IGNACIO RODES

First Prize winner of five international competitions, including the prestigious 'Andrés Segovia', 'Francisco Tárrega' and 'José Ramirez', Ignacio Rodes is internationally considered to be one of the best guitarists of his generation. His mother, who started teaching him at the age of eight, awakened his love for music. A native of Alicante, Spain, he studied at the Conservatorio Superior 'Oscar Esplá' of his own town, under José Tomás and took part in courses with D. Russell, M. Barrueco and J. Williams, among others. During the period 1983-86, Rodes received a grant from the British Council and the Spanish Ministry of Culture to study Early Music and instrumental music of Bach with Nigel North in London.

Rodes made his debut at the Wigmore Hall (London) in 1986. Since then, he has been very successful playing in important concert halls around the world and at international festivals in most of the European countries, the United States and South America.

Currently Ignacio Rodes directs the guitar program at the Conservatorio Superior de Música de Alicante, Spain.
