Frat gets last chance to retain recognition 'Theta Delts' face deadline to appeal recommendation to disband chapter

BY MAXWELL HIGGINS
STATE PRESS

Members of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity are facing a deadline today to appeal a recommendation by the Greek Relations Board (GRB) that ASU no longer recognize the fraternity as a student organization.

The recommendation came after a GRB hearing last week where testimony revealed that between one and four fraternity members caused the damage to the house on the weekend of Aug. 21-22.

"They contended it was done by a few individuals, not the fraternity as a whole," said Interfraternity Council Vice President and GRB member Justin Lane.

The GRB recommendation, which would effectively disband Theta Delta Chi's ASU chapter, will be reviewed and decided this week by ASU administrators.

IFC President Reagan Dunn said GRB recommendations are usually decided by Student Life, but because of the importance of this case, the decision rests with Vice President of Student Affairs Christine Wilkinson.

Wilkinson said Sunday that she will decide on the matter today or Tuesday. Dunn said Wilkinson may modify, refute or accept the GRB's recommendation, adding that the University has almost always accepted past recommendations.

While disciplinary action is decided by Wilkinson, the Arizona Board of Regents will decide later this week whether the University can revoke the fraternity's lease. ASU Comptroller Gerald Snyder first initiated that action in August, after determining that Theta

Dean reports progress in gay coalition debate Some issues still unresolved but meeting yields 'positive discussion'

BY JAMES FRUSETTA
STATE PRESS

ASU officials labeled a Friday meeting of the Cultural Diversity Committee as a 'positive discussion' of the controversial addition of a lesbian/gay coalition to the CDC.

Assistant Dean for Cultural Diversity Jesus Trevino said the meeting's atmosphere was cooperative, but some issues remain unresolved.

"I thought it was a very positive meeting, and I think there was some important dialogue," Trevino said.

The Council of United Coalitions (CUC) — formed Thursday — has contended that the administration's recent recognition of the Lesbian/Gay Coalition indicates a lack of commitment to original cultural diversity goals.

Members of the CUC — which includes the Black African, American Indian, Chicano/Hispanic and Asian American coalitions — said Thursday that lesbians and gays are a group classified by lifestyle, as opposed to ethnicity.

CUC members also said Thursday that they oppose the new coalition occupying office space and suggested that Trevino's position be limited to working with racial and ethnic coalitions.

Expert labels NAFTA 'Fraud and Treason Act'

BY MELANIE K. SELCHO
STATE PRESS

The North American Free Trade Agreement that would free trade relations between the United States, Canada and Mexico came under fire at ASU Saturday by a prominent economist.

Ravi Batra, author of "The Myth of Free Trade" and keynote speaker at the weekend forum organized by Ross Perot's United We Stand America, said NAFTA will hurt the American economy. He cited historical evidence of free trade sending the U.S. economy into depression.

"NAFTA is really the North American Fraud and Treason Act," he said. "Treason is when an expert comes and says, 'Reduce taxes on foreign goods and raise them on the American people.'"

Batra proposed that the U.S. government raise tariffs from the current 5 percent to 40 percent — a figure he said has worked in the past to keep the economy thriving.

Although the forum was touted as an open debate on both sides of the NAFTA issue, the event turned out to be an anti-NAFTA discussion.

United We Stand America and Perot publicly oppose the free trade agreement.

Other speakers included Maricopa County Sheriff Joe Arpaio, who said little about NAFTA but recognized that illegal drug trafficking from Mexico would continue to plague Arizona and the United States.

"I don't have the answer," he said. "My concern is (that NAFTA) will cause more drug trafficking. I don't have too much optimism — we can't stop (trafficking) as it is."

David Carter, secretary of the National Farmers Union, said NAFTA will parallel the free trade agreement with Canada and destroy the U.S. farming industry.

He said NAFTA will prevent regulation of the food that is imported, citing pesticides that are not legal in the United States but could be used in Mexico. Carter also warned the audience of about 100 that a recent breakout of E-coli bacteria found in beef products could be imported from Canada, where inspectors are Delta Chi owed more than $18,000 in unpaid rent — a bill outstanding since April.

However, Dunn said if the GRB recommendation is put into effect, there will be no need to revoke the lease, since the fraternity would not be able to occupy an on-campus house.

Lane said that at last week's hearing, then-Theta Delta Chi president Mark Bailey — who has since been replaced by interim President David Yang — claimed that fraternity officers tried to prevent any potential vandalism by telling members to leave the house peacefully before the Aug. 23 eviction date.

The names of individuals responsible for the damage were not revealed at the hearing, but fraternity officers said they are still working with DPS on the continuing investigation.

Lane said if the fraternity doesn't appeal the recommendation by today, members may still try to get Wilkinson to modify it. He added that if overdue rent was paid and repairs made to the house, the fraternity may be able to work things out with the University.

Even if the recommendation is upheld, Lane said there would be no time limit on the sentence, meaning that the fraternity could reorganize and become reinstated as a student organization in the near future.

Michael Shea, director of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE), said NAFTA is the biggest threat to American jobs.

"(NAFTA is) the most important issue to confront the average American worker and poses a major threat to economic security," he said.

He also criticized NAFTA by claiming that environmental regulations would be difficult to enforce.

"Environmental cleanup will cost $20 billion, and guess who will pay the bill?" he said. "Take a look in the mirror, folks."

Theresa Leal, a social activist from Nogales, Mexico, said NAFTA will hurt Mexico even though many believe the country's economy will boost from mass relocation of American companies.

"It's very deflating for us to think that (there is) this image of Mexico taking away jobs from North America," she said.

Leal added that Mexicans don't want low-paying jobs working in inhumane conditions.

"We balk at contamination, long hours, $4.50 for a 10-hour day, at gross sexist (policies) by North American supervisors and bosses that inhibit women's rights," she said. "If you think we're happy to have these industries that now turn out babies without brains ... I think you're very wrong."

"The space issue and the question regarding my own job duties (as assistant dean for cultural diversity) are unresolved, and will be addressed in a future meeting," Trevino said.

During the meeting, the CUC presented a written statement to the CDC describing its position on the admission of the new coalition. As of Sunday, that statement had not been released to the State Press.

Dean of Student Life Art Carter said the meeting was a step in the right direction.

"It was a very agreeable meeting, and I think there was a lot of understanding between everyone there," Carter said.

ASU officials said they were confident that tensions concerning the creation of the new coalition can be eased by interaction between the parties involved.

"I think a positive dialogue is going on, and I am confident that the issue will be resolved," said ASU President Lattie Coor.

Both Coor and Vice President for Student Affairs Christine Wilkinson said they have confidence that both parties can forge an agreement.

"I think the people involved can work this out," said Wilkinson.

Man sues state officials after court overturns convictions

PHOENIX (AP) — A man whose arson-murders convictions were overturned is suing two state officials, including the fire inspector who was the chief witness at his 1982 trial.

Ray Girdler spent eight years in prison for the 1981 fire that killed his wife and daughter.

Now-retired Deputy Fire Marshal David Dale was the main witness at the trial. He testified the fire was set with liquid accelerants and that arson was the only possible explanation.

But Girdler's lawsuit claims Dale ignored evidence that the fire was accidental because he was trying to establish himself as Arizona's pre-eminent arson investigator.

"Dale acted with a single-minded determination to connect Mr. Girdler to the crime of killing his family, showing no regard for the truth," it says.

Dale's telephone number was unlisted, and he couldn't be reached for comment Sunday. But when Girdler's conviction was overturned three years ago, Dale said he stood by his arson assessment.

State Fire Marshal Duane Pell also is named in the suit that was filed Thursday in U.S. District Court in Phoenix. He referred questions to lawyers for the state, and attorney Daniel Malinski said he hadn't seen the suit and couldn't comment.

Scottsdale man perishes in mountain-climbing accident

MOOSE, Wyo. (AP) — An Arizona man and an Illinois woman died, and another man was injured while climbing Mount Moran in Grand Teton National Park over the weekend.

Robert Timothy Kleeberger, 23, of Scottsdale, and Jennifer M. Grundel, 20, of Springfield, Ill., died of multiple injuries after falling from the South Buttress of the 12,605-foot peak, park officials said Sunday.

Stephen R. Golden, 20, of Burke, Va., survived the fall. He was airlifted from the mountain Saturday and was listed in good condition at St. John's Hospital in Jackson Sunday.

The three climbers worked for Signal Mountain Lodge in the park, officials said. They signed out with park personnel on Thursday with plans to climb the South Buttress Right on Friday.

Stormy weather caused them to abandon their ascent on Friday and try to return to the valley, park spokeswoman Linda Olson said. The accident occurred sometime late Friday or early Saturday.

The cause of the accident is under investigation, Olson said. Officials weren't sure Sunday how far the three fell.

The South Buttress is one of the park's most challenging technical climbs, Olson said.

When the climbers didn't return when expected, their friends alerted authorities. Park rangers began searching from the ground and air and spotted the party at about 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

Golden was flown by helicopter from the mountain at about 8 p.m. and taken by ambulance to Jackson. Rangers were trying to recover the bodies of Kleeberger and Grundel Sunday, but Olson said they were battling bad weather.

Study: Users foot $15-million bill to clean stinky CAP water

TUCSON (AP) — Residents with Central Arizona Project water have spent $15 million this year to deal with hard, discolored and often foul-tasting water, according to a new study.

The extra money bought water-treatment equipment and replaced appliances and fixtures, said the study commissioned by The Arizona Daily Star and conducted by the UofA.

CAP users also spend $3.5 million more a year on items such as bottled water and maintaining home-treatment systems, the study indicated.

That averages to $170 per CAP household, plus $42 a year in ongoing costs.

The university's Water Resources Research Center based the study on 374 responses to a random mail survey of 940 Tucson households this month.

Tucson Water Director Mike Tubbs declined to comment on the study because he had not seen it.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, right, gives the thumbs-up at a news conference with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak after the two met in Alexandria, Egypt Sunday.

Israel, PLO share security cares

JERUSALEM (AP) — Who will arrest and prosecute a dissident who launches an attack in Israel and then retreats to a Palestinian-run area in the Gaza Strip or West Bank?

What protection would Palestinians have against reprisals from Jewish settlers?

For both Israelis and Palestinians, the answers to security questions like these will be a major factor in determining the success or failure of the PLO-Israeli peace plan.

Under the plan, the Israelis will withdraw from Gaza and the West Bank town of Jericho. Later, limited self-rule is to be expanded to other areas of the occupied West Bank, and the two sides will negotiate a permanent solution.

Israelis are worried that Muslim fundamentalists and leftist opponents of the accord will use the autonomous zones as launching pads for terror attacks on Israelis in Israel or the occupied lands. Israeli forces would not be able to get at attackers if Palestinian police are too weak or unwilling to help.

Palestinians worry that Israeli settlers will launch vigilante attacks on Arab residents or that the Israelis will not give PLO chief Yasser Arafat the manpower and military hardware he needs to control his opponents.

Sari Nusseibah, overall Palestinian coordinator of the transfer to self-rule, criticized statements from both Israeli and PLO officials about taking a hard line with opponents of the plan.

Nusseibah said the emphasis should be on educating the public that the autonomy plan, not violence, would end Israeli occupation.

"I believe the only guarantee against any kind of action that might blow up the experiment is public opinion, which has to determine whether such actions are good or harmful for Palestinians," he said.

Shlomo Gazit, a former chief of Israeli intelligence and now a senior researcher at the Jaffee Center for Strategic Studies, said Israel should give Palestinians the tools to do the job.

"If the Israeli army has helicopters, why shouldn't the Palestinians? If the Israeli army has armored personnel carriers, why shouldn't they? Do we want them to fail?" said Gazit.

Starting in October 1992, Gazit and two other Israelis held secret meetings with three PLO officials every two months in Rome and London to explore the key security questions of a hand-over. In the talks:

- The Israelis proposed direct cooperation on intelligence gathering, but Palestinians wanted an international umbrella to avoid looking like collaborators.

- The Palestinians proposed joint Israeli-Palestinian patrols to safeguard against attacks by Jewish extremists, and insisted any attackers who sought shelter in PLO-run areas should be tried in Palestinian courts.

Questions still remain on paying for reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first question President Clinton was asked when he created his health care task force in January was how could he deliver medical coverage to all Americans without driving up the deficit.

It may be the last question he answers about the plan.

"You have to give me something to announce" Wednesday, Clinton told reporters when asked about his financing plans late last week.

Just days before Clinton formally unveils his health care plan in a nationally televised address to Congress, final figures on how he would pay for it were among the details still being decided.

How much to raise "sin" taxes? Should he relax the limits on Medicare and Medicaid spending? Should big companies that set up their own health purchasing systems pay a special assessment?

"I still have another round of meetings to attend that will go through one last time what our best estimates of costs are," Clinton told reporters Friday. He was meeting Sunday night with his speech writing team to review a draft on Wednesday's address to Congress.

Spokesman Jeff Eller said the final decisions, including how to pay for the reforms, may not be made by Wednesday. He said there is bipartisan agreement on the administration's broad goals, "but that doesn't necessarily mean that we'll bring every last detail up to the Hill on Wednesday. I think we will, but I don't think it's fair to say we're running out of time" to make decisions.

Unlike the days leading up to unveiling his budget package, Clinton is not in a panic to nail down the specifics of his health care plan. Eller said the White House wants to show that Clinton is open to consultations.

Many items in the fine print of the health plan were still under review. Aides insist the basic structure of the plan and its financing system have long been in place, but allow that some details of the sweeping reform proposal still are evolving — and will continue to change even after it has been presented to Congress.

"It's not written in absolute stone," said Chief of Staff Mack McLarty.

Minister shot, killed during church service

NORTH SALEM, Ind. (AP) — A Methodist minister was finishing his sermon Sunday when a woman shot him to death in front of his horrified congregation and 13-year-old daughter, police said. A woman he once dated was arrested.

The Rev. Roland Phillips, 36, of North Salem, was concluding the sermon before about 25 people at the United Methodist Church when he was shot three times in the chest, said Lt. Terry Brinker, a Hendricks County Sheriff's spokesman. He died on the way to a hospital.

Brinker said Elizabeth S. Mayberry of Bloomington approached Phillips during the sermon and asked to speak with him, but the minister asked her to wait until he was finished.

Mayberry then stood next to Phillips until he was concluding the sermon, when she pulled out a gun and shot him three times in the chest, Brinker said.

Authorities said a member of the congregation wrestled Mayberry to the ground while another parishioner took away the gun. A fourth shot was fired during the struggle, but it harmlessly hit a railing in front of the congregation.

Mayberry, 36, was held at the Hendricks County Jail. She was expected to make a court appearance Monday, Brinker said.

Phillips, who was divorced, once dated Mayberry, Brinker said. But he added that police had no idea what prompted the killing.

The priest's 13-year-old daughter was in church when her father was killed, Brinker said.

STATE PRESS Editorial

It's Greek to us

The boom is being lowered on the Theta Delta Chi fraternity, and apparently it is well deserved.

The fraternity has been implicated by ASU administrators in the $300,000 worth of damage that was done to their fraternity house on "New Row" the weekend before classes started, Aug. 21-22.

The Greek Relations Board met last week and made a recommendation to ASU administrators: Boot Theta Delta Chi off campus. No splitting of hairs, no sympathy for their plight against evil administrators — just get rid of them.

According to testimony from the hearing, as many as four Theta Delta Chi fraternity members participated in the destruction.

The damage came conspicuously after the University evicted the boys from their house, which the University had deemed uninhabitable because an asbestos-laden roof hadn't been repaired by the organization for seven years.

After the fraternity held what will likely turn out to be the last big bash of its existence on campus, the house was really made uninhabitable: 40 windows were smashed, holes were punched in walls, doors were removed, waterbeds on the second floor were slashed, ruining the first floor's ceiling, human waste was left throughout hallways and furniture was destroyed.

Those responsible should be charged with the house destruction when ASU's Department of Public Safety's investigation finds a concrete link between the damage and those responsible.

And administrators should boot the fraternity off campus for not providing the simple leadership necessary to prevent such a heinous incident. The move by administrators to disband the group would follow the Greek community's own wishes, as interpreted by the GRB.

Use no velvet glove. Get Theta Delta Chi off campus and make a strong statement to the Greek community that this kind of destructive and juvenile behavior won't be tolerated at ASU.

At no time in the future should any ASU student or Arizona taxpayer have to worry about footing the bill for a few brats who take it upon themselves to destroy public property.

And perhaps the University should rethink the entire idea of Greeks on campus, and adjust policies accordingly. Why make all students pay for the elite status of a few? Some schools are already deciding to let Greeks survive on their own without administrative support.

If Greeks want to have a little circle of friends and hang out together, fine — let them do it on their own like most other organizations do without help from the school. The University and "independent" students shouldn't have to concern themselves with it.

AMERICANS WELCOME.

Dear President Clinton: Let's stop acting as world's police

Dear President Clinton:

It has come to my attention that you are considering sending U.S. forces to Bosnia. From what I have read, this NATO force of 50,000 troops would be 50 to 60 percent American.

Mr. President, this would be a monumental mistake.

Recent American history has been marked by an alarming number of U.S. interventions around the globe. Several of these interventions got completely out of hand.

Remember the Korean War? We fought a see-saw war there for three years, and lost nearly 39,000 men. What did those 39,000 lives buy? A few square miles of territory for South Korea and a heavily fortified border between the two combatants.

Vietnam was worse. Remember Vietnam, Mr. President? The war that you so staunchly opposed?

I am sure that you know that the Vietnam War lasted for over a decade and cost us 50,000 troops. At its height in 1968, we had more than half a million men in the jungles of Indochina.

Our efforts in Vietnam proved futile; for in 1975, two years after our withdrawal, the government of South Vietnam fell to Communist forces.

Our past attempts at being the world's policeman have cost us nearly 90,000 young men.

So why are we considering embroiling ourselves in another bloody and futile "police action?"

Are we really prepared to endure a Vietnam in the Balkans?

Past history has taught us the foolishness of attempting a military operation without clear-cut objectives. What would our objectives be in Bosnia?

A year ago, there was a single aggressor: the Bosnian Serbs.

Things aren't so simple now. The Croats and Muslims, once allies against Serb aggression, have taken to fighting each other for territory. Every ethnic group in Bosnia can rightfully be considered an aggressor.

I know that you remember Vietnam well. Recall, then, how our presence there began with the introduction of a few thousand

DAVID STROW
Columnist

"military advisors."

A war is very easy to get into, but very difficult to leave. And wars, once they begin, tend to escalate. How long will it be before the U.S. force in Bosnia must be expanded? How long before you decide that a draft is necessary to keep up with the ever-rising demands of the Bosnian Conflict?

You have probably considered all of this, Mr. President. That is why you have held out against intervention so far.

But it is difficult to stand idly by while we see images of the horrible atrocities being committed in Bosnia.

We have all seen them: the TV images of Sniper's Alley in Sarajevo, the pictures of young children mutilated by war, the haunting faces of POWs starving in concentration camps.

There are even reports coming out of Bosnia that it is regular practice to crucify prisoners of war.

These images seem to scream for our intervention in Bosnia. As a compassionate nation, how can we stand back and allow such animal-like behavior?

But consider the flip-side of this. Are we prepared to subject American soldiers to such horrors?

Are we ready to watch American POWs die in concentration camps? To greet American soldiers returning from the war as cripples? To hear of horrific stories about American prisoners being crucified by vicious guerrillas?

Let those images burn into your mind real, real well. Then ask yourself if you are still so eager to march into the Balkans.

Mr. President, the time has come for you to set a precedent. No longer should the American people be asked to fight for causes that have absolutely no bearing on national security.

If the war spills over into the territory of an ally, say Greece, then American intervention is warranted. But as long as the civil war remains inside the borders of Bosnia, it is none of our business.

It would be the height of injustice to force young Americans to fight and die for such a vague cause. You recognized this in the sixties, when you protested a similar injustice perpetrated against your own generation. Don't lose your idealism now.

For God's sake, stay out of Bosnia!

It would be a mistake that we cannot afford to make.

Our past attempts at being the world's policeman have cost us nearly 90,000 young men. ... Are we really prepared to endure a Vietnam in the Balkans?

Change of guard proves NEA needs to be eliminated

Not the least legacy of the late Robert Mapplethorpe to American civilization is that he helped make it much more difficult to write about government-funded art in family newspapers. You can say many things about American journalists, but almost no one ever called them prudish. Nevertheless, even the most jaded news hounds have to blanch at the latest budgetary offspring of the National Endowment for the Arts.

A couple of weeks ago, the NEA, at last liberated from the long nightmare of the Bush regime, announced it had decided to fund several masterpieces of "homoerotic" art in the Mapplethorpe tradition. Ever since then, the editors of your newspapers have been trying to figure out exactly how to tell you about what you are paying taxes for. This is not a criticism of the editors; theirs is no easy task.

The new boondoggle consists of $17,500 in tax-funded grants to the National Alliance for Media and the Arts. This "alliance" is nothing Roosevelt and Churchill would have recognized; it's an umbrella for several groups whose names more immediately communicate what they do and want. They include the Gay and Lesbian Media Coalition of Los Angeles, the New Festival of New York and the Pittsburgh International Lesbian and Gay Film Festival. When these people say "festival," they're probably not thinking of Ferris wheels and cotton candy.

The Pittsburgh festival sports a number of cinematic triumphs, among them something called "Chumlum," described as a "surreal and gossamered transvestite orgy," and "We're Talking Vulva," captioned as "an outrageous five-minute feminist romp concerned with the care and feeding of happy female genitalia." I confess I am not sure how a "gossamered" orgy differs from the non-gossamered species, and probably most newspaper editors don't know either. Now you see why they may have had trouble telling you about it.

In any case, the NEA's funding of these treasures is among the first indication that under the Clinton administration, the direction of the NEA will be — well — pretty much what it was under the Bush administration. It's true Bush sort of sat on and eventually sacked NEA Chairman John Frohnmayer, though he sat on him only after intense arm-twisting by Congress and the grass-roots right and he administered the boot to him only in the heat of a primary challenge that made an issue of the NEA.

It's also true that Bush replaced the witless but self-inflated Frohnmayer with Anne-Imelda Radice, who rejected funding to these very films. Nevertheless, none of the tepid water Bush and his lieutenants poured on the fiery passions of the NEA was spontaneously distilled. In every case, the refusal to fund dirty little pictures was the result of pressure from angry constituencies, and, after all, the NEA's nasty habits date mainly from the Bush years.

Today, with Bush in Siberia and Radice booted herself, the NEA is in the sweaty little palms of the Clintonians, and while the Congress has yet to confirm a new chairman, the underlings who have lurked and gibbered in the NEA woodwork all along are now effectively in charge. There seems precious little difference, if any, between the tastes of those worthies and those of the NEA's previous inhabitants.

The meaning of the NEA decision to fund these films, then, is clear: the problem with the NEA is not who runs it, not who's president and not who's appointed to it. The same kind of cultural atrocities have been seeping out of the bureaucratic bosom and will continue to seep out regardless of whether Bush or Clinton, Frohnmayer or Radice, Republicans, Democrats, liberals, neo-conservatives, paleo-conservatives, neo-Bukharinite revisionists, or the Aryan Nation runs it. The problem with the NEA is not who "runs" it but the NEA itself and the "culture" it serves.

Just as the Pentagon in many ways serves a certain constituency, sometimes called the "military-industrial complex," so the NEA serves what may be called the "bureaucracy-arts complex" otherwise known affectionately as the "cultural elite." The movies about happy female genitalia and gossamered orgies and so forth are endemic to that elite and that complex.

What it means further is that worrying about who runs or doesn't run the NEA and whether there are or not "content restrictions" on what it may fund is a colossal waste of time. It means that if newspaper readers and taxpayers who finally learn the truth about the pornography their tax dollars are funding at the NEA want to do something serious about it, what they'll have to do is work for the outright abolition of the whole gossamered agency and the permanent defunding of the cultural elite's tax-funded orgy.

Fairness bad, Strow good

This is in response to David Strow's September 13 column on the Fairness Doctrine.

Excellent job! We must retain all radio talk shows' free speech. It is my understanding the Fairness Doctrine passed in the U.S. Senate. I am hoping all readers will drop a postcard or letter to the U.S. House of Representatives urging them to keep free speech on our air waves. If the Fairness Doctrine passes, all listeners (liberal, moderate and conservative) will lose. Tell your congressmen what you think of the bill — Today!

QUOTABLES

"We certainly can't afford to do anything that would permit the country, after all the efforts the United Nations has made, to deteriorate to its former condition where hundreds of thousands of people are killed or starved at random."

—President Clinton, resisting calls for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Somalia.

"There hasn't been a cattle roundup. There hasn't been a targeting of just a segment of our people. The media has overreacted."

—Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles, defending police against mounting charges of racism for interrogating black teen-agers in this week's fatal shooting of an English tourist.

Swanson has bad platitude

Much like one listens to Rush Limbaugh to hear absurdities, one reads Mr. Swanson's column on Thursdays.

Might I remind Mr. Swanson that there are two simple commandments which have the same relevancy today as ever: love thy God above thyself (whether this may be the earth, the universe, some higher spiritual being, or simply the creator) and love thy neighbor as thyself. It doesn't have anything to say about sex, nudity or morals, for when all is boiled down to its essence, one can agree with the master's point that these two commandments cover everything.

In fact one could go so far as to say that this morality which Mr. Swanson advocates is not the product of a higher consciousness, but an archaic and reactionary remnant of a repressive Victorian past. Actually, some social science studies point to the opposite conclusion Mr. Swanson asserts, in that it is precisely these feelings of guilt toward human sexuality, and the obsession to repress its expression which create sexual deviance. Yet agreed, the study of human behavior is not exact, and therefore one shouldn't base a conclusion on any number of studies.

Certainly one can lament the obvious fact that above all women are used and abused in this and other societies as objects to be bought and sold in many ways which make sensible persons uncomfortable. However, until society places higher value on all individuals, loving thy neighbor as thyself so to speak, I cannot fault any man woman who freely chooses to employ their personal capital, whether it be skills, money or in this case outstanding physical beauty, for furthering their personal betterment.

I find it interesting that Mr. Swanson is appalled at the idea of males masturbating with these photos as inspiration. Is it shame of Mr. Swanson's own physical needs which breeds the disgust he feels about a natural human activity? Is it an unwillingness of Mr. Swanson to admit that masturbation may be a positive activity, particularly when it may enhance one's sense of self control and prolong the ability to satisfy one's partner? One can only conclude that to Mr. Swanson sexuality and the shedding of moral dilemmas is inherently evil, and that all people should be relegated to rules chosen by others more enlightened. One can understand how easy it is to become lost in a morass of conflicting animalistic emotions and the pressure to conform to some artificial ideals. However, tolerance, and compassion, as displayed so long ago, do not go out of style. For when they are forgotten, or carefully circumvented with oblique language, artificial moral constraints may tend to erupt in violent, irresponsible behavior; as well as holier than thou platitudes.

Library receives support from Academic Senate

New resolution recommends 'budgets not be further reduced'

By JAMES FRUSETTA
STATE PRESS

ASU's Academic Senate has reaffirmed widespread faculty opposition to continuing library budget cuts by passing a resolution supporting fiscal needs of campus libraries.

The newly-approved policy, which requests that "library budgets not be further reduced," was initiated last spring when a 1-percent cut in the library's budget was recommended by administrators. The resolution was passed at the Senate's first fall meeting.

"The last couple of years have been very difficult for the libraries in general," said Marianne Alcorn, former chair of the Academic Senate's University services and facilities committee. "The resolution was written when it still looked as if cuts might be enacted."

Dean of University Libraries Sherrie Schmidt credited the resolution as a major factor in this summer's reversal of proposed fiscal cuts in the library budget.

"As a result of even the introduction of the resolution, it made the University administration aware of the faculty's support," said Schmidt. "Even before the recent vote of support, the proposed resolution showed support."

Schmidt also said the proposal reaffirmed the confidence that ASU faculty hold in the University's libraries.

"Certainly from my perspective, I think it was a show of support by the faculty that signals to the administration the importance of the library," Schmidt said.

The resolution also recognizes the escalating costs of periodicals. Faculty members and library officials said they fear that even if the budgetary status quo is maintained, the library will continue to face a steady erosion in periodicals as costs escalate.

"To accommodate the spiraling costs of periodicals, (the library) had to make across-the-board cuts," said Margaret Knapp, current chair of University services and facilities committee. "We're concerned that this doesn't come up again."

Schmidt said without an increase in library funding to match the rising costs of subscriptions, the cuts are inevitable.

"We've had a steady state budget for the last four years, but with the rising costs of periodicals, cuts in subscriptions have occurred," Schmidt said.

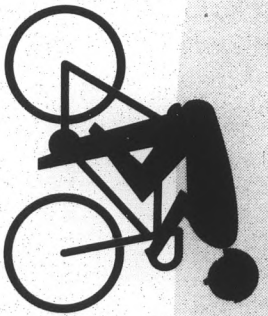

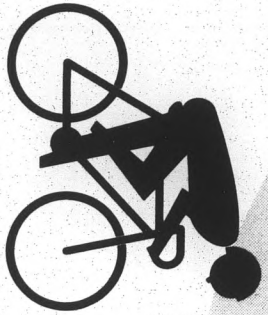

But faculty members argue that the last round of periodical cuts is the last that can be made without crippling consequences for ASU as a research institution.

"Unless the Legislature begins funding the libraries at a much better rate than it has before, we won't be funded nearly as sufficient as needed," Alcorn said.

"We are the 26th largest research library in the country," Knapp said. "But I don't know if we'll be able to maintain that if cuts continue."

You Can Be Hit In More Ways

Did You Know That . . .

- In 96% of all bicycle accidents in Tempe, the bicyclist was injured or killed.
- Wearing a helmet will reduce the chance of a serious head injury by 85%, and is much cheaper than a trip to the hospital.
- The majority of bicycle-car accidents occur at intersections, and in 73% of such accidents the bicyclist was at fault.
- Riding against the traffic flow is a major cause of all bicycle accidents in Tempe.

Avoid Being Cited . . .

- Any bicyclist or pedestrian citation will cost you between $49 and $100.
- Never ride against the flow of traffic on sidewalks or streets. Always ride with the traffic flow.

- Obey all traffic control signals, signs, and laws.
- At night, ride with a white light on the front of your bicycle and a red rear reflector on the back of your bicycle.

And Always . . .

- Yield to all traffic when entering a street (roadway) from a sidewalk, bikeway, or bicycle path.
- Slow down when approaching intersections.
- Do not assume you are safe because you have the right-of-way. In a car-bicycle collision, the bicyclist always loses.

Make it a safe school year!

Follow the traffic laws. Failure to do so can cost you more than a ticket . . . it can cost you your life.

The Psychology behind the Citibank Classic Visa card, and the emotional security of the Photocard.

The Citibank Classic Visa® instills in students feelings of safety, security, and general wellness not unlike those experienced in the womb. Therefore, it is the mother of all credit cards. ¶ Some experts attribute these feelings to the Citibank Photocard, the only credit card with your photo on it. A voice inside says, "This is me, really me." (As opposed to, "Who the heck is that?"—a common response to the photo on one's driver's license.) It's an immediate form of ID, a boost to your self-image. ¶ Of course if your card is ever lost or stolen and a stranger is prevented from using it, you'll feel exceptionally good (showing no signs of Credit Card Theft Nervosa). ¶ Other experts point to specific services, such as The Lost Wallet™ Service that can replace your card usually within 24 hours. Or the 24-Hour Customer Service line, your hotline, if you will, for any card-related anxiety whatsoever. ¶ Further analysis reveals three services that protect the purchases you make on the Citibank

Subject suffering from Credit Card Theft Nervosa.

Subject after receiving Citibank Classic Visa Photocard.

Classic Visa card, at no additional cost. 1. Buyers Security™ can cover them against accidental damage, fire or theft, for 90 days from the date of purchase<sup>1</sup> (preventing, of course, Insecurity). 2. Citibank Lifetime Warranty™ allows one to extend the warranty for the expected service life of eligible products up to 12 years.<sup>2</sup> 3. And Citibank Price Protection assures you of the best price. You need only see the same item advertised in print for less, within 60 days, and Citibank will refund the difference up to $150<sup>1</sup> (hence no Post Purchase Depression). ¶ Special student savings are particularly therapeutic. There's the free Citibank Calling Service™ from MCI to save up to 26% on long distance calls versus AT&T.<sup>3</sup> (You're encouraged to call Mom and Dad regularly preventing Parenta Non-Supportus.) And a $20 Airfare Discount<sup>4</sup> on any domestic flight. (Case studies indicate that a Fear of Flying is overcome when Spring Break in sunny Florida is a possibility.) Not to mention the low variable interest rate of 15.4%<sup>5</sup> and no annual fee for college students. ¶ Suffice it to say, you'll have a credit card you can depend on while building a credit history. So call 1-800-CITIBANK, extension 19, to apply over the phone (students don't need a job or a cosigner) or to have your photo added to your Citibank Classic Visa card. ¶ If we say that a sense of Identity is the first component of the Citibank Classic Visa card, a sense of Security the second, and a sense of Autonomous Will from your newfound financial independence the third, don't be crazy...Call.

Not just Visa. Citibank Visa.

POLICE REPORT

ASU police logs from the weekend were unavailable Sunday. The following incidents were reported Friday:

- Two people unaffiliated with ASU were warned of loitering and told to leave the area after they were contacted Thursday night at the East Practice Fields.

- An ASU employee was contacted at the Horticulture Research Center Thursday after it was reported that he criminally damaged the vehicle of another employee.

- ASU police warned a male student at the Pizza Hut in the MU never to contact a certain female student again after ASU DPS received a report that he harassed her.

- An ASU student was told to leave Tempe Butte after police saw him climbing the mountain at 6 p.m. Thursday.

- A student had $450 in damage done to her vehicle Thursday after a tree fell on it in Lot 51.

- An ASU student who is a corrections officer had his badge, nameplate and shirt stolen from his vehicle in Parking Area 40.

Tempe police reported the following incidents Sunday:

- A Tempe man was robbed at gunpoint Friday by two men in the 100 block of East Hardy Drive. The victim was asked by the two men if he had any money as he exited his car. When the victim ignored the two men, they pulled two handguns and demanded his wallet. The victim complied and also handed over his watch. Police were told by the victim that his wallet contained $1.

- Two men were arrested Thursday after police determined that they were going to physically assault another man at Circle K, 1101 S. Rural Road. Police said the two men were aggressively approaching the supposed victim, who appeared scared.

- A 19-year-old Tempe man was arrested Friday after police found a concealed handgun in his fanny pack at Colby's Billiards, 1301 E. University Drive.

- A 42-year-old Tempe man was arrested Friday night at his residence in the 500 block of West 17th Place after he committed approximately $5,000 worth of damage to his apartment. His wife told police she would aid in prosecution.

- Three unknown men entered the motor home of a 40-year-old man in the 1800 block of East Apache Boulevard last week and robbed him at knifepoint of $60 and a .22 caliber handgun.

- An unknown man robbed a 38-year-old Tempe man of a $1800 VCR and $5 in cash. The victim answered a knock on the door at his home in the 1800 block of East Hayden Lane to find the suspect pointing a handgun at him and demanding the VCR.

- The Star Mart at 2188 E. Southern Avenue cashed what employees thought was a winning lottery ticket for $33, only to realize later that one of the numbers had been cut out of another ticket and glued to the fraudulent winning ticket.

- A man had his car damaged in the parking lot of 1133 W. Baseline after someone scratched a shape of a house into the hood of his 1984 VW Rabbit.

ASHFORD, Conn. (AP) — Kim Basinger and Alec Baldwin looked like happy newlyweds at a weekend fund-raiser held by Paul Newman.

The couple, married last month on a beach in East Hampton, N.Y., cuddled and smooched Saturday at rehearsals for a show at Newman's Hole in the Wall Gang Camp in northeastern Connecticut.

Basinger and Baldwin appeared in skits during the annual show to raise money for Newman's camp, which gives children with cancer and other life-threatening diseases a chance to go to summer camp free of charge.

More than 400 people paid up to $500 a ticket to attend the annual benefit, which also featured appearances by Joanne Woodward, Carole King and actor James Naughton.

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Don't worry, the concerts will be safe, although the special effects might leave some people needing a change of clothes, Garth Brooks says.

He held a news conference to reassure his fans after 16 workers suffered minor injuries while setting up for this coming weekend's four concerts at Texas Stadium. The workers were injured when a metal frame built to hold lights and sound gear above the stage and audience buckled.

"There have never been safety concerns" for the fans, Brooks said Saturday.

Despite the accident, the shows will go on as scheduled this coming Thursday through Sunday, he said.

And the special effects package, including wind, fire and rain, has been redesigned to be even more spectacular.

"Everything's still on cue, but a few more people are going to get wet," Brooks said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Christian Slater says he can't resist falling in love with the women he's works with in movies.

"They've all been beautiful," he told People magazine for its Sept. 27 issue.

Some of that compatibility may show through the camera in "True Romance," in which he stars with Patricia Arquette.

"We got very close, it's one of those unavoidable things," he said.

Their nude love scene, he said, was "really special."

"I lost sight of the crew being around. It was the first time nothing on the outside really mattered."

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — He didn't fire a shot, but retired Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf claimed first place in Wyoming's annual One-Shot Antelope Hunt as his three-member team brought down two antelope in 47 minutes.

In the competition, hunters grouped in teams of three get one shot each. Rainy, foggy weather Saturday made it difficult to find antelope.

The team of Colorado Gov. Roy Romer and his two sons also took two antelope, but took more time to do so than did Schwarzkopf's team.

The celebrity team headed by Jameson Parker, formerly of the television series "Simon and Simon," took one antelope, as did the team headed by North Dakota Gov. Ed Schafer. Schafer brought down the lone antelope for his state's team.

Rhode Island Gov. Bruce Sundlun's team also shot one antelope. Sundlun, whose participation in the hunt was criticized by the animal rights group Defenders of Animals, missed his shot.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Ginger Rogers says "Sleepless in Seattle" escapes the flaws she sees in most of today's movies — a lot of flesh and little serious thought.

Rogers, 82, was in Madison for a weekend American History and American Film Festival on the University of Wisconsin campus. It included several of her films, including "Kitty Foyle" (1940), for which she won the best-actress Oscar.

Rogers says "Sleepless in Seattle" — starring two of her favorite young stars, Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks — is her favorite recent release.

Most contemporary movies are too "promiscuous in their relationships between the key characters," with too much emphasis on flesh and too little on serious thought, said the dancer, singer, actress and comedian.

Cross country places 5th, 7th

The ASU cross country team finished in fifth place in the men's division and seventh in the women's division Saturday at the Aztec Invitational meet in San Diego. Stanford's men topped the field of 12 teams, while defending NCAA champion Arkansas outran a field of 14 teams to capture the women's division in the 50th annual event.

Freshman Ari Rodriguez led the Sun Devil men with a 15th-place finish in only his second collegiate race. He was followed by Erin Scroggins (22nd), Tom Weber (24th), Matt Repak (34th), Geoff Owens (38th), Marlin Posvar (43rd), Eric Strachan (46th) and Eric Aragoni (49th).

The ASU women were led by senior Kristin Wellman and junior Kim Toney who finished 33rd and 34th, respectively. Other Sun Devil finishers included Christie Masson (42nd), Kathryn Karrels (45th) and Jennifer Dander (67th).

Former Sun Devil wins big

Former ASU golfer Brandie Burton, five shots behind at the start of the round, made a back-nine surge Sunday to win the $450,000 Safeco Classic by one stroke.

The 21-year-old from Rialto, Calif., a member of the 1990 ASU women's NCAA Championship team, shot a 7-under-par 65 to finish at 14-under 274 on the Meridian Valley Country Club course in Kent, Wash.

The victory, Burton's fourth in three years on the tour, was worth $67,500. Rosie Jones collected the second-place purse at $41,891.

Patty Sheehan was third at 69-279. Kris Monaghan and Lauri Merten, the U.S. Women's Open champion, each had a 72 for a 280.

Record crowd for Cards-Cowboys

A franchise-record 73,025 fans attended the Phoenix Cardinals-Dallas Cowboys game Sunday night at Sun Devil Stadium, breaking the old mark of 72,439 set last season against Dallas.

Cardinals' officials announced that 73,115 tickets were distributed for Sunday's game and that 90 tickets went unused.

The game was the fifth sellout for the Cardinals since moving to Phoenix from St. Louis in 1988. It was also the third straight time that the Cowboys played before a capacity crowd in Sun Devil Stadium.

Cowboys outlast Cardinals

Aikman looks sharp, Smith shines in debut

By MIKE BRANOM
STATE PRESS

On an evening when both teams found answers to some pressing questions, the Dallas Cowboys defeated the Phoenix Cardinals 17-10 Sunday at Sun Devil Stadium.

Phoenix found out that it can legitimately contend this season. Dallas discovered that it isn't as bad as its first two games, both losses, would have one believe, and that running back Emmitt Smith will be worth the money he squeezed out of team owner Jimmy Jones after a lengthy holdout.

The Cardinals (1-2) received an early test of their strength as they sometimes sparkled and sometimes stumbled against the defending Super Bowl champions. Phoenix made the same mistakes that plagued it in its opening-week loss at Philadelphia, but also exhibited the same promise seen last week in its victory at Washington.

On many offensive series, especially in the first half, the Cardinals drove downfield only to have an untimely sack, penalty or dropped pass thwart any scoring chances.

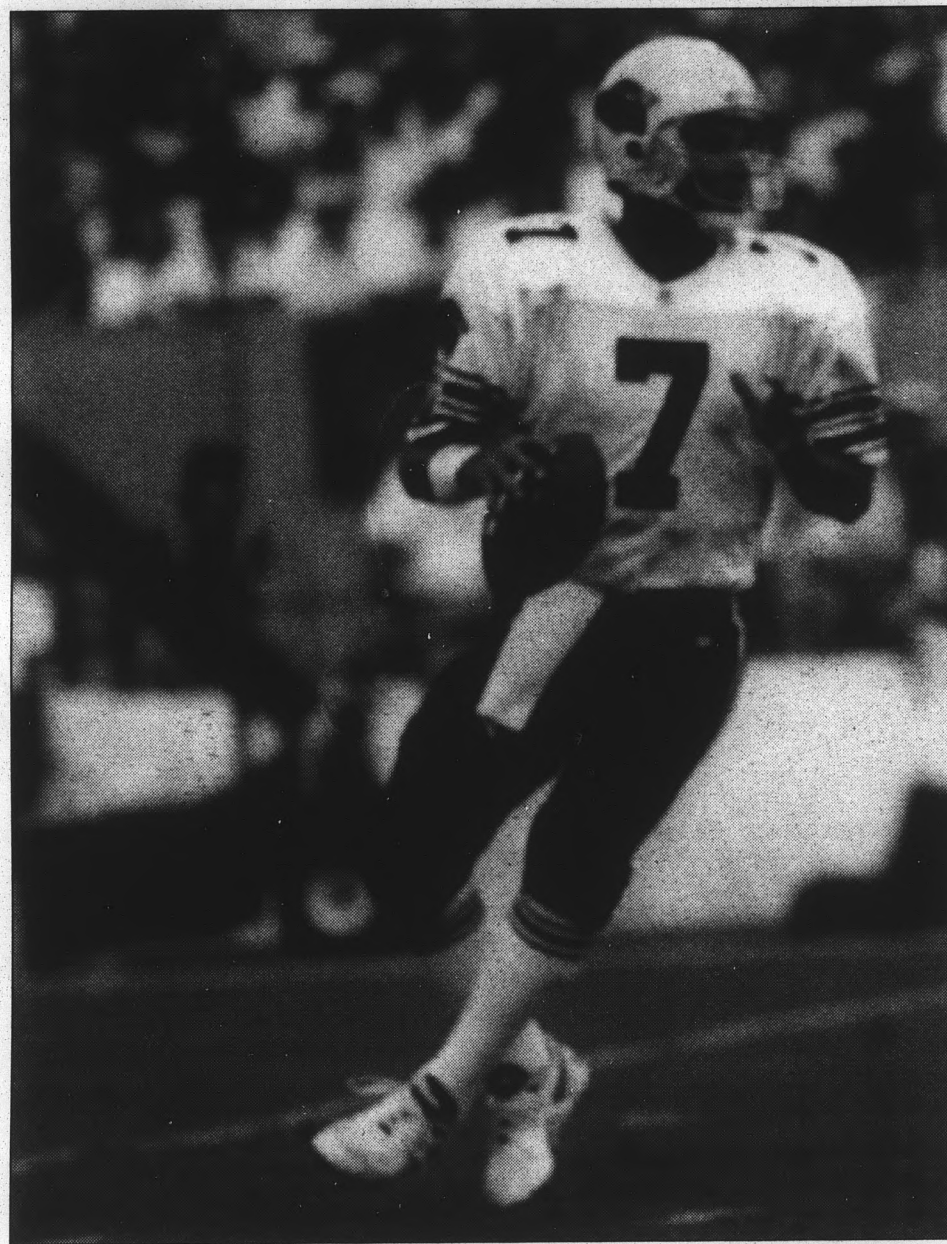

In the second half, however, Phoenix was able to move the ball and score 10 points behind the arm of quarterback Steve Beuerlein. He completed 11 of 15 passes for 164 yards and a touchdown in the final two periods.

The Cardinal defense alternated between looking solid and soft all night. It would stop one Cowboy drive after three plays, only to allow two series of sustained length and time. When Dallas took over on its 15-yard line with 6:37 remaining in the game, Phoenix could not come up with a defensive stop, allowing the Cowboys to run out the clock.

"We did not make a play to win the ball game," Phoenix Coach Joe Bugel said. "You have to find ways to make plays. I didn't think anybody could push our defense around, but they did."

Despite the loss, the Cardinals believe this game was a step forward and not a useless defeat like last season.

"We played a very good football game all the way around," Beuerlein said. "On certain occasions, we didn't make the plays when we had the opportunities. Anybody who brings up that 'same old Cardinals' bullshit, they've got major problems, because we played a darn good football team tonight. We had chances to win. We didn't make the plays to win.

"This is going to be a damn good football team."

"I don't think we choked," Bugel said. "I don't think we took a step back. We had an opportunity tonight, but we missed it."

The Cowboys, and especially quarterback Troy Aikman, did not miss the opportunity to post their first win after a rocky beginning to their post-championship season.

Dallas jumped out to a 17-0 lead thanks to an

Sun Devils on rebound

Weak defense, penalties lead to 35-17 loss

By SHAUN RACHAU
STATE PRESS

ASU Coach Bruce Snyder can only hope that Saturday's 35-17 loss to Louisville wasn't a total failure.

Blaming the loss on a weak defense and penalties, Snyder hopes his Sun Devils (1-1) can rebound after Saturday's defeat at Cardinal Stadium.

"I've got to believe this game will help us somewhere down the road," he said. "We're not good enough and talented enough to overcome those things."

"We just made some dumb mistakes. I thought we blew up as a defensive team at the end."

The Sun Devils had a hard time setting an offensive rhythm, were penalized 12 times for 144 yards and had a hard time overcoming the passing efficiency of Cardinals' quarterback Jeff Brohm.

Brohm's timely passes led Louisville (3-0) to the victory and its' best start since 1972. He passed for two touchdowns, ran for another and was 26 of 38 for a career-high 331 yards.

"He's so accurate, right on the numbers, my mom could have caught the ball," Jamie Asher said.

"He was almost perfect there for a while in the first half," Louisville coach Howard

Schnellenberger said. "If he plants his feet and throws, he's as good as anybody in the country."

Brohm's offensive line gave him plenty of time to throw, a big difference compared with last year's 19-0 loss to the Sun Devils. In that game, he was sacked 10 times for 100 yards of losses.

"It was a drastic difference," Brohm said. "We knew what they were going to do 99 percent of the time."

ASU could do little to contain Brohm as he led Louisville on touchdown drives of 66, 75, 92 and 80 yards.

The game's finishing touch was Louisville defensive back Anthony Bridge's 78-yard interception return for a touchdown with 11 seconds left.

The last scoring drive came on the Cardinals' first possession of the third quarter. At ASU's 25, running back Ralph Dawkins caught a pass from Brohm at the 20, broke a tackle at the 4 and ran into the end zone to put Louisville up 28-10.

The Sun Devils' top running back, Mario Bates, was ejected from the game early in the fourth after both benches cleared when linebacker Vince Duberry applied a late hit on ASU quarterback Grady Benton.

Louisville drove 92 yards on 12 plays, ending with Brohm's 1-yard run up the middle to give Louisville a 21-10 lead late in the first half. During the drive, Brohm was 6-for-6 for 85 yards, including a 17-yard pass to Bailey to ASU's 2 that set up the touchdown.

Faster-paced Cougars too much for Sun Devils

By PAUL MATTHEWS
STATE PRESS

ASU volleyball coach Patti Snyder said early in the season that she preferred to play fast-paced teams.

Snyder may wish to reconsider after the Sun Devils shut out the slow-paced Washington Huskies, but were pummeled by the faster-paced Washington State Cougars.

ASU needed only three games (15-3, 16-14, 15-9) to dispatch the Huskies, as Sun Devil outside hitters Leanne Schuster and Christine Garner combined for 32 kills.

The Cougars were a different story.

After suffering their first defeat of the season Friday night at UofA, the Cougars were out for revenge and dispensed of ASU in three straight games (16-14, 15-6, 15-5).

The Cougars dominated ASU from every position, rendering ASU's big guns completely helpless. Garner, who led ASU with 34 kills against New Mexico last weekend, had only 14 against the Cougars.

Garner simply could not adjust to the the nation, was 18-for-22 for 244 yards in the first half.

Working out of the shotgun formation much of the game, Brohm beat his career-best 292 passing yards set last year against Tulsa.

"I think it really helped his vision," Snyder said. "Their guys did a great job and we gave them too much of a cushion in our zone."

ASU scored on its first possession. At the Sun Devils' 47, Benton threw a 13-yard pass to Carlos Artis, who raced 40 yards

But Louisville tied the game on its first possession on a seven-play, 66-yard drive. Chris Fitzpatrick ran 5 yards for his first career touchdown.

"I don't think we got real worried when we got behind early," offensive guard Tom Carroll said. "I guess they thought they were going to come in here and do the same thing to us this year they did last year."

defense applied by WSU's 6-foot-5 outside hitter Becky Howlett. Howlett frustrated Garner at every opportunity as the frustrated Garner committed 13 errors for a measly .022 hitting percentage.

"We tried to make them guess where we were going to put Becky," Cougar coach Cindy Fredrick said. "We switched blockers, our middles went outside. We just tried to mix things up."

ASU's woes continued on defense, where the Sun Devils only registered 10 blocks compared to 22 for the Cougars.

The Sun Devils were particularly outplayed in the middle. WSU middle blockers Carrie Gilley and Joanne Johnson combined for 25 kills, hitting .481 and .455 respectively.

ASU's starting middles, Nancy Christian and Holly Sones, combined for 3 kills, both recording negative hitting percentages.

After the game, a livid Snyder gave her squad the kind of talk that left everyone, including the trainers, red-faced.

"We got outplayed based on heart, and to me that is the most disappointing thing," Snyder said. "To get outworked based on heart in your own gym is incredible."

Snyder had nothing positive to say about the Sun Devils' performance, describing Christian's performance as "tentative."

"She was soft," Snyder said. "I just thought she played totally non-aggressive."

Starting Sun Devil setter Tracy Heflin said that ASU just wasn't ready.

"We heard they lost three straight to Arizona," Heflin said. "We weren't expecting them to be a good team."

However, Heflin said that the Sun Devils will be ready for Thursday's match with top-ranked Stanford.

"I think we're going to get our butts kicked in practice this week so we will be ready. I think the whole thing's mental. We can beat anyone in the Pac-10."

effective combination of Aikman's passing and a smothering defense.

Aikman was "in the zone", as Cardinal linebacker Garth Jax put it, completing 21 of his 27 passes for 281 yards. His first incomplete pass came at the 3:59 mark of the second quarter after nine straight completions for 149 yards.

The Cowboys defense was in a zone of its own, allowing just 68 yards on the ground. Before bending in the second half, the defense was nearly impenetrable, surrendering 73 first-half yards of total offense to Phoenix.

However, the big story for Dallas was the arrival of two-time NFL rushing leader Emmitt Smith, who made his season debut after holding out during a contract dispute. Smith saw limited action, but looked spectacular at times, rushing for 45 yards on 8 carries.

"It feels pretty good (to be back)," Smith said. "I was pretty nervous, to tell you the truth. I had butterflies in my stomach."
