Shopping Center Tows Cars Away

By TOM WHEELER

More than 50 student cars were tagged to be towed away from the Tempe Shopping Center parking lot Wednesday morning by center authorities.

A small red tag was placed on the rear window near the University registration decal on each car, saying "Tow Away." Five tow trucks worked the area as fast as they could hook up, hoist and tow away.

A spokesman for the shopping center said, "We are between a rock and a hard place. The merchants are threatening to refuse to pay their rent because we promise them parking space for their customers."

"I came over here this morning and found student cars parked in here at 7:30. See that Oldsmobile? It was parked there at 7:30 and there were parking spaces right across the street in the University parking lot that were empty," he said.

"We have tried everything. It's bad enough to find a solid line of student cars here before the merchants open up in the morning, but it gets worse around the El Rancho area about 9:30," the spokesman continued.

Signs are posted in approximately 16 places around the entrances and on posts in the lot. They warn that the lot is for patrons of the merchants and others will be towed away at the owners' expense. A phone number to call for information about towed cars is displayed on each sign.

"We try to be fair and when a student goes in a store and makes any kind of purchase we do nothing if the car sits there all day long. We realize there is a great problem. We have offered to meet with the University officials and have suggested plans. All we have gotten back are letters from Durham saying he had no money to build parking facilities, but they seem to be building something all the time," he said with a shrug of his shoulders.

"We sympathize with the student and I know they have a terrific problem. However, we have to be fair to our merchants, too. Their customers complain they can find no place to park. If the University cannot provide for them, I don't know what the solution is," the spokesman concluded.

Pre-Registration Dates Told

Early registration for the fall semester will begin Monday, May 13, the committee on registration has announced.

Class schedules and course request cards will be distributed to continuing students at the Moeur Administration Building May 13 through 17 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturday, May 18, from 8:30 a.m. until noon.

STUDENTS eligible for early registration are those registered for one or more on-campus classes, day or night, this semester.

Advisement for continuing students will be conducted at the posted office hours in the curriculum advisers' offices from Tuesday, May 14, through Friday, May 17. Advisement will continue on Monday, May 20, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Procedure for early registration is as follows:

- 1) Obtain course request card at the Moeur Building,
- 2) report to curriculum adviser,
- 3) obtain an approved program of studies,
- 4) list the approved courses on the course request card and leave it with curriculum adviser.

COMPLETED course request cards must be filed no later than 4 p.m. May 13.

If all classes which students have requested can be provided, they will be registered by the computer and a billing for fees and the registration commitment will be mailed to home addresses approximately August 15. To complete the early registration, students may return their materials only through the mail. Failure to pay fees by the deadline will result in cancellation of the early registration commitment.

August 1. For those students who cannot be completely scheduled for the courses they have requested, class cards will be prepared for the courses in which they can be accommodated.

THESE class cards will be included in their walk-through registration packet. They will then complete the remainder of their fall semester class schedule during the walk-through.

Orchesis to Perform Tonight

Psychedelics, Color Will Dominate Dance Concert

By LYDIA KOTENBEUTEL

It has now been revealed to the world.

The latest trend in dance features psychedelic lights, far out music and moving filmed images projected on backgrounds and dancers alike, says Time magazine's March 15 cover story.

To demonstrate, Santo Giglio has directed the spring dance concert to be in Gammage Auditorium at 7:30 tonight and 8 p.m. tomorrow. Open free to the public, the concert is sponsored by Orchesis.

Among the works performed will be Giglio's "In This Place," a 16-minute, stream-of-consciousness composition. Hoping that each viewer will form his own interpretation, Giglio had no rigid story-line in mind when he choreographed the work.

Huge filmed images of dancers, in black and white and in color, projected on a blue cyclorama, juxtapose and contrast with actual performers. With the appearance of the giant images, the dancers seem dwarfed, only to regain normal size when the filmed characters disappear.

OTHER WORKS which were choreographed by students are: "Suspension of Reality," an experiment in the use of lighting and sculpture, by Stephanie Rose; "Second Law of Thermodynamics," whose mood and movements suggest, but do not attempt to interpret, the law, by Denise Doering; "Won't You Join the Dance," a humorous work featuring a dialogue from a poem in "Alice In Wonderland," by Shari Owens and Lois Bunse; "The Homecoming," based on a section of "Aeschylus' "Oresteia" trilogy, by Donna Murray.

Also, "The Schmoos," a study in shapes and forms, based on Al Capp characters, by Susan Cohenaur; "Irresolutions," showing that individuals are faced by indecision, but ultimately they must govern and direct themselves, by Joyce Pinkley and Linda James; and "Essence," which states that no man is alone, and that interaction is the essence of civilized life, by Ann Clarke and Betsy Kalish.

PATTI McCONNELL, a faculty associate in dance, choreographed "Ave," which expresses a feeling of reverence and prayer.

The concluding four-part work, "Fanfare," was choreographed by Giglio. It features dancers carrying nine-foot bamboo poles to which are attached silk banners, color-keyed to costumes, tinkling capiz shells, balloons and bells.

Engineering Laboratory Sees Strength in Color

Psychedelic movie producers should drop into the engineering measurements laboratory to see a wild display of moving kaleidoscopic colors — all done in the name of science.

Fleeting patterns of color are produced in the lab by applying tension to a plastic model in a dynamometer (a tensile testing machine). Bill Steils, graduate student in engineering, explained that a polariscope then passes light through the specimen which engages the polarization of light in relation to the load applied.

The light then passes through a second polarizer and the resulting color pattern indicates the stresses in the specimen.

Some of the designs have been copyrighted and printed on fabrics by L. Anton Maix Fabrics of New York. Two examples of these scientifically designed prints hang on the walls of the measurements lab.

KAET to Expand Present Facility

Beatles'-Eye View of the Guru.

The Maharishi Mahesh Yogi—spiritual adviser to the Beatles and Mia Farrow, architect of Transcendental Meditation, leader of the Spiritual Regeneration Movement. A frail man who sits cross-legged among cushions high in his own ashram—a Himalayan retreat where believers practice meditating and exist on boiled rice and vegetables. The Beatles were there, and Mia, and a score of celebrated and not-so-celebrated believers from around the world. Why? To find out, Post writer Lewis Lapham talked to the Guru's followers in the U.S., then went to India. You can see the Maharishi, his retreat and his message as the Beatles see them in the May 4 issue of The Saturday Evening Post. Get your copy today. On newsstands now.

ROTC Cadets Preview Summer Camp Program

To get an idea of summer camp life, 81 advanced Army ROTC cadets recently visited Twenty-Nine Palms Marine base, Calif.

The summer camp program is part of the required ROTC course requirement.

CADETS WITNESSED an artillery demonstration conducted by a Marine unit and received practical experience in the operation and firing of the equipment.

Also part of the training was instruction in the operation of radio equipment, demonstration of Explosive Ordinance Demolition activities, a briefing on the Redeye and Hawk missiles, and a tour of the firing site for the Hawk.

Two night training sessions were also conducted, one on map reading and the use of a compass and the other on patrolling, Capt. Plate noted.

DURING THE VISIT the cadets were visited by Dr. Joseph C. Shabacker, vice-president for special services, on behalf of the president of the university.

Brig. Gen. Regan Fuller, commanding general of the Twenty-Nine Palms base, expressed his pleasure with the visit and praised the cadets for their interest in what was being taught and their eagerness to learn, Plate said.

Plate noted that similar comments were forthcoming from the Marine officers involved in the visit, as well as the ROTC officers who accompanied the cadets and Dr. Shabacker.

Tours Deadline Set for May

$1,000 Fellowship Given To Doctoral Candidate

University doctoral student Jay Heizer has become the first student to be awarded a $1000 fellowship sponsored by the Purchasing Agent Association of Arizona, Inc.

Heizer will use the fellowship in conjunction with his research in managerial action among purchasing agents.

Association president Christy Luizzo said that Heizer, one of

63 doctoral students in the College of Business, was selected for the fellowship on the basis of "superior analytical ability and competence in written and oral expression."

"The funds for the fellowship were awarded in conjunction with the Purchasing Agents Association program to stimulate research in purchasing and materials management," Luizzo commented. He added that the award is designed to encourage the undertaking of such research. Luizzo hopes fellowship recipients will become active in the material management field either as practitioners or as university teachers.

Heizer plans to join the faculty of Memphis State University as an assistant professor of management after completing his DBA degree requirements.

Law Forum Innovates First-Hand Experience

The charter class of the College of Law represented by the Student Bar Association Council has elected Robert M. Cook as president with Sue Burke the vice-president.

The council has developed numerous extra-curricular programs to enhance student knowledge in not only law and its problems, but also social, economic and political issues.

With the cooperation of the Phoenix Police Department, each night five different law students "ride-a-long" with sergeants in patrol cars to gain first-hand experience in law enforcement.

THE LAW Forum is another innovation developed by the council. Patterned after the famous Harvard Law Forum, Student Bar members once a month gather informally to discuss daily issues.

The first forum featured Dean Willard Pedrick, William Canby, professor of constitutional law; Richard Effland, professor of property law; and John Frank, well-known Phoenix attorney discussing students' questions regarding the law school curriculum.

Other officers of the Bar Association are John Moore, treasurer; John Burke, secretary; Mike Hawkins, Mike Napier, Karl Kochner, Robert Schaefer, and Bob Hungerford, council members.

Club to Sponsor Karate Tourney

By BILL JACKSON
Sports Editor

The University Karate Club will host the First Annual Collegiate and Fourth Annual Western States Karate Championship Tournament Sunday in Sun Devil Gym beginning at 1 p.m.

Contestants representing Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will compete in the tourney and demonstrations and competition between the highest ranking Japanese karate instructors will highlight the afternoon.

This will be the second tournament for the club this year. They participated in a tournament in the Shrine Temple in Phoenix earlier this year against three other teams.

Robert Joyce, president of the club, explained that "karate is not just the breaking of boards or bricks."

"Karate is a way of life in which its participants strive to attain superb physical fitness and mental self-discipline," Joyce continued.

The club was formed in 1962. Tuesday and Thursday it meets in the National Guard Armory and in the men's gym on Saturday. Each practice is about two hours long and anyone interested in joining the club is welcome, Joyce said.

The club is instructed by Shojiro Koyama from the Arizona Karate Association. This association is an affiliate of the Japan Karate Association.

Soccer Team to Play In First Invitational

With squad captain Pete Versteegen and club president Jorge Ibarra on the walking wounded list, the Sun Devil soccer club can be sure of some stiff collegiate competition Saturday in the first annual University Invitational Soccer Tournament.

Plans are nearly completed for receiving visiting teams from Utah State University, Loyola of Los Angeles, UofA and the American Institute for Foreign Trade.

TOTAL COST of the tournament and evening banquet for the teams will be $380, and the Devils have been able to raise even more than that from contributions by Tempe merchants.

Instrumental in organizing the entire weekend have been John Stuckless, Harry Versteegen, Jim Franzmeier and Gerreth Lewis.

On the theory that conditioning will determine the victor in Saturday's schedule of ten continuous games, all of which will be held in Goodwin Stadium, the Devils have been working hard this week on their practice field behind Sahuaro Hall.

IF VERSTEEGEN and Ibarra hold up throughout the tournament, they will provide the basis of as fine a defense as any coach could hope for.

If they don't Devil offensive hopes may have to be altered to meet a weaker defensive setup.

The complete schedule of games for Saturday's tournament follows:

DEVILS vs Utah State, 9:30 a.m.; UofA vs Loyola, 10:15 a.m.; DEVILS vs AIFT, 11 a.m.; Utah State vs Loyola, 11:45 a.m.; Uof A vs AIFT, 12:30 p.m.; DEVILS vs Loyola, 1:15 p.m.; Utah State vs UofA, 2 p.m.; Loyola vs AIFT, 2:45 p.m.; DEVILS vs UofA, 3:30 p.m.; Utah State vs AIFT, 4:15 p.m.

ALL the matches are open to the public free of charge.

If the starters stay healthy between now and game time at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, the lineup of 11 regulars and four subs will be:

- Rudy Ashford—goalie
- Jim Franzmeier—right fullback
- Jorge Ibarra—left fullback
- Pete Versteegen—center halfback
- Frank Brough—right halfback
- Luis Ropo—left halfback
- Lenny Houghton—center forward
- Garreth Lewis—right inside
- John Stuckless—left inside
- Jesus Espinoza—right outside
- Georg Montclair—left outside
- Harry Versteegen—offense-defense
- Oscar Franke—offense-

Unfortunately.

We don't call it a watch. All the parts that make a watch fast or slow have been left out. The balance wheel, springs, staff and screws. Accutron does not use these parts. Instead, a tiny tuning fork keeps time through vibrations that are battery powered. Accutron time is so precise that we guarantee monthly accuracy within 60 seconds.

FAILURE TO COMMUNICATE? — Bob Ostrander, member of the Student Information Board, tacks up poster on one of the kiosks on the Mall. Life expectancy of such posters is short, with souvenir hunters grabbing signs almost before they're put up.

Sign Enthusiasts Pilfer Posters

Poster thieves have been sticking up the Student Information Board (SIB) kiosks for some time now, and Mark Windsor, chairman of SIB, has launched a new program in hopes poster enthusiasts will end their attack.

The assault has hindered SIB's efforts at getting information about coming events to the student body. Now copies of all posters are available in the activities center, MU 212.

These posters, identical to the ones which are on the kiosks, can be picked up on a first-come basis. They have no tack holes, and are not folded, spindled or mutilated.

So all poster thieves and enthusiasts, how about giving the Student Information Board a break? Stick up MU 212 instead of the kiosks.

Abandoned -- but Personal

Old Church Inspires Student

By JOHN KEETER

Working in an abandoned church can be inspiring if a person is an architecture major and doesn't mind the crickets during the night.

Chris Doran, sophomore architecture major, moved into the old church near the Newman Center several months ago in order to be near the campus and also to provide further inspiration for a philosophy he has been formulating on architecture.

Doran calls it "metaphysical architecture," and he believes it is a new approach to architectural design.

He defines his philosophy as "my interpretation of the spiritual order. Metaphysical architecture is an attempt to relate the man of today with spiritual reality."

THE MOST perplexing problem in today's architecture, Doran felt, is creating efficient practical structures while maintaining the importance and dignity of the individual.

Doran explained that metaphysical architecture emphasizes the importance of the individual by placing him in a spiritual environment. Combining the physical with the spiritual in architecture would lead to a more meaningful life, he said.

Doran denied that his ideas were impractical. "I'm not overlooking cost. I'm questioning whether or not cost is more important than personalism."

HE ADDED he wasn't expecting his metaphysical architecture to be widely accepted.

"The desire for change has to come from within each person. I'm not going to take the responsibility of forcing my feelings on anyone."

Doran said he likes the many periods of architecture on campus, but added, more areas are needed where students can meet in small groups and "maintain their personal identities."

Doran has applied his ideas to the solution of practical problems. The small church in which he works was abandoned because it could seat only 200 people.

DORAN LIKED the church because it was small and had a hand-pulled bell — two ways of emphasizing the individual in a spiritual setting. So, he designed a way of expanding the church's capacity to 700 and preserving the "personal atmosphere of a small church."
