats.
