Board of Regents Approves Budget

By CONNIE MIDEY

The Arizona Board of Regents last week approved an operating budget of $25.2 million for the University for fiscal 1968-69.

Professor Succumbs

Dr. Herschel M. Sikes, visiting professor of English from Hunter College in New York City, was found dead in his apartment at 11 a.m. yesterday.

Tempe Judge Ralph W. Fowler said the cause of death is not known and will not be until the county medical examiner performs an autopsy.

The body of 39-year-old Dr. Sikes was found by Dr. Jerome Archer of the English department at Sikes' apartment, 1011 E. Orange St.

Archer had been trying to contact Dr. Sikes for several days. When he saw Dr. Sikes' car outside the apartment building, he contacted the owner, who unlocked the door and cut the door chain.

Increased by 20 per cent, it exceeds the current year's budget of $21 million by $4.2 million.

Salary raises for faculty and staff at the state's three universities account for a budget growth, according to Leon Levy, chairman of the regents' budget committee.

However, proposed salary jumps still will not put Arizona near the national faculty pay average, said Myron Holber, the regents' budget officer.

The Arizona Legislature will be asked to provide $18.6 million for ASU, with the remainder needed by the school to be supplied from other sources, including student fees, gifts and grants.

The University's operating budget is based on a projected enrollment of 23,250 students for the 1968 - 69 school year.

Combined budgets for the three universities total a record $68.9 million, an increase of 19.9 per cent over this year's $57.5 million.

Building Plans Top Board List

The selection of Donald B. Schwenn, Phoenix architect, to design a 135,000 square foot psychology and anthropology building between Old Main and the Alumni House, was approved Thursday by the Arizona Board of Regents.

Cost of the building is estimated at $2,970,000. Funds were provided by the 1967 Legislature, and a grant of $1,125,000 was requested from the U.S. Office of Education for financing the project.

The Board also approved Weaver and Drover, Phoenix architects, to design the continuation of the mall. The walkway is to extend east and west from college avenue to the west end of the Men's Physical Education Building and to Forest Street on Orange.

Funds for the $185,000 project were provided by the 1967 Legislature.

Other approvals for building included the Phoenix firm of Haver, Nunn and Jensen to design a $50,000 addition to the radio and television studios of the Broadcasting Bureau in the Engineering Center, and Michael and Kemper Goodwin, Tempe architects, to construct eight tennis courts at Apache boulevard and Van Ness avenue. Cost is estimated at $75,000.

Michelangelo Gets Psychedelic Assist

By JOHN PARRISH

The lights dimmed in LSC 191 last Thursday and a psychedelic "happening" invaded the campus before a University architecture class.

Four projection screens lit up simultaneously as two tape recorders blared music in an experiment in mixed media introducing the cultural aspects of the Renaissance.

Drums rolled and the work of Michelangelo, Donatello, and Leonardo da Vinci was spread before the packed lecture hall.

Prof. Calvin Straub was the coordinator of the experimental project, which innovated four slide projectors and two tape recorders.

In the experiment here, the complete cultural aspects of the Renaissance and Baroque periods were examined, including costumes, paintings, sculpture, architecture, literature and music.

Prof. Jerry Diethelm of the architecture department prepared the tape recordings of the music and literature of the period. Dr. Joel Benedict, head of the audio-visual department, prepared the slides and coordinated the operation of the slide projectors.

The new panel makes it possible for one man to operate all four projectors with one set of instruments in such a manner that slides may be shown in any sequence desired.

Thus, any one of the four screens may change at any given point, or a slide may be shown again.

At the climax of the program the music built to a crescendo as the projectors converged on the center screen and a collage of sculpture, architecture, and paintings exploded in a dazzling display of color.

Michelangelo's "David" moved slowly across the Sistine chapel ceiling while photographs of buildings faded and burst across a multitude of slides. The screen flickered with a psychedelic affect as the audience watched in fascination.

UPI Honors Roseborough

Sun Devil quarterback Ed Roseborough appears in the United Press International backfield of the week for his performance in the Wisconsin game.

Joining Roseborough in the UPI backfield were Mike Phipps of Purdue, O. J. Simpson of Southern California and Charlie Smith of Utah.

Roseborough was the top touchdown producer of the four.

He threw three touchdown passes Saturday and ran for a fourth score in the Devil win over the Badgers, 42-16.

Annual ASU Day to Host Valley Seniors, Juniors

An estimated 4,000 high school juniors and seniors will be guests of the University for its annual ASU Day Saturday.

Activities will begin with registration at 12:15 p.m. in Gammage Auditorium, followed by an opening assembly at 1:15 p.m.

At the assembly, President G. Homer Durham and student leaders will welcome high school visitors. Drama, music and dance students will present a program entitled "ASU on Parade."

The University's seven undergraduate colleges will conduct orientation programs at 2:30 and 3:45 p.m., followed by campus tours and open house from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Boys' and Girls' State reunions will be at 4:30 p.m. on the Alumni House lawn.

Closing events of the day will be dinner in two campus dining rooms and the ASU-University of Texas at El Paso football game.

Dick Finley, executive manager of Associated Students and chairman of ASU Day, will be aided by co-chairman Dean Smith, director of development and publications.

MU Brings Folksinging Success -

Pop-up to Hear 'Wail'

By ATHIA HARDT

The man whose voice has been called haunting and gentle by Valley critics and soothing and tender by his fans, will present two folk concerts at this week's MU Pop-Up.

He's Norm Heard, a singer with a style all his own, who has won acclaim for his performance at an Encanto Park concert and engagements at the Village Inn in Tempe, Mountain Shadows, The Lumber Mill, The Pub, Saddleback Inn and the Blacksmith Shop. He is now appearing at the Ramada Inn in Scottsdale.

His concerts here are scheduled in the MU this morning from 11:45 to 12:15 and from 12:45 to 1:15.

Heard, who has found singing a way to express his feelings since his youth, calls it "a way of crying." With his 12-string guitar for accompaniment, he mixes wistful favorites such as "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" with modern folk tunes.

A Texas native, Heard migrated to Phoenix after serving in WW II, and the Army Reserve during the Korean conflict. He attended the University of Texas. His move to Arizona was an attempt to "run away with the circus. I was only 35 years old at the time." After establishing a career as a data processor, he gave it up for the life of a professional entertainer.

A STYLE ALL HIS OWN

Gallery Man Needs Guides

Curator of the University Art Collections, Rudy Turk, is interested in any women volunteers who would help guide visitors through the art collections, explain a few of the historical and artistic aspects of the works and generally assist in the routine operation of the gallery.

A training program designed to instruct the women on their necessary skills will be conducted each Friday from 10 a.m. until noon on the second floor of Matthews Center.

As the applicants will be trained for the job, no previous experience will be required. The training program will include art history and the presentation of art materials. Trainees will receive reading and project assignments and must pass comprehensive tests before serving as teachers.

The training program will start Oct. 6 and interested women may call Turk at Matthews Center.

STATE PRESS is published by Arizona State University as the official campus newspaper every Tuesday through Friday during the school year, except holidays and examination periods, and is entered as second class matter at Tempe, Arizona, 85281.

Discusses Nation -

Moyers to Lecture

Bill D. Moyers, former presidential aide and current publisher of Newsday, will present the first lecture of the season at Grady Gammage at 8:30 tonight.

An activity card and 50 cents are required for student admission. Tickets for the public may be obtained at the box office for $1.

Moyers, who left his post as White House press secretary Feb. 1 to become the Newsday publisher, will discuss both Washington and national affairs. As publisher of the largest suburban paper in the country, Moyers has attracted outstanding writers to work for him. Saul Bellow, the novelist, traveled to Jerusalem to cover the war in the Middle East, while Daniel (Pat) Moynihan covered the uprisings this summer in the ghettos.

Moyers, 33, an ordained Baptist minister, served as deputy director of the Peace Corps during the Kennedy administration. He was also a news reporter for the Marshall News-Messenger and later for the East Texas Daily before beginning the career which led him to the White House.

Early in 1965, while serving under President Johnson, he was instrumental in putting together the Great Society program of social and welfare legislation.

Highway Patrol Seminar To Begin Third Session

The third session of a seminar for highway patrol supervisors will be conducted in BA 111 Oct. 9 and 10.

The seminar is part of the regular training program provided for these officers throughout the year by the Highway Patrol.

Classes, sponsored by ASU, the Arizona Highway Patrol and the State Distributive Education Services, will be held from 8:15 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Dr. Hal White, assistant professor of management, will cover "Human Relations and Motivation" in the morning sessions and Dr. Robert Wright, assistant dean and professor of management will present "The Process of Management."

"Communications" will be presented by Dr. Arthur Smith, associate professor of general business administration.

Afternoon classes cover "Creative Decision Making" by Dr. Ralph Hook Jr., professor of marketing; "Organization Authority and Responsibility," by Dr. Sherm Tingey, assistant professor of Management; and "Evaluation and Control" by Dr. William Heier, associate professor of management.

Faculty Will Begin High School Visits

Deans, assistant deans, and other university faculty members joined forces Monday with personnel from other colleges and universities throughout the state to undertake a statewide high school visitation program.

The program was first organized in 1955 by the Arizona High School-College Relations Council for the purpose of "giving high school seniors the opportunity to get first hand information about the schools they are interested in," said Joseph A. Norton, associate director of admissions.

In previous years, the visitation has run into December, but personnel will double up this year to complete the program by Nov. 22.

The university and college representatives visit most of the high schools throughout the state, and a few are added each year.

After an introductory assembly with the seniors, the representatives will meet individually with students interested in their particular colleges.

Entertainers File Being Compiled For Student Use

The Memorial Union activities program is currently compiling a file of persons interested in entertaining.

These listings will be available to campus groups and organizations as a reference service in obtaining entertainment for events.

Students interested in being included in the file are urged to drop by the Program Loft of the MU any afternoon from 1 to 5.

MU Schedules Twin Showings Of Friday Films

Because there were not enough seats for students who wanted to view "The Brothers Karamazov" last Friday, the MU has added an extra showing for each of the films scheduled in its film festival program.

Program director Michael Byron announced that the show will begin at 6 and 9 p.m. in the future. Previously, movies were shown only once, at 8 p.m.

Next film on the program is "The Grapes of Wrath," starring Henry Fonda. It will be shown Oct. 13

Captain Fenwick's Mail Box

We don't have to search through seedy bookstores looking for obscene literature. For reasons unknown to us, people mail it to us free and unsolicited.

The other day we received a copy of a pamphlet (colored purple, by the way) which is the most imaginative and perverted obscenity we've ever seen.

THE AUTHOR of this $1 gem searched through the works of dozens of famous authors to discover innocent passages which could, taken out of context, sound wildly risqué, to say the least.

Some of his victims are Robert Browning, Charles Dickens, George Eliot, Henry James and Alfred Lord Tennyson. Even a musical children's story called "Christie's Old Organ" isn't safe from his jaundiced eye and pen.

This expensively - produced little goody, all 24 pages of it, can be sealed, stamped and mailed to an unsuspecting victim.

NO, DEAR reader, we haven't forgotten to mention the name of the pamphlet, the author and the publisher. We just don't intend to.

This man sent us a copy hoping we would either commend it as witty or attack it as prurient and thus increase its readership. But we're not that stupid.

Speaking of inanity, that reminds us of the Liberation News Service which appealed to us to send copies of The State Press airmail in return for its bulletins and stories.

THE STORIES aren't really that bad, but do they have to print them on magenta paper? You haven't lived until you try to read black letters on magenta.

Nevertheless, their first batch of clippings contained some items of serious political interest.

For example, there's one story from Czechoslovakia telling of a meeting between American leftists and representatives of the National Liberation Front of North Vietnam.

IT QUOTES Tom Hayden, one-time national leader of Students for a Democratic Society, as saying that Lyndon Johnson "will have a nightmare because he has sent 500,000 men to your land to find the Vietcong."

"We will tell him he'd better leave some men at home. Because, like Spartacus, whose fellow slaves in Rome protected his hiding-place by each claiming to be Spartacus himself, I am the Vietcong. We are everywhere! We are all the Vietcong!"

Though we have often questioned the wisdom of positions advocated by campus leftists, we seriously doubt that they are native guerrillas lurking behind the trees to ambush innocent students.

UNLESS John Livingston, Professor Starsky and the other Vietnam War opponents intend to plant punji stakes along the Mall, we think they should resent this insulting nonsense.

At the same meeting, a representative of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee told Ho's boys, "We are a colonized people, too. . . We know that power comes from the barrel of a gun."

"U. S. imperialism extends from South Vietnam to South Africa to South Carolina. . . To destroy that imperialism, by any means necessary . . . you cannot organize or domesticate a mad dog — you dispose of it."

So maybe a home-grown Vietcong is in the making. At any rate, we aren't stupid enough to join an underground press service using magenta paper.

Letters to the Editor

Editor:

Reading Mr. Shannon's letter on Tuesday I came away with a feeling of disbelief. I am told that if I answer his letter that it is because my views are wrong and that if I don't then I don't have an answer. Seeing that it is a waste of time to speak to such charges I will offer instead a challenge.

I ask Mr. Shannon to debate at any time, on the mall or any where else that he feels is desirable. That will give us ample time to present our views (if Mr. Shannon has any) before the student body.

I see that he does not know why millions of American citizens oppose this war but I will be happy to tell him. I am confident that when people know the real facts (not the credibility gap) that they will feel as I do and be totally opposed to this war.

Richard Dillon

Editor:

I would like to correct a misconception contained in Dean Shannon's letter in Tuesday's State Press. He seems to be under the impression that the drive to abolish compulsory ROTC is solely under the sponsorship of the ASU Committee to End the War in Vietnam. While I have been told that we do enjoy their support we also have the support of many members of YAF and the Young Republicans.

Arizona State University is one of the few institutions in the country which still requires two years of compulsory military education. We do not believe that the best interests of the university or the individual are met by this type of situation. We do not care to abolish ROTC, but we do want to do away with compulsory ROTC. But in order to accomplish this we must have the support of the student body. Those interested may write C.A.C.R., P.O. Box 820, Tempe, Arizona, 85281.

The Idiot's Tale

By S. KERRY BROWN

As I was wandering around campus the Thursday of registration, trying to bustle my way through the language, literature, and English lines that had become crossed in the Language and Literature building on the second floor, trailing onto the first and third floor I was accosted by two long haired hippies.

Now, that wasn't unusual for registration periods except these two fellows picked me up, one on each side and carried me bodily out of the building and onto the lawn. I wasn't particularly upset because I was about to be conned into taking Mid-Victorian Poetry instead of the Spanish class that I had pre-registered for. (Not that I have anything against Victorian poetry, but I am an engineering major). As they set me down outside of the commotion that was continuing, I spoke.

"Hey! I thought that you hippies were peace lovers, pacifists, non-involved, non-participants, zombies."

The longest haired one spoke, "You don't recognize us do you Kerry? It is us, the dynamic duo, the protectorate of the righteous, the guardians against evil, the true ones. No, don't you know us?"

I began to see the light. Yes, I knew these two assailants on conformity. They were Fran and Zan, the guardians of conservatism at the Great University in the Sky (GUS).

Why it called GUS I do not know. It is rumored that it has its headquarters in the abyss of BYU. Those notorious tunnels that meander under the school grounds creating a labyrinth of circuitous passages and hide-outs.

"What are you doing here? Go back to where you belong. Why are you dressed like hippies of the underground? Don't come here and contaminate our tunnels. Go back to BYU. They need you more there than we do here."

"No, Kerry," Fran said, "there is an evil thing here that must be expurgated, destroyed, demolished, done away with, disintegrated, disposed of, damaged, decomposed, dispersed, completely obliterated."

As I sat there reflecting on this most recent assault on my intellect, Fran put his thesaurus into his hip pocket. Then Zan began.

"We have undeniable evidence that the UofA plans a sneak attack on your new Law building. It will be so devastating, disastrous, catastrophic, defacing, marring, unbelievably horrendous that Dean Pedrick will commit suicide without a second thought."

"Wow!" Being of practical mind I said, "Let me see the evidence." Zan started to hem and haw and I spoke again.

"Aha! Spreading rumors again are you? Up to your old tricks Huh? Causing discontent,

'Camp' Book Review

Fans of so-called camp entertainment have faced one major dilemma the last few years: separating true camp from artificial or imitation camp.

That fact summarizes the basic difference between the two books under review here, "The Mask of Fu Manchu" and "The Shadow: Destination Moon."

THE FORMER, written in 1932 by Sax Rohmer as one of a series of Fu books, is true camp and, as such, is trite and cliché-ridden in a more honest manner than the latter.

For those who weren't alive at the time, Fu was a diabolical Oriental despot who menaced the world in books and movies for a couple of decades.

His popularity as a symbol of evil diminished, however, when the world discovered that Rohmer's villain wasn't as despicable as some of the tyrants who really did exist.

FU'S TRAGIC flaw was an honesty lacking in such fellow-murderers as Hitler and Stalin. He would kill without any pangs of conscience, but always kept his word when given, even if it defeated his ultimate purposes.

Although the plot of this book is wildly far-fetched, it is slickly professional, featuring a calming anti-climax and neat tricks such as the repetition of events temporarily forgotten by the narrator while drugged.

In the enigmatic way which sometimes characterizes the Orient, Fu is actually more honorable than some of the "good guys." Color him a dark gray.

UNFORTUNATELY, however, everything in "The Shadow: Destination Moon" is totally white or black. The result is a decidedly inferior book.

The Shadow, you see, was originally a radio hero in the 1930's and '40's and one of the founders of real camp drama.

But this entire book by Maxwell Grant, published just this year, is a phony attempt to recreate the character — in short, imitation camp.

AS A CASE in point, The Shadow denounces the criminals in the story as "Merchants of violence and death! Sellers of hate and immorality! Caterers to all that is evil and filthy in man! Hucksters of horror!" Hucksters of horror? The author must be putting us on.

For those silly enough to care about such trivia, The Shadow heads an espionage organization while maintaining a secret identity (which must be difficult since he has a hawk nose and fiery red eyes and wears a black slouch hat).

He learned from some great Oriental teacher (Fu Manchu, no doubt) how to blend into the shadows and how to cloud men's minds so he may immobilize them.

To strike fear into a villain's heart, he sneaks up on him, asks "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men?" and replies with a hideous laugh, "The Shadow knows."

His favorite hobby is that "The weed of crime bears bitter fruit." So the next time you see a fruity crime weed, stamp it out.

Unless your mind is too clouded, that is.

WHETHER MINI-SKIRTS will continue to be the fashion for several years is debatable. But right now, they're visible everywhere on the campus scene. Any coed can testify to this since many of them have been kept busy shortening skirts. Most realized skirts would be shorter this fall, but busy summers kept sewing to a minimum.

Pigskin King, Queen To Be Royal 'Grubs'

A "grub" king and queen will be selected for Saturday's game with University of Texas, El Paso.

All students are eligible to vote Friday for the candidates, according to Jerry Ward, in charge of gimmicks for the Rallies and Traditions Board.

Four candidates each for king and queen will be on the ballot. Voting will be conducted on the Mall in front of the Library and in front of Palo Verde and the MU.

The candidates' names have not yet been announced.

Saturday night's game is informal and all students are urged to wear their "grubbies."

The first year at Univac you'll probably get more out of us than we'll get out of you.

Maybe you won't call your first year with us an advance seminar (with pay). But that's what it often amounts to.

For one thing, you'll learn more about the working aspects of your field here in six months than you could learn in two years of schooling. You'll work with men who developed the first computers. Men who remain respected authorities in every area of computer technology, and who enjoy sharing their knowledge with the young. You'll be faced not with busy work, but with projects that demand innovation and imagination.

If, during that initial 12 months, you happen to make a significant contribution, you'll be rewarded accordingly. But the point is, we don't expect it. All we expect is that you keep an open ear and an open mind; that you work hard to develop as an individual. (We'll help you further your education—should you decide on advanced study.)

Go to work in the big league Twin Cities—the business, industrial and technical center of the Upper Midwest.

Sign up today for an interview with Univac, Twin Cities. A schedule has been posted in your placement office.

College of Law Faculty Gains Additional Member

The newest member of the College of Law, Prof. Richard W. Effland, described its future as "a little bit like a football game — you don't know for sure what the outcome will be until the final score is in!"

Listing the desire to be part of a new, exciting law school as his main ambition, Prof. Effland joins the faculty after 21 years of service at the University of Wisconsin's College of Law.

"The enthusiasm of this first class is contagious," stated the professor, "and we have had some pleasant exchanges dealing in law as well as the outcome of the ASU - Wisconsin game last weekend."

"These students may have an idea of the type of practice they intend to pursue, but they will undoubtedly change these plans during the three-year study program offered here. Because of this the college is concentrating on a well-rounded law education rather than specializing in any field," Effland explained.

The new professor's immediate task is to prepare his teaching materials for the first year course and help plan the content for future law courses.

Along with his teaching duties, Prof. Effland serves as a member of the drafting committee for a uniform probate code — a project jointly sponsored by the National Conference of Commissioners On Uniform State Law and the American Bar Association.

Seminar Stresses Christian Approach

Over 350 college students were challenged to commit their lives to Jesus Christ at a retreat in Prescott sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ Friday and Saturday.

The retreat, held at Baptist Assembly Grounds, included seminars, group singing, entertainment, films and time for individual meditation.

Seminar topics covered the Christian approach to love and marriage, Biblical prophecy and its relevance to current world politics and student mobilization and how to present the claims of Christ through individual contact. Seminars were conducted by Crusade staff members in a class-like situation with a lecture and question - answer period.

Retreat guest speaker was Dr. Earl Radmacher, president of the Western Conservative Baptist Theological Seminary in Portland, Ore.

Dr. Radmacher aimed his talk at the non-Christian and Christian students. He spoke of his own commitment to Christ as a young man and challenged students to accept Christ and live their lives for Him. Following his talk, Dr. Radmacher answered students' questions for about two hours, going into detail on theology, a subject defined as "knowing the whole Bible" rather than a philosophical study.

A half-hour film titled "In Our Generation" closed the retreat. This film showed the work of international directors of Crusade in their own countries.

The Norelco Tripleheader. The closest, fastest, most comfortable shaver on wheels. On campus. On-off switch.

It also has three Norelco Microgroove™ 'floating heads', to shave you 35% closer. So close, we dare to match shaves with a blade. But comfortable too, because the Norelco rotary blades shave without a nick or a pinch while the floating heads swing over the hills and valleys of your face. And there's a pop-up trimmer to give you an edge on your sideburns.

Now there's a Rechargeable Tripleheader Speedshaver® 45CT too. It works with or without a cord. And delivers twice as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeable.

Two great Tripleheaders with more features than any other shavers on the market.

The close, fast, comfortable electric shave.

HIGH SPIRITS—Sun Devil alumni and players' parents converged on Wisconsin's Camp Randall Stadium last Saturday to witness the Devil routing of the Badgers, 42 to 16. The spirited rooters, outnumbered 100 to 1 by Badger fans were led in cheering by Devil alum Don Dotts, holding the megaphone.

Devil Fans Try Harder

By JAN NORMAN

When Arizona State's football team plays a Big Ten school like Wisconsin, it tries harder. When Sun Devil football supporters are outnumbered 100 to one by Wisconsin fans, they try harder too.

That was the situation last weekend in Camp Randall Stadium in Madison, Wisconsin. In a crowd of nearly 50,000 spectators, 500 were ASU students, alumni and friends. They had come from California, Ohio, Michigan and Arizona to witness the big game.

A PRE-GAME LUNCHEON was held at the Hoffman House in Madison for the Devil delegation. The big western enthusiasm was high. The group cheered Don Dotts and Jim Creasman, who gave pep talks.

After the luncheon a police escort led the four Arizona buses to the stadium. The groups sang, cheered and yelled greetings to Wisconsin fans along the way.

The sight of Camp Randall Stadium with its 72,000 seats awed the Devil rooters, but not for long. The Arizona supporters had seats on the 50 yard line directly behind the Sun Devil team. Although outnumbered, the Devil fans made themselves heard throughout the stadium.

They had much to yell about that day. The Devils gave an outstanding performance, overwhelming the Badgers 42-16. They lived up to every word printed about them in the Madison papers.

ALL WEEK THE Wisconsin school paper told of the lightning speed of the Devil squad. It featured pictures of Curley Culp and enumerated the talents of such Devil stars as Ron Pritchard and Max Anderson. Wisconsin fans were prepared for a tough game.

What they weren't prepared for was the spirited Arizona delegation. Led by the Sun Devil cheerleaders, who also made the trip to Wisconsin, the crowd chanted and cheered the entire game. Several fans took noisemakers, many waved ASU pennants and the Phi Delta Theta representation displayed a 25-foot spirit banner. Even with a 26 point lead going into the final quarter the Devil enthusiasm never waned.

The game's end found Devil supporters hoarse but happy. The Devils had won and the fans had seen a good football game. Both the team and fans can be proud of their performance in the Sun Devils' debut in the Big Ten.

Tennis Tryouts Today

A freshman and varsity tennis team meeting will be held this afternoon for anyone wishing to try out for the teams, according to tennis coach Ted Bredehoff.

The meeting will be held in MPE 213 at 3:30 p.m.

Practice began last week, and the first matches are scheduled for Nov. 3 and 4 in the Mike Hardin Memorial Tournament, to be held here. Both the frosh and varsity teams will participate.

Concert Open to Students -Teachers of Note to Gather

More than one hundred music teachers from throughout Arizona are expected to attend the Arizona Music Teachers' Association annual convention Oct. 15-16 on campus.

The two-day event will be held in the MU ballroom and will feature a concert and lecture by Dr. Istvan Nadas, professor of music at San Francisco State College.

DR. NADAS, a native of Hungary, studied at the Bela Bartok Studio. He will appear in concert Sunday, Oct. 15, at 2:30 p.m. offering selections by Bach, Beethoven, Bartok and Liszt.

The well-known pianist spent the summer on a concert tour of New Zealand, and has performed for audiences throughout the world.

ON MONDAY, Oct. 16, Dr. Nadas will deliver a lecture to the convention on "Inspirations from the Bartok Studio."

Other events on the association's opening-day calendar, include a student recital at 1 p.m. and a 4:30 p.m. reception honoring Dr. Nadas and Harvey Flansburg, president of the Music Teachers' National Association's Western Division.

THE RECEPTION will be hosted by Mrs. Nadine Dresskell, associate professor of music, and her husband, Miles Dresskell, professor emeritus of music.

The teachers will attend a banquet at 6:30 p.m. at the MU. The ASU Symphony, conducted by Eugene Lombardi, associate professor of music, will be presented at 8:30 p.m.

UNIVERSITY students will be admitted to Dr. Nadas' concert by presenting identification cards at the door.

Students without identification cards may purchase tickets at the door for one dollar.

Talk to Survey China's Economy

Dr. George M. Beckman, new director of East Asian Studies at Claremont Graduate School and University Center in California, will speak on "China: Problems and Prospects in Economic Development" tomorrow afternoon at 2:40 in the MU ballroom. The talk will be sponsored by the Center for Asian Studies and is free to the public.

Dr. Beckman is the author of "Imperialism and Revolution in Modern China, 1840-1950," "The Making of the Meiji Constitution," and "The Modernization of China and Japan" and numerous articles.

Before assuming the Claremont post, Dr. Beckman was a associate dean for International Programs at the University of Kansas. Since 1961, he has been a program associate and consultant for the International Training and Research Program of the Ford Foundation. He also served as study director of the Hazen Foundation's Committee on College and World Affairs, and has spent several years in Asia on Fulbright and Ford Foundation Research Fellowships.

Bankers Award Boosts Business Standout's Work

A graduate student attempting to find out the workings of the stock market has received a financial boost from Arizona bankers for his project.

Arthur E. Gooding, working toward a master's degree in business administration, has been named 1967 winner of the Arizona Bankers Association annual scholarship for a business student excelling in the field of finance.

Gooding's thesis studies the causes and effects of price fluctuations in common stocks.

Announcement of the award was made by G. Clarke Bean, president of the ABA, and Dr. Glen Overman, dean of the College of Business. It will cover registration fees and book costs for a full school year plus other expenses — a total of $900.

Gooding, 23, is a native of New York and graduate of Ohio University. He is specializing in the fields of finance and economics and serves as a graduate assistant in general business.

Why is IBM interested in so many different people?

The basic reason is growth. Information processing is the fastest growing, fastest changing major industry in the world. IBM computers and other products are being used to solve problems in widely diverse areas, such as government, law, education, medicine, science, the humanities. We need people with almost every kind of background. That's why we want to talk with you.

Whatever your major, you could do a lot of good things at IBM. Change the world (maybe). Make money (certainly). Continue your education (through our Tuition Refund Program, for example). And have a wide choice of places to work (over 300 locations throughout the United States).

We'll be on campus to interview for careers in Marketing, Computer Applications, Programming, Research and Development, Manufacturing, Customer Engineering, and Finance and Administration. Come see us.

P. S. If you can't see us on campus, write to Mr. E. C. Purtell, Jr., IBM Corporation, 3424 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, California 90005.
