Sorry about that, Sands Motel gone

The Sands Motel is no more.

The University has officially taken over the popular student hang-out and is in the process of converting the 59,000 square foot motel into a residence center for graduate students.

The building will be re-named Mariposa Hall, a title in keeping with the ASU policy of designating its dormitories after southwestern flora and fauna.

After undergoing remodeling this summer, the motel will re-open in September as the University's first residential provision for graduate students, a group which now comprises almost 20 per cent of the enrollment.

The rooms and recreational facilities of the modern residence hall will be available for single graduate men and women at least 21 years old, with men residing in one wing and women in a second area of the building.

The dormitory is located on the Tempe-Mesa highway approximately four blocks from the center of the campus, and its residents will be within easy walking distance of classrooms, Hayden Library, Gammage Auditorium and all other major University facilities.

Occupants of the hall will have a choice of two meal schedules, three meals served seven days per week, or three meals served five days per week, Monday through Friday.

Two occupants will be assigned to each room, says Edward Hickcox, assistant vice-president for business affairs and director of auxiliary services.

Hickcox said only a limited number of married couples will be admitted and they will be required to subscribe to the meal services.

Last fall the Board of Regents authorized the University to purchase the motel at an estimated cost of $900,000.

Funds for the purchase were provided by the sale of self-liquidating revenue bonds, which will be retired by student payment of room and board fees—ranging from $966 to $1,040 per academic year—at no cost to the state taxpayer.

The purchase price included the full-equipped motel and all of its furnishings, including snack bars, dining facilities, seminar rooms and rooming accommodations for 208 occupants.

In addition to providing sorely-needed quarters for graduate students, who are presently required to live off campus or in under-graduate dormitories, Mariposa Hall will serve as a geographic link between the central campus and the Sahuaro Hall complex of men's residence centers in southeastern Tempe.

There are services now available at Mariposa. From 6:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. a snack bar is open five days a week and from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. there is a buffet served to faculty, staff and graduate students. Price for the buffet is $1 for all you can eat.

Regents parcel out money

The University's 1969 capital outlay appropriation of $4.3 million was parceled out May 24 by the Board of Regents.

Music building allocations of $900,000 and $114,000, the latter figure for furnishings and equipment, were the top items on the funds distribution list.

The Regents also approved the award of a $2,732,400 contract to Kitchell Contractors, Inc., Phoenix, for the construction of the 84,000 square foot music building.

Designed by Taliesin Associated Architects, Scottsdale, the eight-story, circular building will be located north and west of Gammage Auditorium, with two floors below ground and six floors above street level.

The Scottsdale architectural firm also completed plans for Frank Lloyd Wright-designed Gammage Auditorium.

Funds for the building, which will require about 14 months to construct, have been provided by about $927,000 in bonding revenue from student fees, authorized by the 1966 legislature; a U.S. Office of Education grant of over $700,000; and 1967 and 1969 legislative appropriations.

In other action involving the physical plant, the Regents accepted preliminary plans for the additional wing to the Language and Literature building on the north end of the Mall.

Health service limited to clinic this summer

Elaine McFarland, director of the student health service, has announced that during summer sessions the health service will operate a clinic only.

The service will be limited to the treatment of minor illness and injuries and there will be no x-ray or laboratory facilities available, nor will there be infirmary care.

Mrs. McFarland said that the service will assist students who do not have a family physician in this area in securing definitive treatment when needed.

A physician will be in the clinic from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. A nurse will be on duty until 10 p.m. to give first aid to emergencies, and help get any further treatment needed.

Since a nurse cannot prescribe medications, students feeling ill should report to the clinic as soon after 8 a.m. as possible, in order to see the physician on duty.

The clinic is located in the new wing of the student health service and the entrance is through the main lobby on the east side facing Palm Walk.

In a case where any genuine emergencies arise after 10 p.m., which cannot wait until morning, or over the weekends, such as injuries involving bleeding, possible fracture, head injuries or abdominal pain, the student should contact the head resident of the dorm immediately and she will know what to do, Mrs. McFarland said.

"Students who are accustomed to getting regular injections of a medication for a chronic disorder should make arrangements for this upon arrival," Mrs. McFarland pointed out, "since it will be necessary to secure their physician's orders written on a form provided by the student health service."

Clinic treatment will be given only to those who show a receipt card of registration, or in the case of high school groups, their special identification.

Families of students are not eligible for clinic care.

Devils still after crown

Arizona State's baseball team took it on the chin in the first game of the College World Series in Omaha, Neb., Friday, but bounced back Saturday and at press time was still in the running for all the marbles.

In Friday's game, the Devils were shut out, 4-0, by the University of Texas, with ace left-hander Larry Gura losing only his second game of the season against 17 wins.

Gura is still the winningest pitcher in college baseball this season and can become the best college baseball has ever had with one more victory.

The Devils just couldn't get the big lumber untracked in the Texas game and the cause was not helped by defensive errors.

Big Lerrin LaGrow got the Devils back in the win column Saturday, going 11 innings to down UCLA, 2-1.

Although the Devils were still weak with the bats, it was an improvement over Friday's contest and coach Bobby Winkles said after the game that his Arizona Staet crew had most the wrinkles worked out and should come on strong.

The Devils were scheduled to play again Tuesday afternoon.

In other action, the Devils were the only team in the country to place two men, on this year's All-America team, Gura and outfielder Paul Ray Powell.

Arizona State's baseball team kept alive Tuesday in the College World Series with a 4-2 victory over the Redmen of Massachusetts.

Coach Bobby Winkles pulled a surprise when he named freshman Craig Swan as his starting pitcher over sophomore Ken Hansen, or his ace Larry Gura, who had three days rest.

Swan came through in fine fashion, working seven innings and giving up two runs, one a blast over the left field wall in the fourth. The big fire-baller thereby won his ninth game of the season against no loses.

Gura came in to relieve Swan in the seventh when he gave up his second run and had two men on. Gura worked out of that trouble spot easily and was never in serious trouble in the two innings that he worked.

The Sun Devils' big bats finally got into action — all in the fourth inning.

Second sacker Lenny Randle started with a double, then watched as Rick Valley and Swan made the first two outs of the inning. But then it broke loose. Roger Detter tripled, Ralph Dick singled, John Dolinsek tripled as did Paul Ray Powell and the Devils had the four run lead and all they needed.

The Devils were scheduled to play Tulsa yesterday in further conquest of their third national title.

Long lines again

Did those registration lines get on your nerves Saturday?

Things are being done to remedy those lines for the second session of summer school. Be sure and read the State Press for details next week.

Maybe this time there will be no lines.

Enrollment last spring puts University on top

The University has officially become the largest school in the state with a record spring semester enrollment total of 26,264.

The spring figure represents an increase of 351 students over a fall enrollment of 25,913 and includes off-campus extension and correspondence students. The University secured the first place spot in terms of on-campus enrollment last fall.

The spring total also marks the first time since 1961-62 that second semester enrollment has exceeded that of first semester.

The fall semester enrollment generally exceeds that of the following term, said Alfred Thomas Jr., registrar and director of admissions, because many students complete degree requirements during the autumn and winter months and others leave for academic, social, financial or military reason.

In addition, he said, the majority of entering freshmen and college transfer students enroll for the fall semester rather than the spring term.

The increase in spring enrollment was a reflection of increased student totals in the extension and correspondence divisions.

On-campus enrollment suffered a normal drop from 23,341 the first term to 22,402 the second, but registration in the extension and correspondence divisions jumped 1,290 to a second term total of 3,862.

ROTC graduates four women

Four Arizona State coeds received second lieutenant commissions in the Women's Army Corps Monday afternoon during Army ROTC commissioning ceremonies.

They were Nedra Jean Anderson, 452 N. Hunt Drive; Judith Ann Browning, 1466 W. 4th Place; Linda Jean Durtsche, 701 S. Dobson, of Mesa; and Marcia Justine Olson, 1126 E. Maryland, Phoenix.

At the end of their junior years, the coeds became acquainted with the highlights of officer training as participants in the WAC college junior program, a four-week period of active duty, at the WAC training center at Ft. McClellan, Alabama.

On the basis of their performance during the program, the young women were awarded senior-year scholarships, and received pay and allowances of the rank of "corporal."

Following receipt of their second lieutenant commissions Monday afternoon, the coeds will again report to Ft. McClellan in August for the WAC basic course, first step in their fulfillment of a two-year assignment in the Army.

The oath of office was also administered by Colonel Robert J. C. Osborne, professor of military science, to 45 male graduates, who have completed four years of ROTC training, and also received second lieutenant commissions.

square foot, five-story addition, estimated cost of which is over $1,200,000.

A $500,000 grant from the Office of Education and legislative appropriations have provided funds for the addition. Bids on the construction contract are expected to be opened next fall.

Other actions by the Regents included:

— The call for bids and awarding of contracts for the realignment of McCallister Ave., a project involving the paving of a new 2,800-foot-long street.

— Approving the award of a $184,855 contract to the All-American School Supply Co., Inc., Phoenix, for the under structure for 8,012 semi-permanent seats in Sun Devil Stadium.

— Approval of the designation Mariposa Hall for the Tempe Sands Motel which the University has taken over to convert it into a residence center for graduate students.

Devils win 2 of 4 crowns

Arizona State's Sun Devils didn't do bad in spring sports this year, winning the baseball and golf Western Athletic Conference championships and finishing third in track behind powerful BYU and UTEP.

Bobby Winkles' baseball squad disposed of BYU in two games and did the same thing to District Seven opponents Idaho the following week.

For their efforts, Paul Ray Powell, Larry Gura, Ralph Dick Billy Cotton and Jeff Osborn were all named on the All-WAC Southern Division team, while Powell, Gura, Dick and Cotton repeated on the All-District Seven team. Lenny Randle was named to the second team in District Seven.

These and the other Sun Devils are now in Omaha, Neb., after the NCAA Championship, a title they won in 1965 and 67 — it's another odd year.

Five Sun Devil track starts have been making news in post season events. Chuck LaBenz, Mark Murro, Jerry Bright, Barry Shepard and Dick Rambo competed last weekend in the United States Track and Field Federation meet in Lexington, Ky., and will be carrying the Devil colors in the NCAA Championships this weekend at the University of Tennessee.

LaBenz will be highly rated in the NCAA field as he cracked the four-minute mile two weeks ago in the Kennedy Memorial Games, covering the distance in 3:58.4. LaBenz won the WAC mile title in 4:01.3 and had been flirting with the sub-four minute barrier as he had posted a 4:00.1 to win at the Jerry Jobski upset highly regarded Gerry Lindgren of Washington State in the six mile run at the USTFF meet Saturday and Mark Murro won the javelin throw with a 280-foot-plus toss.

West Coast Relays on May 10.

Murro will be the favorite in the javelin, having set the American record of 292-8 in the WAC meet, and getting of his second best of the year, 278-6, to win his event in the Compton-Coliseum Relays.

Bright, WAC 220 champ for the past three years, turned in his second 21.1 in two consecutive meets at the Compton Relays. He had posted an identical time in the Kennedy Games and in both instances, he finished fourth.

Shepard got off his best showing of the year in the high jump March 22 when he cleared 7-0, while Rambo, consistent 15-foot-plus in the pole vault, has a best of 16-1/4 this year.

Author, social critic opens Gammage talks

"The Desperate City" will be the subject of an address Monday, at 8 p.m. in Gammage Auditorium by Joseph P. Lyford, nationally known expert on American community life and urban affairs. The program opens the summer Concert and Lecture Series at ASU.

Now professor of journalism at the University of California, Berkeley, Lyford is an award-winning author and one of the nation's most highly regarded social critics.

In his lecture at ASU, he will describe what it is like to live in the depths of a crime-ridden slum, and will analyze how and why social and political chaos is disintegrating urban society.

Author of "The Airtight Cage," which received the 1967 Sidney Hillman Foundation award as the best book on American social problems, Lyford lived on the edge of Harlem in New York City for several years to get the material for the book.

Joseph P. Lyford

He will discuss the many problems of urban life, involving education, health, housing, welfare, and law enforcement; and will show that some parts of the civil rights movement have betrayed the blacks and the urban poor.

Pointing out what the desperation of the city means to rural and suburban America, he will indicate how the nation can respond constructively to the crisis.

After graduating with honors in history from Harvard University in 1941, and serving with distinction as a naval lieutenant in World War II, he began a career as reporter and editor.

For two years he was staff director of the Public Education Association of New York City, during which time the historic study on "The Status of Public Education of Negro and Puerto Rican Children" was undertaken.

His first-hand knowledge of urban problems resulted in his being asked to testify before United States Senate committees, including the Ribicoff Committee investigating urban poverty.

He is a consultant to the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara, and has traveled extensively throughout the United States, Europe and Asia. Tickets, priced at $1 for the general public, may be purchased on the evening of the lecture.

Popular film festival begins tonight at 7

"Eye of the Devil," and "Barefoot in the Park" are the first two full length films to be shown in the popular film festival this summer.

The films, which are to be shown in Gammage Auditorium this year, will start at 7 tonight.

The movies are without charge to members of the University family. Attendance is limited to students, faculty, staff, members of their families and guests, so I.D. cards must be shown.

"Eye of the Devil" stars Deborah Kerr and David Niven and is a story of a titled Frenchman who returns to his ancestral chateau to offer himself as a sacrifice in a pagan rite to halt the famine of his vineyards.

"Barefoot in the Park," with Jane Fonda and Charles Boyer is an infatuous comedy adapted from Neil Simon's Broadway play. Newlyweds Fonda and Robert Redford move into a tiny fifth floor walk-up apartment that is a challenge to love and stamina.

Other Memorial Union services offered during the summer besides the weekly films include the Green Canteen, which is located in the "underground" of MU West and has self service ice cream, soft drinks, cigarettes, coffee and candy. A juke box and early-depression piano are also available.

The "Hole in the Wall" is also available for that quick lunch. Sandwiches, soft drinks and potato chips are available from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

You who wake up with the sun will be pleased to know that coffee, orange juice and donuts will be available in MU West for 10 cents with coffee refills free, from 7 to 9:30 a.m.

A tour on July 12 to the University Art Center in the pines of Payson will be available for $3. Tickets may be obtained at the Front Porch of MU West.

And tours to Taliesin West, home and workshop of the late Frank Lloyd Wright, will be available for $1 per tour. Contact the information desk at MU West for further data concerning these tours.

Phoenix students head enrollment

A total of 8,144 Phoenix residents were enrolled in on-campus courses during the second semester of study at Arizona State.

A survey of the geographic distribution of students enrolled at ASU during the spring term, which ended June 2, reveals that 4,735 men and 3,409 women from Phoenix were among the 22,402 persons taking on-campus classes at the University.

An additional 2,122 students attended extension classes during the spring semester at 29 residence centers of study throughout Phoenix.

Major sources of on-campus students this spring, when 17,358 Maricopa County residents attended classes at ASU, were Phoenix (8,144), Tempe (4,292), Scottsdale (2,583), Mesa (1,418) and Glendale (332).

A total of 8,549 Phoenix residents — 5,001 men and 3,538 women — were enrolled in on-campus courses at ASU during the first semester, when an additional 1,734 students attended extension classes conducted at 25 Phoenix residence centers of study.
