

President Cites Progress in '67

President G. Homer Durham has cited the approval of a Litchfield Park branch campus and the opening of the College of Law as the two major developments of the University in 1967.

The Litchfield Park branch campus was approved by the Arizona Board of Regents May 13 after the Board accepted Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.'s gift of 525 acres of land, valued at $1 million.

THE REGENTS' decision is the State's first attempt at the cluster-college, satellite-campus concept. This concept combines the advantages and support of a large nearby university with the educational experience of a liberal arts college.

President Durham also considers the opening last fall of the College of Law with a class of 113 as a major advancement. "A law school probably contributes a greater proportion of its graduates to leadership in the various private and public enterprises than any other professional school," said Dr. Durham. "The law classes come at a time when peace through law, in the individual citizen's life, in domestic and international affairs, is among the urgent necessities of our time," added Dr. Durham.

AMONG other major events, Dr. Durham mentioned the awarding of 79 doctoral degrees during the 81st annual Commencement on May 27. He also mentioned the opening of Manzanita Hall on Sept. 10 and groundbreaking ceremonies for construction of the $1.8 million College of Business Administration building on Feb. 3 as advances.

Manzanita Hall is the highest building on campus. The building will accommodate 1,000 coeds in its 16 stories.

President Durham lauded the baseball team's second national collegiate championship in three years and the dedication of the Women's Physical Education building on Jan. 19.

DR. DURHAM also indicated as a major event the first American Music Symposium, sponsored by the College of Fine Arts with the assistance of a Rockefeller Foundation grant.

He also praised the establishment of an underwater research center directed by the Department of Psychology.

War Coverage Poor Say Foreign Scribes

By NANCY FINDLING

Last summer's riots gave America some pretty bad images overseas, "but nothing as bad as the (Vietnam) war," a Swedish television news editor, one of 15 foreign journalists who are touring the United States, told a campus audience yesterday.

Sponsored by the World Press Institute and Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., the group is visiting major cities across the country.

IN A QUESTION and answer session with a group of University journalism students, the newsmen commented mainly on U.S. coverage of the war in Vietnam and commercial television in this country.

A French reporter for the Central Press Agency in Paris, Laurent Chenard, said "you are badly informed" when asked his opinion of U.S. press coverage in Vietnam.

"You have no one in North Vietnam," he emphasized. "Can I believe you or the French newspapers?" He referred to reports in the U. S. press that the war is going better and better, contrasting French papers' denials of the same via reports from Hanoi by Agence-France-Presse, the French wire service.

SWEDEN'S OLOPH HANSSON commented that his country had always been pro-American, but that they had changed in the last two years, due to the Vietnam conflict.

"The majority may be pro-Russian today," he speculated.

Turning to the U.S. commercial system of broadcasting, London reporter Max Hastings claimed there are "some people in America holding broadcasting licenses who are bloody fools."

Hastings advocated "pressure on people who hold licenses" in order to upgrade U.S. programming. "Give the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) more teeth," he said, noting that two British commercial TV stations recently lost their licenses for failure to provide adequate service.

HANSSON WAS among several of the newsmen who strongly opposed American broadcast advertising practices.

Explaining that Swedish TV had no commercials, he said "I don't like peddlers in my living room." Operating funds for the one-channel government-owned system come through annual rentals of $40-50 a year on radio and television sets, he said, "and I'm glad to pay it to be rid of the commercials."

Kenya (Africa) news editor Mohammed Hatimy said he was "sickened" by the "mix" of news and advertising in some broadcast news programs.

HE ILLUSTRATED with one broadcast which he had heard in the Eastern U.S. which began "Six planes bombed North Vietnam today. Details in a minute, but first this message . . ."

"Which is more important: News of Vietnam or a message about toilet paper?" he asked.

On the other hand, Hansson praised all three U.S. television networks' regular news-in-depth programs as "very good."

AS Secretary Resigns; Cites Health as Reason

Joann Toluse, ASASU secretary, submitted her resignation to the Executive Council Monday.

She informed the Council by letter that she decided to resign "because of health conditions discovered during Christmas vacation."

Miss Toluse emphasized that her resignation had nothing to do with a constitutional amendment pending in the Student Senate which seeks to eliminate the position of ASASU secretary.

Student body officers discussed an appointment to fill the vacancy but nothing was decided.

"She has always put in more than her share of effort," said ASASU President Bill Perkins, "and we will always be grateful to her."

Perkins Breaks Tie -

Center Gets Grant

A rare tie-breaking vote by ASASU President Bill Perkins in Monday's Board of Financial Control meeting assured the purchase of $174.90 in supplies for the ASASU Activities Center in the MU.

About $455 was trimmed from the original request, but there was still substantial opposition to the appropriation.

The opposition seemed to feel the supplies were a luxury and that present supplies and equipment are adequate.

"We only have a certain amount of money left, and we might need it for emergencies later in the year," said Bill Sage, ASASU Activities Vice President.

But Perkins, chairman of the board, felt differently and employed his seldom-used tie-breaking vote to approve the measure.

"Even though money is precious, I feel some of these things will help ASASU's operation in the long run," he commented.

Defense Loan Exit Interviews

All recipients of National Defense Educational Loans who will be leaving campus at the end of this semester must report to Admin. 107 for exit interviews.

Office hours are 8 to 5, Monday thru Friday, said Joan Walsh, supervisor of the student loan department.

Stones Tossed at Salaries

(Fourth in a Five Part Series)
By LARRY ROSS

The importance of teaching, research and salaries to the faculty at large was reflected in the report of the 24-member goals committee.

The committee tossed stones at some facts of faculty life, while showering rose petals on a few facets of the University they found particularly admirable.

THE REPORT said that important recent developments in several disciplines gave promise of a few departments being counted among the top 20 or 30 in the nation within a few years.

Dean Richard G. Landini, chairman of the committee, said the departments were not listed, because the committee had not felt that was what they had been charged to do.

Receiving harsher comment were faculty salary levels, which the report said are well short of being competitive in the academic market place.

THE COMMITTEE reported that faculty morale had been reduced to a critical low point, because of salary gaps between new faculty members and experienced ones.

"New and less experienced faculty are being hired at salaries above those of current faculty with many years of experience at this University."

The committee recommended that careful attention be given to insure that experienced faculty were more highly paid, and that promotions in rank be accompanied by increases in salary and recognition.

ALSO, THAT procedures be implemented to inform faculty members of their contract status before the end of the first semester, and that merit criteria be developed for use by department chairmen in offering bonuses.

Dr. Landini said that recent ratings on a letter basis from the bottom on up (instructor, assistant professor, associate professor, professor) were A,A,B and C in comparison with the national average.

"That C has to be changed if we are at all to fulfill our destiny as a great university," he emphasized and then added that supplementary rewards were not at the level they should be either.

HE NOTED THAT, in addition to wages and fringe benefits, physical resources such as labs and a research library were vitally important.

Beginning this year, the committee expressed its belief that professors should be interviewed before leaving the faculty, and that these interviews should be used to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the University.

Teaching loads came in for criticism as being excessive and becoming increasingly so with each passing year, according to the report.

Salzman Gets $20 -

AEP Wins Ugly Man Title

Harry Salzman of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity captured the Ugly Man competition this semester, winning for his fraternity a cup trophy and for himself a $20 gift certificate at the Oxford Shop for Men.

AEPi's Harry Salzman

The AEP entry edged out furious competition from Kappa Alpha Theta, the first sorority in the history of the contest to make a strong showing. The girls lost by less than two dollars worth of votes.

As a result of the competition, a check for $65 was sent to the St. Vincent DePaul Charity Dining Room in Phoenix before the Christmas holidays, in the names of the State Press and Pi Delta Epsilon, sponsoring organizations of the contest.

The Oxford Shop contributed one half of the $20 gift certificate.

Salaries Criticized

THE RATIO between teaching and research was cited. As research becomes more extensive, the need for a reduction in the number of hours devoted to teaching increases.

The committee recommended the loads be adjusted in accordance with known standards at comparable universities beginning in this academic year.

The committee also recommended that the University foster, enhance and encourage faculty research and scholarship.

THE COMMITTEE recommended that research be supported by state funds beginning this year, and that overhead funds realized from research grants and contracts be more equally divided.

Overhead funds are what the academic unit conducting the research is given to cover operating expenses and to cover cost of facilities.

At present these funds are divided among the researchers and a University general fund, which is used to aid other departments in getting grants.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Landini, this has caused some resentment on the part of the researchers, who feel they should get all the benefit from the funds, since they generated the grant.

In other research-oriented areas, the committee recommended the establishment of a University Press to publish scholarly works, and that the productive capacity for research be increased through expanded facilities, faculty endowments and support personnel.

Also emphasized was the need for continued financial support of the University Grants Committee. A recommendation was made that President Durham appoint a task force this year and periodically thereafter to study, identify and evaluate the present strengths, including research potential, of the University.

THE COMMITTEE recommended the establishment of at least three additional endowed chairs by 1970, and also a total of ten University Professorships by 1974-75.

In the report, "extraordinarily accomplished scholars" would fill the endowed chairs, while scholars "who have achieved distinction in their disciplines" would fill the University Professorship positions.

Dr. Landini said that the cost of each chair varied, because the cost of facilities must be included with the salary and are most important in the science area.

Devils Rally to Defeat Lobos -

Culp Seals Mat Victory With a Pin

By RICH WHISENHUNT
Wrestling Writer

"Thank God for big packages," said wrestling coach Ted Bredehoft about Curley Culp's mat victory against the University of New Mexico's heavyweight Tuesday night.

Defending NCAA heavyweight champion Culp pinned his opponent with just 1:11 gone in the final match to give the Sun Devils a 17-14 triumph.

THE DEVILS were trailing the Lobos going into the last two matches. Dick Thompson then faced off with last year's runner-up in the Western Athletic Conference, Floyd Shade and beat him 10-4.

"In the 2½ years Thompson has been wrestling for the maroon and gold, it was his best match," said Bredehoft. "He put us in position to win."

The Lobos jumped to an early lead with a surprise win over Devil 123-pounder Bob Shines. Shines, who had won his last seven matches in a row, was leading by a big margin in the early periods, but was overtaken in the last moments.

BREDEHOFT SAID, "The thing that hurt us the most is that we haven't had any competition since the Oklahoma tourney."

Larry Wagner, who recently returned to the active list, won an easy decision in the 130-pound division.

Fiery grappler Pete Medley grabbed the next Devil win with a decision over the Lobo 137-pounder. Art Holland kept the Devil matmen alive with the third consecutive victory.

NEW MEXICO then took three wins in a row. The first two came on decisions against Dick Johnson and Tim Pittman. Johnson was tied 4-4 with just five seconds left in his match when his Lobo contender managed to get a reversal and win the match by a 6-4 decision.

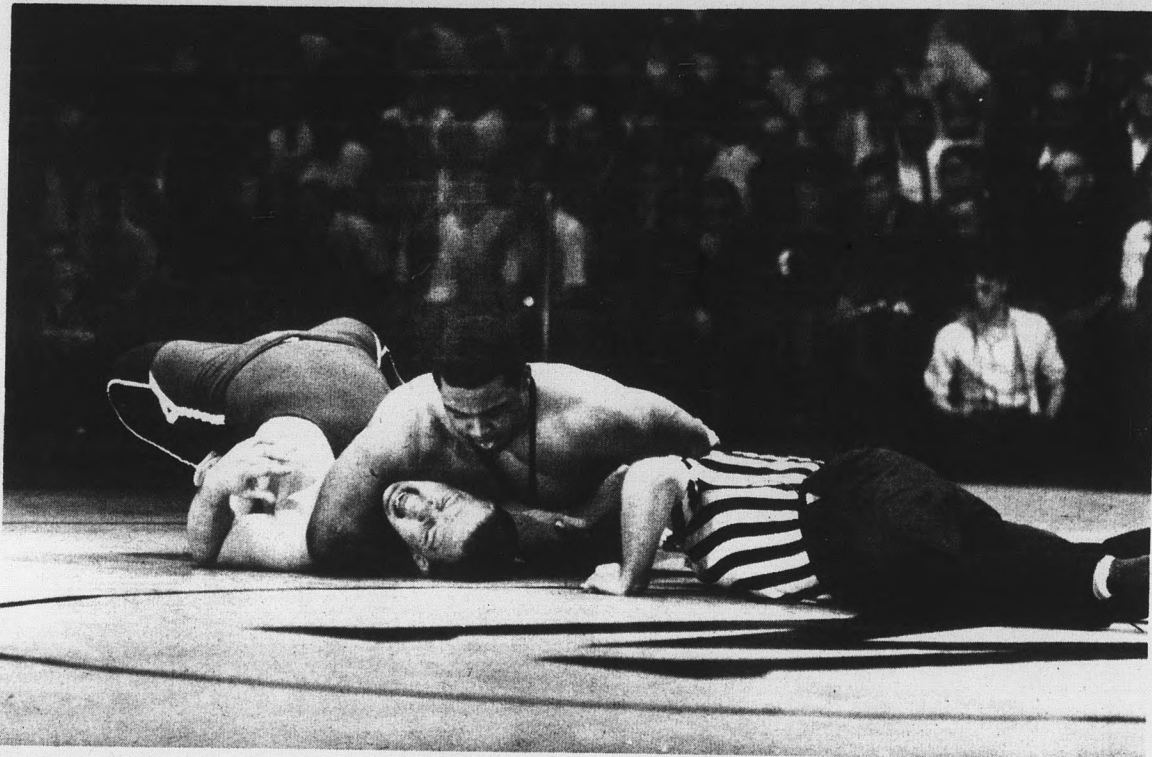

The Lobos got their final win by a forfeit in the 167-pound weight division.

Then came the final two matches which the Devils had to win for a team victory.

THOMPSON SET up the win with his decision and Culp overpowered his opponent to clinch a Sun Devil win.

The next Sun Devil home meet, which may be the match of the year, will be this Saturday against Michigan State, defending NCAA champions.

"Having to forfeit five points, we will have to be at our very best," stated Bredehoft.

KILL, CURLEY, KILL — Wrestling and football go hand-in-hand for Sun Devil Curley Culp whether he is tackling a quarterback in the East-West Shrine Game or pinning an NCAA opponent. In this photo Culp is in his greatest moment of wrestling glory, in becoming the NCAA heavyweight champion. Culp duplicated the scene Tuesday night against New Mexico.
