New officers endorse student input resolution

By Nancy Wiese

In their first act as a team, the four students who were elected Wednesday to head Associated Students (ASASU) next year unanimously endorsed a resolution insisting the new executive manager retain the right to act as a contracting agent and budget officer for student government.

The resolution also insisted that students be allowed "significant input" into any decisions concerning structural changes in ASASU.

Dr. George Hamm, vice president for student affairs, has said he expects the new officers to have input into any such decisions.

Some student leaders have expressed concern that the new executive manager will not have the authority to act as a contracting agent. Steve Yarbrough, the present executive manager, does act in such a capacity, but Yarbrough has been notified that his contract will not be renewed next year.

There has been no announcement about who will replace Yarbrough or whether his replacement will have the same responsibilities and authority.

The resolution which the officers-elect endorsed on Thursday was originally written by ASASU president Rick Weiss and unanimously passed by both the ASASU executive council and the student senate.

The four officers-elect, Craig Tribken, Linda LaGanke, Mike Callahan and Rick Clark, also officially requested that Weiss serve as their representative in dealing with the administration until they assume office June 1.

"This is a critical time for ASASU," Tribken, who was elected president, said. "All students should stand together now. ASASU can and will work for students if they have the proper support."

According to the newly elected officers, the reason they passed the resolution and requested Weiss to act as their representative was to insure prompt action.

"I don't think the new officers want to wait until summer to find out what structural changes the administration might make, so they want me to work on it immediately. No one wants to be surprised in the fall," Weiss said.

Alapa and Edra each fined, but lawyers plan to appeal

Former ASU football players Clifton Alapa and Fiale Edra were each fined $150 in Tempe Justice Court Thursday after being convicted of simple assault Tuesday.

However, Tempe Justice of the Peace George Boyd suspended imposition of the fines pending appeal. The maximum penalty for the offense is three months in jail and-or $300.

Alapa, a defensive end, and Edra, a defensive tackle, assaulted ASU students Jonathan Muhovich, Brock Yadon and Peter Kower March 1.

After a motorcycle ridden by Alapa, 20, and Edra, 19, struck a parked car in a dormitory parking lot, the former football players assaulted the students, all occupants of the car.

Bertrand Johnson, Edra's attorney, said Judis Andrews, who represents Alapa, is preparing the appeal and will present it to Maricopa County Superior Court.

"We'll be seeking a new trial. It's like starting all over again," Johnson said.

250 apply for police chief post

By Mary Winter

The March 1975 issue of Police Chief Magazine contains this advertisement:

DIRECTOR, CAMPUS SECURITY, Arizona State University, Tempe. University with 30,000 plus students and 5,000 faculty and staff seeks qualified director for campus security. Must have extensive law enforcement experience (minimum five years), preferably with a large university or law enforcement agency familiar with university operations; must have demonstrated administrative and supervisory ability; must be in good physical condition; have associate or four-year degree in law enforcement or related areas. Submit complete résumé no later than March 31, 1975, to: Director of Personnel, Arizona State University, ASB 310, Tempe, Arizona 85281. AA/EOE.

According to Henry Koelbl, University director of personnel, more than 250 applications for the position of University police chief have been received by his office. There will be an opening for the position when John Duffy retires this summer.

Koelbl said a 3-member committee will meet next week to begin screening applications. The members are Dr. Gayle Shuman, director of the Center of Criminal Justice; Dr. Leon Shell, dean of students; and Arthur Fairbanks, Tempe chief of police.

Gilbert Cady, will make the final decision. According to Cady, the screening committee will submit a list of the 10 top candidates to him. Cady will interview the candidates and choose one by July 1.

The new chief's salary will depend upon his experience and background, according to Cady.

"The main requisite, as I see it, is that the person will have to have rapport with people. I don't want a police chief. I want a director of security," he said.

Athletic Board publicly approves two broadcast rights contracts

The University Athletic Board publicly approved Thursday two contracts it had previously approved in executive session in an apparent effort to comply with Arizona's open meeting law.

Several board members expressed concern that the action taken in executive session March 27 may have been illegal.

"Those things we did in our last executive session were not legal," ASASU President Rick Weiss said.

The open meeting law may not apply to the board, board member Dr. Bill English said, but the board publicly approved the contracts in case the law does apply.

The board did not discuss the contracts, but English said they concerned broadcast rights to ASU athletic events.

STATE PRESS is published by Arizona State University Tuesday through Friday during the academic year, except holidays and examination periods. Entered as second class matter at Tempe, AZ, 85281.

Trees to be moved near planned mall

Orange trees on the walkway west of McClintock and Gammage halls are not being moved because they bear sour fruit, but to accommodate a new mall planned for construction.

The 50-year-old orange trees and neighboring olive trees of 15 years will be found on the new mall when it is completed in six months, John Ellingson, director of planning and construction said.

Wooden stakes have been placed in the ground marking the new tree locations. Tree trimmer Don McCombs said, some were missing and others were being used to hold campaign posters, during recent student elections.

One unusual aspect in moving the trees, said McCombs, is some are only being moved approximately 18 inches.

Ellingson said a bike path will be routed in conjunction with the mall. The cost will be absorbed into the cost of constructing the new mall.

Bids for the new mall will be accepted on April 23 and construction should begin shortly thereafter, he said.

Tucson students support move to decriminalize pot

Students at Pima Community College in Tucson have overwhelmingly approved a referendum calling for decriminalizing the use of small amounts of marijuana.

Unofficial returns showed Pima students were in favor of the measure, 543-57.

The measure got a similar response from University of Arizona students last month when students voted 2,701-778 in favor of lifting criminal sanctions on possession and cultivation of small amounts of marijuana.

The results of Wednesday's vote will go to the Tucson City Council, which is scheduled to consider decriminalization on Monday.

A bill currently in the House Judiciary and House Health Committees of the Arizona State Legislature would allow a maximum fine of $100-300 for possession of up to one ounce of marijuana, according to a Senate staff committee member.

ASU students reach finals in photo contest

Two news photography students at Arizona State University have been named national finalists in the William Randolph Hearst Foundation photojournalism competition. They are Chuck Pratt, 22, a junior in broadcasting, and Robert Reeder, 27, senior in broadcasting.

It is the first time two students from the ASU Department of Mass Communications have been named to the finals competition at the same time. A school may only select two entries for the contest.

Both Pratt and Reeder will submit additional portfolios for the final competition.

Today or June 5...
Registration forms due

To register early, or not to register early, is a decision which can be considered twice this spring, thanks to the fall schedule printing delay.

The originally-planned early fall registration period ends today at 5 p.m. This period, April 1-11, ran into problems because the fall schedules were not available until Friday, April 4, half-way through the registration period.

To correct this error, a second registration period is planned from June 5-30. However, students who register now will have a better chance of getting the classes they want and more time to adjust their schedules if changes need to be made, according to William Haid, assistant registrar.

Each college has announced that advisement and course request forms will be accepted from April 14 through June 30 for early registration in an effort to keep registration going.

Both phases of early registration are "collection" sections, Haid said. Fees are not due until August 11.

Senior award nominations due today

Nomination for Man and Woman of the Year and Male and Female Scholar of the Year must be submitted by 4 p.m. today in room 208A of the Memorial Union.

Woman of the Year must have a grade point average (GPA) of 3.0. Male and Female Scholar of the year nominees require a GPA of 3.5.

Selection of Man and Woman of the Year will be based two-thirds on extra-curricular activities and one-third on scholarship. Male and Female Scholar of the Year selection will be based two-thirds on scholarship and related honors, and one-third on extra-curricular activities.

Each nominee will also be

Authority keeps students honest

By Laraine Elpern

Most of us don't do everything we're told to do unless the person telling us has some sort of authority.

This was the premise Majil Fausel and Lori Jacobs used when they investigated authority figures and obedience for an Experimental Psychology class last week.

What looks like a joke turned out to be an experiment in human behavior. Photo by John Masingill Fausel said everyone needs authority figures. "We do as we're told and don't ask questions. The purpose of the experiment was to determine how much authority we attribute to a police uniform."

Two part-time security officers from the ASU police volunteered to help, she said.

The officers, George Kelman and Larry Brent, stopped traffic while in uniform and again later while in civilian clothes.

When students walking north or south came to the intersection between the Math and Life Science buildings, the men blew whistles and ordered them to stop and wait for the east-west bound traffic to pass.

After finding themselves being detained even though there was no east-west traffic, the students ignored the officer and walked through, she said.

Fausel said as soon as one person broke away, everyone else followed and the experiment was over.

She said it took about three seconds for people to realize what was going on, so only the first five people to reach the intersection were used as subjects. "They were trapped before they knew what was going on."

Students obeyed the men without uniforms about four seconds, or until they figured out what was happening. After that they ignored them and walked on.

When the men were in uniform, and the intersection was not very crowded, students obeyed for 49 seconds. When it was crowded, they obeyed for 67 seconds, Fausel said.

Higher tuition, registration fees are justified, education chairman says

By David Pearson

Increased tuition and registration fees at ASU are justified and indicate a trend of increased financial burden upon the student, James Sossaman, chairman of the State House Committee on Education said.

In an interview, Sossaman said the Arizona taxpayer, who has provided three universities and funds to run those institutions, is now asking the student to share more of the financial burden.

He said alternative sources of money must be found to run the colleges because of the economic situation in Arizona and the budget cuts facing the universities.

In light of the budget cuts the universities do not appear to be willing to limit expenditures. "The alternative is to increase student fees," Sossaman said.

He said increased student fees are a trend that will continue in the future.

"As long as we have inflation and as long as the taxpayer continues wondering whether it is really necessary to furnish a college education to everybody who wants one, and wondering if the education we are funding is a little bit nicer than it really has to be, it will be a trend."

"The taxpayer is concerned about too many out-of-state students. He doesn't mind a few but he doesn't want to set up a situation where they flock in here by the thousands and he has to pick up the tab."

Sossaman said ASU is too big and favors limiting the size of the three major universities.

There are two main ways to alleviate the size problem, he said. One is to build another university. "That would make everybody happy except the taxpayer," he said.

But Sossaman favors making the requirements for getting into the universities more difficult. Then a degree would mean more to the student than it does now, he said.

"A degree now means very little because any joker who will spend four years of time in a university gets a degree."

Sossaman said the taxpayer is wondering whether a college education is needed by everyone.

Those who could not meet the high requirements for admission could go to the community colleges and after two years, if they show promise, could be admitted to the university, Sossaman said.

Sun Devil batters to play UTEP in Texas

By Dave Garell
It shouldn't be a particularly tough weekend for ASU's league-leading Sun Devils as they travel to Texas to play the UTEP Miners in a three-game set.

After all, while coach Jim Brock's squad was getting by New Mexico in three games last weekend, UTEP was being fed to southern rival Arizona, 23-4, 11-4, and 20-1.

And even though they have to travel away from Packard Stadium for the first time in eight games, the Sun Devils should have little problem in upping their conference record to 6-0.

"We have had strong performances by our pitchers, but our hitting is still a little shaky at times," Brock said earlier in the week.

The Devil coach has evidently found his third starter, for the time being anyway, in freshman Tom Van Der Meerche. The talented right-hander leads the squad in earned run average with a 1.47 mark. He is 5-2 on the year, and will get the starting assignment in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday.

ASU opens up against the Miners Friday afternoon at 2 p.m., as sophomore ace Floyd Bannister faces UTEP's probably starter, George Landreth, who is 3-2 with a 3.03 ERA.

Greg Cochran will pitch the shorter seven-inning game in the first game of Saturday's doubleheader which begins at 1 p.m.. The senior pitcher is a perfect 8-0 with a 1.90 ERA.

Bannister has struck out at least 10 hitters in each of his last five starts. He has struck out 60 and walked only four in his last 39 2-3 innings.

The Devil bats have been quieted down a little the past week, prompting Brock to criticize the squad for lethargy and lack of concentration.

attitude and started playing the way we should, or we could forget about playing anymore."

Even though the Devil bats weren't as lively as they had been during the Best in the West tourney, they easily defeated New Mexico last week.

Shortstop Jerry Maddox maintained his team-leading .411 average, and tied Ken Landreaux in home runs with eight. He still leads the squad in runs batted in, hits, triples, total bases, and slugging percentage.

Maroon-Gold contest caps spring football

After a tough spring football campaign, the Sun Devil varsity squad will hold its annual Maroon and Gold game Saturday at 3:35 p.m. in Sun Devil Stadium.

The game will be televised live on KTAR-TV Channel 12, and no admission will be charged.

"Spring is the time to find out who came to play and who didn't," coach Frank Kush said. So in typical spring tradition, there won't be a lot of players on the field Saturday.

"We won't have as large a number as most varsity teams, but those who are with us came to play," Kush said.

The only featured matchup (the starting lineups will be determined by vote later this week) will be sophomore quarterbacks Dennis Sproul and Bruce Hardy.

Returnees for the 1975 squad that Kush hopes will improve last fall's 7-5 record, include Mike Haynes, Freddy Williams, Larry Gordon and John Jefferson (formerly Washington).

Sun Devil tracksters host triangular meet

THE NATIONALLY FIFTH-RATED Sun Devil track team will host New Mexico and California in a triangular meet Saturday night, after bad Salt Lake City weather forced cancellation of a triangular matchup last week.

The Devils are rated in the number five spot by Track and Field News, falling behind UCLA, Texas-El Paso, and USC and Oregon (tie) in dual meets.

Coach Baldy Castillo's squad should face some stiff competition Saturday in numerous events, primarily the hurdles. All competitors from the three schools have best times in the high hurdles within one second of each other.

In the intermediates, New Mexico's Melvin Powers (51.0), and Steve Fullerton (52.6) from Cal meet ASU's

Rick Walker, a 51.5 hurdler.

The Devil tracksters have already set two school records and tied three others. Pole-vaulter Mark Herman has cleared 16-7, and the 440-relay team of Charley Wells, Julius Fletcher, Steve Williams and Herman Frazier has clocked a 39.4 time.

Starting times for Saturday night's Joe Sellah Track matchups are 7 p.m. for field events and the first running event at 7:30.

THE ASU TENNIS team will meet one of its toughest tests Saturday, hosting Arizona, the Western Athletic Conference defending champ, at 1 p.m. on the Apache Blvd. courts.

The Wildcats are ranked in the top ten nationally by Tennis Illustrated, having lost only three dual matches this year.

After opening WAC play with a convincing 7-2 win over New Mexico last week, the Devils bring a 22-1 mark into the contest.

Individual match play is important in all WAC contests because the draw for the WAC Tennis Championships is based on dual match results.

ENTRIES FOR THE first women's superstar competition are due by 5 p.m. today, said Jill Williams, women's intramural coordinator.

The events for the women's competition are slightly different than the men's, but both the men and women will compete on the same days — April 18-20.

Events for the women superstars include 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, softball throw, bowling, 100-yard freestyle, 50-yard backstroke, free throw shooting, wrist wrestling and tennis.

An organizational meeting for participants will be at 3:30 p.m. April 15 in MU209

Herman ranks high in pole vaulting

By Mike Tulumello
Mark Herman won't be mistaken for Clark Kent — leaping tall buildings in a single bound — or even fellow pole vaulters Bob Seagren and Dave Roberts. At least, not yet. Herman, who was a mediocre high school vaulter until late in his prep career, has blossomed into the ASU record holder in the event, thanks to a 16-7 leap two weeks ago against Oregon.

"That was kind of a strange vault," said Herman. "When I left the ground, I didn't think it was a very good jump and my knee hit the bar on the way over."

The bar wavered, then held firm as Herman not only captured the Sun Devil record, but also recorded the second-highest vault in the Western Athletic Conference this spring.

Which is quite a feat for someone who was an unknown entity in the sport at McClintock High School three years ago. Herman improved two and one-half feet in his senior year (to 15-0) and finished second in the state.

"That was probably the biggest thing that ever happened to me in pole vaulting," said Herman. "Until then, I hadn't taken the sport too seriously — but when I made my last two jumps and hit 15 feet at the state meet, I think it changed my attitude."

Herman went on to win the national junior college title for Mesa Community College and grabbed first-place at the WAC indoor meet for ASU this spring.

Despite his rapidly accelerating heights, Herman doesn't include pole vaulting in his long-range plans.

"I don't consider myself good enough physically to ever be a world-class vaulter. And that's pretty much what you have to be, if you hope to make a living from track."

"I would like to go over 17 feet someday, though," the junior criminal justice major said.

Pole vaulting requires speed and a strong upper body, said Herman, who ran hurdles and won the state decathlon championship in high school — beating out former Sun Devil footballer Fred Mortenson.

"A lot of it is a matter of timing, along with concentration. If your steps aren't right as you approach the bar, you're not going to get off a very good jump. And you can usually tell what your vault will be like even before you get off the ground."

After setting the record two weeks ago, Herman feels he tried to come back "too strong" in practice, and his vaults in practice have suffered for it.

"It's as much a mental sport as physical. Some days I'll either be physically or mentally ready — but in order to have a good day, you have to get them both at the same time."

Herman and his teammates will get back into action after a two-week layoff by hosting a triangular meet with California and New Mexico at 7 p.m. at Joe Selleh Track.

Take two years off this summer.

With the Army ROTC Two-Year Program.
Army ROTC usually takes four years of college. But you can do it in two.
If, for example, you couldn't take Army ROTC during your first two years of college.
Or if you just didn't want to take Army ROTC before. But now you recognize the benefits.
You start the Two-Year Program by going to our six-week Basic Camp the summer following your sophomore year.
Camp—a little classroom work; some challenging physical training—replaces the Basic Course you would have taken during your first two years of college. You're well-paid for this six-week catch-up.
Then, after camp, you complete your Advanced Course during your junior and senior years.
Maybe you'll decide that the chance to get real management experience earlier than most people will be worth a lot later on.
Maybe you can use the $100 per month subsistence allowance you will get for up to 10 months of each school year.
Maybe qualifying for two careers simultaneously—military or civilian—is insurance against job uncertainties.
Or, maybe the opportunity for an Army ROTC scholarship is exciting.
The Army ROTC Two-Year Program is another chance for a better career, through Army ROTC.
Talk over the Two-Year Program with the Professor of Military Science at your school.
Or use this coupon. There's no obligation.
Army ROTC. The more you look at it, the better it looks.
