Candidates exhausted; voters, too

Dukakis predicts win; Bush clings to narrowing lead

By The Associated Press

George Bush and Michael Dukakis voiced confidence Monday as they crossed paths in battleground states on the final day of campaigning before Americans choose the next president. Underdog Dukakis urged voters "to send a message that can be heard from California to Kennebunkport" while Bush declared he was finishing "not in a power walk but in a sprint."

The latest polls bolstered the vice president's optimism as he followed his Democratic rival into Ohio and roared toward St. Louis.

★ THE RACE FOR THE WHITE HOUSE

At a sunrise rally in a steelworkers union hall outside Cleveland, Dukakis was in high spirits after snatching a two-hour nap on an overnight flight from the West Coast.

"Good Morning, Ohio," he said. "We took the red-eye to be with the Buckeyes. 'I don't need sleep, I'm charging. . . . We're going to win.'"

Bush began his day in the Detroit suburb of Southfield, Mich., and took a jab at Dukakis' fondness for exercising by walking rapidly while carrying weights.

The vice president said the race in Michigan was close and "it's a very important place to be as we run right down to the finish line, not in a power walk but in a sprint."

Bush said that when Americans vote they should ask themselves this question: "Is the country headed in the right direction? The answer is, yes it is."

From Michigan, Bush was headed for rallies in Ohio, Missouri and Texas, where he maintains his voting residence.

Republican senatorial candidate Keith DeGreen tells an audience of about 125 students Monday night at ASU, "I am the fellow who is going to whip Dennis DeConcini." DeGreen spoke at a rally sponsored by Students for Bush and held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Life Sciences Building. Also featured were Sen. John McCain and Rep. Jay Rhodes. The students cheered the speakers and waved "Bush for President" and "Bush/Quayle" signs.

Officials predict Arizona turnout to be 70 percent

By The Associated Press

PHOENIX — Despite aggressive get-out-the-vote campaigns by both major parties, the secretary of state and elections officials in Arizona's two largest counties predict only about two-thirds of the state's 1.8 million registered voters will make it to the polls today.

Volunteers for both parties made tens of thousands of calls and distributed leaflets to as many homes over the weekend in hopes of attracting voters to the polls.

But Secretary of State Jim Shumway predicted Monday that only 68 percent of the voters will turn out, compared with 80.1 percent in 1980 and 71.9 percent in 1984, the last two presidential election years.

The Maricopa County recorder's office said it expected a turnout of 70.6 percent, based on absentee balloting, increased voter registration and "historical trends."

Larry Bahill, Pima County elections director, said he expected a turnout of about 70 percent.

Karen Osborne, deputy secretary of state, said Shumway's prediction of a 68 percent voter turnout is based largely on recent trends.

She noted that in 1980, when the turnout was more than 80 percent, former Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater fought off a strong challenge by Democrat Bill Schulz.

But there has been no hotly contested statewide race to attract voter attention this year.

Leading the ballot is the presidential race between Vice President George Bush and Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Fees upset by tuition hearing time changes

By SHERI JOHNSON
State Press

Confusion over what time Thursday's public hearing on a possible tuition hike for 1989-90 has ASU's student body president upset, saying the cloud could affect the number of students who can attend the hearing.

Student leaders had thought the hearing, to be held in the College of Law's Great Hall during the Arizona Board of Regents' resources committee meeting, would begin at 1 p.m. Numerous news reports had also slated the meeting to begin at 1 p.m.

But an agenda released by the regents Monday sets the hearing for 2:45 p.m.

"I think they've done a very poor job in communicating," Associated Students President John Fees said. "We have 750 posters with one o'clock on them."

"I expect the board to find a time and communicate it more than two days before the event. I think it's really insensitive to students. This is not the way we like to conduct business. I do think it's a travesty."

However, Judy Garza, secretary to the regents, said the committee will conduct other business before the hearing.

"They (the regents) probably thought it would be best to do it that way," Garza said.

"If you schedule the hearing first, you wouldn't have any way of knowing when it would be over and when to start your business."

Garza said the confusion caused by the time for the hearing was "just one of those things that has evolved."

"It's probably a combination of a miscommunication and people hearing what they want to hear," she said.

"I do think it's a travesty."
— John Fees

But Regent Jack Pfister, chairman of the committee, said the time will be determined by Regent Donald Pitt's schedule on Thursday because without Pitt, there will not be a quorum.

"(We will) put it (the hearing) at the time Donald Pitt arrives or shortly thereafter," Pfister said.

Pitt said he is trying to adjust his schedule but added that his absence shouldn't affect a quorum.

"I hope they have a quorum without me," he said. "The big problem is getting there at one o'clock. All I know is that the meeting is set for one o'clock and the order will be set when they have a quorum."

Pitt said he would like to be at the hearing. Student regent Patrick McWhortor said he is working to get a definite time to eliminate the confusion and added that he will contact Pitt to try to work things out.

"I know Pitt wants to hear the students' testimony, but there won't be any testimony to hear (if it's postponed)," McWhortor said. "People were asking us when this was going to be held weeks ago."

McWhortor said a quorum could be reached if Regent President Herman Chanen, who is an ex-officio member of the committee, attends the meeting. Chanen could not be reached for comment.

Brad Golich, executive director of Arizona Students Association, said the hearing should be as close to 1 p.m. as possible since the time has been publicized.

"It would make it too difficult for students to plan (if it's not)," he said. "It would be unfair not to hear from the students."

WEATHER

Clear skies and pleasant temperatures are forecast for today with a high near 85 degrees. Overnight lows should be around 60.

Killer of 4 women executed in Florida electric chair

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — A man convicted of killing four women went to Florida's electric chair Monday criticizing the legal system that condemned him and was put to death minutes after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear his appeal.

"I hope with all my heart I will be the last sacrificial lamb of a system that is not just, and all these people know it is not just," Jeffrey Joseph Daugherty said in a six-minute statement before his execution.

"Let's hope there are not many more that have to be sacrificed. The executions serve no purpose," he said.

Daugherty, 33, was the 19th person executed in the oaken chair at Florida State Prison and the 103rd put to death in the nation since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976. Only one state, Texas, has had more executions than Florida.

A handful of protesters opposing capital punishment, including actress Margot Kidder, as well as a pro-execution group, stood watch outside the prison as Daugherty died just after 5 p.m. EST.

Daugherty refused his last meal about 3 p.m., prior to having his right leg and head shaved to make better contact with the metal bands that conduct the current.

Nine railway employees killed in Paris-bound train crash

EPERNAY, France (AP) — A Paris-bound express train struck a maintenance car today in a village station in northeastern France, derailing the locomotive and nine passenger cars and killing nine people, officials said.

The nine were railway employees working on a service track, officials said. No passengers were killed.

The train, which originated in Luxembourg and was carrying about 400 passengers, crashed as it was passing through Ay, a village just outside Epernay, about 85 miles east of Paris. Only two cars remained on the tracks.

Dozens arrested on Capitol Hill while protesting for homeless

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of people, including prominent pediatrician and social activist Benjamin Spock, were arrested Monday on Capitol Hill in the culmination of a long series of protests called to focus attention on the plight of the homeless in America.

"We're here to show the politicians that there is a crisis in America, a crisis that they are not responding to, a crisis that we want answers for," said Mitch Snyder, a Washington advocate for the homeless and organizer of the protests.

Snyder led a march and 90-minute rally across Constitution Avenue from the Capitol, capping the event with his exhortation to the crowd to sit down in the middle of the street and be arrested as a way of showing concern for the homeless.

- Advertising Sales Reps . . .

The State Press is looking for several new advertising sales reps to begin training now to work next semester. The rewards are many . . . you'll gain valuable experience in sales, layout, design, production and communications. This job is not for everyone, however. It's highly demanding and requires every spare moment of your time . . . 25 to 35 hours per week. And you must be an advertising or marketing major with an incredibly strong desire to learn about advertising and the insight to understand the benefits of this pre-professional opportunity. If you have a demanding class schedule or lots of extra-curriculars, this job's not for you.

BUT . . . if you have a sense of pride in doing a good job; are creatively inclined; feel you can handle 30-40 local accounts, as well as your classes and a not too wild social life; don't need anyone to get you going every morning and above all, operate well under the pressure of a daily deadline . . . Campaign

Dukakis preceded Bush into St. Louis by a couple of hours and told his audience, "This is the 'show me' state, and I'm here to show you how much I want your support," he said.

Then, in a reference to Bush's summer home in Maine, Dukakis asked, "Are you going to let the pollsters and pundits decide this election, or are you going to send a message that can be heard from California to Kennebunkport?"

"They're getting so worried Bush is following me around — can you believe it?" Dukakis told a rally in Portland, Ore., Sunday night. The Democratic nominee was on a non-stop campaign swing with no time to see a bed until he arrives home in Massachusetts Election Day.

President Reagan was spending the day campaigning for Bush in California.

Both camps bombarded voters with 30-second commercials and the two candidates were the stars of 30-minute prime time election eve programs running back-to-back on the three major commercial networks — ABC, CBS and NBC.

A rush of late national polls said the Republican vice president was leading by margins ranging from five to 12 percentage points.

A 50-state, ABC News-Washington Post poll of 7,777 likely voters said Bush was solidly favored or leading in states with enough electoral votes to assure his election.

An Associated Press state-by-state survey said Bush was leading in states with 356 electoral votes — 86 more than the 270 needed for a majority — while Dukakis was ahead in states with a total of 101 electoral votes. Another 81 were in tossup states that included Pennsylvania, Illinois and Missouri.

Among the new polls, Gallup put Bush ahead by 12 percentage points, while USA Today-CNN made it 11. ABC set the margin at 10 and CBS said the difference was nine points. An NBC News-Wall Street Journal poll and another by Louis Harris and Associates said the margin for the vice president was five points with enough people undecided or wavering to allow for dramatic last-minute changes.

The presidential candidates weren't the only ones winding up their campaigns.

There were 33 Senate seats and the entire House being filled Tuesday and 12 states were electing governors.

Democratic control of the Senate and House appeared secure and the Democrats appeared likely to add to the 27 to 23 edge they now have among governors.

Thousands of other offices were being filled and scores of initiatives also were on ballots, including 39 in California on which opposing sides spent more than $100 million.

Dukakis began a marathon race around the country late Sunday flying from Spokane, Wash., to Cleveland, with a dawn arrival in the Ohio city. From Cleveland he was heading for St. Louis and then on to San Francisco.

Aides were considering another 1,000-mile detour from San Francisco before addressing a rally in Los Angeles. Then it was on to a pre-dawn Election Day rally in Des Moines, Iowa, and a stop in New Jersey or Ohio before ending the campaign back home in Boston.

New York offers clean needles to drug addicts to fight AIDS

New York City officials started a program Monday that offers drug addicts clean needles in exchange for dirty ones. The program is aimed to combat the spread of AIDS.

Of the nearly 17,000 AIDS cases reported to the city since 1981, about 4,500 are believed to have been contracted through intravenous drug abuse.

Some minority groups oppose the action, labeling it "genocide," but U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Coop backs the program and other cities nationwide are considering adopting the program.

Meanwhile, AIDS Awareness Week begins Monday. To coincide with a national effort that will be put forth, Associated Students and the Student Health Center will sponsor educational programs and distribute condoms. AMA looks to halt distribution of new 'smokeless cigarette'

The American Medical Association has filed a legal petition to halt the distribution of R.J. Reynolds' new "smokeless cigarette" because it has not yet been judged safe for human use.

R.J. Reynolds began selling the product, "Premier," in Arizona and Missouri Oct. 1 without waiting for a market clearance, the AMA has charged in a news release.

The product simulates smoking by heating a capsule containing tobacco flavor pellets instead of tobacco.

Propositions

Election day

In addition to making their choices for president and various state and local officials, voters will also have a chance today to decide on several important propositions — the most controversial of which is Proposition 106, the measure that would make English the official language of Arizona.

The English-only proposition is not merely a vaguely worded, unspecific document, it is both prohibitive and punitive in nature toward the large Arizona Hispanic population and deserves to go down to a resounding defeat. It would lessen the accessibility of state government to the non-English speaking population, including potentially prohibiting the use of interpreters in court hearings and in life-threatening situations.

Proposition 105, which would provide for runoff elections in cases where no candidate earns a majority of votes, is worthy of support despite any extra costs to the state. The election of Evan Mecham, who won the governor's chair with only 40 percent of the popular vote in 1986, demonstrates the need for such a measure.

Proposition 300, a proposal to raise state legislators' yearly salaries from $15,000 to $25,000, also deserves voter support. If Arizonans wish to attract and retain young, capable people to the legislature, we must be willing to pay them a decent wage. Our lawmakers should not be expected to choose between public service and supporting their families. The workload of the representatives and senators rates more than the near-poverty-level salary currently being paid.

The race for Arizona Corporation Commission often seems remote and unimportant to most students. But the commission, which regulates the state's utilities and rate hikes, has a direct bearing on the financial health of the student body.

One commission candidate, ASU graduate Kate Lehman, has shown a willingness to hold down exorbitant utility rates that plague students and all citizens of Arizona, and deserves full support.

Mock election GOP publicity stunt

Editor:

I was disappointed with the coverage of the Students for Bush mock election. What the group did was little more than a short mall survey of students walking by their table ... nothing remotely comparable to an educational mock election. The ballots were rudimentary and incomplete (they failed to offer the two alternate-party candidates), the casting procedures were not discreet and the results were under-representative (anyone who has taken a beginner's statistics course would agree). Nobody was even notified that the event was going to take place.

An unbiased group like the ASASU Political Union should have been contacted to ensure some sort of validity, but they were bypassed.

I had hoped that with such a noticeably large sampling error inherent in a "poll" like this, the State Press would have gone into more detail as to why the results were invalid and meaningless. Instead, students read a bold headline announcing Bush as the winner.

A university campus is supposed to foster critical thinking, and the State Press does this a majority of the time. However, this article was misleading in its coverage of the facts ... one of which is that this was a poorly run publicity stunt.

Parking Services 'sickening'

Editor:

"Well, kids you get your choice — 30 minutes or 50 minutes. Just remember, we're being generous by letting you park at all."

This is what they tell us. And this is what is really said behind closed doors:

"Let's see, the shortest class offered is 50 minutes, long, so let's make the longest time on the parking meters that. This way the kids will think they can make it, but they won't, and we can then give them tickets and give ourselves raises. Let's make some of the meters 30 minutes, too, because there aren't any classes that are that length, but they'll think they can get away with parking there, and we can give them even more tickets and get even more raises."

Maybe someone can explain the above because I sure don't get it — unless the whole parking system is designed to milk the students and make more money for the University. Nah, that's not it. These people are empowered because they care about the students and just want to help us, not drain our pocketbooks. Right? Wrong.

How many of you can get to and from a 50 minute class instantly? None. I thought so. And how many of you think that the 30 minute meters are useless? Most of you? I thought so. How many of you realize how stupid it is to park a mile away from the University then walk or ride the tram (which takes about 15 to 20 minutes) to go to one class? All of you? I thought so.

THEN WHY IN THE HELL ARE THINGS

THE WAY THEY ARE? It's unfair. I thought universities were supposed to be places about and for the students. I obviously have ASU mixed up with a school that cares about its students. Excuse me. And by the way, you people involved with parking services (the administration that is) sicken me. In another life I'm quite sure you would have been wearing death-heads on your collars.

More University coverage needed

Editor:

I was told once that a newspaper reports news of concern to its readers, but it seems to me that the State Press does not follow this common rule of journalism. To me it seems that the editors and reporters are more interested in trying to establish impressive looking portfolios for themselves than reporting news that is of value to the students. Apparently the students and what they do is of no interest to anyone at the State Press. As far as the State Press reporting goes, there is a news void surrounding activities on campus.

At no other time of the year is this lack of reporting more evident than at homecoming. No one at the State Press seemed to know or care that homecoming was going on. Last year I was very involved with homecoming and I was dumbfounded by the State Press' complete indifference to ASU's homecoming activities. I had hoped this year things would be different, but sadly that was not the case. Once again the State Press turned up its nose and failed to give adequate coverage to ASU's homecoming.

I think it's terribly sad that for the last two years the State Press has consistently snubbed the student body, and I would like a simple explanation as to why the editors of the State Press think homecoming is not news worthy. I would also like to point out that the Tempe Tribune covered ASU's homecoming better than the State Press.

In an editor's note (Nov. 3) it was written that the State Press is completely self-sufficient through advertisement sales. Just out of curiosity, does the State Press pay rent for its space in the basement of Matthews Center? Did the State Press purchase all its equipment on ad sales alone? Does the State Press pay all its electric bills? Does the State Press pay the salary of its faculty advisers? Or does ASU pick up the tab? Please tell me, I would like to know because if ASU does pay for this (and we know where they get their money) I would like to notify the Tempe Tribune or the Arizona Republic so they too can move in and take advantage of ASU's generosity.

Whether the State Press is self-sufficient or not, that does not excuse you from your responsibility to the students and faculty of this University.

Scott R. Novis
Senior, Electrical Engineering

Editor's Note: The State Press reimburses the University for space, utilities and custodial services in the form of an Administrative Service Charge assessed at 6 percent of the State Press' annual budget. For the past fiscal year this amounted to approximately $60,000 out of a total budget of $1.2 million. The State Press budget is derived from revenues from advertising sales, independent production work and subscriptions. Student Publications receives a yearly stipend of $5,000 from the state of Arizona, which is applied toward the publication of the Student Handbook and the literary magazine Hayden's Ferry Review. The State Press receives no funds from student fees.

Slats Grobnik looked puzzled as he asked, "What ever happened to Abe Lincoln?"

Lincoln? He's still on Mount Rushmore. Why do you ask?

"Well, has he kind of fallen into disgrace or something? You know, like in Russia, where they kick old leaders out of the history books and take down their statues."

Of course not. Honest Abe is revered, one of the two or three greatest presidents in our history.

"That's what I always thought. But something funny is going on."

Such as?

"Like the news story I just read, where President Reagan makes a speech about what a great guy Harry Truman was."

I read that.

"And isn't he always talking about what a great guy Franklin Roosevelt was?"

Oh, he's very fond of FDR.

And I read where Danny Quayle said something good about Truman. And so did Bush. And I think Bush said something nice about FDR, too."

Yes, they've spoken highly of them.

"Well, maybe I've missed something, but I thought Truman and Roosevelt were Democrats."

Of course they were.

"Then how come all these Republicans keep dropping their names? Why don't they talk about Republican presidents?"

Now that you mention it, that is curious.

"I mean, I can see why they don't want to talk about Nixon because he got kicked out of office. Or about Hoover because he started the Great Depression. Or Coolidge because most people don't know who the heck he was. But wasn't Abe Lincoln the father of their party?"

That he was.

"Then why don't they ever mention him?"

It's probably just an oversight.

"I don't think so. Nowadays, with all of those sharpies who run campaigns, there's a reason for everything. And there's got to be a reason why Honest Abe is getting the silent treatment."

I can't think of any.

"Come on, let's figure it out. Like Sherlock Holmes and Watson. Let's look for clues."

All right, what are the clues?

"Well, what was Lincoln most famous for?"

He preserved the Union by winning the Civil War.

"Hah! Now we're getting somewhere."

I don't understand.

"It's elementary, my stupid Watson. The Republicans want to win the South, don't they?"

Of course. It's essential to their battle plan.

"So what happens if Bush or Reagan or Quayle go down to Georgia to make a speech and they say, 'Remember, my fellow Americans, we are the party of Lincoln?'"

There might be a certain coolness.

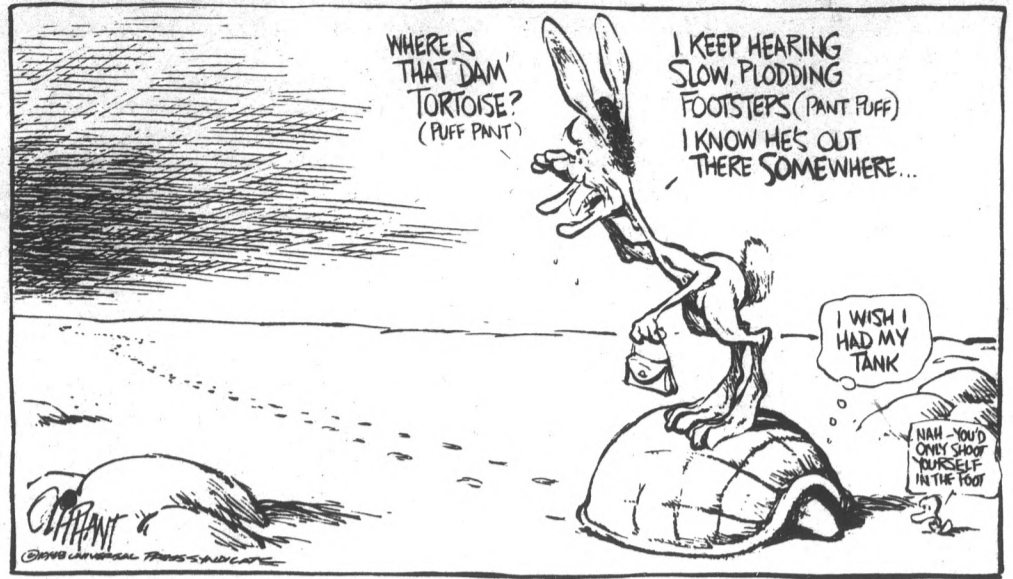

"A coolness? Hey, the audience is going to jump up and yell: 'You damn Yankee carpetbagger, don't you know that Lincoln sent General Sherman through here and burned up my great-grandpa's house in Atlanta?'"

That's quite possible.

"You bet it is. You go down South and start talking about Lincoln and guys named Bubba are gonna grab their shotguns and set their hounds on you. You ever notice who they name streets and highways after down there?"

Who?

"Not Lincoln or President Grant, I'll tell you that. Everywhere you go, it's Jefferson Davis Boulevard, Jefferson Davis Highway. He's still their guy."

You may have something.

"Okay, what else is Lincoln famous for?"

Everybody knows that. He freed the slaves.

"Right. So you think that Reagan and Bush and Quayle want to remind white voters about that?"

But it was one of Lincoln's noblest achievements.

"Sure, but it's not something they want to mention in a 1988 campaign. If Bush gets up and says, 'My friends, we are the party of Lincoln, the great man who freed the slaves,' you know what some white southerner is gonna say, or some white guy in a bungalow in Chicago or Cleveland?"

What?

"They're gonna say: 'Oh yeah? That Lincoln's worse than Dukakis. Dukakis only let that Willie Horton out on furlough.' Lincoln turned the whole mess of them loose and now they're moving into my neighborhood.

I suppose it's possible that some might react that way.

"Possible. Lemme tell ya, if the Republicans went around saying, 'Fellow Americans, vote for us because we are the party of Lincoln, the man who won the Civil War and freed the slaves,' you know what would happen? Dukakis would get 70 percent of the vote. Even Lincoln's first name would hurt them."

His first name?

"Yeah, Abe. Some people would think he was Jewish and they'd lose the anti-Semite vote."

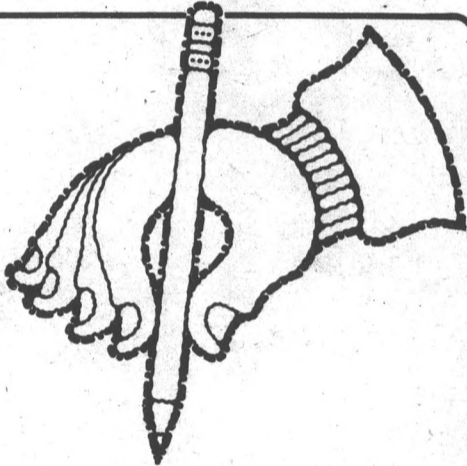

An interesting analysis. I wonder what Lincoln would say if he came back to life today?

"I don't know what Lincoln would say, but I know what Reagan and Bush and Quayle would say."

What?

"They'd say, 'Look, another liberal.'"

Voting

Both ran low-key campaigns in Arizona, which has not voted for a Democrat for president since Harry Truman carried the state in 1948.

The polls have indicated that Bush will continue that trend, although his lead appeared to be dwindling.

A mid-October poll gave Bush a 32-point lead over Dukakis. But, according to an Oct. 30 statewide poll, only 16 points separated the two candidates.

Burton Kruglick, state GOP chairman, predicted that Bush would win Arizona by 10 to 20 percent.

"It'll range from 55-45 up to 60-40," Kruglick said. "He might even run a little higher."

But Sam Goddard, chairman of the state Democratic party, said that "Dukakis is moving very fast" and in politics "motion is essential."

Democrats were hopeful that a convincing win by incumbent Sen. Dennis DeConcini would help the presidential ticket.

But DeConcini's lead over Republican challenger Keith DeGreen, which polls showed was more than 40 points early in October, had begun to dwindle late in the campaign, largely because of questions concerning DeConcini's land dealings.

DeGreen began to cut into DeConcini's lead after revelations that a DeConcini family partnership had bought land in the path of the Central Arizona Project and sold it to the government at huge profits.

DeGreen received more than $200,000 in late-October from the national Republican party, which he used for a flurry of television advertising.

DeGreen also received well-publicized telephone calls and endorsements on Sunday from Bush and on Monday from President Reagan.

DeConcini denied any wrongdoing in the land dealings, and a number of Republican strategists acknowledged that DeGreen was unlikely to win, even though he might force DeConcini to spend most of a war chest estimated at well over $3 million.

The hottest contests were in several legislative races, thanks to divisions in the Republican party resulting from the impeachment and ouster of Gov. Evan Mecham earlier this year.

Man stabbed during fight with brother in stable condition

By MIKE BURGESS
State Press

A 28-year-old Tempe man was listed in stable condition Monday at Scottsdale Memorial Hospital-Osborn after he was stabbed during a fight with his brother.

J.W. Hall was arguing with his brother at their home in the 2200 block of East Maryland Drive at about 9:40 p.m. Sunday. The fight moved outside, where Hall was stabbed in the chest, police said.

Police said James Hall, 24, was arrested in a field west of the residence on suspicion of aggravated assault.

Police also reported the following incidents:

- A 17-year-old boy was found lying unconscious Sunday night in an alley near the 1200 block of West La Jolla Drive after he reportedly fell and bashed his head during a fight.

police report

David Scott Ellander, of the 4600 block of South Priest Drive, was listed in guarded condition Monday at Maricopa County Medical Center, a nursing supervisor said.

The suspect is described as a Caucasian male, 20 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, 110 pounds with dark hair.

- A father and son were arrested Friday night on suspicion of aggravated assault and disorderly conduct after they allegedly stabbed each other during a fight. Neither man was injured seriously during the altercation in the 2000 block of East Apache Boulevard.
- A burglar broke into eight vehicles in Parking Structure III

Saturday night and stole about $2,200 in cash and property. The suspect broke into the cars by smashing the passenger-side windows. Damage is estimated at $520.

- The Tempe Fire Department put out a fire Sunday night in an electrical transformer at the Business Administration Complex. The blaze occurred at about 10:06 p.m. in an equipment room. The cause and amount of damage is unknown.

- Someone broke into a 1980 Volkswagen parked in Lot 51 sometime Saturday or Sunday and stole a small air conditioning unit and some clothing. Loss is $700.

There was $300 in damages to the driver-side vent window and to the dash panel and stereo.

- Someone stole an $835 guitar and its case Sunday from an unsecured room at Sahuaro Hall.

Robber assaults female clerks Student in serious condition

He drives a dark blue imported pickup with black and gold license plates and wanders from city to city, where he robs and sexually assaults female clerks who work alone at small businesses.

Tempe police believe the man, who is usually armed with a gun, is responsible for two recent sexual assaults in Tempe, two sexual assaults in Casa Grande and four in the Tucson area.

He last hit Saturday afternoon at Rosey Days Cards and Gifts, 2700 W. Baseline Road, where he entered the store and pointed a blue steel handgun at the 23-year-old clerk. He demanded cash and forced the woman into a bathroom at the back of the store. He sexually assaulted her before he fled on foot, police said.

Police described the suspect as Caucasian, 20 to 30 years old, 6 feet tall, 160 to 170 pounds with brown hair and brown eyes.

In addition to Saturday's sexual assault, police believe he is responsible for the Oct. 23 sexual assault and robbery at Zack's Frozen Yogurt, 219 E. Baseline Road.

Police said the suspect has had the same method of operation in each incident.

—MIKE BURGESS

An ASU student who was shot early Sunday by a man who stopped her car to ask directions remained in serious but stable condition Monday, and hospital officials said she may be moved out of intensive care sometime today.

Annette Hornung, a 20-year-old sophomore agri-business major, was flown by helicopter to Scottsdale Memorial Hospital-Osborn after being shot once in the side with a .32-caliber pistol at about 2:30 a.m., police said.

Police said Hornung, of Tempe, was driving alone in the 4600 block of South Lakeshore Drive when she was stopped by a man driving a green and white Chevrolet.

After telling the suspect she did not know what he was talking about, the man shot Hornung as she tried to get back into her car. The suspect then fled the scene, police said.

After she was shot, Hornung managed to drive to a Winchell's Donut House at 1118 E. Baseline Road, where an employee called the police.

Police described the suspect as black, 28-years-old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, 175 pounds with black hair. He was last seen wearing a red and blue shirt and a coat.

There was another man in the suspect's car, but police did not get a description.

A state of pride

Devils relish comeback win, but USC looms on horizon

By DEAN GYORGY
State Press

ASU's back-from-the-dead victory over Oregon State on Saturday was a bit like running a marathon — nice to know you can do it, but not something you'd want to do every day.

Head coach Larry Marmie said Monday at his weekly media luncheon that he was "awfully proud" of what his team did in the fourth quarter to erase a 24-7 deficit and beat the Beavers, 30-24.

Winning is the bottom line, he said, and the Sun Devils got it done. But this week's opponent may not be so susceptible to being swept under in the final minutes.

ASU will face the second-ranked Trojans of Southern California Saturday in Sun Devil Stadium in a game that will be televised to most of the nation on ABC.

"Our players feel we're capable of coming from behind against a football team," Marmie said. "But obviously in trying to come back against USC, the chances of success might not be as high as against some others."

The undefeated Trojans (8-0, 6-0 in the Pac-10), with games remaining against No. 5 UCLA and No. 1 Notre Dame, have a legitimate shot at the national title.

But the Sun Devils have history on their side for Saturday's contest. They lead the all-time series with USC, 5-2, including two in a row and four of the last five.

ASU has 31 players from California, and playing the folks from back home provides good incentive for the Sun Devils from the Golden State.

"When they play against the California schools, they get cranked up a little bit more," USC coach Larry Smith said. "They're playing against friends and guys that they played with or against in high school, so the rivalries are intensified."

Smith, who guided the Arizona Wildcats for seven seasons (1980-86), said it would be especially tough coming to Tempe. He and Sun Devil Stadium are old nemeses, so he knows what to expect. But he said only seven or eight of his players have ever played here.

"No matter what team is coming to Tempe, Sun Devil Stadium is a difficult place for a team to play well," Smith said. "The fans, the intensity and the winning tradition have all added to that."

"ASU plays their best football at home." The Sun Devils have won three straight conference games. The only other Pac-10 team to accomplish that this year is USC. Smith said ASU is not 6-3 by mistake and that the Trojans must play this "like a championship football game" in order to keep their unbeaten record intact.

Aside from Saturday's miraculous fourth quarter, Marmie said the Devils did not look good at all. He said after the game that the first half was "total chaos."

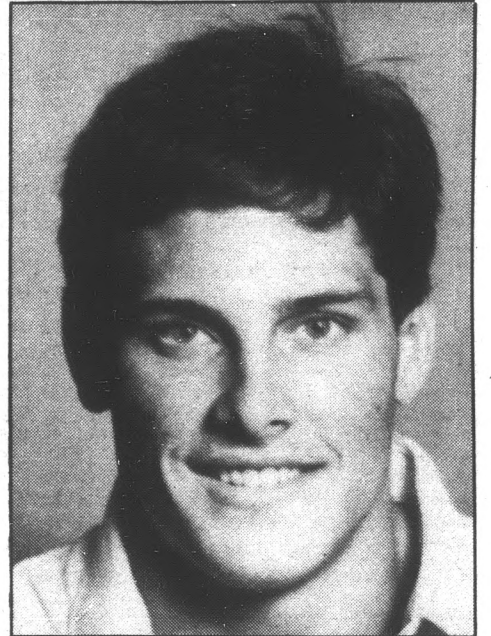

He said he remains very disappointed in the kicking game, and it must be a strength in order to beat USC.

The kicking game has been doubly affected by the injury to sophomore safety Nathan LaDuke.

LaDuke suffered a concussion two weeks ago against Oregon, and is still plagued by dizziness. He was forced to leave the Oregon State game and will not have contact this week in practice. He will be re-evaluated before Saturday's game.

LaDuke is normally the holder for place kicks. His replacement, Steve Martin, bobbled the snap on Alan Zendejas' blocked field goal attempt in Saturday's second quarter. Martin will remain the holder this week.

Jeff Joseph later fumbled a punt return — normally LaDuke's responsibility. Marmie said he is unsure who will return punts against the Trojans.

Nathan LaDuke

Marmie said he was pleased with the Sun Devil defense in the second half against OSU. The Beavers had seven second-half possessions, and the Devils forced three punts, three turnovers and allowed one field goal.

But Marmie said the defense remains a concern this week as the Devils prepare for USC quarterback Rodney Peete.

Peete is as dangerous as they come and was named the Pac-10 Offensive Player of the Week after completing 22 of 29 passes for 305 yards in USC's 35-3 win Saturday over California.

Marmie used the words "contain" and "control" when asked about how to defend against Peete. Keep him in the pocket, Marmie said, don't let him get to the corners or have too much time to scramble.

"They use (Peete) well," Marmie said. "They drop him back, sprint him out, use the play-action."

"They've got a nice package in which he operates."

Although the Heisman Trophy candidate Peete is the focus of much attention, Marmie said he is concerned about far more than one man.

"They are more than a one-dimensional football team," Marmie said. "Rodney Peete has a very good supporting cast."

"He's got good people around him."

Todd Green/State Press

ASU quarterback Paul Justin (left) was knocked out of Saturday's win over Oregon State with bruised ribs. Backup Daniel Ford rallied the Sun Devils to a 30-24 victory, but head coach Larry Marmie said Justin will start Saturday against No. 2 Southern Cal if he is physically able to.

Hoop squad prepares for opener with scrimmage

By GARY JACKSON
State Press

During Monday's ASU basketball scrimmage at Scottsdale's Saguaro High School, head coach Steve Patterson was able to put his team under the lights and in a game situation.

In almost a week, Nov. 16, the Sun Devils begin exhibition play against Athletes in Action at the University Activity Center.

Senior Trent Edwards (6-foot-7, 237 pounds) currently is listed as the starting center. In 1986, Edwards started nine games on defense for the Texas Christian football team.

"Trent seems to be the most consistent front-line player," Patterson said. "We're not as tall as with other possibilities, but he takes up a lot of space. He's a man among boys."

Being one more year removed from playing football, Patterson said Edwards will not foul as often, but should still be as aggressive.

"Trent does not back down from contact," Patterson said. "He loves to be physical."

The center position on the Sun Devil team is similar to power forward. Four players, including Edwards, provide strength in that area.

Although sophomore forward Emory Lewis (6-11, 232) sports the height of the team, a chronic back problem prevents him from being as physical, Patterson said.

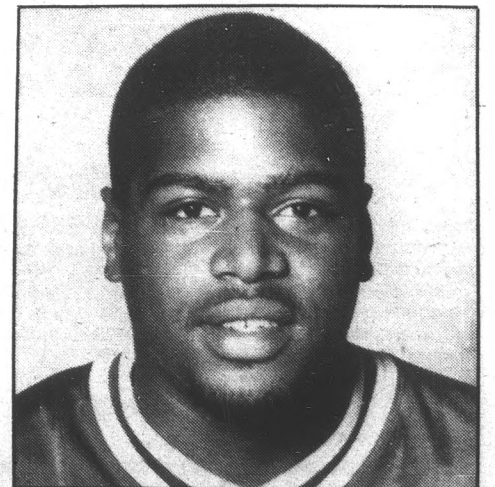

Lewis missed the first half of last season for this reason but is off to a good start this year, he said.

Patterson said he is enthusiastically optimistic about Lewis' potential this year and that the back problem can eventually be corrected through therapy.

Senior forward Torin Williams (6-10, 214) has been playing very well and junior forward Mark Becker has rebounded from a groin pull.

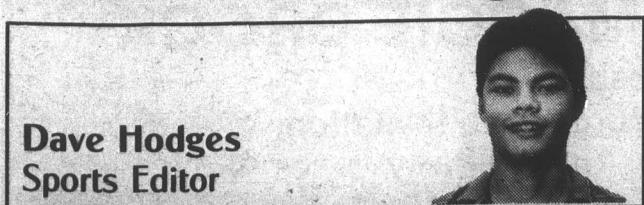

In practice last week, Becker looked healthy and performed at a high level, which will be expected from him this season. Last year Becker led the team in rebounds (5.5 per contest) and was second

Tired of exciting football games on the Tempe Turf? Try fishing

Dave Hodges

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC OCEAN — The boat rocks back and forth, sending passengers reeling to catch their balance. A thick fog limits visibility and casts an eerie feeling on the proceedings. The rancid stench of squid and anchovies hovers in the air.

Such is the life of a fisherman — one that seems monotonous and boring, but in reality is ever-changing and sometimes exciting, at least in their terms.

I missed all the excitement on the Tempe Turf this past weekend — I was gone fishin'.

Sure, I heard about the unparalleled excitement at Sun Devil Stadium over the weekend. I mean, two comebacks like the Sun Devils and Cardinals pulled out of the hat come only once in, say, 30 years.

I didn't get to see them in person, but I didn't mind.

The stereotype of the ocean fisherman resembles something out of The Rime of the Ancient Mariner — an old, rickety, gray-bearded man who drinks his beverages out of a bag.

But it ain't so.

Although many of the passengers on this particular deep-sea fishing trip were employees at Sergeant, Hauskins and Beckwith Geotechnical Engineers in Phoenix, where my father works, the group was as diverse as one could imagine.

When the Charisma pulled out of the 22nd Street Landing Friday in San Pedro, Calif., the passenger list consisted of folks young and old, women and men, yuppies and construction workers.

Before we left, the four-member crew of the Charisma instructed us on the how-to's and do's and don'ts of fishing.

We were fishing for rock cod, but the crew must have wondered if this group of Zonies could catch anything but rocks in the Salt River bed.

Nevertheless, the Charisma targeted a course about 100 miles off the Southern California coast for two days of fishing. Even though most passengers took Dramamine, a

Sigma Nus earn return trip to New Orleans by routing Pikes

By CLAY TUCKER
State Press

While the action on ASU's intramural fields Sunday may not have been as exciting as the two games at Sun Devil Stadium over the weekend, the intramural flag football competition did not lack in intensity.

The Sigma Nu fraternity emerged as the dominating team in the USF&G/Mark Buoniconti Flag Football Tournament, by defeating Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, 40-12, in the tourney's championship game.

By winning the tournament, the Sigma Nu team has earned the right to represent ASU at the Intramural Flag Football championships in New Orleans on New Years Day. The championship game of that tournament is held at halftime of the USF&G Sugar Bowl.

For the Sigma Nu offensive air force, it was bombs away Sunday. Not even the construction equipment building the new recreation center could have caused more damage.

The day belonged to Sigma Nu wide receiver Kevin Kuhner and quarterback Brock Robinson, who connected for four touchdowns to lead his team to its second flag football tournament championship in the last two years.

The Robinson/Kuhner combination established full control early in the championship game. The two immediately hooked up for a 40-yard touchdown pass on the second play of the game. After the extra point, Sigma Nu led, 7-0.

The Pikes' offense came up empty on its first possession, which gave the ball back to Sigma Nu. This would turn out to be the story of the day as Robinson let another 50-yard bomb loose to Kuhner for another touchdown. After five minutes of play and only three possessions, it was Sigma Nu, 14-0.

However, the Pike offense came alive and struck back on its next possession. On a brilliantly conceived play, quarterback Rick Huestis handed the ball on a reverse to wide receiver Joey Barnes. Barnes in turn faked another handoff and threw into the end zone to center Eric Gradyan for a touchdown. After the missed extra point, it was Sigma Nu, 14-6.

After the Pike touchdown, it appeared that the game was shaping up to be a touchdown fest, and the team having the ball last would be the winner. So Robinson and Kuhner took that hint, and three plays later, the two connected for another 50-yard touchdown bomb. The extra point followed and Sigma Nu took the drivers seat, 21-6.

"We were feeling really good, we thought we'd have a great shot at winning again this year," Kuhner said. "The Pikes are an excellent team, and we still have to play well to win this one."

The Pike offense was ineffective the entire afternoon. It could not establish its passing game, which in recent years has been very strong. The offense only managed to score one touchdown each half, well below its potential.

The Sigma Nus scored three more touchdowns including a 30-yard run by Robinson, a 10-yard pass play by the Robinson/Kuhner connection and a touchdown reception by wide receiver Rhody Shiel.

This is the second consecutive year the Sigma Nus are going to the New Orleans tournament. Last year the team went 2-2, defeating Nebraska and Kentucky before losing to Eastern Michigan and Georgia Southern.

"It's a real athletic culture shock playing flag football down in New Orleans," Sigma Nu wide receiver Mark Knight said. "The teams in the tournament don't just play flag football, they live flag football!"

Knight also said many of the teams in the deep south have state championships to determine the state representative.

"Many of the teams you play down there are not just university champions, but state champions as well — and they are really good," he said.

drug which is supposed to retard seasickness, it didn't work for some.

I was lucky. I grew up in Boston and have been on many a boat cruise in the Boston Harbor. By the way, it's not like George Bush depicts it, but that's another story.

It took about seven hours to reach our destination, and when everyone woke up, they were treated to overcast skies and choppy water — a fisherman's delight. I was told it is overcast 90 percent of the time there.

The water here was 40 fathoms deep (about 240 feet). I don't know about the other passengers, but I had never fished in anything more than about 50 feet deep, so I knew it was going to be something special.

It was man against nature. Me against a fish. Could I lure a hungry fish to eat another fish so I could eat the fish?

I have to admit, I spent more time untangling my line with the 30 other fishermen on the crowded deck than dueling the fishies (I floundered through enough bait and tackle to support the whole industry).

But I did catch some fish, most of them on Saturday: six rock cod, two whittail and two small redfish.

The group as a whole did manage to catch two sharks and an awful lot more fish than me, but I didn't mind.

After all, I had my big fish story. I had a very large fish on the line and had it reeled in to within 10 feet of the boat. But then . . . snap. A huge, indistinguishable form swam away with my fish. It was probably a shark that was dogging the boat and was later caught.

Really.

A host of Phoenix defenders swamp San Francisco running back Roger Craig. Craig rushed for 162 yards, but Phoenix rallied from a 23-0 deficit to beat the 49ers, 24-23, Sunday in a thriller at Sun Devil Stadium. The victory kept Phoenix in a second-place tie in the NFC East, and the Cards play host Sunday to the division-leading New York Giants.

Stallings describes Cardinals' comeback Sunday as best ever

PHOENIX (AP) — It was the second-greatest comeback in Cardinal history, but Phoenix coach Gene Stallings said this one may have been better.

The Cardinals, trailing San Francisco 23-0 with 19 minutes remaining Sunday, used a 17-point fourth-quarter rally to win 24-23 as Neil Lomax threw a nine-yard touchdown pass to Roy Green with three seconds left.

It came 363 days after the Cardinals, trailing 28-3 after three periods at Tampa Bay, scored 28 points in the final 15 minutes to win 31-28 in the largest comeback in NFL history.

"Both of them were great comebacks, but this team (San Francisco) was a little bit better. This is one of the better defensive teams in the league," Stallings said Monday. "Our chances of going 66 yards with no timeouts and score a touchdown was quite a risk."

"It was an exciting thing. We were working the ball well moving down the field, the clock was running, the fans were getting into it. . . . I'm glad it happened just the way it happened. I wouldn't change anything. A win like that is good for everybody. You've got to enjoy it."

"I know there's a good feeling in the team meeting today. That's worth something in itself. If we had lost, there would have been a dead feeling. No one would be talking. But the guys are chattering away. They know something good has happened."

Stallings said his team finally woke up after trailing 16-0 at halftime and 23-7 entering the fourth quarter.

"We played awfully good in the fourth quarter and the latter part of the third," he said. "We did some positive things. The 49ers didn't make a first down in the last quarter. We held them seven yards (total offense) while we had 140-something."

"We held Jerry Rice to three catches for 37 yards. Here's one of the greatest receivers in the league. We did a great job on him. We gave up a lot of yards (162) to Roger Craig, but he's an excellent player, just an outstanding back. We came from behind to beat a good football team."

The win was costly, however.

Reserve offensive guard-center Joe Bostic tore ligaments in his left knee and underwent arthroscopic surgery Monday. The 10-year veteran was placed on injured reserve and likely will be sidelined the rest of the season.

"It's a big blow to us to lose him," Stallings said. "He provided good leadership to the offensive line. He was a hard worker and the other players respected him. He had a lot of experience and he could play either guard or center."

To replace Bostic, the Cardinals signed former Nebraska guard Mark Traynowicz to a contract Monday afternoon.

The 6-foot-5, 280-pound Traynowicz played

'If you had told me at training camp we'd be 6-4 going into the 11th week and playing the Giants for first place, I'd have taken it.'

— Gene Stallings

three seasons with the Buffalo Bills before being waived in training camp this year.

Stallings said veteran fullback Earl Ferrell, the Cardinals' leading rusher with 696 yards and four touchdowns on 137 carries, suffered a broken rib in Sunday's game but should be able to play this week.

Phoenix, 6-4, hosts the first-place New York Giants, 7-3, Sunday afternoon at Sun Devil Stadium.

"If you had told me at training camp we'd be 6-4 going into the 11th week and playing the Giants for first place, I'd have taken it," Stallings said with a laugh. "We could be 8-2 right now. Or we could be 4-6. But our football team plays with a lot of heart. We give up some plays and we make some plays. If we make more than we give up, we usually win."

A victory this week would put the Cardinals in position to make the playoffs for the first time since 1984.

"I know this game coming up is awfully important to us. We've got four games in the (NFC) East left. It gives us a chance," Stallings said. "But I don't see it as an advantage to play New York twice. I'd like to play somebody else twice."

fill in at that position if necessary.

Junior guard Tarence Wheeler (6-2, 187) will play both the point and shooting guard positions for the team.

"He is a very versatile player and is effective at both positions," Patterson said. "He is mentally tough and can play either. He just wants to be on the floor."

While Anderson plays shooting guard and small forward, junior Mike Redhair (6-4, 177) plays exclusively at point guard.
