

Royalty Awaits Homecoming

Curley Culp and Carolyn Grisz, 1967 Homecoming king and queen, will reign over the 41st homecoming festivities this weekend.

Crowned at coronation ceremonies Tuesday night, the king and queen will be attended by Dick Guzauskas and Judy Hickman, first runners-up, and Joe Paulsen and Carolyn Charest, second runners-up.

Approximately 5,000 alumni and 2,000 parents are expected to attend homecoming and Parents' Day celebrations beginning Friday with a dinner-dance at 7 at Mountain Shadows in Scottsdale, said Don Dotts, alumni secretary. Tickets are $15, or $5 per person attending only the dance.

Saturday morning at 9 the homecoming parade, featuring 20 floats, will wind its way through Tempe and the campus.

Also on Saturday, alumni registration will be held on the administration lawn and at the Alumni House, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

At noon, the classes of 1927, 1947 and the football team of 1927 will hold three separate luncheons at Monte's Restaurant, 3 W. First St. Special guest will be Nina L. Murphy, professor of health, physical education and recreation, who began her teaching career at ASU in 1924.

Dormitories, Greeks and some colleges will hold afternoon open house from 2 to 4 for parents and alumni.

Also at 2 will be the Parent's Day Homecoming Assembly. President G. Homer Durham and ASASU President Bill Perkins will be among the speakers at the assembly. The program includes the presentation of an excerpt from "My Fair Lady" and the University choir and symphony, according to Jo Foreman, assembly chairman.

At 6 p.m., alumni and parents may attend a buffet dinner at Palo Verde East dormitory.

Kick-off for the ASU-Wyoming game will be at 8 p.m. Included in half-time ceremonies will be the presentation of Homecoming king and queen to the public.

Completing homecoming weekend will be the alumni lettermen's annual breakfast at 9 Sunday at the Tempe Sands Motel, 601 E. Apache Blvd.

CULP AND GRISZ — Crowned Tuesday night as Homecoming King and Queen for 1967 are Curley Culp and Carolyn Grisz. Homecoming is Saturday, including a float parade, several receptions and banquets and the Wyoming game that night. Classes of '27 and '47 will be honored.

At Student Health Center —

No Flu Vaccine Available

Students who are perennial flu victims should be especially cautious this winter since flu shots are unavailable at the Student Health Center.

Mrs. Elaine McFarland, director of Student Health Service, said the infirmary has tried to get influenza vaccine from various manufacturers but has been unable to obtain any.

"The demand has been greater than the supply," Mrs. McFarland said, explaining why the manufacturers had none available.

Several students have called the infirmary requesting flu shots.

Mrs. McFarland said there would be no vaccine available at all this year. She added that no more efforts are being made to get the flu vaccine because there is no advantage in having it if the students are unable to get it at the beginning of the year.

It takes approximately two to three months after the vaccine is in a person's system for the antibodies to build up sufficiently, she explained.

Despite early predictions, there is no indication so far that there will be a flu epidemic, Mrs. McFarland said.

"There have been a lot of sore throats in the infirmary, but no typical influenza as yet," she continued.

Nominations Sought For 'Who's Who'

Nominations for the 1967-68 "Who's Who Among American College Students" are now being accepted.

Any member of the faculty, staff, student body or officially approved organizations may nominate a student.

Qualifications for "Who's Who" include completion of 84 semester hours of credit, at least a 2.20 cumulative index and recognition attained in scholarship, extra-curricular activities and honors earned while at the University.

Names of nominees must be in the office of the Dean of Students, Mathews Center 142, by Tuesday.

No specific form is required, but submitted names must be the student's full name and in alphabetical order.

Ticket Pickup

Students may pick up ticket stubs for Saturday's Wyoming game between 8:30 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. today at the front ticket windows of the gym upon presentation of a current activity card or two cards if a date's stub is also being picked up.

Students Have Noon Rally for George Romney

A student rally will be held at noon today at Sky Harbor Airport for the arrival of Michigan Gov. George Romney.

Romney will arrive by private plane at the west terminal, gate 21. He will deliver a speech there at 12:20 p.m.

Following Romney's visit, representatives will be on campus to set up a club backing Romney for the Republican presidential nomination.

Thieves Carry Off Auto Stereo Units

Campus Security considers theft from motorcycles equally serious to theft from autos.

High on the motorcycle thief's list this year are mirrors, brake cables, gas tank caps, and, in one case, an entire handlebar assembly.

The State Press warns all bike riders not to leave books, and especially the bunji chords that attach them to the bike, on the motorcycle while in the parking lot.

Four thefts involving automobile stereo tape outfits occurred over the weekend said John Duffy, director of Campus Security.

He said the stereo units or tapes were taken from University automobiles in off-campus parking lots.

Duffy said that three of the four cases involved unlocked automobiles. He noted that the number of car thefts and thefts from automobiles could be greatly decreased if students would lock their automobiles.

Committee Hears Case Of Conduct

By JAN NORMAN

Student A throws a fire-cracker into a crowded room.

Student B has been repeatedly arrested for petty theft.

Student C leads a group of pranksters in painting slogans on the sidewalk on the mall.

STUDENT D fails to pay his housing fees.

Student E maliciously destroys his roommate's radio.

They have all committed acts that are grounds for disciplinary action on the ASU campus.

The University Conduct Committee, formerly the Disciplinary Committee, is responsible for hearing these cases.

THE COMMITTEE has ten faculty and three student members appointed by President Durham. Faculty members are Dr. Willard Abraham, chairman; Dr. Richard Neuheisel, Dean Flarie Den Boer, Dean Shell, Lola Ellsworth, J. J. Littrell, Fredrick Lindstrom, Dennis O'Connor, Edmund V. Mech and Janet F. Walker.

Student members are Les Pospisil, ASASU chief justice; Karen Keesling, AWS president; and John Bare, IFC senator.

A complete explanation of conduct expected of University students is in the ASU catalog. The catalog states, "Each student is expected to conduct himself in such a manner as to uphold . . . the good name of the University and fellow students." Failure to conform to the set standards is reason for dismissal from the University.

If a student is subject to appear before the conduct committee, he will be informed in writing of the hearing. The notice indicates a) the nature of the misconduct, b) the student's right to a hearing, c) what action will be taken if the student waives his hearing, d) the student's right to counsel.

THE HEARINGS are always closed and no information is given out to public sources during the hearings. Minutes are kept of each hearing and a defendant can request a verbatim record be taken.

Decisions of the conduct committee are final. If, however, new evidence is presented, a re-hearing will be called. catalog, "Under the policy of the University, students enjoy the greatest degree of liberty consistent with good work and orderly conduct."

When a student fails to live up to the conduct standards he suffers the consequences.

New Booklet -

Plan Needs Press

American government will not continue to flourish unless we continue to have "a free press dedicated to the welfare of democracy and educated citizens who will use the news media intelligently and with discrimination."

This is the main contention in a newly published booklet written by Donald E. Brown, Arizona State University professor of journalism and chairman of the Department of Mass Communications. The booklet, "How America Gets It's News," is published by Rand McNally and is part of the publisher's "classroom library" series.

Prof. Brown said the booklet will be used principally by students in junior high school social science classes and may also supplement reading material in high school journalism and English classes.

In the booklet, Prof. Brown discusses the history of news reporting and the importance of each citizen informing himself of current events. The author also explains the news gathering, editing and printing process from the newspaper to the newsreel.

Coed Places Third In 'Best' Art Show

An ASU freshman was awarded third place in the traditional division of the "Forty Best"

Art Show being exhibited in the High Plains Galleries in Amarillo, Tex.

Annual Parade Needs Veterans

A drive is underway to get veterans to march in the Veteran's Day Parade at 11 a.m. Nov. 11 here in Tempe.

Persons interested are to contact Nels Nelson at 967-7669 as soon as possible to facilitate arrangement.

Martha Hughes, who is attending the University on an art scholarship, won in the Scholastic Magazine's Art Awards national competition. She received a $50 prize for an oil portrait.

Miss Hughes' work has appeared previously in "Forty Best" exhibits, sponsored annually by the Amarillo Fine Arts Association and open to all artists.

Senior Job Files Urged

Seniors who are planning to fulfill their military obligations or obtain graduate degrees before they go job-hunting have been advised to start a file with the Placement Service anyhow.

"We suggest that any senior establish a file," said Charlie Roberts, placement interviewer at the placement service. He explained that the file is kept by the placement service for five years. "The advantage of having a file is that two or three months before the student receives his graduate degree or is discharged from the service we can start sending it out to prospective employers," he said.

The file consists of a course and grade sheet, a general information form — somewhat like a resume — plus recommendations. Unlike the Registrars' office, the placement service doesn't charge for making copies of the course and grade sheet.

Roberts said that it costs nothing for a senior to establish a file with the placement service.

Symposium Probes Man

The sudden appearance of a 40,000-year-old American might well shake the Social Security Commission, but for scientists attending a symposium Friday, his debut would be a delight.

The archaeology symposium, open to students, faculty and the public, will be held in two sessions at the Life Sciences building between 2 and 5 p.m. and 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Archaeological findings have proved man well established in the Americas 12,000 years ago, but a deep deposit of gravel in a riverbed near Mexico City may reveal that he first appeared — perhaps up to 40,000 years ago.

Dr. James Schoenwetter, assistant professor of anthropology, will chair the six-hour symposium to be attended by some of America's most distinguished scientists.

The function of the meeting, said Dr. Schoenwetter, is to resolve the question of man's existence in the Americas and to evaluate the recent finds at the Valsequillo Reservoir at Puebla, Mexico.

The University's interest in sponsoring the symposium was instigated by the work of Dr. Dwight W. Taylor, associate professor of zoology, who analyzed fossilized snail shells unearthed at the site.

Harriers Host Rival Runners

Cross country runners will launch their home season tomorrow when they host the University of Arizona and Northern Arizona University at the South Mountain Course.

Last Saturday at Tucson the Sun Devils of Coach Senon Castillo placed third in a triangular meet which the U of A won with 31 points and Utah was second with 46. ASU scored 49 points.

Gammage Scene Of Holy Music

A commemoration of the music of George Philipp Telemann, 18th century composer of more than 1,400 sacred cantatas, will be presented by the Department of Music at Gammage Auditorium today at 12:40 p.m.

Participants will be Richard Dales, baritone; Frank Spinosa, violinist; Takayori Atsumi, cellist, and Charles Brown, organist.

Included in the program is the secular cantata "Hope Is My Life," probably written during the composer's tenure as music director in Frankfurt-am-Main.

Also on the program are Twenty Little Fugues, Forty-Eight Fuguing and Varying Chorales, and Sonata for Two Keyboards with Pedal.

HOW TO BE ON TOP OF WHAT'S HAPPENING.

Shake off the conventional bit and come fly with us. In a semester's time we can train you so you'll be flying to Malibu for surfing, Mexico for bullfights, or Los Angeles for action.

When you fly, you're on top of what's happening.

Learn to fly for the fun of it. It's easy to rent planes. You can even own your own plane for something like a thousand. Look in the want-ads; you'll see.

Or learn to fly to qualify for one of those sweet $25,000-a-year airline captain jobs. And see the world.

Come on out and con us into a bargain rate for your first lesson. And, by the way, we don't sign you up for any package, either. You fly only when you want to. With the instructor of your choice.

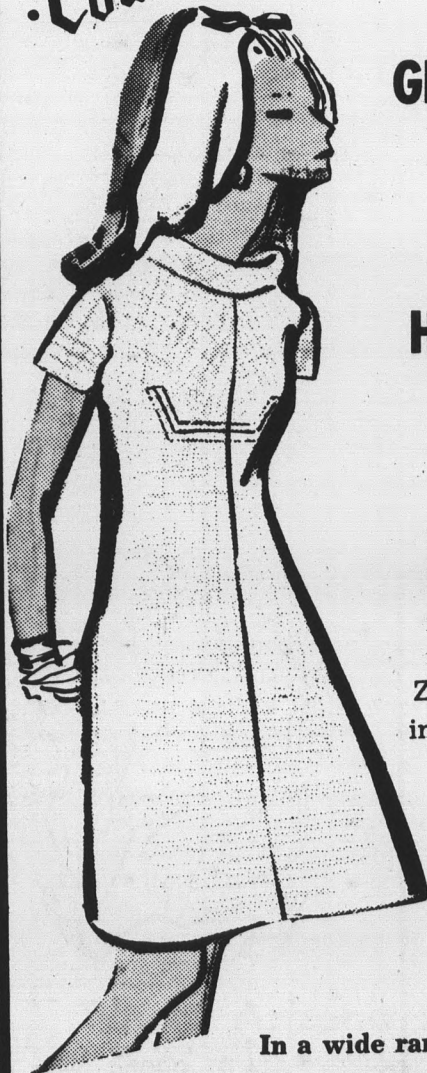

We have ten new Cessnas and a bunch of sharp, patient instructors, and no salesmen.

Try us.

The War

The seemingly endless debate on the Vietnam War can be confusing. Politicians and statesmen, generals and pundits, cab drivers and policemen all have opinions on why we should or should not be there.

Those who agree that we should fight disagree on how — those who think we should pull out disagree on the effects of a pull out.

BUT NO ONE gives much credence to the poor guy in Vietnam who is sweating out his year in combat. We think his ideas should carry the greatest weight. But mostly we hear from those who are too old for military duty, the wrong sex or who are politically and intellectually immature.

These pro- or opponents of the war seem to get the most space in our media. We think they give a distorted picture.

But just what does the fighting man think of the war?

Life magazine this week has a moving, frighteningly beautiful picture story on the Marines at Con Thien. The pictures were taken by David Douglas Duncan, a photo-journalist whose coverage of Vietnam gives evidence of his experience as a combat photographer in both WW II and Korea.

THE MARINES HE photographs know why they are in Vietnam. They know what their chances of death are. And they know a truth that seems to have been forgotten by many Americans. Dying in one's country's wars is not the worst fate a man can face. Surely there are thousands behind the Iron Curtain and in other Communist dominated countries who would be willing to give up their lives so that their fellowman could be free of the stifling atmosphere of Red domination. Thousands, in fact, already have.

And now a little closer to home.

Yesterday's Arizona Republic ran a story of a Phoenix lieutenant's letter to his mother.

FIRST LT. William B. Kiser, who worked his way through ASU as a railroad brakeman, had this to say:

"You wanted to know how it is over here. Well, we have definitely made progress, and we are definitely winning the war. For instance, just the year I've been here there are places you couldn't go to at all without getting into a fight; now in the same areas there isn't a Vietcong in sight.

"And then at times when you see Americans killed it all seems so futile. For instance, we received a letter tonight from the father of a Sgt. who was killed about three weeks ago. He isn't raising hell about the war. What he wants to know is how his son was killed, and if he was a good soldier. He gave his son a military funeral.

"IN MY OPINION if the United States pulls out of Vietnam without gaining a victory then the sergeant's life and 30 or 40 others that I have personally seen die will all have given their lives for nothing. It will have been a big waste.

"I get quite disturbed when I read about protestors and draft dodgers.

"But when I think about it, I realize this is what makes our country great. We are fighting and our men are giving their lives protecting the right of these people to protest.

"I don't like it over here; very few people do, but not one of them will say he is sorry he is here. I am proud to be able to say 'I fought in Vietnam.' I just hope America does not give up before victory is assured. I guess that is enough of that.

"Only 58 days until I'll be on the big bird home. Be good and write when you can. Love, Bill."

Lt. Kiser was killed in action three days after writing the letter.

Editor:

In reading Miss Friedman's letter in Wednesday's State Press, I became aroused at the way she distorted facts about Dr. al-Marayati's speech, "Political Realities in the Middle East," by quoting the speech out of context. To not follow up a quote is distorting the truth and is worse than misquoting.

As anyone who attended the lecture knows, Dr. al-Marayati documented his entire lecture. He used documentation from Moshe Dayan's book on the Sinai campaign, the Jerusalem Post newspaper, Fortune magazine of Sept. 1 and the last three articles on the Middle East in Life magazine. Surely all these sources are not biased.

Miss Friedman goes on in her emotional fervor, saying, "had the outcome of the June conflict been reversed, Israel would have been liquidated, its name erased from reality, its inhabitants pushed into the sea, and an Israeli wouldn't have been alive to tell lies, let alone the truth."

First, if Israelis are afraid of being pushed into the sea, how is it that they are now over three times the size of the original United Nations boundaries, all at the expense of over a million Arab refugees?

Secondly, the Arabs are not desert savages with crooked swords chopping off heads as pictured in Hollywood movies.

Look at history. The Arabs saved the Jews from persecution in Spain and have never persecuted the Jews as was done in Christian Europe.

If the Arabs are ever victorious, the Jews will be given the right to buy property and live in peace or free passage to Europe or the U.S. as they choose. This was the proposal made by Dr. Mahdr, head of the Action Committee on American-Arab Relations.

All the Arabs want is their property. To get this, they feel they must eliminate the state of Israel, not eliminate the Israelis. The Palestinians never agreed on giving their property to the state of Israel or to anyone else. Would any other country agree to this?

Shakir Diab

Editor:

I feel I have to answer the assertions made by Mr. Englund in the State Press on Oct. 24.

Mr. Englund argues that

Letters to the Editor

ROTC is the easiest way to earn a commission and fulfill one's military obligation. I don't deny this.

However, this advantage does not justify a mandatory program. The answer to Mr. Englund's question, "What's so wrong about wearing a uniform?", is "nothing, if you intend to complete four years of ROTC."

But suppose you wish to join the Marines or the Navy? Suppose you feel that spit-shining your shoes and polishing your brass for two to three hours on Monday night cuts a little too deeply into your study time (I have done these things and still been told on Tuesday morning that this or that aspect of my uniform "needs a little work")?

Suppose you feel that getting up at 5:30 a.m. to attend N.C.O. academy at 7 cuts a little too deeply into your sleep?

Suppose that you feel that the time you would have to give to the advanced course would seriously handicap you in your struggle with physical, organic, advanced inorganic and nuclear chemistry?

A cadet who drops out of ROTC as soon as he can (for some of the good reasons listed above, perhaps) actually costs his country money and gives it almost nothing in return. When he joins the service, all the things he learned in basic ROTC will be re-taught.

The Armed Forces give a man a choice of his branch of service and allow him to complete four years of undergraduate work before serving his country. Who is Arizona State University to countermand this privilege and burden its students with a pseudo-military obligation for two years?

Fredrich B. Peterson

Editor:

The great experiment in American mass education at the state university level surely must be a failure — at least at Arizona State. This rather flamboyant proposal is based upon some casual observations I made during the past week.

There were some students earlier in that week who attempted to state their opinions and beliefs during a rally on the campus mall concerning the draft. They were bombarded with a vocal barrage of jeers and taunts which sounded like something indicative of youth at a much lower age level.

The end of that week saw the mall quivering with the militant footfalls of parading coeds singing campaign songs. Excitement was in the air; a carnival atmosphere pervaded the campus reminding one of those fun-filled high school days.

Let's face reality. The importance of learning and the responsibility that accompanies it have been forgotten at ASU. A "concerned" student body, if only mildly enlightened by the educational torch, does not jeer at its classmates who hold differing opinions and express them to a presumably educated public.

If we insist on parading up and down the campus mall throwing handbills and other litter, let's parade FOR or AGAINST Vietnam, the bomb or free love, not a homecoming queen. The faculty of the latter in the light of current world events seems unusually out of context.

The experiment has failed, and the blame can be placed upon professors who instill nothing but a preoccupation with grades in the minds of their students, and students who are not yet mature enough to realize why the experiment was ever started in the first place.

Obadiah Answers

Dear Obadiah:

Well, the University has done it again! This outrage of having to pick up tickets for the Homecoming game. What's the story anyway? More red tape; the next thing that will happen is pay toilets.

Routed by Red Tape

Dear Routed:

According to my confidential, inside informants, this is supposed to limit the number of students attending the game. You have to look at this from behind a dollar sign to get the full panoramic perspective.

Dear Obadiah:

I really have the craving to go some place for the Thanksgiving holidays. Any suggestions?

No Turkey Lover

Dear No:

Just happen to know of three exciting ski trips. The Snow Devils are going to Alta, via Salt Lake City, for four days of snow fun. Cost will be $63. The New Turtles ski club is heading for the Heavenly Valley ski area at the South Shore of Lake Tahoe, California. It's $55 for this one.

Both of these prices include transportation, lodging, and lift tickets.

For more information contact the Valley Travel Mart or the Ski Haus.

The third is the annual Thanksgiving solo ski run down Tempe Butte.

Dear Obadiah:

Is it possible for a woman of 20 to be in love with a man of 45? I find my mind wandering to the memories of our only date. He isn't married, nor has he ever been. I try to call him, but I always hang up before he answers. Should I call, or would this make me look too aggressive?

At Home by the Phone

Dear At Home:

Apparently he is not interested in you, or he thinks that there is too big a difference in your ages. I would suggest that you look around for someone younger, say 35.

Sun Devil Golfers Seek State Laurels

Arizona State golfers Mike Morley and Paul Purtzer are rated high among the contenders in the annual state amateur golf tournament that began Wednesday at Litchfield Park.

The tournament opened Wednesday with a 36-hole qualifying round that ended Thursday. Match play begins today with the title of the tournament at stake on Sunday.

Morley, of Minot, N.D., mastered par at the Litchfield course last year as he shot a 72 on his way to medalist honors in the Sun Devil Invitational. His par was one of only three posted during the tourney.

Purtzer, former state junior champ from Moon Valley Country Club, was the only area golfer who qualified for the U.S. Amateur last year. Purtzer shot at the Gold Course when he qualified with a one-under-par 71. Playing in the tournament will be three ex-champions, Ted Adams of Phoenix Country Club, Dick Hopwood of Scottsdale, and Dick Prather of the U.S. Air Force.

Ex-champions of past years, also Sun Devils Wayne Vollmer (1966), Ken Fulton (1965) and George Boutell, all now professionals, will not be present.

Alumni Lunch Features Baker

A homecoming football luncheon, sponsored by the ASU Alumni Association, will be at 12 Thursday, at Sir George's Restaurant, 208 W. Indian School Rd.

Don Baker, ASU offensive backfield coach and guest speaker for the occasion, will discuss the upcoming game and show films of the Washington State University game.

Alumni of ASU, members of the Sun Angel Foundation and other interested boosters will also hear Bill Young, sports information director for the University of Wyoming, comment on his team ranked No. 8 in the nation.

'Islands' Men Renovate Bell

By PAM SEBASTIAN

Once ASU had a Victory Bell that typified all too well the season's record—rough, ragged and spotty.

The men of the Islands (Sahuaro A and B) decided to rejuvenate the bell to match the new football record.

Paul Odom, president of the Islands, said the men offered to restore the bell when they learned that no one else wanted to do it.

"All we provided was the labor," Odom said. "The equipment and supplies were all given to us." The reconditioned bell boasts a victory slogan on the front and a shiny Sun Devil on the back.

Ringling the bell at the first home game of the season will become an Island's tradition. The men will also ring the bell in the Homecoming parade.

"Now we're trying to figure out how to put flowers on the tug," said Odom.

Haden Shines In Sig Ep Win Over SAE's

The deadly "bomb" of Sigma Phi Epsilon quarterback Gary Haden proved too much for the Sigma Alpha Epsilon actives last Sunday in a pre-intramural football game, that gave the Sig Eps the victory, 26-19.

Haden connected a 30-yard pass to Sig Ep Mike Simmons for the winning touchdown in the last 20 seconds of the game.

Sig Ep end Rick Patton caught two touchdown passes from Haden during the game.

Diver Makes Pre-Olympics

Sun Devil diver Keith Russell won a silver medal and the honor of being the only United States diver to make the finals in the Pre-Olympics being held in Mexico City.

Russell lost to Italy's Claudio DiBiasi, who accumulated 168.46 points to Russell's 164.70.

Japan's Yasuke Arimetz was nosed out for second place by Russell, who performed two brilliant dives, one a front three-and-a-half somersault which earned him 21.06 points.

Russell's best performance, a rocketing twist on his tenth dive, gave him 24.65 points and shot him from seventh place up to second.

Sun Devil Archers Host Meet

The dates to watch are Nov. 17-18 as the Sun Devil Archers Club hosts the First Annual U.S. Intercollegiate Archery Meet.

The event, sanctioned by the National Archery Association and the National Collegiate Archery Coaches Association, is the first of its kind on campus. It should include some 75 entrants, said Miss Margaret Klann, Archery Club adviser.

Men will shoot the Columbia, Chicago and American rounds, including a short Federation of International Target Archery round.

Women will shoot a double

Columbia, Chicago and a short FITA.

Two trophies will be awarded, the Amborske Award for women, and the Dave Keaggy Jr. Award for men.

Gibson, Holaday Nominated -

YR's Seek Regional Offices

Two University Young Republicans are seeking regional offices today in Denver.

A delegation of nine University students at the Western Federation of College Republicans will campaign for the election of Gary Gibson as regional chairman and Bonnie Holaday as corresponding secretary.

Gibson, a senior, has served as president of the University

YR chapter and is now a national vice chairman of College Republicans. Miss Holaday is a junior in the College of Nursing.

After the convention ends tomorrow, the group will attend the Western States Republican Conference. Barry Goldwater, Richard Nixon, Sen.

Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona will participate.

Larry Stephan, leader of the Arizona delegation, said the chances of the Arizona candidates look good and a visit by Goldwater to their campaign suite may gain the few extra votes needed.

'Homecomer' Bolsters Spirit

"The Homecomer," a publication containing interviews with Frank Kush, his coaching staff and key members of the football team, will be available on campus tomorrow morning and Saturday evening.

The free paper is being published by Phi Delta Theta fraternity in an attempt to publicize the game and boost campus spirit for the important event.

"We feel that some Homecoming activities have become ends in themselves, instead of the means of uniting students and alumni in campus enthusiasm," said Homecoming Chairman Bill Butler.
