'Cruiser' story contains errors

An April 30 State Press article, "Quiet cruiser ride turns to trouble," which detailed a Friday night on the beat with Tempe Police Officer Jesse Flores, contained several inaccuracies and misleading information.

An episode in which the patrol car stopped at a group of Tempe massage parlors and "the whole area came to life" was exaggerated.

Later in the story, Flores was quoted as saying Timothy O'Toole's, Cowboys and Devilhouse are the most troublesome areas on his beat.

Tempe Police Capt. John Ore, Flores' supervisor, said Flores never intended to single out any bars as having the most fighting. He said all the local bars require policing, but the way Flores' statements were printed was misleading.

Ore said Flores did not say Devilhouse "should be closed; the crowd is uncontrollable." Flores' statement that he is "surprised no one has been killed yet (at the Devil's House)" did not refer to fights there, but the danger of a fatal accident occurring near the bar on Scottsdale Road because of construction of the new bridge.

In another episode, a driver suspected of a DWI was described as towering above Flores and asking him, "Whatcha' stoppin' me for, Bub?" Ore said according to Flores, the man actually was shorter than him and did not make that statement.

Further detail about a fight in a Lemon Terrace apartment was exaggerated. Ore said although damage was done, the place did not look like an earthquake had hit.

The State Press regrets the errors.

REFRESHER COURSE.

You've burned the midnight oil and cracked more books than you care to remember. The work is done. The papers are in. So now you take a refresher course. The subject: ice cold Dos Equis beer. The Uncommon Import.
Study a frosty glass. You'll learn it has a rich, amber color unlike any beer. Now test that big, bold flavor. You've got to admit, Dos Equis is in a class all by itself.

The Häagen-Dazs® Story.*

Häagen-Dazs is an ice cream that originated in New York. Those who know Häagen-Dazs maintain it to be the finest ice cream in the world.

We can give you a number of reasons why Häagen-Dazs is considered the superior ice cream available today.

Häagen-Dazs has more egg yolks for richness as well as unusual quality flavorings. Häagen-Dazs chocolate is created from the most flavorful cocoa imported from Holland. Häagen-Dazs vanilla has a voluptuously rich flavor that could only be gotten from the Madagascan vanilla bean.

Another reason for its richness is because there is less air whipped into Häagen-Dazs. Häagen-Dazs weighs 7½ lbs. per gallon compared to the usual 4½ to 4.6 lbs. per gallon of other ice creams.

Because it is an obviously expensive ice cream, some say there is little sense to the success of Häagen-Dazs. Yet, those who are drawn to what "art-of-the-senses" is left in life will obviously be drawn to Häagen-Dazs.

We hope that for you it will join the ranks of other good pleasures such as satin sheets without pajamas, Nathan's hot dogs, that first fishing pole, Le Montrachet, Cole Porter and breakfast in bed.

*For a more detailed history of Häagen-Dazs, stop in at our new shoppe at 903 So. Rural Road.
