

Chairman says program needs more instructors

By VICKIE CHACHERE
State Press

ASU's general studies program, considered to be among the best in the United States, will not live up to its potential if the University fails to hire additional instructors to teach the courses, according to one of the program's founders.

Leonard Gordon, chairman of ASU's sociology department and the chairman of the committee that organized the general studies program, told a gathering of ASU administrators last week that the University needs to hire more professors to teach the courses.

In order for the program, which was implemented last fall, to be successful, class sizes need to be kept small with several sections offered to students, Gordon said.

The program requires students to complete 35 hours of classes in five academic areas, such as math, literature and foreign languages.

State budget restraints have kept the University from hiring more professors to teach the extra classes, Gordon said, and some students this year found that some sections closed quickly.

Gordon said the difficulty in getting into classes could disrupt students' schedules and may even force some to graduate later than they had planned.

"We have something very good on paper," Gordon said. "But if we are really going to implement this — that (the faculty shortage) is something that needs to be addressed."

Gordon's comments followed a three-hour Wednesday session for University administrators on the current state of the ASU budget. Frank Sackton, a special assistant to ASU President J. Russell Nelson, said that the Arizona Legislature is facing a $250 million shortfall next year, and ASU likely will receive a "bare bones" budget allocation from the state.

If the shortfall is not offset with increased taxes or other revenues, the University could be forced to limit the number of professors hired and cut some class sections and student services.

The Joint Legislative Budget Committee has recommended a $160.9 million allocation from the state's general fund for ASU and $10.7 million in state funds for ASU West.

The committee's recommendation is an $8.7 million increase over last year's appropriations for the main campus, but $15 million less than ASU officials say they need to maintain current services and improve some programs.

Michael Konz, ASASU's state relations director, said both state relations and the Arizona Students Association are lobbying for budget decision packages that would provide funds for hiring additional professors.

"We are definitely in favor of more professors, particularly those whose focus is undergraduate education," Konz said.

Mecham tells Senate of desire to fire Milstead

Staff and Wire reports

PHOENIX — Before Gov. Evan Mecham was excused from the impeachment trial witness stand Friday, he related his desire to fire Department of Public Safety Director Ralph Milstead, whom Mecham accused of leading a mutiny against him.

"I wish I had done that because we wouldn't be sitting in this body today," Mecham said. "I have highly repented that."

Milstead, in turn, has accused Mecham of obstructing justice concerning an alleged death threat to a former Mecham aide.

Mecham had previously hedged on answering questions about Milstead's loyalty, but after Sen. Tony West (R-Phoenix) asked if the governor thought Milstead was guilty of "mutinous service," Mecham replied, "Yes, I do, sir."

When West noted that mutiny is punishable by death in the military, Mecham responded, "I wouldn't propose we take Director Milstead out and shoot him. I would protect him against that."

But Mecham angrily blamed Milstead and others for his current position as the first impeached governor in Arizona history.

Mecham said his personal war with Attorney General Bob Corbin prevented him from firing Milstead. "I had a war going on with the attorney general, and I didn't need any others."

Milstead had been appointed by Mecham's Democratic predecessor, Bruce Babbitt, and under state law could be removed by Mecham only for good cause.

Milstead, who is out of the country, previously testified that Mecham told him not to cooperate with Corbin's investigation of an alleged death threat by Mecham aide Lee Watkins against former Mecham aide Donna Carlson. She was a grand jury witness in an investigation of Mecham's campaign finances.

Mecham said he thinks the death threat allegation was "a bunch of hot air" and has been blown out of proportion. "We have really worked to make a mountain out of molehill," Mecham said.

When questioned about the alleged threat, the governor continued to plead ignorance of the details. "I knew nothing of a death threat. I knew nothing of a serious nature," he said.

Democratic Sen. Carolyn Walker pressed Mecham on his state of mind on Nov. 15, when he told Milstead he should not cooperate with the attorney general's probe.

"Is it fair to say you put your political career ahead of the good of the people of Arizona?" the senator asked. "Certainly not," answered Mecham.

The obstruction of justice claim is the first of three broad charges against Mecham being considered by the Arizona Senate. He also is charged with concealing a $350,000 campaign loan and with misusing $80,000 from a governor's protocol fund by lending it to his auto dealership.

It would take a two-thirds vote of the 30-member Senate to convict Mecham and remove him from office. The Senate could then take another vote and forbid him from ever holding state office again.

Mecham also faces a criminal trial April 21 on the charge that he concealed the $350,000 loan and a recall election May 17.

Police arrest man for allegedly firing shot

By MIKE BURGESS
State Press

A Tempe man who claimed he was holding an attacker at gunpoint early Saturday was arrested after allegedly firing a gunshot at ASU police officers, police said. There was no attacker.

Lloyd Preston Kissick, 40, 615 E. Apache Blvd. No. 68, was booked into Maricopa County Jail and charged with two counts of disorderly conduct. He is being held in lieu of $6,500 bond.

No one was injured during the incident at the Oasis Apartment Complex, which is located across the street from ASU police headquarters.

Kissick was arrested after ASU police received a report of a man with a gun and that shots had been fired about 3:21 a.m., police said.

Police said when officers arrived, they found a man wearing only underwear standing on the second story balcony of the complex armed with a .45-caliber automatic handgun.

The man claimed he was holding an attacker at gunpoint.

A single gunshot was fired while ASU police were on the scene and Tempe police were called to aid in setting up a perimeter of the apartment complex.

Kissick surrendered to police about 3:39 a.m. after police convinced him there was no attacker.

ASU police had responded to the same apartment March 12 after Kissick reported that a man armed with a baseball bat was waiting to attack him outside the apartment.

Sun Devil wrestlers win 1st NCAA national championship

By CHRIS DORSEY
State Press

AMES, Iowa — The long climb up the treacherous mountain came to an end Saturday night to mark a perfect ending to a championship season for the ASU wrestling team.

The Sun Devils made history by achieving the NCAA title. It marked the first time in 14 years the championship trophy has left the state of Iowa.

"This is a great moment in ASU history," said coach Bobby Douglas. "These guys are a good balanced team, (however) they said a good balanced team couldn't win the national title."

"We proved it could."
ASU was not the favored team entering the 58th annual tournament, it was Oklahoma State who finished fourth with 80.5 points.

Douglas' troops topped Iowa by a score of 93-85.5 to claim the high honor despite not having a national champion. It was the first time since 1978 when Iowa Hawkeye coach Dan Gable won the first of nine consecutive titles.

Panama Canal unaffected so far by crisis affecting rest of country

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — When strikes shut down the rest of the country, Panama Canal employees went to work. When flaming barricades blocked downtown streets, roads to the canal were clear. The crisis gripping the rest of the country has barely touched the waterway so vital to Panama's economy.

Even at the height of this week's protests, rioters demanding the ouster of strongman Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega avoided the canal zone just outside the capital.

Canal officials said the most serious problem was a transit stoppage that made it impossible for many canal employees to get to work.

But not everyone agrees.

Capt. John Maher, president of the 230-member Panama Canal Pilots Association, said continued political instability could sound the waterway's death knell.

Slain British soldiers ignored orders; were asked to avoid IRA funeral

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two British soldiers who were killed in a brutal attack by an angry mob ignored orders to stay away from an Irish Republican Army funeral procession, the British army said Sunday.

All soldiers in the British-ruled province were told the funeral was taking place on Saturday and had been warned to steer clear, an army spokesman said. He said the army had begun an investigation.

"The two corporals should not have been where they were and we are interested in examining how that came about," said the spokesman, speaking anonymously in keeping with British custom.

"They would have been briefed about the route of the funeral procession, and the two corporals were not expected to be there and had no requirement to be there."

Cpl. Derek Wood, 24, and Cpl. David Howes, 23, were shot dead in Belfast on Saturday after funeral mourners dragged them from their unmarked car, beat them unconscious and stripped them naked.

Soviet diplomat faces complaints on Central America, Afghanistan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze arrived Sunday for three days of talks with Reagan administration officials that are bound to be dominated by the wars in Nicaragua and Afghanistan.

The visit also may produce a date for the next superpower summit — speculation centers on late May in Moscow — and some progress toward a treaty to sharply reduce U.S. and Soviet long-range nuclear weapons.

The treaty is the projected centerpiece for President Reagan's fourth and final meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, but negotiations in Geneva have proceeded slowly.

"It's by no means in the bag," Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Sunday of the accord that would reduce by 30 percent to 50 percent the overall armories of U.S. and Soviet long-range bombers, missiles and submarines.

Students riot on Gulf Coast beach; at least 4 stabbed, 2 policemen hurt

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — Hundreds of partying young people rioted on a Gulf Coast beach during the night before police moved in with tear gas and helicopters, and authorities dragged the ocean for a car that sped off a nearby ferry dock and sank early Sunday.

"What you have down there is a tremendous amount of intoxication going on. All it takes sometimes is for someone to bump into someone else. The crowd just turned into a riot," said Jim Kaelin, an officer with the Texas Department of Public Safety.

At least four people were stabbed and two law officers were injured in the midnight beach melee, police said. Eight people were arrested, and one person remained hospitalized Sunday. There was no indication how many people were in the car that sank in 20 feet of water.

"One thing led to another, and it became a riot out there," said Coast Guard spokesman Anthony E. Lloyd in Corpus Christi.

Lloyd said most of the students appeared to be high-school age. About 30,000 students were staying in this island resort for spring break, he said.

The mayhem began when a motorist hit a girl on the beach at this Gulf Coast vacation spot on Mustang Island, offshore from Corpus Christi, and tried to leave the scene, said DPS Officer A.G. Michniak in Corpus Christi.

"They stomped the car, broke all the glass out of it and flipped it over," said Tom Frazier, 22, a student at the University of Texas.

Council candidate encourages ASU students to vote in election

By J. MICHAEL HOEHN

State Press

This story and the one following are the fourth and fifth parts of a seven-part series profiling the candidates for Tempe City Council.

Tempe City Council candidate Rick Godwin said ASU students are losing political power in Tempe because they fail to vote and encouraged students to turn out and vote in the city's primary election tomorrow.

"Students are not taken seriously at the local government level," Godwin said. "Students may think they are taken seriously, but the fact that they do not vote ensures that they are not going to be listened to."

Godwin, who graduated from ASU in 1972 with a political science degree, is an officer with RCG Properties and one of seven candidates running for three Tempe City Council seats.

"Students in Tempe, those who are registered to vote here and they don't vote, they have about zero political power in local government," he said.

Godwin said if students took a more active role in local politics, Council members would pay more attention to their concerns.

"They (students) can get the City Council to sit up and listen, because they (council members) know that the individual in front of them with a complaint is more than just a student, they are registered voters and they vote.

"If students do not come and vote, they shouldn't expect to be able to complain about anything in Tempe," Godwin said. Godwin said while students might be apathetic about their roles in city politics, he does not believe there is a student-city government problem.

Godwin believes there is also a good relationship between the City Council and the ASU administration.

"I don't see any problems the city is having with the University," he said.

However, Godwin said there are some problems at ASU that do affect the city, and he would like to see these problems addressed by the Council.

One of Godwin's major concerns is a drug problem he sees at the University.

"There was a drug problem at my high school. There was a drug problem at ASU, and I still think there is a drug problem there," he said.

Godwin said the University can play a vital role in stopping drug use not only on campus but throughout Tempe.

"I don't have the answers," he said. "I would probably look towards some of the behavior departments (at ASU) to come up with some of the answers."

He said ASU has resources which could help the city combat many of its problems.

"I would look toward the University to come up with some ideas to help us here in Tempe," Godwin said.

Rick Godwin

Godwin said one the biggest concerns Tempe is going to have to face is matching revenues to expenses. He said the city needs to concern itself with creating revenues which will pay for future projects the city needs.

"I do think if you don't plan for the future, you're going to have problems in the future," Godwin said. "Tempe's population is basically maturing right now."

City Council candidate Hatton 'runs scared' at campaign time

By J. MICHAEL HOEHN

State Press

Incumbent Tempe City Council Candidate Pat Hatton said she always "runs scared" when campaigning, adding that her race for a third term on the Tempe City Council is no different.

"I think it's going to be a tight race," Hatton said. "I'll be surprised if one incumbent is not unseated. I'm including myself in that."

Hatton has served on the City Council since 1976 and is one of seven candidates for three Council seats. The city's primary election is tomorrow, and any candidate who captures more than 50 percent of the vote will be elected. The remaining seats will be decided in a general election May 10.

"I think there are two strong candidates besides the incumbents," she said, citing Rick Godwin and Barbara Sherman, who have impressed her with their organization.

Hatton said she is happy with the relationship the city has developed with ASU. She said the city has been able to avoid many problems facing other college towns because University activities and housing have been congregated in an isolated area apart from city residential areas.

Hatton said there has "always been a working relationship" between ASU and Tempe on the Mayor-

University president level. However, she feels that relationship needs to be expanded more between department directors and staffs.

"You can never work at it hard enough. It's ongoing, like a family or a marriage," Hatton said. "You've got to constantly tend it."

ASU has provided the city with a number of benefits, such as cultural activities and centers, Hatton said.

Although Hatton said the city does not have problems with ASU, she added there are several other areas Tempe government needs to work on.

One of Hatton's biggest concerns for her next term is to protect neighborhood interests while encouraging business development. She said one specific area to monitor is the protection and redevelopment of older Tempe neighborhoods.

"It is just a fact that Tempe has a certain percentage of its housing that is going to be 25 years of age or 35 years of age, and there is deterioration that goes on," she said.

To address the aging problem, Hatton said money has been set aside in a program called Standard Housing Improvements. The program is designed to provide low income loans to needy families desiring to make improvements on their residences.

Hatton said people are becoming more concerned with development within the city, which is evidenced by constituency calls for lower apartment density.

To protect Tempe residents' interests, Hatton said the City Council has already established several safeguards, including the city's design review board.

Pat Hatton

The board addresses such issues as "buffering, spacing the building and uses that are workable," Hatton said.

On the other hand, Hatton said she is worried about the city's debt and maintaining a balance between debt levels and the creation of new facilities.

"We're now looking at paying for a new library complex, the historical museum extension, a recreation complex at Kiwanis Park . . . and we have increased the percentage of our debt fairly significantly in the last four years," she said.

Wimp or winner?

Editor:
With regard to the recent articles by the State Press' opinion editors, I would like to raise the question: "What makes a man like George Bush, who has defended his nation against our enemies as a dive bomber pilot during World War II (on one occasion being shot down by ground fire in the process of doing so — a feat of bravery equaling, if not surpassing, JFK in his motorboat days), and who has served his nation well since then in various government positions, a wimp? Whereas: men like Michael Dukakis, Albert (Albert?) Gore and even bespectacled, bow-tied Paul Simon are considered He-men, or at least non-wimps?"

Perhaps the title is given him by those who are angered by the vice president's refusal to attack the president he has served over the past seven years. Perhaps it is Bush's loyalty which makes him a wimp; but since when has showing loyalty to another become an indication of wimpishness? Or, most probably, perhaps the title is given to him out of political expediency by those who favor the policies of the Democratic Party, and who would like nothing better than to see the Republican Party's candidate branded an ineffectual loser before the campaign even begins in earnest.

Those pointing to polls saying that Bush would lose to every Democrat except Jesse Jackson and Jimmy Carter should remember that such early polls are merely popularity contests, with little or no knowledge by the interviewees of the various candidate's stands on the issues, their histories or viewpoints; but rather they are determined by the interviewee's fondness for a candidate's smile, speaking ability, haircut or "sincerity." That is the reason why an early poll in the 1980 campaign showed Teddy Kennedy as being the "unbeatable" presidential candidate — had he chosen to run. So much for early polls.

So we are left with the fact that the Republicans will go to their convention united behind a man who has a track record of proven, competent leadership and mainstream political thought. Whereas the Democrats seem destined to go into their convention a splintered rabble, with the environment ripe for deals cut in smoke-filled rooms.

And if Jesse Jackson succeeds in wielding the power he seems destined to receive in the remaining primaries — even landing a spot on the ticket — then the Democrats are doomed, and not because Jackson is black.

Think of it this way. If a white candidate had: kissed Yassir Arafat, heartily praised Fidel Castro and Che Gueverra, uttered racial slurs against a large ethnic segment of our population, advocated the use of American troops to invade South Africa and refused to condemn a close friend who has said that Adolph Hitler was a "great man," and then that candidate's views help guide the direction of his party's campaign — or he manages to secure the vice presidential spot on the ticket. Which party would you bet your money on for a November victory — his or the opposition's?

Lie detector: "Snuff out" non-factual reporting

Editor:
Why join a fraternity? That question, raised in recent State Press editorials, has several responses.

People join the Greek system for several reasons. Yes, one of them is to meet other people that have similar interests. I don't think that is an unreasonable motive, but it is not the only reason. People may join the Greek system for several reasons, but once exposed to the total opportunities a Greek organization offers, people stay in the system for many, many reasons. They learn that the public only sees the tip of the Greek iceberg.

For example, even though Suzanne Weschler characterized the Fijis as inhumane (Feb. 12), each one of them performs about 20 hours each semester toward community service projects.

One point to remember is that all Greeks were independents before they decided to join the Greek system. Why ridicule a person for deciding to join the Greek system? I have yet to hear anyone at the Fiji house ever ridicule someone because they were an independent. This may be a real shock, but Greeks have friends that are independents. We realize that there are friends to be made at ASU outside of the Greeks system. Every Greek organization encourages participation of its members in a variety of campus activities.

My recent involvement with the Phi Gamma Delta (FJJI) chapter at ASU as a graduate advisor has enabled me to know as much about the incidents at the fraternity as anyone. Let me set the record straight for you. The hazing events which occurred were in direct violation of the fraternity policies. When certain members refused to follow the rules of the fraternity (after many chances were given to them) those people were then told they were no longer members of our chapter. We expelled some members in April 1987, some in May 1987 and the balance in June 1987, for a variety of reasons.

As you can see, all of those dates were in advance of the University contacting us. It was some of the expelled members that went to the University (after we refused to readmit them) willing to testify about the hazing activities at the Fiji house. If those former members were so upset, why did they wait until they were expelled by the fraternity before contacting the University? There are many key questions yet to be asked and they all have answers, but the press finds it easier to sensationalize than investigate and substantiate.

Hazing should not happen. There is no place for it in any pledge education program. We are in agreement on that point. "Snuffing out" (to use Miss Weschler's term) the fraternity is not the answer to end hazing. Punishing individuals that haze is the only way to end hazing. "Snuff out" the individuals that haze. "Snuff out" the individuals that violate the rules and then hide behind the fraternity for protection.

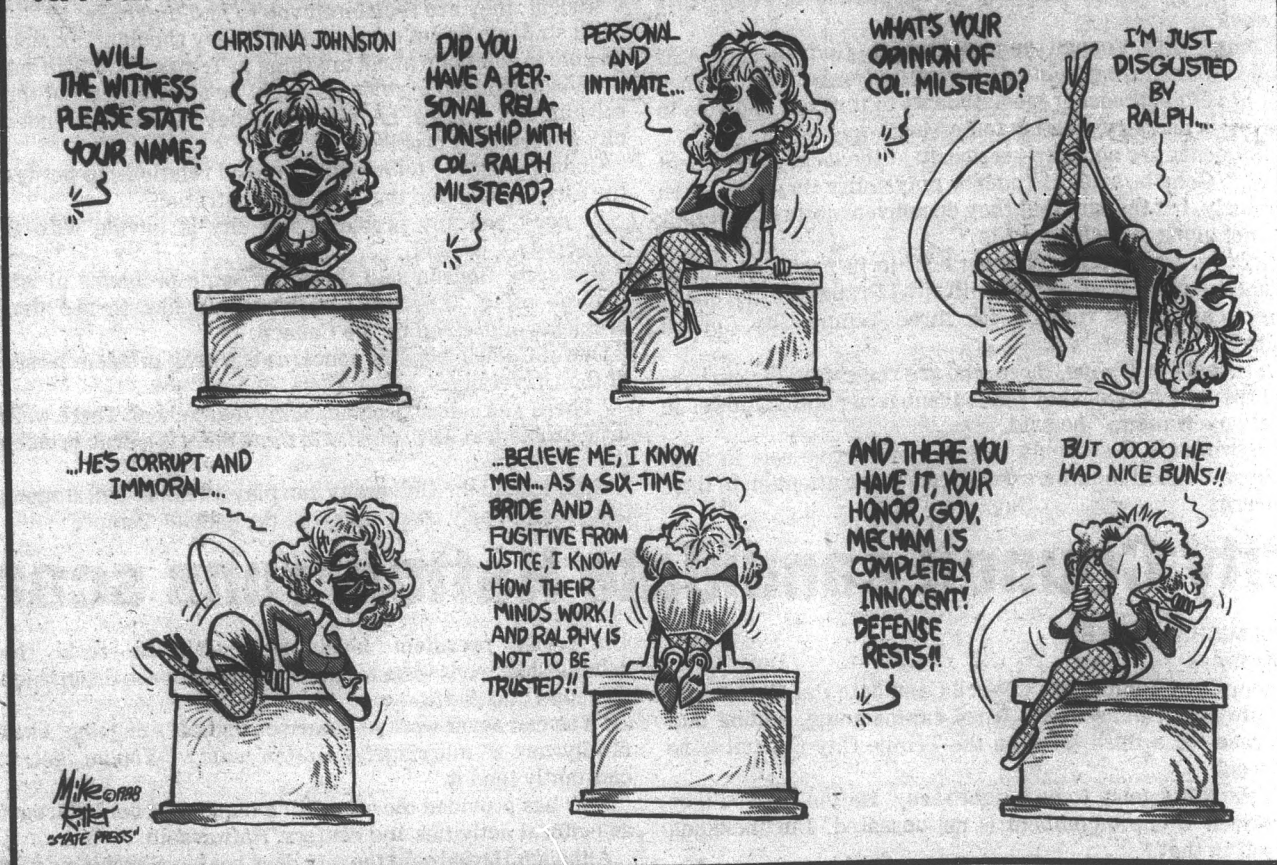

The Fijis made many, many changes before the University contacted us. You don't know that because you never asked, and what is worse is that you would not believe our answers anyway. So why continue to sit in judgement of the fraternity when you can't be judicious forming opinions?

The bottom line is this: I am extremely tired of reading one erroneous article after another (except one) from your paper regarding the Fiji situation. I agree that freedom of speech is vital to our way of life as a democratic society. However, the press has a responsibility to get the facts straight. I realize what Miss Weschler wrote was an editorial, but that does not lessen your responsibility to get the facts right.

I am willing to discuss the Fiji situation with the members of the State Press anytime, anyplace and anywhere with one stipulation: put myself, one of the expelled members and a State Press reporter all under a polygraph. We will ask each party 20 questions. No hiding behind the First Amendment, Fifth Amendment or any amendment. Let's "snuff out" non-factual reporting. Let's find out where the truth is and print the results. I'm issuing a challenge to put your money where your pen is. What I'm saying is put up or shut up.

RITTER

As the uprising continues . . .

Editor:
As the uprising continues, entering its fourth month in the occupied territories in Israel, a CNN correspondent again reports the Israeli soldiers exercising the metal fist policy against the Palestinian civilians.

In Khanyounis City of Gaza Strip two more Palestinians were buried alive by Israeli soldiers after they were brutally beaten at the urbans of the city. This fascist, uncivilized incident was not the first of its kind to occur.

A few weeks ago CNN and CBS news reporters witnessed the same criminal act carried out by the Israeli soldiers against four young Palestinians in Nablus in the West Bank.

In addition, a 13-year-old boy and a girl were shot to death at the steps of their home as they were leaving to school. This incident was witnessed by CNN news reporters.

Furthermore, the random and indiscriminate beatings by the Israeli soldiers extended to include their brutality on the ABC, CBS and other U.S. reporters for filming and witnessing the Zionist crimes.

What is absurd is the fact that the Israel defense minister has denied the allegations of giving orders directly to his soldiers to beat up the Palestinians, break their hands, legs and if necessary kill them so there will be no trace of them. But an ABC news correspondent has interviewed some number of Israeli soldiers who confessed that these orders were given to them.

After all of these crimes and brutality, Israel is still condemning the Palestinians for rioting and calling them "terrorists." It is absurd when someone carries out a criminal act and tries to switch the facts around to condemn their victims.

These facts speak for themselves on a daily basis, reported by the U.S. media. This shows the fake claims of Israel's "democracy," which has conned the American people through the Jewish power in America and the world.

Not to mention their claim of having so-called "justice courts." In my consideration, these courts of Israel are nothing but shame on the word justice. Live and reported court cases have proved the justice court of Israel to be barbaric. All the young protestors who have been arrested so far are held for six months or longer without trial or even charges brought against them. In other words, their fate is in the hands of the Israeli "justice" courts.

Last but not least, I would like to ask the Jewish people how far they will allow Israel to exercise their brutality against human beings? Also I would like to remind Israel of the crimes against them by the Nazis and to ask them to justify the difference between the Nazis burning the Jews alive and the Israelis burying the Palestinians alive.

Democrats eat themselves alive as Dumb George wins

Hunter S. Thompson
North American Syndicate

"They also serve who only stand and wait." — Ukrainians 5:78.

Four years is a long time in politics, or at least that's what the boys in the business will tell you. And maybe it's true, if your name is Gary Hart or Ed Meese . . . or George Bush, for instance.

There is not much argument in the business about who had the longest four years of all: George is a clear winner. He has suffered the slings and arrows of genuinely outrageous fortune for what must seem to him like 44 years suffering in silence the mockery and abuse of all those around him and the idle contempt of those further away. . . . He was forced to deny that he ever really participated in any meaningful decisions by the White House inner circle: he was at the Army-Navy game, he claimed, on the day of that fatal meeting on Dec. 7, 1985, that sent the Iran-Contra deal in action.

Dumb George, they called him. All he did was sit there and roll his eyes helplessly whenever the talk got serious. He knew nothing, saw nothing, said nothing — except for the War on Drugs, which they put him in charge of.

Ho ho. . . . The price of cocaine in Miami dropped 50 percent in two years and a vicious dope-running thug is now in charge of the Panama Canal. The war was a hopeless failure and a bad deal for George — along with all the other wrong and ugly things he got blamed for — and he swore in his heart of hearts that he would get even.

Which he did. He stomped his enemies like peasants and ran them out of the territory. The Preacher Robertson is gone now, crushed swiftly and silently in the South Carolina primary — and three days later, on the fabled Super Tuesday, Bush destroyed Bob Dole by winning 16 out of 17 states and strutting around like a hedgehog.

The Republican side of the ledger is brutally balanced now. All those who dared to challenge Dumb George have been systematically croaked — and we are still only halfway through March and four months until the conventions.

And George has already gigged them like frogs. Haig, Kemp, Robertson, du Pont, Dole. . . . that is a lot of big frogs to gig in two months, Jack. If he were a civilian, he'd be locked up for murder. He's killed more people than Ted Bundy.

This news was received by about 77 percent of the voters in 20 states with whoops of unrestrained joy. Bush was massively exonerated and crowned as the next president. . . . It was harsh and it was weird, but it was also true. The only people who stand between George and the White House now are a wild-eyed black preacher from Chicago and a wild-card elderly lawyer named Lawrence Walsh from St. Louis, the government's special prosecutor in the Iran-Contra case.

Well . . . I make book on these things, from time to time, and if I had to make numbers today I would put Walsh off the board and Jesse Jackson at about the same place I had him on the chart last October, which was 77-1.

Jesse has always been a bit of a mystery to political journalists — even the best of them, like Mary McGrory, who wrote a column that says, in a nut, that Jackson would and should be an easy bet to win the Democratic nomination except that he is not a white man and can't possibly be elected.

But he must be on the ticket, she adds, because he has become too powerful to dump — which has become a nasty thing for the party gurus to cope with. "The net result of the Southern primaries was to put Jackson squarely in the catbird seat," she wrote. "He knows, and the others know he knows, that the Democrats have no idea what to do with him, and no way to do without him in November."

Their only hope, outside of Bush getting busted for perjury and relentless malfeasance for his long-denied role in the sleazy Iranian business, is for Jackson to See the Light and Get Serious and Do What's Best for the Party — pulling out, rolling over, selling out his own people and hunching down to a Pakistani way of life: Let the Market Speak, as they say in Karachi, and always sell your daughters to a relative.

But Jesse will probably not do that, for reasons of his own, and the party's assumption that he will act in the end like some kind of statesmanlike Uncle Tom is not likely to bear fruit. Jesse has been in the business too long and knows it too well to go down that easy; he has hung out on too many street corners and jumped too many hotel bills and begged for money too many times to sell it all out for the sake of the Democratic Party.

If he's as big a problem as they say he is, there are easier ways of getting rid of him than treating him like a Paki and expecting him to roll over for nickels and dimes.

The outlook is for another series of bad blunders by the Democrats and another gift to the GOP. . . . Bush was an easy mark this time: he was a cipher and a wimp, and he would not be with us if Dole hadn't let him off the hook in New Hampshire.

The Democratic Party has whipsawed and cannibalized itself to the point where all its arguments are shrugged off as self-serving lies and all of its presidential candidates are perceived as degenerates. . . . The party's only hope, now, is to have Bush arrested.

Godwin

"As the population matures, people are going to expect services to increase," he said.

Godwin said there are many revenue sources the city needs to develop in order to pay for those services. He said the city needs to encourage business to move to Tempe in order to increase the city's sales tax base, but said he would not favor an increase in the sales tax rate.

Godwin feels other sources of revenue could come from a regional mall that could be built in south Tempe. He said many Tempe residents would rather spend their money in Tempe instead of going to other malls in the Valley.

"Most people in Tempe are loyal enough they would prefer to shop in Tempe," he said. "Quite a few of them go over to Fiesta Mall (in Mesa) and every dollar they spend in Fiesta Mall, the sales tax money stays in Mesa."

Godwin said he would like to see much of the additional revenue go towards recreational and cultural programs.

One of the projects Godwin envisions is a refurbishing of Tempe Beach Park in the downtown area, with additional equipment and landscaping. He said he would also like to see a green belt area created along Rural Road with bicycle paths for students to use. Godwin said these paths would be a necessity if the road is widened to six lanes as planned.

Godwin said he feels confident about his chances in tomorrow's election. He said he has tried to make himself available to Tempe citizens.

"I'm the only candidate who has put his telephone number in his brochure," he said.

He describes his style of politics as "pro-active" rather than "reactive."

"Reactive is when you wait for the problem to surface on its own," he explained.

Hatton

According to Hatton, another area the city needs to work on is relief of traffic congestion, which she sees as one of the negative effects on Tempe's lifestyle. She said the city needs to develop an internal transportation system to service its own citizens.

Hatton said the existing combination of Phoenix buses, the Tempe trolley and Red Cross vans is inadequate for the city.

"The thing we really need in Tempe is an intra-system to serve our city," Hatton said. "We've had two studies that told us, 'You don't have the concentration of population that would use an intra-system to make it feasible even if we put a lot of money into it.'"

"But I think our demographics are changing, and we are going to have to do some things to entice people to other modes of transportation," Hatton said.

Hatton said any new mass transit system will have to be a combination of small vans for the handicapped, buses, mini-vans, and possibly a regional light rail train system. She said any future system must accommodate all needs.

Hatton describes her previous term as "busy, hectic." She cites her involvement on a number of committees, including the Maricopa Human Services Committee and the East Valley Cultural Board as reason for her demanding schedule.

Hatton said she would like to continue to help citizens find their way around in the city during her next term.

police report

Police searching for arsonist

By MIKE BURGESS
State Press

Police are still searching for suspects in the break-in of a Tempe business that sustained $12,000 in damages after two fires were set in the building early Friday, police said.

The incident occurred at Advanced Management Technology, 2727 W. Baseline Road No. 18, shortly before a fire alarm was activated about 4:19 a.m.

Tempe fire investigators said someone entered the building by shattering a window and once inside ransacked the office drawers and defecated on the floor, police said.

According to investigators the fires had been started with matches in two locations in the office. Most of the damage was caused by water from the sprinkler system that quickly doused the blaze.

In other incidents:

•A Tempe police officer was grabbed in the crotch and rubbed by a female suspect who later turned out to be a man early Friday, police said.

Officer John Ferrin was dispatched about 3:25 a.m. to the area of Southshore Drive and Rural Road in reference to a subject jumping out into the roadway flagging down vehicles.

Ferrin arrived and found a person dressed in a mini-skirt with a white top. While filling out a Field Interrogation Card the apparent woman grabbed and rubbed Ferrin's crotch.

It wasn't until the suspect was taken to police headquarters that police discovered she was really a he.

Midorie Chamalla Hassar, 27, was arrested in connection with the incident and charged with aggravated assault and sexual abuse, police said.

•A Tempe man was arrested and charged with aggravated assault after he allegedly shoved his girlfriend's head into a car window and threatened to blow her head off with a .357-caliber revolver, police said.

Robert William Brick, 26, 721 W. Howe St., was booked into Tempe City Jail and also charged with misdemeanor assault, criminal damage and threatening and intimidating.

Brick had 28-year-old Jean M. Stewart had been celebrating Brick's birthday when they got into an argument on the way home, police said.

•A Tempe man was arrested late Saturday after he allegedly stole a television and VCR from his mother's home in the 500 block of West 18th Street, police said.

Joey Riveria, 27, was charged with burglary.

•Two Tempe residents were arrested and charged with possession of a narcotic drug after they were caught allegedly preparing to snort cocaine in the parking lot of the Woodshed Bar, 19 W. Baseline Road, police said.

Ellen Wira, 30, 30 W. Carter Drive No. 17-101 and Gene Ortega, 43, 4605 S. Priest Road No. 71, were arrested after police made a security check of the parking lot and were booked into Tempe City Jail.

Police confiscated three-quarters of a gram of cocaine, and some marijuana and psychedelic mushrooms. A 1986 Dodge Ram Charger was also impounded.

Do you see yourself?

Eating disorders show up in many ways, and are not always obvious. This checklist can help determine if an eating disorder is controlling your life, or the life of someone you love.

- Is dieting the most important area of your life?
- Has food become a power struggle between you and your family or friends?
- Are you unable to eat in a normal social setting with other people?
- If you have lost or gained a great deal of weight, do you feel powerful because of it?
- Do you feel depressed about your body image?
- Have you felt isolated from your family and friends?
- Do others try to get you to eat more, even though you think you look "fine"?

If you answered "Yes" to one or more of these questions, call to set up an appointment for an evaluation. 941-8002. If you have questions for us, please call.

A taste for power

German satirist creates excursion from typical

By LAURIE SMITH
State Press

Enter a world of the surreal, of human conflict and absurdity.

A drawing entitled "Fans" greets the adventurous gaze — thousands of greedy, sharp-toothed mouths wash up to the stage like waves in a frantic sea, clawing their way with shouts and demands toward the unseen figure behind the microphone.

The vision belongs to satirist Hans George Rauch and is waiting in the University Art Museum to shock spectators.

Rauch is not an artist to be taken lightly and his exhibit, entitled "Taste for Power has Nothing to Do with Taste," is not one that can be hastily observed.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Geoth Institute of Los Angeles, will remain on display through April 17.

And it is unquestionably worth seeing.

His satirical drawings are provocative and challenging.

Distorted images of society dominate them. He is analytical and sometimes playful, allowing crayon drawings of stick figures to enter some of his most poignant works.

Rauch masterfully plays with illusion and carefully elicits daringly radical interpretations of reality.

Mysterious pieces of people are ethereally pasted together, creating an unnerving image in "Ghosts," a colorful drawing seemingly cut out of a lost moment in time.

Disturbing subject after disturbing subject sit quietly on the walls of the museum, enticing thirsty curiosity with rewarding originality.

Rauch has a profound talent for evoking both the subtle and the blatant.

His images may be humorous at one moment or biting satirical the next. They may offend or delight or they may simply leave one wondering.

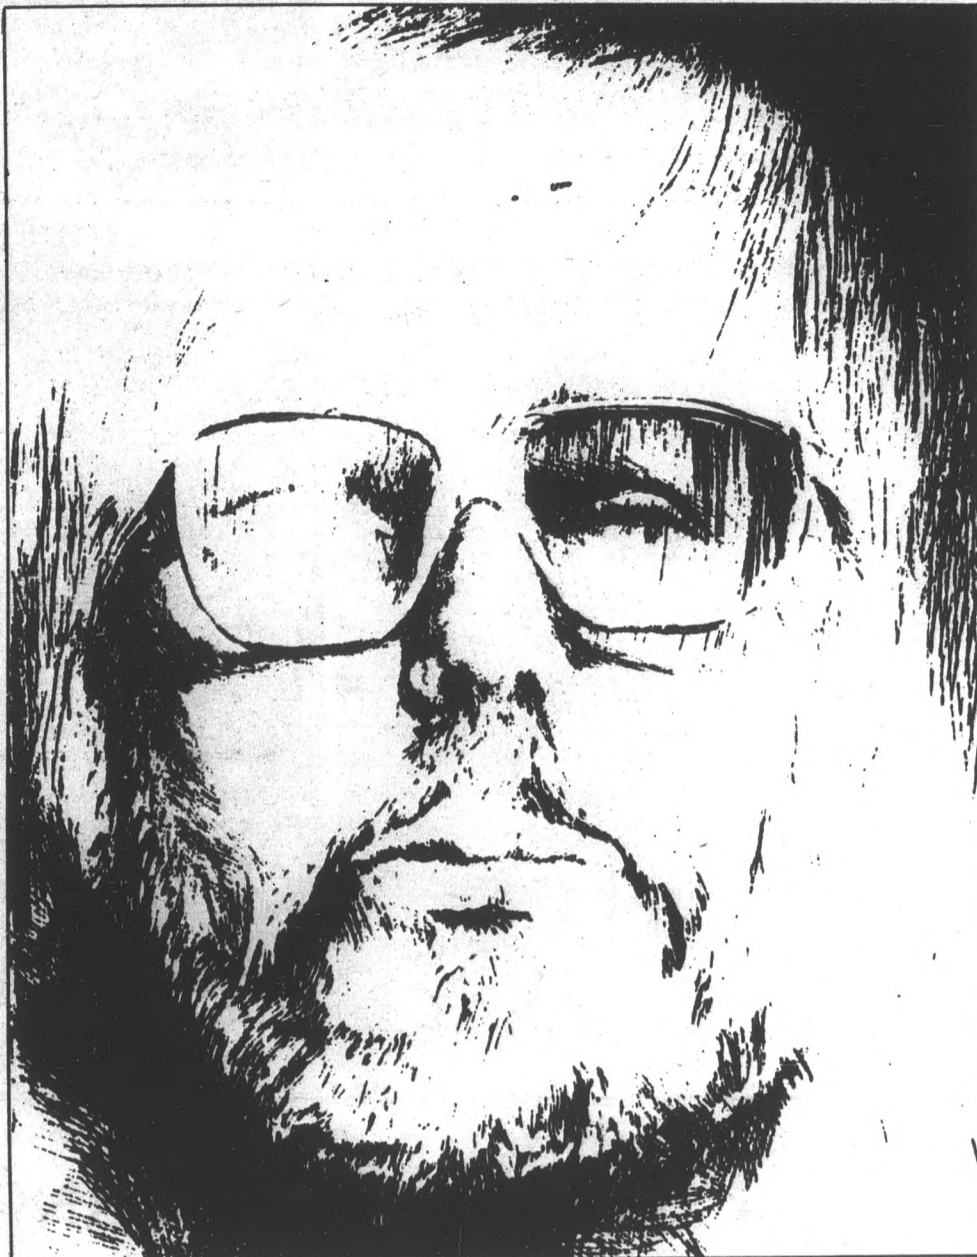

Yet, although his work is intelligent, Rauch's drawings focus on common subjects and have successfully attained a delicate, analytical balance; he is challenging without being intimidating.

Rauch is able to maintain that balance because he doesn't force his ideas or opinions on the viewers.

Although many of his subjects are clearly focused, he still leaves room for subjectivity, allowing the innocent bystander his own interpretations.

The people in his drawings, though presented with surrealistic flair, are familiar.

In "The New Man," a man is shown dressed in elaborate military attire, yet completely devoid of a face.

German satirist H.G. Rauch's exhibit, titled "Taste for Power Has Nothing to do with Taste," is open through April 17 in the University Art Museum. Above, a self-etching of the artist.

Instead, he is standing in front of a glass case out of which he must choose a new face from among those hanging expressionlessly on rows and rows of hooks.

"Family Squabble" takes a mundane occurrence and places it in the extreme.

Family members with violently twisted expressions yell at each other as they are pushed away from the dining table by child-like stick figures.

The "children" appear almost bored with the "adults'" incessant bickering.

Whether a fan of the surreal or simply a person searching for an excursion from the typical, a trip through Rauch's satire will prove a worthwhile journey.

It may evoke laughter, it may make one uncomfortable with previous convictions and, depending on the time spent gazing, it may leave one with unexpected new perceptions of the world.

Dumb plot poisons effect of 'D.O.A.'

By JESSIE SIMON
State Press

The first indication of how bad Touchstone's new release, "D.O.A." is comes when young, good-looking Nick Lang (Rob Knepper) starts on top of a building and ends up on the ground, bypassing elevator, stairs and any other means of conventional travel.

The death of such a fine young man is never the harbinger of good news. In this case, it is not only true for the plot, but the entire film.

"D.O.A." is supposed to be a mystery. Mysteries are not supposed to be predictable. Mysteries are not supposed to bore the audience. And it might help the story if the central figure is liked.

Dennis Quaid, formally of "Enemy Mine," "The Right Stuff" and "Innerspace," stars as pessimistic professor Dexter Cornell.

The name lends itself to greatness — Dexter comes from dextrous and Cornell is a great university. Too bad the character is a surly, uncaring man who remembers his fame as an author but has lost his passion.

For various, absolutely ludicrous reasons, Cornell is poisoned. The camera twirls, spins and blurs through his odyssey to find the culprit.

Unfortunately, the poison he ingested was a lot easier to swallow than the film as a whole.

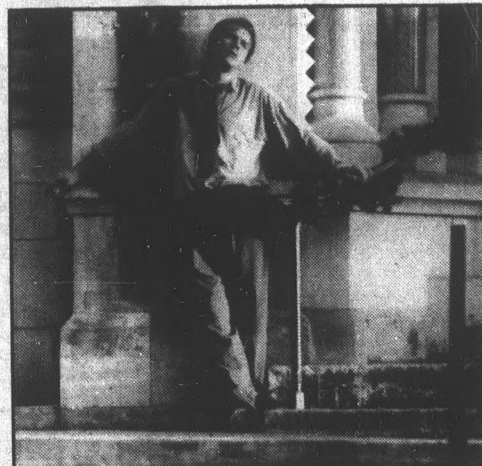

It seems as though we follow Cornell through a too-logical elimination of suspects, silly plot twists and a motive more stupid than paying over $1 to see this movie.

But that doesn't mean there are no good points. Meg Ryan, who plays starry-eyed freshman Sydney Fuller, is attractive and lives through the entire hour-and-a-half, and that is definitely a plus.

Another positive aspect was the camera work. "D.O.A." opens in black and white, changes to color and then fades back. Close-ups, a hand-held camera and whirling, disjointed filming and editing make this cinematically intriguing.

It's too bad Cornell's character is not easily liked or cared about. The truth is, he's not a nice enough guy to merit trauma over his imminent demise.

Cornell summed it up simply: "Teachers don't inspire that kind of passion." Neither do poor films.

Dennis Quaid stars as a man with 24 hours to find his own killer in the film "D.O.A."

Ice Devils end year with wins over UCLA

PHOENIX — The ASU Ice Devil hockey club ended its season over the weekend with two victories over UCLA at Tower Plaza.

The Devils (15-14-1) beat the Bruins on Saturday, 16-5, and Sunday, 4-1 to end the season on a positive note, despite financial problems.

Center Dave Debillus tallied eight points, including five goals, and defenseman Scott Buchanan added seven points for ASU.

But coach Buz Essel said the victories had to be attributed to the team as a whole.

"It was a total team effort," Essel said. "We had 13 different people who scored goals."

Essel said the team decided not to participate in the playoffs because of a lack of money.

Lacrosse club earns playoff spot with wins

The ASU lacrosse club won two weekend games in San Diego, assuring the team a berth in next month's playoffs.

ASU beat the University of San Diego, 14-12, on Saturday and San Diego State, 15-12, on Sunday.

Sun Devil coach Clark Mercer said he was happy with the team's performance.

Junior Greg Walaitis scored seven goals and tallied four assists on Saturday, and added six goals on Sunday.

Mercer also gave credit to ASU goalie Kurt Jones, who had 25 saves against the Aztecs.

No-hitter

Dodd leads Sun Devils over Volunteers

By DEAN GYORGY
State Press

Saturday was a day that Brian Dodd will not soon forget. The left-hander threw ASU's seventh all-time no-hitter, and forever etched his name into the Sun Devil record book.

ASU (26-8) beat Tennessee, 9-0, with the help of two two-run homers by Tim Spehr, and a three-run shot by Ricky Candelari.

On Friday night, Linty Ingram won his nation-leading eighth game of the season by a score of 13-4.

In the Saturday nightcap, Anthony Manahan singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth to give the Devils a 4-3 win and a sweep of the Volunteers.

Dodd owns the first no-hitter thrown by a Sun Devil since 1976, when Mitch Dean held Texas hitless in a seven-inning game. The last nine-inning no-hitter was Eddie Bane's perfect game of 1973.

"It's something you dream about," Dodd said. "By the sixth or seventh inning it was in the back of my mind, but by the ninth, I was thinking about it a lot. It's one of those things where you just keep hoping and hoping."

Dodd raised his record to 6-1 and lowered his ERA to 2.10 in the first complete game of his ASU career. He walked four and struck out four. He also helped himself out by picking two runners off second base and serving up one double play ball.

"They say catchers get just as big a thrill as the pitchers do, and that's the truth," Tim Spehr said. "It's a good feeling to sit back there and catch a no-hitter. I could get used to that."

In the seventh inning, first baseman Steve Willis was drawn off the bag by a wide throw from third baseman John Finn. Willis was steamrolled by Volunteer Rod Sitton, who was coming down the line. Willis caught Sitton's elbow in the cheek, and was knocked unconscious. He lay prone for several minutes before leaving with a slight concussion.

Brian Dodd shows his pitching motion in Saturday's no-hitter. Dodd's feat was the first nine-inning no-hitter for ASU since 1973.

Freshman Tucker Hammargren was inserted at first base. Two batters later,

Gymnasts down UCLA, BYU; eye nationals

By GARY JACKSON
State Press

The 10th-ranked ASU men's gymnastics team knocked off No. 9 UCLA and Brigham Young by scoring its highest overall score of the season on Saturday in the Activity Center.

The Sun Devils received the top score, 283.05 points, to clinch the victory over the Bruins, 280.05, and the Cougars, 274.35.

"If we make it to nationals we're going to be one of the teams to be contended with," Coach Don Robinson said.

ASU was able to drop a 275 home-score and replace it with the 283.05, which should make qualifying for the championship meet inevitable.

"We're looking forward to nationals," Sun Devil Jody Newman said. "If we stick by each other and hit like we did tonight, then we should do pretty well."

Newman finished second in the all-around competition with 57.0 points.

"I was just working for a high score and to help the team," he said. "We need to back each other so we can do better."

ASU gymnast Paul Linne said: "It was an incredibly high score for him (Newman). We're very happy for Jody."

All of the gymnasts performed well, Linne said.

"We're kicking butt this year," he said. "We're going back to nationals."

Linne scored a 9.9 on the high bar and finished first in the all-around with 57.10 points, nearly setting an ASU record.

"I started out at a 58.2 pace," Linne said. "It would have been nice to hit on pommel."

If not for a slip on the pommel horse, resulting in a 8.55 score, Linne would have put his name atop the ASU record books for the highest all-around score.

As the only remaining Sun Devil from the 1986 national championship squad and an Olympic hopeful, Linne should score high for ASU if the team goes to nationals.

"I'm shooting for an All-America," Linne said.

Randy Scott (fifth in the all-around) and Licurgo Diaz-Sandi (ninth) have also consistently provided high scores for ASU.

A change in the line-up may have prevented the two from scoring even higher individually, but Robinson's rearrangement in the order resulted in the highest team score of the season.

"We're more confident in ourselves individually and as a team," Diaz-Sandi said. "This confidence has been helping to get a better score."

By DAVE BIGOS
State Press

The ASU men's tennis team served up a pair of upsets on Friday and Saturday that should catapult the 19th-ranked Sun Devils into the Top 10.

On Friday, Doug Sachs defeated third-ranked Scot Melville of Southern California to lead ASU (13-4, 3-2 in the Pac 10) to a 5-4 win over the top-ranked Trojans.

Sachs rallied from a 4-1 deficit in the second set to down Melville, 7-5, 7-6 (7-1).

"Psychology had a lot to do with how well I played today," Sachs said after Friday's match. "I can tell in the morning how well I'll play that day. If I'm in a bad mood I might have some trouble that day."

"This morning I woke up feeling pretty good."

ASU coach Lou Belken said that the loss to sixth-ranked UC-Irvine a week before the USC match helped the team.

"We talked this week about being poised," Belken said. "We were very impressed with Irvine. Today you saw a much more mature Doug Sachs, and Kenny (Kuperstein) always plays well against USC."

Kuperstein defeated USC's 48th-ranked John Carras at No. 2 singles.

Brian Gyetko was the only two-match winner for the Sun Devils on Friday. He defeated Jonas Wallgard in singles and teamed with Mike Holten to defeat Melville and Wallgard in doubles. Gyetko was also given the task of serving for the match.

"My legs were going crazy and the crowd was going nuts," Gyetko said. "When we went up 3-1 (in the final game), I opened up all the shells on my serve."

USC coach Dick Leech said he was very impressed with ASU.

"Belken has done a great job," Leech said. "He's really put the ASU tennis program in the right direction."

On Saturday, The Sun Devils continued their home-court domination with a 7-2 victory over California. ASU is 12-1 at the Whiteman Tennis Center this season.

"For the first time, ASU has a winning record in the Pac 10," Belken said. "This puts us in a good position for the NCAAs."

Athletic program shines on 'Super Saturday'

Dave Hodges
Sports Editor

National titles, a no-hitter, season-high scores, upsets. They were all part of a Super Saturday that will go down in the history books as one of the best days ever in ASU athletics.

It was the hottest day of the year, and it was the Sun Devils who caught fire.

Only on Jan. 1, 1987, when ASU beat Michigan in the Rose Bowl, has there been a day as important and exciting as Super

Saturday.

The numbers are staggering, the results are glorious.

The day began on a positive note. Brian Dodd threw the first nine-inning no-hitter since 1973. For the 1,465 people who sacrificed NCAA basketball and Cactus League baseball, they were well-rewarded.

Over at Whiteman Tennis Center, the ASU men's tennis team, fresh off Friday's upset victory over top-ranked Southern California, decided it liked the thrill of victory, beating 11th-ranked California, 7-2.

At Sun Angel Stadium, Lynda Tolbert and Jackie Belzner qualified for the NCAA Tournament in the 100-meter high hurdles and high jump, respectively.

In Texas, the ASU women's swim team finished in sixth-place at the national championships. The women tied or broke seven school records and represented ASU well.

At the Activity Center, the ASU men's gymnastics team virtually assured itself of a spot in the national championships by tallying its highest score of the year, 283.05.

And then, the national titles.

The archery team was favored to sweep all three national titles on Saturday. Because of the way the tournament is structured, with regional tournaments, the team may not know until today or Tuesday if it won the national championships.

And wrestling. Bobby Douglas went to Ames, Iowa, with seven young men. He came back with seven All-Americans and the national championship, ASU's first in wrestling.

It was a fitting ending to a great day. It truly was a Super Saturday.

Baseball

Rick Hartman hit a line drive that was destined for right field and a base hit. Hammargren dove to his right and landed with the ball securely in his mitt.

"Hammargren saved it," said Spehr. "When he made that catch, I knew (Dodd) had the no-hitter."

In the nightcap, Volunteer Dan Gorman tied the game at 3-3 with a solo homer in the top of the ninth inning.

In the Devil ninth, with runners on first and second, freshman pitch-hitter Anthony Manahan bounced the first pitch he saw into the hole between third and short to score pinch-runner Joe Rocha with the winning run.

"We just didn't perform up to our potential in this ballgame," Brock said.

Defending national champion Iowa State came in third with 83.75 points.

The Sun Devils went into Saturday's noon session in fourth place, but wrestled what could be one of the best rounds in the history of college wrestling.

"After last night (Friday), I was down, and not very optimistic about coming today," Douglas said.

"Arizona State really made there move this afternoon (Saturday)," Oklahoma State coach Joe Seay said.

The Sun Devil team captured three third-place honors at 126-pounds with Chip Park, 158-pounds with Dan St. John and 167-pounds with Jim Gressley. While teammates Tom Ortiz (142 pounds), Rod Severn (HWT) and Zeke Jones (118 pounds) finished fourth, fifth and sixth respectively.

"We wrestled like national champions," Douglas said. "They wrestled one of the greatest rounds in wrestling history."

But the highest-place winner was 190-pounder Mike Davies, finishing second. Davies, a senior, was beaten by the No. 1 wrestler in the country, Mark Coleman (Ohio State), 5-0.

The match was scoreless until the third period when Coleman took the advantage and never relinquished it.

Park, also a senior, took third-place honors after beating Craig Walters of Wyoming, 7-2.

"I should have done it last year," Park said referring to not placing in the tournament.

St. John gave Douglas and ASU a big boost after defeating John Heffernan (Iowa) 3-2, marking the second time this season the sophomore has beaten the Hawkeye wrestler.

Surprising the crowd of more than 11,000 people, Gressley scored a major decision over third seeded Eric Osborne of Cal Poly, 19-10. Osborne defeated the Sun Devil two weeks ago to win the Pac-10 championship.

"Arizona State has never had a 167-pound All-American," said Gressley. "I am the first one and am very excited."
