Program Notes

Henry Fillmore was one of the most colorful and beloved band leaders this country has ever seen. The term "renaissance man" rings true when considering Fillmore's eclectic career as circus musician, tight-rope-walker, assistant lion tamer, substitute clown, semi-pro football player, trombonist, band leader and composer.

The Crosley March was written and named after Powell Crosley, business man and radio station owner, whose support and broadcasts led to nationwide recognition for the Fillmore Band.

Noble Men was first performed in 1922, by Fillmore's Syrian Temple Band at the National Shrine Convention in San Francisco. It was dedicated to Ralph A. Tingle, Potentate of the Syrian Temple.

– Note by James Smart

Eliot Del Borgo is a Professor of Composition at the Crane School of Music at the State University of New York at Potsdam. He has received numerous awards, prizes, and commissions for his works placing him among the out-standing band composers in the United States.

The composition of Do Not Go Gentle into That Good Night was inspired by a Dylan Thomas poem sharing the same name. There are no direct references to the poem in the work. Instead, it offers an overall attempt to convey its essence.

– Note by James Smart

Douglas Akey's Of Dreams and Legends was commissioned by and dedicated to the Arizona Band and Orchestra Directors Association and was premiered on February 13, 1999, by the North Central Region High School Honor Band with the composer conducting. It was written to capture both the tranquillity and contrasting spirit of adventure often associated with the western United States.

Robert W. Smith is Professor of Composition at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Virginia. His compositions are some of the most popular works for public school band in the country. To the Summit! was commissioned by the Southeast District of Kappa Kappa Psi National Honorary Band Fraternity and Tau Beta Sigma National Honorary Band Sorority. The title of the work refers to the fraternity's motto, "Strive for the Highest." It was premiered at the Southeast District Convention by the Mississippi State University Wind Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Rod Chesnutt.
