

Army attorneys comment Calley reviewed

By BRIAN STEVENSON

The fact that the U.S. President is commander-in-chief of the armed forces gives him the right to review a court-martial, two Army attorneys said yesterday.

Lt. Col. Eugene Murphy and U.S. Army Major Herbert Flemming, both stationed at Ft. Huachuca, were contacted regarding President Richard Nixon's actions in the Calley case.

President Nixon announced Saturday that he would personally review the court-martial of Lt. William Calley Jr., who was convicted on March 29 of the premeditated murder of 22 Vietnamese civilians. Two days later he was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Lt. Col. Murphy told the State Press yesterday that as commander-in-chief President Nixon has the authority to intercede into and review court martial cases and has the power to dismiss the case and grant a pardon if the case is not warranted.

This is the first time in the history of the Martin Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ), which went into effect in January 1957, that a President has personally reviewed a court-martial, Murphy believes.

Major Fleming said that Section 822, article 22 of the UCMJ gives the President of the United States the right to convene a general court-martial.

"If you can convene (a court-martial), you can review," Flemming reasoned.

Flemming pointed out that section 871, article 71 of the UCMJ states that "no court-martial extending to death or involving a general or flag officer may be executed until approved by the President."

Murphy said all the President has done is take Calley out of confinement until the appeal. Any general at Ft. Benning, Ga., could have done this, he said.

"I suppose the President acted because of public pressure," Murphy said.

Long awaited party in Tempe April 15

By RUTH WOOTTEN

A pregnant lady and Ted Bredehoff have something in common. Both have been waiting nine months for a big event.

Bredehoff, general chairman of the Tempe Centennial Celebration Corporation and assistant to the University athletic director, has, for nine months, been planning and coordinating the 10-day celebration, "Century in the Sun," April 15-25.

The non-profit corporation will donate all the proceeds to the Tempe Historical Society for the restoration of a pioneer home. The home will be open for tours as a "constant reminder of the past," Bredehoff said.

Along with the restoration, the purpose is to "have a centennial celebration that will not only commemorate the Centennial, but also tie the people together in a community project for fun," Bredehoff said.

He estimates there are 1,100 people involved in Tempe's birthday party.

The party begins with a two-day sale, April 15-16, throughout Tempe along the theme of "Old Fashion Bargain Days."

Saturday, April 17, is the official opening day with ceremonies at Tempe Center, University Drive and Mill Avenue. The Centennial Parade is scheduled for 1 p.m. that day.

Three different Centennial balls, starting at 9 p.m., will be held throughout Tempe. Dancing will be at the Granada Royale Hotel, The Elks Club (Western) and the University Memorial Union (for high school and college age).

The Centennial Historical Spectacular, a pageant representing a "Century in the Sun," has a cast of 410 people.

Bredehoff described the pageant as a "sophisticated" show. A 300-foot stage is now under construction in the Sun Devil stadium for the extravaganza. The production is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. April 20-24.

After the official centennial opening, the week includes massed church choirs singing in Sun Devil stadium, luncheons, picnics at Daley Park, a fashion show at the MU, a centennial carnival, special exhibits, displays and swimming at Big Surf.

At 10 a.m. a second Centennial Parade will begin. Following the parade at noon, the Mayor's Luncheon, for visiting mayors, former Tempe mayors and invited guests, will be at Monti's La Casa Vieja, 3 W. 1st St.

The last day of the Centennial, April 25, is Mexican Fiesta Day featuring Mexican food, a youth dance

Legislators informed

Committee praised

By BILL NORMAN

Wayne Lindquist, chairman of the ASASU Public Relations Board, said yesterday that the University governmental relations committee "has easily become the most important committee of the Associated Students."

Under the auspices of the Activities Coordination Council, the committee's purpose, Lindquist said, is to "present unbiased opinions of the students to state legislators and, in turn, transmit legislators' views to the student body."

Speaker of the Arizona House of Representatives Timothy Barrow, R-Maricopa, said yesterday, "I learned more about student opinions from students than I ever did in formal dinners with (former) President (Homer) Durham.

"You always learn more from people getting an education than from those dispensing it because the latter don't always sample what they're dispensing," Barrow continued.

In its one year of existence the committee has "tremendously affected the thinking of legislators," said committee member Marla Conover.

Before now, legislators were essentially ignorant of student ideas, she said.

Among the propositions extended to the legislature by the committee, Lindquist said, were legalized abortion, emancipation of 18-year-olds, and Senate Bill 146 which would provide monies for underprivileged minority group scholarships.

The committee's tentative budget allocation this year includes $350 for an annual "ASU Day" whereby legislators would be invited to dinner on campus to exchange views with students, Lindquist said.

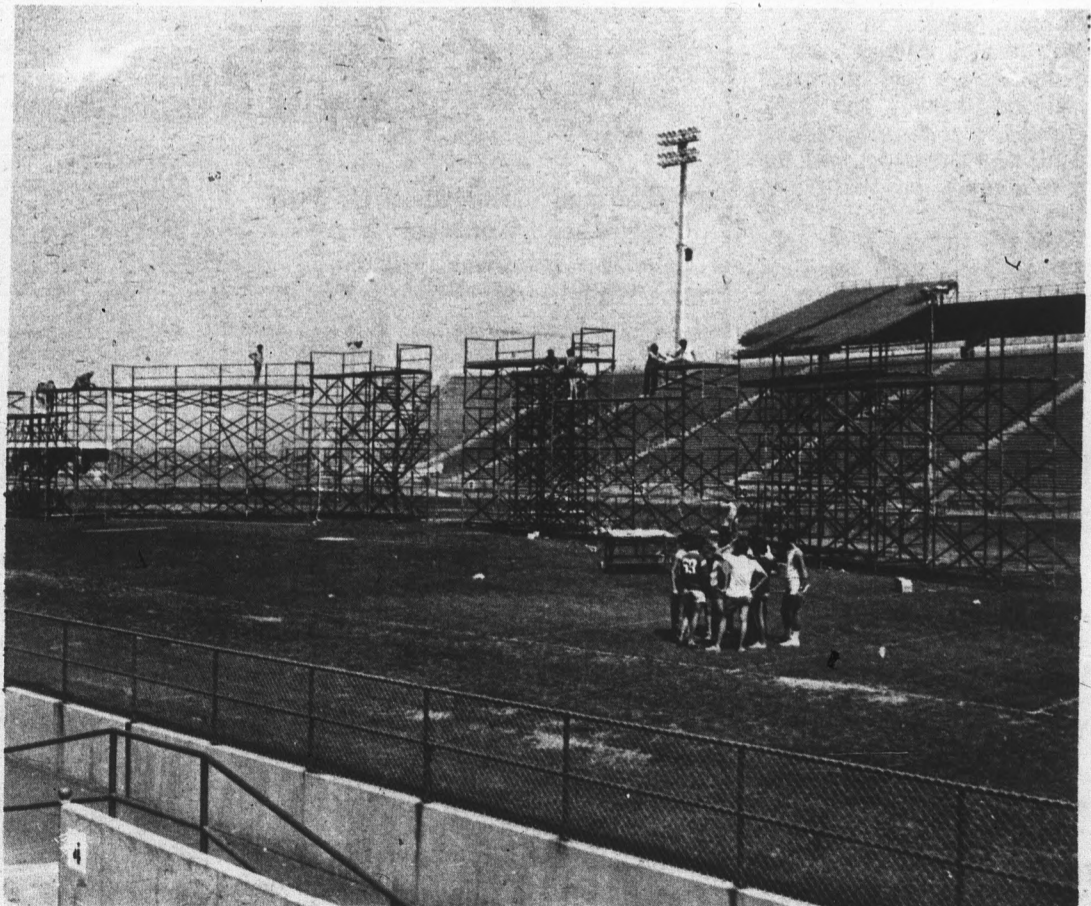

He said the same idea was vetoed last year by University President H. K. Newburn despite the fact the UofA has sponsored a similar event for the last eight years.

Speaker Barrow strongly endorsed the idea. "ASU hasn't done the job UofA has," he said. "This committee is a tremendous idea and should be expanded." Barrow said the need for rapport should be felt not after troubles on campus but before they happen.

The committee consists of 25 members, each responsible for contacting several senators and representatives. Files containing personal information and the voting record of individual legislators are also kept.

Ken Simon, committee member, said much of the information presented to legislators comes from monthly questionnaires sent to samplings of the student body.

"We hope to extend our activities next year," he said, "to cover Arizona high schools and the state executive branch, including the governor."

PLANNING STAGE

Sun Devil Stadium will be transformed into a stage, now under construction, for the Tempe Centennial Pageant, to be held April 20-24. An information headquarters for the centennial, which is titled "Century in the Sun," is located in Tempe Center.

CONCERN

Questions for CONCERN must be submitted at the Message Center of the MU on the forms provided at the center. Questions must be written and include name, address and phone number, for verification purposes. Only initials are used in CONCERN. Initials will be withheld upon request. Questions are welcomed from any member of the University community.

Q. Why is the choice for a new ASU symbol between keeping the old or adopting a symbol I never saw before? Why didn't ASU hold open competitions for art students to design a new symbol and have a student body make the choice from a large selection? I think they could have done better.

A. Allan Frazier, assistant dean of student publications and special events, said the only time interest in a new Sun Devil insignia was expressed was when Barry Sheppard approached the ASASU Executive Council with his new design.

Frazier said the proposed design had the support of enough students that it was discussed in the Student Senate and ultimately appeared as a referendum in student elections.

A student desiring an insignia other than the two now in existence could go through the same procedure to place the proposed design in referendum form, he said

Q. How come the lights are always turned off in the Sidewalk Cafe area during the weekend? I like to study down there. — E.S.

A. The Sidewalk Cafe is not a study area, according to Mrs. Cecelia Scoular, director of the MU. There are numerous lounges and study rooms in the MU, Mrs. Scoular said.

Many people were using the Sidewalk Cafe for a study area before the equipment for preparing food was installed, Mrs. Scoular said.

Now that the equipment has been installed the lights will not be turned off on the weekend, however this should be used as an eating area, she said.

Scottsdale utilizing university

By SHARON BONDRA

The University is of benefit to the City of Scottsdale in several ways, according to Dr. Heinz Hink, professor of political science and Scottsdale city councilman.

"We've started to have a number of scientists from the University help solve the city's problems in terms of ecology, recycling waste materials, police work, fire fighting and others," Dr. Hink said.

Dr. Hink discussed a plan by which various University professors meet with the Scottsdale city manager and mayor. These professors sit in "brainstorming sessions" with the city officials, who throw out problems for the professors to solve.

Included in the meetings are Dr. Shelby Gerking, department of zoology; Dr. John Lounsbury, department of geography; Dr. John Klock, department of engineering; and Dr. Victor Miller, department of agriculture.

Others are Dr. Tom Thompson, department of chemistry; and Dr. Richard Stoner, Dr. William Kaufmann, and Howard Voss from the department of physics.

Concerning the program, Dr. Hink, said, "There is no doubt that it will continue. It has been highly successful. We will probably bring more (people) in."

"We may involve some students. We are very interested in including them in this work. We have had some architecture students do a terrific job with the redevelopment in Vista Del Camino."

(Vista Del Camino is an area south of McDowell Road in Scottsdale known for its poor living conditions.)

"Also, some people in engineering have built a model of Indian Bend Wash in order to determine what can be done to prevent flooding there," Dr. Hink added.

Dr. Hink said Scottsdale has students from ASU working as urban fellows and has instituted special programs for hiring students to work part-time for the city.

In the urban fellow program, students serve an internship in the municipality while attending the University, with the federal government picking up most of the expense of the program.

University students are also hired to work part-time in various city departments, including the fire department, parks and recreation and sanitation (as "Refuse Wranglers").

"The city is trying to make use of the resources of the University and has a substantial interest in the people who get their education here," Dr. Hink said.

"Many college students need a job. The city wants the best qualified employes and if you've got a college student who needs a job and a job that needs to be done, why not put them together? You get intelligent people who are willing to work at odd hours."

Dr. Hink was appointed to the Scottsdale City Council in 1969 to fill out the unexpired term of one of his former graduate students. In 1970, he was elected to a four-year term.

"I feel the local community is very basic to our way of government. On the local level the individual has an opportunity to do (Continued on page 8)

How do you rate as an independent thinker?

Answer Yes or No.

1. All your friends have decided to wear short shorts. You really don't like the look. Do you follow the gang? Yes  No

2. You've just met a marvelous, interesting guy who's shorter than you. Would you be embarrassed to go out with him? Yes  No

3. You've been invited to dinner again by a group of nice but uninteresting people. Do you feel obliged to accept? Yes  No

4. All the charts say you're 10 pounds overweight. You feel fine and your clothes look well. Do you diet anyway? Yes  No

5. You appreciate all kinds of music. Except opera. Do you think you should listen anyway because it's "the thing to do"? Yes  No

If you've answered "No" to three or more questions, you really rate as an independent thinker. Another example of your independent thinking: You use Tampax tampons.

Why Tampax tampons? Because, when you compare them all, only Tampax tampons give you these advantages: Each Tampax tampon comes in a silken-smooth container-applicator. Both applicator and tampon can be flushed away. No unwieldy stick or plastic tube to dispose of.

Worn internally, Tampax tampons are completely comfortable. Can't chafe, cause odor or irritate like bulky pads. Tampax tampons. They make every day of the year Independence Day.

Hogarth works on display

Pictures show 18th Century England

A display of William Hogarth's works and a commentary on the artist will be displayed through May 2 at Matthews Center, Rudy Turk, curator of the University art collections, said.

The University owns 32 original Hogarth engravings. Among these works is the "Election Series," which was exhibited by Sir Kenneth Clark in his "Civilisation" series on television, Turk said.

Also in the collection are the "Harlot's Progress," the contrasting stories of "The Industrious and Idle Apprentices," and "The Rakes Progress."

Hogarth's satirical prints give a startling and revealing picture of England during the 1700s, Turk said. They were used extensively by the 18th and 19th century clergy to preach morality and good works, Turk explained.

Today Hogarth's works are regarded as both frank and amusing, he said.

The public may view the exhibit during regular gallery hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The galleries will be closed Easter Sunday.

Weather

The Easter Bunny may lay them, but the weather won't lay an egg today. It's only fitting that the day before Bunny Break will be sunny and a little warmer with the high in the upper 80s and the overnight near 50.

Valley visibility is estimated at 10 miles and the breezes are from the southeast at 16 miles per hour.

Relative humidity stands at 10 per cent and the barometric pressure is 30.03 inches and falling.

Old Main Park recommended

Podium move suggested

Moving the Mall speakers' podium to Old Main Park when construction of the Language and Literature building annex is completed has been recommended by the Student Affairs Committee.

Construction should be finished in about one year, Dr. George Hamm, vice-president of student affairs, said.

The recommendation to eventually move the podium was made because of the podium's current "proximity to the library, to classrooms in West Hall, and to a narrow sidewalk area," Dr. Hamm said.

The narrowness of the sidewalk "impedes pedestrian traffic

... particularly during class breaks," even when small groups are using the podium, he said.

Areas the committee considered for a new location for the podium were Old Main Park, the area east of the Memorial Union, Goodwin Stadium and the sidewalk area directly east of the Mall fountain, he said.

The committee decided "there is no appropriate place to move the podium at this time because of the various construction activities on campus," Dr. Hamm said.

A child's alienation, depression and loneliness will be discussed Saturday at a psychology conference on "The Troubled Child." Four University psychologists

Child experts convening

and three nationally prominent guidance authorities will participate in the conference which will begin at 9 a.m. at the Executive House in Scottsdale.

"The conference is planned," Dr. John Hudson, director, said, "to give professionals a chance to discuss current ideas about the emotionally and socially troubled child, and to allow parents to become acquainted with the current thinking of child counselors."

Registration fee for the three part conference is $10. Dr. O.

Spurgeon English, who has done research on schizophrenia will conduct the 9 a.m. session on "Alienated Adolescents."

The 1 p.m. discussion on "The Lonely Child" will feature Dr. Clark Moustakas who has conducted workshops and sensitivity groups at a number of universities.

Dr. Paul Hauck, chief psychologist at the Peoria, Ill., Mental Health Clinic, will speak at the 3:15 p.m. session on "The Rational Management of Adolescent Depression."

University sponsors annual science fair

More than 300 junior and senior high school students are expected to enter science projects in the 18th annual Science Fair here April 15 and 16.

The science exhibits will be set up at the men's gym for judging April 15 and public viewing between 8:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. April 16.

Exhibits will be entered in categories ranging from the physical to life sciences, including ecology, behavioral and social sciences and mathematics. Prizes totalling more than $1,000 will be awarded, Dr. Tom Thomson, director of the Science Fair and professor of chemistry, said.

Two students will receive expense-paid trips to the International Science Fair in Kansas City, Mo., and six students will be awarded academic scholarships at the University. Additional awards will be made in the form of ribbons, medals cash and Navy excursions.

ACLU aids Aguirre in fight for podium

By DAVID JENSEN

The Mall podium dispute is still one of the hot topics on campus these days as the Arizona Civil Liberties Union has decided to take part in still another move to force the University to allow speakers to use it.

It seems that the ACLU, champion of the underdog and all-round good guy organization, has chosen to come to the aid of Mike Aguirre in his never-ending battle to block the Mall.

Ted Mote, director of ACLU, talked with Dr. George Hamm, vice-president of student affairs, regarding University policy in denying the use of the podium, and Dean Hamm reportedly supported the decision that led to refusal.

This whole mess boils down to a problem encountered by Aguirre when he requested time for four legislators to speak at a March 9 voter registration drive.

Aguirre filed a petition with Maricopa County Superior Court in an effort to force the University to allow the speakers to use the Mall podium.

His charges that the decision interfered with the prospective speakers' right of free speech and free assembly were denied by Judge Morris Rozar, and, for the moment at least, Aguirre was stopped.

But, not to be deterred in his attempts to interfere with traffic on the Mall, Aguirre invited two members of the Valley Big Brothers to speak on the Mall and was again turned down by Dean Hamm.

Apparently Aguirre cannot be put off by the offer of another site for the speakers, so he has asked the ACLU to help him in his fight.

What the eventual end will be, no one knows. But one thing is sure—Aguirre won't give up until he can either block the Mall as he wants or he graduates.

Ignorant world sits, judges unknown man

By RICK SNEDEKER

An ignorant world sits impatiently in judgment of a man they do not know.

Their jury-box is a cubicle made of padded steel - and it has no windows, only a door that locks from the outside.

There is a tiny crack beneath the door, and a dim light squeezes through to enlighten them and allow them to read clean, white slips of paper etched with scribbles of truth.

The man's name, Calley, was very clearly written on the first slip of paper that passed beneath the door on the first day. With each passing day, the slips became less legible while the jurors became more frightened.

In their confusion a few knelt next to the door, pressing their feverish faces against the cold steel floor, peering painfully into the dim but blinding light.

"I think I see something," one gray-templed man said.

Others rushed to the door, pushing and clawing to secure a place, to look beneath the door, to understand fully what the slips of paper meant.

All that they saw were the ankles of men and muffled inaudible voices. They strained to hear and rubbed their faces raw against the floor to see.

A pile of bodies was now groveling near the door; men in polished suits, youths in jeans, and sobbing women in chastity white. All were sweating in anticipation, and all were frightened.

A wild-eyed youth broke free from the groveling jurors and threw himself against a wall.

"We need more than word puzzles to understand! We need more than slips of paper!" he screamed, yanking at his hair and beating his fists against others in his frustration.

A sobbing woman wheeled around insane, "Shut up you god damned hippy! We're trying to hear!" She swung a closed fist at him and he grabbed her arm.

Another fist shot through the darkness, and echoed against the youth's jaw - and then another, and another, and another.

The boy fell to the floor, his wretched face bawling with tears of blood. Before he struck the floor, the jurors like caged animals, turned on themselves.

Later, there were still bodies lying about the door, but they didn't move. No more light shone through beneath the door, and no muffled voices were to be heard.

The youth awakened with one eye swelled shut and the other blurred with liquid. He only half-realized the horror in the room.

All that he knew was that he still wanted to understand.

He tediously began to drag the lifeless bodies away from the door - one by one.

Soon, he thought, the light would again filter through and he would see one crispy, new slip of paper lying alone on the floor.

But, even if it were there he could not read it.

'Answers' to sex at MOTOREDE

By NAN SEXTON

Too much talk of sex? Call MOTOREDE—The Movement to Restore Decency.

If your child is coming home asking you all sorts of "questions" about things you think he isn't old enough to know—call MOTOREDE.

If your role as a parent is being threatened by some all-knowing teacher—call MOTOREDE.

If you feel learning about sex from "the gutter" is safer than learning it in the classroom—call MOTOREDE.

If you feel sex education is animalistic and not moralistic—call MOTOREDE.

If you feel sex and narcotics education is a communist plot to destroy American youth—call MOTOREDE.

If sex is the only thing your children have on their minds—call MOTOREDE.

If you think sex education is a "big hoax," and is merely "putting a lot of money in a lot of pockets"—call MOTOREDE.

If you think it won't be long before all the "decent" in public schools because of "innovations" such as sex education—call MOTOREDE.

If you think that parents who allow their children to learn sex in school are slobs—call MOTOREDE.

But if you sleep better at night now that your children are in private schools and out of those public schools where sex education is taught—then maybe you don't need MOTOREDE.

For you skeptics, yes, MOTOREDE does exist. These remarks were made yesterday by three guest speakers from the MOTOREDE group in Mesa in a classroom on this campus.

If after all this, you still want to call MOTOREDE, you could be doing your child a terrible injustice.

For without the proper knowledge about sex and narcotics in society today you would be leaving your child defenseless.

Letters Policy

The State Press will continue its policy of printing as many letters to the editor as space requirements permit. A few basic requirements must be noted, however.

Letters should be no longer than 300 words in length. They must be double- or triple-spaced, and should contain neither libelous nor obscene material.

Letters must be signed. Names will be withheld on request. Correspondents should also include their addresses and phone numbers.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters received to conform with journalistic style, although the substance of the letters will not be changed.

Correspondents are asked to submit letters by mail or in person. All letters received are subject to verification.

Meal to symbolize history of Passover

Hillel, the union of Jewish students, will be sponsoring a Seder (pronounced say-der) Service at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, the third day of Passover, at Baker Center, 213 E. University Drive.

Mrs. Susan Flecker, Hillel coordinator, said the focus of the service is a meal which has great symbolic meaning.

The meal consists of many items including matzos (unleavened bread), the bread Jews were forced to eat while fleeing Egypt during the days of Moses.

Three matzos are used to represent the three religious groupings of Jews—Kohen, Levi and Yisroayl. The matzos are placed together during the meal to indicate Jewish unity, Mrs. Flecker explained.

Also included in the meal is roasted shankbone, symbolic of the Paschal Lamb, a special animal sacrifice. Jews offered the lamb on the altar of the great Temple in Jerusalem on the Passover holiday, according to the "Haggadah," a booklet outlining the Seder.

Roasted egg, symbolic of a second offering brought to the Temple on Passover, is also a custom of the Seder, as is Moror, bitter herbs symbolic of the bitterness of slavery under the Pharaoh.

Also eaten is charoses, a mixture of fruit, nuts and wine "made to resemble mortar with which our forefathers made bricks for the building of Egyptian cities," states the "Haggadah".

In addition, four cups of wine are used during the Seder. "The four cups represent the four-fold promise which the Lord made to the Israelites in Egypt," the "Haggadah" states.

"That promise, it says, is: 'I will bring you forth (from slavery); I will deliver you; I will redeem you; I will take you.'"

Seder participants eat in a reclining position because to recline at mealtimes was the sign of a free man in ancient times, the "Haggadah" states.

Passover, which begins Friday and lasts for eight days, commemorates the night when God, killing the first-born of the Egyptians, "passed over" the houses of the Israelites.

Elementary education majors will have an opportunity to become charter members of the University chapter of a national organization for elementary educators. The meeting will be at 3:30 p.m. April 15 at the MU Cochise Room.

Dr. Mary Bell, associate professor of elementary education, said "the purpose of this organization is to assist University students in ways of

The University chapter of the American Association of Elementary - Kindergarten - Nursery - Educators (EKNE), will be the first such chapter at a state university, Dr. Bell said. It "works toward unification of the total elementary program," she added.

MEN AND WOMEN! — You can now become an Air Force officer upon graduation without taking freshman and sophomore AFROTC courses. You begin with junior level AFROTC classes. Upon completion of this two-year program, officers are assigned to interesting and important jobs suited to his or her education and interests. Qualified men get 36½ hrs of free flying instruction during the senior year. The Air Force offers responsibility, pay, advancement, education and travel opportunities that are hard to find in most fields. Students who will have 60 sem. hrs. of college credit next fall and would like to enter this program, must pass an Officer Qualifying Test at ASU April 17th at 0730 hrs in Murdock Hall, Room 101. Stop by the 3rd floor of Old Main at ASU or call 965-3181 or 3182 to have your questions answered. Don't forget! — The deadline to begin processing for next fall is April 17. The test is free and you have nothing to lose so why not see if you qualify for the Air Force Officer Program.

With the frosh

By KEN CERINO

Some of the freshmen have been having good fortune with the Sun Imps and seem likely to be playing for the varsity next year.

Clint Myers leads the crew with a hefty .445 slate. Myers has been brought up to the varsity and has hit well, collecting eight hits in his first 15 appearances.

Gary Andrews has a problem in that he never knows where he is going to play. But he has responded with a .482 average with only four strike outs in 54 official times up.

Dan White, between calling a trap left and fly pattern in football practice is hitting .406 while doing an adequate job at the hot corner.

Bump Wills has been the leader in the defensive department, committing only two errors in 71 chances for an excellent .973 fielding average. At the plate, he is hitting .250.

In the pitching department, Mil Hughes and Mike Stone head the list.

Hughes, who has seen action with the varsity in past weeks, has won his last three decisions, not counting Monday's doubleheader with Cochise College.

As a team, the Imps are 7-8 for 15 games. Counting pre-season games, the Sun Imps are 16-10.

If you care enough, maybe you can meet the Paulist challenge...

It isn't easy, being a Paulist. Bridging gaps between young and old, black and white, past and future. But it is a challenge.

The Paulist mission is to people... individually and in all the societies in which they live... to discover Christ wherever he is acting... to be attuned to the needs of the present, yet to form a vision of tomorrow's world.

George Downing, manager of the ASU baseball team, has informed me that there were some errors printed about the team last week. First of all, in Thursday's romp over Wyoming, the Devils pounded out 23 hits to set a new school record. The old record was 22 against New Mexico back in 1967.

Ken Reed collected five hits to tie the school record set by many former Devil ballplayers. Fellow teammates Mike Rucpich and Tom Welton also share in the honor.

While we're on the subject of who leads what, the answer to the sports quiz in a last week's column is none other than Mike Rucpich again.

Rudy collected seven RBIs last year against Wisconsin. This year, while not hitting for as high an average as last year, big Mike has come off the bench to hit three homeruns. He is certainly one of the many bright spots sitting on Coach Bobby Winkles bench.

The Sun Devils host LaVerne College of California this Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Looking ahead to April 16, the Devils open up their 1971 conference play with a three-game series in Tucson against the UofA.

Downing thinks that at least a 13-5 record in the conference will be enough to win it. Top teams include the UofA and New Mexico. It should make for an interesting month and a half of baseball in the Tempe area.

Stan Bates named as new WAC boss

Stan Bates, athletic director of Washington State University, has been named commissioner of the Western Athletic Conference, a spokesman for the athletic department confirmed yesterday.

He succeeds Wiles Hallock who will be moving over to head the Pacific Eight Athletic Conference this summer.

Richard Harvill, president of the University of Arizona, made the announcement Monday.

According to the Albuquerque Journal, Cliff Speegle, assistant head of the Southwest Conference, presented Bates' only real competition for the job.

Their's were the only names up for final consideration by the WAC Council of Presidents, said the Journal.

Speegle has been promised the top position in the SWC, according to the article.

The WAC job had less than 50 official applicants.

Alta ski trip set

The Snow Devil Ski Club has arranged a three day trip to Alta, Utah, April 9, 10 and 11.

The bus trip, costing $65, leaves at 5 p.m. Thursday, from the Ski Haus, 705 Forest Ave., and includes round-trip transportation to Salt Lake City, three round trips to Alta, a three day lift ticket, and lodging at Covey's Little America in downtown Salt Lake.

Conditions are reported excellent. Those interested should call the Ski Haus at 967-7442.

Trackmen lose to Cal

The University of California set four Cal-ASU meet records formerly held by Sun Devils and at the same time soundly whipped ASU and Oregon State in a triangular meet last weekend at Berkeley.

ASU's Bob Bogleone set two simultaneous two-mile records. He knocked off ex-Devil Alex Henderson's 1956 Edwards Stadium mark of 8:46.3 with an 8:45.8 time. He also sent Jerry Jobski's 9:00.7 Cal-ASU meet record, set in 1969, into oblivion.

In dual-double scoring, the Devils finished behind both Cal and OSU, 105-43 and 97-57. The Devils were also low men in triangular scoring, with 36.5. UO finished with 86½ and OSU with 58.

A-State performs for the last time at home at 7:30 tonight at Joe Selleh field against Wyoming and NAU.

High court takes tough privacy stance

By TOM JOURNEY

The U.S. Supreme Court decision Monday that would allow government informers to use hidden radio transmitters in the homes of narcotics suspects may indicate the Supreme Court is taking a tougher stance on rights to privacy.

This is "one of several cases that indicate the court is cutting back on the Fourth Amendment and cutting back on protecting the right to privacy," George Dix, associate professor of law, said yesterday.

Dix said he had been "looking toward" the court's opinion on the Fourth Amendment because the court has traditionally held that deception hasn't been enough to make evidence obtained by concealed recording devices inadmissible.

"Between cases the Fourth Amendment has been greatly expanded," Dix said.

He said the opinion involves the question, "to what extent is it permissible for the police to use deception to gather information?"

Although recent court interpretations have questioned the legality of using evidence obtained by wire tapping and other "bugging" procedures, Dix said a "tape recording is likely to be more reliable" evidence than some witnesses.

The Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 "prohibits any person from intercepting or attempting to intercept by the use of any electronic, mechanical or other device, any wire or oral communication except pursuant to a court order."

But, Dix said, the Supreme Court has been getting more involved in the area of privacy in conversations. If statements are made where there is a chance that those statements could be publicly heard, then there is nothing the parties can do about the legality of recorded statements admitted as evidence in court.

However, in a private conversation, Dix explained, the consent must be obtained from the person making the statements that could be used as incriminating evidence.

The law reads if there is a "reasonable expectation of privacy of conversation — where that exists you must have justification and a warrant," Dix said.

Exam scheduled

Liberal arts majors who did not receive a "C" or better in both EN 101 and 102, or in 104, are required to take the English Proficiency Examination from 3-5 p.m., April 15 in LL 18.

Dr. D. G. Kehl, associate professor of English, said students should take the examination immediately following the completion of EN 102 or EN 104.

something about problems. Too many people concern themselves first with national government when they can't do as much about it (directly)."

About his dual role as city councilman and University professor, Dr. Hink said, "I'm sure that the knowledge I have acquired, theoretically, as a political scientist has helped.

"You can put to very good use some of the things you learn in the classroom and read in textbooks."
