Beer ban ridiculed, ignored by fans

By MIKE BURGESS and DON EMPIE
State Press

Elmer Musshorn got off work Monday afternoon in El Paso and boarded a plane bound for Phoenix, where he had hoped to kick back and enjoy a brew before watching the Cardinals play the Dallas Cowboys at Sun Devil Stadium.

But Musshorn's hopes for a beer were dashed when he opened a newspaper on the plane and read that the ASU administration would not allow alcohol at tailgate parties on campus before the game because school was in session.

"I think it is ridiculous," Musshorn said while he relaxed in Lot 59 before the game. An empty Bud Light bottle sat in front of him and an ASU motorcycle policeman cruised by without looking.

"I read on the plane that we're flying into 105 degrees and they don't even give us a beer."

ABC coverage, page 3

Musshorn was one of many Phoenix Cardinals fans who ignored warnings to leave alcohol at home.

"We learned to tailgate (party) from the students," said Jon Keller of Paradise Valley. "We worked hard to get the Cardinals to come here, and we are here to have a good time."

"It pisses us off," Frog Mallard of Albuquerque, N.M. said between sips from his Lowenbrau. "It's the highest-priced ticket in the NFL so it's OK to drink."

Ron Heckenberg of Phoenix said the no-Monday-night-alcohol policy was "not consistent with the Sunday games. How can they enforce a policy that has different rules for different games?"

"There's a Winnebago right there and nobody knows what they're drinking in there. We would have brought our camper, but we thought we might have a hard time parking," Heckenberg said.

John Chew of Glendale, who was sipping on a Coke in a plastic cup, said he didn't like the policy either.

"What's the average age of a Cardinal fan at the game, about 35? With the price of tickets it's got to be around that. People aren't having a tailgate party to get drunk before the game. They just want to relax and talk with their friends."

Jon Long of Chandler said the policy was "proof of the University's self-imposed separation from the community."

"The University tells us that the big shots upstairs (in the soon-to-be-constructed skyboxes) can drink, but us little shots can't."

"ASU doesn't appear to make much of an effort to be a part of the community. The only way it really interacts with the community is through football. If the University was worried about the effect the Cardinals would have on the students, they shouldn't have entered into the lease," Long said.

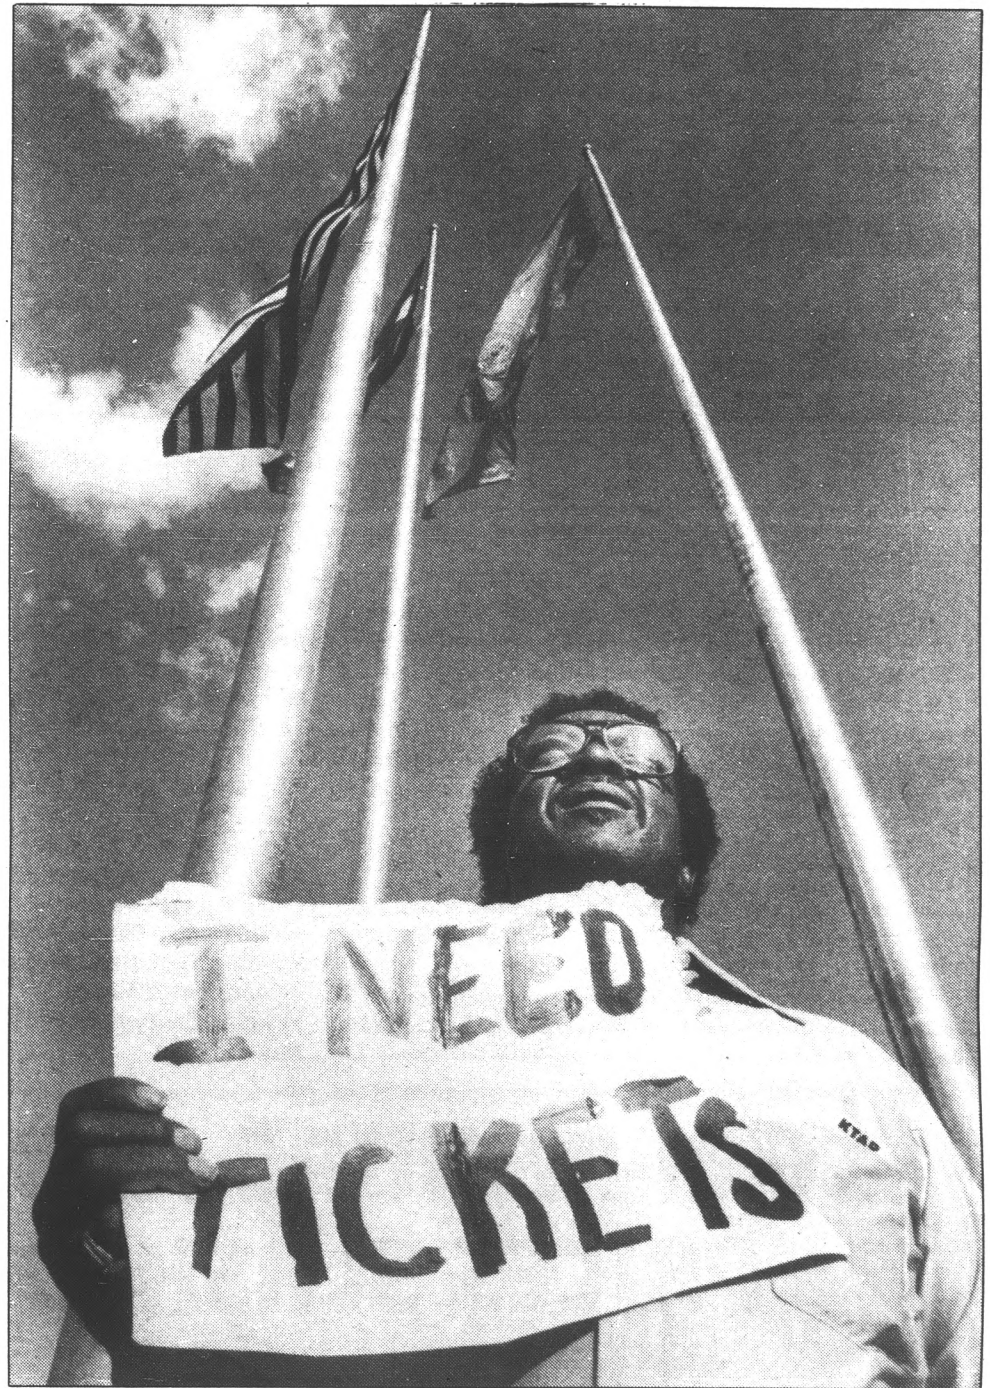

ASU police were barely visible during pregame festivities, although eight people were cited and released for alcohol possession, said Doug Bartosh, deputy chief of ASU Police.

"It seems like it's going well. The crowd was really mellow, and there weren't a lot of alcohol problems in the stadium," he said.

Two people were arrested for possession of stolen tickets, Bartosh said.

Predictions of nightmarish traffic jams never unfolded as cars flowed smoothly through Tempe and onto campus parking lots, with leftover parking spaces on the south end of campus.

"It went pretty smooth," Tempe police Sgt. Terry Nelson said. "We didn't have any real problems."

Ousted governor's spirit haunts legislators in elections

By LARRY LOPEZ
The Associated Press

PHOENIX — Evan Mecham's name is not on the ballot, but the ousted governor's conservative spirit looms over today's primary, as several of his backers challenge moderate Republican legislators who voted to impeach or convict him.

The primary — one of six around the country today — marks Arizona's first election since the traumatic political upheaval of last spring in which the GOP-controlled House voted to impeach Mecham and the GOP-controlled Senate convicted him of obstructing justice and misusing funds.

The Senate votes removed him from office and automatically installed Democrat Rose Mofford, the longtime secretary of state, to serve in his place until 1990. The Senate declined to bar Mecham from ever running for office again.

After his ouster, Mecham forecast "a revolution at the ballot box," but he hasn't predicted any casualty figures in the current primaries, and neither has anyone else.

The former governor insists that those who keep talking about the Mecham factor are "trying to divert the attention of the voters" from the real issue: record tax and spending increases that were passed after his ouster to bail the state out of a deficit.

"It's 'Let's throw enough mud at Mecham and make him the target so that we will change the issues from the voting records of the incumbents,'" he said.

Mecham, a perennial political outsider, won the governorship on his fifth try in 1986 in a three-way race. His strengths included a get-out-the-vote campaign that mobilized his many ultraconservative supporters and a series of tabloids that attacked his opponents.

In the current election, Mecham's Forward Arizona Political Action Committee has not distributed cash to candidates and has handed out only a handful of formal endorsements. But it has conducted research and training for an unknown number of candidates.

Mecham said he will support whoever wins the GOP primary, but many Republican lawmakers fear his followers may simply refuse to vote for them in November even if they

Cardinals kick off Phoenix NFL season

By DAVE HODGES
State Press

Balloons filled the air, fireworks echoed from the buttes and a sea of red engulfed Sun Devil Stadium as history was made Monday night in the Valley of the Sun.

The Phoenix Cardinals' game against the Dallas Cowboys marked the first regular-season NFL game ever in Arizona. And although the Cardinals lost, 17-14, to the Cowboys, most fans seemed to enjoy the event.

A Valley men's chorale sang the National Anthem, 20 women pranced along the sidelines as the first Phoenix Cardinals cheerleaders and the ASU Sun Devil Marching Band performed at halftime.

67,139 fans, many of them decked out in Cardinal maroon and red, flocked to 72,168-seat Sun Devil Stadium.

Although there were 5,036 empty seats, the Monday Night Football game was televised in Phoenix on KTVK-TV (Channel 3) after radio station KDKB and KTVK agreed to purchase any remaining tickets.

Arizona Gov. Rose Mofford, Tempe Mayor Harry Mitchell, Phoenix Mayor Terry Goddard and Arizona Sen. Dennis DeConcini addressed the crowd during pre-game ceremonies.

A short speech was also given by Cardinals owner Bill Bidwill, who received a chorus of boos.

Bidwill has been criticized by many for Phoenix's ticket prices, which at an average of $38 a seat is the highest in the NFL.

But not too many people were complaining Monday, as the crowd was treated to an exciting game. At one point during the fourth quarter, the crowd was cheering so loudly the game had to be stopped.

The fans were excited, but it is still up to the Cardinals (0-2) to prove they can win.

world/nation in brief

Gorbachev met by crowds upset over Siberian conditions

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev, in his first public appearance after a six-week vacation, ran into crowds complaining loudly about food shortages and living conditions Monday in the Siberian city of Krasnoyarsk.

The evening television news program "Vremya" led its evening program with a report on the Kremlin leader's trip to the city, about 2,000 miles east of Moscow.

Gorbachev had been out of public view since July 30, when he met with Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher of West Germany. Soviet officials said he was on vacation.

Gorbachev asked for support for his reform policies as residents of Krasnoyarsk pressed close to him and complained about lack of hot water and long lines for meat, sausage and other foods.

The clamor was in marked contrast to the usual orderly scenes of Gorbachev visits on Soviet TV. Many of the comments and complaints were inaudible.

"The most important thing is that you believe in our politics and in the leadership that is still being formed. It's still being formed at the regional and provincial levels,"

Gorbachev said.

He told the residents he was not interested in blind faith, but in reasoned trust for his policies and the people implementing them.

"We're on the right path, comrades," he said. "No need to get lost. We're on the right path."

Shiite Moslems free hostage after 20 months of captivity

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Shiite Moslem kidnapers freed West German hostage Rudolf Cordes at midnight Monday in Beirut after they declared they were ending his 20-month ordeal in response to Syrian and Iranian intervention.

The 55-year-old businessman was released in Moslem west Beirut, taken by police to the home of Lebanese Interior Minister Abdullah Rassi and then turned over to Syrian security forces.

Cordes then was put in a car and was driven to Damascus by Col. Ali Hammoud, chief of Syrian intelligence for the Beirut area.

"Mr. Cordes is now in Damascus. He is the guest of the Syrian government. He is in good health," said a Syrian official.

Burned areas of Yellowstone already beginning rebirth

MAMMOTH HOT SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP) — While much of Yellowstone National Park continues to burn out of control, park researchers say a dynamic rebirth of charred areas left in the wake of the fires is already under way.

Grasses and wildflowers, some 6 inches high, have sprouted in blackened soil around Grant Village, which was besieged by flames from the Snake Complex fires last month, said John Varley, Yellowstone's chief of research.

In other areas of the park scorched pine cones from lodgepole pines, Yellowstone's predominant conifer, are slowly opening to spill their seeds to the earth, he said Monday.

However, how quickly the burned areas will rebound from the devastating summer of '88 is hard to say, Varley said.

In the 16 years since U.S. Forest Service and National Park Service officials adopted a "let it burn" policy for most naturally caused fires, there have been approximately 140 wildfires in Yellowstone that seared some 33,000 acres, said the researcher.

'Monday Night Football' more than evening's work for ABC

By DON EMPIE
State Press

Long before Frank Gifford welcomed viewers to Sun Devil Stadium, before Dan Dierdorf told his first colorful anecdote, ABC-TV sports technicians toiled for long hours under the Arizona sun to put "Monday Night Football's" first regular season program together.

Set-up for Monday's Phoenix Cardinals-Dallas Cowboys clash, which the Cowboys won 17-14, started Saturday when ABC's three trailers full of gear and equipment pulled into the stadium's parking lot.

"We have technicians that start connecting cables between the trailers as soon as we get here," said Gary Ricketts, technical manager for ABC field operations.

The bulk of the production crew arrived late Saturday and began checking cables and connections, Ricketts said.

After the game was over, the technicians were still at work. The trucks pulled out of the parking lot by 11 p.m.

Most locations for Monday Night Football are stadiums that are pre-wired and used by the three major networks. Stadiums have an informal agreement with the NFL to pre-wire so a network's cable requirements are reduced, Ricketts said.

"There is about 10,000 to 12,000 feet of cable already run through the stadiums so we only need an additional 4,000 to 5,000 (feet).

"The maintenance people here (at Sun Devil Stadium) were very helpful. Even more so than the stadiums where Monday Night Football has become routine," he said.

There was one tense moment Monday when crews couldn't get a circuit breaker to function properly.

"It was just a minor malfunction, and since it happened early in the day, it turned out to be no big problem. It becomes a heart-stopper when it happens just before game time, like when a camera goes down," Ricketts said.

There were 13 cameras at Monday night's contest. Twelve were scattered throughout the stadium and one was stationed in the Goodyear Blimp.

George Montanez is part of the New York-based ABC crew that travels around the United States to televise the program. He has worked as a cameraman for 20 years.

He said he liked Sun Devil Stadium but was apprehensive about the weather. "It gets hotter here. The heat really takes its toll on the camera operators, and if the equipment gets too hot it can go down,"

The Goodyear Blimp, mounted with one of ABC's 13 cameras, takes an aerial tour of the ASU campus Monday evening at dusk.

Montanez said.

"But it is a night game, so hopefully, we won't have any problems," he added.

Mecham

survive the primary. In a number of swing districts, that could hand the seat over to the Democrats.

It has not been easy to determine the exact number of primaries in which loyalty to Mecham seems to be a main issue. Nine GOP senators and 26 representatives face at least one primary opponent, but not all of the incumbents voted against Mecham and not all of the challengers are pro-Mecham.

House members run in pairs, with voters in each district allowed to vote for two candidates.

Among those facing primary challengers are the chief legislative architects of impeachment — Republicans like House Speaker Joe Lane and House Judiciary Chairman Jim Skelly.

Lane will appear on the GOP ballot along with Gerald Patton, who said he would like to serve with Lane, and two candidates who have Mecham's endorsement, Lloyd Fenn and Warren Shumaker. Lane is asking his supporters to cast just one vote instead of two and to cast that vote for him.

Two former Mecham aides, Ron Bellus and Ted Humes, are running for the Legislature. Humes is unopposed for the GOP nod to run against Democratic Senate incumbent Lela Alston. Bellus is battling moderate Leo Corbet for the GOP nod to succeed retiring Republican Sen. Tony West, an anti-Mechamite.

On Friday, Mecham endorsed challengers Dean Ellsworth and Greg Roberds over House Republicans Mark Killian and Bill Mundell in the Mesa area even though Killian voted against impeachment after a tearful speech castigating Mecham. Mundell voted for impeachment.

Students, cast your ballots!

So often at a place as expansive and populous as ASU, it becomes difficult to suppress a feeling of individual unimportance. However, today offers students an opportunity to voice their opinions and beliefs on issues that will be important to them over the next two years.

Today's primary election is the first step on legislative candidates' quest to occupy a seat on the decision-making body that will directly affect the lives of Arizonans, students and non-students alike.

The best and only way for students to have a direct input into the outcome of the election is by voting. Students, by virtue of their great numbers in Tempe and around the state, can speak with a booming, and influential, political voice by going to the polls and casting their ballots for the candidates who support the issues most important to them.

Make the effort to cast your ballot and add your support to the issues affecting you.

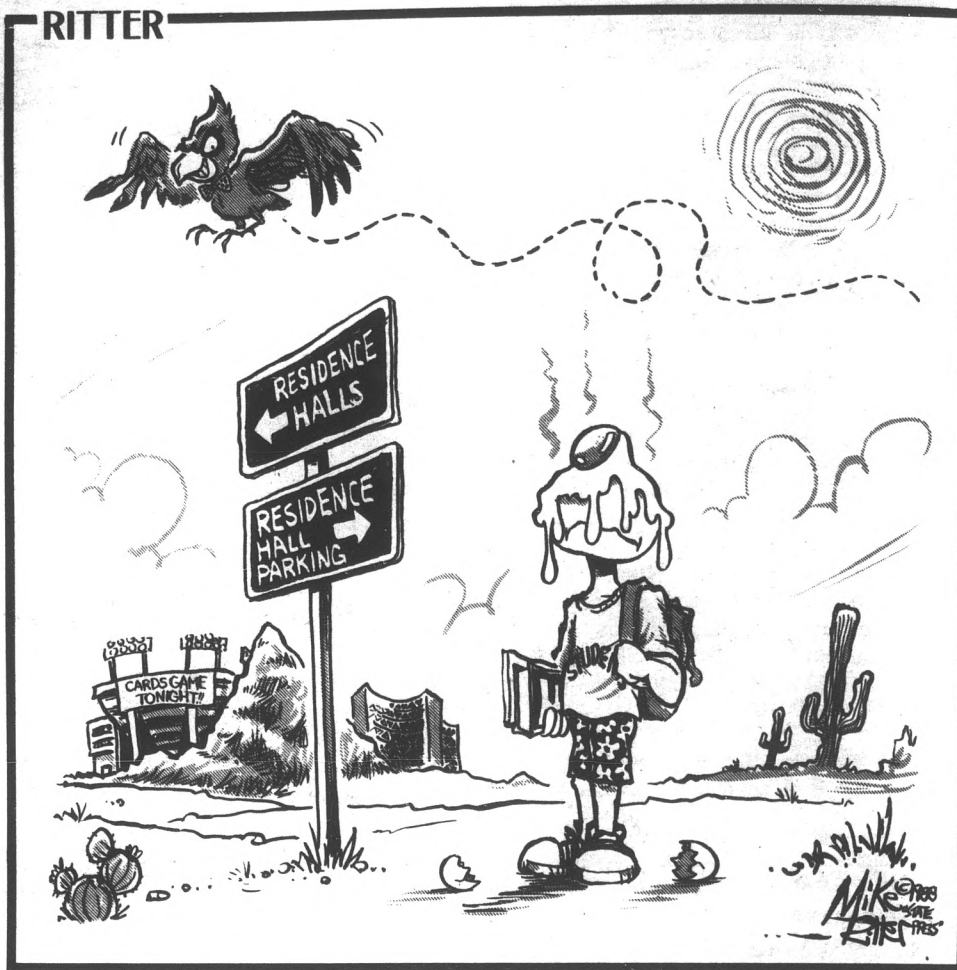

Several polling places are located near campus to make voting more convenient for students:

- Tempe Precinct 3 — First Congregational Church of Tempe, 101 E. Sixth St.
- Tempe Precinct 4 — First United Methodist Church of Tempe, 215 E.

University Drive.

- Tempe Precinct 5 — Tempe High School, 1730 S. Mill Ave.
- Tempe Precinct 9 — Lutheran Campus Center, 1414 S. McAllister Ave.
- Tempe Precinct 64 — Quadrangles Apartments Clubhouse, 1255 E. University Drive.

Evolutionists seek to 'make monkey' out of students

Editor:

Hey, all you glorified monkeys out there! Those of you who are enrolled in a biology 100 class might have noticed "some blonde" handing out packets of fact supporting scientific creation. Oh, but wait, are those two words fit to be in the same sentence together? Hmmm... "Scientific" and "creation." Heck, isn't evolution believed by all educated scientists?

No way!

In fact, I am extremely disappointed in the educational system of the Biology Department! Those of us sitting in class must listen to professors talking about evolution as if it were a cut and dried fact! Actually, the theory of evolution (and I emphasize the word "theory") has more wholes in it than Swiss cheese. I just burn inside when I see only one side of this two sided issue being taught!

Believe it or not, there is scientific evidence against evolution. I could rattle off 120 of them, but one will suffice for now. For example, our professor wrote "fossil record" as a support for evolution. Oh, really? Tell me then, why have fully-formed, complex species been found at the bottom of the fossil record?

eyes and weigh the facts on both sides — otherwise known as thinking for ourselves — our intelligence is being insulted by being asked to blindly accept a theory that is to this day being hotly contested among highly educated scientists!

Students, are you monkeys or men? Learn the facts!

Sen. Dan Quayle; services not required

Editor:

In response to reading Doug Carlson's letter of Sept. 9 in defense of Sen. Dan Quayle, I, too, would like to respond on the behalf of society. In his letter, Mr. Carlson asks, "... why people who are helping to move along this country by serving people, need to be criticized for every little detail." In the Sept. 12 issue of U.S. News and World Report, some of these little details are discussed. It seems that in Quayle's career as a legislator, he has voted against bills that would tighten pollution requirements, preserve counseling centers for Vietnam vets, provide aid for veterans' job training, allow cost of living increases for Social Security and allow senior citizens to buy cheaper medications. He even had the audacity to vote against a bill that would compensate Vietnam vets for cancer caused by exposure to Agent

Orange.

Mr. Carlson, I urge you to ask the people affected by these bills whether they appreciate being "served" by politicians such as Dan Quayle. People like him are indeed attempting to move this country, but not in the direction that I am willing to follow.

Bruce Negley

'To annoy and harass'

Editor:

"To serve and protect." What a bogus motto. Maybe something reading, "To annoy and harass" would be more appropriate.

Leading the enforcement procedures were both the University Police as well as Tempe's so-called finest.

While attending Arizona State's opening game Saturday evening, I and several hundred other enthusiastic fans were ordered not to stand and forced to view the event from a sitting posture.

Excitement is what college football is all about, and it goes against the grain and the very nature of the sport to not allow its fans to display their enthusiasm in ways which they see fit.

Bush supporters get 'down and dirty' for Dukakis attack

Mike Royko
Tribune Media Services

It's been predicted that this will be a real dirty, nasty, low-down presidential campaign.

If that's true, a George Bush supporter named Ralph J. Galliano obviously doesn't want to be left behind.

Galliano is chairman of something called the "National Defeat Dukakis Campaign," which has an office in Washington, D.C.

To achieve the goal of his organization, Galliano is trying to raise money to run anti-Dukakis ads in about a dozen politically-pivotal states.

And to raise this money, Galliano has recently done a mass mailing, pleading for funds.

In his computerized letter, Galliano makes some startling statements. He begins:

"Dear fellow Conservative:
 "If you and I don't join together to defeat liberal presidential candidate Mike Dukakis today, here's who you and I can expect to see in the Dukakis Cabinet:
 "Ultra-liberal Andrew Young — Secretary of State.
 "Communist sympathizer Jane Fonda — U.N. Secretary.
 "Homeless activist Mitch Snyder — Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.
 "Hollywood Liberal Ed Asner — Secretary of Health and Human Services.
 "And these aren't the only radical leftists Dukakis will surely appoint to run America.
 "You can expect to see Arthur Lyman, chief inquisitor against Oliver North, as Attorney General.

"You may see Burt Lance, a former Carter adviser and a current Jesse Jackson adviser, as Secretary of the Treasury.

"If Dukakis wins, he will appoint radical men and women like these, and more, to the highest positions in our government."

After sounding this alarm and warning us that Dukakis will soon have us all eating cabbage soup and confined in gulags, Galliano makes his pitch:

"It's time for action, my friend.
 "I need your contribution of $250, $500, $1000 or even more to help me stop Dukakis... and to ensure he never has the chance to appoint his liberal Cabinet.
 "God bless you."

An acquaintance who received one of these letters passed it on to me with the question: "Who the hell is this nut?"

Because I had never heard of Galliano, I couldn't answer his question, but I said I'd try to find out.

Galliano wasn't in his Washington office, but someone named Tony Rudy was. Rudy said he was director of the anti-Dukakis campaign.

We asked him how he had come across the sensational news that Dukakis was going to appoint Jane Fonda, Ed Asner and the others to his Cabinet.

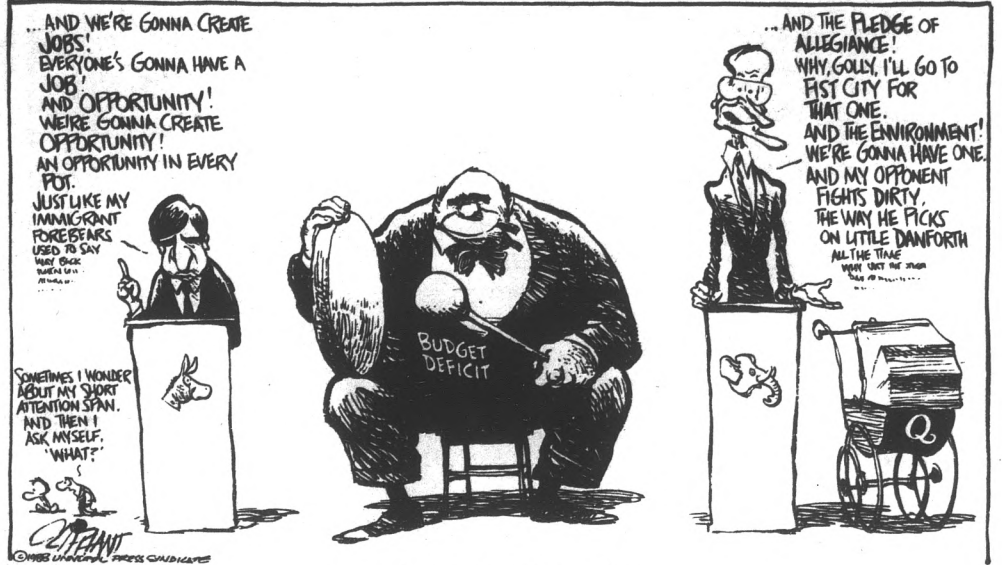

"You can't say for sure that he will," Rudy said, "but what you can be sure of is that he will appoint this type of liberal Democrat to high level Cabinet positions."

But in the letter you flatly state that Fonda and Asner are going to be right there in the White House.

"Nobody can say for sure who'll be in his Cabinet. But these people are the ones who are supporting his run for the presidency."

Drat. It would have been a sensational story: Fonda and Asner in the Dukakis Cabinet.

Of course, as this fellow Rudy said, it could happen. He's just not sure it will. On the other hand, he can't say for sure that it won't. So in the letter, he says it will.

I don't know if that's fair, but it is a fun approach to politics, and it opens many possibilities.

For example, someone else might send out a mass mailing that says:

"Dear Democrat:
 "If you or I don't join together to defeat George Bush, these are the people we can expect to see in his Cabinet:
 "F. Alfred Blidge III — Secretary of State.
 "Mr. Blidge, an ardent Bush supporter, is well known in his hometown of Plutsville, Ark. He makes a practice of sitting on his front porch wearing only a trench coat and when womenfolk drive by, he stands up, throws open the coat and exposes his naked body.

"Arnold P. Geek Jr. — Secretary of Health and Human Services.

"Mr. Geek, a Bush supporter, is currently employed as a performer in a travelling carnival. He bites the heads off chickens."

Of course, it's possible that Bush won't make these appointments. But until he doesn't, can we be sure?

But to get back to Galliano's aide Tony Rudy. We asked him a couple of more questions:

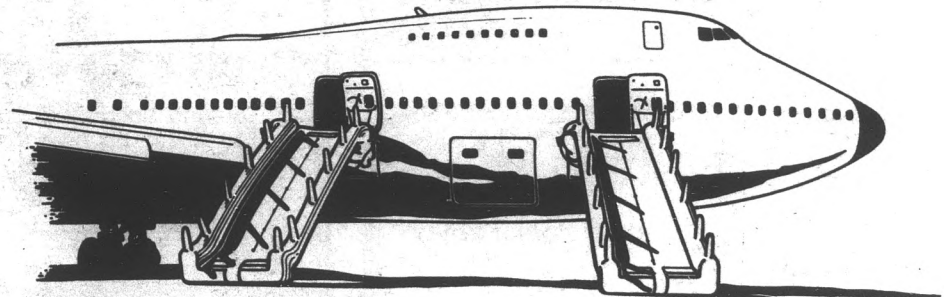

How old are you?
 "I am 22."

What is your professional background?
 "I recently graduated from the University of Massachusetts in Amherst."

When I passed this information along to the person who received the letter, he said: "I wasn't going to send them money anyway. But now there's something else I won't do."

What's that?
 "I won't send my kid out East to college."

Regents form ad-hoc committee to examine minority recruitment

By SHERI JOHNSON
State Press

The Arizona Board of Regents will form an ad-hoc committee to review minority recruitment and retention at the state's three universities.

Regent Esther Capin will chair the 30-member committee to be comprised of legislative, faculty, student and community members.

"It's my belief that the time has come for Arizona to focus on this issue," Capin said. "I cannot think of another issue that will affect the lives of so many. I feel very encouraged by the fact that we have indications from the governor's office of vital interest in this matter."

Regent President Herman Chanen announced the formation of the committee Friday at the regents meeting in Flagstaff.

"Addressing concerns related to ethnic minority recruitment and retention is one of the most vital issues the board will address during my term as president," Chanen said.

"The consequences to our universities, to our state's economy and, most importantly, to our citizens are simply unacceptable if we fail to address this issue."

ASU student Matt Ortega, UofA student Rachel Frazier and NAU student Larry L'Heureaux represent the student portion of the committee.

Legislators who will serve include Rep. Art Hamilton, D-Phoenix; Sen. Robert Usdane, R-Scottsdale; Sen. Peter Rios, D-Hayden; and Sen. Carolyn Walker, D-Phoenix.

Other regents on the committee are: Edith Auslander, Andrew Hurwitz, student regent Patrick McWhortor and Superintendent of Public Instruction C. Diane Bishop.

The committee will be responsible for providing the board with input and recommendations in five areas: the current inventory of the universities' recruitment and retention programs, the universities' minority student recruitment plans as required in House Bill 2108 that was enacted this year, an implementation of goals named by the institutions and strategies for a more effective outreach.

"I intend to ask this group to review work from the task force on (the Excellence, Efficiency and Competitiveness task force) and advise us as to the implementation of their recommendations," Chanen said. "I am sure that significant outcomes can and will be realized."

The committee will begin meeting this month, and its final report is due by the end of the 1988-89 academic year.

Odorless, colorless radioactive gas above maximum limit in Az. homes

From staff and wire reports

The Public Health Service and the Environmental Protection Agency on Monday advised all homeowners and renters to test their homes for deadly radon gas in the light of new findings showing high concentrations in seven states, including Arizona.

But Kim Kearfott, an associate engineering professor at ASU and a nationally-recognized radon researcher, said the EPA's Arizona findings are "slightly misleading."

The EPA found that 7 percent of Arizona homes were above the maximum limit. The average concentration of radon in the state was 1.6 picocuries per liter, the EPA said.

"The EPA's tests were distributed randomly, and in Arizona they concentrated

Student falls from fourth floor of Palo Verde West, breaks leg

By MIKE BURGESS
State Press

An ASU student broke his leg early Monday when he fell from the fourth floor of Palo Verde West residence hall, police said.

Darryl G. Martin, 28, fell while trying to get into a dormitory room from the outside ledge of the residence hall at 12:18 a.m. He was attempting to squirt shaving cream on a student in another room, police said.

Martin, a sophomore finance major, was treated and released from Tempe St. Luke's Hospital after suffering a broken right femur and a small cut over his right eye.

police report

Tempe police reported the following incidents:

•A 20-year-old man was stabbed by a youth early Saturday after chasing one of the youth's friends to a trailer park.

Brad Tawzer, address unknown, received 13 stitches to his left arm and was released from Mesa Lutheran Hospital, police said.

Police said Tawzer got into an argument with 10 to 15 youths at about 12:45 p.m. behind Sgt. Pepper's Video Dance Club, 1848 E. University Dr. The youths had apparently gotten in Tawzer's way while he was driving by the club.

Tawzer chased one of the youths to a trailer park at 1930 E. University Dr., where he was jumped by two others. One of the youths was armed with a large knife and stabbed him, police said.

•A man was arrested on drug charges at a Tempe motel Sunday after police seized items that are used to make homemade drug laboratories.

Darrell Aldo Williams, 23, was arrested at about 4:38 a.m. after police served a search warrant at 625 N. Mill Ave. No. 121, police said.

Radon

primarily on the Phoenix area," she said, adding that her research shows that 14 percent of Phoenix homes are above the limit.

Kearfott said her studies in Arizona show that 30 percent of the homes in Paradise Valley and Payson are above the acceptable levels of radon. In the Prescott area some levels exceed 60 percent, she said.

Radon is an odorless, colorless, quickly decaying radioactive gas arising from the decay of trace amounts of uranium in all soil. It kills by lodging its own radioactive decay products in the lung.

"Fortunately, we have a low percentage in the Phoenix area," Kearfott said, adding that she has not compiled enough data to formulate a percentage for Tempe.

EPA estimates that as many as 20,000 lung cancer deaths a year could result from radon, essentially all those not resulting from smoking. There are about 130,000 lung cancer deaths a year.

Frustration

Cards self-destruct in home opener against Dallas

Staff and Wire Reports

Running back Herschel Walker played a role in two touchdowns and squelched a late Phoenix rally as the Dallas Cowboys nipped the Cardinals, 17-14, to ruin the Cards' first regular-season home game Monday night in Sun Devil Stadium.

Walker, who carried 29 times for 149 yards, scored on a 3-yard run at the end of a quick 79-yard drive in the second quarter, and carried nine times for 58 yards on a 13-play, 81-yard drive in the fourth quarter that was capped by quarterback Steve Pelluer's 1-yard sneak with 5:23 left in the game.

"Herschel did it almost all by himself," Dallas coach Tom Landry said. "I think he's going to run this way every week. If we can get him out in the open more, he'll be devastating. A lot of times he didn't have good blocking."

The Cardinals self-destructed throughout the game, much to the disappointment of the enthusiastic crowd of 67,139 — more than 5,000 short of capacity.

The loss dropped the Cardinals' record to 0-2 and evened the Cowboys' record at 1-1.

Walker was the dominant player in the game. His 3-yard sweep around left end came at the end of a three-play, 79-yard drive that consumed just 1:06. It included a 26-yard run by Walker, a 47-yard pass from Pelluer to Michael Irvin, who carried to the six, and a half-the-distance to the goal roughness call on Leonard Smith that put the ball on the three. Walker's run put Dallas ahead 10-7 with 4:35 left in the half.

Walker is no stranger to Sun Devil Stadium as he played here for the New Jersey Generals of the USFL. He also said he didn't mind the 98-degree heat at kickoff.

"During training camp we ran a good deal in the heat," Walker said. "We didn't feel it at all."

Walker also keyed the 81-yard drive for Pelluer's touchdown.

The drive was slow starting, however, as Cardinal fans, trying to encourage the defense, cheered so loudly that Pelluer could not snap the ball. But Walker quickly quieted the crowd.

Steve Brennan/for the State Press

Phoenix Cardinals fullback Earl Ferrell (No. 31) is wrapped up by Dallas Cowboys defenders during Monday night's regular-season home-opener at Sun Devil Stadium. The Cowboys won, 17-14.

Box score, page 12

The Cardinals rallied though, as Neil Lomax tossed a 23-yard touchdown pass to Jay Novacek that cut the Cowboys' lead to 17-14 with 3:52 left in the game.

But just as important as Walker throughout the game was the combination of a Dallas defense that registered four sacks and numerous Phoenix mistakes.

On the final play of the first half, for example, the Cards passed up a 42-yard field goal attempt. Instead, kicker Al Del Greco took a flip from holder Cliff Stoudt and ran for just eight of the 25 yards he needed.

"We weren't sure we could kick it," Cardinals coach Gene Stallings said. "Del Greco missed one and he wasn't even kicking that good before the game even started."

Then the first two drives of the second half were ended by mistakes.

The first was an illegal formation penalty that canceled a 34-yard pass completion to the Dallas nine. On the next series, they drove 49 yards to the Dallas 30 before Ed "Too Tall" Jones stripped rookie Tony Jordan of the ball and recovered at the 27.

The final mistake came with 1:50 left in the game, when Phoenix's Reggie Phillips was called for interference, preventing the Cardinals from getting the ball one last time.

After neither team had a first down in its first four possessions, the Cowboys took a 3-0 lead on a 47-yard field goal by Luis Zendejas, who set an NCAA scoring record while playing for ASU.

Knudson to sit out ASU season with broken fibula

By GARY JACKSON
State Press

The room is packed with flowers and balloons. Friends have come to create a cheerful atmosphere. But it is not a party.

Senior tight end Gary Knudson has been in a hospital room since Saturday and is expecting to get out today.

He suffered a broken left fibula during ASU's season opener, a 21-16 victory against Illinois.

In the third quarter, the Sun Devils began an offensive series on its own 15-yard line. Quarterback Daniel Ford threw a pass to Knudson, who caught the ball at the ASU 27.

"He made a very nice catch on the ball," head coach Larry Marmie said. "He went up for it and the defender made contact with him on the way down. It looked like his leg folded under him."

Knudson said, at the time, he did not know how serious the injury was or when he would be back playing for the team. But now his situation is clear, after having surgery on the leg at 8 a.m. Sunday.

"Obviously I won't come back this year," Knudson said. It will be six to eight weeks before the cast will be removed.

Knudson said athletic director Charles Harris and the administration would look into the possibility of a medical hardship.

The NCAA allows university athletes five years to play four. Knudson already has redshirted one year. Without a medical redshirt, Knudson would spend the last year of his eligibility on the sidelines.

"I think my chances are good," Knudson said. "It happened in the first game of my senior season. It won't be given to me automatically, I'll have to petition for it."

ASU tight end coach Bill Stewart said the injury is a minor setback in Knudson's football career.

"He's got a lot of football left in him," Stewart said. "You'll see him in a football uniform again someday."

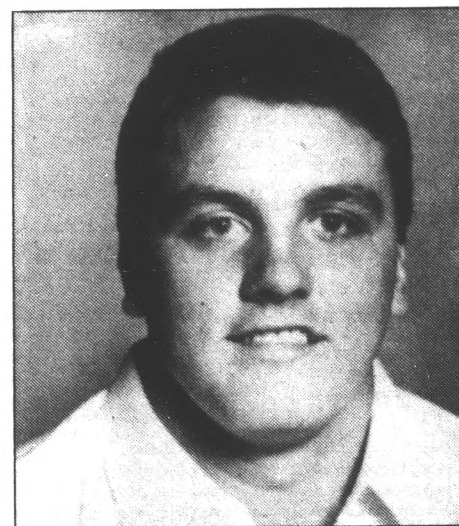

Last year Knudson tied for second in receptions on the team, having played in all 12 games and starting in nine.

Stewart said Knudson is a work-oholic when it comes to football. This season Knudson was the starting tight end as well as playing for special teams.

"His motor never stops running," he said. "On the opening kickoff he smacked the guy on the 19-yard line."

Knudson possesses both talent and enthusiasm for the game, Stewart said.

"He is as good as I have coached at tight end — losing Gary is going to hurt us," Stewart said. "But I'm hurting more for Gary. It hurts to see this happen to a guy who has worked as hard as he has."

Gary Knudson

Mistakes overshadow Cards' 1st regular-season home game

Dave Hodges
Sports Editor

What if...

The Phoenix Cardinals and their fans are asking themselves that question right now.

The regular-season debut of NFL football in Arizona turned out to be a bust.

The game was entertaining and the fans seemed to enjoy the spectacle of Monday Night Football, but the bottom line was the Cardinals self-destructed while Dallas phenom Herschel Walker single-handedly shredded the Phoenix defense in Monday night's 17-14 loss to the Cowboys.

Headlines in today's St. Louis newspapers probably read something like "What Else is New?" and "We Told You So."

The Cardinals made many mistakes at the opener, which was viewed by a crowd of 67,139 — almost 3,000 less than ASU's home-opener Saturday.

A missed field goal, a critical fumble and untimely penalties haunted the Cardinals Monday.

But perhaps the strangest call of all came at the end of the first half.

With Phoenix on the Dallas 24-yard line with three seconds remaining, Phoenix coach Gene Stallings decided to fake a 42-yard field goal attempt that could have tied the game.

Instead, kicker Al Del Greco took a flip from holder Cliff Stoudt around the right end, and was run out of bounds at the 16 as time expired.

A foolish play? Well Stallings said he was not confident Del Greco could make the kick.

"We weren't sure we could kick it," Stallings said. "Del Greco missed one and he wasn't even kicking that good before the game even started."

And that should do wonders for the man's confidence.

Overall, the Cardinals, as in the season-opening loss to Cincinnati, would have, could have and should have won if it were not for the tiny mistakes that add together to form an "L" in the loss column.

The Cardinals are now 0-2 and, although it is early in the season, face a must-win situation at Tampa Bay on Sunday. If the Cardinals lose then, they will return to Tempe with 0-3 record and a date with the Washington Redskins.

Phoenix quarterback Neil Lomax shows his form during Monday's loss to Dallas. Lomax was 20-34 for 266 yards and two touchdowns.

UCLA claims No. 2 spot in poll after victory over Nebraska

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the wake of a stunning 41-28 victory over Nebraska, the UCLA Bruins moved up to No. 2 in this week's Associated Press football poll. It was the school's highest ranking since the 1980 season.

While Coach Terry Donahue appeared pleased with the high ranking, he's not about to lay claim to having a team ready to contend for the national championship at this time.

"It means a great deal to be ranked No. 2," Donahue said Monday during his weekly meeting with reporters. "(But) I don't think the polls have any meaning until about the eighth week of the season."

"This is a young team. Let's not put it into the Hall of Fame this week. Give it 11 weeks. One game does not a season make, as we know. That sounds trite, but it's true."

The Bruins were ranked fifth before whipping Nebraska Saturday night in a game which wasn't as close as the score indicated. UCLA led 28-0 after 14 minutes of play and 38-13 at halftime.

UCLA, 2-0, accumulated three first-place votes and 1,019 points in the voting of sportswriters and sportscasters. Defending national champion Miami, Fla., idle last weekend, remained No. 1 with 46 first-place votes and 1,082 points. The Hurricanes are 1-0.

Nebraska, 2-1, fell nine places to 11th in this week's poll. Clemson, 2-0, and Oklahoma, 1-0, continued to hold the third and fourth spots, while Southern California, 2-0, moved up one notch to fifth.

Rounding out the top 10 are Auburn, Georgia, Notre Dame, Louisiana State and Florida State. After Nebraska are West Virginia, Alabama, South Carolina, Michigan, Penn State, Washington, Ohio State, Iowa and Oklahoma State.

UCLA, which has never won a national championship in football, was 6-0 and ranked second behind Alabama in 1980 before losing at Arizona. The Bruins finished 9-2 that year.

UCLA has been one of college football's better programs in recent years, as evidenced by bowl victories in each of the last six seasons. But the Bruins haven't been ranked higher than fifth at the end of a season since 1965, when they were fourth.

Donahue has often said that winning a national championship isn't the primary goal at UCLA.

"One of the goals we've had is to win the national championship," he said, "but a more immediate goal is to win the (Pacific-10) conference title and beat our crosstown rivals (Southern California)."

"We try to win every week that we play, but if somebody asks me if Nebraska is as important as the game up at Washington, the answer is no."

The Bruins open the Pac-10 season at Washington against the 17th-ranked Huskies on Oct. 1.

"I think beating Nebraska was an important hurdle for us," Donahue said. "If we're going to win a national championship, we have to beat a Nebraska, an Oklahoma, a Miami. I think this game took us to a new level. That may be a breakthrough toward a national championship."

"I see this team in a different light. This team has beaten a Big Eight contender. But this team has not won on the road. That's the next testing ground. We're going to know the answer to that in about three weeks."

The Bruins would appear to be a lock to be unbeaten going into the Washington game. On Saturday night, UCLA entertains winless Long Beach State, and then has an off day.

UCLA entered Saturday night's game having lost three times to Nebraska in the last five years — by 42-10 in 1983, 42-3 in 1984 and 42-33 last year.

"This was a game that we pointed to, there's no question about that," Donahue said. "This team ticked me off. I wanted to put that skeleton to rest. I think that we were frustrated with our previous losses to Nebraska. We were geared up to play."

The win was the 100th for Donahue since he becoming the UCLA coach in 1976. His career record is 100-36-7.

UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman, who completed 13 of 22 passes for 205 yards against Nebraska, reacted positively when informed that the Bruins were ranked second this week.

"I think that's great," he said. "I think it's rightfully deserved. We played well enough to be No. 2. But we can't get caught up in all that right now. We've still got a long way to go. We've got nine games left."

It came with 6:58 left in the first quarter, and was set up by a 28-yard completion from Pelluer to Kelvin Martin. Pelluer finished the game with 12 completions in 24 passes for 162 yards and ran eight times for 36 yards.

The Cards used 13 plays to move from their own 20 to the Dallas 23. But Del Greco's 40-yard field-goal attempt was wide left.

Then Phoenix took just five plays to go 70 yards on its next series, taking a 7-3 lead on a 16-yard pass from Lomax to Earl Ferrell.

The touchdown, 2:42 into the second quarter, came one play after Lomax, who completed 20 of 34 for 266 yards and two touchdowns, hit Stump Mitchell for 28 yards on a nearly aborted flea-flicker on which he collided with Ferrell after Ferrell had lateralled the ball back to him.

Zendejas had a 49-yard field goal blocked on Dallas' next drive. But when the Cowboys got the ball again, the Cowboys took just three plays and 1:06 to go 79 yards for a 10-7 lead with 4:35 left in the half.

The first was a 26-yard jaunt off left tackle by Walker. Then Pelluer hit Irvin for 47 yards and Smith's penalty added three more to set up Walker's first score.

Then the Phoenix mistakes multiplied.

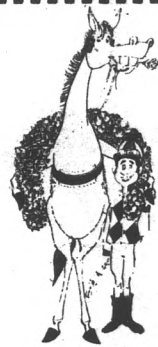

The half ended on a bizarre note when Del Greco, lined up to kick a 42-yard field goal, instead took a flip from holder Stoudt and ran eight yards as the clock ran out. Had he made the kick, the game might have ended in a tie.

On the first series of the second half, a 34-yard completion from Lomax to J.T. Smith to the Dallas 9 was negated when tackle Luis Sharpe was called for being illegally lined up in the backfield.

"That's the worst call I've ever experienced, or the second worst," Lomax said. "I'm in the shotgun and you can't see it. But the offensive linemen always line up a little bit back in that situation."

Then came Jordan's fumble and the interference call on Phillips which sent the crowd filing out quietly.

"Jords' fumble hurt and there was that penalty," Lomax said. "Take away those two and it was a different game."

proven winner!

HAVE YOU seen the ASU Student Handbook and Calendar? It's a handy pocket-size book, filled with everything you ever wanted (or didn't want to) know about college life. It's even got a daily reference calendar! The really neat thing about the Handbook is that it's produced by ASU students. That's right. Students gather the information, write and edit the copy; shoot the photos; design the cover and inside pages and last, but certainly not least, they design and sell the advertising that supports this annual event. Students spend long hours with creativity flowing, ideas exchanging and the fulfillment of producing their very own handbook. We'd like to offer you the chance to join this team and gain invaluable experience while you're in college. We need several advertising sales representatives to create, design and sell advertising to local retail businesses. If you have a strong commitment to excellence and pride in a job well done, we'd like to speak with you. You must be self-motivated, punctual, a good time manager, own a car and be a people person. Please call today and join a team of dedicated ASU students who are committed to making the 1988-89 ASU Student Handbook and Calendar the best. Call Dan Ellstrom at 965-6555 today! P.S. If you are wondering what in the heck a Student Handbook is, stop by Student Publications in Matthews Center and get a free copy!

“HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS.”

When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college.

They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for little pay.

Not me. My job takes just one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Yet, I'm earning $18,000 for college.

Because I joined my local Army National Guard.

They're the people who help our state during emergencies like hurricanes and floods. They're also an important part of our country's military defense.

So, since I'm helping them do such an important job, they're helping me make it through school.

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. I'm also getting another $5,000 for tuition and books, thanks to the New GI Bill.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back—up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000—or more—for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. SEE YOUR LOCAL RECRUITER FOR DETAILS, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-638-7600,* OR MAIL THIS COUPON.
