Fee receipt cards which can be easily folded will be used as activity cards this semester.

Students who paid for their courses through the mail will have to pick up their cards in MU 207 anytime.

This procedure was initiated in order to eliminate one line for those registering to go through, according to Alan Frazier, yearbook advisor.

Housing in the Red; Rates Will Go Up

The housing office is in the red by over $150,000, reports Director of Housing Edward M. Hickcox.

Students in men's and women's residence halls will begin to pay off this deficit next September when room and board rates go up about 6 per cent.

According to Hickcox, the debt started to accumulate over a year ago, at the start of the 1965-66 fiscal year. It started when the labor strike halted work on the University's newest dorms, Sahuaro D and Best C. "We thought, and we were told that they'd be finished in September of '65," said Hickcox, "but the strike held things up. As a result, when school began, we had no income from either dorm. But at the same time, we had to put aside $20,000 in interest on the bond issue used to finance construction of the dorms."

BOTH BEST C and Sahuaro D were made available during the year, but the housing office found it hard to fill them at mid-semester.

The housing office was hit with a bill for $80,000 late in 1965 when a power utilization study revealed that residence halls were using more of the utilities than the housing office was paying for.

In short, housing was $100,000 in debt in the spring of last year. "Then there's that computer over there," mused Hickcox. "We've been assessed $40,000 a year as our share of the expenses of operating the data processing service and the business office services. Data processing will save money in the future, but not at the present."

"Plus, we're caught in an inflationary squeeze. The cost of

Senate Votes Change in PE Requirement

The Faculty Senate voted unanimously to end Physical Education as a requirement, and to establish the course as a general education elective at their Jan. 16 meeting.

Under the provisions of the new general catalog, "up to three semester hours in: HE 100 Healthful Living-3; PY 270 Mental Health-3; HE 460 School Community Health-3; and any physical education activity course may be used as general education electives."

In the future, physical education classes will meet three periods weekly. Students will receive one semester hour credit for each semester and letter grades will be awarded.

Click, Click—Computers Do the IBM Pick

Students who missed regular walk-through registration may register until Saturday, but will be charged a late fee of $10.

Registration materials may be obtained in the lobby of the Moer Administration Building from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Registration materials and class cards should be returned to the Administration Building for final registration and payment of fees.

Students who need to drop or add a class must obtain a form from the office which issues class cards for the course to be added or dropped.

The forms may be taken to the Moer Building to complete registration from Wednesday through noon Saturday.

maintenance and materials has increased, as have wages," said Hickcox. "We've beefed up the staffs in residence halls, in addition to extensive building modifications for dorm libraries."

HICKOX SAID rates did not go up at the start of the present fiscal year because rates had already been set and advertised and changes would have been difficult, if not impossible. As for the present semester, rates are never changed between semesters of the same fiscal year.

In correcting the $150,000 deficit, Sahuaro room and board rates will probably increase next year from the present $416 per semester to $443. Hickcox reports that $15 of the $27 increase will be toward room while the remaining $12 will go for added food expenses.

In erasing the deficit, Hickcox said cut-backs and short-cuts would probably be made in other areas, but he expressed concern over this sort of thing.

"The University has no business building dorms as places where students just eat and sleep," he said. "We are hard pressed to develop in residence halls a program which will contribute to a student's 'total education.'"

"We had to go through all last year before our total operation was clear to us," the housing director explained. "We knew early in 1966 that our budget was in this shape, but we thought we could avoid such a great loss."

Assistant to the Editor

Since the University's first refusal to officially recognize Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) in the fall of 1965, a study of "academic freedom" and student organization recognition procedures has been under way.

The results of this study are in the form of the Preliminary Report of the Student Organization Study (SOS) Committee, a report presently in the hands of University President G. Homer Durham, the Faculty Senate and, through serialization in State Press, the students.

A study of this kind was first suggested to President Durham by philosophy Professor Douglas G. Arner in the form of a Faculty Senate resolution. Arner was in favor of an ad hoc committee to review University procedure for recognizing student organizations.

In response, Durham created the SOS Committee in November of 1965.

He named to the committee 22 faculty members and six student Senators. Dr. Ross R. Rice, professor of Political Science, was appointed chairman.

Since the completion of the preliminary report in October of last year, the SOS Committee has solicited and received many suggestions, criticism and recommendations concerning the report.

"In our own committee, said Chairman Rice, "there's been a strong favorable consensus toward the report. Plus, we've received encouragement from student government officers and members of the faculty."

The Faculty Senate's reception of the preliminary report was favorable enough to bring about their unanimous recommendation that the final draft of the report be finished in April, along the lines of the preliminary draft.

"There is a central direction in the report," said Rice, "and I think it's 'academic freedom'."

Senators Will Deal Final Kick To Vetoed Soccer Budget Bill

By DICK GAZI

Student Government Writer

A soccer bill vetoed by AS President Bob McConnell will undergo the acid test in the Student Senate tomorrow at 3:45 p.m.

The measure appropriating $876 to cover this year's soccer team budget will need a two-thirds majority vote to pass.

MCCONNELL VETOED the bill because it was "out of order." In a letter to the senate, he listed several reasons for his decision.

He wrote, "if the soccer team were to legitimately request funds from the student activity fee, it would first have to receive statutory authorization from the Student Senate prior to submitting a budget request."

According to the bill, funds for the soccer team would be channeled through the International Student Relations Board. McConnell indicated the soccer squad is not part of ISRB.

HE ALSO ADDED, "There is no indication as to who, if anyone, is responsible for the money."

McConnell summed it up as "a poorly written, inadequately researched and unfortunately passed bill."

Questioning the means used for passing the bill, he said "The soccer team had already proved itself irresponsible in financial matters."

"Earlier this year, claiming to have funds assured through the student senate, they had the assistant staging and schedule manager of the Athletic Department order over one hundred dollars worth of equipment for them."

"IT WAS on their word that they would have the money that he made the order. They did not have any basis for this assumption, nor did they have any money to cover this expense. The invoice was then sent to the Athletic Department which had not authorized such an expenditure," he related.

McConnell said the Athletic Department did pay for the equipment.

Supporting his veto, he also said, "ISRB is carrying out a fine program this year and I would hate to see the senate force responsibility for unwanted funds upon them."

Senate Reapportioning Comes to Final Vote

The Student Senate will vote tomorrow on an Associated Students' constitutional amendment to reapportion the senate to 40 seats and include the AS first vice president and secretary as ex-officio members.

The amendment reads, "The Senate shall apportion the seats proportionately to the various colleges on the basis of their respective enrollments; no college having less than one seat."

The amendment would apportion the senate as such: liberal arts, 13; fine arts, 1; education, 11; engineering, 6; business administration, 7; architecture, 1; and nursing, 1.

"The Senate shall reapportion the seats not later than March 1, of each school year," states the amendment.

If the amendment does pass, it will be referred to a student-faculty committee for further study.

SPECIAL REPORT

Buckley Evaluates Politicians

By DAN MURPHY

William F. Buckley Jr., effluent advocate of conservative thought, captivated a crowd of Phoenix newsmen Thursday with his clever evaluations of prominent political personalities.

"Rich vocabulary follows our rich patrimony of thought," began in author and host of "Firing Line," a weekly televised debate, in reply to an opening challenge of his lofty language. "Complex ideas are expressed by complex thoughts."

AFTER HIS opening retort, Buckley methodically summed his opinions of Lyndon Johnson, Republican governors Ronald Reagan and George Romney, and New York Mayor John Lindsay.

To a query about the candidacy of Lyndon Johnson in 1968, Buckley replied, "My opinion is that Lyndon Johnson would run for president of any country that would nominate him."

The controversy in California over loss of confidence in and firing of Clark Kerr was seen by Buckley as a result of hasty action by Reagan.

"Unless a chancellor knows that money will be available to pay the staff he hires," Buckley said, "he will not be able to hire and hold top help."

However, Buckley pointed out that Kerr was fired by the Board of Regents, those who worked closest with him, at a vote of 14 to 8 (only three of which could be linked to Reagan).

"It would be an insult to the profession to think that a successor to Kerr's position at the University of California could not be found."

Describing the peculiarities of Romney, governor of Michigan, Buckley remarked, "It could be that his mind is constantly evolutionizing or maybe he gets ambiguous signals from another world. You know, they say in Washington that he wants to use the White House as a stepping stone."

In a brief characterization, Buckley described Lindsay, mayor of New York City, as "Unable to solve rudimentary problems because of his attachment to too many predispositions."

Buckley, publisher of National Review, then handled the audience's questions concerning world politics. In each case he deftly applied the principles of conservatism.

An embargo on Rhodesia is seen as "an act of abstract stupidity that will damage world faith in the United Nations. The black people in that country are the ones that will suffer from such an embargo."

Buckley foresees problems in either side winning the China revolution. "We gain from the factional differences between Russia and China," which are likely to be changed by either warring faction.

The meeting concluded with a discussion of Adam Clayton Powell, congressional representative from Harlem who is now facing removal from office and who Buckley said "Never lets you down." He expressed hope that "since the charges are serious against Powell, politics will not enter into any decision about him."

STATE PRESS is published by Arizona State University as the official campus newspaper every Tuesday through Friday during the school year, except holidays and examination periods, and is entered as second class matter at Tempe, Arizona, 85281.

SOS REPORT TEXT

This is the first part of a serialization of the text of the blue ribbon Student Organization Study Committee which was appointed by President Durham to study student academic freedom at ASU. The report has been forward to the president by the Faculty Senate with its "general approval of the substance and direction" of the report.

* * *

Under the Constitution and the laws of the state of Arizona, jurisdiction and control over Arizona State University are vested in the Arizona Board of Regents. Such jurisdiction and control confers upon the Board of Regents and its agents—the president, administration, and faculty—the broadest possible kind of legal authority to regulate student life, subject only to the requirement that the exercise of this authority be guided by constitutional standards of reasonableness. In exercising its authority over student life the University, in addition to observing the legal standard of reasonableness, should be guided by considerations of educational policy.

MORE ABOUT — Academic Freedom Study

"The first half of the paper is adapted from a statement by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) on Faculty Responsibility for the Academic Freedom of Students. This statement has not yet been officially approved by AAUP, but the thoughts in it were so timely and worthwhile that its tone and philosophy are included in our own report," Rice said.

He stressed that this part of the report is concerned with standards and ideals for the University, rather than operational procedures in academic freedom.

"The most important part of this report," said Rice, "and the question which brought us into being, is the section on Policies and Operating Procedures Governing Organized Student Groups."

"Presently," he continued, "the University is required to either approve or disapprove a student organization on campus. In our report, we've outlined the process whereby a student group 'registers' with the University."

"I'm personally gratified that students' right to associate and organize has begun to receive such wide recognition and consideration," smiled the SOS chairman.

Included in the preliminary report is a section on student publications which varies in some respects from the new policy statement of the Board of Student Publications governing State Press.

Rice said his report contained the publications section because it was contained in the AAUP statement. The chairman was not aware that the AAUP statement of two years ago was at variance with the month old

Board of Student Publications policy, but said doubtless other conflicts existed and would have to be considered.

"The report IS preliminary," stressed Rice. "And anything in it is subject to change and more thorough consideration in the future."

"Should the final draft of this report be adopted by President Durham," said Rice, "it would be used as a future guideline to forming University and organizational policy."

The next meeting of the SOS Committee is Feb. 10.

time '0'

This issue of State Press begins the fourth semester of four-morning-a-week publication for the newspaper, but the first semester for this staff.

For us, this is Time "0." Whatever has come before and whatever will follow in later years is beyond our control.

Our task is to provide for you and the entire University community the best possible collegiate newspaper. To us, this means two things:

First, we must present to you every morning a comprehensive and authoritative timetable of the events of the day—a detailed summary of lectures, exhibits, plays, concerts, deadlines for ticket pick-up and registration, organization meetings and the hundreds of other events that contribute each year to the total University experience.

Calendar Editor Linda Cottam will conduct a daily page devoted to this end.

Second, once we have successfully facilitated communication within the campus, we must actively promote discussion of the ideas and issues that are shaping a university in transition and the world.

As the only means of communication for all of the 25,000 persons who are at ASU, we cannot deny this transcending responsibility to encourage and when necessary to lead in creating and maintaining an intellectual forum—a marketplace for ideas both new and old—equal to that provided by the great universities of our nation.

We initiate this discussion today by printing the first part of a serialization of the text of the Preliminary Report of the Student Organization Study Committee.

We ask your support and cooperation.

The challenge is tremendous; the responsibility greater.

letters to the editor

Artless Mess

Editor:

Several weeks ago, the State Press printed a photograph of one of the art department's classes. The accompanying caption praised the "character" of this room and stated something to the effect that the paint-splattered walls and jumble of second-hand furniture actually helped the students.

I must say that at first I thought that the caption was a satirical attempt to point out the utter lack of facilities that burden both the students and faculty.

Nothing is accomplished by the mess one finds in the Arts Building and, although it could be easily cleaned up, no one seems to care. The student, naturally, will not try to work in such an environment, and frequently the attitude of the student is reflected by the sloppy studio he works in.

Conversely, it would not be too much to assume that the overall level of the student art work would improve if the facilities were updated and renovated. With relatively little expense, the art students could be shown that they are at least known to exist on campus, and the fact that some interest is being shown in student art could be a tremendously motivating factor.

Ads Press

Editor:

I truly enjoy reading all those clever and educational articles in the State Press but I personally object to and detest all the ads and commercial tidbits cluttering up the pages.

I realize that certain products have to be advertised but can't we, with certain limitations, leave the excessive commercialism to the radios and possibly channel 8 on TV?

EDITOR'S NOTE: The calendar page is a new feature of the State Press. Information on this page will deal with sports and club activities, lectures, fine arts, and other events of interest to students and members of the University community.

The function of this calendar is to provide information to the students and to be of service to members of this campus. Items may be submitted for this section to the calendar desk, MU3. All items must be submitted at least two days before desired date of publication.

All clubs and organizations recognized by the University are invited to contribute information and announcements to this section.

Today Lectures

7 p.m. Interpretations of the recent Arizona general election will be included in an address by Bruce Merrill, assistant professor of political science, at a dinner at the Smokehouse Inn, Phoenix.

Prof. Merrill recently completed analyses of the political districts of Arizona in which the use of statistical sampling techniques played a prominent role. He will discuss the significance and restrictions associated with statistical predictions in general elections before the Arizona chapter of the American Statistical Association.

Students, faculty and staff should contact Dr. William S. Peters, professor of general business administration and faculty representative to the ASA, for dinner reservations.

7:30 p.m. Lecture and slides on the subject of checkless banking will be presented in MU7 at a meeting of the Accounting Club. The program will be given by Joe Ryan of Los Angeles, representing Touche, Ross, Bailey & Smart, a national public accounting firm. All business students are invited to attend.

8 p.m. Dr. Daniel E. Noble, vice - chairman of the board of directors of Motorola, Inc., will deliver an address, "Let's Reach for the Future," at Hayden Library before the campus chapter of the Society of the Sigma Xi, national organization for scientific research. The University community is invited.

Sports

Bowling Tournament — All men and women college bowlers are invited to enter a bowling tournament in the MU games room. All entrants must obtain annual membership in the new Collegiate Divisions of the W.I.B.C. and A.B.C. prior to participation. Membership fees are $1 and may be obtained from the MU games room supervisor. The five highest averages in each category will form the Memorial Union teams. There will be one men's team and one women's team of five members each. These teams will represent the Memorial Union in the Association of College Unions International regional games tournament to be held on campus Feb. 9-11.

Television

8 p.m. KAET (Channel 8) Profiles in Courage presents "Grover Cleveland." The story centers around the 22nd President of the United States, who was determined to follow his belief in honest and efficient government. Although it cost him the election of 1888, he believed in fighting for a lower tariff and devoted his entire State of the Union message to the tariff issue.

10 p.m. KAET (Channel 8) Senate Foreign Relations Committee Hearings No. 1. These hearings were called by Committee Chairman William Fulbright, D-Ark., to review United States foreign policy. George Kennan, a former ambassador to the Soviet Union, will testify on "The Communist World in 1967."

According to Sen. Fulbright, the hearings will focus on "the responsibility of the United States as a great power."

Fine Arts

2:40 p.m. Students who are studying the organ will present a recital in Grady Gammage Auditorium. The students, studying under Charles Brown and Nadine Dresskell of the music department, will perform on the Hugh Long memorial organ.

Selections to be played include works by Franck, Daquin, Bach, Handel and Gigout. The program is open free to the University community.

Team Slowed by Injuries

Impson Leads Gymnasts

Plagued by injuries and inexperience, Arizona State's youthful gymnastics squad limped through its first four meets at half strength but still managed to compile a 2 win, 2 loss record.

RICHARD IMPSON, an all-around performer, leads the team in individual scoring with 191 points. Nursing a bad ankle, Impson totaled a whopping 53.9 markers against the University of Utah in the squad's last outing. The junior letterman scored nine or better in four of the seven events.

Sophomore Darryl Blair has been close behind Impson in all-around performance. Although slowed by a chest injury, the former Coronado High standout has shown exceptional ability in the floor exercise, horizontal bar and parallel bars.

PINT-SIZED Joel Pearson continues his dominance in the still rings competition, where he is undefeated in dual meets. "Pearson has the potential to be one of the greats in the nation this year," coach Norris Steverson said. "His only weak point is his dismount."

Kenny Holt, another sophomore, is "looking awfully good on the parallel bars," according to Steverson. Holt is also on the casualty list with a bad ankle.

LETTERMAN NICK Spahn has racked up first places in the trampoline but suffered a knee injury that could hamper his future performances.

The Devil gymnasts will host unheralded San Jose State Friday evening at 7:30 in the Sun Devil gym.

"Reports are that they're not so tough," Steverson said. "We expect to beat them."

DEAR REB:

Composer wants to know the score on '67 compacts

DEAR REB:

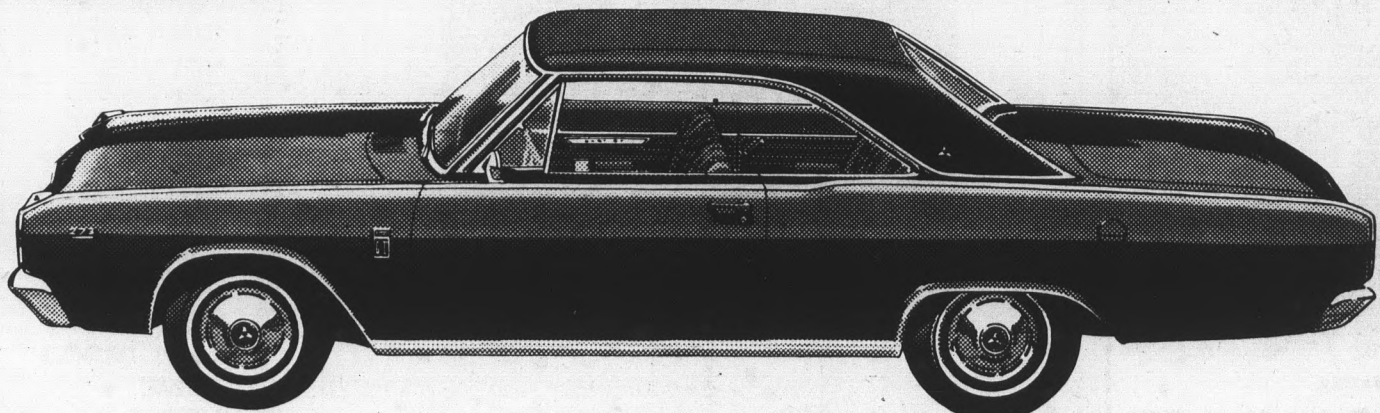

I'm a well-known composer, and I need a new car. The trouble is, I'm just too Bizet to pick one out. And what's more, many of the new cars I see are Offenbach in the garage for repairs. But I do have a good friend who is pleased with his new '67 Dodge Dart. He was given an excellent deal and Berlioz any money on it. My Bach is to the wall. Can you help me?

LUDWIG

DEAR LUDWIG:

My advice is that you let yourself Ravel in the enjoyment of driving the sporty, all-new Dart for '67. You'll find its Liszt price is a lot lower than you'd expect. And even though it's longer outside and bigger inside this year, Dart's still an easy car to Handel.

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the swinging, man-sized compact for '67 that's got three B's of its own: Bold, Brassy and Beautiful. Dart has been completely restyled this year, inside and out. It's longer, roomier, more powerful. But still at that snug compact price. Drop in at your nearest Dodge Dealer's and try it out for yourself.

Basketball Season Drags On

Lobos, Cowpokes Next on Schedule

Roger Detter, flashy sophomore outside man, continues to lead the Sun Devil basketball team in scoring, averaging over 17 points per game in Western Athletic Conference competition.

Consistently hitting near .500 per cent from the floor, Detter is one of the few bright spots in a gloomy season for coach Ned Wulk's young squad.

Going into the semester break, the hardwood quintet had groped along at a 3 win, 11 loss clip, managing to shoot over 40 per cent only twice and losing both times.

Then the Devils surprised everyone with a two-game winning spurt over pesky Loyola and the punchless Hawaii Rainbows. Even their 54-50 loss to powerhouse Texas Western last Thursday was encouraging.

With Detter scoring consistently and occasional sparks of outstanding play from veteran Randy Lindner, Bob Edwards, Frank Bailey and others, the team shows signs of maturing as the season wears on.

UofA Dumps Soccer Squad

Sun Devil soccermen saw their hopes for first place in the Arizona Soccer League go out the window Saturday when they were clobbered by the UofA, 6-1, in Tucson.

Three Wildcats broke through the Devil defense almost at will. Mohammed Sedjal, Louis Bapes and Ahmed Raiss each scored two goals for the host team.

Pete Versteegen tallied the lone goal for ASU.

The loss ran the club's record to 6-3. Tucson remains in the number one position with a 9-1 mark.

Detter Continues To Pace Devils

Arizona State cagers face their toughest road trip of the season this week as they tangle with the nationally-ranked New Mexico Lobos and Wyoming's scrappy Cowboys.

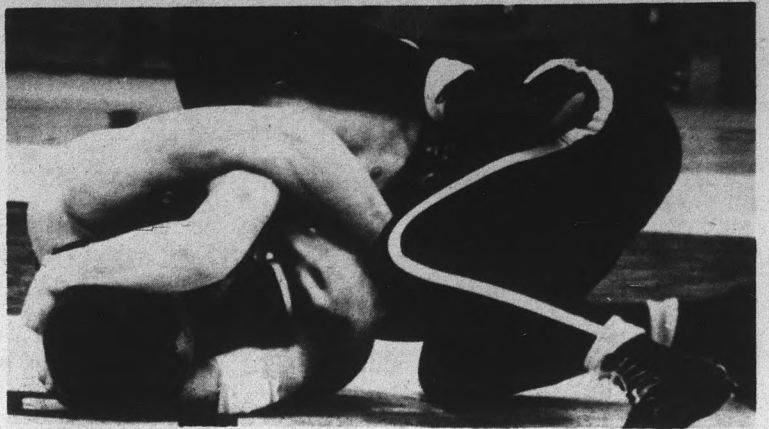

The Sun Devils have beaten New Mexico only once in Albuquerque. And the Lobo's superstar, 6-9 All-American Mel Daniels, will be out to see that the record stays intact. Daniels is averaging 20 points per game, second in the Western Athletic Conference and has pulled down a league-leading 13 rebounds in each contest.

"We'll probably still use a zone defense," ASU coach Ned Wulk said. "That way we can gang up on him."

Wulk pointed out that, although New Mexico has an 11-4 record, they have dropped their last four games and haven't played for over a week because of final exams.

Wyoming, which features the shortest starting five in the conference, upset New Mexico recently. The Pokes' big gun is Harry Hall, a sophomore who has been flirting with the coveted 20-points-per-game average all season. They also have one of the top rebounders in 6-6 center Ken Collins.

"The boys have been playing greatly improved ball in the last six games," Wulk said. "We do have a chance to beat them."

Culp Leads Team In Tourney Effort

Led by the ever-present muscle of heavyweight Curly Culp and the spirited scrambling of 137-pounder Gene "Gino" Parrish, the Sun Devil matmen found themselves second best to the finest wrestling squad in the country last weekend, as Oklahoma State won the six-team Sun Devil Invitational Wrestling Tournament.

The Devils came up with 57 points after some 40 matches, behind Oklahoma State's 69 and ahead of third place UCLA's 53. San Jose State finished with 30, Utah with 29 and the UofCal bringing up the rear with 16.

Sun Devils captured championships at three different weights, led by Culp at heavyweight. Curley had a little trouble as ever at running his season's mark to 7-0. The tournament's most exciting match came in the 137-pound class where Gene Parrish reversed his man with two seconds left in the third overtime period for a 5-4 decision which brought him the champion's crown. The final Devil first-place finish was at 145 pounds where Jim Forler breezed through his championship contest with an 8-1 win over an outclassed UCLA opponent.

Oklahoma State took championships at 123, 152, 167 and 177 pounds for their meet victory. The Cowboys also won two second places as they had six wrestlers in the finals.

students should be encouraged to develop the capacity for critical judgment and to engage in a sustained and independent search for truth. The freedom to learn depends upon appropriate opportunities and conditions in the classroom, on the campus, and in the larger community. The responsibility to secure and to respect general conditions conducive to the freedom to learn is shared by all members of the academic community. Students should endeavor to exercise their freedom with maturity and responsibility.

I. In The Classroom

The professor in the classroom and in conference should encourage free discussion, inquiry, and expression. Students should be evaluated solely on the basis of their academic performance, not on their opinions or conduct in matters unrelated to academic standards.

A. Protection of Freedom of Expression. Students are responsible for learning thoroughly the content of any course of study, but they should be free to take reasoned exception to the data or items offered, and to reserve judgment about matters of opinions.

B. Protection Against Improper Academic Evaluation. Students are responsible for maintaining standards of academic performance established by their professors, but they should have protection through orderly procedures against prejudiced or capricious academic evaluation.

C. Protection Against Disclosure of Confidential Information. Information about student views, beliefs, and political associations which professors acquire in the course of their work as instructors, advisors, and counselors, should be considered confidential. Protection against the disclosure of confidential information is a serious professional obligation. Judgments of ability and character may be provided under appropriate circumstances.

II. Student Records

The institution should provide a carefully considered policy as to the information which should be part of the student's permanent educational record and as to the conditions of its disclosure. To minimize the risk of improper disclosure, academic and disciplinary records should be kept separate, and the conditions of access to each should be set forth in an explicit policy statement. Transcripts of academic records should contain information about academic status only. Data from disciplinary and counseling files should not be available to unauthorized persons made for periodic routine evaluation and destruction of noncurrent disciplinary records.

Administrative staff, personnel workers, and faculty members should respect confidential information of noncurrent disciplinary records. Administrative staff, personnel workers, and faculty members should respect confidential information about students on campus or to any person off campus, except for the most compelling reason. Records which reflect the political activities or beliefs of students should be kept only with the knowledge and consent of the students involved. Provision should also be which they acquire in the course of their work.
