

Milstead's testimony damaging to Mecham, committee chair says

By VICKIE CHACHERE

State Press

PHOENIX — Department of Public Safety Director Ralph Milstead's testimony that Gov. Evan Mecham ordered him to stonewall an attorney general's investigation has been damaging to the governor, said the chairman of a House select committee studying the allegation.

Jim Skelly, R-Scottsdale, said Wednesday evening: "I think what was discussed in that report and what was discussed tonight is damaging. There is no question about it."

But Tucson Rep. John Kromko, a Democrat, said Thursday he thinks the House proceedings are just an election-year ploy by lawmakers seeking voter support.

Milstead's testimony surrounds a Nov. 15 conversation between Milstead and Mecham where the governor asked him not to cooperate in a state attorney general's investigation into alleged death threats made by Lee Watkins, a top Mecham aide.

Watkins allegedly threatened Donna Carlson, Mecham's former legislative liaison and a key witness in a grand jury investigation of a $350,000 loan Mecham failed to list on his campaign finance disclosure form.

Watkins' alleged threats were told to Peggy Griffith, director of the governor's office of women's services, who relayed them to Mecham's DPS security guards. They alerted Milstead and Chief Assistant Attorney General Steve Twist.

Milstead quoted Mecham as saying: "The attorney general is out to hang me, and I'm not going to help him in any way. I don't want you to help him get me."

Milstead said he was "taken aback" by the governor's order, and also felt intimidated because he believed the governor wanted to fire him. Milstead has been DPS director since 1980.

Milstead, who will resume his testimony today at 1 p.m., told the six Republicans and four Democrats on the committee that he considered the governor's request an "obstruction of justice."

Mecham's alleged interference with the investigator, his handling of the campaign loan from Tempe developer Barry Wolfson and that he embezzled $80,000 from the state Protocol Fund are outlined in a report issued by special counsel William French to the House.

Skelly said he is troubled by Milstead's account of the conversation, but said lawmakers need to weigh the evidence before making any decisions about impeaching the embattled governor.

"I wouldn't think from the verbatim quotes that Col. Milstead would misunderstand what the governor said," Skelly said. "The departmental report indicates that the governor said, 'don't cooperate.'"

"I think the testimony that he gave indicates that Milstead feels he was told under no uncertain terms not to cooperate. That came out time and time again."

Milstead said he considered himself a witness in the case because he had already discussed the alleged threats with both Carlson and Griffith before talking with Mecham.

Milstead said if he had obeyed Mecham's orders, he believes both the governor's and his actions would have constituted obstruction of justice.

Kromko, an unwavering recall supporter, said Thursday that he didn't think the charges warranted impeachment, adding that lawmakers, during a crucial election year, are bending to voter pressure to oust Mecham.

"It's really not an impeachable offense to be dumb or insensitive," Kromko said. "I think if we would have taped his mouth shut

Mecham to plead innocent to 6 perjury, fraud charges

By BEN MCCONNELL

State Press

PHOENIX — Gov. Evan Mecham will plead innocent to six felony counts today stemming from his failure to report a $350,000 campaign loan.

Mecham told a group of reporters Thursday evening, "There is only one response when you are not guilty and that's 'not guilty.'"

Mecham was indicted, along with his brother Willard, on Jan. 8 on three counts of perjury, two counts of fraud and one count of filing false documents. Both will be arraigned in Maricopa County Superior Court this morning.

Mecham contends that the loan from Tempe developer Barry Wolfson was lumped together in a $465,000 entry on his campaign finance disclosure statement and that there was no attempt to conceal the loan.

"Was it necessary to list a loan separately?" Mecham asked about 125 members of Credit Data Southwest Thursday night during a company business dinner.

"Two lawyers say no. Wolfson was listed prominently."

The handling of the loan and a subsequent investigation by Arizona House special counsel William French has spawned a House select committee hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to impeach the governor.

Furthermore, Mecham is expected to be told by Secretary of State Rose Mofford Tuesday that he has five days to resign or face a possible recall election.

"You probably heard voices calling for my resignation and it sounds like a mighty army," Mecham said. "Well let me tell you: truth is a mighty army."

Sen. Carolyn Walker, Arizona's first black state senator, participates in the University's week-long celebration of civil rights leader Martin Luther King, Jr. State legislators held the panel discussion Thursday night in the MU Arizona Room.

Panel of state lawmakers honors King in ASU forum

By KELLY PEARCE

State Press

Very few people have touched the world with non-violent hands like Martin Luther King, Jr. did during his life, according to Arizona state legislators who honored the slain civil rights leader Thursday evening.

Sen. Alan Stephens, D-Phoenix, told more than 100 ASU faculty and administrators in the MU Arizona Room: "We have an opportunity to carry on his vision today. Arizona cannot remain an island any longer."

The panel discussion was held as part of a week-long celebration of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday at ASU and gave lawmakers a chance to voice their plea for a paid state holiday.

The holiday was rescinded last year by Gov. Evan Mecham. Three lawmakers have introduced legislation calling for the holiday, with one of the bills calling for a referendum on the issue.

V. P. Franklin, an ASU associate history professor and co-chairman for the Martin Luther King Celebration Committee, said the evening's panel discussion was held to gather support for the King holiday.

"We need support from the ASU community in order to establish a paid University holiday," Franklin said.

He said ASU submitted a resolution to establish a paid holiday at the Jan. 15 meeting of the Arizona Board of Regents for the three state universities.

If NAU and U of A submit similar resolutions, the board can create a holiday, he said.

Franklin said he hopes a university holiday will be declared by next year.

"In the meantime, we have to get in touch with the faculty representatives at NAU and U of A," he said.

"If the holiday is created, it will be independent of a state holiday. There is a lot of debate about what the holiday is and we should all be informed."

During the discussion, Sen. Carolyn Walker, D-Phoenix and the first and only black senator in the history of Arizona, said: "There is no logical reason why the state will not give Dr. King a holiday. Sooner or later there will be a holiday, and I hope it is soon."

Walker is the sponsor of the Senate bill that would commemorate King and the Civil Rights Movement on the third Monday in January.

The discussion, moderated by Rep. Art Hamilton, House Minority leader and D-Phoenix, quoted John F. Kennedy, saying the state is being challenged and tested.

"This is a great time to be alive in Arizona," he said.

"Very few people touch the world and make it a better place to live — Martin Luther King did."

Stephens said, "King had the courage to take on issues of his day and issues that still apply now. He stood for love and devotion."

"We need to take a step forward in Arizona in honoring Dr. King."

Walker said King mastered the task of turning the other cheek.

"King never did anything to anyone. He may have died, but his dreams live on, his accomplishments live on," Walker said.

Foreign investment increases 57% in Mexico; U.S. contributes most MEXICO CITY (AP) — Foreign investment in Mexico soared nearly 57 percent last year in a gain driven in large part by the government's controversial debt-swap program. The United States is the nation's No. 1 foreign investor.

The National Foreign Investment Commission said late Wednesday that foreign companies were authorized last year to funnel $3.8 billion into Mexican factories, real estate, equipment and other assets, up from $2.4 billion in 1986.

In all, direct foreign investment has grown to a total of $20.9 billion since 1951, according to the commission's report. Most of the money has gone into manufacturing.

The United States accounts for $13.4 billion of the foreign capital invested in its southern neighbor, 64.3 percent of the total.

West Germany ranks second, with $1.5 billion, or 7 percent; Japan follows with $1.3 billion, or 6.4 percent.

Switzerland, according to the report, has invested $951 million, or 4.6 percent; Great Britain, $871 million, or 4.2 percent; and France, $747 million, or 3.6 percent.

Those six countries account for 90 percent of all foreign investment.

Mexico traditionally has sought to restrict the amount of foreign money in its factories and other projects, fearing foreign control of too much of its economy. The government generally limits foreign ownership to 49 percent of a company, thus retaining control of the firm for Mexican partners.

Tempe carpet cleaning company sued over advertisements, sales

PHOENIX (AP) — A Tempe company that cleans carpets and upholstery is being sued by the Arizona attorney general's office on civil charges in regard to its advertising and sales practices.

The suit, filed Wednesday in Maricopa County Superior Court here, names Carpet Maintenance Company Inc., also known as Carpet Services Plus, and company owners Mark Berch and Michael Platt.

The suit claims that the company violated Arizona statutes by claiming that prices are for a limited time when prices are actually continuous, and by steering customers to higher-priced services.

The company's attorney, Joel Sacks, denied the claims and said that the company also is the subject of civil litigation filed by the Sacramento (Calif.) district attorney's office.

Florida mother forced daughter to dance nude; gets year in jail

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A woman convicted of driving her teen-age daughter to suicide by forcing her to work as a nude dancer was sentenced Thursday to a year in jail, followed by probation.

Believed to be the only mother ever charged in connection with her child's suicide, Jackson could have been sentenced to 25 years in prison for her conviction on three felonies.

She fought back tears as she told Franza that she loved her daughter, Tina Mancini, and would always wonder what role she played in her suicide.

Mother charged with felony neglect after child found in freezing attic

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Stuffed animals, balloons and money poured in Thursday for a 9-year-old girl with severely frostbitten feet and ankles, while her mother was charged with felony neglect for locking the child in a freezing attic.

The child, Darlwin Carlisle, has been hospitalized since she was discovered Sunday by a construction worker preparing to board up an abandoned house.

Cliff Jones named as Tempe's new fire chief

By MIKE BURGESS

State Press

Assistant Fire Chief Cliff Jones was named Tempe's new fire chief on Thursday.

Jones, 40, who has been with the Tempe Fire Department for 16 years, will become the department's third chief when he replaces William Hayes Feb. 15.

Jones said he was "humbled and honored" to have been selected.

"Our department has a fine reputation and I look forward to guiding it through the challenges which the future holds," he said.

Jones has been an assistant chief for 10 years, and previously was a firefighter, an engineer and a captain in the department.

Jones holds a bachelor's degree in Political Science and a master's degree in Public Administration, both from ASU.

He was chosen by the Tempe city manager over fellow assistant Chief Jim Gaintner, the only other applicant for the job.

"I could have gone with either one," Alexander said. "But I had a subjective feeling that Cliff was the man I wanted."

"It was a tough choice. Their credentials are both impressive."

Alexander said Gaintner has indicated he will stay with the department.

Hayes, 50, is retiring after 22 years with the department. Although Jones will take over as chief on Feb. 15, Hayes will not officially leave the department until Feb. 29.

Hayes joined the department in 1966 as a firefighter and has held every position in the department. He has been chief for 10 years.

Under Hayes the department has grown from 25 to 124 firefighters.

The department's paramedic staff has also grown from six in 1978 to 33 in addition to a hazardous materials response team.

Hayes said he plans to take advantage of his free time by traveling and "swinging some golf clubs."

"I'm looking into a few things," Hayes said. "My son just graduated from ASU and were looking into some business ventures."

the day of inauguration no one would have thought of impeachment.

"I don't like the governor. But I think we have to be fair, even though I'd like to get rid of him and most of the legislators want to get rid of him."

Kromko said that he found several "deadly flaws" with French's allegations against the governor and that the death threat case was the "weakest of the allegations."

Kromko said he is critical of the death threats and charges of justice obstruction because there was no guarantee that Watkins would have acted on the alleged threats.

Furthermore, he said, Griffith was the only witness to the threats, and Corbin didn't need to talk to Milstead.

The panel's hearings are expected to last through next week. Mecham has indicated he will testify before the committee, although no date has been set for his appearance.

The panel also will look into French's other two allegations.

"What each lawmaker has to do is sift through the testimony we get, the evidence we receive and decide accordingly," Skelly said. "Each individual has an obligation to do that."

"If we impeach, or if we don't impeach, it should not be based on an individual's like or dislike of the governor, an individual's agreement or disagreement with the governor, it should simply be the evidence available and the testimony. Otherwise, the legislator is being irresponsible."

But at least one member of the 10-member panel, Rep. Gary Giordano, said even if Milstead's testimony is true, he doesn't believe the governor has broken any laws.

Giordano said he does not believe Mecham's actions violate any of the four statutes French cites in his report. The statutes deal with obstruction of a criminal investigation, influencing a witness, tampering with a witness and obstructing governmental operations.

"If we look at this (Milstead's testimony) and assume everything that he has said so far is true, has there been a law broken?" Giordano asked. "If there hasn't, why even proceed with this?"

Mecham

"You do get your money's worth out of what I do."

Wednesday, the committee was told by Department of Public Safety Director Ralph Milstead that Mecham ordered him to not cooperate with a state investigation of alleged death threats by a top Mecham aide.

The governor also said that he had not seen nor heard details of Milstead's testimony.

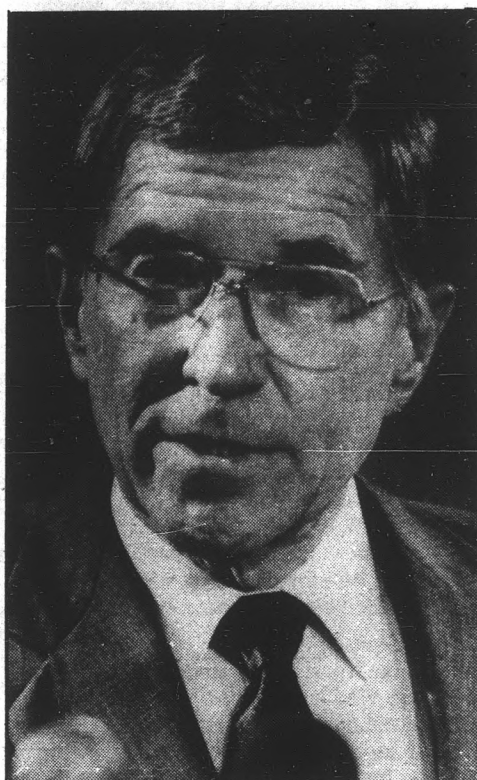

"We have high hopes the impeachment will fade away," Mecham said. "We have expectations things will unravel with the indictments."

Earlier this week, the 63-year-old Republican shocked lawyers at the Phoenix Forum Breakfast Club when he told them he suspects someone may be eavesdropping on his home and office by using laser beams.

Mecham said Thursday that the spying "happened months ago."

"Well, you have to be a little careful nowadays," Mecham said.

Laser madness Paranoia runs deep at Capitol

Darrin Hostetler
Opinion Editor

This is getting ridiculous.

Arizona has gone mad, or at least temporarily insane, and the state capitol has been turned into the world's largest copper-topped rubber room.

Word came from the Arizona Republic and the Phoenix Gazette yesterday that our governor, Evan Mecham, is frightfully worried about his home and office conversations being picked up by surveillance devices. Not just any old ordinary "bugs," though, for our chief executive. Oh no. Mecham is convinced he is being spied on by laser beams.

He's so concerned, in fact, that he told a half-dozen people at a breakfast function on Tuesday that he always keeps a radio on in his house or office because it "keeps the lasers out."

When asked by his stunned breakfast companions exactly what lasers the dear governor had in mind, Mecham replied: "The lasers for eavesdropping. They're eavesdropping on me."

"They're shooting lasers through the windows."

Well, of course "they" are, Evan. Now lie back on the couch and tell me about the nasty demon that is in possession of Bob Corbin's soul.

The governor would probably have a nightmare to tell about that very topic too, because it has been reported that he believes the lasers are coming either from Attorney General Corbin's office or the Republic/Gazette building downtown.

This little anecdote would be really humorous if it weren't so damn scary.

Imagine the governor of Arizona turning up "Shake Your Love" on his Sony in order to keep Republic publisher Pat Murphy from shooting Buck Rogers rays into his office.

Mecham has toppled over the edge of sanity into the abyss of paranoia, yet he is still the leader of the state — with no quick remedy to that problem in sight.

As was discussed in this space Monday, state Democratic legislators are too busy trying to stall the impeachment effort for their party's own political gain to see the real issue — that Mecham is so out-of-touch with reality that it has become not only uncomfortable, but possibly dangerous to let him remain in office.

Democrats would prefer a recall election to an impeachment, simply because they would rather see Carolyn Warner as governor than Secretary of State Rose Mofford. They are also enjoying giving a Republican governor a black eye in an election year. But Arizona is now locked in a state of emergency, and the legislators — Democrat and Republican alike — must be made to understand that they should respond to the need of all the people for a return to normalcy now. Because unless they act soon, we will continue to bear the burden of an embarrassing national image and a stalled government in troubled times.

But politicians will be politicians, so expect the worst. If the House impeachment hearings Wednesday are any indication, this is starting to look like an agonizingly long ordeal for the entire state. And as things worsen for Mecham, you can bet that there will be more paranoia emitting from the capitol's ninth floor — the governor's laser beam delusion, is only a sign of times to come. Things are going to get a lot stranger before they get any better.

Hmmm. On second thought, maybe I should ask my office companion, Mike Ritter, to turn up his radio. Associated Students might be shooting lasers from the top of the MU...

Zionist or democratic?

Editor:

Ed Schubert has slandered Yassir Arafat by saying, "If Arafat succeeds in liberating Palestine, the world will witness the greatest bloodbath since Pol Pot liberated Cambodia" (i.e. Kampuchea). The flimsy evidence used to support this is a statement, which may or may not reflect the views of a majority of Palestine Liberation Organization membership, that the Jews who arrived before the "Zionist invasion" will be allowed to remain. This does not specify where they arrived or where they will be allowed to remain. This could well refer to Zionist settlers who stole the land from the Arabs and the West Bank and the Gaza Strip after the 1967 war, in which case I would agree with expulsion and return of the land to the Arabs.

It does not even definitely state that other Jews will be expelled, or at least not all other Jews. There has never been a statement or resolution made by the PLO with the backing of its membership that approves of mass extermination, mass expulsion or any other form of anti-Semitism. The PLO simply seeks to create a state in which all inhabitants can live on an equal footing, regardless of religion. It seeks to abolish discriminatory laws such as the infamous Law of Return. It seeks to create a democracy in which people are not denied the right to vote or the right to habeas corpus on the basis of religion and given the excuse that they are under military occupation.

Schubert states that the military occupation is not Israel's fault. Whether or not one believes this, it is clear that the continued denial of suffrage and 48-hour habeas corpus to the people in the territories is Israel's fault. Twenty years is plenty of time to schedule an election and lift martial law. The real reason for the delay is that the Zionist majority in the Knesset fears the loss of its privileged place in society.

The statement that most defies reason, however, is, "But for now, the best hope for an end to the violence in the West Bank and Gaza rests with those men who daily attempt to restore order: the Israeli army and border police." This is as logical as advocating giving control of the sheep to the wolves in the interest of solving the grazing problem. It is these people who have controlled the occupied territories since 1967 and thus these people who are directly responsible for creating the conditions that drove the Palestinians to this violence. If the people in this country want to make a positive difference in the world, they should take the money given to the Contras to destroy democracy in Nicaragua and use it to create democracy in Israel — by giving M-16s and anti-tank missiles to the Palestinians. Twenty years of reasoning with the Zionists has yielded nothing. It will take a show of real force (not just a few rocks and burning tires) to get them to take democracy seriously.

Racism reaction

Editor:

In Bob Heiler's article titled, "Racism can only be reborn in atmosphere of paranoia" (Jan. 20), he begins with a true statement: "Racism is on the rise in America." Disappointingly though, this is where Heiler's understanding of this grave issue ends. He posits that the "imprudent remarks of a few people" are not evidence of a "new wave of racism," and I agree.

However, the manslaughter of a young black man in Queens, N.Y., the hanging of a 19-year-old black male in Mobile, Ala., and the abduction, rape and sodomy of a 15-year-old black female by six Ku Klux Klan members in Wappinger Falls, N.Y., are not only imprudent but frightening and downright ignorant — clearly racism.

He states that "racism is quiet," entirely forgetting the sobs of those who grieved over the aforementioned crimes, the inner screams of the black men serving longer prison sentences for committing the same crimes as their white counterparts and the frustrating yells from the ever-increasing numbers of unemployed blacks.

Secondly, the belief that "selective breeding" increases the abilities of black athletes is racist because it suggests that the black race receives their prowess from breeding (similar to that of a common animal) while another race receives theirs from natural talents. If Jimmy Snyder truly does not harbor racist feelings, he never would have made such an offensive and ignorant remark.

The most outrageous statement Bob Heiler makes in his column is in his conclusion, where he asserts that: "(Blacks) have won their fight, insofar as victory is possible." Nothing beats a failure except a tryer, Mr. Heiler. In other words, racism will be overcome because, as outlandish as it may seem to you, an entire black race produces more than one Martin Luther King Jr. — to whom I assume you were referring when you stated, "Their dragon has been slain."

In closing, racism, which is not only an enemy to minorities but to all just individuals, has not been slain as long as articles such as yours continue to appear.

Malissia Lennox
Sophomore, Pre-law

Editors Note: Bob Heiler responds: "The term 'dragon' referred to the specter of racism, not to the late civil-rights leader Martin Luther King Jr."

Our ugly opinion

Editor:

This is hideous. You say on today's (Jan. 19) Opinion page that Mecham should resign because of "the expense of the recall election, the distractions of impeachment, the disgrace of convicting a chief executive."

No, nothing is so valuable as our best constitutional process of permitting a suspected person to present his whole case through every available channel, medium, forum and courtroom. Justice to any individual, however lowly, however high, compensates all of us for all expense, all distractions, all disgrace. You are dangerously unwise to decide any case in advance, however confident you feel.

Mickey Mouse: Real men wear the finest in timepieces

Mike Royko
Tribune Media Services

As a child I was deprived. I never had a Mickey Mouse wristwatch.

It wasn't that my parents didn't want to buy one. But in our neighborhood nobody bought watches from a store.

Everybody got their watches from Stanley's tavern. That's because when somebody needed a few dollars or ran up a bar bill they couldn't pay, they went to Stanley with a watch. So Stanley wound up owning a lot of watches, and when someone needed one they bought from Stanley.

When I graduated from grammar school, instead of a Mickey Mouse I got a big, round railroad watch bearing the engraved inscription: "To Bruno, with love, Sarah."

Fortunately, not having a Mickey Mouse watch didn't bother me. The only time I ever thought of it was when someone asked me what time it was. Then I'd throw a tantrum and lie on the floor crying and kicking my feet. After a while, none of the other men in the barracks would ask me the time.

The old desire for a Mickey Mouse watch came back last week. While shopping for a watch in the budget basement of a department store, I saw in the corner of the display case a genuine Mickey Mouse.

I didn't even know they made them anymore. Today's parents, I assumed, bought their children Swiss jobs that tell the time, year, date and play rock 'n' roll chimes.

When the saleswoman asked, "Can I help you?" I thought, why not?

"Yes, I'd like that one there."
"Oh, the Mickey Mouse. Do you want it man shouldn't have that on his Mickey Mouse watch.

I went to the jewelers and asked the short, round man if he had cheap bands.

"Sure. I wear them myself. Give me your watch and I'll put it on."

I slipped the Mickey off the red band and handed it to him.

He stood for several seconds just staring at it in the palm of his hand. Finally he looked up and said, slowly and firmly:

'Then I'd throw a tantrum and lie on the floor crying and kicking my feet. After a while, none of the other men in the barracks would ask me the time.'

gift-wrapped?"

"No. Just wind it and I'll wear it."
She froze with her hand in the case.

"You'll wear it?"

"Yes."

I could tell she expected an explanation, something about a joke. She was waiting for me to say something so she could laugh. But I said nothing and looked dignified. She shrugged, I paid her, strapped it on, and left.

The strap was the only flaw. It was wide, red, plastic. That's OK for a kid, but a grown

"This is a Mickey Mouse watch."

"Yes, it is."

"You wear it?"

"Of course."

He looked stern and suspicious. "I've never seen a man wear a Mickey Mouse watch before."

"Oh, I wear them all the time. Never wear anything but a Mickey Mouse."

He stared at the watch some more. Then he shook his head and repeated: "I've never seen a man wear a Mickey Mouse watch before."

It appeared he wouldn't put a band on or return it unless he got an explanation, so I said:

"I never had one when I was a boy."

He brightened. "Oh, in that case, you're entitled." And he cheerfully sold me a black band.

That is the way it has been for several days. Wearing a Mickey Mouse is more fun for an adult than for a child.

There was the bartender who blinked and asked the standard question: "Is that a Mickey Mouse watch?"

"Of course not. Who ever heard of a grown man wearing a Mickey Mouse watch?"

He nodded. Then he looked closer and said: "What ya givin' me? That IS a Mickey Mouse watch." He called out to his wife in back: "Hey c'mere. He's got a Mickey Mouse watch."

She smiled, a bit confused, and said: "Well, isn't that wonderful?"

And the bank cashier who said: "You really wear that? All the time?"

"Sure. A man's got a right to wear a Mickey Mouse watch on his wrist, hasn't he?"

"Sure, sure," he said. As I walked away, he added: "Atta boy, atta boy."

This proves it is never too late.

Now, if I can just find a pair of "high tops" — those great boots with the little pocket on the side for a little knife. BOY!

Council, mayor hopefuls file for spot on ballot

By J. MICHAEL HOEHN
State Press

Candidates running for the offices of Tempe mayor and city councilmen must file petitions today.

Five Tempe residents have declared their candidacy for three city council seats.

So far, incumbent Harry Mitchell is the only candidate running for mayor.

The seats of councilmen Pat Hatton, Don Cassano and Bill Ream are to be contested. All three councilmen are running for re-election. The other two candidates vying for these seats are Barbara Sherman, who describes herself as "a neighborhood activist," and realtor Rick Goodwin.

The other three councilmen, Frank Plencner, Rowland Onk and Carol Smith, will not face re-election until 1990.

All candidates must turn in their nomination petitions today with at least 278 valid signatures. They must also submit a financial disclosure statement and a Statement of Organization for their campaign committee.

According to Tempe City Clerk Virginia Thompson, Cassano and Goodwin had submitted the appropriate number of signatures and forms Thursday to be placed on the March 22 primary ballot.

Mitchell had filed only his campaign committee organizational statement, but neither he nor his committee chairman could be reached to comment on the number of signatures.

Mary Bohlman, a member of the Barbara Sherman Campaign Committee, said Sherman received the required number of signatures and will submit all her forms today.

"She has more than the maximum number (of signatures) needed," Bohlman said.

By Thursday, Hatton had submitted only the Statement of Organization for her Hatton Re-Election Committee.

Incumbent Ream had filed his committee organizational statement and his financial disclosure forms but could not be reached to verify the number of signatures.

If the candidates meet all the nomination requirements they will be put on the ballot for the non-partisan primary election to be held on March 22. Candidates capturing more than half the votes automatically will win a seat on the city council. If three candidates carry more than half the vote, all three vacancies will be filled and a general election will not be held.

If the seats are not filled, a general election will be held on May 10 in which candidates who earned less than 50 percent of the total vote will compete for the remaining seats.

Tempe bicyclist dies after being hit by dump truck

By MIKE BURGESS
State Press

A 37-year-old Tempe man was killed Thursday after he was hit by a dump truck while riding his bicycle, police said.

Yoshihiro Tsunoda, of the 800 block of East McKellips Road, was pronounced dead at Scottsdale Memorial Hospital shortly after the 1:50 p.m. accident at the intersection of Hancock Avenue and Scottsdale Road.

Tempe police Sgt. Dave Crist said Tsunoda was riding his 10-speed bicycle east on Hancock Avenue and was making a left turn onto Scottsdale Road northbound when he was struck by a southbound 1985 dump truck.

Crist said the accident is still under investigation and no citations have been issued.

In other incidents:

•A man toting a single-barrel shotgun robbed a Tempe restaurant of approximately $220 Thursday, police said.

Police said the gunman entered Aunt Chiladas, 2021 W. Baseline Road, about 12:04 p.m. and robbed the 41-year-old clerk.

police report

•A freshman business major was arrested and charged with the theft of almost $800 in cassettes and stereo equipment after he turned himself into ASU police Tuesday.

Gregg Curtis, 20, of the 1200 block of Vista Del Cerro, is accused of stealing a Visa card from the Business Administration Building and using it to purchase merchandise at the Warehouse Records on Broadway Road east of Rural, said Sgt. Keith Bailly, head of the department's detective division.

Bailly said Curtis turned himself in after telling his gymnastics coach about the alleged thefts.

•A 43-year-old man was arrested Tuesday in connection with the theft of $1,900 in IBM computer equipment from the Engineering Research Center, police said.

Police said Larry Miller, address unknown, was booked into Maricopa County Jail and charged with theft.

•A female student riding in an elevator in the Language and Literature Building was injured when a plastic ceiling panel fell on her head, police said.

She was taken to the Student Health Center, treated and released.

•More than $1,300 in damaged windows from two incidents at Manzanita Residence Hall were reported to police Wednesday.

The first incident occurred in mid-December when three windows, valued at $798, were broken. The windows have since been replaced.

Two more windows were damaged Monday night or Tuesday morning, causing $532 in damages. The damage was possibly caused by a storm, police said.

•A brown Fuji men's 12-speed bicycle was reported stolen from the Language and Literature Building, police said. The bicycle was valued at $225.

Education college readies preschool for opening

By CARRI MITCHELL
State Press

ASU's College of Education is now accepting applications for a new pre-school facility housed in the Farmer Education Building.

Eleanor Flake, the acting dean for the pre-school, said the school's curriculum is designed for children who exhibit above-average skills.

As part of admission requirements for the school, Flake said, each potential student is required to go through a battery of tests including a Stanford-Binet IQ test and a social skills test in a simulated classroom.

Flake said the school is designed to provide children with a variety of learning experiences to encourage their creativity, thinking skills and intellectual curiosity.

She said the school will try to help students build a foundation of academic abilities.

Children will be able to attend one of two sessions each day. The sessions begin at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. and each run for two-and-a-half hours.

Flake said she is trying to arrange for a parking area for parents to use while dropping off children at the school.

The children will be taught a variety of subjects, Flake said, including language development, music, social studies and sciences.

The classes will be supervised by a head teacher who has not been hired yet. Flake said teacher aides, as well as ASU professors specializing in other areas of study, will conduct classes.

Eventually each class section will have 30 students in attendance, but Flake said she expects the sections to be smaller this spring.

She also said she wants to have the pre-school as ethnically balanced as possible and she plans on recruiting minority families.

Tuition for the center is $800 plus a non-refundable $25 application fee and $100 for the testing. Mary Thielmeier, the Education college's public relations coordinator, said scholarships and financial assistance may be available.

Flake said the applications are very involved, and require parents to fill out 19-page questionnaire that evaluates the children's skills.

The first semester of the school begins March 1, Flake said, and applications are being accepted until then. However, she said applying early will help the testing process.

The pre-school can also benefit education students, Flake said, because they can observe the classes and have a model pre-school program from which to learn.

The pre-school can also help researchers from other areas, Flake said.

Former 'Campus Man' gets glossy look

By JOAN MCKENNA
State Press

"Campus Man" move over. "University Man" wants a piece of ASU's action.

It has the same idea of capitalizing on good-looking men in casual fashion. But the format has changed to magazine, and Mr. August is dominating March.

Former 1986 "Campus Man" Robert Donahue ("Mr. August") is the cover face on March's issue of new fashion magazine "University Man."

It features ASU as school-of-the-month, with 10 students modeling a 10-page spread of sunbelt styles.

Donahue, a communications major, said doing the cover was a surprise. Not until the day of shooting was he asked if he was interested.

"They didn't know if they were going to use me or not," he said. "I went and shot the cover all night, but I still didn't know for sure."

The "Campus Man" calendar and movie projects were Donahue's stepping stone to success in Arizona. "That's how everything started," the Vermont native said. "From there I got in an agency. Really I got this job ("University Man") through the agency."

Valley model Christine Johnson said she also heard about the job through her agency, Robert Black. But she said auditions were a cattle call, and the other contenders were a mixture of amateurs and professionals.

Those selected were photographed over a weekend, with everything set up behind the Memorial Union.

Johnson, a marketing major, said she was impressed with "University Man's" operations.

"I've worked with a lot of different people," she said. "These were truly the nicest people I've ever worked with. We all had a good time."

The job was an editorial, meaning students worked for free in exchange for exposure.

Others included were Christine Divine, Scott Cacchione, Anthony Robinson, Sandy Chaney, Erin Goehl, Peter Bizarro, Jeffrey Xander and Katarina Lopez.

The layout is a combination of photos and mini-biographies, topped off by a short school synopsis, calling ASU "Hot, hot, hot . . . home of Pulitzers, Sun Devils, Cronkite and cactus."

Other magazine stories center on celebrities, investigative reports, fiction and features.

Publisher Don Embinder created "University Man" in August, 1987, to cater to young men, ages 18 to 34.

"College students are a very important part of our market," he said. "But we also want to reach college-age people who may not go to college for one reason or another, or older people who have graduated and are alumni."

Embinders said his emphasis is away from European sophistication and on western comfort. His slogan is "No suits and ties allowed."

"We want to feature casual wear," he said

"I think GQ handles ties and suits very well."

He said his styles and students go hand-in-hand.

"What we're really doing is trying to use college students for real people. We have the advantage of being able to do that because the sizing is a lot more casual."

"If you're a male model and you can't fit into a 41-long suit, you're out of business."

College students from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas will appear next.

Embinder said ASU's March issue should have been on the shelves by January 15. But the issue has been slow to reach the Valley.

Local response to previous issues has varied. ASU Bookstore employee Joe Bellamy had a positive report for the $3.95 winter issue.

"It's a pretty popular magazine," he said. "We've already sold about 23 copies."

Books Etc. in Tempe center, sells roughly 10 magazines of this genre. Manager John Wehr said they outsell the French ones.

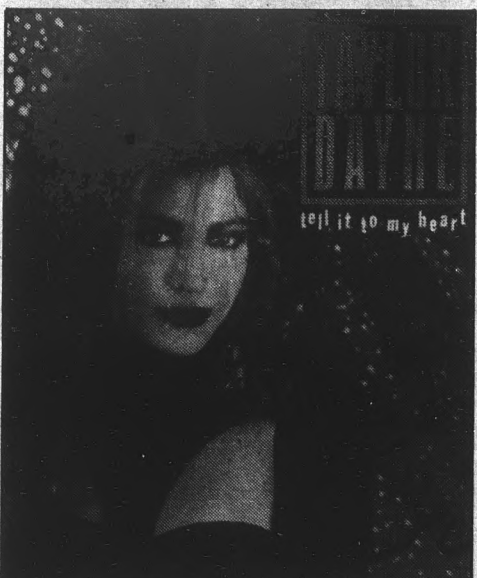

"We sell an awful lot of this type of magazine to mostly people in their 20s," he said. "Any fashion magazine with some lifestyle will do very well."

Wehr added that he noticed black males in their 20s were his heaviest buyers, an observation he said he just thought was interesting.

But Campus Drug sees less enthusiasm. It orders five "University Man's" a month and only has sold three of the winter issue.

The former quarterly goes monthly with this issue.

Taylor Dayne "tells it" to Utopia's heart

Live dance music will shake the foundations of Utopia Nightclub when American Music Award nominee Taylor Dayne makes a cameo appearance in two shows at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. tonight.

Dayne's powerful vocals have made her dance-y "Tell It To My Heart" a top 10 success. This newcomer is not only striking in song, but also in looks.

Called the rising star of the 1980s by some critics, Dayne has been nominated for an American Music Award and will perform at the Awards on Monday, Jan. 25

Her new album release, "Tell It To My Heart," contains an array of top dance tunes, sensual slow songs and a chart-busting pop release. Rated a "Hot Pick" by Billboard Magazine, her album is predicted to reach platinum success.

"Tell It To My Heart" is the first single from her album of the same name, peaking at number two in December.

Taylor has a special and unique presence; her energy can be seen in her video and heard in her songs, such as "In The Darkness," "Don't Rush Me," "Prove Your Love" and "Upon the Journey's End," as well as "Tell It To My Heart" and a danceable cover of the Honey Cone's "Want Ads."

"It is our hope to bring a bit of big city entertainment to the greatest little city in the Southwest," producer Leonard Jay said. "Utopia is our choice as the most exciting club in Tempe."

Tickets for the show are $7.50 for the first, an all ages show, and $6.50 for the second, over 21 show during which alcohol will be served. Tickets are available at Utopia and all Dillard's ticket outlets.

Utopia Nightclub is located at 919 E. Apache Blvd. in Tempe.

Busted: 'Rent-a-Cop' needs handcuffs for Burt, Liza

By JILL HERBRANSON
State Press

Although "Rent-A-Cop" is a self-proclaimed "romantic thriller," it is far from that. It seems more to be a potpourri of movies past, rehashing not only already-used ideas, but performers who, although well-established, are past their prime as well.

This mixture brings forth a rather impotent "jungle juice of the cinema" — it even has a bad aftertaste.

An eerie sense of deja vu overcame me (a feeling I would become accustomed to as the night wore on) as Burt Reynolds, playing police officer Tony Church, attempted to emulate the self-confident coldness of this generation's Nick Nolte. It didn't work.

The story, set in Chicago, begins as

Church and his men prepare to bust a giant drug deal taking place in a posh mid-city hotel. Everything runs smoothly until suddenly the antithesis to Robocop storms in, massacring good and bad guys alike in a spew of gunfire. This human arsenal absconds with the drugs and the money and then bursts into another room for more unexplicable bludgeoning.

Actually, it is explicable: prostitute Della Roberts (played by Liza Minnelli) is now brought into the story.

Della eludes the murderer, as does Tony — a miracle! Church pulls Della to safety from her cowering position on the floor. They part without so much as a cry of "My hero!" only to be thrown back together when the murderer makes a second attempt on Della's life.

Tony, who has been fired from the police force (as his survival is regarded as suspicious), has no choice but to accept the dubiously earned money Della offers him to help her.

The quest for the killer ensues. During this time, a subplot blatantly stolen from "Beverly Hills Cop" develops — the meddling stakeout twins are assigned to watch Church's every move. He succeeds in shaking them, but instead of shoving bananas up the exhaust pipe, he resorts to the far less imaginative throwing of sharp objects onto the ground. (Maybe that was where the movie failed — there wasn't enough plagiarism.)

Such witticisms as "Mind if I open a window? It's beginning to stink in here," and "Well, let me tell you something, pal — You're a scumbag," are the hallmarks of this film. Yes, Tony and Della fall in love and yes, they get the bad guy.

Predictability, while great on a test and wonderful to a tarot-card reader, can execute a film. But not in this case. "Rent-A-Cop" did it all by itself.

Birthing pains too much to bear in "For Keeps"

By JESSIE SIMON
State Press

The late '80s have seen a change in morality. This is the age where "Just say NO!" is a motto, celibacy is a lifesaver and serious problems can be minimized by laughing at them.

Though it touches on all of the above, Tri-Star's new comedy, "For Keeps," still can't seem to deliver a realistic message.

Molly Ringwald, herself a teen-ager, stars as Darcy Elliot, the suave, popular journalist-to-be who is, quite obviously, going to go far in life.

And, of course, every high school's Miss Popularity also has to be one-half of the perfect couple. In "For Keeps," the other half is Stan Bobrucz, played by newcomer Randall Batinkoff.

Darcy isn't the only one with high goals. Stan, with the urgings of his father, is planning to enter Cal Tech on a full architecture scholarship.

But plans, like cars, sometimes get off the paved highway and turn onto an unmarked path with no room for U-turns.

The dusty trail begins for Stan and Darcy when they deceive their parents and escape for a weekend alone. The loving couple, impetuous youths that they are, veer off for a romantic encounter by the side of the road.

Several weeks later the encounter is no longer just romantic, but troublesome as well. Yes, the perfect couple are now facing the decision of a lifetime.

With Mrs. Elliot (Miriam Flynn) and Mr. and Mrs. Bobrucz (Kenneth Mars and Conchata Ferrell) guiding the teens, Stan and Darcy respectfully go ahead and make their own decision: they will marry and keep the baby.

The wedding itself proves humorous, as Stan and Darcy go to the Korean Unitarian Church to be married by a minister whose English is barely recognizable.

Other laughable lines come from Mr. Bobrucz, who can't think well when angry. "Yeah we got married young — we were kids," he says during a three-way argument with his wife and Darcy's mother.

Beyond the one-liners, some credibility is found in "For Keeps." For instance, Darcy's pain during childbirth can be felt in the back row of the theater. And watching the three parents (Darcy's father left years ago) melt from anger to acceptance of their children's decision is convincing.

However, the film is idealistic and potentially dangerous, not to mention stupid. With youngsters possibly looking up to Ringwald, the notion of getting pregnant and having everything work out in the end is a scary message to impart. This movie was supposed to be a comedy, not a fairy tale.

Goodnight Saigon

Williams laughs past the usual 'Nam films

By DAVE MILLER
State Press

Some critics insist the film “Good Morning Vietnam” is merely a vehicle for the rapid-fire stunt mouth of entertainer Robin Williams, straight out of his concert act, but don't let the publicity fool ya'. He's not just foolin' around.

And neither are the creators of “Good Morning Vietnam,” the highly publicized and latest-in-a-series look at the Vietnam War, billed as “The perfect film for Robin Williams . . . finally.”

It is a perfect film for him, in that no one else could have given this kind of war-side commentary. But it's also more than his act dressed up in olive drab. Much more.

Williams plays Adrian Cronauer, a military DJ yanked out of a comfortable spot in Greece by a radio station in need of relief. He's sent to the front of the action, to downtown Saigon, and asked to read the daily news to the men, preferably in silly fashion.

Cronauer obliges, with more than enough energy to put a smirk on the face of the troops and a frown on the mugs of the higher ranks. It's not that they mind him poking fun at Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon or Ethel Merman, it's that they would prefer him to read the news as it's censored, not as it actually happened. His non-compliance puts a definite strain on their relationship.

At first the film appears to be the next in a series of military un-intelligence jabs, with the blunders of the brass being as big as all outdoors. But it quickly transcends this notion, presenting all manner of officer up for scrutiny. Some are meatheads, some are mean, and some are genuinely concerned for the needs of the troops.

This is where Cronauer comes in. His strength is irreverence and his talents lie in lifting morale to new heights, as long as his transmissions last. He's nuts, it works, everyone knows it. End of story.

Not quite. Those less comically-endowed are jealous, those seeking infiltration want to befriend him and those he'd like to roll in the grass with won't look at him. There's not much inspiration for a funny guy in this man's army. Especially when he sees what can really happen when the warring gets rough.

Chintara Sukapatana and Robin Williams in “Good Morning Vietnam.”

From Cronauer's view, the world is something to laugh at, something to pants because it wears heart boxers. But in Vietnam nobody wears boxers. They wear civilian clothing so they can fit into a restaurant crowd and hide a bomb. Or they wear military stripes, letting them deny that a bomb went off in a crowded restaurant, killing three people and blowing the hell out of a DJ's sense of humor.

That Williams can play a man who almost loses his sense of humor is creditable; that he could make “Good Morning Vietnam,” one of the best films on the subject to date, out of a script and some stand-up is commendable. And incredibly recommendable.

Eric Holloway, No. 3, battles with UCLA's Kevin Walker for a rebound Thursday night at the Activity Center. The Bruins defeated the Sun Devils, 94-81.

Sun Devils succumb to UCLA, lose 3rd straight game, 94-81

By CHRIS DORSEY
State Press

The troubles continue to add up for ASU basketball coach Steve Patterson, following a 94-81 loss to UCLA Thursday night at the Activity Center.

For ASU, nothing has gone in its direction since last weekend's Oregon trip. The Sun Devils dropped their third game in a row. This time by way of UCLA.

But one question was answered during the first half when junior forward Joey Johnson took the floor. Johnson and Patterson were involved in a halftime argument during the Oregon State game. Although Johnson played 23 minutes and scored eight points, it would not be enough as the Sun Devils dropped their third conference game in front of a home crowd of 7,542.

It appeared early in the first half that ASU (10-6, 4-3) would better its record. But Bruins Trevor Wilson and Dave Immel rained on the Sun Devils' parade.

"It was a good win for our team," UCLA coach Walt Hazzard said. "We worked hard."

Wilson finished the night with 23 points and a career-high 14 rebounds. In the first half, the sophomore fired in nine points and hauled in nine boards.

UCLA (7-9, 3-3) is off to its worst start in 42 years, but the win over the Sun Devils was its first road victory this season.

ASU traded baskets with the Bruins until the 11:40 mark of the first half, when Jerome "Pooh" Richardson hit a 19-foot jump shot to put UCLA ahead, 23-22. This would be the closest the Sun Devils would come for the rest of the evening.

Nothing could go in the Sun Devils direction as they fell behind, 51-39, at halftime after Wilson's slam dunk with one second remaining in the half.

The Bruins came out steadily in the second half, building a 14-point lead with 17:23 left. But as they have done all season, the Sun Devils began to rally back.

UCLA Coach Walt Hazzard pulled Immel and Craig Jackson out of the lineup for a breather, and ASU went to work at cutting the Bruins' advantage.

In a run of eight minutes, the Sun Devils had cut the lead to four points, 76-72. Hazzard interrupted ASU's momentum by calling a timeout with 7:07 remaining. After the break, Hazzard inserted Immel and Jackson back into the lineup.

"I called time-out to settle things down," Hazzard said. "We knew we needed to run out the time and make the free throws."

The Sun Devils would never again have the opportunity to regain the lead.

Sophomore forward Mark Becker was one rebound shy of completing a triple-double. Becker finished the evening as ASU's leading scorer with 19 points, while contributing ten assists and nine rebounds.

The Bruins' Richardson continued to be UCLA's floor leader, dishing out nine assists and scoring 10 points. But after a flashy behind-the-back pass that drifted into the stands, Hazzard pulled Richardson out of the game.

"If they want me to play, they're going to have to put up with some of the things I do," Richardson said. "We came together. Everyone played and concentrated well."

ASU's mainstay in the paint, center Eric Holloway, was silenced after scoring four points early in the second half. He finished with 17 points.

Notes:

- Holloway hit two 3-point shots in three attempts against the Bruins.

- Sun Devil backup guard Tyrone Mitchell remains in California, reportedly giving serious consideration to transferring to another school.

- Saturday, the Sun Devils play host to the Trojans of Southern California, who are coming off an embarrassing 94-48 loss Thursday night to the top-ranked Arizona Wildcats in Tucson. Tip-off is at 4 p.m.

Opener

Ingram tosses 3-hitter; Devils defeat Santa Barbara, 4-3, in 1st game

By DEAN GYORGY
State Press

Linty Ingram pitched nine innings and gave up just three hits as ASU defeated Cal-Santa Barbara, 4-3, in Thursday's season-opener at Packard Stadium.

The Devils wrap up the series with the Gauchos with games today at 2:30 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m.

ASU got the come-from-behind victory with two runs in the seventh inning. Second baseman Kevin Higgins hit a two-out single to right that scored Dan Rumsey, and put the Devils ahead to stay.

A kind word for the ASU defense would be sloppy. The squad committed five errors, and all of the Gauchos' runs were unearned.

"Right now the hitting is closer to being ready to play the season than the defense is," coach Jim Brock said. "I'm not concerned about it on a long-term basis, but it's going to take a little while. It's not something you turn around overnight."

Part of the problem is the third base situation.

Earlier this week, Brock had decided to move John Finn, who was subbing for injured third baseman Bob Dombrowski, back to center field. The new third baseman was to be Anthony Manahan, the confident freshman whose infield skills have impressed Brock. Once again, injury put the position up for grabs.

Late Wednesday night, Manahan put his left hand through a plate glass window and received eight stitches. He is expected to be out for a week to 10 days.

So Finn had to start at third. Although he made some nice plays as the game progressed, his inexperience showed. He made a number of errors, only two of which officially showed up in the linescore.

Low tide for the Devils came in the third inning. With the score still knotted at zero, the Gauchos had the bases loaded with two outs. First baseman Craig Middlekauff hit a sharp line drive towards second base, tailing to the left of Higgins. The ball ended up in right field.

"It kind of handcuffed me," Higgins said. "I just didn't get my body over in front of it like I should have."

But the errors would continue.

Dan Rumsey picked up the ball in right and threw towards third. There was confusion between Finn and shortstop Pat Listach on the cut-off. As a result, the ball got past both of John Finn, left, watches his bunted ball, and John Candelari, right, tries to avoid a tag at second base during the Sun Devils' 4-3 opening-day victory over Cal-Santa Barbara Thursday at Packard Stadium. The two teams meet again at 2:30 p.m. today and at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Steve Mounteer/State Press

them and rolled to the fence by the ASU dugout. Three runs scored.

"Obviously we had some people who were somewhat nervous and doing some things that they won't do (in the future)," Brock said. "It's liable to be a couple of weeks before we're really confident defensively."

The Devils came alive in the bottom of the third.

Tim Spehr scored when designated hitter Martin Peralta doubled deep to right field. Back-to-back singles by Rumsey and Ricky Candelari brought Peralta around to score, and the Devils had cut the deficit to one.

Ingram continued his mastery, holding the Gauchos hitless in innings four through eight.

"I never got tired," Ingram (1-0) said. "I felt real strong."

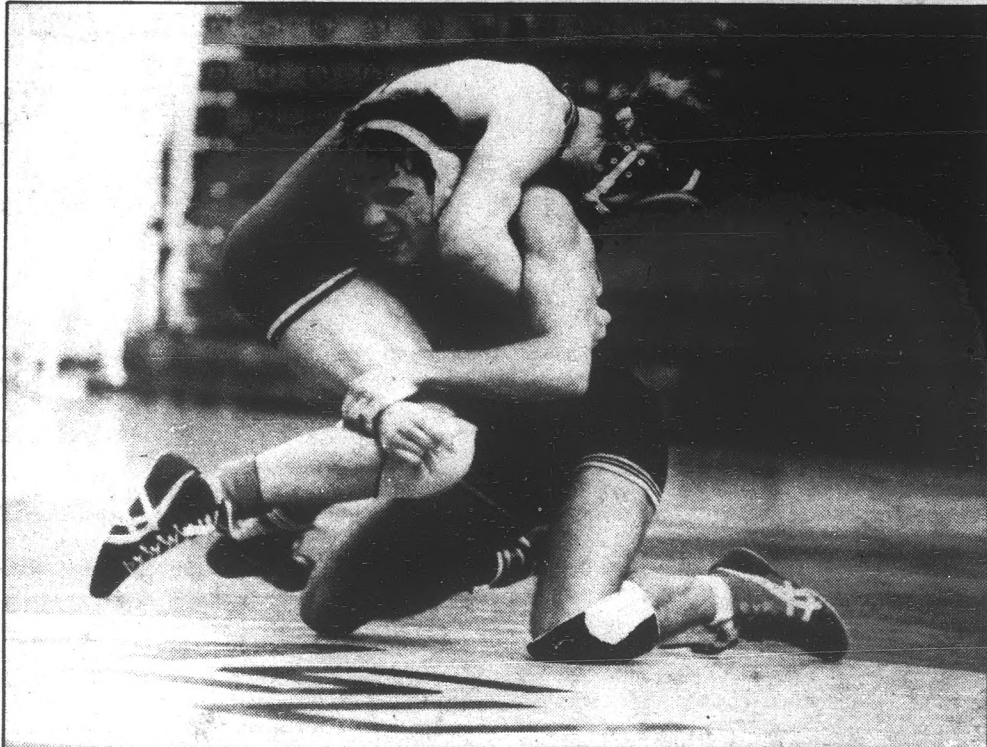

Ingram, the ace of the staff, should total some impressive numbers by the end of the season. He struck out six and walked four (one intentionally), in his first nine innings of the '88 season.

"Ingram's success this year depends on us," Brock said. "If we have a good ballclub, and we're able to come back sometimes, he's got a chance to win a lot of games."

The Devils were down, 3-2, in the seventh inning, when Peralta hit his second double of the day. He was replaced by pinch runner Joe Rocha, who came around to score on an RBI single to center by Rumsey.

Rumsey then stole second — the first stolen base of his ASU career. Kevin Higgins followed by hitting a single, bringing home the game-winner.

Sun Devil wrestlers prepare to battle No. 1 Oklahoma State

Jack Beasley/State Press

Dan St. John gets his opponent off the mat in ASU's victory over Fresno State last weekend. The Sun Devils face No. 1 Oklahoma State Saturday at Stillwater, Okla.

By CHRIS DORSEY
State Press

The warriors of the mat are hungry and will be looking to regain what the ASU wrestling team once held for weeks — the nation's No. 1 ranking.

ASU wrestling coach Bobby Douglas takes his squad on the road to wrestle top-ranked Oklahoma State Saturday at Stillwater, Okla., in a dual meet that matches the two best teams in the country.

The Cowboys moved into the top spot after Iowa State, the defending national champions, dropped two dual meets to intrastate rivals Iowa and Northern Iowa.

But the Sun Devils also held the high honor for five weeks, before the Cyclones edged them, 20-19, in the Virginia Duals.

ASU now occupies the second place slot, and a successful roadtrip could see ASU ranked No. 1 on Monday.

The Sun Devils (7-1) will wrestle five matches over the weekend. The field includes; Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Boise State, Nebraska and New Mexico.

"We have been training for the Oklahoma roadtrip since the Virginia Duals," Douglas said. "Our training has been quite intense and productive."

But ASU has a thorn in its side: injuries. "We are not wrestling at full strength,"

Douglas said. "It is going to be interesting to see how we come along."

Sophomore Zeke Jones (118 pounds) and senior Rod Severn (HWT) are the only undefeated wrestlers on the squad. Jones holds a 16-0-1 mark while Severn, the third member in his family to wrestle at ASU, is 11-0-2.

Jones is coming back after having arthroscopic surgery performed on his knee. He has been in uniform for two weeks now, but Douglas questions his conditioning.

"He is wrestling well, but his conditioning is not where it should be," Douglas said. "He is coming back but he needs some matches under his belt."

The best record on the team belongs to 158-pounder Dan St. John, who has a mark of 19-1-1. Last year, he was named freshman All-America at 142 pounds.

Four-year veteran Mike Davies (190 pounds) is only one win shy of St. John. Davies is third on the all-time ASU victory list with 115. He needs only two more to move into second place and 13 to surpass Dave Severn's 127 victories.

Douglas said he feels the road trip to the Midwest will provide the Devils with good competition.

Apprentice entrepreneurs.

Successful entrepreneurs are made, not born. They've learned all about drive, discipline and innovation first hand.

Now Microsoft gives you the opportunity to learn how to be successful. As a Microsoft Associate Education Support Representative, you'll represent the world's premier software company on campus.

You'll start with thorough training this summer at our headquarters near Seattle (all expenses paid, naturally). Then you will be responsible for making sure that everyone on campus who uses a personal computer uses Microsoft software.

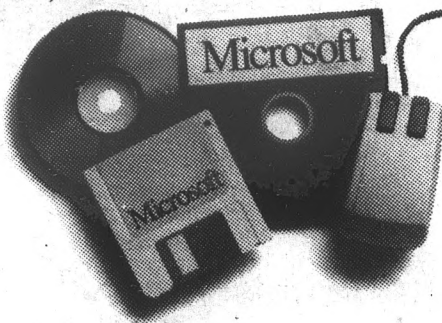

That includes checking the campus computer store to make sure Microsoft products and literature are properly displayed, prices current, and staff thoroughly trained. You'll swing by the computer center to provide Microsoft products for evaluation and advise regarding applications. Campus clubs and user groups will be another target.

What does it take to become an apprentice entrepreneur with Microsoft? You should be proficient with IBM PCs or compatibles or Macintosh™, using business applications software. You must have the drive and professionalism that are the hallmarks of success, with excellent writing and speaking skills. You must be a full-time student, in good academic standing, with at least two years left before graduation.

In return, Microsoft offers invaluable experience, salary, free software after one year in the program, and discounts on computers.

To become an Associate Education Support Rep with Microsoft, send your resume, references, and a cover letter describing how you would promote Microsoft on your campus to AESR Program Coordinator, MICROSOFT CORPORATION, Dept. SJSC-AS, 222 N. Sepulveda Blvd., Suite 1322, El Segundo, CA 90245.

We are an equal opportunity employer. No phone calls, please.

ASU swim team set for intense rivalry

By CHRIS PIRKEY
State Press

The ASU men's swimming and diving team will face California and Stanford today and tomorrow in a west coast road trip that is crucial to the team's future.

ASU is currently ranked No. 3, while Cal No. 4 and Stanford No. 5. Men's coach Ron Johnson said the next two meets are probably among the most important meets the team has this year.

"If we remain in the top four after this dual meet, we will be invited to the National Dual-Meet Championship, held in the Olympic Swimming Complex in L.A.," Johnson said.

Senior co-captain Paul Mantili said the Cal and Stanford meets are the most intense meets on the schedule, with the rivalries between the teams almost as heated as the one between ASU and the UA.

"We hate Stanford," Mantili said. "If we beat them it will be like a payback, a revenge. Even the coaches have this thing between them."

Senior sensation Peter Boden will be part of the ammunition against the Bears and the Cardinals, as well as the rest of the breast-stroke team.

"We are taking a strong breast-stroke squad with us," Johnson said. "We are hoping to do well."

Mantili added that the team has been training hard and training well despite illness among team members.

"As tired as everyone is, we feel we can knock them off," Mantili said.

The No. 2 ranked women's team will face Cal and Stanford next week, and according to Coach Tim Hill the team is feeling confident after a second-place win in the Texas Collegiate meet Jan. 16-17.

The women's team is currently the only team in the country to have all of its squads qualified for the national meet. The team has 10 individuals who have also qualified, but Hill feels they still have a hard road to travel.

"We've got our work cut out for us," Hill said. "It's not going to be easy for us, not by a long-shot."

Wrestling

"Oklahoma State is ranked No. 1," Douglas said. "They have a fine team. Oklahoma matches up real good with us. They are strong in weight classes where we aren't."

The Sun Devils, an exciting team to watch, found their turning point during the Dec. 2 victory over the then-No. 1 Iowa Hawkeyes in the Activity Center.

Since then, everything has gone ASU's way, with the exception of the loss to Iowa State.

"They are exciting to watch wrestle," Douglas said. "I think this is the first team at Arizona State that has been in the run for a national title."

ASU will only be at home one more time this season. Douglas' crew will play host to the Sunkist Kids and Emery-Riddle on Feb. 12.

NFL owners pledge support for Sullivans

NEW YORK (AP) — NFL owners pledged Thursday to back the financially troubled Sullivan family in its efforts to either sell or continue to bankroll the New England Patriots.

Both team and league officials reaffirmed that the franchise would not be moved.

"I think a move is highly unlikely," Commissioner Pete Rozelle said after a meeting of representatives of the 28 teams.

A committee was created to monitor the Patriots' operation and possible sale. Rozelle said negotiations had resumed with a group that holds an option to buy the team for $63 million.

"My father has held this team together for 28 years and any concept that this team is going to move while my father is either running it or selling it is ludicrous," said Pat Sullivan, the Patriots' general manager and the son of 72-year-old Billy Sullivan.

The elder Sullivan founded the team in 1960 as an original franchise in the old American Football League.

The only other item of note at the meeting was the proposed move to Phoenix of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cards owner Bill Bidwill informed the other owners of what he told Rozelle last week — that he intends to ask them for permission to move. But no vote was taken and none is expected at least for a month and perhaps not until the league meetings in Phoenix that begin March 14.

But most of the agenda involved the Patriots. The Sullivans have had financial problems for the past decade. They were complicated when one of the sons, Chuck Sullivan, lost money in the promotion of singer Michael Jackson's "Victory Tour" in 1985.

One estimate is that the family, the team and Sullivan Stadium in Foxboro, Mass., are $82 million in debt and that the team met its December payroll by dipping into an escrow fund set up with the league. Rozelle said that Billy Sullivan had assured the other owners that he could meet the January payroll the same way, then pay players and staff for the rest of 1988 with the proceeds of season ticket sales.

If the team were to declare bankruptcy, the matter would then go into the courts and other cities might be able to bid for the franchise that way.

Meanwhile, Rozelle said negotiations will continue with Philadelphia-based Fran Murray and John Charlton, whose group has an option to purchase the team for $63 million. Those talks broke off last week but Rozelle said they had been resumed again Tuesday.

All of this will be monitored by a three-member league committee that includes Rozelle and owners Norman Braman of the Philadelphia Eagles and Ralph Wilson of the Buffalo Bills. Ironically, Braman bought the Eagles three years ago after the former owner, Leonard Tose, was forced to sell because of his personal financial troubles.

Most of the owners, few of whom were aware of the details of the New England problem, seemed satisfied with the meeting's outcome, as did the Sullivans.

"I'm very pleased with the benediction of my fellow owners," the elder Sullivan said.

"I consider Billy Sullivan one of my closest friends and I don't take friendship lightly," said Joe Robbie, owner of the Miami Dolphins.

"It was a good meeting for us," Pat Sullivan said. "I think now we can move forward to resolve the situation with the Murray people."

Brown hired as new defensive coach at ASU

TEMPE (AP) — Dennis Brown, the defensive coordinator at West Virginia University the past eight football seasons, was hired Thursday as ASU's new defensive coordinator.

Brown, 40, coached a Mountaineer squad that ranked 11th in the nation in total defense last season, allowing just 274 yards per game.

West Virginia has been ranked in the nation's top 15 in total defense four times since 1982.

Brown replaces Larry Marmie, 45, who was promoted from third-year defensive coordinator to head coach on Jan. 5.

"I've known Dennis in a professional way for eight years," Marmie said. "We are similar in a lot of the things we do on defense. He is the kind of person that we're looking for to be on our staff."

Brown resigned from West Virginia on Monday in anticipation of accepting the Arizona State job.

"Dennis will be a tremendous addition to our football program," said Sun Devil athletic director Charles Harris. "I've known him for a long time and have great respect for what he has accomplished as a coach. The fact that he has recruited the western Pennsylvania area is like a bonus for us."

Brown said the ASU position "is a terrific opportunity" and cited the school's "great football tradition."

A 1969 graduate out of Michigan, Brown was a freshman coach and scout at his alma mater from 1969-71 and an assistant coach from 1972-79. In between, he was the freshman coach at Dartmouth College from 1971-72.

St. Louis starts search for new NFL franchise

ST. LOUIS (AP) — With the football Cardinals about to fly the coop, St. Louis fans and civic leaders are focusing on other potential franchises — expansion or otherwise — for the city.

Those sad to see owner William V. Bidwill go west after the franchise switch is made official are definitely in the minority. But it's been a week since Bidwill said he would ask his fellow owners to approve the move, and anguish seems to have been replaced by a "What Now?" attitude.

Expansion? NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle has said he wants two more teams by 1990, and has tentative plans to appoint an expansion committee at the league meetings in Phoenix March 14. Rozelle said the league would begin an expansion process after the owners reached an agreement with the players union, which ended its strike without a contract.

"I think that sooner or later the NFL is going to expand," Sen. John Danforth said. "Now we're going to have to roll up our sleeves and do what we can to bring a team to St. Louis."

Holmes, Tyson fight for crown in Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mike Tyson, the youngest heavyweight champion in history, and Larry Holmes, who could become the oldest, will fight tonight at the Convention Center.

Holmes, a 38-year-old grandfather who announced his retirement Nov. 6, 1986, would succeed Jersey Joe Walcott as the oldest champion.

Walcott was 37 when he knocked out Ezzard Charles in the seventh round July 18, 1951.

"They'll say I'm too old, washed up, can't fight anymore," Holmes said of his decision to come out of retirement.

Upon leaving the official weigh-in Thursday, Holmes said, "I'll win. I'll fool everybody."

"I don't make predictions, but I can assure you a victory," the 21-year-old Tyson said.

Tyson is an overwhelming favorite to win the scheduled 12-round fight at the 16,000-seat Convention Center. It will be televised by HBO at about 8:27 p.m.

"I believe I'm the best fighter in world," said Tyson. "I believe he had his era. I believe nobody in the world can beat me."

"He's made for me," Holmes said. "Face fighters are made for me. I can punch going back. Boxers give me trouble."

A face fighter is one who leaves himself open while attacking.

Tyson is an attacker, and that is an important part of his defense. He keeps an opponent busy defending himself.

The champion, who weighed in at 215½ pounds Thursday, possesses excellent quickness and handspeed.

Holmes, who weighed 225½, had a great left jab, but in his last several fights it lacked its old snap and accuracy. The bounce was gone from his legs.

"Larry doesn't have the physical capabilities at this stage of his career," said Eddie Futch, who trained Holmes for 12 title fights.

Holmes feels his 21-month layoff has been good for him, but most boxing people feel a fighter cannot restore what time and age have eroded.

The former champion has trained in seclusion for several weeks at his hometown of Easton, Pa. He didn't arrive at Atlantic City until Wednesday afternoon.

Holmes, who turned pro in 1973, won his first 48 fights and was the world's premier heavyweight for about 7½ years. He won the World Boxing Council title from Ken Norton June 19, 1978, and defended it 17 times before relinquishing it in December, 1983, after a dispute with promoter Don King involving a defense against Greg Page.

Still recognized as champion by the International Boxing Federation, Holmes defended that title three times before losing it to Michael Spinks on a close, but unanimous decision Sept. 22, 1985. He lost the rematch on a split decision in his last fight April 19, 1986.
