

Presidency Goes to Perkins In Light Balloting Turnout

By DAN MURPHY

Bill Perkins was declared next year's student body president at 4:30 Thursday morning after an all night tussle between a tired Election Board and a surly computer.

Perkins polled 1,019 of the 1,887 ballots cast for the office. The election turnout could only be termed light. Terry Forsberg, the losing candidate, received 841 tallies and 27 votes were written in.

All positions on the primary ballot were decided by yesterday's voting, leaving only three constitutional amendments to be voted on in the general election Wednesday.

AFTER THE Election Board worked more than three hours counting the write-in ballots it was discovered that the computers would not accept the programming.

Two alternate programs were devised and tried as candidates waited impatiently. A successful computer program was found and an hour later the results were final.

Voting was off nearly 500 from last year's turnout.

Elected to join Perkins as members of the executive council were: Steve Yarbrough, first vice president; Skip Swerdlow, administrative vice president; Bill Sage, activities vice president; Karen Kee-

SENATE OKAYS CHANGES

Amendments Up to Students

By CON KEYES

Student Government Writer

To have or not to have Associated Men Students and reapportionment of the Student Senate.

These are the two referenda questions the student body will decide in the March 15 general election now that the senate passed the constitutional amendments Wednesday.

If okayed by the students in the general election, the amendments will be sent to President Durham for his signature.

The AMS amendment ran into a lot of opposition with many senators changing their votes from 'present' to 'nay' before passage Wednesday.

Debate centered around the appointment of a financial officer by the Associated Students president and not the abolishment of AMS.

The reapportionment amendment puts the senate on a one man, one vote basis, dividing up by college or department according to enrollment size.

Bunny Olmsted, junior senator, pointed out that no student signed up for this year's election of two senate seats in the liberal arts college. With reapportionment, the College of Liberal Arts will have 13 seats.

Steve Yarbrough, off-campus men's solon, then pointed out that many of the present senators now holding positions are in liberal arts.

"To meet the people we have most in common with," said Graduate Sen. John Moore, "is through our education curriculum. This is by far the best system so far with the arbitrary power we now have."

According to John Bare, IFC solon, under the present system students are being represented by several senators.

"So what," said Moore, "What has this legislature done? Look at the statute book."

Foreign Tongues Week To Aid Human Rapport

Human feelings can only be fully appreciated through languages, said Dr. Mary Escudero, professor of Spanish, citing this as the major reason for campus observances of Foreign Language Week next Monday through Friday.

"The more languages you know, the more you can like people," she said, because language is an important tool of communication.

A week of special events such as this, called "Stepping Stones to World Understanding," definitely has impact, she felt, even though its extent is difficult to judge.

She added that residents of Tempe have called to ask if they might attend some events, and a McClintock High teacher plans to bring his class to the Thursday concert of French music.

Charter Day to Extol Founders' Objectives

Founding dean of the College of Law Willard H. Pedrick will kick off Charter Day at 10:40 Monday morning with a Gammage Auditorium speech. Instructors have been authorized to dismiss classes for the program.

Dean Pedrick, a former member of the Northwestern University law faculty, will address University students and faculty for the first time since his arrival in Arizona. "Desperate Hours and the Law" will be the subject of his address.

This year's Charter Day is a celebration of one of the University's founding father's original objectives. The bill of March 12, 1885, establishing the Arizona Territorial Normal School asked the institution to provide:

"Instruction of persons in the fundamental law of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens."

Today, 82 years later, the first University law college is under construction. Classes, beginning next fall, will be held in Armstrong Hall, the new building named for John Samuel Armstrong, who introduced the act establishing the Normal School.

Strongly supported by Charles Trumbull Hayden (for whom the library was named), the bill passed the House of the 13th Legislative Assembly on March 6, the Council on March 11, and was signed by Governor F. A. Tittle on March 12, 1885.

Invocation will be given by Lloyd Ewart, Methodist minister at the Baker Center. The processional "Pageantry" by Washburn will be played by the University Symphonic Band under the direction of William Hill. Proclamation will be given by Charles Carter.

Drop Period Ends Today

The official period for dropping a course without penalty ends at 4 p.m. today.

Forms for dropping courses may be picked up in the records section of the registrar's office in the Moeur Building.

A service charge of $1 must be paid at the cashier's office in Admin. 109A to complete the drop procedure.

Law Day Alters Program

By JAMES BOND

The Warren Commission Report on the assassination of President Kennedy will be the subject of the Law Day keynote address by professor Arthur Goodhart of Oxford University on campus tomorrow morning.

It is not known if Goodhart's remarks will include any reference to the current investigation in New Orleans, where County Attorney Jim Garrison has made several arrests in connection with his probe into the Kennedy death. Members of the Warren Commission and government officials have so far denied the validity of Garrison's findings.

THE NEW ORLEANS official has refused to turn over the results of his probe to government investigators. He says his reason for continuing to work alone is that he fears "things would get bogged down" if turned over to federal police.

A discussion on the President's Report on Crime, earlier announced as the topic of the keynote speech, will be reserved for a panel symposium following Goodhart's remarks.

John Flynn, the local attorney who was involved in the recent Supreme Court decision regarding the rights of the accused in the Miranda case, will join the panel discussion along with Sheldon Krantz, a staff member of the President's committee on law enforcement.

ASASU President Bob McConnell, Vice President John Herrick and Michael Benchoff of the county attorney's office will also participate. The panel will be moderated by Dr. Heinz Hink of the Department of Political Science.

In announcing the changes, Law Day Chairman Roger Cheney said, "It will now be better than we had anticipated. This will be one of the main academic events of the year for the University."

The entire faculty of the new College of Law is expected to be present at a noon luncheon banquet sponsored by Dean Willard Pedrick. Senior law faculty members Harold Havighurst will be featured speaker at the banquet open to all Law Day participants.

REGISTRATION for Law Day has now branched out to a booth in front of the library where members of the Pre-Law Club will distribute information until 1:30 this afternoon. Registration is also being handled in the Pre-Law Club office, BA 205B.

Law Day, which has been used successfully at the UofA and other universities for many years, was launched here four years ago. Cheryl Miller, president of the Pre-Law Club, said it is "to create more interest for the law at the University and to emphasize to local people the importance of the law."

The annual seminar is the main function of the Pre-Law Club and has gained impetus with the planned opening of the College of Law this fall.

25 Die in Ohio Plane Collision

URBANA, Ohio — At least 25 persons died following an in-flight collision of a TWA jetliner and a small private plane in west central Ohio yesterday.

The twin-engine DC-9, flight 553, was enroute from New York to Chicago. It had made stops at the Harrisburg airport and Pittsburgh, and was approaching Dayton, Ohio, when it went down.

A representative of the Urbana Fire Department said a resident told the department the plane exploded in flight and was burning as it struck the ground.

LONDON — British Prime Minister Wilson has sharply rejected a call in the House of Commons to urge the United States to halt the bombing of North Vietnam.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — House Republican leader Gerald Ford says there isn't a court in the land with the jurisdiction to force Congress to re-admit Adam Clayton Powell. Ford's statement came as Powell's attorneys prepared to argue his case in federal court in Washington. Ford says unless the House reverses its ruling, the ouster of Powell is final.

Two or three hundred students will be directly involved in the week's activities, she said, although other departments may cooperate.

Dr. Herbert A. Van Scoy, department chairman, added that the week has quite an effect on the entire student body because of the special exposure "in concentrated form" devoted to languages in regular classes.

Dr. Escudero explained that the seemingly small activities scheduled were important because they showed how language is used by people—in the Collegium's case, for example, by the "gaiety of color and sounds" expressed in music.

Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson have issued yearly proclamations for national observances of the week, she said, because they felt language study was important to the promotion of understanding among nations.

The Iota University chapter of Alpha Mu Gamma has distributed 200 posters throughout the Southwest painted by the late Bruce Russel, Pulitzer Prize winner.

In addition, the department has mailed 700 copies of a letter announcing the week to other faculty departments and community leaders.

"The week should be an occasion of gay human moods presented in all the colors of the rainbow," Dr. Escudero concluded.

Ex-Policeman Views Booze

There's nothing wrong with liquor if it can be consumed in an adult manner, according to Gayle Shuman. The ten-year veteran of Campus Security recently addressed a student assistant training class.

"Too many people today are preaching on the sins of liquor," he said. "The theory that the young people won't do it if we call it bad is malarky."

Now assistant director of the financial aids office, Shuman said, "If you want to do something illegal, do it. But if you get caught, you must accept the consequences."

The minimum fine for a liquor violation or for aiding and abetting is $100. For drunk driving, the fine may be $100 for both passengers if there are two in the car.

Enforcement differs in various parts of the state. Shuman emphasized that enforcement is not better or worse in certain areas, but that the size of a locality may limit or increase the amount of time policemen have.

On campus, "Police don't go looking for minors drinking," said Shuman, "but if caught, students' names are routinely turned over to the University."

Arizona law states that a minor may not possess, consume or purchase alcoholic beverages. This means that if there is one can of beer in a car containing five passengers under 21, all are equally guilty. Since the law puts the burden of enforcement on the adult, a passenger over 21 in such a situation would be guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The biggest danger from liquor stems from the desert drinking parties, he said. "I've been there. I've mopped kids off the highway after those boun-

The Western Athletic Conference Wrestling Tournament at Sun Devil Gymnasium.

The semifinals start at 1 p.m. today and the finals are slated for 8:30 tonight.

The Sun Devil wrestling squad will be involved in a tight battle for the WAC crown with BYU and Wyoming.

The three squads swapped victories during the regular season with the Devils beating Wyoming and losing to BYU. Doing their share, Wyoming then bumped off BYU.

Glen McMinn and Curley Culp head a strong Devil outfit. McMinn and Culp are both shooting for their third conference titles.

Culp is currently rated second in the nation for the heavyweight division. His prime competition will come from Wyoming's Tom Thompson and Utah's Glen Cook, second in the WAC last year.

Culp has a 17-0 record while Cook sports a 16-2 log. Thompson's record is 12-2-2. Culp de-cisioned Thompson 11-2 earlier in the season.

McMinn, who finished second in the NCAA tourney two years ago, faces stiff opposition from Wyoming sophomore Ray Sanchez. McMinn's record is 26-2-1 while Sanchez carries a 15-2 log. Sanchez is the reigning national AAU champion at 114.5 pounds.

Other Devil entries include Pete Russo, Gene Parrish, Jim Forler, Pat Seferovich, Ralph Gambin, Dick Thompson and Wayne Partee.

The tournament features two other defending conference titlists. They are Arizona's Don Hall with an 11-2 record and Wyoming's Don Miller with an 18-2-1 log.

Admission for students is 50 cents plus a fee receipt.

Recovering Devils Maintain Hope for Gymnastics Title

Sun Devil gymnasts are going into the Western Athletic Conference Championships today and tomorrow at Salt Lake City with their fingers crossed.

The University of Arizona is the favorite after crushing the Devils last Saturday 188.15 to 169.40 in Tucson. The loss may be deceiving since all-around Devil performer Richard Impson was out of the meet with a sprained ankle.

Steverson hopes for the best with Joe Pearson ranked sixth in the nation on the still rings and Nick Spann fifth on the trampoline.

Taking the championship may take some doing since Jack Harris is recovering from a sprained knee, Joel Pearson from a pulled muscle, and Ken Holt from a pulled shoulder.

Sun Devil entries in the two-day meet are:

Floor exercise: Richard Stovall, Harris, Darryl Bair, Ken Holt, and Richard Impson.

Side Horse: Dick Williams, Holt, Bair and Impson.

TRAMPOLINE: Holt, Impson, Stovall, Brian Diebold and Spann.

Horizontal Bar: John Price, Holt, Harris, Bair and Impson.

Long Horse: Stovall, Harris, Bair, Holt and Impson.

Parallel Bars: Spann, Williams, Bair, Holt and Impson.

Still Rings: Bair, Williams or Holt, Impson, Price and Pearson.

Because Allstate has never been content to do things the way they've always been done, we're sometimes called the maverick of the insurance business.

We're the company that led the fight for lower insurance rates by cutting red tape and needless frills. The company that made insurance policies easier to read and understand.

And this kind of pioneering has paid off. In just 35 years, Allstate has grown from a handful of customers to more than eight million policyholders. Our sales have more than tripled in the last ten years alone (they're now approaching the billion-dollar-a-year mark). And we now rank among America's top 100 corporations in terms of assets.

We appreciate that our remarkable growth is due to people—"mavericks" who shared our philosophy. Right now, we're looking for people of the same stripe—men and women with the fresh ideas and ambition to become part of our management team.

Are you a bit of a maverick? A man who doesn't automatically settle for the status quo? Then consider a career with Allstate.

We need people now (regardless of their majors) in Marketing, Investment, Finance, Underwriting, Public Relations, Communications, Personnel, Law and Research. (A start in any of the careers is the first step toward a key position in Allstate's management.)

If you qualify, we'll move you ahead just as fast as your talent and dedication can take you. (Our policy is to promote from within.) In addition, you'll find that few companies can match our extra employee benefits (including the famous Sears Profit Sharing Plan).

To get all the facts, see our Personnel Manager when he's interviewing on campus.

Soccermen Shoot For Third Place

The Sun Devil soccermen will start down the last stretch of their season tomorrow when they battle Peter's Hofbrau at 3 p.m. in Phoenix Monterey Park, 7th St. and Sheridan.

Last Sunday's loss to Yuma left the squad with a season mark of 7-5 and dropped the University 11 into a fourth-place tie with the British pilots of Yuma Proving Grounds.

The kickers could manage third place in the Arizona Soccer League with wins in their last two regular season games.

At the completion of regular season play, the team will engage in a number of post-schedule short tournaments.

Three-Game Series Opens For Sun Devil Horsehiders

Sporting a .333 team batting average, the Sun Devil baseball squad opens a three-game series with Long Beach State College at 3 p.m. today on Sun Devil Field.

The heavy-hitting team boasts three players who are batting .400 or better. Catcher Ron Davini tops the team with a .440 average. First baseman Joe Paulson is hitting .429 while second sacker Fred Nelson is batting .400.

LOOKING back at the four-game sweep of Los Angeles State, coach Bobby Winkles said the pitching was better, even though the Devils gave up more runs than in the San Fernando State series.

Winkles added he was very pleased with pitcher Gary Gentry's sterling relief performance Saturday.

He indicated that Gentry will get the starting nod for today's game while Tom Burgess and either Doug Nurnberg, Sam Chipps or Larry Gura will hurl in tomorrow's double-header at 1 p.m.

TODAY'S tentative lineup is Nelson, Davini, Larry Linville, Scott Reid, Dave Grangaard, Ralph Carpenter, Paulson, Jack Lind or Kent Perry and Gentry.

Long Beach State claims a victory over powerhouse Southern California already this year.

Shortest Trip Not Always Cheapest

Students in an air transportation course discovered recently that the shortest route is not necessarily the least expensive.

The 55 students estimated the costs of a Boeing 727 bound for Newark, N.J., and a Boeing 707 Fanjet headed for Chicago and New York. They calculated whether the flights would show a profit or a loss.

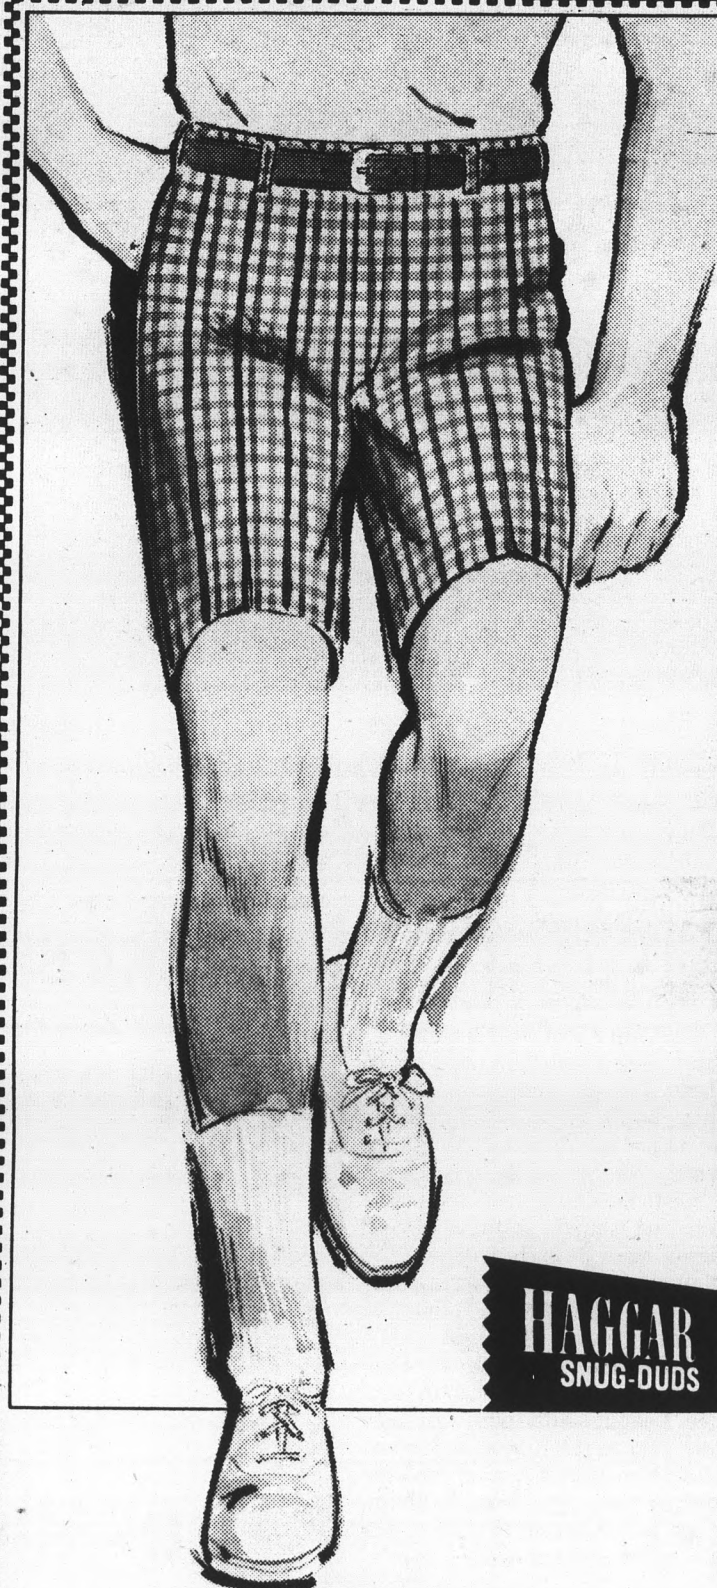

DOUGLAS L. Cochran, instructor of the class and lecturer in general business administration, said, "A computer in New York City figured seven different routes before selecting the least expensive trip, shortest and smoothest. The shortest and smoothest routes, however, aren't necessarily the least expensive. The pilots picked the routes they preferred shortly before the flights began."

Cochran added, "This on-the-scene learning experience helps students ascertain what types of decisions have to be made by the computer after the data is received. Although the computer provides information based on figures from the same previous flights, each flight is a new adventure with problems peculiar only to it."

To determine the profit or loss of the flights, the students received information concerning passenger class, fares and total weight of passengers and baggage.

A Campus Success—'The Mad Woman of Chaillot'

"The Mad Woman of Chaillot" was my first encounter with Jean Giraudoux's last play and the experience was a delightful one. The play itself is one of those which, although set in a definite period, will probably never lose its humor or the effectiveness of its message.

The play, however, could not be so successful were it not for the actors. The University Players do an excellent job and certain members of the cast in particular make the performance a memorable one.

JONI BROWN, in the title role, gives a delightful performance as a not so mad "mad woman." She does so by not over-acting either her madness or her age, instead giving us a character with whom we can sympathize and laugh.

The President, played by Barry Fried, is also a convincing character. The humor of his situation serves to balance out his villainy and saves him from becoming the stereotype of the rotten capitalist. The only flaw in an otherwise good job is that his makeup, the hair in particular, was a bit overdone. This proved somewhat distracting.

Other exceptional performances are given by David Hayward as a policeman, Steve Mastroni as the shoelace peddler (whose sideline is dirty postcards) and Bob Benes as the police sergeant.

IN THE FIRST act, the use of two small stages on either side of the main stage gives an added feeling of audience participation. The Lyceum is an excellent place to present a play of this nature. It gives a sort of intimacy to the whole thing.

The stage settings are effective and not overly elaborate. In particular, Countess Aurelia's basement in the second act is a masterpiece. The clutter looks genuine.

In the play, the villains are the harsh, cold realists of this world in whom the procurement of more money is the only virtue. To these men, such things as love, beauty or the song of birds is trivia and those who would place value on such things are utterly mad. Fortunately, the mad people, championed by Countess Aurelia, win the battle — presidents, prospectors and financiers are beaten.

The "Mad Woman of Chaillot" will continue tonight, tomorrow night and next weekend, March 11-13. I strongly recommend seeing this delightful play in praise of madness.

CAPSULE COVERAGE —

More Sex Than Plot, Claims Critic in Review of Art Film

By JOE TOSCHIK

FILM: The Valley Art Theatre is currently offering two better than average films: "I a Woman" and "The Leather Boys."

The first is a Swedish made movie with more sex than plot. The dialogue, however, while not particularly meaningful, is often quite humorous and the photography is very good. It avoids the more or less cliched method often used in such films.

The second film is by far the better of the two. "The Leather Boys" gives some interesting insights into the British motorcycle cults as well as providing an excellent commentary on young marriage.

Rita Tushingham, who previously appeared in "Taste of Honey" and "Dr. Zhivago" plays a child bride convincingly.

A rather unusual western is currently featured at the Fox-Christown Theatre. "A Fist Full of Dollars" stars Clint Eastwood as a slightly psychotic cowboy.

ON STAGE: The Phoenix Little Theatre is currently presenting Tennessee Williams' classic, "A Streetcar Named Desire," through the 22nd of March.

The Jane Powell Show is playing at the Phoenix Star Theatre through Sunday. Included in the show are Frank Gorshin of "Batman" fame and the Doodletown Pipers.

The Sombrero Playhouse is offering "Barefoot in the Park," starring Eve Arden. The play was quite popular on Broadway and probably makes for a pleasant evening's entertainment.

TELEVISION: Saturday night at 7:30, Channel 8's N.E.T. Playhouse is presenting "The World of Carl Sandburg." The program will include poetry and songs by the great American poet and Lincoln biographer.

ART: The Galaxy Galleries, behind the Sombrero Playhouse, are presenting an exhibition entitled "Americans at Home and Abroad." The show features works by such artists as Winslow Homer, John Singer Sargent and Benjamin West. Sculpture by Lorinda Roland will also be on display for the four-week show.

Issac Stern Returns to Gammage

Issac Stern, one of the world's foremost violinists, returns to the Valley for two performances with the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra Monday and Tuesday.

Starring as the featured soloist, Stern will perform at 8:30 p.m. Monday at Gammage Auditorium and Tuesday at Phoenix Union High School.

The violinist will perform the Beethoven "Concerto in D." The program will also include Haydn's "Symphony No. 88 in G" and "Sinfonia India" by Chavez, conducted by Guy Taylor.

THE RUSSIAN BORN Stern was brought to San Francisco when he was less than a year old. At six he started playing piano, but switched to violin two years later to which he has since devoted himself.

Under instructor Naoum Blinder, Stern debuted with the San Francisco Symphony at age 15. By 1943 he had played at New York's Carnegie Hall.

Tickets for both performances may be purchased at any Community Box Office. Because of the anticipated rush on tickets, those ticketholders who cannot attend are asked to notify the Symphony office at 277-4754 so the tickets can be released.

On Campus with Max Shulman

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!", "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

WHO'S GOT THE BUTTON?

I'm sure it has not escaped your notice that underlying the adorable whimsy which has made this column such a popular favorite among my wife and my little dog Spot, there is a serious attempt to stay abreast of the problems that beset the American college student.

Many a trip have I made to many a campus—talking to undergraduates, listening to their troubles, hearing their grievances, reading their buttons. (Incidentally, the second and third most popular buttons I saw on my last trip were: "WALLACE BEERY LIVES" and "FLUORIDATE MUSCATEL." The first most popular button was, as we all know, "SCRAP THE SCRAPE" which is worn, as we all know, by Personna Super Stainless Steel Blade users who, as we all know, are proud to proclaim to the world that they have found a blade which gives them luxury shave after luxury shave, which comes both in double-edge style and Injector style, which does indeed scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, and oust the ouch, which shaves so closely and quickly and truly and beautifully that my heart leaps to tell of it. (If perhaps you think me too effusive about Personna, I ask you to remember that to me Personna is more than just a razor blade; it is also an employer.)

But I digress. I make frequent trips, as I say, to learn what is currently vexing the American undergraduate. Last week, for example, while visiting a prominent Eastern university (Idaho State) I talked to a number of engineering seniors who posed a serious question. Like all students, they had come to college burning to fill themselves with culture, but, alas, because of all their science requirements, they simply had had no time to take the liberal arts courses their young souls lusted after. "Are we doomed," they asked piteously, "to go through life uncultured?"

I answered with a resounding "No!" I told them the culture they had missed in college, they would pick up after graduation. I explained that today's enlightened corporations are setting up on-the-job liberal arts programs for the newly employed engineering graduate—courses designed to fill his culture gap—for the truly enlightened corporation realizes that the truly cultured employee is the truly valuable employee.

To illustrate, I cited the well-known case of Champert Sigafos of Purdue.

When Champert, having completed his degree in wing nuts and flanges, reported to the enlightened corporation where he had accepted employment, he was not rushed forthwith to a drawing board. He was first installed in the enlightened corporation's training campus. Here he was given a beanie, a room-mate, and a copy of the company rouser, and the enlightened corporation proceeded to fill the gap in his culture.

First he was taught to read, then to print capital letters, then capital and small letters. (There was also an attempt to teach him script, but it was ultimately abandoned.)

From these fundamentals, Champert progressed slowly but steadily through the more complex disciplines. He was diligent, and the corporation was patient, and in the end they were well rewarded, for when Champert finished, he could play a claviers, parse a sentence, and name all the Electors of Bavaria.

Poised and cultured, Champert was promptly placed in an important executive position. I am pleased to report that he served with immense distinction—not, however, for long because three days later he reached retirement age.

Today, still spry, he lives in St. Petersburg, Florida, where he supplements his pension by parsing sentences for tourists.

Here's a sentence that's easy to parse: Subject—"you." Verb—"double." Object—"your shaving comfort when you use Burma-Shave, regular or menthol, along with your Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades."
