Democrats seek to skip veto crisis

By CHRIS DRISCOLL
State Press

Democrats in the Arizona Legislature will attempt to avoid what they termed "a constitutional crisis" by negotiating with Gov. Fife Symington about his use of the line-item veto on bills intended to bring the state budget into balance, the president of the state Senate said Sunday.

Sen. Pete Rios, D-Dudleyville, the top Democrat in the Senate, said he hopes to meet with the governor this week.

"My preference is to sit down with the governor first and try to explain to him that we do have a constitutional problem and see if we can work out a solution," Rios said.

If he can't come to an agreement with Symington, Rios said the Democrats would file a special court action, dropping the case into the state Supreme Court's lap.

"I think the state of Arizona doesn't need another little crisis," he said. "So I hope the governor will settle the issue out of court."

The governor, however, is ready for a court battle over his use of the line-item veto.

"(A line-item veto) is within the governor's power," said Doug Cole, spokesman for Symington. "And we fully anticipated the Senate Democrats to take us on."

Responding to Cole's statement, Rios said, "I think that's a sad commentary on the state of politics in Arizona."

Rios said that if a court battle was anticipated "then clearly there must have been some serious doubt in

Tempe dumps plans for recycling program

By D.J. BURROUGH
State Press

Plans for a citywide recycling program in Tempe have been trashed.

"I'm recommending that the city step back," said Gary Brown, Tempe's deputy city manager. "Take a comprehensive look at its total solid waste operation from collection to disposal — including recycling — and see what makes the most sense and how we can operate the system most efficiently."

Tempe has been negotiating with Waste Management since January to establish a curb-side program that would pick up recyclables from 32,000 homes in the city.

The city has received a draft contract from the 20-year-old national waste management company, and could have proceeded with negotiations, Brown said.

Brown said anticipated cost increases to residents for municipal services was a factor that prompted him to suggest the city not develop its recycling program.

Tempe residents would have been charged $1.42 per household for the recycling program.

"Costs to Tempe citizens for water, sewer and refuse services are going to increase dramatically over the next three to five years," he said.

A recently released refuse rate analysis stated that in order for the city to break even in its refuse operations, the current service rate of $8.45 per month per household should be increased to $10.40, an increase of 22 percent. The city is planning to raise the rate May 1.

Stringent federal and state environmental mandates are also increasing cost to the city for sewage treatment and water treatment — a cost that will have to be passed along to city residents, Brown said.

"The average household who pays a total of $35.35 today for water, sewage and trash pickup, will see the same services costing $68.80 or nearly doubling," he said.

Councilman Neil Giuliano said residents are already facing a substantial increase and should not be assessed an additional charge for a recycling program.

"When you look at the big picture you have to do this," he said. "I just hope the message gets out that we are doing this because it is the right thing."

He said the city should seek out experts to help find a way to develop the recycling project.

"I think we have to also remind ourselves

Faculty club opening prompts mixed sentiments

By SHANNON LOUGHRIN
State Press

The opening of University Club last week prompted a flood of praise — and criticism — of the lavish faculty lounge.

"I like it fine," said club member Sue Schaffer, a retired comparative education professor. "It is a very nice place for the faculty to sit down with each other and talk. It's a place of sociability."

The University Club opened after a number of delays and a rash of opposition posed by former Associated Students of ASU presidents and Arizona Board of Regents members.

ASASU President Greg Mechem has also expressed disapproval of the club.

Officials were hoping the opening would bring in more memberships to reach the 600 mark, but according to Jill DeMichele, membership committee chair of University Club, there has been no substantial increase yet.

"It will take a few more weeks, I think," she said. "I know a lot of people are coming in. But so far, membership has remained pretty much the same."

DeMichele added that she expects membership to increase after April 30, when prospective members who have paid only part of their membership fee must decide whether to join or not.

"So far, there are about 120 people who have paid some of the money and deferred the rest to see if they really wanted to join or not," she said. "After April, we'll expect the numbers of members to increase."

Lex Akers, president of the club's board of directors, said he witnessed a growth in membership when one of his guests decided to join during his visit.

"I don't have exact figures yet, but that's an anecdote I have," he said. "That wound up to be the most expensive meal he's probably ever had."

So far, most of the club's business has come from the noon lunch hour, although the club also serves breakfast and dinner.

"I think that's because of our culture," Akers said. "People usually stay home and don't go out for dinner."

He added that not as many members as he expected have been using the club as a lounge.

"We have a lot of people coming to eat, but not so many to sit and talk here," he said. "Once they find out we have the Wall Street Journal, we have the ASU paper, they might be coming here more to just relax," he said.

Schaffer said she had been to the club three times already, once for lunch for her husband's birthday, once for dinner with out-of-town guests and once for a meeting.

"Most universities do have something like this," she said. Jana Brown, systems analyst and University Club charter

ASU dance class gives edge on cutting a rug

By JACKIE RUTYNA
State Press

What couple has not dreamed of tripping the light fantastic as elegantly as Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers?

Clumsy students clad in T-shirts and tennis shoes turn their dreams into realities through weekly practice with ASU's Ballroom Dancing Club.

"When you do ballroom dancing, you are holding a woman and the music is playing and it's an expression of art," said Kenyon Robertson, an intercultural communication major who has been ballroom dancing since his first semester at ASU three years ago.

"It's sort of like safe sex," Robertson said, adding that he loves the music of the '30s and '40s.

Robertson said the club usually meets every Sunday to learn new steps.

Twice a month members meet to go out to clubs like the Orange Tree, the Royal Palm, or the Phoenician to dance to ballroom music.

"We like to go to the Latin clubs, too," Robertson said. "We can do the cha-cha, the meranga, the somba, and the mambo."

The club was organized last semester by Lyman Goodrich, a graduate student majoring in fine arts, who also teaches ballroom dancing classes at ASU.

"The major reason I am interested in offering a club and classes is because of the real shady nature of ballroom dance institutions outside," Goodrich said. "The Fred Astaires and Arthur Murrays are incredibly high-priced and not as interested in instruction as they are in your money."

Goodrich said students do not need to have any ballroom dancing experience to join the club.

"We are a social dancing ballroom club," Goodrich said. "It's open to anyone who wants to come and take a lesson and get a taste of ballroom dancing."

Goodrich said ballroom dancing is gaining popularity and there is a drive to make it an Olympic sport.

"Ballroom dancing is timeless," Goodrich said. However, he made it clear that it takes practice to become a good dancer.

"A lot of times people want to be involved in ballroom dancing, but they want to take the first lesson and be Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire," Goodrich said.

Doti Giacalone, a junior travel and tourism major, said she enjoys the club because it allows her to learn more steps and practice them in public.

"It's really nice when we go out to clubs, and older couples come up to us and tell us it's really wonderful to see younger people doing ballroom dancing," Giacalone said.

"Usually, we are the only ones there under the age of 50."

The members agreed that most students start out thinking they have two left feet, but after a few lessons, they realize that it is not as difficult as it looks.

"It's a blast, even if you don't know how to dance," Giacalone said. "A lot of people have a hard time at first, but you just laugh at your mistakes."

Goodrich spends three mornings every week teaching aspiring ballroom dancers the intricacies of waltzes and the quick steps of the fox trot.

He mingles among the couples chanting, "Quick, quick, slow, quick, quick, slow."

Goodrich said that once students pick up on the basic steps, learning other dances is not that difficult.

"Anyone in the world can do this, it's not that difficult," Goodrich said. "Everything old is new again."

Abortion-rights activists march in D. C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated half million abortion-rights demonstrators marched on the nation's capital Sunday to show political muscle that they hoped would sway politicians and a conservative Supreme Court.

"The more we learned about the law at Harvard, the more we realize how fragile these rights are," said Julie Doyle, a Harvard Law School student.

"We're going to turn out of office people who don't support us," Patricia Ireland, president of the National Organization for Women, said at a morning rally.

It was the first abortions rights march on the capital in three years, and Ireland called it "the largest ever of any kind in this nation's capital."

U.S. Park Police estimated the size of the crowd at 500,000.

As it does with all major demonstrations on the Mall, park police photographed the crowd from a helicopter and then superimposed a grid over the composite photo to estimate the crowd. The estimate is made under a formula derived from calculating the number of people who would normally fit into a certain number of square feet.

NOW had said it expected between 300,000 and 700,000 people to take part.

"We do count and there are an awful lot of us and they should watch out," said Isabel Glass of New York.

Democratic presidential candidate Jerry Brown sat quietly for about an hour, but left without speaking to the main crowd. He did stand on a folding chair on the back of the main stage to address a small crowd with a bullhorn.

A NOW spokeswoman, who refused to be identified by name, said the group decided not to allow any presidential candidate to speak.

Bill Clinton, who like Brown took time out from campaigning for the New York Democratic primary to attend the assembly, marched in the rally surrounded by supporters who chanted, "pro-choice, pro-Clinton."

Both sides in the abortion issue see this year as a possible turning point for legalized abortion in America. The Supreme Court is scheduled to hear arguments April 22 on a Pennsylvania case that imposes restrictions on abortions.

People on both sides of the issue believe the court will use that case to undermine or even overturn Roe vs. Wade, the 1973 decision that made abortion legal.

As the march began, skies were clear, temperatures were brisk and strong winds swept Washington, which also was marking the start of its annual cherry blossom festivities.

Participants in Sunday's abortion-rights rally and march in Washington wear masks and signs depicting them as "breeding units." The National Organization for Women expects several hundred thousand to march to show political muscle they hope will sway Congress and a conservative Supreme Court.

Many of the marchers were clad in white and were from out of town, having spent the night or at least the early hours of the morning crammed into buses for the trip to Washington.

As they passed the White House, some demonstrators hurled onto the lawn tennis balls bearing the message "Are you ready to be a mother?" Uniformed Secret Service officers stood inside the iron fence impassively watching the bright green balls arc through the air.

President Bush, who has made telephone speeches to anti-abortion rallies, was at the presidential retreat in Camp David, Md.

Anti-abortion demonstrators planned a peaceful rally at the West Front of the Capitol, just a couple of blocks from where the afternoon pro-choice event was being staged.

Iranian planes bomb rebel base

First air attack by Iran since 1988 cease-fire that ended war

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iranian warplanes bombed an Iranian rebel base near Baghdad on Sunday, the first air strike by Iran on Iraqi territory since a 1988 cease-fire halted their eight-year war.

Iraq claimed its forces shot down one of eight Iranian fighter-bombers and captured the two-man crew. State-run Baghdad radio, monitored in Cyprus, called the raid an act of "blatant and unjustified aggression" and warned Iran of "grave consequences."

Rebel supporters in Europe responded by attacking Iranian embassies in at least six countries.

The air raid marked a sharp deterioration in relations between Iran and Iraq, which have not signed a peace treaty to formally end their 1980-88 war and have been waging increasingly strident propaganda campaigns against each other.

Tehran said the air strike was in retaliation for a raid by guerrillas of Mujahedeen Khalq, or People's Holy Warriors, on two villages in western Iran on Saturday. It also blamed the Mujahedeen for recent attacks on Iranian diplomats in Baghdad.

Demonstrators scuffle with police outside the Iranian embassy, in The Hague, Sunday. The demonstrators attacked the embassy in revenge for Sunday's Iranian attack on a rebel base near Baghdad, Iraq.

But the raid may have been an attempt by Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani to shore up support five days before parliamentary elections, in which he is trying to crush opponents of moves to improve relations with the West.

The air attack was the most serious clash since March 1991, when units of Iran's Revolutionary Guards crossed the border during Kurdish and Shiite Muslim rebellions and clashed with Iraqi troops and their allies.

Mujahedeen Khalq, the largest exiled Iranian opposition force, said one of its fighters was killed and several others wounded when its base near Khalis, 30 miles inside Iraq and 40 miles from Baghdad, was showered with cluster bombs on Sunday morning. It denied attacking the Iranian villages.

Ali Reza Jafarazadeh, a Mujahedeen spokesman in Baghdad, said: "The real reason for today's attack was the tremendous political crisis facing the Tehran regime inside Iran over the parliamentary elections." He spoke by telephone with The Associated Press in Nicosia.

Iraq said eight U.S.-built F-4 Phantom jets "heavily pounded" the Iranian base and that Iraqi troops shot down one warplane and captured the two crewmen.

The rebels said 12 F-4s attacked in five waves and claimed they shot down the jet.

The official Iraqi News Agency said President Saddam Hussein met with his military commanders after the attack. It did not give details of the discussions.

Baghdad Radio said Iraq's Foreign Ministry sent a letter of protest to U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali. His predecessor, Javier Perez de Cuellar, angered the Iraqis last year by blaming Iraq for the Iran-Iraq war.

Mujahedeen Khalq issued a statement in France saying its leader, Massoud Radjavi, sent a telegram to Boutros-Ghali asking that the U.N. Security Council condemn the attack and embargo oil and arms trade with Iran.

In Europe, dozens of Mujahedeen supporters hurled firebombs, bricks and rocks at Iranian diplomatic offices in Germany, Sweden, Britain, France, the Netherlands and Switzerland. Two buildings at the embassy in Sweden were badly burned and a consulate in Hamburg, Germany, also suffered fire damage.

The Iranians are believed to have about 20 American-made F-4s in working condition. The rest have been grounded because of a lack of spare parts, which the United States cut off after Iran's Islamic revolution in 1979.

The mujahedeen initially identified the downed Iranians as two sergeants, but the Iraqis said the pair had tried to "disguise their true ranks."

The official Iraqi News Agency identified them as Col. Qassem Mohammad Amini, the pilot, and Air 1st Lt. Arsalan Sharifi, the navigator and weapons officer, both from the Hamedan air base in western Iran. Neither Baghdad Radio nor the mujahedeen said whether they were injured.

Wal-Mart king dies at age 74

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sam Walton, the feisty business pioneer who never lost touch with his Arkansas roots as he built Wal-Mart into the nation's largest retail chain, died Sunday. He was 74.

He underwent treatment for leukemia in the early 1980s and was diagnosed with bone cancer in 1990. He was hospitalized for treatment of the disease when he died.

Walton was a shrewd businessman who used high-tech management and lots of cheerleading to sell employees on a philosophy of efficiency and service to the customer.

That philosophy enabled Wal-Mart, which began with a single store in Rogers, Ark., in 1962, to ring up $43.89 billion in 1991 sales and dethrone Sears, Roebuck and Co. as the nation's largest retailer early in 1991.

It also made Samuel Moore Walton one of the richest people in the United States. In October 1991, Forbes magazine placed him and his four children as Nos. 3 to 7 on its list of the wealthiest Americans, with a net worth of $4.4 billion each.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, a Democratic presidential candidate, called Walton a charitable man.

"Hillary and I treasured Sam Walton's friendship and we will miss him very much," Clinton said. "He was . . . one of the greatest citizens in the history of the state of Arkansas."

Walton died about 8 a.m. at the University of Arkansas Medical Sciences Hospital, where he had been more than a week, Wal-Mart officials said.

Born March 29, 1918, in Kingfisher, Okla., he attended the University of Missouri, receiving a bachelor's degree in economics in 1940. He went to work as a management trainee at J.C. Penney Co., then served in the Army from 1942 to 1945.

Walton opened the first Wal-Mart Discount City store in 1962. By 1969, there were 18 stores, but the company began growing explosively in the 1980s, sometimes adding hundreds of new stores a year, most of them in small towns in the South and Midwest.

As of March 31, 1992, there were 1,735 Wal-Marts and 212 Sam's Wholesale Club warehouse stores.

Recycling trashed!

As negotiations between the city of Tempe and Waste Management break down, it looks as though the Tempe officials' environmental rhetoric can be shoveled into the landfill of worthless political promises.

Local officials have been working on a city-wide recycling program with Waste Management to collect recyclable materials from Tempe residents with their regular trash collection.

With a draft of a contract in hand, city officials have junked the program after discovering its cost: $1.42 per month.

Over the past few months, Tempe residents have been hearing how beneficial such a recycling program would be for the environment. Residents have been warned of overcrowding at the landfills and the needless waste of potentially recyclable resources.

Is $1.42 per month too great a cost for Tempe citizens to bear in order to avoid environmental decay?

The elected and bureaucratic leaders apparently think so.

Whether the environment is truly in decay or whether it is the city's duty to fix such decay are debatable questions. But these questions are not the factors holding Tempe leadership back.

The only thing standing in the way of the city-wide recycling program is the unwillingness of elected officials to tack $1.42 onto citizen's utility bills.

As Tempe Mayor Harry Mitchell eases into his eighth term, citizens need to ask whether they should support leaders who are unwilling to put the city's money where their mouths are.

Clinton struggles with public's right to know

"Governor, I have another question about your admitted use of marijuana in the past."

"I thought we had put that behind us. As I explained, I tried it once many years ago. Took two puffs, didn't inhale, didn't like it and haven't tried it since."

"Yes, Governor, but there are still some points that should be cleared up to satisfy the public's right to know what the New York media believe they have a right to know."

"Such as?"
 "Do you know if the marijuana was Maui Wowie?"
 "I have no idea where it came from."
 "So you cannot deny it was Maui Wowie?"
 "No, but I can't confirm it, either."
 "In other words, it could have been Maui Wowie."
 "I suppose so. It could also have been oregano, for all I know."

"Are you now changing your position and claiming that you did not smoke marijuana, but only oregano?"

"No, I don't know if it was oregano."
 "Could it have been Acapulco Gold?"
 "As I said, I don't know."
 "Then you aren't ruling that out?"
 "I am not ruling it out or in."

"Governor, were there any seeds in the reefer you claim to have taken only two puffs from?"
 "I have no idea."
 "Well, when you took the two puffs, did you hear any snap, crackle or popping noise that would indicate the presence of seeds?"

"I have not heard any snap, crackle or popping noises since I consumed Rice Krispies."

"You say you consumed Rice Krispies? Was this as a result of having the munchies at the gathering where you smoked marijuana?"

"No, I had Rice Krispies as a child."
 "How old were you when you had Rice Krispies?"
 "About 7 or 8. Maybe 9."
 "Can you be more specific than that?"
 "No, I can't."

"Then, Governor, don't you think it is inconsistent that you can remember taking only two puffs of marijuana, but you can't remember how old you were when you ate Rice Krispies?"

"Well, I ..."
 "Governor, has your wife's law firm ever represented the Rice Krispies company?"

"To the best of my knowledge, no."
 "But if the law firm had represented them, Governor,

MIKE ROYKO
Tribune Media Services

would not your having eaten Rice Krispies be considered a conflict of interest?"

"No, because I ate the Rice Krispies before I met my wife."

"Governor, to get back to your claim that you took only two puffs of marijuana on that one occasion in England. After taking these two puffs, do you recall using the phrase, 'Oh, wow, groovy, man?'"

"No, I don't remember saying, 'Oh, wow, groovy, man.'"

"You say you don't remember. Does that mean you could have said, 'Oh, wow, groovy, man?'"

"No, I definitely did not say that. It is not the kind of phrase I would use."

"Then you deny it?"

"Absolutely."

"What about the word 'wow?'"

"What about it?"

"Could you have used the word 'wow,' without the 'groovy, man?'"

"You mean, just plain 'wow?'"

"That's right, Governor."

"Well, I suppose there have been times when I have used the word 'wow.'"

"Then can you say for certain that you did not use the word 'wow' the evening you say you took only two puffs from a marijuana cigarette and did not inhale them?"

"I don't remember using the word 'wow,' but, no, I can't flatly say I did not use it."

"So it is possible that you did say 'wow' that evening."

"I suppose it is possible. I might have also said 'golly.' I use 'golly' more than I use 'wow.'"

"But if you did say 'wow,' Governor, could it have been while you were staring blankly at a flickering candle in a darkened room, marveling at the strange and wondrous color formations?"

"No, I did not stare blankly at any flickering candles."

"How about light bulbs?"

"No, I did not stare at any light bulbs, either."

"Governor, do you recall giggling that evening?"

"I am not inclined to giggle."

"Are you saying you never giggle? Is that what you are telling the New York press, Governor, that you never giggle?"

"I didn't say I never giggle. But I am more likely to grin."

"Then is it possible that after taking those two puffs, which you now claim were the only puffs you ever took, you might have grinned foolishly? While at the same time saying 'wow?'"

"If I grinned, somebody might have thought it to be a foolish grin, but that foolishness would be in the eyes of the beholder."

"So you don't deny the possibility that you grinned foolishly while saying 'wow?'"

"I can't deny it because, as I told you, I don't remember."

"Then Governor, explain this. If you took only two puffs from that reefer, and did not inhale them, how is it possible that those two puffs could have made you grin foolishly and say 'wow,' which you do not deny it is possible that you said?"

"Wow, that is some question."
 "Governor, you just said 'wow.'"
 "Yes, I guess I did."

"Yet, Governor, a few moments ago, you said you seldom said 'wow,' that you were more likely to say, 'golly.' Have you changed your position on that?"

"Golly, no."
 "Now you have said, 'golly,' Governor. Isn't that an indication that you are opportunistic?"

"Gosh, I don't think so."
 "You've changed positions, again, Governor. What does that say about your electability?"

"I don't think it says anything."
 "Then explain this, Governor: Why did you prefer Rice Krispies to Wheaties?"

"I liked them both."
 "Sorry, we're out of tape."

Police Report

ASU police reported the following incidents over the weekend:

- Several items of drug paraphernalia, marijuana and a stolen sign were seized from a room on the ninth floor of Manzanita Hall. No arrests were made.
- A man not affiliated with the University was contacted for urinating on the south side of the east practice fields. A man who was with him, also not affiliated with ASU, was arrested after a check showed an outstanding warrant with the Maricopa County Sheriff's Office for failure to appear.
- A hub cap, valued at $26, was stolen from a student's car parked in Lot 59.
- A Pioneer receiver, valued at $430, was stolen from the Psychology Building.
- The fire alarm on the eighth floor of Cholla Hall was set off because of burnt food.

• Two men not affiliated with the University were told to leave Sun Devil Stadium after they were seen rappelling off the north stairs of the skyboxes.

Tempe police reported the following incidents over the weekend:

- An officer, responding to a burglary-in-progress call, noticed a blue Chevrolet S-10 pickup with a camper shell travelling southbound on College Avenue. A pursuit ensued, which ended when the two men fled the truck on foot, leaving it in drive. The truck rolled into the canal east of Guadalupe. The driver was arrested after a short foot pursuit. A check showed the vehicle was stolen from Casa Grande on April 1.
- Two Tempe residents, a 17-year-old boy and a 16-year-old boy, were arrested in connection with an attempted motor vehicle theft. The driver's side window of a 1988 Chevrolet pickup, parked at 5100 S. McClintock Drive, was shattered and the steering column was cracked open. Witnesses saw three additional suspects, around the same age of those arrested, in the area of the truck.

• A jar containing 100 $1 bills was stolen from After the Gold Rush, 1216 E. Apache Blvd. The jar contained tips for a 25-year-old bartender, who said that prior to the theft, four men were talking to her and trying to distract her. They could not be located after the theft.

• Two men in a 1982 Toyota Tercel were struck by a "club" thrown through the rear passenger window of the car while in the area of Baseline Road and Lakeshore Drive. One man was hit in the chest and mouth and another passenger was struck in the right arm by the auto theft prevention device. The object was thrown from a car that fled southbound on Lakeshore Drive. Both the suspects and the victims were leaving a party held in a nearby neighborhood.

• Three men entered the Hi-Health at 3222 S. Mill Ave., and as one of them distracted the clerk by asking about products, the other two stole items and ran out. Stolen were two bottles of X-Rated Body Building Diet Supplement, valued at $49.90 each, and a bottle of Phase One Weight Gaining Supplement and Anabolic Blend, valued at $79.95. Two suspects are Hispanic men, about 5-foot-10. The other suspect is a black man, about 6 feet tall. All are about 17 or 18 years old, wearing jeans and T-shirts and described as thin.

Parole board turns down last-minute reprieve

FLORENCE (AP) — The state parole board on Sunday night unanimously rejected an appeal for clemency for triple murderer Donald Eugene Harding, clearing the way for his execution in the gas chamber early Monday.

The execution — Arizona's first in 29 years, was scheduled for 12:05 a.m. MST Monday.

The board's options were to grant a reprieve to allow further argument in court or to recommend that Gov. Fife Symington commute Harding's sentences to life in prison.

Symington can't act to block the execution without a recommendation from the board.

Defense attorney James Belanger declined to comment immediately after the ruling.

"We will have something to say later this evening," Belanger said.

The prosecutor, Jack Roberts, said he expected a new appeal.

"I'm sure they'll be filing a further challenge. I don't know what it will be," said Roberts, a deputy state attorney general.

Harding, 43, was sentenced to die for 1980 murders of two businessmen. His third murder conviction is on appeal.

Nationally, 167 have been executed since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976. Arizona's last execution was in 1963 when Manuel Silvas died in the gas chamber for fatally shooting his estranged pregnant girlfriend.

Defense attorneys argued in an all-day hearing before the state Board of Pardons and Paroles that brain damage he suffered at birth prevents Harding from being able to restrain violent impulses.

Similar arguments were made in an appeal that was rejected Saturday by the U.S. Supreme Court. But defense attorneys argued that information presented to the board Sunday, including testimony by neurological and psychiatric experts, hadn't been heard previously by a court.

The defense said Harding was put in reform school and other environments whose "sterility and hostility" rivaled his incarceration in the Arizona State Prison here.

The pardons board originally scheduled the clemency hearing for Friday, but postponed it until Sunday at the request of Harding's lawyers because a three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued an indefinite stay Thursday night.

The board went ahead with Sunday's hearing after the Supreme Court on Saturday lifted the stay.

The governor has said he supports capital punishment. On Saturday, he said he was "open to any last-minute information" but that he didn't think the board would make a recommendation to him.

"Harding fits the description of the type of person that should be given the death penalty," Attorney General Grant Woods said Saturday after the Supreme Court acted. Woods, as attorney general, was to witness the execution.

With videotaped recorded testimony and brain diagrams, defense attorney Hal Sheets told the board Sunday that Harding suffered irreparable brain damage when he was born in rural Arkansas with his umbilical cord wrapped around his neck.

Lack of oxygen suffered by Harding's brain left him partially devoid of "those higher things that make us human" and victim to uncontrollable impulses, Sheets said.

Defense attorney Belanger read aloud letters from schoolchildren in New York state and Harding's replies that he typically signed "hugs and kisses, with love from Don." Many of the letters by Harding and the children were adorned by drawings of animals.

Testimony began with a plea from Harding's older brother, Darryl, that the board "have mercy in your hearts." He urged the board to recommend that his brother's death sentences be commuted.

ASU leadership conference seeks to 'insure tomorrow'

By CAROL ANN HANSEN
State Press

ABC Senior News Correspondent Bettina Gregory will be the keynote speaker at the fourth annual Insuring Tomorrow National Leadership Conference to be held at Tempe Mission Palms Saturday.

The two-day event, organized by the Associated Students of ASU, will focus on education, the economy, the environment, multicultural issues and current world and national events.

Beatrice Navarette, the director of Insuring Tomorrow, said the purpose of the conference is to provide an "issues and ideas" forum for students from universities from across the country.

Along with Gregory, experts from ASU will address about 100 students on issues affecting the future.

"Insuring Tomorrow is not just another student leadership program," Navarette said, adding that the conference is based on the challenges that will face the future leaders of the country.

Insuring Tomorrow was founded in 1983 by Tempe City Councilman Neil Giuliano during his term as president of ASASU.

Giuliano

The conference originally served ASU students but expanded in 1989 to include 24 other universities.

Giuliano said Insuring Tomorrow provides a valuable experience that is "outside the norm" for college students.

"It's not a traditional leadership conference," he said. "It's an opportunity for students to sit down with other students and talk about some serious issues which they are going to have to face when they graduate."

Giuliano said the conference is also a leadership enrichment program, "because anytime you are interacting with people, learning from other people and have the opportunity to meet experts in the field, your own knowledge base is going to expand."

Robert Balling, director of the ASU Office of Climatology, is scheduled to speak to students about global warming.

Balling said he plans to present his skeptical view on the global warming scare in an "effervescent speech that will light up eyes."

Navarette said the conference is open to all students interested in attending.

"It's targeted towards student leaders because they are an easier target for us, but any student who is interested can attend," she said.

The cost for students to attend the conference is $25.

New! The Dragon's Den Adventure Pack

Bailiff Wortley shows a map to you and explains, "Here's the lair of the wretched green dragon." He hands you two more maps and says, "And here's the lair of three black dragons — fortunately two are only hatchlings. The third map shows where we think a red dragon is hiding."

You ask, "What's in it for us?"
He says, "3,000 gold pieces for each dragon you kill. But whatever treasure you find is yours." Then he leans on the table toward you. "And dragons have lots of treasure..."

The Dragon's Den Adventure Pack is filled with three entry-level adventures for the new DUNGEONS & DRAGONS® game, each tougher than the last. The pack contains three poster-size maps and adventure booklets, six dozen stand-up monsters and characters, and loads of cardboard tiles for your dungeon. As an added bonus, there's also a mini board-game to play when you don't have time for an entire adventure.

Find this new Dragon's Den Adventure Pack and the new DUNGEONS & DRAGONS game on sale at game, hobby, and book stores everywhere.

ASU festival to feature all Latin cultures

By IRMA ROSALES
State Press

La Semana Cultural, an 18-year-old ASU tradition honoring Hispanic and Chicano culture, will expand its celebration this year to include all Latin cultures, from the Caribbean to Africa.

The week-long celebration, scheduled to commence today and extend through Friday, will include mariachis, Chicano rappers, flamenco dancers, a Chicano literature speaker, a low-rider car show, and an educational symposium featuring graduate students.

"The theme was used as a way of uniting our indigenous people to help unite our own culture, and to express our diversity in the hemisphere," said Rafael Anderson, vice president of Cultural Affairs for M.E.Ch.A.

The event, sponsored by M.E.Ch.A. and funded by the Cultural Diversity Committee, will be held from 11 a.m. until

Ortiz

1:30 p.m. daily on West Lawn.

M.E.Ch.A. will use the North American Quincentennial, 1492-1992, as its theme, an event that will officially be celebrated in October.

"It's good to see that all the Hispanic organizations are working together to put on a unified event, because this event builds pride among all students and educates them at the same time," said Andy Ortiz, former M.E.Ch.A. vice president of Community Affairs.

The concept is that one culture will be emphasized each day by a different Hispanic organization.

"I welcome the idea, because it educates the minority and non-minority students and the ASU community as a whole on the Latin culture," said Student Regent Abedon Fimbres.

"It's through this type of education that we can better understand and respect the cultures in our diverse society."

In addition, the Hispanic radio station KVVA will broadcast live from West Lawn today and Tuesday.

According to Snerly Santos, associate professor of multicultural education and coordinator of student assistance programs for the Graduate College, the program offers a look at both historical events and future goals.

"We want to focus in on the past, what we've learned from history, where we are in the present, and where we could possibly go," she said.

Santos has helped with the Chicano/Latino Law Students Association in coordinating the program.

"I thought we could have this new vision for humanity coming from the students," she added.

The cultures that will be featured include South American Latinos, Hispano Americans, la cultura Mestiza, and la cultura Indigena.

The organizations participating include the Hispanic Graduate Students Alliance, the Hispanic Business Student Association, M.E.Ch.A., the Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers, and the Chicano/Latino Law Students Association.

(Symington's) mind about the legality of his actions." The "constitutional crisis" began March 29 when the governor used the line-item veto on two bills that transferred funds from state-agency budgets into the state's general fund in order to balance the fiscal year 1992 budget. The Democrats contend that the bills transferred funds as opposed to appropriating funds. The state Constitution allows the line-item veto only in the case of bills that appropriate money.

Cole said the governor looks at the budget-balancing bills as appropriating money from agencies to the general fund, thus the vetos are legal.

Meanwhile, Senate Democrats voted Friday to recommend that Rios file the court action against the governor in an attempt to overturn last week's line-item veto.

Rios, who was attending a Mexico-United States border governor's conference Friday with Symington, said he will be meeting today with attorney Janet Napolitano of the Phoenix-based law firm Lewis & Roca, who the Senate Democrats have hired to advise them on Arizona constitutional law.

Rios said one of his staff talked to the attorney general's office and was told that the governor may not have heard all the advice that office gave him.

"Apparently the (attorney general) told (Symington) that it was questionable," Rios said.

member since 1987, had been too busy to attend the club since the opening and said she was unsure what to expect from it.

"I guess I'm looking forward to it," she said. "I'm not quite sure what to expect."

She added that although the $12 monthly dues are reasonable, she views the $325 membership fee as "financially disheartening."

"In a sense, I don't regret it," she said. "I think it's a good idea now that I'm done paying the membership fee."

A meeting between the officials and caterers of University Club will take place "sometime this week" to get additional details on how to improve the club's menu and other aspects of its operation.

"I think things have turned out wonderfully," he said. "As with any new venture, you're going to have your share of ups and downs. I have been there on a number of occasions this week and the service has been excellent, the food impressive, and the ambience has been amazing."

Group backing measure for police control opens headquarters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mayor, civil rights activists and others gathered to rally support for a measure on the June ballot that would place the Police Department under tighter civilian control.

City Charter Amendment F was prompted by the beating last year of black motorist Rodney King by four white police officers.

The beating was videotaped by a resident and its broadcast focused national attention on police brutality and heightened racial tensions in Los Angeles. The four officers are on trial on assault charges.

"I believe in this reform deeply," said Warren Christopher, who chaired a panel that investigated the Police Department after the beating. "This will help move the Los Angeles Police Department into the 21st century."

Christopher and Mayor Tom Bradley were on hand Saturday for the opening of a campaign headquarters for supporters of the measure.

Bradley said the amendment is "absolutely necessary for this city."

The amendment would limit the number of years the city's police chief could hold office and would take away the job's civil service protection, making it easier for city officials to fire a chief.

It also would require that a civilian be involved in all police disciplinary hearings and that the city Police Commission have a civilian chief of staff.

Opponents, including Police Chief Daryl Gates, say the measure would politicize the department and open it up to corruption.

and the residents that we are committed to household recycling," he said.

Councilwoman Pat Hatton said that until the city can develop feasible recycling plans, it should continue to promote the existing pilot recycling program.

"I hope we continue in the interim period to use the drop off point," she said. "We have to find a way to make it work."

The city has a pilot curb-side recycling program in the Lakes area and north Tempe, and has 15 recycling drop-off bins in selected neighborhoods.

Mayor Harry Mitchell said the time when cities could simply take their refuse to the nearest landfill is over.

"All those kinds of conditions are changing," he said. "Those days of cheap, easy sources are all gone. It's going to be expensive."

● OSLO, Norway (AP) — Smart crooks stayed home this weekend.

Thousands of frustrated police and sheriff's officers spent their off-duty hours busting criminals for free, hoping their nationwide volunteer effort will shame lawmakers into spending more on law enforcement.

Police complain that state funding has not kept pace with the Norwegian crime rate, especially in cities.

Since they are not allowed to strike, they protested by working for free.

The 3,000 off-duty officers more than doubled the number of police on duty this weekend, he said. Norway has around 6,700 law enforcement officers.

"We want increased resources for the police and we are tired of broken promises by politicians," said Terje Odegard, chairman of the national police association. "We want to show what extra police work can do to the crime rate."

"We agree with people who say that we don't do a good enough job," he said.

Last year, police had to tell 170,000 people that their cases were closed as unsolved, he said. About 86 percent of those cases were thefts.

"Thieves just laugh at the idea of being caught," he said.

This weekend, the cops wanted the last laugh. The women and men in blue were everywhere, and Odegard said it seemed to deter violent crime, vandalism and theft.

In Oslo, the capital city of 480,000 people, 400 extra officers turned out, including the entire mounted police corps of 13 horses and riders. They paraded down the main street Friday before splitting into patrols.

"It's okay that there are so many police around, just so they do their job and prevent trouble," said Snorre Kleppan, a teenager out with friends in downtown Oslo.

Volunteers from Kripas — a national police team that usually has time only to respond to major crimes — spent the weekend investigating less-serious incidents in Oslo. They solved several break-ins which might otherwise have been ignored, new reports said.

Odegard said the police and sheriff's officers want stiffer sentences, a 20 percent increase in the nation's $570 million law-enforcement budget, 500 additional police jobs, new equipment and more training.

The government's 1992 law-enforcement budget is 7.3 percent higher than for 1991. But Odegard says the increase is not enough.

"But the crime rate is higher than necessary in such a small, open society," Odegard said.

Sun Angel doesn't disappoint

By BRIAN CHARLES
State Press

An incredible field of track and field talent descended on Tempe this past weekend to compete in the 13th annual Sun Angel Track Classic, and the 4,200 spectators weren't disappointed, as they saw one of the best Track Classics in recent years.

Despite the incredible amount of collegiate talent and Olympians on hand, the ASU team performed very well, getting a confidence builder for the NCAAs and, for some, the U. S. Olympic Trials.

Highlighting the meet once again was senior Tracy Mattes, whose domination in the 400m hurdles is becoming old hat. Not only did Mattes break her own record she set just last week in that event, she ran the fastest time in the nation this year, 56.54.

"I'm really happy that I am running this well this early in the season," Mattes said. "I'm very pleased with my performance."

Also showing a dominating performance was senior Shane Collins, who outthrew his competitors by three feet in the shotput, winning that event with a throw of 65-9. Despite a recent injury, it looks as if Collins' 1990 NCAA championship form has returned.

Also taking top honors on the day was sophomore pole vaulter Nick Hysong, who beat a very impressive field of collegiate athletes and club athletes with an effort of 17-8. Although that wasn't Hysong's best vault of the year, he too looks ready for the NCAAs. Teammates Mark Knight and Jeff Girard tied for fourth.

ASU was well represented in the long jump, as seniors Tesra Bester, LaShawn Simmons, and Lisa Hale all competed for ASU. Despite a very impressive field, the ASU athletes went third, fourth, and 12th respectively, with Bester going 21-1/4 to break her personal best.

"I'm very excited that I PR'd (personal record) this early," the ecstatic senior said. "I have been injured lately

Devils rally late to pull off split against Bears

Softball nails Granger in 10th

By MICHAEL FLORES
State Press

Things looked grim for the ASU softball team heading into the bottom of the tenth inning of its game against the University of California at Sun Devil Club Stadium Sunday.

The third-ranked Golden Bears (28-8) had scored in the top of the tenth to go up 1-0, and were only three outs away from a doubleheader sweep of the Sun Devils (21-17), who were still in search of their first conference victory of the season after five losses.

To make things worse, Cal pitching ace Michelle Granger, who had started and won the first game 4-0, was called in to preserve the lead for the Bears.

Granger, one of the top pitchers in the nation, had made quick work of the Sun Devils in the opener, allowing two hits and striking out eight batters to up her season record to 17-5.

In extra-inning softball games, a runner is placed on second to begin the inning. At second for ASU was freshman left fielder Shanen Kreipl.

ASU's first batter, Cheri Keller, reached first on a bunt, the throw going to third, but too late to beat Kreipl. That brought up first baseman Wendy Johnson with runners at the corners and nobody out.

It was Johnson's error in the top of the tenth which had allowed the go-ahead run to score for Cal.

Johnson made amends by promptly rapping a single into left field to score Kreipl with the tying run.

Two outs later, second baseman Dottie Conroy reached first on a throwing error by Cal first baseman Janeen LaGrace to bring home Keller with the game-winning run.

"That was a good win for us," ASU coach Linda Wells afterward. "I feel like this whole weekend the team responded real well."

ASU makes a Kurt-ain call

Ehmann's extra-inning triple gives Sun Devils Six-Pac lead

By DAN ZEIGER
State Press

The entire series had the kind of atmosphere coaches describe when conveying to their players what big-time college baseball is all about, so it was only fitting that the last play of the weekend was also the most exciting one.

And when Kurt Ehmann tripled to right field to score Germaine Mayberry with the winning run in ASU's 11-inning, 8-7 victory against UofA on Sunday at Packard Stadium, the Sun Devils went back into a big-time position — first place in the Six-Pac.

By taking two of the three contests in the series, ASU (24-12, 9-6 Six-Pac) moves into the league lead, a half-game in front of the Wildcats. UCLA is in third place, two games back of the Sun Devils.

"To beat UofA in a series like this is a good accomplishment for us," Ehmann said. "They're the best of anybody I've seen so far this season. I wouldn't be surprised if the league pennant goes down to the wire between the two of us."

UofA (21-13-1, 7-5) brought in Danny Baker, a reliever with a 9.00 ERA, to pitch in the bottom of the 11th inning. He retired outfielder Scott Samuels on a short fly ball, but then walked pinch hitter Brett Weinberger.

Mayberry then came in to pinch run, and Ehmann took the second offering and laced it beyond the reach of Wildcat right fielder John Tejcek. Mayberry crossed the plate standing up, and Ehmann was then dogpiled by his happy teammates.

Women's tennis falls short late against Wildcats

Geiger-Cioffi tandem lose in final tiebreaker

By BRIAN CHARLES
State Press

When the sixth-ranked ASU women's tennis team stole a 5-4 win from archrival UofA in late February, the ninth-ranked Wildcats were anything but pleased.

And with recent victories over both of the Los Angeles schools, the UofA team made it clear that when it rolled into Tempe, it was not going to let this one slip by.

It was a heated battle from the start, with hard fought points and constant intimidation by both sides throughout the match. But the UofA prevailed in the last game of the final set to steal a 5-4 win from the Sun Devils.

In their last meeting, the Sun Devils (13-5, 4-4 Pac-10) saw mediocre singles play and outstanding doubles play. It looked like this would be the case as the Wildcats took an early 4-2 lead in singles.

Coincidentally, this was the same score as in the previous meeting, and it seemed like ASU was experiencing a case of deja vu.

The key for UofA in singles were victories from its top three players, who all are ranked nationally.

Senior captain and 35th-ranked Krista Amend, still battling an injury, fell to 10th-ranked Danielle Scott 6-1, 6-1, while 47th-ranked freshman Kori Davidson lost a tough three set match to 41st-ranked Banni Redhair 3-6, 7-6, 6-2.

In addition, sophomore Meredith Geiger fell to 44th-ranked Alix Creek 7-6, 6-2, and senior left-hander Luann Klimchock, suffering from tendinitis in her arm, fell to Erica O'Neill 6-3, 6-4.

ASU's Pam Cioffi rifles a return during Sunday's 5-4 loss to UofA at Whiteman Tennis Center.

ASU-UofA

Just how he had planned it. Really. "It was a fastball, and I wanted to hit it to the right side," Ehmann said. "(UofA) had been pinching the (outfield) gaps the whole series, so I wanted to put it near the line. I hit it off the end of the bat, and it was just enough to get by the right fielder. It was just a matter of Germaine scoring."

All of the extra dramatics could have been easily avoided, but 11th-ranked ASU could not hold on to a 7-4 lead over the final three innings. Sun Devil pitcher Jeff Matranga, who had thrown in relief in a 7-6 ASU win on Friday, started on Sunday and was never in serious trouble until the seventh inning.

With two out and a man on first in the seventh, Wildcat center fielder Don Parker took a 1-0 pitch from Matranga and deposited it behind the left-field fence for a two-run homer to slice the Sun Devil margin to 7-6.

Matranga was replaced by Mike Fenton shortly afterward, leaving the game after pitching 6 2/3 innings and giving up six runs and nine hits while striking out six.

"I was very proud of the effort that Jeff gave us," ASU coach Jim Brock said. "I don't think there's any doubt that he would have been stronger had he not had to go for us the other night, so what he did do was encouraging."

Fenton got out of the seventh inning and also threw the eighth without incident, but then Moen led off the ninth by hitting a solo home run off of him to tie the game. But ASU then received a big boost when pitcher Doug Newstrom came in to relieve.

Newstrom, who started and threw 8 2/3 innings to earn the win on Friday, came in after the homer and shut the Wildcats down over the next three frames, allowing only one hit while fanning four to get his second victory of the weekend.

"I've pitched on Friday and Sunday before, so this wasn't that unusual for me," Newstrom said. "I only threw 97 pitches Friday night, and that isn't a lot for eight innings. So my arm feels fine — I was just physically tired (after the game)."

In fact, Newstrom — who was impressive in closing appearances late last season — was so effective during the weekend that Brock and pitching coach Dub Kilgo are re-examining his role on the Sun Devil staff.

Brock said that if he had to choose his starting rotation for the series at Stanford this weekend right now, he would throw Matranga on Friday and Sean Lowe on Saturday. If Newstrom isn't needed in relief during the first two games, he would start on Sunday.

"Coach Kilgo and I talked about that — the fact that even if we have a pretty big lead in the eighth inning, it's still a crap shoot," Brock said. "We thought we needed to take a look at finding who could pitch under the circumstances we had this weekend. Right now, the only one is Newstrom."

ASU scored four runs in the first inning on an RBI single by designated hitter Jim Henderson and another single from first baseman Todd Cady that brought in two more runs. UofA starting pitcher John Kishita also walked in a run.

The 16th-ranked Wildcats came back in the third inning with three runs, all of which were scored on a home run by second baseman Chris Gump. UofA added another run in the fourth on a RBI single by shortstop Jason Bates.

The Sun Devils scored two in the fifth inning, the first on a triple by Ehmann that scored outfielder Jacob Cruz from first base. Henderson then brought Ehmann home with a single to right field.

ASU scored again in the fifth when left fielder Scott Samuels doubled to left field to score second baseman Bill Dunn all the way from first.

"Of all of the series between the two teams that I've been involved in, this just might be the best one of them all," said Brock, who achieved the 1,000th victory of his career in ASU's win on Friday.

The Sun Devils return to action with an exhibition against the Phoenix Firebirds on Wednesday night at Scottsdale Stadium.

The lone singles winners for ASU were freshman Joelle Schad, who used key aces to defeat Jane Yates in straight sets 6-0, 6-2, and junior Dawn Martin, who moved past Lesley Barbour 6-4, 6-3.

With the duos of Amend-Schad and Klimchock-Davidson defeating their opponents rather quickly, that deja vu thing seemed to creep up on the Sun Devils again, as ASU again found itself in a similar situation.

Only this time, it was the 29th-ranked combination of Geiger and junior Pam Cioffi going up against the eighth-ranked tandem of Scott and Redhair in a three-hour match that proved to be one of the most exciting this season for the Sun Devils. It was the second time ASU had a match-deciding, three-hour game this season.

Cioffi and Geiger started out strong against their higher-ranked foes, with Cioffi putting down some tough winners and Geiger using a lethal backhand, but dropped the first set 7-5. ASU's tandem stormed back to take the second set 6-4, and that is where things really began to heat up. The players began to let one another know who they thought was better, and the fans in the stands also had a few things to say to each other.

With the score tied 1-1 in the third, ASU broke, and seemed to be riding on a wave of emotion that started with the second set win.

However, UofA showed no interest in letting down, taking the fourth game from ASU in a game that saw 11 deuces. After that, the Wildcat duo broke Cioffi when she double-faulted, and suddenly the momentum ASU had was nowhere to be found.

ASU was also getting some very unlucky breaks, as the ball just didn't want to land between the lines and kept falling for the Wildcats.

ASU managed to hold its composure, however, and forced a 6-5 tiebreak. But the Wildcats proved to be too strong, taking the game and the match 7-5, 4-6, 7-5.

"We played really hard," Geiger said. "The desire and intensity was there, but luck just wasn't in our favor. When we came back from 5-3, it made us want it really bad, but it just wasn't our lucky day."

"We can't expect to spot them a 4-2 lead and be able to win," Sun Devil coach Shelia McInerney said. "I knew we still had a chance, but it just didn't go our way."

The Sun Devils met up with unranked UNLV on Friday, defeating them easily 9-0, giving up only two sets all afternoon.

Tennis woes still continue for the now-unranked men's squad, as it dropped its third in a row to UofA on Saturday 6-3 in Tucson.

Freshman Eric Brunner continues to shine for the Sun Devils amidst an enormous amount of injuries, as he defeated Matt Holt in the No. 1 singles slot 6-4, 6-7, 6-2.

Senior Bryan Geiger, coming off a foot injury, was the only other Sun Devil to win in singles, as 68th-ranked senior captain Ross Matheson fell, along with junior Chris Gambino, senior Marc Rothchild, and freshman Peter Jeschke.

Despite a doubles win from Matheson and Jeschke, ASU was unable to mount a comeback, as the other two tandems fell to tough UofA competition.

The women's team will return to action at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, at Whiteman Tennis Center where it hosts 15th-ranked San Diego State, while the men's squad travels to the Bay area schools this weekend.

and have had the flu as well, but the light training seems to have worked."

The men were also represented in the long jump, with freshman Brian Ellis and sophomore Danny Simpson taking fifth and sixth respectively. Ellis has been suffering from a hamstring injury, but was still able to snatch fifth place.

ASU also saw double duty from freshman Dennis Black, who competed in both the shotput and the discus.

Black started off with an impressive fourth-place finish in the shotput amidst some sizeable competition, then stole ninth place in the discus.

Also turning in a good performance was underdog Jimmy Kegler, who had to face a sprinting field that was intimidating to say the least. Kegler took ninth in the 100m with a time of 10.6 seconds, and eighth in the 200m with a 21.4, edging out Olympian Larry Myricks.

ASU's high jumpers, junior Gabe Beechum and sophomore Shelly Choppa, were only two of the three collegians that competed in that event, and despite their competition experience, were able to post a good performance.

Beechum took third with a 7-2½ foot launch. Choppa had it tougher than Beechum, with defending Sun Angel Classic winner Jan Wohlschlag, former NCAA heptathlete champion and ASU star Gea Johnson and gold medal winner Jackie Joyner-Kersey all competing in her event.

Choppa looked a little nervous at first, but was able to put that past her and take seventh with a jump of 5-10, just missing the cut at six feet.

"I was definitely a little shaky when I was warming up," the sophomore said. "But once I was ready to compete, I wasn't as intimidated. Everyone seemed to be equal and that was able to relax me."

The distance crew also had a strong showing. Leading the way were sophomore Kim Toney and junior Sharnette Garcia, who took second and third, respectively, in the 800m dash.

In addition, senior Todd Lewis took fifth in the 3,000m steeplechase, freshman Jim McCreery took 11th in the 1,500m, and junior Kelly Cordell took fourth in the 3,000m behind world class distance runners Polly Plummer and Patti Sue Plummer.

Other Sun Devil action saw Charlie Cohen take ninth in the javelin, and Erin Scroggins take 11th in the 5,000m.

ASU won 6-0 and 4-1 to take two from New Mexico State on Saturday.

Wells saw more good things than usual to say about her team's effort over the weekend — most having to do with the players' failure to crack under pressure situations.

"It would have been easy to fall apart on a number of occasions," Wells said, "particularly the bases-loaded mess they got themselves into in the tenth."

Wells applauded the efforts of sophomore pitcher Mona Nard (7-4), who scattered five hits and yielded one unearned run over ten innings, and Johnson, who provided the heroics from the plate when it really counted.

"What a job she did," Wells said of Nard. "She threw a great game. Whenever she did get into trouble, she would just step back and refocus."

"And Johnson, for her to step up and spank out a single after she had made that error. That was just great."

The hard-hitting Bears certainly got their cuts against Nard, who admitted to being more than a little scared to face the nation's third-best team. Cal had jumped on ASU ace Terri Carnicelli for three quick runs in the first inning of the first game.

Carnicelli and Nard both pitched complete games against NMSU on Saturday and may have felt the effects.

Nard credited her teammates' defense with improving her performance.

"They saved my butt quite a few times," Nard said.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

WHY YOU SHOULD START PLANNING FOR RETIREMENT WITH YOUR EYES CLOSED.

For retirement to be the time of your life, you have to dream a little—about the things you've always wanted to do: travel, explore, start a business. Just imagine...

With a dream and a plan, you can make it happen. Your pension and Social Security should provide a good basic retirement income, but what about all those extras that make your dreams possible? You'll probably need some additional savings.

THE DREAM IS YOUR OWN. WE CAN HELP YOU WITH THE PLAN.

TIAA-CREF Supplemental Retirement Annuities (SRAs), tax-deferred annuities for people like you in education and research, are a good way to save for retirement and save on taxes now. SRAs are easy—you make contributions through your institution before your taxes are calculated, so you pay less tax now.

You pay no tax on your SRA contributions and earnings until you receive them as income. And saving regularly means your contributions and their earnings can add up quickly. What else makes SRAs so special? A broad range of allocation choices, from the safety of TIAA to the investment accounts of CREF's variable annuity; no sales charges; a variety of ways to receive income, including annuities, payments over a fixed period, or cash. You may also be able to borrow against your SRA accumulation before you retire.*

All this, plus the top investment management that has helped make TIAA-CREF the largest retirement system in the country.

So start dreaming and planning for the time of your life. Because the sooner you start your SRA, the greater your savings and your retirement will be.

START PLANNING FOR THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE, TODAY.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO SPONSOR THE HOROSCOPES, PLEASE CALL 965-6555!

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
Morning hours find you somewhat impatient. It's best not to force issues in business. Some appointments will be changed now. Guard against domestic extravagance.

TAURUS

(Apr. 20 to May 20)
Be sure of your facts before speaking out. There's a tendency to gloss over details today. An irritation could arise with an adviser. Low key activities are best.

GEMINI

(May 21 to June 20)
You're inclined to go overboard in spending now. You could be spreading your energies thin. Be discriminating about which social invitations you accept.

CANCER

(June 21 to July 22)
Keep aims realistic in business. You're enthusiastic now but judgment could be off. Do your best to cooperate with a partner. Be willing to compromise on key issues.

LEO

(July 23 to Aug. 22)
Doing a job in a rush is not the best way to get things done today. Take the time necessary for success and accomplishment. Some plans for tonight may be changed.

VIRGO

(Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)
No need to overspend in your efforts to make a good impression. Be more patient with a child. Avoid quarrels about intimate matters. Afternoon and evening social plans are subject to change.

LIBRA

(Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
You may be touchy now and easily provoked. Try to avoid an argument with a family member. Business plans may be overly expansive. Restlessness may be a p.m. concern.

THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO BECOMING A NURSE IN THE ARMY.

And they're both represented by the insignia you wear as a member of the Army Nurse Corps. The caduceus on the left means you're part of a health care system in which educational and career advancement are the rule, not the exception. The gold bar on the right means you command respect as an Army officer. If you're earning a BSN, write: Army Nurse Opportunities, P.O. Box 3219, Warminster, PA 18974-9845. Or call toll free: 1-800-USA-ARMY, ext. 438.

ARMY NURSE CORPS. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.®

1. What are the first steps in planning a nursing career?
2. What should I expect at my first job interview?
3. How do I choose the right hospital?
4. What is the best way to prepare for the new NCLEX-RN?
5. Why has the failure rate on the NCLEX-RN increased?
